Top civilian meteorologists feel science has not yet learned, in dependable fashion, to modify or control weather artificially on a local scale—let alone trying to do it on the global scale that might be required for employing the weather as a weapon.

Much more knowledge of nature's own ways of "making" the weather and climate must be acquired before man can hope to control them with any significance, even in a limited way, for either peaceful or military purposes.

They say any attempts to effect large-scale changes, without having such knowledge of nature's tricks, might boomerang disastrously on a nation initiating them and harm millions throughout the world.

MAKE NEW SUN

Russian scientists, claiming interest only in the humanitarian aspects of weather control, have suggested such things as:

1. Putting an artificial sun in orbit around the earth. This presumably would consist of a gigantic thermonuclear furnace that might allow sunlike influences on the weather in any part of the world.

2. Melting the Arctic ice cap by damming up the Bering Straits and forcing relatively warm Pacific Ocean water into the Arctic basin with nuclear-powered pumps.

3. Levelling mountain ranges with nuclear explosives in order to change the climate to their leeward.

And from other sources more ideas have come up.

One sees the Arctic ice cap melted by exploding H-bombs in open areas of the Arctic Ocean. The resultant steam would be supposed to create a five-mile-thick ice crystal cloud which in turn would keep infra-red heat from leaving the earth, thereby melting the ice.

Underwater nuclear explosions have been suggested to change the topography of the ocean bottom, causing shifts in the climate - controlling Gulf Stream in the Atlantic and the Japanese Current in the Pacific.

RAIN FOR DESERT

It was suggested passages in the Sierra Nevada mountains could be opened with nuclear detonations to permit passage of moist air into the Nevada desert.

One idea is to use rockets to burst into orbit hundreds of tons of man-made "meteoric dust." The latter would be designed to spread around certain parts of the world, interfering with the usual solar radiation and possibly increasing rainfall in certain areas.

Since 1958, the U.S. National Science Foundation has conducted research in weather modification. NSF scientists say there is statistical evidence that under certain conditions seeding of clouds with chemicals is associated with some increase in rainfall.

But they also say full scientific proof as to the value of cloud seeding is still lacking and "we don't know yet whether significant economic benefit can be arrived at with such techniques."

Research has ranged from new studies of cloud-seeding techniques to a venture in Urbana, Ill., with an "electrical wind."

The latter was generated by sparking a high voltage in two four-mile lengths of electric wire criss-crossed 30 feet above the ground. The "wind" shot upwards into a passing cloud, producing some rain.

WATCH WORLD SCENE

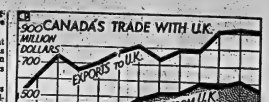
The foundation also keeps tabs on weather-control studies all over the world, including:



1. Russian reports of using powerful sound generators atop mountain peaks to study the possibility of using sound waves to increase rainfall.

2. Reports of Communist Chinese attempts to accelerate the melting of glaciers in North Central China by blackening the glacial surfaces with coal dust or burned grass and wood.

3. Hail-suppression research in Argentina, employing 20 silver-iodide generators located on the east slope of the Andes. The generators burn iodide-impregnated charcoal placed in wire baskets inside a chimney.

But NSF scientists say that no sensational breakthroughs have been achieved either in the United States or abroad, as far as is known.

"It is clearly evident," says Dr. Alan T. Waterman, NSF director, "that a truly formidable scientific problem must be solved before we can learn how to control local weather effectively or modify the climate. However, this problem may be no more formidable than problems that have been solved by this generation of scientists in other fields, such as the degree of control we have over nuclear energy."

U. K. IMPORTS DROP — Imports into Canada from the United Kingdom dipped during 1962 while exports to the U.K. showed only a modest drop.

Exports to the U.K. totalled $918,943,677 — down from $921,313,417 in 1961 — and imports totalled $583,062,214 — down from $618,221,572 a year earlier.

Reporters Must Present Good Background of News Paper Awards Dinner Told

TORONTO (CP)—Max Freedman of the Chicago Daily News said Saturday night news would be in much less danger of being managed in the United States if reporters spent less time and energy complaining about being managed and displayed more effort in presenting an accurate background to the flow of news.

Mr. Freedman told the 14th annual National Newspaper Awards dinner that the 1,500 important correspondents in Washington must be strangely lacking in enterprise and efficiency, in integrity and independence if they allow their judgment of news to be dominated by a smile or a frown in the White House."

Any sort of success in the management of news "must be regarded as an indictment of the Washington press corps," said the Winnipeg-born correspondent, adding that "any attempt to manage the news will inevitably be rewarded with limited success."

Protected by constitutional guarantees in the Bill of Rights, the American press has access to a volume and range of information that far exceeds anything known in Canadian or British experience, he said.

"The presidential and congressional activities of government compel the disclosure of detailed information on a scale never seen in any Parliament," Mr. Freedman added.

The bulk of the news will always flow across free and hostile channels, he said, but the administration of President Kennedy, like all administrations, will sometimes try to put its own favorable version on events or policies that are in public view.

Mr. Freedman then discussed Canadian - United States relations, and said that the hopes Canadians will never depart from their national convictions that they "are united with the American people in defence of the heritage of freedom on which the peaceful future of mankind ultimately depends."

He said he hopes Canadians will "learn to cultivate the gift of perspective, and realize that many problems, which look immensely important to us, are sometimes far less conspicuous on the American agenda."

WIN AWARDS

Winners of the National Newspaper Awards, for work done in 1962, were:

Editorial writing—Andre Laurendeau, Le Devoir, Montreal; Spot news reporting—Tom Hazlitt, Vancouver Province; Feature writing—Peter Newman, Toronto Telegram; Staff correspondents — Michael Barkway, Southam News Services (Mr. Barkway now is editor and publisher of the Financial Times in Montreal); Sports photography—Don Scott, Vancouver Province; Photography — Boris Spremo, Toronto Globe and Mail; Cartooning—Duncan Macpherson, Toronto Star; Sports writing — Mike Cramond, Vancouver Province.

Special awards went to Citations, to Jean Howarth of the Globe and Mail, in the editorial-writing category, and to W. MacTaggart of the Toronto Telegram for a story on the first recorded birth of a thalidomide baby in Canada.

Pearson Darling of Party Entering Cabinet in 1948

OTTAWA (CP) — Former world troubleshooter Lester Bowles (Mike) Pearson became a domestic troubleshooter as Canada's 14th prime minister today.

The transition wasn't easy. As he himself said during this year's election campaign he might well be torn personally but didn't move people "but as Liberal leader I hope to play a part in moving the country forward."

It is possible to pinpoint the exact day Mr. Pearson, 66 on Tuesday, became a Liberal—Sept. 15, 1948. That was the day he was sworn into the cabinet as secretary of state for external affairs and, asked what he had become a Liberal, replied "today."

For 20 years before that date and for nearly 10 years after he resourcefully busied himself with international diplomacy.

He helped avert the spread of the Korean War into Communist China, was president of the United Nations General Assembly when the Korean Armistice was arranged in 1953, helped bring West Germany into NATO in 1954, was nominated to fill the post of UN secretary-general but was vetoed by Russia, turned down an offer to become secretary - general of NATO, was chairman of a UN commission on the future status of the state of Israel and won the Nobel Prize for peace in 1957 for his part in establishment of the UN Emergency Force in Egypt.

With his jaunty air, ready quip, polka-dot bow ties and Nobel Peace Prize Mr. Pearson was the darling of his party when it wanted a successor to Louis St. Laurent. He was elected leader Jan. 16, 1958, six months after Prime Minister Diefenbaker became the new head of a minority Conservative government.

Mr. Pearson's triumph was about as short - lived as any could be. On Jan. 30, 1958, he proposed in the Commons that Mr. Diefenbaker resign and dissolve Parliament to give the Liberals without an election.

A friend said recently: "Mike is a team man and a politician. The result sometimes is that he gets—and takes—bad advice."

This was such an occasion and political carnage followed. The Liberals suffered their worst defeat in the March 31, 1958, election.

Mr. Pearson at that time was a novice at politics despite nearly 10 years in cabinet. Friends said after him, he showed it. He would blush when the opposition scored a point against the government, people said the brilliant riposte too late.

FOUND BAFFLING

Many found this baffling because they thought of him as always excelled. What his political colleagues found annoying was that he would sometimes concede that his opponents had scored a point in the matter under discussion.

Mr. Pearson hasn't lost his ability to be every side of a question. But he has given up helping his opponents politically. He now leads, he has even got mad at them.

He still isn't fond of some of the circuses which politics seem to demand. He is not the backslapping mix easily, to shake hands at street corners with voters and to handle large audiences at times impressively.

Now he is saddled with the same problems he accused the Conservatives of fumbling: unemployment, trade, economic growth, defence.

He has to come to grips with them, he will likely be able to explain carefully to the public what he is trying to do. He has a knack of being able to put a problem into a context which nearly everyone can understand.

This is how he described Canadian-American relations during the election campaign: "There is now something like living with your wife. Sometimes it is difficult to live with her. At all times it is impossible to live without her."

ADD TO UNIVERSITY

WINNIPEG (CP) — Latest construction projects at the University of Manitoba are a 19-storey women's residence costing $1,120,000 and a $1,000,000 food services building.

"Jest a Second"

"Sometimes I think your mother is right . . . I spoil you at meals!"

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called today for consideration of a hemispheric quarantine of Cuba by the United States and other members of the Organization of American States.

The Montana senator said it is time the OAS took some active leadership toward ousting communism from Cuba instead of merely "passing resolutions and making declarations."

Noting that it was just six months ago that President Kennedy imposed a quarantine to force Soviet offensive missiles out of Cuba, Mansfield in an interview said:

"I hope that the unanimity of the OAS, as expressed so solidly and emphatically six months ago, could now transform that organization into a policy-making body which would consider the possibility of a hemisphere quarantine against Cuba."

The democratic leader said there was precedent for this action in 1960 when dictator Rafael Trujillo was in power.

President Kennedy has ruled out military action under present circumstances.

New Promise Made by Reds To Cease Fire

VIENTIANE (AP) — With a new cease-fire promise from the Pathet Lao, neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma says Communist forces are not lost to restore peace in northern Laos.

Souvanna a peared doubtful, however, that the latest stop-fire arrangement will work any better than last week's cease-fire, broken within hours.

Souvanna said he is doubtful ing visit to the Pathet Lao headquarters of his half - brother, Prince Souphanouvong, that the pro - Communist command would be left in drive against the Plaine des Jarres until after the premier returns to the area in 5 day or so to resume peace efforts.

The premier said Gen. Kong Le, commander of the beleaguered neutralist forces on the plain, also was ordered to observe a temporary cease-fire.

CONTAIN NEUTRALISTS

In the last week, the Pathet Lao has battled up the neutralist forces on the Plaine des Jarres after forcing them out of several positions they held just outside the plain. There has been fear that the pro-Communist under Gen. Phoumi Nosavan might step in and try to block the Pathet Lao advance, plunging Laos into another civil war.

POPE DISCUSSES DEATH

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII said Sunday that death "comes for all of us, even the Pope now speaking — and perhaps even soon." The leader of the Roman Catholic Church went on to say, however, that he was looking forward to visiting Rome churches during the coming year as he had during the pre-Easter Lenten period. Pope John, 81, appeared in excellent health. The weariness he showed during the busy days of holy week was gone.

Anti-Government Sabotage Increasing in South Africa Correspondent's Impression

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—South Africa has a heritage of fear, hatred and guilty conscience. Hatred is the oldest of the three elements. Fear is increasing and so, apparently, is a widespread feeling of guilt among the whites who rule the country.

These are impressions of this Associated Press correspondent, who has just left South Africa after a three-year assignment there.

Anti-government sabotage is increasing. Police drives against Poqo, the Negro underground terrorist organization, bring headlines.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government has quelled organized militancy, even in recent years, expanded those two forces and opened new plants for manufacture of small arms and ammunition. It is buying abroad the warships and planes it cannot manufacture.

Now 10,000 trained men are ready to smash any internal revolt or to repel any "african nationalist - Communist invasion," the reason the government gives for its record peacetime arming.

The militant determination of Verwoerd's Afrikaner nationalists is repeatedly expressed with bluntness: To hold vast and enormously rich South Africa as a last redoubt of "Christianity and Western civilization against a reverted to primitiveness and chaos."

Verwoerd up Verwoerd is his tough minister of justice, Balthazar Vorster. He is regarded as the No. 2 man next to Verwoerd, swinging the cudgels at alleged saboteurs and subversives, black and white.

Vorster, 47, was interned as a Nazi sympathizer during the Second World War. For years he held off joining the National party because he considered its policies too narrow on racial and other issues. He became minister of justice in August, 1961.

For the last year Vorster has been on the attack against what he calls "the white inciter who lurks behind the black saboteur."

The ministry is pushing efforts to seal off the three neighboring British protectorates of Basutoland, Swaziland and Bechuanaland.

Vorster's reply to charges of repressive laws and actions is: "I have no apologies. I get my power from a democratically elected parliament."

Dr. Jan Steytler, leader of the pro - Liberal Progressive party, charged recently that the Verwoerd government can maintain itself in power "only on a basis of force. He said the government planned it that way and "if reversed it necessary would impose a complete dictatorship.

Anti-Americanism Dead, Political Issue -- Macaulay

NEW YORK (CP) — Ontario Minister of Economic and Development Robert Macaulay said today that the recent Canadian federal election proved "anti-Americanism" is a dead political issue in Canada.

In an address to the American Management Association, Mr. Macaulay said the real problem in Canadian-American relations is the possibility of economic domination of Canada by the United States.

Ownership and control of Canadian industry leads to the greatest irritations between Canadian-American business relations, the minister said.

"It is this foreign domination that is Canadian subsidiaries of American companies are often operated only in the domestic market, he added.

"If the Canadian subsidiary can compete with the parent corporation in world markets, then that subsidiary should be allowed to do so."

The same freehanded principle should apply to the purchase of components and parts used by the U.S. subsidiary companies operating in Canada.

Many branch plants of American companies in Canada "engage in fabrication rather than full-scale production—they simply assemble parts rather than manufacture the components themselves.

Another cause of discontent was that Canadian resources were often processed into industrial materials in the United States rather than Canada.

The Canadian government would be justified in taking special action with regard to tariffs and foreign legislation to protect the domestic industries," Mr. Macaulay said.

"Following similar giants in Canada rely almost entirely on research and design done by their parent American companies.

"A relatively small expenditure on industrial research and design by American companies in their Canadian plants do a great deal to overcome America's resentment on this point."

Mr. Macaulay also said that if capable Canadians are available for top managerial positions in subsidiary companies, they should be given "every opportunity to work in the Canadian operation."

"In this interdependent world, petty nationalism is economic affairs is outdated. To insist on Canada for Canadians is no longer desirable."

Text of Mr. Macaulay's address was issued to the press before delivery.

OFFER TEA, SYMPATHY

TOKYO (AP)—The tax administration has announced all tax offices will hold an open house three times a month at which taxpayers will be served tea and offered "sympathetic" advice on their tax problems.

No Lapse Of Authority In Changeover

OTTAWA (CP)—In a parallel to the time - honored saying, "The King is dead, long live the King," there will be no lapse of authority today when John Diefenbaker's resignation takes effect and Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson is sworn in as Canada's new prime minister.

The vice - regal commissions under which members of the old cabinet held office remain in effect until they are superseded by the commissions issued to the new ministers.

Stressing that there is no interregnum in the government changeover, Mr. Diefenbaker told interviewers Friday after saying goodbye to his East Block staff that if any government action had to be taken over the weekend, they would be as the result of consultation with Mr. Pearson, the prime minister-designate.

The changeover is taking place exactly two weeks from election day, April 8, a week and longer than the time taken to change the government in 1957 when Mr. Diefenbaker succeeded former Liberal Prime Minister St. Laurent. The gap is one day less than the average time in government changeovers since Confederation.

The extra weekend this year resulted from civil service holidays Good Friday and Easter Monday.

BAD DELAYS BEFORE

Holidays have caused even longer delays in the past. In 1921, the election that brought Mackenzie King into power for the first time was held on Dec. 6, but it was not until Dec. 29, after the Christmas holiday, that the new Liberal administration was sworn in.

Liberal Alexander Mackenzie took 29 days to leave office in 1873 after election on Jan. 22, 17 that year, won by Sir John Macdonald's Conservatives.

One factor contributing to the lay now is that the service vote is not tabulated until nearly a week after election day. Under Mr. St. Laurent in 1957 and Mr. Diefenbaker in 1958 they did not act to leave office until all the votes, civilian and service, were counted.

When an old government is leaving office the machinery of government moves slowly as the lermediaries between the outgoing and incoming prime ministers concerning the reassignment of staff.

Queen Marks 37th Birthday

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth celebrated her 37th birthday Sunday with a quiet family gathering in Windsor Castle, near London.

The artillery salutes which normally boom in the capital on a monarch's birthday were fired in the interests of maintaining Sabbath calm.

The ceremonial shooting—at Hyde Park and the Tower of London—was held today.

One small salute was permitted by 21 miniature cannons in the grounds of Windsor Castle where the Queen was spending the day with Prince Philip and their three children. The party was joined at lunchtime by Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon.

Nikita Seeking Mantle Of Protector of World Peace With New Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev portrayed himself into the middle of the great Western debate over nuclear arms today with a charge that the United States would expose its NATO allies to Soviet fire in order to divert some attack missiles from U.S. targets.

This effort by the Soviet premier to fan Allied fears against further deployment of U.S. weapons in NATO territory stands out as a major purpose of the 10,000-word interview he gave an Italian newspaper, Il Giorno of Milan.

Khrushchev believes he has found a vulnerable spot in the Western alliance and that he has caught U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary Robert McNamara in a malevolent position. For he cited a recent statement by McNamara that stationing Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles in Canada would "at the least" serve to decoy Soviet missiles in event of war.

Directly or by implication he managed to inveigh against supplying U.S. nuclear warheads to Canada (a source of recent U.S.-Canadian dispute), against stationing U.S. missiles in countries in the Mediterranean "already under the walls of the Vatican," and against limiting the sharing of nuclear weapons with Allied nations in defence of western Europe.

Khrushchev also seemed to be posing President Kennedy will meet his terms for a nuclear test-ban treaty. He said the United States by forcing the Soviet Union to consider whether to withdraw the offer it made last December to accept two or three on-site inspections of Soviet territory a year.

The charge Khrushchev made in this connection was that he had been informed authoritatively the United States would agree to two or four such inspections but when he made his offer the U.S. reneged.

U.S. officials insist no such word was passed to the Kremlin.

Khrushchev may also be laying the groundwork for resumption of Soviet testing of nuclear weapons. He accused the U.S. and France of aggravating the situation by continuing test programs. Russia, which made a three-year moratorium in 1961, ended its latest test series last December.

The Soviet leader developed the theme that Russia and the United States must overcome mistrust before any lasting settlement of world problems, notably Berlin and disarmament. By contrast he pictured the NATO alliance as pursuing an "aggressive strategy based on what he called a "positions of force" policy.

The White House and state department undertook a detailed study of the Khrushchev interview but neither had any immediate comment when it was made public Sunday night.

Diefenbaker Said Looking Forward to His New Task

OTTAWA (CP) — When John Diefenbaker, at the age of eight, became the target of schoolboy taunts because he was new in the prairie community, the other children soon learned to leave him alone.

As his brother Elmer tells it, John was a fighter, and he went at it with zest when he was the underdog.

Now 67, John Diefenbaker is still a fighter in the political arena, and seems to be approaching his new challenges with undoubted zest. Again he is the underdog as leader of the opposition in Parliament.

Retiring from the office of prime minister today, Mr. Diefenbaker has been telling friends and associates he is looking forward to his new task. He says it with a flash of fire in his eyes that gives words more than their casual meaning.

For him, it is the smell of political battle again. The tall, lean Prairie lawyer with his objective in politics already set—the prime ministership—has been history—he went through 15 years of frustration and defeat before he was first elected to the House of Commons in 1940.

Then there were more frustrations in two unsuccessful tries at the national leadership of the Conservative party before he won it in 1956.

Six months later, he was prime minister with the head of a minority government—the first Conservative in 22 years to be elected to form an administration.

After less than a year as prime minister, the Conservative party and others who detested Mr. Diefenbaker put him back in the Commons in 1958 with the largest majority won by any government in Canada's history.

He has already turned his attention to the next election, whenever it comes, and has set his goal at repeating the performance of Sir John A. Macdonald and Mackenzie King who returned to the office of prime minister after serving terms as opposition leader.

Mr. Diefenbaker was born at Neustadt, Ont., of a German-Dutch and Scottish family and ralied in a prairie community near Saskatoon when the West was being opened by an influx of many nationalities. He had the role of underdog thrust on him early in life.

In his legal career, he took cases in which he felt an underdog was being given the short-end, and many times with little hope of adequate remuneration.

He counts as a major personal achievement and a contribution to the country his Bill of Rights, passed in 1961, which decrees that no one should be subject to discrimination on grounds of race, color, creed or sex.

His hair now is becoming silver grey and he is heavier than before he became prime minister in 1957 but the Stern a bearing aid which he finds he only needs in large chambers when the House is in session. Yet he's still physically vigorous. On a Sunday afternoon walk he leaves many men half his age breathless.

New Brunswick Goes to Polls To Elect Govt.

FREDERICTON (CP) — The people of New Brunswick act as judges today in a straight fight between the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties for the right to form the next government of the province.

Both the reigning Liberals and their opponents have either full slates or close to it in 52 future seats. There is one woman candidate. Showers are predicted from the east in the 8 a.m.-6 p.m. AST voting period.

The vigorous, bitter campaign of the Conservatives ended.

Louis J. Robichaud, Canada's youngest premier at 37, who led the Liberals to power in 1960 by defeating the Conservative government of Hugh John Fleming.

C. B. Sherwood, 47, the PC leader, and Mr. Robichaud fought a hard campaign in which both hurled bitter charges.

Mr. Robichaud branded the Conservatives as spokesmen for vested interest whose purpose was to block his "government of action" in its plans to industrialize the province.

Mr. Sherwood charged the Liberals with a "sellout" of the province's natural resources and with "mismanagement" and retorted that the vested interests he represents are those of the people of the province.

After a campaign that saw them canvassing from door to door during the day, speaking at rallies at night and holding television speeches in between, both leaders returned to their home constituencies today to await the election result.

The lone woman in the running is Mrs. John Coughlan, one of five Conservative candidates in traditionally Liberal Gloucester.

Both Mr. Robichaud and Mr. Sherwood are confident of victory. The premier predicts Liberals will take 42 seats; Mr. Sherwood says the Conservatives will win 32.

In the last legislature the Liberals held 31 seats, the Conservatives 21.

Tweed

TWEED—The regular monthly meeting of Tweed Consolidated Home and School Association was held on Wednesday evening with Mr. Ross Johnston, the president, presiding.

Mrs. Lorne Leeming, the 1st vice-president, will represent the association at the conference in Belleville on April 17th and 18th. A dinner for the pupils of Grade 8 is to be arranged with Mr. Kingston to be in charge of this.

The room count was won by Mrs. Payne's room.

Mrs. Payne introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Dale King, principal of Point Anne Elementary School. In 1958 Mr. King left the air force to go to Moose Factory as principal of a Federal Indian school for two years. From 1960-62 he was administrator of a hostel for Indian, Eskimo and white children at Fort Simpson in the Mackenzie Valley.

In January 1962 he was appointed principal of Point Anne public school, which position he now holds.

In his address, Mr. King said in part: "In the Northwest Territories education is guaranteed for every child. It is impossible to have good schools in every small village, so there is one large school and the children are flown in for the year around and stay for the year's schooling and then return home until the next term."

"Everything is free for these children, including education, clothing, books, and spending money. If a child wishes to continue his education and is unable to afford it, this, too, is free." King said that there was no better educational system anywhere in Canada. They have excellent teachers and salary scales. There are a lot young teachers there who don't stay long. There is also a 80 per cent turn-over in teachers every year.

The population of the Mackenzie Valley is in the neighborhood of 3,000, but it is estimated that by the century would provide a living for five million people. They can grow anything that we can grow here.

"A few years ago the education was handled mostly by churches until the government took over. All supplies are brought in by boat. The freeze-up comes in October and the break-up around the middle of May, so they have to get a large supply in during the warmer weather.

"The government has restricted hunting and you have to be there five years before you can get a license. The Indians are a cheerful, honest and hard working people, and English has command of the gauge."

Following his interesting address a question and answer period followed. Thanks were extended by Keith Cotton.

After the meeting coffe and doughnuts were served.

Plainfield

PLAINFIELD — Mrs. Violet Kidd, vice president, was hostess for Plainfield U.C.W., Mrs. Daisy Colden, 1st vice, conducted the meeting. Mrs. Ray Sellivan, assisted by Mrs. Garfield Hall, presented the worship service, the theme being, "The Fact of Easter".

Donations of remnants were received from department stores to be used in making articles for the autumn bazaar. Mrs. Clarence Marshall and Mrs. Grant Kerr were named to take charge of the sale. The next members of the group offered to cater for the father and daughter banquet to be held later in April in Plainfield Hall.

Mrs. Don Bowers, group leader, gave the topic, "Old and New Canadians," after which the Rev. R. Nicholls showed the film, "Do You Love Your Neighbor?" This was the story of a Hungarian family which moved into a Canadian community.

Afterwards three groups discussed the following questions (1) Why did you leave? (2) Some of the difficulties faced by the newcomers? (3) In what ways can the church speak and act with regard to immigration? (4) Are we doing everything we can to show Christian love to our neighbors?

The findings of the groups were: Canada has plenty of room, so should allow more immigrants to come in. Some difficulties to face are barriers of language, customs, religion and loneliness. The church should meet and welcome all immigrants and help to locate them.

The group agreed that they did not do enough in showing love and understanding to their new neighbors.

Mr. Nicholls closed the meeting.

A social half hour was enjoyed.

Your Car

Where There Is Smoke There's Fire

By EUGENE R. MILMOE

Because spark knock is often referred to as "pinging" it probably seems to suggest a very mild, tinkling condition — there is a tendency to treat it lightly. Actually, this knock is due to a violent explosion of the fuel mixture (rather than normal combustion or gradual burning) that sets up a vibration shock in the block and cylinder head. If excessive, engine damage can quickly result.

Spark knock is fairly common and so are several conditions which cause it. Overheated gas, for example, may bring it on. Using regular or low-octane gas in an engine requiring a higher octane is a frequent mistake and invites spark knock. This trouble also results from poor carburetion which produces a very lean fuel mixture.

Other conditions are: too much excessive combustion chamber deposits, or over-advanced ignition timing.

From D.G.: "Would you say that periodic tire rotation is the best way to stretch tire life?"

It helps . . . but maintaining adequate tire pressures, wheel balancing and alignment are more important measures.

R.D. writes: "Will an engine in which only detergent oils have been used lose less compression over the long span than one in which regular grade oils are used?"

Detergent oils offer more engine benefits, including less wear; but non-detergent oils do not contribute to engine compression — although in an unhealthy sense. In brief, detergent oils help to prevent greater carbon build-up which tends to maintain or increase compression.

E.A. asks: "About six months ago, I had a major tune-up. Since then, I've driven about 4,000 miles. Would the timing be off, now?"

Yes. As you add mileage, ignition timing slowly retards. This is why periodic re-timing is needed.

From S.T.: "If there is nothing wrong with the brakes, why would extreme pedal pressure be needed to brake the car?"

Brakes need periodic adjustment is the likely cause. It's also possible for a binding pedal or linkage to set up abnormal resistance.

Garden Notes

Nudge Seeds Into Germination

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Some seeds need special treatment to nudge them into germination. Knowing their whims will turn failure into success.

Petunias give the average gardener trouble when he tries to grow them from seed. My friend Kay starts them in the fall. She sows the seed under a hedge. In the spring when the plants have a small tuft of leaves she plants them out in beds.

For those double hybrids that are so difficult try this method. Fill shallow pans, (aluminum pie pans from the baker will do), with damp shredded sphagnum moss. Pack down hard with a brick, or block of wood. Make the surface as smooth and hard as possible. The seed is as fine as ground pepper. Lift each seed with a toothpick and place carefully half inch apart on the damp moss. Do not cover with glass as most seed packs advise. Place pans in a bright cool room where the temperature will not go above 60 degrees. A bedroom or unused sun room should be O.K. High temperatures will prevent germination.

KEEP SURFACE DAMP

Once a week feed with half strength hyponex, or rapid-grow. Keep surface damp. A plant spray is better as it will not wash out seedlings. When the seedlings have four or five leaves in about a month's time, lift the plants with the tip of a narrow knife. Transplant to peat pots, flats or milk cartons. They will need a rich soil. One third each sharp sand, fine rotted soil, peat and sharp sand. Continue to feed with liquid fertilizer increasing strength as plants grow larger. Plant out when weather is warm and settled.

Bells of Ireland require a long period in cool, damp soil. To provide such conditions, prepare a small area in the garden a foot or two square. Cover half inch deep with perlite and plant seeds half inch apart. Do not cover seed. Cover seeds with bricks, or flat paving tiles. When the plants have sprouted remove bricks. Plant when they have four to six leaves.

Fine seeds such as begonia or geraniums can be started on a brick. Set the brick in a shallow pan of water and keep an inch of water in the pan at all times. The brick will act as a sponge and the surface will remain damp. Sow the seed thinly on the brick, with no covering. When seedlings have developed four leaves transplant to small pots.

Parsley is a slow starter. It usually take two to three weeks to sprout. Give it the hot, or cold treatment. Soak seeds over night in water 100 degrees, or freeze it in the refrigerator in a shallow dish of water. Leave for a few days, thaw, drain, dry and plant. The cold treatment will hurry lettuce seed too.

CAN PLANT NOW

If your soil is dry enough to work up you can now plant the hardy annuals and perennials such as cornflower (bachelor buttons) cosmos, balsam, sweet peas, alyssum, snapdragon, violas, pansies, forget-me-not, carnation, clarkia, larkspur, delphinium annual poppies, phlox and zinnias.

Prepare soil for beds and borders as soon as workable. Dig in well rotted manure, leaf mold, compost or peat to provide humus. Thin peat as a sponge holding moisture in readiness for plant roots. It also acts as an air conditioner, allowing air to penetrate the soil. Add some sharp sand if your soil is heavy clay. Mix in some chemical fertilizer for early nutrition and some slow acting organic peat as bone meal for later use. The spring rains will dissolve some of the fertilizer and prepare the soil for good growing conditions. If you can do this one month before the last frost date the soil will be in perfect condition for planting.

THE FLEET'S IN

HAMILTON (CP)—Three destroyer escorts of the Atlantic command will form part of the Canadian contingent for Naval Reserve training fleet on the Great Lakes this summer, navy officials announced today. Today's HMCS Haida, Sioux and Nootka all are veterans of the Second World War and the Korean War. They will join with the auxiliary minesweepers Portage St. Louis and Porte St. Jean and the training vessel Scatari.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

To the landlubber—and there are not a few of them operating nautical craft today—the main qualifications of a successful power boat navigator is to keep the tanks filled, stay away from shorelines, other craft, unchartered waters and in general see that the boat's company has a good time.

I asked Past Rear Commander Jack Tatham about it at the annual (delectable) dinner meeting of the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron Saturday night.

"It is as simple as this," Rear Commander Tatham said. "The basic object of power squadrons is to teach safety—and how to enjoy boating better through education."

"The education is available to anyone who is interested," he said. "There is, in some quarters, the mistaken idea that one has to own a boat or be a crew member for a friend who owns one, in order to take power squadron courses. This is definitely not the case."

"Anyone can take the courses," he said, "and upon successful completion may become a member of the squadron. The three basic courses are piloting, seamanship and the next year advanced piloting. Then if they wish they can take junior navigation and navigation. To complete the senior four selected courses may be taken. The basic course takes 16 weeks and usually starts in September through March."

The Bay of Quinte Power Squadron came into being in 1954 with Ian Morch as its charter commander. Born healthy it came through the toddling years with flying burgees and under highly competent commanders and executives has grown into a strong sturdy manhood.

Taking over the helm in successive years have been Commanders Morch, Jack Tatham, Dr. Jack Marshall, Leanox Smith, John Grant, Bob McCulloch, Dr. Art Elliott, the late Wilfred Stevenson and last year Ed Smith. The 1963 commander named Saturday is Dr. John Clarke.

The high status the squadron enjoys in the national Canadian Power Squadron, and United States Power Squadrons' districts has been attained through individual and collective effort aided by the co-operation of the Squadronettes.

The distaff side has had highly competent commanders and executive assistants. Last year Commander Jean Willis did an excellent job, turning over the "helm" this year to Commander Doris James. They have acquitted themselves well not only socially, but as active "sea-going" members of the squadron as a whole. And they have trophies to prove it.

The administrative qualities of members of the squadron rate highly in Canadian Power Boat circles. During the brief ten-years existence it has placed several on the roster of the parent body's executive representation.

Comparatively speaking I believe the Quinte Squadron holds something of a record in this respect. At the present time Bob McCulloch is a vice-commander of the CPS. Rear Commanders are Leanox Smith, Dr. Jack Marshall and Dean Churchill. Past Rear Commanders are Jack Tatham, Bob Boyce and Howard Graham. John Grant is the district commander and the 1962 commander Ed Smith was regatta master district training officer succeeding the late Wilfred Stevenson.

The Canadian Power Squadron is rated highly by its older counterpart in the United States. Originally it used the American piloting course but later developed its own. This has proven so successful that United States Power Squadrons are revising their course along the newer Canadian lines.

The upsurge of interest in power boating and the educational work of power boat squadrons this side of the border has been little short of remarkable.

A metropolitan newspaper article helped "start the ball rolling," so to speak. Inquiries came in so fast that the newspaper has assigned a writer to prepare an series on power boat courses. Rear Commander Jack Marshall of Quinte at present is conducting correspondence course in power-boating education with a number of people.

Expatriate Canadians in the United States must by American regulations write a short Canadian examination before furthering their power boat education across the border. Rear Commander Leanox Smith in charge of this work said that he has nearly 30 of these people writing papers. Inquiries came from California, Texas, Michigan and New York State among others.

'Lefty' Wins Houston Golf

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Sponsors of the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic were searching for a formula to prevent a fifth straight playoff and they found one in Bob Charles, a left-hander from New Zealand.

Charles, 27, won the $10,000 in top money with a record 72-hole 269 while becoming the first left-winger to win a tournament sponsored by the United States Professional Golfers Association.

But the New Zealander—11 under par and three strokes in front after the first three rounds—needed a one-under 69 on the final round Sunday to turn back challenges from Fred Hawkins, a veteran pro, and amateur Homero Blancas, the son of a greenskeeper at Houston's exclusive River Oaks Country Club.

As Jack Nicklaus, the pre-tournament favorite, faltered, Hawkins picked up three strokes on Charles with a final-round 66 and a 269 that was earned only $36.66, had final rounds of 71 and 74 for 286.

Defeats Ayr 9-0 In Final Game

Wellington Juvenile Champs

WELLINGTON (Special) — Ask any loyal burgher of this lakeside village which is the best hockey team in Canada — and he won't answer the Toronto Maple Leafs.

He'll toe out a proud chest and say the Wellington Dukes Juvenile "D" champions." And as far as 500 residents of the community are concerned he'll be right.

The fighting young Dukes brought their village, county and district their first OMHA Juvenile "D" championship Saturday night after a hard series of playdowns battles.

Before a capacity crowd in the Trenton Community Gardens they romped roughshod over a gallant Ayr squad defeating them 9-0 to take the final series 3-1. The teams split the first two games by identical 3-2 scores.

With a half dozen professional scouts watching him from the sidelines youthful Tommy Lavender proved the hero of the game.

The high scoring youngster who led the Dukes through a tough group and playdown schedule scored five of his team's nine goals. He has been under close surveillance by pro hot-s watchers the past four weeks.

Playing brilliantly was Don McNeill who accounted for three of the Dukes markers while Wayne Craig scored the others. The entire team played heads - up hockey and were full value for their victory.

McNeill whip, d home two fast goals early in the first period — and the Dukes were away and scoring. They never looked backward as Lavender swung into action with three second - period tallies.

Maintaining their fast pace the winners again took over in the final frame as they found four goals to round out their 9-0 victory.

Proudest men in the arena and later in the village were Coach Allan Pettingill and Manager Don Bailley.

Hundreds of villagers trekked to Trenton to see the youngsters play and later rt.-g ed a "Stanley Cup" celebration at home that lasted until the early hours.

OMHA first vice-president Albert Watkin of Peterborough presented the proud champions with the Otto Hardwick Trophy emblematic of the Juvenile "D" championship.

Second vice-president Doug Patterson of Stirling presented the Ayr youngsters with the runner-up trophy.

The new champions won their district group title and went on to defeat Wartworth in three straight games in the opening playdown series.

They dropped the first game to Little Britain in the semi-finals series then rallied to take the next two tilts. Then came Ayr and the championship.

The village had three minor hockey teams battling in OMHA playdowns but two fell by the wayside enroute to the titles.

Klukay Scores Winner For Dogs

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Joe Klukay, a penalty-killing specialist for years in the National Hockey League and still plying the same trade with Windsor Bulldogs, rifled a hit of a switch Sunday.

Working on a power-play midway through the third period in the All-Can Cup final game, Klukay used an old penalty-killing manoeuvre to intercept a Winnipeg Maroon pass and the result was the winning goal in the Bulldogs' 3-2 triumph.

It was Windsor's second straight one-goal victory in the best-of-seven series for the senior hockey championship of Canada which continues here Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Working feverishly, Brown scored the other two Windsor markers, his 62nd and 63rd of the season, while Rutledge, 21-year-old Boston Bruin chattel, kept his team in the running for two periods as the big, tough Winnipeg club outclassed the Bulldogs.

Both coaches paid tribute to the big youngster who made 28 saves compared with 18 by Maroons' Julio Klymkiw.

His own boss, Harry Watson, called Rutledge "the big reason why we won."

Said Maroon playing coach Bill Juzda, who used to play with Toronto Maple Leafs alongside Watson and Klukay:

"We could easily have come out of that first period with a two - or three-goal lead. But Rutledge was great."

Lloyd Orrits and Ross Parke scored the Winnipeg goals.

Leafs Split With Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Strange things are happening in the International League.

Defending champion Jacksonville and runner - up Toronto were supposed to start 1963 as the two strongest entries in the reorganized circuit. But the one - legged Suns and the skidding Maple Leafs are cellar choke of the Southern and Northern Divisions, respectively.

Little Rock's Arkansas Travelers, newcomers to the league, have won only two of their last five games but are the new leaders of the southern division.

Toronto pulled out of a two-game tailspin in Sunday's first game by beating Arkansas 4-3 but the Travelers bounced back 5-2 in the nightcap and grabbed the southern lead when Atlanta Crackers dropped a double-header to Rochester Red Wings 1-0 and 9-1.

Syracuse Chiefs, the Northern Division leaders, handed Jacksonville its fifth consecutive loss, 9-4 in the lone single game. Buffalo Bisons beat Indianapolis Indians 5-4, in 10 innings, and 7-4 and Columbus Jets shaded Richmond Virginia 4-3 for a split of their doubleheader after the Virginians won the opener 13-2.

LEAFS LOSE ANOTHER

In Saturday's games, Little Rock dumped Toronto 8-3, Indianapolis and Columbus split a doubleheader, Columbus taking the first game 5-1 and losing the nightcap 10-4, and Syracuse swept two from Jacksonville, 6-1 and 7-2 in 12 innings.

Rochester at Atlanta and Richmond at Buffalo were postponed.

Summary, had seven birdies while taking a 64 and a third-place $70.

George Knudson and Al Balding of Toronto finished in the money—but just under the wire.

Knudson had final rounds of 71 and 69 for a 285 total that gave him $110. Balding, who earned only $36.66, had final rounds of 71 and 74 for 286.

Said Casey Stengel to Milwaukee Braves:

"You know that trade we were talking about, the one for the feller who plays in centre field for me, who everytime you see him this spring he was hitting the ball over the house back of the palm trees in left field and you wanted to give me your catcher for him? Well, forget it."

So the Braves can forget about Jim Hickman, and that will take some forgetting.

Hickman drove in seven runs with a 450-foot double and two homers, one a grand slam, as the Mets won a doubleheader from the Braves Sunday 8-5 and 9-2. The double win gave the Mets four straight for the first time in their history, and lifted them out of the National League cellar for the first time since last May 22.

San Francisco Giants held on to the top spot with a split against Chicago Cubs. The Cubs won the opener 4-1 and the Giants the second game 3-2.

In other National League games, St. Louis Cardinals split with Philadelphia Phillies, losing 4-3 in 10 innings and winning 10-3, Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Houston Colts twice, 11-3 and 4-1, and Cincinnati Reds trampled Pittsburgh Pirates 8-3.

HICKMAN IS VICTIM

Hickman's grand slam won the first game for the Mets. He hit it in the eighth inning off Clanda Raymond of St. Jean, Que., with the Mets trailing 5-4. Ed Kranepool, 18 - year - old rookie first baseman, singled Duke Snider home in the sixth inning of the second game and the go-ahead run off Lew Burdette. A hysterical, confetti-throwing crowd of 36,770 whooped it up at the ancient Polo Grounds during the long afternoon.

Hickman now has 11 hits, seven for extra bases, and 11 RBI in nine games. He is batting .344, and all three of his homers have come against the Braves.

The Braves had coveted the centre fielder, who hit well against them in the spring, and apparently were offering catcher Del Crandall or Hoyt Wilhelm, Mays and Willie McCovey each hit his fourth home run for the Giants in the second game, and Tom Haller's single drove home the winning run. In the opener Ken Hubbs singled home the Cubs' first run and homered in the fourth.

Tony Taylor doubled off the scoreboard in the 10th inning to drive in the winning run for the Phillies in the opener against the Cards.

GROAT PACES COMEBACK

In the second game, the Cards spotted the Phillies two runs in the first inning and then roared back against Art Mahaffey, with Dick Groat driving in four runs.

Ron Fairly carried the big bat for the Dodgers against the Colts. He drove in three runs in the opener, hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning of the second and then broke a 3-3 tie in the last of the ninth with a bases loaded single.

Bob Miller, who was 1-13 as a Met last season, ran his unscored on streak to 21 2-3 innings for the Dodgers in the opener before he was chased in the sixth. However, he got the victory, his first of the season.

Cincinnati scored all its runs in the first four innings, with Leo Cardenas and Vada Pinson driving in two each. Jim Maloney gave up 12 hits but was tough when it mattered, and got his second win.

Saturday, the Mets beat the Braves 2-1, Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 4-3, the Cubs blanked the Giants 4-0, the Phillies bumped the Cards 6-3 and Houston outlasted the Dodgers 9-8.

Gold Medal Hopes Bright

Pan-Am Games Under Way

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) — Winnipeg's bid for the 1967 Pan-American games was expected to receive support from the United States today when the site selection committee meets to consider the candidates.

Winnipeg faces strong challenges from two South American cities—Caracas, Venezuela, and Santiago, Chile.

OPENING EVENTS

While selection of the 1967 site was the main business on the PASO agenda, the 1,000 athletes from 21 countries dug in for the two-week pageant that ends May 5.

The assault on gold medals beg n Sunday as competition got under way in several major sports. The United States and Brazil each won a pair of first-place gold medals in judo while British Guiana captured a gold in the bant mweight weightlifting in which Chinesebo n Yee-on Tam of Montreal placed fifth.

Canada's chances for medal honors were bright as Hungarian-born Ben Simo of Montreal and Irishman Phil O'Dell (200) m n's individu l foils. Two other Canadian fencers, John Z n of Toronto and Peter Takonyi of Vancouver, were eliminated in the first round Sunday.

Canada, led by world champion S e Stewart of Vancouver, qualified all seven entries for four swimming finals Tuesday night. But the favored Americans who b r o k e two games records qualified all their eight entries.

Miss Stewart, Canada's female a t h l e t e of the year, equalled the games record of one minute, 8.1 seconds while winning her heat in the women's 200-metre butterfly by two yards. Her time was almost two seconds slower than her world mark of 1:07.2.

TENNIS TEAM SPLITS

Canada's two - man tennis team split a pair of matches and the volleyball men's team lost its opener to Brazil 3-0.

Canadian Davis Cupper Harry Fauquier of Toronto made short work of Venicio Zoel of Uruguay 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, in the first-round of the men's singles.

But in a game that lasted more than two hours—the longest of the day—Brazil's Carlos Fernandes ousted 22 - year - old Don Fontana of Toronto, the playing captain of the Canadian Davis Cup team, 8-2, 6-2, 11-9.

In the men's volleyball, the heavily - f a v o r e d Brazilians downed Canada 15-3, 15-4, 15-4 against the Canadian team, made up primarily of Latvian-born players.

Two heats were raced in each of the four swimming preliminaries. The eight fastest times in each event qualified for the finals.

Miss Stewart, 17-year-old gold medalist in the 1962 British Empire Games, had by far the best time in the butterfly. Another Canadian, 15 - year - old Sharon Pierce of Prince Rupert, B.C., clocked the fourth-best time in finishing second in her heat behind U.S. swimmer Kathy Ellis. Miss Ellis clocked 1:09.9 and Miss Pierce 1:15.0.

TWO MARKS FALL

Americans smashed games marks in the men's 100-metre breaststroke and 200 - metre breaststroke and Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., equalled the 100-metre standard.

The first three finishers in the freestyle were under the games record of 56.3. Steve Clark of the U.S. won his heat in 54.7, Doe S h e r r y of Hamilton sprinted to victory in the other heat in 56.6. Gilchrist was fourth in the heat against Clark in 56.3.

Chet Jastremski of the U.S. looked as though he could have broken his world record of 2:26.6 in the men's 200 breaststroke after he swam the first leg well under the world standard. He coasted to a 15 - yard victory in a games mark of 2:37.4, a l m o s t four seconds faster than the old record of 2:41.1.

Jack Kelso of Ocean Falls was fifth in the other heat—but his time of 2:51.8 was enough to qualify.

Representing the Canadian qualifiers were Ed Carlaft of Vancouver and Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls in the men's 100-metre backstroke with identical times of 1:03.7.

Napanee, Kingston Beaten

Eastern Ontario's hopes for a junior hockey championship took a nosedive over the weekend.

Napanee Red Wings fell behind two games to none in the Junior "C" titular series when they dropped a 5-2 decision to New Hamburg in Napanee Saturday night.

Reg. Cressman, Boris Dedrick, Lynn Sarasa, Keith Brenner and Ken Bast tallied a goal each for the New Hamburg Hahns.

Bob Anderson and Winston Dowdell were the marksmen for Walt Gerow's Napanee squad.

Third game of the series is scheduled for New Hamburg Wednesday with fourth and fifth, if necessary, set for Napanee on Friday and Saturday. The series is a best-of-seven.

Meanwhile, Kingston Frontenacs fell behind three games to one in the Junior "B" finals, splitting a pair of wins with St. Mary's Lincolns.

Frontenacs took a thrilling 3-2 victory on home ice Saturday night but went down to a 7-4 defeat, also in Kingston, yesterday afternoon.

Fifth game of the series will be played in Kingston tonight at eight o'clock.

Goderich Peewee Tournament

GODERICH, Ont. (CP)—Ontario Peewees collected three titles here Saturday night to make it a clean sweep for the province in the five championship divisions of the 14th annual Young C a n a d a Week hockey tournament.

Tournament officials estimated more than 12,000 persons paid to see 87 teams from Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and the state of Michigan compete in the eight-day knockout contest.

Settled Saturday night were the B series title, which Delhi won after five years of trying; the C series crown, taken by Exeter, which has iced an entry 13 of the 14 years, and the D series championship, captured by Copetown in its third year in the tournament.

Exeter, one of the strongest squads to compete in the tournament this year, whipped Seaforth 6-2 for its title. Copetown defeated Ripley 4-2 and Delhi downed Oakridge Acres of London by the same score.

Lindsay won the A series l a u r e l s Thursday. Toronto's North York Knights won the AA series final Friday.

Exeter's victory climaxed a brilliant season in which the team won 36 games, losing only three while winning six championship trophies. In tournament play here, Exeter won six games for a total score of 34 goals, with only four counted against it.

Exeter lost its first game in the tournament 13 years ago by a 14-0 score.

Delhi, which went to the finals of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association B series before losing to Huntsville, won four games here for the title, giving the team 45 victories and five losses for the season.

In a C series semi-final, Exeter beat Harriston 4-1. The other C semi-final saw Seaforth edge Mitchell 2-1.

Delhi beat Hespeler 3-1 and Oakridge defeated Tillsonburg 4-2 in the B series semi-finals.

In D series semi-final play, Copetown beat Flatterville 7-1 and Ripley downed Paisley 4-2.

In the annual East-West exhibition challenge game, Winnipeg Mustangs trounced Goderich 8-1.

Starts Comeback

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—George Chuvalo, former Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto, will start his comeback under a new manager here tonight.

Chuvalo, now fighting out of Detroit, will meet Jimmy Wakefield of Louisville, Ky.

Oil Kings Win Over Brandon

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings are halfway to an unparalleled feat — four straight appearances in the Canadian junior hockey finals.

Two victories separate the Oil Kings from the achievement following their 3-2 overtime victory over Brandon Wheat Kings Saturday night, their second in best-of-seven Memorial Cup semi-final series.

Max Mestinsek gave the Oil Kings the decision, Brandon were tallied by Leon Garinger and Bob Stoyko.

Yankees Trade Coates To Nats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Senators traded Steve Hamilton, who has been relief pitcher, to New York Yankees Sunday for Jim Coates, a tall right-hander who has a 66-58 lifetime winning percentage on the Yankees' staff.

Hamilton was three and lost eight for the Senators last year. He had made three relief appearances this season, one against the Yankees, and had lost one game to Baltimore. Coates, who has been with the Yankees since 1959, won 37 games and lost 15 for a .712 percentage. He has not pitched this season.

Bavasi Discloses Club Discontent

Dodgers Split Between Alston, Durocher

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—It was inevitable that the discontent among Los Angeles Dodgers would come to light.

Insiders have known for some time that it manifested as much to the Dodgers' collapse last year as did the mid-season loss of pitcher Sandy Koufax and the failure of the team to score any runs in the last 21 innings of its regular schedule.

The disclosure by general manager Buzzie Bavasi early last week that he had put down a player uprising emphasized that the National League club is split in its loyalty to manager Walter Alston.

The younger players swear by their manager, but a faction, including a number of veterans, believes the Dodgers would have won the pennant last year with coach Leo Durocher at the helm.

These players have the highest admiration for Alston as a man but little respect for his ability as a manager despite his three pennants and two world championships in nine years.

EXONERATES DUROCHER

In acknowledging for the first time the discord on the club, Bavasi stated it was Durocher who tipped him off to what was going on. The general manager exonerated Durocher from fomenting the dissension.

Bavasi, however, has been aware for some time of the strained relationship between Alston and some of the players and also between Alston and Durocher.

That would have been behind his denunciation of Durocher last winter when he accused the Dodgers' former and former manager of being disloyal to Alston.

Bavasi had no serious intention of firing Durocher at that time but he felt Alston was being made the scapegoat for the Dodger collapse.

He knew, too, that Dodger owner Walter O'Malley is a strong admirer of Durocher's managerial ability.

Durocher had reason to believe he might succeed Alston this year following a secret meeting of O'Malley, Alston, the coaches and then star catcals Duke Snider in St. Louis 10 days before the end of the 1962 season.

O'Malley called the meeting because of his alarm over the steadily declining Dodger lead. He accused Alston of being too easy on the players.

"We're going to blow the pennant unless you light a fire under them," O'Malley was reported to have warned Alston.

Alston disagreed.

"The kids are under enough pressure as it is," he said. "They need encouragement, not a tongue-lashing." O'Malley finally capitulated, saying: "Okay, but if we blow the pennant, some heads will roll."

The Dodgers did lose the pennant but no heads rolled. Alston was reappointed manager and Durocher was r e t a i n e d as coach.

Toronto Team Wins Bantam Tournament

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP)— The eight-day Georgetown Bantam International Hockey League ended Saturday night with York Steel of Toronto Hockey League winning the grand championship.

York Steel won the title by defeating Walkerton 9-0 in the final game. Semi-finalists in Georgetown were the four leagues in the championship.

The semi-final series between League A and C was won by York Steel in a 10-0 victory over Leamington.

Walkerton earned the right in enter the finals by defeating West Kildonan, Man., 6-3 in their semi-final. The two teams wound up on top of the D and B League respectively.

Forty-two teams from across Canada and the northern United States competed.

Bisons Win Over Bears In Opener

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Ed Chadwick must have watched young Denis DeJordy Saturday night and made up his mind he could do better.

DeJordy blocked 37 shots to lead Buffalo Bisons to a 3-0 win over Hershey Bears Saturday in the first game of their best-of-seven final for the American Hockey League's Calder Cup.

But DeJordy held the spotlight for only 24 hours—Chadwick pushed him out Sunday night.

Chadwick blocked 50 shots to amaze a crowd of 8,272 as he led Bears to a 3-0 victory to even the series at one game apiece.

DeJordy had shut out the opposition — carrying over from the semi-finals—for 95 minutes and 44 seconds before striking up a goal Sunday night to burly Dick Melanger at 13:24 of the first period.

Yves Locas scored the other Hershey goal on a 20-foot shot in the second period.

That was all Chadwick needed — he stopped them from every direction and many of his saves were on point-blank Buffalo shots.

Johnny McKenzie, Ed Vanimpe and Brian Smith scored for Buffalo Saturday night, as Chadwick made 30 saves.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—Greentree Stable's unbeaten Hurryoninthesun candidate, No Robbery, took command at the start and, romping home by a full length in the same stretch, galloped to a five-length victory in the $30,900 Memorial Saturday at Aqueduct.

No Robbery stood off a late challenge by Jockey Jacobo Bonjour and ran the 1¼ miles in one minute, 49 1-5 seconds. Jockey Bill Hartack, Widener chieftain, considered the better half of the Greentree entry, posted a better disappointment as he finished ninth in the field of 10 three-year-olds.

His stablemate, Top Gallant, came up from last place and gained third place, 4½ lengths behind Bonjour.

The first three all are eligible for the Belmont Stakes Derby at Louisville May 4.

The winner paid $2.80, $2 and $2.10. Bonjour returned $5.10 and $2.70 and Top Gallant $2.30 to show.

In Miami, Russell A. Firestone Jr.'s Canadian-bred Jet Traffic stole a long early lead and then just lasted for a nose victory over In The Pocket Saturday in the $25,000 Inaugural Purse at Gulfstream Park.

Jet Traffic ran the seven furlongs in one minute 26-5 seconds. The odds-on favorite, Jet Traffic paid $3.80, $2.60 and $2.20. In The Pocket paid $2.60 and $2.20. Sun Dum Kid, an entry with De Declare, paid $3.20 to show.

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Lanson Farms' First Minister made good the sixth successful comeback attempt of his racing career when he took the lead shortly after the start of Saturday's $8,730 Bold Venture Handicap Stakes, and then never took a backward step in the first stakes event of the 136-day Ontario racing season.

Gordon Lanoway, Vancouverborn rider now under contract with Lanson Farms, waited 1½ furlongs before striking up a drive that put the lead and keeping it to the wire. Carroll County, Burn Roman and All Canadian battled for minor placings.

The first race, the Bold Venture, First Minister became the first horse to win the race twice.

The first race, the Bold Venture, First Minister became the first horse to win the race twice.

In the first race, Sir Hulica farms' Sweet Lady Brier had little trouble in winning from Jeremy Jacobs' Merry Censor. Coupled with the second race winner, Mrs. H. J. Bauhr' Admirals March, the daily double returned $43.10.

In the sixth race the quinella on Prince Maple and Warriors Day returned $32.10.

CYCLONE KILLS 112

CALCUTTA (Reuters) — The death toll from a cyclone which swept across 15 villages of Assam State and West Bengal in northeast India has climbed to 112, according to official information reaching here Sunday.

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anyone thinks Hank Aguirre was a flash in the pan last year when he led American League pitchers, check the latest batch of statistics.

Aguirre, the new Yankee killer of Detroit Tigers, has started and completed three games, winning each. His earned run average unofficially is 1.67, better than his leading 2.21 of last year.

"For 10 years I have been dreaming of a spring when I would get off to a good start and win four or five games early," Aguirre said recently.

"I feel that I have to prove myself all over again. I have that in mind all the time. I don't want to flop and have people say 'I told you so.'"

Last year he didn't start a game until May 26. He got his chance only because Frank Lary's arm was hurting.

FANS SEVEN

Aguirre gave up eight hits and fanned seven, running his season's strikeout total to 20 with a 5-3 victory Sunday over Boston.

Baltimore traded shutouts with Cleveland and remained one-half game ahead of the pack. Jim Gentile belted the Indians with four hits, 7-0, striking out 11 and Dick Donovan relatished with a four-hitter and a 2-0 decision over the Orioles.

It was the same story in Chicago where Minnesota's Jim Roland, a 20-year-old rookie southpaw making his first start, shut out the White Sox 7-0 with three singles. Then Chicago's John Buzhardt came back with a four-hitter and an 8-0 victory.

Ron Boone added to the rescue of Ralph Terry in the second inning and pitched the New York Yankees to a 7-6 squeaker over Washington. Leon Wagner's three-run homer enabled Los Angeles to beat Kansas City 5-2.

A three-run homer by Norm Cash off Bill Monbouquette, a 420-foot drive into the right field bleachers, was the big blow for Detroit. Bob Tillman homered for Boston.

DONOVAN BESTS ROBERTS

Baltimore racked up bonus baby Sam McDowell in the first inning while Barber coasted home with his third victory. Theo Donovan, making his first start in 10 days, cooled off the Red Sox bats and posted their fourth game winning streak by beating Robin Roberts.

Bouton had some shaky moments for the Yanks but retired the last nine batters in succession for his first victory. Terry was slammed for five hits and four runs in 5 2-3 innings. Tom Tresh homered for the Yanks.

Roland gave up two singles in the first inning and walked nine but struck out seven. Bob Allison hit a two-run triple, and his fourth homer. Buzhardt had no serious problems in his second game romp in which Montreal-born rookie Pete Ward led the White Sox attack with three singles and drove in two batted in.

Lee won his second for the Angels but he needed help in the ninth when the A's had two on with two out. Jack Spring retired pinch hitter Haywood Sullivan to end the game. Wagner's homer came in the fourth off his old teammate, Ted Bowsfield of Penticton, B.C.

Bowsfield, the Red Sox scored three runs in the last of the 15th inning to edge the Tigers 4-3. Chicago outslugged Minnesota 10-7, Baltimore bombed the Indians 8-1, Washington trounced the Yanks 7-1 and the Angels zapped Kansas City 7-4.

Undefeated In Nine Starts

Trenton Wins Tournament

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — George Ferguson scored six goals to lead Trenton to a 9-3 win over Peterborough and the grand championship of the 10-day novice hockey tournament that ended Saturday.

Ferguson, who played the entire game for Trenton, scored 24 goals and added seven assists as Trenton went undefeated in nine games in the tournament.

Trenton had won the B class championship by whipping Pointe Claire, Que., 6-1, and Peterborough won class A honors with a 5-3 victory over Winnipeg.

Milton won 4 - 2 over St. Mary's to win the C class title, and Exeter nipped Thornhill 3-2 for the D class championship. In the grand championship playoffs, Trenton easily qualified for the final with a 8-1 win over Exeter.

Peterborough qualified by edging Milton 4-3.

Northern Team Tough

Flyers Whip Espanola 6-2

SUDBURY (CP)—Not by the widest stretch of the imagination were Espanola Eagles supposed to be strong contenders for the Memorial Cup this year.

Nor were they supposed to be trailing the Sudbury Flyers five games to one after losing last night at Espanola and could be expected to a best-of-seven set.

Should the Flyers win again Tuesday to take a 2-0 lead, the series will move east to Espanola where Sal Fas is a best-of-seven affair.

Ted Snell and Ron Schock scored two goals apiece for the Flyers and Wayne Maxner and Fern Rheaume scored one each. Chi Chi Farenzena scored both goals for Espanola.

MOVED FROM BARRIE

Hap Emms' Flyers, who moved to Niagara Falls from Barrie three years ago, are looking for their first Memorial Cup since 1952.

One of the players on that 1952 Barrie team was Red McCarthy, coach of the Eagles and recreation director at Espanola.

The Flyers took a 1-0 lead in the first period when Snell scored while his team was shorthanded. Farenzena tied it up in the second period but the Flyers scored two more—set seconds apart—to carry a 3-1 lead into the third.

Again Farenzena put the Eagles within reach and with four minutes to go they were still trying for the equalizer.

But two goals within 20 seconds by Maxner and Snell wrapped it up for Niagara Falls and Snell added another with just 30 seconds left.

Niagara Falls outshot Espanola 34-24 and 27 of their shots were in the last two periods.

The winner of the series meets the winner of the western series between Edmonton Oil Kings and Brandon Wheat Kings.

Says No Truth In Canada, USA Olympics Deal

MONTREAL (CP)—A report that Canada and the United States made a deal to support each others bids for the winter and summer Olympics in 1968 drew an aroused denial Sunday from Sidney Dawes of Montreal, Canada's delegate on the International Olympic Committee.

The report from New York also said the deal covered U.S. support for Winnipeg's bid to host the Pan-American Games in 1967.

"We have made no commitments to anyone," said Dawes in a telephone interview. "This type of thing isn't done."

The report, quoting Jim Worrall of Toronto, president of the Canadian Olympic Committee, said Canada would back Detroit's bid for the summer games in return for U.S. support for the winter games bid by Banff, Alta., plus backing for Winnipeg's application.

North Shore Loop Holds Banquet

The Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League wound up one of it's most successful seasons with a full scale "country style" turkey dinner at the Albury Church Saturday night.

Combined with the presentation of team and individual trophies, the most delicious meal prepared and served by the Albury Ladies' Aid, marked a delightful finish to an enjoyable winter of hockey.

League president Ralph Plane, assisted by secretary-treasurer Norm Post, handled the master of ceremonies job. Mrs. Plane, Mrs. Post, special guests and their wives completed the head table list.

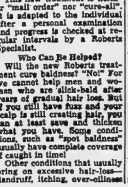
An enthusiastic league members, their wives and girl friends, attended the affair.

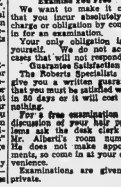
Heading the list of presentations was Gerry O'Conner, presenting the O'Conner Trophy to the playoff champion Hillbard-Callow Combine team. Team captain Wally Island accepted the beautiful trophy.

Mr. Stu Hibbard made the original presentation of the Most Valuable Player Award, going this year to Ralph Plane of the Bath Construction team. Plane also received the Belch Trophy, as the league's top scorer. Mr. Bill Belch did the honors for this presentation.

Norm Post presented the Booth Trophy, on behalf of Gord Booth, to Tim Cook as the league's top goalie.

Mr. George Stinson presented the Most Gentlemanly Player Award to Art Delins of the Saco team.





Team sponsors present, Mr. Bill Belch, Mr. Ross Gamey, Mr. Stu Hibbard and Mr. George Stinson, were acclaimed by their players and thanked for their support.

Mr. Callow made a special presentation to John "Shaker" Baker for "a terrific coaching job" during our team to the championship".

Plane, Post and press representative G. C. Alexander were also thanked for their parts in making the season a successful one.

CHALLENGER HAS EDGE

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The fifth game in the world chess tournament was adjourned after 42 moves Sunday with Tigran Petrosian, the challenger playing the black pieces, rated as having a slight positional advantage over Mikhail Botvinnik, defending champion. Petrosian holds a 6-5 edge over Botvinnik.

THEY RE-GREW HAIR !

IN 3 MONTHS
Hair Specialist Here Tuesday
Will Show Men and Women How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness
OTTAWA, Ont. New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Belleville Tuesday, April 23 at the Hotel Quinte.
Specialist J. D. Alberti, will be in charge, representing the dynamic Roberts Hair and Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 12:00 to 8.00 p.m.
This new treatment is neither "snail order" nor "cure-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.
Who Can Be Helped?
Will the new Roberts treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!
Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair-loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.
"DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE"
Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced, you are going to keep right on losing hair. If you've bald spots—or less you get your scalp in healthy, hair-growing condition again.
Examine You Free
We want you to realize that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.
Your only obligation is to yourself. We do not accept cases that will not respond.
Guarantee Satisfaction
The Roberts Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it will cost you nothing.
For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk for Mr. Alberti's room number. He does not make appointments, so come in at your convenience.
Examinations are given in private.

Sparkling New Comedy-Drama

"TWICE ROUND THE DAFFODILS"

A bed of golden daffodils in full bloom sets the scene for opening tonight of "Twice Round the Daffodils," at the Park Theatre for a three-day engagement.

And in this title lies the whole nucleus of a story telling of the humor and heartbreaks of a hospital where the patients' final trial of strength before being discharged is the long and lonely walk "Twice Round the Daffodils."

Under the expert eye of producer Peter Rogers, and director Gerald Thomas "Twice Round the Daffodils" combines comedy with undertones of pathos and a great deal of humanity as the patients and nurses are involved in the many incidents both amusing and poignant that can only happen in a hospital.

Heading the big star line up is Juliet Mills as Nurse Cally, the "Florence Nightingale" of the ward, completely devoted to her patients who include Donald Sinden, whose problems lies in the opposite sex, Donald Houston a hard non-conformist who believes himself to be an 'incurable' and Kenneth Williams — as a busy little patient with a passion — for chess!

Ronald Lewis stars as a patient who seems to be able to diagnose everyone's complaint, except perhaps his own and the supporting cast include Joan Sims, Andrew Ray, Lane Percival and Jill Ireland.

"Twice Round the Daffodils" stars Juliet Mills, Donald Sinden, Donald Houston, Kenneth Williams and Ronald Lewis with Joan Sims, Andrew Ray, Lance Percival, Jill Ireland. It was produced by Peter Rogers and directed by Gerald Thomas from a screenplay by Norman Hudis.

On the same program the added attraction is a riotous comedy on the laughter side of the "A Pair of Briefs," starring Michael Craig, Mary Peach, Brenda DeBanzie and James Robertson Justice. Complete shows at 7.00 and 8.50 p.m.

RETIRED BUT STILL CHUCKLING — Cartoonist Charles Thorson still gets an occasional chuckle out of Toughie the Tiger, one of several cartoon characters he created while working at the Disney studios in Hollywood. Thorson, now living in retirement near Vancouver, also sketched the first Lady Known as Loo, Elmer the Elephant and Sniffles the Mouse.

SPORT BRIEFS

BETTERS RECORD

TOKYO (AP)—Robert Windle of Australia bettered the world record for the men's 200-metre freestyle in swimming the distance in two minutes, three-tenths of a second Sunday at a Japan - Australia swim meet. Windle was clocked in one-tenth of a second better than the existing record held by Japan's Tsuyoshi Yamanaka, who came in third with 2:01.8.

UPSETS CONTENDER

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Stible, a young body puncher from New York, upset ranking welterweight contender Curtis Cokes of Dallas in an exciting 10-rounder at Sunnyside Garden Saturday night. The Cuban-born Stible, who was also ranked by the World Boxing Association in its top 10 listings, absorbed a fierce right hand barrage by Coker to emerge with a unanimous decision.

King of the Hill

Horace Ormshaw topped all participants in the King of the Hill and once again there was no challenge match. Horace had 1294 for his 5 games (255-252-275-269-230). The closest contender was Leo St. Louis with 1200 even. Next come Wes Andrews 1178, Cec. Hardwick 1152, Eric Rank, of Trenton 1138 and Ken Peacock 1131. There was one 300 score, that by Leo St. Louis with 304.

Five was the most consecutive strikes rolled so the 8 in a row pot of gold will amount to over $60.00 next week.

Judy Garland's Daughter Makes TV's Big Time

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Liza Minelli, Judy Garland's 17-year-old daughter, made television's big time Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan Show.

She's very much like her mother. She has Judy's voice but without that sad and wistful quality that has tugged at two generations of movie-goers' hearts. She looks like Judy, too, and has some of her mannerisms, including that odd, stiff-legged way of standing as if she were uncomfortable in high heels.

Old motion pictures, no matter how you use them, no matter what their age, are television gold mines.

Television stations all over the nation fill their schedules with feature fillms of other years, and there are places even for those dreary Grade D movies produced on a shoe-string and used to plump out triple-feature theatre bills in the early 1940s.

The more recent big-budget movies with big names are used successfully by the television networks to woo audiences away from opposition bills of fare.

David L. Wolper, a young producer, has staked out an especially rich vein of nostalgia by using films made during the golden days of Hollywood.

He already has produced and sold several hour specials on the subject. And this fall he'll have The Hollywood Story on NBC—half - hour weekly shows relying on old footage clipped from films made in the days before and right after movies learned to talk.

AT THE BELLE — Some Pigeon! The lovely Elsa Martinelli, who scored so successfully in her American film debut in "Hatari!" will grace the screen of the Belle Theatre today in "The Pigeon Who Took Rome", romantic action comedy co-starring Charlton Heston.

AT THE BELLE — Meet the Principal Audrey Hepburn, above, won an Academy Award as the best actress of the year for her role as Princess Ann in "Roman Holiday" which comes to the Belle Theatre today. William Wyler's "Roman Holiday" is one of two romantic adventure stories today at the Belle Theatre.

Recommended tonight:

Dick Powell Theatre, NBC, 9:30-10:30 EST — Charles Bickford and a host of other fine actors in "The Old Man and the City, a drama about revenge. June Allyson is hostess on the show.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For April 23

Aries (March 21 to April 19) New moon highlights possessions, ambitions, financial capabilities. Important to take time in matters of collection, payments. Be thorough. Don't take unnecessary chances.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) New Moon in your sign. Indicates personal appearances, pressures, responsibilities. No "passing the buck." Be there in person. Day could be very profitable depending on your attitude.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Glamour, behind-scenes-activity highlighted. Don't accept surface values. Be charming, considerate humorous. But double-check. Actions something else again. Better not to believe all promises.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) New Moon spotlights need for recognition, achievement, appreciation. You can't "go it alone." Share exchange ideas. Ask questions. Plus for joining clubs, cooperating projects.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Bumpy road may be ahead. But you come out on top. Facts hit home with force. Be prepared for surprises. Change course if necessary. Avoid obstinate attitude.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) New Moon shines in section of your chart. Deals with long-range plans, publishing, ideals. Don't believe rumors. Stick to facts. Fight for principles.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you go to extremes, you pay penalty. Knowing this, why not be moderate in approach? Stress diplomacy. New Moon stresses need to be conservative. Plus for romance.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Tie up loose ends. Don't trust to luck. Keep powder dry. Be ready, willing, able to act in own behalf. Stress self-reliance. Independence. Let others know you can take care of yourself.

Sagittarius, (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Opportunity is available - If you are ready to make extra effort. Key is services, unique ways of presenting your abilities. Heed your own counsel. Succeed via original approach.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Self-trust means greater happiness. Do what you want to do. Don't be bogged down by admonitions, advice, threats, misgivings. Be specific, happy, and enthusiastic.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't be trapped by desire for security. Let Uranian-Aquarius qualities flow forth. Means be imaginative - - strive for the unusual, adventurous life. Be true to your real feelings.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Console loved one. Exhibit love, sympathy. The more you give the more you receive. Seek greater freedom of action through frank discussion. Find new interest in unexpected, second-hand reports.

If today is your birthday you're analytical, shrewd, adventurous, with tremendous desire to give and receive affect.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:— New Moon Highlights World Economic Questions. Look for blunt statements, a kind of "digging in" action.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Jim Gunn isn't a chewing gum salesman, but he has a lot of respect for its sticky qualities. He thinks gum should be standard equipment for the two-man crews in the six-day Vancouver - Montreal 4,000-mile car rally that starts today.

Gunn is rally organizer and he knows what he's talking about. He is the chap who plotted the course and he had larceny in his heart.

Nearly 3,000 miles of the route is over gravel-surfaced concession and secondary roads. And if the crews take Gunn's advice, they'll chew on a wad of gum throughout their travels on the back roads.

"A wad of well-chewed gum conceivably could save a lot of time and penalty points," Gunn said in an interview the other day. He knows from past experience.

LOST GAS TANKS

Last year, for instance, one of the rally cars was negotiating a rough stretch of road in Northern Ontario when it suddenly stalled. A quick examination by the crew showed the car had lost its gas tank in a pothole.

Another rally car went over the same spot and also lost its gas tank. The crews pulled the tanks out and discovered a couple of small holes in each.

What to do?

"There was still gas in the tanks and one driver pulled a wad of gum out of his mouth and filled the holes," said Gunn. "They fitted the gas tanks back onto their cars and away they went and finished the rally well up with the leaders.

"The emergency repairs held until it was time for the night stop-over and they then had their tanks fixed."

Without the gum - chewing drivers the two cars most likely would have piled up enough penalty points to put them right out of the rally. There are more than 60 secret control points scattered at irregular intervals along the route and competitors lose a point for every minute early or late at each control.

The crew finishing with the least number of penalty points is the winner.

LOTS OF HOLES?

Gunn has gone over the route about eight times since last June and he knows all the hazards. The country roads probably will be well dotted with pot-holes at this time of the year so, drivers, load up with gum.

Organizers stress the safety factor. Any car caught violating traffic rules is automatically disqualified. Drivers are docked points for damaged cars. There's one exception—no points are lost if damage is caused by animals.

Last year, a car pulled into a control point with a caved-in rear end. The driver told officials a moose had taken a kick at the car. They found out later he had backed into a truck in a parking lot at one of the overnight stopping centres and docked him 10 points.

One more thing about the gum: "To do an efficient job of filling up holes in gas tanks, the gum must be well chewed," says Gunn.

Rawdon

RAWDON—Mount Pleasant-
Rawdon United Church was a bower of beauty for the Easter service at 11 o'clock on Sunday morning. A large cross, memorial flowers, potted plants and an Easter lily donated by the Stirling Horticultural Society all made a lovely picture and a large number of worshippers were in attendance. The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher took the message. Mrs. Howard
Weaver provided special music.
The junior choir sang "Now Let Us All With One Accord".

A Good Friday service was held at the church with representatives from all three appointments. Mrs. Walter Warren sang "Neath the Olive Tree."

Special Easter services were held in Mount Pleasant United Church and Bethel United

Nixon Advocates U. S. Invasion Of Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former vice - president Richard
M. Nixon has called for unleashing the Cuban exiles and, if necessary, a United States invasion of Cuba to force the withdrawal of Soviet troops.

"The United States cannot for too long a time sit on this powder keg and say o the Cuban exiles, in effect, we are going to quarantine you rather than quarantine (Premier) Castro," Nixon declared Sunday at a luncheon meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Nixon said the time has come for "a command decision to do whatever is necessary to force the removal of the Soviet beachhead" in Cuba.

Ann Landers

Husband's Infantile Acts Show Stunted Development

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—What is wrong with my husband. He's a middle-aged self-made man. But he hates rules and regulations and breaks them whenever he can.

If there's a sign that says, "No Smoking," he lights up at once. "Keep Off The Grass" is an invitation. I've seen him step right over a sign and stomp on the newly seeded lawn, just for the devil of it. When a sign says "Push, Don't Blot," he blots. Recently we bought a mattress which had a label on it saying "Don't remove this label." He got the scissors and cut it off.

All this is maddening but when he breaks traffic regulations I go out of my mind. He's been stopped for speeding four times this year. He makes a game of lying to the officer and tries to talk his way out of a ticket.

Please tell me why he is like this and what I can do about it.—MARRIED TO A NUT.

DEAR MARRIED—"The Nut" has emotional problems which go back many years. People who delight in breaking rules just to see if they can get away with it are still trying to put one over on ma and pa. The poor guy is a case of arrested development. He needs professional help.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I need advice and fast. This is a second marriage for both my husband and me. I'm raising my husband's two children by his first wife. I have two children by my first husband.

His youngsters were very young when we married and mine were, too. We saw no reason to tell them they were step brothers and sisters. Everything was fine until a few weeks ago when our next door neighbor's son told our children they are step brothers and sisters. Now my husband's children gang up against my two and the four are forever quarrelling and fighting.

Why can't neighbors mind their own business? That little brat's loose lip is wrecking our family. Can you help?—MOTHER AND STEP-MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER—It would be nice indeed if neighbors kept their noses out of other people's business. But this isn't the way the world works.

Anyone who counts on closed mouths of neighbors or friends is leaning on a slender reed.

Please don't heap all the blame on the mouthy little neighbor kid. The truth told directly (and early) by you and your husband could have prevented this mess.

At this point I can suggest only patience, fairness and affection to each child in turn.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I'm a boy 11 years of age. I am writing about a family problem. I hope you will print it in the paper because a lot of kids I know have the same trouble.

Every night there are fights at our house because of TV. Mom wants to watch some gooey love story and pa wants to see wrestling or a gun fight.

There are four of us kids and we don't get to say a word about which channel is on. Plenty of nights it is nothing but junk. Don't you think in a free country the majority should rule?

Thank you very much.—NOTHING TO SAY.

DEAR NOTHING TO SAY—Four kids in the family and you think the majority should rule? Well, remember Sydney Hook's famous words, "Majority rule is not reasonable in a prison, an institution for the feebleminded, or in a family of small children."

And instead of hanging around the boob-tube nights, I'd like to recommend an old-fashioned pastime. It's called reading.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents?" enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long-self addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

Johnstown

Mrs. Jack Douglas and Tony returned to their home in Crookston. Mrs. Douglas was also after spending the past few convalescing at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hubble.

HONOR HOPE

Bob Hope has been awarded the National Association of Broadcasters Distinguished Service Award, the first entertainer so honored.

MAKE YOUR OWN

RAPID TURF

The newest wrinkle in "fast-growing" lawns is simply the use of "rapid-seed," fast growing grass seed. We looked at some in bulk at a seed store and they are planting at much lower cost than that of small-metered "rapid" seed simply because of the explanation that takes place if the seed is left unpacked and out of cold-storage for an extended period.

Our YEARLY or PERENNIAL RYEGRASS mixtures are ideal for pre-planting and will come up in less than half the normal time.

HERE'S HOW!

Place the required amount of grass seed in an open-burlap bag to compensate for swelling. Tie the top. Soak in a bucket or your laundry tub overnight (12 to 24 hours), then rinse and water regularly for seven days. Lay the seed may be spread evenly in a thin layer in the sun on a tarp or sheet to dry quickly (it takes 3 to 4 hours). Now you have pre-soaked or rapid-grass seed.

Once reasonably dry this seed will flow quite easily and by using both softened and washed water of lukewarm acids will germinate in less than half the normal time. Try it on your next lawn-sowing project.

NICKEL IN WORLD MARKETS...JOBS FOR CANADIANS

How Canadian Nickel helped England's Hovercraft get off the ground

Hovercraft went into service last year in England, where they were invented and built. These strange craft actually ride on a cushion of air and, after take-off, are completely free of contact with the ground or water. Making the Hovercraft a reality called for great skill and the use of the finest materials. And, in this latter regard, Canadian nickel helped. Why nickel? Because it is strong, durable, corrosion resistant. Nickel is used in the Hovercraft's transmission system and hydraulic and fuel pipes; nickel-containing steels are used in the general structure, and heat-resisting nickel alloys are used extensively in the engines.

The growth of nickel markets at home and abroad helps strengthen Canada's economy and helps provide jobs for Canadians.

New Brunswick Voters Re-elect Liberal Govt.

Robichaud Increases Majority by Three Seats

FREDERICTON (CP)—Louis J. Robichaud, the young Acadian who realized an ambition by becoming premier of New Brunswick before he was 35, led his Liberal government back into power in Monday's provincial election.

The Liberals, elected to a second term, increased their majority in the legislature by carrying the Progressive Conservative stronghold of Saint John City.

Final standings:

| | 1963 | 1960 |
|---|---|---|
| Liberal | 34 | 31 |
| Conservative | 18 | 21 |
| Total | 52 | 52 |

No other parties contested the election.

With 80 polls still unreported, it was apparent the vote total would be well below 1960's record 783,299. The total from 1,337 of 1,417 polls was 737,835 of which Liberals received 382,063 and PCs 355,772.

ALL MULTIPLE

These figures do not represent the number of voters since all New Brunswick's ridings are multiple seats and an elector may cast as many votes as there are members in his constituency. There were approximately 300,000 eligible voters this election.

The Liberals picked up the four Saint John City seats, held since 1952 by PCs, but lost one in Gloucester as Conservative Victoria for a net gain of three. The remaining 47 seats were unchanged.

All members of Mr. Robichaud's cabinet were re-elected. With 95.7 per cent of the polls reported, the Liberal share of the party vote was 51.8 per cent. Conservatives had 48.2 per cent. In 1960 the Liberals received 53.4 per cent, the PCs 46.6 per cent. Independents had the remaining fraction.

Mr. Robichaud won the premiership in 1960, when the Liberals upset the Progressive Conservative government of Hugh John Flemming.

TO PUSH PROGRAM

"I am thrilled," he said in an interview at Moncton. The 37-year-old premier said his governments will push ahead with an industrial development program by implementing the Liberal party's election platform.

SELECT ERHARD AS SUCCESSOR TO ADENAUER

Chancellor Loses Fight Against Aide

BONN (AP)—West German Chancellor Adenauer moved reluctantly toward the political sidelines today as his Christian Democratic party gathered to name Vice-Chancellor Ludwig Erhard as Adenauer's successor.

It was a bitter blow for the 87-year-old head of West German politics who fought Erhard's designation almost to the end.

Informants who attended a closed session of Christian Democratic parliamentary leaders Monday said Adenauer asked them if they thought it was to name an economist. Apparently they decided it was.

Erhard, 66, is credited with being the man most responsible for West Germany's economic revival in the years after the Second World War. Adenauer had insisted Erhard is not skilful enough politically for the job of chancellor, but it was generally believed the old man's opposition resulted from the prospect that Erhard would not let Adenauer run the show through him after the chancellor's retirement.

Christian Democratic sources said Adenauer finally agreed to designation of Erhard so that moves in forse resignation during the summer would be abandoned.

RESIGN IN FALL

Adenauer, who has headed West Germany's government since the country was formed in 1949, said in a television interview April 10 he will resign in October or November.

If this timetable is followed, he will be in office when parliament gives its expected ratification of the French-German friendship treaty he signed with President de Gaulle. He also still will hold office when President Kennedy and de Gaulle visit West Germany this summer.

Queen Throws Party for Wedding Wednesday and Royalty Has Ball

WINDSOR, England (Reuters)—Royalty had a ball that lasted into the early hours of the morning today when the Queen threw a party in Windsor Castle to herald the wedding Wednesday of her cousin Princess Alexandra.

The battlements of the castle were flood-lit for the first time since the Queen's coronation, and the collection of European and British royalty assembled was described as the most spectacular in 1,000 years.

Scottish businessman Angus Ogilvy, a bridegroom who smashed the grill of his sleek Jaguar limousine in a minor crash on the way to the palace.

But the 34-year-old son of the Earl of Airlie remained calm, and switched to a chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce when he left.

drove with Princess Alexandra, 28, to Windsor.

Behind them, a party of 70 guests feasted from gold plate and then joined with 2,000 others in a ball that began decorously with a waltz and ended gayly at three o'clock in the morning.

The society editor of the massive Daily Express noted that "shortly after midnight, the Queen and Prince Philip danced the twist—and danced it well."

Ablaze with jewels, tiaras, orders, decorations and gowns and tail coats, the guests included members of almost every European royal house. They came to see the wedding in Westminster Abbey of Princess Alexandra, 28, to Angus Ogilvy.

The centre of festivities was the Waterloo Chamber, built to celebrate the historic victory over Napoleon. Portraits of monarchs, statesmen and warriors who helped in his defeat glowered down from heavy frames over a banquet table loaded of their age than the 20th century.

Champagne corks popped and music and laughter created a cheerful din.

Prince Charles, 14 - year - old heir to the throne, and his sister Princess Anne, 12, were allowed to watch the celebration for a while, and the prince took pictures with a home movie camera from the spectators gallery.

MARGARINE MAY BE COLORED DEEPER SHADE

Bill Introduced In Legislature

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government introduced legislation Monday that would allow margarine to be colored a deeper shade of yellow than butter.

The bill, amending the 1949 oleomargarine act, would reserve the color range of 10.5 degrees and darker on a standard "tintometer" scale to margarine.

Amendments to the Milk Industry Act, introduced along with the margarine bill, provide that butter "shall be restricted to its traditional color range of more than 1.6 degrees and less than 10.5 degrees," Agriculture Minister Stewart told the legislature.

Mr. Stewart said the setting of "these two distinctive color ranges will make any misrepresentation impossible and will allow each product to be sold with an acceptable color on its own merits."

The amendments would not affect an existing provision of the Oleomargarine Act which allows the sale of margarine in the color range under 1.6 degrees, he said.

WILL BE EXEMPTIONS

The agriculture minister told a press conference earlier that, while butter would be restricted to the 10.5 range certain exemptions would be necessary for manufacturers of soft butter, a product which usually is darker than the 10.5 index.

Agriculture department dairy experts told the press conference the normal color range for butter averages about six degrees on the color-measuring tintometer instrument.

Asked to explain the new allowed color for margarine to that for butter, officials said butter from cream of cattle breeds "would be approaching the color of margarine by June."

(Natural butter color may deepen as cattle feed on green summer pasturage).

As another comparison, officials said the average color of cheddar cheese would be about 13 degrees on the tintometer scale.

YELLOW VARIES

Pointing to samples of butter and tubs of margarine manufactured in Manitoba, Mr. Stewart said: "There is a variance in the degree of yellow, but it (the margarine) is certainly a yellow."

The government legislation will become effective immediately after Queen Royal assent, Mr. Stewart told the press conference. This means the bill would be law before the session prorogues, possibly by Friday.

Earlier this session, Leonard Reilly (PC—Toronto Eglinton) urged the government to allow the sale of prescribed margarine and said he would introduce a private member's bill to that effect if the government did not act by the end of the present session.

The Oleomargarine Act amendments also provide that the manufacturer must label his product with the kinds and percentages of each type of oil used in the margarine, Mr.

Prime Minister Celebrating 66th Birthday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, celebrating his 66th birthday, received a happy birthday today to Governor-General Vanier, who is 75.

Mr. Pearson, wearing a dark blue suit and dark grey four-in-hand tie, arrived at his East Block office early and made his first telephone call of the day to Government House.

He relayed birthday greetings to Gen. Vanier through Esmond Butler, secretary to the Governor-General.

Both Mr. Pearson and Gen. Vanier were born on St. George's Day, the prime minister in 1897 and the Governor-General in 1888.

Premier Souvanna Wants Permanent Inspection Team

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma said today he has asked the three-nation International control commission to send a permanent inspection team to the Plaine des Jarres where neutralist and pro-Communist forces have been fighting.

He told a press conference he asked for the team to be sent to the Plaine des Jarres airport following agreement between himself, pro-Communist Pathet Lao Leader Prince Souphanouvong, and the right-wing vice-premier, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

Meanwhile, Kong Le, neutralist military commander who is in Vientiane for talks with Souvanna, said he had moved his headquarters back to the Plaine des Jarres airport from Muong Kheung, five miles away.

He said he was "satisfied and happy" with talks Monday night and today with Souvanna, and would return to the Plaine des Jarres in central Laos Wednesday.

Souvanna told his press conference the inspection team of representatives from Canada, India and Poland "will be able to see what goes on . . . and from which direction any fighting may come."

He said it appeared there had

Montreal Police Working Overtime on Bomb Problem

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal police, vowing to wipe out the extremist, bomb-tossing wing of Quebec's separatist movement, launched an all-out drive to put a stop duty today.

An elderly janitor, William V. O'Neill, was killed Saturday night when a bomb exploded in the rubbish heap behind an army recruiting office. Squads of RCMP, provincial and municipal police began raids of known haunts of separatists and Communist sympathizers in an effort to track down the murderers of Le Front de Libération Quebecois, which claims to have committed itself to a policy of violence and sabotage to "free" Quebec from Canada.

Police Director J. Adrien Robert said every policeman is going on extra duty until "the job is done."

O'Neill, 65, a veteran of two world wars, is to be buried Wednesday at suburban Pointe Claire.

Although the FLQ claims to be fighting "Anglo-Saxon domination," the bomb victim was more French than English Canadian. His father was of Irish descent and his mother French-Canadian. His wife, the former Helen Levesque of New Richmond, Que., is French-Canadian.

"We were proud of our French heritage," she said as she wept Monday. "After what has happened I am ashamed of my French-Canadian blood."

In Quebec City, Premier Jean Lesage said police efforts to

Que. Enquiry on Education Proposes a New Formula

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's royal commission on education has proposed a formula for giving unity without uniformity to public education in the province.

The eight - member commission, in the first of several volumes of its report, made these key recommendations Monday to the cabinet:

1. The province must have a minister of education.

2. The 60-member Council of Public Instruction, governing body of the province's public schools, should be transformed into a 16-member "higher council of education" to advise the minister and provide a non-political forum for expression of public opinion.

The commission said a coherent, unified authority is needed at the provincial level and it made clear it does not consider valid the old official theory of separating education from politics in Quebec.

The cabinet minister responsible for education is the youth minister, Jean Cern-Lajoie, but public schools have been run since Confederation, by an autonomous body, the Council of Public Instruction.

"To put education in the very forefront of political pre-occupations is to give it the importance it deserves. Why should it seem dangerous or inconvenient to discuss education policy before the electorate and in the legislative assembly?"

Within the new education structure there would be room "for those differences . . . that have been traditional in our society."

CENTRAL SYSTEM OF STATISTICS ON CRIME SEEN

Series of Changes In Police Act

TORONTO (CP)—The report of Ontario's royal commission on crime has resulted in at least other piece of provincial legislation.

Attorney - General Fred Cass introduced a bill in the legislature Monday that gives the Ontario Police Commission the job of maintaining a central system of crime statistics.

The records would be available to both provincial and municipal police forces and follow a recommendation by Mr. Justice Wilfred D. Roach after his lengthy one-man inquiry into organized crime.

The bill includes a series of changes in the Ontario Police Act. The amendments also give the police commission the job of sending advisers on regular visits to municipal police forces throughout Ontario.

CAN BUDGET

It empowers municipal councils to budget for increased police payrolls when negotiations are still going on for a collective agreement at the time the budget is being studied.

Both opposition parties tried to amend government legislation which included a reduction in the maximum work week for Ontario firemen to 48 from 56 hours. The bill also excludes deputy fire chiefs from the firemen's bargaining unit.

Before the bill passed the committee of the whole House unaltered, the government majority had to vote down the opposition three times.

Liberals and New Democrats supported efforts to reduce the work week to 40 hours and to have deputy chiefs included in the bargaining unit in communities of less than 10,000 population.

Elmer Sopha (L — Sudbury) said exclusion of deputy chiefs from firemen's bargaining units has happened in Sudbury and many small communities, where a deputy was normally a working fireman.

After both amendments were defeated, the government members again out-voted the smaller parties in getting the bill through.

Today, the house continues its examination of estimates for the department of economics and development.

Opening Date Of Parliament Set For May 16

Pearson Redeems One Pledge in Election

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and his new cabinet meet again today—second day of the Liberal administration's 60 days of decision.

The record 26-member cabinet took oaths of office Monday at the bedside of Governor-General Vanier and then held a 90-minute cabinet session. Afterwards, Mr. Pearson produced a sweeping outline and reorganization of ministerial duties.

Mr. Pearson, who campaigned on a promise that in 60 days of decision a Liberal government would do more than any government since confederation, redeemed one election pledge.

Parliament will meet Thursday, May 16, he said.

One of its first tasks will be to provide two new cabinet jobs—a department of industry and an eastern agriculture minister. Both were promised in the April 8 campaign which brought Mr. Pearson the nation's top political office and sent John Diefenbaker to lead the Progressive Conservatives as opposition leader.

HAS ONLY WOMAN

Ontario, which provided the largest number of Liberal seats in the recount, was awarded the largest bloc of portfolios—10 including Mr. Pearson and the only woman minister, Judy La Marsh.

The 38-year-old Niagara Falls lawyer is health minister.

Other Ontario ministers: Paul Martin, 59, lawyer, external affairs; W. Ross Macdonald, 71, lawyer, government leader in the Senate; Paul Hellyer, 39, businessman, national defence; Walter Gordon, 57, business consultant, finance; Mitchell Sharp, 51, businessman, trade; George McIlraith, 54, lawyer, transport; J. R. Garland, 45, businessman, national revenue; and William Benidickson, 52, lawyer, mines.

Acknowledging Lionel Chevrier, 60-year-old Montreal lawyer, as the chief Quebec lieutenant by keeping him at his side throughout the official ceremonies, Mr. Pearson picked eight Quebec ministers.

Besides Mr. Chevrier, new justice minister, they are: Azellus Denis, 56, lawyer, postmaster - general; Maurice Lamontagne, 46, economic adviser of the Privy Council; Lucien Cardin, 44, lawyer, associate defence minister; Jean-Eudes Dubé, 44, lawyer, immigration; Rene Tremblay, 46, economist, minister without portfolio.

Radio Commentator Tells How He Narrowly Escaped Death

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—"I was afraid I was going to be an eyewitness to his murder with a chance to end up dead beside him."

Jack Webster, 45, a radio commentator here, told in detail Monday how three desperate convicts, one of whom thought he was going to die of cancer and had nothing to lose, held a guard at knifepoint for almost 24 hours in the British Columbia Penitentiary.

Guard Pat Dennis, 33, was released after negotiations for pills with Webster that ended with their transfer to other federal penitentiaries.

Gerard Caissey, 28, and Wayne Carlson, 21, won transfer to Kingston Penitentiary in Ontario.

Carlson, too, had turned patently psychopathic, waving the knife and shouting Caissey scream for scream."

Webster quoted Caissey as saying he wasn't afraid to die because he is "dying of cancer."

"They only give me four pills a day," Caissey was quoted in telling of his medical treatment at the prison. "I die anyway, I rather die here with their machine guns."

The convicts finally agreed to clean up the debris of rioting.

County Council Members Discuss Correspondence Piled up for Three Months

Members of Hastings county council commenced their annual spring session in the county buildings this morning.

The morning's session was taken up mainly by the reading of correspondence, including letters from members in various municipal and other organizations.

Just prior to the noon recess they went into caucus to discuss salary adjustments for certain members of the county administrational staff and other officials.

This week's session is expected to be a three-day affair in which the 1963 county tax rate will be set. The session will also see assessment equalization of the various member municipalities to be used when setting the 1964 tax rate next year.

LETTER TABLED

Among the correspondence read by county clerk treasurer Carl Bateman was a letter from Ontario Department of Labor, again requesting appointment of a county building inspector under the construction safety act which was passed last year.

The correspondence was tabled until the report of a special committee set up to obtain detailed information on the matter.

There is mixed feeling on the part of other Ontario counties with respect to County of Hastings resolutions passed at the December session which asked that farmers be made eligible for participation in unemployment insurance, and for increased grants to municipalities for the winter works incentive program.

A number of the counties concurred in both the resolutions, others in one only, while still others turned both resolutions down.

DECIDE AGAINST MOVE

A letter from the Unemployment Insurance Commission indicated that inclusion of farmers in the unemployment insurance program had been considered but due to administration difficulties the decision had been against the move.

Monthly reports from Belleville General Hospital showed that over-crowding continues at the institution. Reports covering the first three months of the year showed that occupancy at the hospital ranged from 118 percent to 130 percent.

The county of Hastings is now part owner of the hospital, sharing operational and capital expenditures on a ratio of 60 percent county and 65 percent city of Belleville.

AND NOW ACTION

But Tudor and Cashel Reeve Verne McMurray noted that the abandoned railway was entirely out of this district and he moved that no action be taken.

County Warden Charles Long noted that the spring breakup had been hard on the county roads pointing out to the deep penetration of frost into snowplowed roads last winter.

He said tribute to county industrial commissioner for their work in the community interest.

He referred specifically to "Corby's for their interest in information. He said this "outside" interest in community affairs was paralleled in the case of many other industries.

K TO RETIRE?

LONDON (Reuters) — A Sunday newspaper quotes Soviet Communist party sources as saying Premier Khrushchev will announce his retirement "within two years" and will become Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov as his successor. The Observer says in a front - page story by Edward Crankshaw, the paper's Communist affairs expert, that sources in the party" stated the 69 - year - old Soviet leader will nominate the 55-year-old Kozlov his heir at a May 28 meeting of the party's central committee.

Interesting item for veterans. Under the Children of War Dead (Education Assistance) Act, bursaries and allowances have been approved by the Department. Under this act, the children are given help and assistance which their parents would have received had they not died, to take advanced courses of education at Canadian universities, technical schools, etc. At the end of October 1962, 818 of those assisted had left school and 72 were still training. The cost to that date was $2,602,000.

ACT AMENDED

At the last session of the 24th Parliament, the act was amended to give the Minister of Veterans Affairs authority, under certain circumstances, to extend the benefits of the Act beyond the four academic years (or 36 months) and beyond the academic year in which he reaches his 25th birthday anniversary.

These amendments became effective on June 1st, 1962, and up to December 5th, extensions had been granted to 52 such students. One of these, Michel Vennat, a student at the University of Montreal, has since be nominated a Rhodes Scholar and will commence his studies in Philosophy, Politics and Economics at Oxford University in September, 1963.

The members will be sorry to hear that Comrade Charlotte Wall, while visiting her daughter in the States, was taken sick and rushed to hospital for an emergency operation. Her daughter reports that she stood the ordeal very well and is on the road to recovery but will probably be away for another month.

So, until next week, the best of luck to all.

Rotarians Get Look at Israel Through Speaker

"A Canadian Looks at Israel," was the topic outlined to Rotary Club members at their weekly dinner meeting on Monday by Mr. John Devore of Toronto.

The speaker stated that although the Jews are very passionate people in their dealings with fellow man, there was always tremendous criticism toward them. One of the first things a Jewish child learns is that "Jesus loves me this I know," he said, and when they grow older they learn that it was the Jews who killed Christ, and this was a great shock to them.

Israel he said takes up an area of about 8,000 square miles and if it were dropped into Lake Ontario it would be lost beneath the water.

Mr. Devore said that although one half the population of Lebanon, located north of Israel, were Christian, there was constant disorder between Israel and Lebanon. He said there was no doubt that there could be peace between the two places if the people of Lebanon would unite.

MANY SCHOLARSHIPS

The speaker said that Israel awards more scholarships to students than does any other country, such as Canada or the United States. He said Israel has formed a development company in newly-awakened country. Student exchange ship winners he said are trained on chicken farms and in kibbutz and on their return to this, where as Russia, the United States and Canada are always surprised to find them in schools, etc. At the end of October 1962, 818 of those assisted had left school and 72 were still training. The cost to that date was $2,602,000.

Following the address, Rotarian Bill McCormick who said present receipts totalled $4,045 compared to $4,000 collected last year. This did not include receipts received over the week-end. On the national scene, receipts were down nearly 60 per cent from last year, he said.

Rotarian Ed Shepherd's birthdays this week were: G. Freeman, G. Procter, Freeman Burrows and Lee Grills.

WILLIAM C. HAGGERTY

PICTON — A prominent resident of the township of Athol, William C. Haggerty, died in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital, Saturday, April 20 in his 78th year. He had been ill for some time and underwent several operations.

Mr. Haggerty spent the greater part of his life on the farm near Cherry Valley. He was a valued member of the United Church, serving as Elder and as secretary of the Board for many years. He also gave many years service as registrary of the Cemetery Board. He served on Athol township council and was a prominent supporter of all community activities. His friendly personality added to his many friends.

Surviving are his wife, the former Eva Beatley; a son, John B., and two grandchildren, Dean and Dianne Haggerty.

Funeral service was held at his late residence Monday afternoon with interment in the Cherry Valley cemetery.

Family of Nine Homeless After Tyendinaga Fire

A family of nine, including seven children ranging in ages from less than a year to nine years of age, is homeless today after a fire destroyed their home on the 6th concession of Tyendinaga, Monday afternoon.

The home owned by Donald McKenzie, was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Don White and their family. Mrs. White was a sister in Stirling at the time of the blaze.

It is believed the fire started in the chimney. Mr. White had gone upstairs to put some of the younger children to bed for the afternoon when the fire broke out. The three oldest children were at school.

The Belleville fire department was notified and neighbors helped Mr. White to remove as much of the furnishings as possible. However they were able to save only a few of the upstairs furniture before the house became a total loss.

The home was insured for about $3,000. There were no injuries reported.

Youths Ordered To Stay Away From Each Other

Magistrate T. Y. Wills today ordered two teenage youths, who were involved in a breaking of the Belleville service station, not to associate with each other for two years.

He imposed the order as part of a suspended sentence on Donald Lorne Reid and Lawrence Patterson. They were arrested after police had been called to Patterson's Service Station on West Dundas Street.

The magistrate said the ban did not mean they couldn't meet in a group or talk to each other. However, he said, he meant they were not to "run around together."

"I will not impose any curfew at the present time," he added, reserving both youths to report each month to local probation authorities.

Picton Salmon Point Women Sponsor Varied Program

PICTON — Cherry Valley hall was filled to capacity Saturday night when Salmon Point United Church Women sponsored a variety concert. Splendid talent entertained the crowd for more than 3 hours and not the least of those applauded was 71-year-old Noah Trumble whose humorous recital of his ability as an entertainer, which I begin as a fiddler, and Gunter, have not diminished with the years. Phil Dodds acted as chairman.

Program included a song by little Patti Forrester; tap dances and song by Scott Gunter and Donna Harvey; duets with guitar accompaniment by Roy and Jean Sisenberg; songs by X. P. Mayhew, with guitar; accordion selections by Mrs. Jack Beaumont; piano selection, reels, hornpipe and clog, by Mrs. Inez Sallans; song by junior Mrs Mona Green; a clever baton number and a tap dance by Donna Harvey; a humorous reading by Mrs. Emma Chapman; a beautiful vocal solo by Mrs. Beverley Richards, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forrester with guitar accompaniment.

JUNIOR CHOIR HEARD

The junior choir of Salmon Pt. Church, under the direction of Mrs. James Whiteford, gave two much appreciated numbers.

A skit by Salmon Point Young People had a school as its setting and antics and answers by the pupils caused much laughter.

Vernon Armstrong gave two amusing and clever skits, one on the landing by 'plane in Washington by Krushchev and the other on the experiences as a driving instructor. A novelty number by Mrs. Sallans saw music produced by bottles partly filled with water when tapped by silver knives.

During intermission, candy, popcorn and chocolate milk found ready sale.

Appreciation was voiced to the artists, accompanists and all others who assisted in making the evening such a successful and enjoyable one. Refreshments were served to those taking part in the fine program.

IN MEMORIAM

GILMOLEY — In loving memory of my dear husband, Leo Gilmoley, who passed away April 23, 1961.

Though your smile has gone forever,
Memories linger on.
And your hand we cannot touch,
You left us a memory of love.

Dear Leo, we loved so much.
Sadly missed by wife Dorothy and family.

LARKIN — In loving memory of our dear father Alden Larkin, who passed away April 23, 1961.

He left us his thoughts unsaid,
His last kind words unspoken,
His pen is resting,
His heart has ceased to beat.
But God has taken him home to suffer no more.
—Sadly missed by wife and family.

Stephen Safe Will Study At Oxford

Now completing his studies at Queen's University for his Master of Science degree, Stephen Safe, son of Ex - Alderman Ben Safe of this city, has been awarded a British Commonwealth scholarship for further study at Oxford University in England.

The scholarship provides for an amount of $1,500 per year and Mr. Safe will leave in September with his wife, Lorna, to continue his studies for two years toward his Ph. D. degree.

Accused Given Six Months For Theft

A Belleville man today was sentenced to six months for breaking, entering and theft at a city grocetria.

Larry Wood earlier pleaded guilty to the charge after police said they caught him in the act at Maple Leaf Groceteria on Victoria Ave. He also was given six months concurrent for attempted break-in of Buckley's food store, also on Victoria Ave.

"I have hoped that the sentence will give this young man some warning that he is going to be punished — if he defies the public and shows complete disdain for its rights," said Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Tree Planting Problems Were Discussed

Approximately 40 local conservation minded citizens attended last night's conservation meeting at the recreation hall at Corbyville.

Several members of the Moira River Conservation Authority were on hand as well as a number of local municipal representatives, but the majority of those attending were private citizens with an interest in the conservation of forests and other natural resources.

Tree planting problems in the Bay of Quinte district were discussed, while a movie on the Moira Valley and colored slides on the development of forestry projects within the Moira watershed were shown by field officers Malcolm Clubbs.

The conservation meeting was sponsored jointly by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and the Moira River Conservation Authority. Department Foresters, Ed. Edson of Napanee and Bill Hiscock of Tweed attended.

Makes Plea for Brother Accused of Two Break-ins

A former Bellevillе man, once sentenced to reformatory today pleaded for his 18-year-old brother charged with two break - ins before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The magistrate sentenced Joseph DeRushie to one month in jail and placed him on two years' probation under care of his brother.

The youth was charged with break - ins at Wellbanks and Christie Motors car lots on East Dundas Street. He was arrested after he severely cut himself smashing a window and taken to hospital for treatment.

The plea came from Bernard DeRushie, now married and living in Toronto, who said the magistrate some years ago had also sentenced him to reformatory.

"From his experience," he said, reformatory had little corrective possibilities "unless you had it in your mind to help yourself."

He asked that his brother be placed under his own supervision in Toronto.

Wills said that while I was still in Belleville, the same old friends, the same old faces, it was always the way we ended up," he told the magistrate.

"I am certainly much interested in what you say and give credit for it," commented Magistrate Wills. "I would consider giving it a try."

However, he added, "the public cannot accept these things and let them go by casually with a tap on the wrist."

After a 15-minute adjournment to consider the request, the magistrate imposed the month's sentence after which DeRushie will live under the control of his brother and report for two years to probation authorities.

Pupil Relates Quarrel With Driver of Bus

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Allan Brandt, 18, a Grade 10 student at Central Collegiate Institute here, said Monday he has been suspended from riding in the school bus from his home in Thorton, seven miles southwest of Barrie, to school.

He also told the Barrie District Collegiate Board that since being suspended and hit by the bus driver March 15, he has been hitchhiking to and from school.

Brandt said he and 13 other students were put off the bus about two miles from Thornton by bus driver Joseph Lennox, 49, of Thornton.

He said the other students were allowed to use the bus again in two or three days. Brandt said Lennox had struck him on the face, cutting it below the lip.

A collegiate board member said: "We understand there was chalk, paper and BB pellets thrown around."

Brandt's father, Daniel Brandt, told the board: "Allan was disciplined, humiliated, was punished and is still being punished. Lennox never found out who did the throwing."

Lennox did not attend the board meeting and later in an interview that he had submitted a report on the incident. He said pellets were thrown, throwing chalk and BB shot around the bus when he put them off. He said he never struck Brandt in the face as a disciplinary measure and was then assaulted and thrown to the ground.

470 Employees Leave Jobs At Bowmanville

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) Some 470 employees left at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company left their jobs here Monday, two months after a strike deadline set by their union officers.

Members of local 189 of the United Rubber Workers of America (CLC) said the strike, while earlier than forecast, is legal since all conciliation procedures have been exhausted. Another 1,200 workers at the company's plant in New Toronto, a suburb of Toronto, walked off the job early last week.

They seek unspecified wage increases and other benefits.

Israeli President Dies of Cancer In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — President Yitzhac Ben-Zvi died of cancer today, plunging Israel into national mourning. He was 78.

The Israeli state radio interrupted its broadcasts to announce Ben-Zvi's death and all scheduled programs were cancelled.

Ben-Zvi was chosen as Israel's second president in 1952, a month after President Chaim Weizmann's death. He was twice re-elected for the second time last December.

The tall, bespectacled scholar was famous for the wooden hut he lived in for more than 30 years in what later became one of Jerusalem's most fashionable suburbs.

SHOWS AUSTERITY

To Israelis, Ben-Zvi's wooden hut, denoted his austerity and modesty despite his climb to fame as a scholar and writer.

Born in the Ukraine, in 1884, he escaped the persecutions of the programs of 1905, when his family were exiled to Siberia by Czarist authorities on charges of socialist Zionism.

Ben-Zvi escaped and helped organize the Zionist movement in Palestine among the small Jewish community there before the birth of Israel.

He also helped create Hashomer, a forerunner of the Haganah, the underground citizen army which spearheaded the struggle for an independent Jewish state.

During the British rule in Palestine, Ben-Zvi was a founder of the General Federation of Jewish Labor, Histadrut.

Borneo Rebel Dies of Wounds

BRUNEI TOWN, Brunei (Reuters)—Sheikh Osman Bin Mahmud, the brother of the Brunei rebel leader, A. M. Azahari, died Monday in the hospital here.

He was wounded last Wednesday when he was captured following a gunfight at a rebel hideout near here.

A military spokesman in Brunei Town said Sheikh Osman Mahmud was to have been charged with murder after a British Army officer, Capt. Keith Bucknell, 30, was killed during the gunbattle.

Cost of Credit Buying Will Be Probed

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Roberts said here Monday he will appoint a select committee of the legislature before Friday to investigate the cost of credit buying in Ontario.

The premier made the announcement during debate of a bill, introduced by Opposition Leader John Wintermeyer, which called for the disclosure of the true cost of credit in all transactions.

Premier Roberts said the "major problem (of credit) gets down to the matter of money a) excessive rates of interest when a person doesn't know it."

The government stand on credit transactions was to try to "encompass the whole issue." Mr. Roberts said. To accomplish this he felt it necessary to appoint a select committee to deal with the whole problem."

The premier cited one case from his own experience as a lawyer where a client owed more money at the end of five years, although he kept up payments of both principal and interest, than he had when the mortgage was signed.

Regarding Mr. Wintermeyer's proposed legislation, the premier said: "I don't think anybody would be against the principle of the bill." However, he questioned if it "goes far enough."

Barbershoppers To Have M. C. From Wisconsin

Robert D. Johnson of Kenosha, Wisconsin is to act as master of ceremonies for the quartet finals and barbershop jamboree to be held at the B.C.I.V.S. auditorium this Saturday evening.

Mr Johnson was director of the Society's 1961 International chorus champion "The Chorus of the Chesapeake" from the Dundalk, Maryland Chapter, and in December 1961 left his post as chairman of the music department of Patterson High School, Baltimore to become the Director of Musical Activities for SPERSQSA. He is an accomplished master of ceremonies and his presence in that capacity Saturday evening is assurance of a smoothly moving and entertaining show.

Also with Mr. Johnson the following panel of judges will be present. P. McPhillips, Willamsville, N.Y.; E. Hubbard, Dzrien, Conn.; E. Pickard, Willoughby, Ohio; P. DePaolis, Rochester, N.Y.; B. Howe, Toronto, Ont.

These men are all highly trained and experienced experts certified by the International Society, and it will be their responsibility to determine the two top quartets that will represent the Ontario district at the International Finals in Toronto next July.

Two Given Prison Terms After Robbery

MADOC (Special) — A 38-year-old Belleville man was sentenced to eight years and a companion to five years yesterday for the Good Friday armed robbery of a district storekeeper.

Magistrate R. C. Jackson sent Thomas DeRubiolo of Belleville to Kingston penitentiary for eight years after he pleaded guilty to the shotgun robbery of Cooper store owner Albert Fox.

Wayne Brunn, 27, latterly of Peterborough, who also pleaded guilty was sentenced to five years for the robbery; one year consecutive for theft of a car in Toronto earlier in the year and six months concurrent on four charges of false pretences.

The robbery, described by police as having no fixed address, is a native of Belleville.

Both men were arrested in the bush near Bannockburn, north of here. Good Friday night after a police chase on Highway 62. An OPP cruiser from Madoc was enroute to Cooper, 10 miles north of this community, to investigate the robbery and beating of Mr. Fox when it passed an automobile answering the description of the getaway car. The officers gave chase and arrested the men minutes after they had abandoned their automobile and attempted to lose their pursuers in the roadside bush.

Mr. Fox was held up by two men wearing silk-stockings to disguise their features. A struggle ensued which ended with the storekeeper being tied up with baling wire.

Rotarians Told About Work of Court Reporter

TRENTON — Miss Ruth Nightingale, head of the Ontario Business College in Belleville, continued her busy round of speaking engagements in Trenton Rotary Club when she gave a highly entertaining and informative talk on aspects of the life and work of stenographer for local Rotarians.

She took a large turnout in good humor as she recounted several amusing anecdotes from a career which has also satisfied her "wanderlust" spirit by allowing her to travel extensively in Canada.

Miss Nightingale, who was born in England and came to Canada in 1947 and to Belleville in 1954, said many people believe falsely that an official court reporter is the same as a newspaper reporter. The difference, she stressed, is that a court reporter takes down the proceedings verbatim, in shorthand. She sometimes has to keep pace with a speaker whose talking rate is up to 370 words a minute.

The speaker said there is a great shortage of qualified court reporters, with 400 registered in Ontario. She tries to encourage her students to attain the profession but said she believes many young men are put off because they consider it a female effeminate. "But if you're earning some $11,000 per year, it doesn't seem to be a matter much if it does seem effeminate," she said, noting that the job is considered financially and professionalized society before they can use official examinations and join a recognized professional society before they can qualify.

Miss Nightingale was thanked by club president Clifford Baker.

Lions Offer $25,000 for School Pool

TRENTON — In a statement released to the press today, the Trenton Board of Education revealed that it is considering an offer of $25,000 from the Trenton Lions Club to go towards the cost of constructing a swimming pool at Trenton High School.

The offer was made at a short special meeting last night, just before the regular vocational advisory committee meeting.

While acknowledging the "very generous offer," the board's statement said all cost factors would have to be considered before a decision is reached.

Meanwhile, the board has until December 31st, 1964, to work out a plan or reject the offer.

Strange Theory

Mr. Justice C. D. Stewart made legal history the other day, when he ruled that a psychiatrist cannot be forced to disclose in court information given him confidentially by a client.

Amongst the more interesting reactions was that of Dr. Arthur Kelly, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association. He praised Mr. Justice Stewart for exercising "rare discretion." This approval was to have been expected from a leader of the medical profession. What may have surprised some was Dr. Kelly's relating this ruling to a situation dealing with insurance claims. Doctors, he said, are becoming increasingly concerned about daily violation of the confidential doctor-patient relationship in this field. Procedure in settling insurance claims requires the disclosure of diagnoses to insurance companies. These disclosures are made with the patients' permission, but doctors feel that patients, intent on short-term advantages, often overlook long-term drawbacks.

There is little similarity between the two situations here dealt with by Dr. Kelly. Talking about them in the same breath, so to speak, only makes evident if Dr. Kelly believes that it having been established that a doctor cannot be forced to disclose confidence his patient does not wish revealed, it should also be established that a doctor need not disclose to insurance companies facts which his patient wants revealed.

It is perhaps possible to defend a doctor's right to withhold pertinent information from a patient, on the grounds that such reticence makes the treatment of the patient easier. But surely this claim to be the sole judge of what is best for the patient's health cannot be extended into the field of being the final court of appeal as to what is best for the patient economically. In no other field does the law protect a man from the penalties of his own folly. Why should it do so in the field of disclosure of facts to insurance companies?

None of these arguments, of course, apply as criticism of Mr. Justice Stewart's decision where the patient does not wish his psychiatrist or doctor to reveal the facts, the circumstances are entirely different. If Mr. Justice Stewart's decision is criticized, it can only be on wholly different grounds.

That Nuclear Club!

President de Gaulle says that the survival of France in the nuclear age requires a purely French national atomic force.

If the survival of France requires a purely French atomic force, then it follows that the survival of Sweden requires a purely Swedish atomic force. By the same token Italy a purely Italian atomic force, the survival of Paraguay a purely Paraguayan atomic force and so on—and on—and on.

If every nation has its own national atomic force, the survival of the world would require a purely miraculous miracle.

If the world is destroyed, those purely French forces, Italian and Paraguay atomic forces are not going to be able to protect France, Sweden, Italy and Paraguay.

Thus the possession of purely national atomic forces would be useless without a miracle. So, why not place one's faith in a miracle without the purely national atomic forces?

This might be no more effective—but at least it would be cheaper.

"It has often been said that the ancient Egyptians were obsessed by death. I do not think this is true; on the contrary, I think that they were obsessed by life. The tomb-chapels of every period abound in scenes of teeming life in the markets, of the busy life of herdsmen and huntsman, of the pleasant life of the tomb owner himself . . . It is this optimism, this enjoyment of life, that makes the ancient Egyptians so attractive. The more one gets to know them, the better one likes them—for their tolerance, their gaiety, their sense of humour; for their love of beauty and symmetry, their delight in flowers and sweet smells, in bright colors and music and dancing."—Margaret Drower, senior lecturer in Ancient History at University College, London University.

"In spite of the poor material at their disposal—clay bricks—the Babylonians developed a remarkable architecture. Their most outstanding contribution was certainly the ziggurats, or temple towers, which dotted the land. The authors of Genesis mistook these for the symbol of man's foolish and sinful pride—hence the Tower of Babel. Actually, they were a sublime and desperate effort of Babylonian man to reach as high as possible, in search of his god."—Edmond Sollberger, assistant keeper of Western Asiatic Antiquities at the British Museum.

Pearson Had His Pick Of Old Pros for Cabinet

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — In recruiting his new Cabinet, Prime Minister Pearson has had a unique problem.

It is that of simply having too much talent on tap.

Six years ago, Prime Minister Diefenbaker had the same problem of talent — but in reverse.

Dief just didn't have the men, except for an exceptional and distinguished few, with either the necessary know-how or the quick talent to learn, at a dance or even in a few weeks, all the vastly complicated ins and outs of the immense Federal Government operation, a $7-billion-a-year enterprise.

Running a Federal Government department is no job for well-meaning amateurs, but a demanding and exacting task that can be learned only by dint of large expenditures of mental sweat.

By 1957, when the Conservatives, to the surprise of almost everybody, including especially themselves — took power, they had been in the wilderness of Opposition for 22 years.

There was not a man among, save only Earl Rowe, a shortlime veteran of the Conservative Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's Cabinet, who had any actual working experience in the intricate skills of Government.

IT WAS COOL:

So, like babes in the Liberal woods, the Conservatives took over. Its Ministers moving into the Departments where almost all of the Civil Service staff had been recruited during those 22 Liberal years.

Now, six years later, there are any number of surviving Conservative Ministers and Ministers among them, who will tell you that they got less than 100 percent co-operation from a patient, on the grounds that such reticence makes the treatment of the patient easier. But surely this claim to be the sole judge of what is best for the patient's health cannot be extended into the field of being the final court of appeal as to what is best for the patient economically. In no other field does the law protect a man from the penalties of his own folly. Why should it do so in the field of disclosure of facts to insurance companies?

None of these arguments, of course, apply as criticism of Mr. Justice Stewart's decision where the patient does not wish his psychiatrist or doctor to reveal the facts, the circumstances are entirely different. If Mr. Justice Stewart's decision is criticized, it can only be on wholly different grounds.

That Nuclear Club!

President de Gaulle says that the survival of France in the nuclear age requires a purely French national atomic force.

If the survival of France requires a purely French atomic force, then it follows that the survival of Sweden requires a purely Swedish atomic force. By the same token Italy a purely Italian atomic force, the survival of Paraguay a purely Paraguayan atomic force and so on—and on—and on.

If every nation has its own national atomic force, the survival of the world would require a purely miraculous miracle.

If the world is destroyed, those purely French forces, Italian and Paraguay atomic forces are not going to be able to protect France, Sweden, Italy and Paraguay.

Thus the possession of purely national atomic forces would be useless without a miracle. So, why not place one's faith in a miracle without the purely national atomic forces?

This might be no more effective—but at least it would be cheaper.

"It has often been said that the ancient Egyptians were obsessed by death. I do not think this is true; on the contrary, I think that they were obsessed by life. The tomb-chapels of every period abound in scenes of teeming life in the markets, of the busy life of herdsmen and huntsman, of the pleasant life of the tomb owner himself . . . It is this optimism, this enjoyment of life, that makes the ancient Egyptians so attractive. The more one gets to know them, the better one likes them—for their tolerance, their gaiety, their sense of humour; for their love of beauty and symmetry, their delight in flowers and sweet smells, in bright colors and music and dancing."—Margaret Drower, senior lecturer in Ancient History at University College, London University.

"In spite of the poor material at their disposal—clay bricks—the Babylonians developed a remarkable architecture. Their most outstanding contribution was certainly the ziggurats, or temple towers, which dotted the land. The authors of Genesis mistook these for the symbol of man's foolish and sinful pride—hence the Tower of Babel. Actually, they were a sublime and desperate effort of Babylonian man to reach as high as possible, in search of his god."—Edmond Sollberger, assistant keeper of Western Asiatic Antiquities at the British Museum.

What Has Happened to Nursing?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As expected, and predicted, the loud cries of protest are rolling in from the nursing profession about my recent piece on the changing (and diminishing) role of nurses in modern hospital procedures.

Many of these protests, however, are simply "official" nurses — that is, officers and administrators in nursing associations who have a vested interest in defending such practices. More typical of the working nurse's reaction is an interesting letter I received today:

"I am a registered nurse in one of Chicago's largest teaching and research hospitals and I spend my days making assignments for personnel, answering the telephone, checking doctors' orders, filling out requisitions, pushing pills, checking diet cards, making out reports, and take care of financial affairs and repairs.

"If most of these duties are nursing, then nursing certainly has changed. A great length of time has not elapsed since my student days and I assure you I did my share of complaining but not to the expected of me, but at least I was doing nursing. Why do I continue with these duties? Believe me, the question plagues me more every day."

In the same mail there arrived a letter from the president of one of the most respected colleges in the middlewest, who said in part:

"I fully concur in your observation that hospitals are organized and operated on schedules established to suit the convenience of the nurses and the doctors, rather than to serve the needs of patients. It requires great effort on my part to resist quoting chapter and verse by way of substantiation."

Then he goes on to say: "As for the medical aspects of nursing, I can report that our college, no longer participates in a program of training nurses. One of the major factors in our decision to abandon this program is the fact that in fact that in actual practice, nurses do not have an opportunity to utilize their classroom education which is forced upon them by nursing associations, physicians and others."

What he is saying, in his tactful academic prose, is that the college would provide the nurses with a comprehensive training, and then find that they were doing mostly detail and administrative work that has little, if anything, to connect with the patients' medical welfare — which is left mostly to the over-worked and underpaid nurses' aides.

If an eminent college dean is in a position to take a hard and candid look at the way they handle patients, or mishandle them.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 23rd, 1943.

The Greek War Relief Fund exchequer was swelled with the amount of over $700, the proceeds of the stage production, "The Man Who Came to Dinner" presented by the Belleville Little Theatre under the direction of Miss Joanne Marsakas at the Collegiate Institute.

Completing seventy-five consecutive weeks of the shipments of cigarettes to Belleville boys serving overseas, the Kinsmen "Fag Fund" continues to function and send weekly shipments of 200 fags to fifty Belleville boys in the armed services.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie McDougall and son Billy, of Canning Place, spent Sunday with their aunt, Mrs. W. L. Vandervoort of College street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reddick and Miss Helen Reddick have returned home after spending the past week in London, Ont.

Mrs. Cliff Clark of Edmonton, Alta., is spending a month in the city with her sisters, Mrs. Jack Clark and Mrs. Ernest Martin.

30 YEARS AGO

April 23rd, 1933.

Mrs. M. Vanwhart of Redernville, celebrated the 87th anniversary of her birth on April 14th, and a very pleasant afternoon was spent at her home by neighbors and nearby friends who called to extend congratulations and express good wishes. Many remembrances were served by her daughter, Mrs. M. Crosby.

Mrs. Murray Denike and three children have left for their home in Chicago, Ill., after visiting Mrs. Denike's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Edmonson, Bridge Street East.

Dr. George Stobie and Mrs. Stobie are spending a few days in Toronto. While there they will also visit clinics and hospitals in Baltimore, Washington and New York City.

Mrs. A. VanAlian will leave shortly to visit her son at Lansdan, Sask.

Mrs. W. S. Embury has returned to her home at Thomasburg after spending the past three months in Belleville.

Mrs. Ernest Coe of Cobourg was renewing acquaintances in town today.

Mrs. Percy Holmes entertained the members of her Sunday School class at her home in the fourth concession of Sidney township and a very enjoyable time was spent. The president of the class for this year are: president, Miss Luella Holmes; vice-president, Miss Dorothy Holmes; secretary, Miss Reta Woods.

40 YEARS AGO

April 23rd, 1923.

Years ago a ferry boat used to run from the foot of South Front Street to the Bay Shore Inward side of the bay and it carried many passengers with their horses and vehicles. There is an interesting item about the ferry which appeared in our issue about this time in 1873 — it has been discovered that the ferry slip just completed on the other side of the bay is too narrow to accommodate the boat. When the ferry "Prince Edward" from this side reached the new slip yesterday, it could not land the passengers and vehicles which were on board and several passengers and vehicles were waiting on the Prince Edward side to come to Belleville. Who is to blame for this blunder? The error means loss of business to this town."

Here is another interesting item from our issue at this time in 1873 — "A boy of fourteen years was charged by the local police court with deserting the employment to which he was appreciated. He pleaded ill-usage as an excuse for his conduct. He was given time to consider if he would go to goal or return to his employment."

To Your Good Health

Rest and Elevation Good Treatment for Milk Leg

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 76 years old and have milk leg. At first it was swollen from ankle to hip. Rest and elevation were the only treatment.

Will exercise help or hinder, the condition? The leg is still swollen from ankle to knee after a month of rest.

Mrs. M.B.

Milk leg, which can occur any time from medium to advanced age, is technically known as phlebitis.

In plain language, this means that a vein of the leg, and occasionally more than one, has become inflamed, causing swelling of the vein tissues. The swelling reduces circulation. Reduced circulation makes the surrounding tissues swell, too, because fluids which reach them are not as quickly carried away as they should be.

What causes milk leg? An injury, perhaps. A clot. The accumulation of some sort of inflammation in a vein. Or continued irritation somewhere along the route of the vein. Varicose veins often fall victim to this trouble, and that is one of the very main reasons for correcting them.

Rest is important. So is elevation of the leg because this helps the flow of blood through the inflamed, constricted vein. Pushing blood back toward the heart from the toes is, because of the force of gravity, much more difficult than forcing it back from any other part of the body. The feet are lowest. That's why we rarely see a "milk arm," but often a "milk leg."

Massage, rubbing and exercise (at that stage of the ailment) can add to the inflammation and make the situation worse, just as you wouldn't expect to cure an infected finger by massaging it or exercising it. The inflammation must first subside.

At the proper time, elastic bandages help, but you have to wait until they give support to a vein that is regaining healthy vigor. You can't just "squeeze the swelling down." All you would do at that point would be to hinder the healing process.

More specific treatments are sometimes good, but they depend on the exact situation. Antibiotics are best if the major problem is a germ-caused inflammation.

Anti-inflammatory drugs, as phenylbutazone, can be helpful, and so can some of the newer enzyme preparations which can be taken by mouth.

In today's case the swelling, which at first extended to the hip, is now down to the knee. This indicates that the simple but boring treatment of "rest and elevation" is doing some good. There is no quick, dramatic way to correct milk leg, but patience, good judgment and time can work wonders.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you consider it risky for a woman of 68 to have a gall bladder operation?

Mrs. S.I.

No, I don't. Nor for patients many years older. When such surgery is necessary, avoidance of it can be risky.

R.W.R.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss the effects of coffee, decaffeinized coffee, artificial coffee and the concentrated water as to their effect on the kidneys.

Caffein, whether in coffee or other drinks, is a diuretic or kidney stimulant and therefore excessive coffee can cause frequency of urination. De-caffeinized coffee and concentrated beverages have no more specific action than the same amount of water. Artificial sweeteners? No effect.

Don't Quit Because of Arthritis" is the title of my leaflet designed to help all who suffer the aches and pains of arthritis. ## Trade Should Flow West

Brantford Expositor

The oft-quoted but usually wrongly attributed advice, "Go west, young man," (J. R. L. Sullivan said it first, not Horace Greeley) applies to Canadian exporters.

They already have markets westward across the Pacific in Asia, and more are there to be opened, particularly in India, Pakistan, Malaya and the Philippines. All these are big importers of both primary and manufactured products. The Department of Trade and Commerce in Ottawa notes that most Asian nations are developing new industries and are thus becoming purchasers of capital goods of the kind we can supply.

Entry, however, is not wide open. Contact between Canadian importers and prospective buyers in Asia and some other countries need to be improved. Also there is often the problem of relatively low purchasing power and governmental control of imports. Then some countries finance their imports through foreign aid programs which often require that purchases be made in the donor countries. Still these obstacles are not insuperable.

Canada's exports to central and eastern Asia in 1961 ran to $472.4 million. While this is not a spectacular figure, it represents an increase of more than 60 per cent over that for 1960. The largest increases were accounted for by shipments of wheat to mainland China ($116 million) and Japan (up nearly $34 million).

Japan is one of Canada's best customers, taking large volumes of foodstuffs and raw materials (notably ores). Now considered when Japanese manufacturers seek markets in Canada, since trade is not a one-way street.

But his is a situation that cannot be allowed to ride. Canadian exports to Asia did not show, in the first 11 months of 1962, an increase comparable to that shown in 1961. The need for continuing effort to find further means of access to India, Pakistan, Malaya, et al is both evident and pressing.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—A slight undertone appeared in all sections amid light morning trading on the stock market today.

General declines in the banks, refining oils and pipe lines groups paced industrials in a drop of nearly one point on index.

Bank of Nova Scotia showed one of the chief losses, dropping 75, with Montreal and Royal each off ¼ and Toronto-Dominion ¼.

Interprovincial Pipe Line led that group with a drop of ¾, and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines and Trans-Mountain each eased ¼. Shell Oil lost ¼ and Imperial Oil ¼ among refining issues.

Other weak issues featured Consumers' Gas down ½, Dominion Foundries and Steel and Aluminium each ¼, Steel Company of Canada ¼ and BC Telephone ¼.

Base metals were mixed with International Nickel up ⅛, Falconbridge ahead ⅛ and Geco up ⅛. Noranda dropped ¼ and Denison and Hudson Bay each slipped ⅛.

Little activity was seen among senior western oils, the section easing slightly with Home A dropping ¼.

On index, industrials dropped .87 to 635.81, golds .20 to 67.97, base metals .01 to 213.22 and western oils .29 to 123.84. The 11 a.m. volume was 941,000 shares compared with 900,000 at the same time Monday.

The industrial index continued to climb into record ground during moderate trading Monday.

The industrial index hit another new high of 637.36 at 1 p.m. but a number of gains were clipped near the close. The final index showed industrials up 2.63 at 636.68 and all other sections slightly lower.

Motors and Steels were among the stronger main list groups with most others showing an upward trend.

Chrysler and Ford of Canada each advanced a point to 39 and 186 respectively, with General Motors rising ½ to a new top of 74⅛, Algoma Steel gaining ¼ to a new high of 53 and Steel Company of Canada ahead ⅛.

PAPERS STRONGER

In stronger papers and utilities, Abitibi gained ¾, Great Lakes Power ¼, Price Brothers ¼ and Calgary Power ¼.

Canadian General Electric had one of the session's largest losses as it dropped 2¾, with Canada Steamship Lines down ½ and Industrial Acceptance ¼.

On index, golds fell .31 to 68.17, base metals .35 to 213.23 and Western oils .29 to 124.13. Final volume was 3,282,000 shares compared with 3,089,000 Friday.

International Nickel dropped a point to 67¼, Noranda slipped ¼ and Geco ⅛ in a lower base metals market.

Western oils were quiet with Dome gaining ¼ and Hudson's Bay Oil dropping ¼.

Stewart said.

The minister told the House that "increasing amounts of fish oil and edible tallow or lard are being used, in order that a cheap (margarine) product may be placed on the market."

ENTITLED TO KNOW

He said he was not "suggesting that fish oil or tallow are not perfectly edible products," but if they were to be making margarine "then the consumer is entitled to know by the labelling on the package the type of oil which he or she is buying."

While "it has been claimed that the oleomargarine industry is of benefit to the Ontario economy because it used domestic oils," Mr. Stewart said, "I am informed that a large proportion of this cheap fish oil ... is imported from the United States."

The minister said the margarine legislation recognized that margarine "is a food product which many consumers wish to buy."

At the same time "the traditional yellow color range which has been used for butter, going back to the very beginning of the usage of butter, is being preserved and rightly so, for this most important and essential industry in the provincial economy."

The amendments on coloring of margarine would bring Ontario law into line with Manitoba and Nova Scotia — both of which have a 10.5 or above range for margarine, an agriculture department official said.

At least two provinces—British Columbia and Newfoundland—have no restrictions on what color margarine may be sold, while Quebec has legislation similar to that existing in Ontario prior to the present proposed amendments.

Another amendment to the Milk Industry Act provides for clarification of the definition of fluid milk for the purposes of price negotiations between producers and distributors.

At the press conference, Mr. Stewart said negotiations of the basic price would no longer be influenced by the breed of cattle producing the milk. Price differences for some dairy breeds would be negotiated on the basis of the butterfat content of milk.

Theft Charge Case Adjourned For One Month

The preliminary hearing into a charge of theft from his employers against Belleville office manager Donald G. Dillon was adjourned one month yesterday.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills granted the adjournment after Dillon's defence lawyer, Ronald Cass, said he wanted his own audit of Avon Jewellery Limited financial records.

Mr. Dillon is charged with theft of $5,300 from the company where he was employed as manager and bookkeeper.

The hearing adjourned after an hour's testimony yesterday afternoon from auditor John Canning, of the George E. Welch Company.

Mr. Canning said he first discussed apparent discrepancies in company books with Mr. Dillon early last November.

"And the matter was already at a fairly advanced stage then was it not?" asked Mr. Cass.

"Yes sir," replied the auditor, adding at that time items not accounted for totalled $6,700.

Special prosecutor R. P. Mill, Q.C., said the crown had no objection to Mr. Cass having the company books examined by his own auditor.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills adjourned the preliminary until May 23. At that time he is expected to hand down a decision whether Dillon may stand trial or not.

Summer Supervisors Chosen For Playground Programs

It will soon be playground time again and already the Belleville Recreation and Arena Committee have decided on the staff to be playground supervisors during the summer holiday months.

Approximately 70 applications were received for the 25 positions open. Competition was high and qualifications such as age, scholastic standing and previous experience with children, played a major role in the selection of the year's summer playground staff.

This season the committee is hiring twenty-two girls and three boys to staff its twenty-one playground areas. Although East and West Hill Playgrounds usually have a staff of two to three supervisors each, generally each playground has but one regular supervisor.

Belleville's playgrounds will be staffed by the following personnel this summer—seven of whom have returned from positions as Playground Supervisors last year.

Linda Brasford, Doreen Flunder, J. Louise Woods, Barbara Jennings, Marion Ketchenon, Margaret Ann VanAistine, Toni Porter, Jennifer Bussey, Janet Elizabeth Miller, Heather Durno, Trudi Haig, Barbara Jones, Linda Kells, Trix Bylsma, Mary Nesa, Elaine Ward, Deidra Doran, Carol Peacock, Jane Graham, Dianne Chapman, Janette Wilson, John Bernard Archer, James Hurst Peter George Carver.

Playground supervisors from Eastern Ontario will attend a special Playground Training Course from June 23 to 28 inclusive at Camp Quin-Mo-Lac and on returning from this course, will have three days' rest before beginning their summer employment on their respective playgrounds on Tuesday, July 2nd, at 9.00 a.m.

the lowest priced Canadian-built car

drive miles and years at the lowest cost

The Rambler American Six is the lowest priced Canadian-built car, with features you won't find even on higher priced cars. That's where its real value lies. Because these features keep your operating costs down to an absolute minimum.

There's Deep-Dip rustproofing for example. This process makes the Rambler American the world's most completely rustproofed car. Then there are the three guarantees. The Ceramic-Armoured muffler and tail-pipe are guaranteed for as long as you own the car. And the battery and coolant are unconditionally guaranteed for two years or 24,000 miles.

Another major feature is simply the way the car is built. With Rambler pioneered Single-Unit construction, the car is stronger, lasts longer. There's our policy, too, of designing every component in a way that will give "maximum usefulness to the user." That's the main reason why the 1963 Rambler was chosen winner of the coveted Motor Trend Magazine "Car of the Year" award.

So when we stress our low price, we're giving you full value for your dollars. Roll on the miles and years with a Rambler American Six. When you start to ruh out of numbers on the odometer, you'll still have happy memories of the low price you paid. See your Dealer today and run up a few test miles on a Rambler American Six.

Easy Shoes

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Nice for casual wear is this tri-color flattie that has brown striping and heel section and vamp in orange and yellow homespun-type fabric.

For beach or country wear there's a shoe of glove leather in white or yellow with brown stitching and side gusset. The criss-crossed strapped sandal is completely bare in front. It is in white with a red leather back.

A fine group of shoes for easy, comfortable wear.

H–S Assoc. Views Film On Cancer

FRANKFORD — Frankford Public School Home and School Association April meeting was held recently with president, Mr. William Dawe in charge.

Business was conducted, and grade 1 room was the banner winner. A past presidents's pin was presented to Mr. T. E. Jordison, by secretary Mrs. J. R. Vansey, for his fine job of presiding at the Association meetings.

The prize winners of the public school speaking contest were present. The junior winner was Raelene Rowe; and the senior winner, Margart Salar. Each winner was given a trophy.

Mr. H. Vosbourgh, chairman of Frankford Public School Board presented the junior trophy and Mr. Wm. Dawe, president of the Home and School Association presented the senior trophy.

FILM SHOWN

The special speaker for the evening was Mr. Ross Green, a representative of the Cancer Society of Trenton who showed an enlightening film, "To Smoke or Not To Smoke." Comments were given by Mrs. Green.

Mr. H. Sadler expressed thanks to the guest speaker.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed.

Ann Landers

Teenage Mother Paying High Price for Indiscretions

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I am 17 and already my life is messed up. Ted and I went steady for six months and we began to do things we had no right to do. I became pregnant.

We both quit school and got married right away. My folks thought it would be best if we moved out of town, so we did.

I hate my life and what I have done to Ted. The baby cries all the time and gets on Ted's nerves. He drinks too much and I can't blame him. We live in a dump and Ted has no money for clothes or decent clothes. Ted never says anything but I know he must hate me because I got him into this. I'm afraid he hates the baby, too. He never holds her or pays attention to her.

There are times when I think this is all a bad dream and I'll wake up at home in my own bed, and get dressed and go to school with the kids I liked so much. I know too well that those days are over for me and I am stuck.

I'm not writing for advice. It's too late for that. I'm just writing in hopes you will print this letter, for the benefit of other teenagers who think they know it all—like I did.—WRECKED AT 17.

DEAR WRECKED AT 17—I hope your letter shakes up the teenagers who are behaving as you and Ted did during your dating days. The only difference between them and you is they have been luckier. So Jar.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—My wife and I have a lot of company. Friends and relatives seem to be here all the time. Every time a certain man leaves we have an argument. Maybe you can settle it.

What, if anything, should be said to a guest who sits in a chair balancing himself on the two back legs as he leans against the wall?

I'd like to tell him to stop because it makes me nervous. My wife says you can't tell an adult how to sit in a chair. I disagree with her. Whose side are you on?—PUZZLED JOE.

DEAR JOE—I'm on your side. When adults behave like kids they should be treated like kids.

If the guest should break his neck in your home you could be sued. A simple sentence would do it. Sample: "Please don't sit like that. You make me nervous."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

For Honest To Goodness Reducers

(No. 4)

A determined reducer who is 65 asked me what proteins he could eat for breakfast. His doctor said an egg every morning might increase his cholestrol level. I suggested a broiled, waffled minute steak on a slice of 100% whole wheat toast unbuttered but sparingly spread with Worcestershire sauce. I love this dish and he tried it and now he does too. He is a hard-working dentist and needs a breakfast with staying power. I also suggested the following fish dish (an individual serving baked in an individual pottery baking dish). He was grateful for both of the suggestions for satisfying protein dishes. They are comparatively low on calories and quite acceptable breakfast dishes to some folks —especially those with a British ancestry. Eleanor's brother-in-law loves kippers for breakfast. He is from Devon.

DIETING HINT:

Major on proteins in diet (meat, fish and eggs). Take small portions of carbohydrate foods such as potatoes, rice, noodles, whole wheat bread all without butter.

TUESDAY (Guests) Dinner Menu

Chicken Livers Alfredia (see Monday) (on Green Noodles); Asparagus; Celery Hearts and Radish Roses; Chocolate Roll; Coffee.

REDUCERS' DINNER MENU:

Fish Fillets Baked in Milk
Herbed Shoestring Beets
Sliced Cucumbers and Tomatoes on Shredded Leaf Lettuce with Reducers' Salad Dressing
Applesauce Whip

FISH FILLETS BAKED IN MILK (serves 4):

One and one-half lbs. fish fillets, salt, pepper and skim milk. Sprinkle fillets with salt and pepper, place in baking dish which may be carried to table and add enough milk to cover (about 1 cup). Bake, uncovered at 375 deg. Fahr. for 25 to 30 minutes, basting once with milk. Garnish with parsley and lemon wedges.

HERBED SHOESTRING BEETS:

Drain one 20-oz. can shoestring beets. Turn into saucepan. Add 1 tablespoon each vinegar and lemon juice, 1 sugar tablet (or 2), a pinch each of thyme, basil and rosemary (or any one of these) and ¼ teaspoon salt. Heat through, watching carefully and serve.

NOTE:

Using sliced beets this way is good when served cold.

APPLESAUCE WHIP (3 servings only):

Two envelopes lime or lemon Dietrix low-calorie jelly powder, 1 cup water, 3-3 to ¾ cup smooth unsweetened applesauce. Soak low-calorie jelly powder in water 5 minutes. Dissolve by stirring over hot water. Chill until cold and beginning to congeal. Place bowl in larger one containing ice water and beat until fluffy and thick like whipped cream with rotary or electric beater. Fold in applesauce. Pour into 2 large sherbet glasses.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My husband is a salesman. When our son was born recently, a number of his clients sent presents to the baby although the packages were addressed to us. Should thank-you notes be addressed to these men at their business offices, or should they be sent to their homes? I feel that I should write the notes, rather than my husband, although I have not met most of the donors. Would this be correct? — Mrs. I. B., Trenton, N.J.

Answer: Although you may not have met the donors, personally, you still should write the thank-you notes. If a man's business card was enclosed, the note may be sent to his office. However, if the card was from a husband and wife, the note should be addressed to the wife and sent to their home address.

Question: My husband and I have just finished decorating our new home and are planning a large housewarming. I thought this would be a good opportunity to meet some of our neighbors and am considering inviting several couples who live nearby. I have only a nodding acquaintance with them and have never been actually introduced. Would it be correct to invite them anyway? —Mrs. N.W., Tarrytown, N.Y.

Answer: If you've never actually met your new neighbors, then it would be better to hold off inviting them to your home until you get to know them. Neighbors often are invited to housewarmings, but the host and hostess usually know them fairly well or, at least, have met them informally and they are not total strangers.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

By pegg rogers

FORECASTING AUTUMN IN APRIL

At a meeting held recently in New York, a great many important decisions were made by a fashion-minded, style-conscious people. These were experts in forecasting feminine fashions. Their decisions will affect every fashion consumer where choices are made about wardrobes for fall, 1963.

You may think that April is no time to be thinking of fall fashions, but the fashion planners (the designers, the co-ordinators and the fashion artists) are hard at work, now, arriving at theme stories for window displays for fashion shows and for advertising campaigns. The manufacturers of fashion are involved in fabric purchases, in choices regarding colors, styles and new items. Time and money are being spent in order to give us the kind of fashions we will want next September and October.

The arrival of tweeds in coats and suits is perhaps the most important news of the coming season. First of all, the tweeds themselves are wonderful. Colors are shocking - fabrics, lovely woven in bold checks of two and three colors. Because these fashion items are of wool or mohair have such a casual air about them, they will influence the whole fashion picture affecting allied industries, such as the shoe industry. High heels and "pointy" toes worn with tweeds of this type, would look out of place. Therefore, the trend to round and oval toes, with low heels, will be much more pronounced.

These tweeds look best with small, high-crowned fedoras, or curl-brimmed, bowler hats made of the same fabric. The enterprising custom milliners will have a good season with made-to-order chapeaux of matching tweeds. We hope some quick-thinking wholesaler of ready-made millinery will offer this service to the specialty and departmental stores. The office help in the coat departments can look forward to a nerve-wracking season of special orders for enough matching tweed to be made into hats — if the idea clicks!

The casual look will carry over into the sportswear field where capes will be it. Dramatic, poncho-type wrap-arounds are made in all sorts of heavy fabrics from tapestries to Spanish rugs of smudged, subdued colors. Many of these capes will be seen in the latest color for fall — a deep, brownish red — not purple, not egg plant, and certainly not magenta. So far, no name has been decided for this strange new color, all suggestions so far, being difficult to pronounce and quite meaning less.

In the meantime, let's enjoy the April showers, with its colder temperatures, to know business it is to worry about what we will be wearing then.

Colonists, Pioneer Girls Get Badges

A most enjoyable evening was spent, recently, by the Colonist Division of the Pioneer Girls of the Alliance Church, their mothers and their pals when they met in the lower auditorium of the church to enjoy a delicious turkey dinner and then to participate in the annual reassignment service.

The tables were attractively decorated with white cloths and daffodil centrepieces. Mrs. K. Dixon gave the invocation, for the meal which was served by the girls of the Alliance Youth Fellowship. The kitchen was convened by Mrs. C. Acker. man and Mrs. F. Allan.

Following the dinner, Mrs. W. Rodberg expressed appreciation to the Colonist guides, on behalf of the mothers and pals present.

MEMBERSHIP PINS, BADGES

Mrs. H. Sheldon introduced the items on the program. The girls around the mock campfire, were led in singing by Mrs. G. Fenton. This was followed by a membership service and then receiving membership pins were: Judy Turner, Rhea Green and Dale Hogue. Badges were also awarded to Musical Arts badges were awarded to Becky Rodberg, Doreen Callaghan, Cheryl Walls, Lana Vanneckmaker and Marie Vesterfelt.

"All Canadian" badges were awarded to Lana Vanneckmaker, and Dale Hogue and the needlecraft badge was awarded to Marie Vesterfelt. Pathfinder Rank pins were also awarded to the girls earning these badges.

Guides of the year's investigation their badges and ranks were: Miss D. Atyeo, Mrs. H. Sheldon, Mrs. J. Large and Mrs. C. Fenton.

HANDWORK DISPLAYED

First Aid boxes and small articles of handiwork had been made by the girls of this group for the mothers-to-be and these articles were on display. A baby quilt made by the girls was also presented by them to Mrs. L. Vader.

The presentations were followed by an interesting puppet story given by Mrs. J. McKay bringing out very clearly the truth of the Resurrection story.

Mrs. Sackville Palmer expressed appreciation to Miss D Atyeo who had led the Colonist Division of Pioneer Girls for the past eight years. She presented her with a gift, on behalf of the Pioneer Girls' Committee A presentation was also made to Mrs. William Rodberg who leads the Pilgrim Division of Pioneer Girls.

Mrs. Russel Perkins, of Kingston, closed the evening with prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Reid, Halloway, Wed 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan L. Reid of R. R. 2, Halloway, were "at home" Monday afternoon and evening to friends and relatives as they observed their diamond wedding anniversary on the Sidney Township farm where they have spent their entire married life.

The couple was married April 22 at the then Methodist Church parsonage in Ameliasburg. Mrs. Reid is the former Frances Stewart.

Both 83, Mr. and Mrs. Reid still enjoy fairly good health although Mrs. Reid's hearing and eyesight are beginning to fail. Mr. Reid "feels better now" after recovering from an illness a year ago.

Dozens of congratulatory cards and messages, among them greetings from Hon. John Diefenbaker and Ontario provincial secretary John Yarmish, were received by the couple. Many anniversary gifts were also received from family members and friends.

The couple have two children, a daughter, Mrs. Clayton Reid, of Halloway, and a son, Arthur Reid of Belleville.

A grandson, Ted Reid, operates the family farm south of Halloway.

IMITATES WELL

The mockingbird not only has its own beautiful voice but is a great imitator and was known as "the bird of 400 tongues" by the Indians.

Precedent Followed By New Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—A precedent set by former prime minister Diefenbaker when he appointed a woman to his cabinet was continued Monday by Prime Minister Pearson.

Judy La Marsh, 38-year-old lawyer from Niagara Falls, was named minister of health and welfare.

First woman ever appointed to a federal cabinet in Canada was Mrs. Ellen Fairclough who became secretary of state when Mr. Diefenbaker formed his first government in 1957. Later she moved to the portfolios of immigration and postmaster-general.

The 38-year-old Hamilton accountant was one of the Conservative ministers defeated in the April 8 federal election.

Miss La Marsh was one of four women elected to the 26th Parliament in this month's vote. Three of the four are Liberals — Miss La Marsh, re-elected in Niagara Falls; Mrs. Margaret Konantz, a widow in her late 60s elected for the first time in Winnipeg South, and Miss Pauline Jewett, 40, another first-timer, now in the Ontario riding of Northumberland.

ONLY TORY

Only woman MP on the Conservative benches will be Mrs. Jean Casselman, 42, who has been a Dundas resident since she succeeded her late husband as MP for that Eastern Ontario seat in 1958.

Miss La Marsh was the Liberal critic on immigration department matters during Mrs. Fairclough's term in that portfolio, leading to the first Commons debates between two women.

A native of Chatham, Ont., the new health minister attended the University of Toronto and graduated from the Osgoode Hall Law School.

She was first elected in a 1960 by-election and retained the seat in the two general elections since then.

Quinte Branch W. I. Installs 63-64 Officers

The April 9 Institute meeting was held at the Quinte Memorial Hall with 20 members and three visitors present.

The treasurer's report showed a good balance for this year from the bake sale, bazaar, donations and rent for the hall.

Mrs. C. Holmes conducted the installation of officers for 1963-64 as follows:

Past president, Mrs. J. Parrott; president, Mrs. C. Woods; first vice-president, Mrs. A. Cook; second vice-president (to be named); secretary-treasurer, Mrs. N. Gerow; public relations, Mrs. H. Grills; pianist, Mrs. M. Mitchell; assistant, Mrs. V. Summerfield; district director, Mrs. J. Parrott; alternate, Mrs. R. Atkins; press reporter, Mrs. H. Grills; curator, Mrs. D. Atkins; auditors, Mrs. A. Mitchell and Mrs. A. Greatrix; board of directors, Mrs. C. Wood, Mrs. A. Cook, Mrs. R. Atkins, Mrs. C. Reid, Mrs. F. Bedell, Mrs. N. Gerow and Mrs. J. Parrott; flower committee, Mrs. D. Leeming, Mrs. E. Vivian, Mrs. F. Doxtator, Mrs. F. Bedell and Mrs. C. Reid; property committee, Mrs. J. Parrott, Mrs. K. Vivian, Mrs. C. Reid, Mrs. E. Sandercock, Mrs. R. Atkins and Mrs. N. Gerow.

Standing committees: Agriculture, Mrs. A. Cook and Mrs. S. Fitzgerald; Canadian industries, Mrs. D. Atkins and Mrs. Insley; historical research and current events, Mrs. F. Bedell and Mrs. L. Sharpe; home economics, Mrs. F. Mitchell and Mrs. A. Greatrix; health, Mrs. Wilbur Mrs. W. Tufts and Mrs. Bell; citizenship, Mrs. R. Atkins; education, Mrs. E. Sandercock and Mrs. E. Denyes; resolutions, Mrs. K. Vivian; public relations, Mrs. H. Grills; international day, Mrs. J. Parrott; Christmas meeting, Mrs. A. Mitchell and Mrs. J. Garbutt; grandmothers' meeting, the Institute executive.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Holmes, also to the retiring president, Mrs. Parrott, for their splendid work.

The district director, Mrs. R. Atkins, read a letter she had written to Mrs. Haggerty, also a resolution she had compiled for the resolution convener, Mrs. K. Vivian, for the district annual in May.

The new president, Mrs. C. Woods, was in charge of the remainder of the meeting and read a lovely poem.

Mrs. H. Grills introduced the speaker of the day, her niece, Miss N. Phillips who gave a talk on "Public Relations and What It Means to Everyone".

Lunch was served by Mrs. Dunstor. Mrs. D. Leeming, Mrs. J. Parrott and Mrs. Woods, and a social hour was spent.

The May meeting will be a grandmothers' meeting and held on May 14 at the Quinte Institute Memorial Hall.

CAME FROM SEA

Families in colonial America got their salt from salt makers who boiled down sea water in huge pots.

A cone seat that's beginning to sag can often be tightened easily by rubbing the seat with a rag soaked in hot water, then setting chair in the sun to dry.

U.C.W. Meeting

WHITE'S DISTRICT U.C.W.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Mrs. Jermyn Palmer opened her home on Wednesday afternoon for the April meeting of White's United Church Women.

Passages of Scripture were read by Mrs. W. Jeffery, Mrs. W. Yateman and Mrs. L. Dafoe. Mrs. Eric Jones read the first chapter of "The Word and the Way," dealing with religion versus idolatory.

Following the reading, the leader, Mrs. Albert Jones, led in a discussion period followed by prayer. The thought for the day was, "Christ's living presence brings solace in times of trouble, and guidance, when one studies God's word."

There was one new member; two members paid dues. There was a donation by Mrs. Bilham and letters of thanks were received from Mrs. H. Swann, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sandercock and Mrs. Samuel Reid. Mrs. A. Jones donated a travelling apron. It was decided to donate jewellery, home-cooking for sale at the next meeting which will be held in the evening at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe.

A get-well card, signed by the members, was sent to Mrs. Walter Joslin, who is a patient in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. George Bilham gave an interesting reading and Mrs. Palmer was the winner of a word contest.

After the meeting closed, lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Eric Jones.

Still Making Maple Syrup At Govt. House

OTTAWA (CP) — They've been making maple syrup at Government House since the Second World War days when sugar was dear.

This year was no exception at the home of Canada's Governor-General. The maple trees on the spacious grounds were tapped and the sap was turned into syrup in an old greystone building that once was a stable.

In a good year, more than 800 gallons of sap are collected, and this yields about 20 gallons of syrup.

Most of it is set aside for use at Government House, but this year several tins will be sent to two of Governor-General and Madame Vanier's grandchildren, who live in Paris.

Mme. Vanier delights in visiting the building where the syrup is processed, and on a recent visit took a turn with the two-pronged netted branch used to "scum" the boiling syrup.

The Vaniers are fond of maple syrup on their pancakes, and Government House chef Jean Zonda uses liberal helpings of it in one of his specialties, souffle d'erable.

Tapping the trees in the Government House grounds was started when the Earl of Athlone was governor - general, from 1940 to 1945. In those Second World War years sugar was in short supply, particularly in England, and some of the syrup was sent to Buckingham Palace.

HAS HOMING INSTINCT

HALIFAX (CP)—When four-year-old Barry Mayo of suburban Dartmouth became separated from his parents in a west end department store here, he headed for home. Barry hiked two miles across the city and another mile across the Angus L. Macdonald Bridge spanning the harbor before he was picked up by a motorist who drove him home.

Resurrection Film Shown C. A. Meeting

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle C.A.'s met on Friday evening. President, Keith Helm, welcomed the group.

Song Leader, Gordon Smith, conducted the service, and Mr. Reg Williams led in prayer.

The colored film strip, "Thirteen Appearances of our Risen Saviour," was shown with Mr. K. Helm as narrator.

Mrs. E. Sine sang the solo, "I Belong To The King."

The evening message was given by Mr. David Stevens, of E.P.B.C. Peterborough, speaking from Acts 1, 4-8, his text "Witnessing For Christ."

Sketches of New Liberal Cabinet Ministers

OTTAWA (CP)—Sketches of the new Liberal cabinet ministers:

Lester B. Pearson

Canada's 14th prime minister was probably better known in other countries than any Canadian when he became leader of the Liberal party on Jan. 16, 1958. He now takes over as head of the government one day before his 66th birthday.

During the years from 1948 to 1957, when he was a world troubleshooter as Canada's external affairs minister, Mr. Pearson played a back-seat role in domestic politics. In the 1958 election—his first as party leader—the Liberals suffered their worst-ever election defeat.

Four years later he came close to unseating Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Conservative government, with 100 Liberal MPs elected, and last April 8 he finally made it with 130 Liberals—only three short of a majority in the 265-seat Commons.

Mr. Pearson had a long list of international honors to his credit when he became party leader.

He helped avert the spread of the Korean War into Communist China, was president of the United Nations General Assembly, helped bring West Germany into NATO in 1954, was twice nominated—and vetoed by Russia—for the post of UN secretary-general, and won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1957 for his part in establishment of the UN Emergency Force in Egypt during the Suez crisis.

Born in Toronto, the son and grandson of Methodist ministers, he served overseas in the First World War, in the Medical Corps and infantry at Salonika in 1915 and 1916, and later in the Royal Flying Corps.

Afterwards he completed his studies at the University of Toronto, played some semi-professional baseball at Guelph, and after a short whirl in business with a Chicago meat-packing firm returned to the University of Toronto to lecture in history.

He later entered the external affairs department and was undersecretary of the department when he entered the government of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent in 1948.

Lionel Chevrier

The new justice minister has been a member of Parliament since 1935 with the exception of three years. The 60-year-old native of Cornwall, Ont., is regarded as a father of the St. Lawrence Seaway, having planned the navigation project as transport minister and then resigning from the Commons in 1954 to serve as first president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

Mr. Chevrier, a bilingual lawyer, was first elected to the Commons as MP for Stormont (Ont.) at the age of 32. In the former Liberal government's election defeat of 1957, he returned to the Commons as member for Montreal Laurier which he has represented since then. Shortly before the 1957 election he was reappointed to the cabinet as president of the Privy Council—a largely honorary post — and was being groomed for the traditional Liberal role of the party's Quebec strong man.

In the last two parliaments he was Liberal House leader on the opposition benches and is given credit for much of the Liberal party's political comeback in Quebec in the last election.

In his early years in the Commons he was deputy chief Liberal whip, and in 1943 became parliamentary assistant to Munitions Minister C. D. Howe. He became transport minister in 1945.

Paul Martin

External affairs minister, the 59-year-old Mr. Martin is returning to the cabinet table where he sat as health minister for 11 years from 1946 to 1957 when much of the existing social welfare legislation was written.

A Liberal party stalwart, the Windsor, Ont., lawyer has represented Essex East constituency without a break since 1935. He was a contender for the party leadership at the 1958 convention that chose Lester B. Pearson as Liberal leader.

A flamboyant speaker whose speeches are often colored with indignant anger, Mr. Martin was one of the most effective opposition members of the Liberal party after 1957. He was also a spokesman on external affairs, having headed Canada's United Nations delegation frequently under the former Liberal government.

Born in Ottawa in a Roman Catholic family of French-Irish origin, he grew up in Pembroke, Ont. Though his family was poor, he went far in his academic studies, largely through scholarships which took him to Cambridge, Harvard and Geneva.

W. Ross Macdonald

Government leader in the Senate, the 71-year-old senator is a veteran parliamentarian and former cabinet minister. He was solicitor-general from 1954 until 1957.

A native of Toronto and a lawyer, he grew up in Brantford and represented Brantford constituency in the Commons from 1933 until his appointment to the Senate in 1953. During that period he was deputy Speaker of the Commons from 1945 to 1949 and Speaker for the next four years.

In the Senate he did double duty as government leader and solicitor-general during the last four years of the former Liberal government, and since 1957 he had been opposition leader in the upper house.

J. W. Pickersgill

Secretary of state, the 57-year-old Mr. Pickersgill was a historian and high-ranking civil servant before entering politics in 1953 with his appointment as secretary of state—the portfolio he holds again. He was immigration minister from 1954 until 1957.

He has been noted as a skilled parliamentary tactician—a useful skill in his new job as government House leader. He has represented the Newfoundland constituency of Bonavista-Twillingate since 1953.

Mr. Pickersgill was born at Wycombe, Ont., but moved to Winnipeg with his family as a child. He was educated there and at Oxford University, and lectured in history at Wesley College, University of Manitoba, before entering the external affairs department at the age of 32.

Soon after he moved into the office of Prime Minister Mackenzie King as a secretary and continued as a special assistant under Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent until 1953 when he became clerk of the Privy Council and cabinet secretary — the highest-ranking job in the civil service.

Paul Hellyer

The new defence minister, 38, returns to the cabinet where he was a member—as associate defence minister—for six weeks in 1957 before the election defeat of the former Liberal government. At that time Mr. Hellyer, then 33, was the second-youngest minister of the Crown in Canada since Confederation.

He first entered the Commons in 1949 in Toronto Davenport constituency. After election defeats in 1957 and 1958, he returned in a 1958 byelection as member for Toronto Trinity, which he has represented since then.

As Liberal defence critic in opposition, he held a key role in the Liberal attack on the Progressive Conservative government's policy. He also has had an active role in party organization, and was chairman of the 1961 national Liberal rally at Ottawa.

Born at Waterford, Ont., Mr. Hellyer was graduated in aeronautical engineering in the United States but entered business life after the Second World War, first as co-owner of a women's clothing store in Toronto and later as president of a home-building firm.

Walter Gordon

Finance minister, the 57-year-old Mr. Gordon had a record as economist, businessman and public servant before his entry into Parliament in last year's election from Toronto Davenport constituency.

He is best known as chairman of the 1955-57 royal commission on Canada's economic prospects which made an exhaustive survey of the nation's economy.

He has also proved himself as a practical politician. He was campaign manager of the policy committee at the 1961 national Liberal rally and was chairman of the party's national campaign committee in the last two general elections.

Born in Toronto, he is a chartered accountant. Early in the Second World War he helped organize the foreign exchange control board and later was special assistant to the deputy finance minister.

Mitchell Sharp

As trade minister, the 51-year-old Mr. Sharp returns to the department where he was deputy minister in 1957-58. He was first elected to Parliament on April 8 from Toronto Eglinton after coming close in last year's election to unseating then finance minister Donald Fleming.

Born in Winnipeg, he is a graduate economist who entered government service in 1942 as director of the finance department's economic policy division. He transferred to the trade department in 1951 and was a reputation as a skilful international negotiator.

After 1953 he became a vice-president of the Canadian-owned Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company. He was also Canadian chairman of the Freedom from Hunger Council, now organized by the United Nations.

Azellus Denis

Postmaster-general, the 58-year-old Montreal lawyer is one of the senior members of the Commons, representing Montreal St. Denis since 1935.

He is one of the wittiest speakers in the Commons, noted for his humorous barbs when he was Liberal opposition critic of postal affairs.

Born in St. Norbert, Que., he was graduated from Joliette Seminary and the University of Montreal, receiving his law degree at the age of 21.

George McIlraith

Transport minister, Mr. McIlraith, 54, has represented Ottawa West since 1940. He served as parliamentary secretary to the late C. D. Howe successively in the departments of reconstruction and supply, trade, and defence production.

Born in Lanark, Ont., he practises law in Ottawa.

William Benidickson

Mines minister, he has been MP for Kenora-Rainy River since 1945. He was parliamentary secretary to the minister of trade and commerce in 1951 and to then finance minister Walter Harris in 1953-57.

Mr. Benidickson, 52, was born in Dauphin, Man., and is a lawyer at Kenora, Ont.

Arthur Laing

Northern affairs minister, 58, he was British Columbia Liberal party leader from 1953 to 1958. Earlier, Mr. Laing was a Commons member from Vancouver South in 1945-53, and returned to Parliament from the same constituency in last year's election.

He graduated from the University of British Columbia with a degree in agricultural science and is a member of the Agricultural Institute of Canada.

Maurice Lamontagne

President of the Privy Council, Mr. Lamontagne, 46, was economic adviser to former prime ministers Louis St. Laurent and to Mr. Pearson as Opposition leader. He has advocated the creation of a new department of government to co-ordinate the planning of other departments.

He was professor and director of the economics department at Laval University before coming to Ottawa to work for Mr. St. Laurent, and now is assistant dean of social sciences at the University of Ottawa.

He ran as Liberal candidate in Mr. St. Laurent's former riding of Quebec East in 1958 and 1962, being defeated both times, before his election this year in Montreal Outremont-St. Jean.

J. R. Garland

The new minister of national revenue, aged 45, has been MP for Nipissing in Northern Ontario since 1949. Mr. Garland, a North Bay businessman, has been Opposition critic on housing since 1958.

Lucien Cardin

Associate defence minister, the 44-year-old Mr. Cardin served in the navy from 1941 to 1945 and entered the Commons in a 1952 byelection in Richelieu-Verchares. Born in Providence, Rhode Island, he has lived at Sorel, Que., since 1925 and is a lawyer. He was formerly parliamentary assistant to Mr. Pearson when he was external affairs minister.

Allan J. MacEachen

Labor minister and Nova Scotia's representative in the cabinet, Mr. MacEachen, 41, was MP for Inverness-Richmond from 1953 to 1958. From then until his return to the Commons last year he was special assistant to Opposition leader Pearson. Born at Inverness, N.S., he was a former economics professor at Xavier University in Antigonish, N.S.

Jean-Paul Deschatelets

The new public works minister has been MP for Montreal Maisonneuve - Rosemont since 1953. A 50-year-old lawyer and native of Montreal, he was formerly counsel in Quebec province for the wartime prices and trade board.

H. J. Robichaud

As fisheries minister, the 51-year-old Mr. Robichaud has had first-hand experience. He has represented the New Brunswick riding of Gloucester since 1953 and in opposition was his party's spokesman on Atlantic provinces affairs.

J. Watson MacNaught

The solicitor-general is a 58-year-old lawyer from Summerside, P.E.I., who represented Prince constituency from 1945 to 1957. In 1948 he was named parliamentary assistant to the fisheries ministry. He returned to the Commons from Prince on April 8.

Roger Teillet

The new veterans affairs minister, Mr. Teillet, 50, was an RCAF Bomber Command flight lieutenant in the Second World War who was shot down and became a prisoner of war. A public relations executive, he was elected to the Commons from St. Boniface riding last year as the only Liberal from Manitoba.

Judy La Marsh

As health minister, the 38-year-old Miss La Marsh becomes the second woman member of a federal cabinet. A lawyer, she has represented Niagara Falls riding since a 1960 byelection and in this year's election campaign was head of the short-lived Liberal "truth squad" which followed Mr. Diefenbaker for three days. She served in the Canadian Women's Army Corps in 1943-45 as a linguist and interpreter.

Charles M. Drury

The new defence production minister was deputy defence minister from 1949 until 1955 and entered the Commons last year as member for Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount. The 59-year-old minister, known by close associates as Bud, served overseas in the Second World War, ending as a much-decorated brigadier in the Royal Canadian Artillery. He entered the federal civil service in 1947 with the economics division of the external affairs department.

MORE

Guy Favreau

The immigration minister, 46-year-old Guy Favreau, was a deputy justice minister from 1955 to 1960. He was first elected April 8 from Montreal Papineau riding. Born in Montreal, he practised law from 1940 to 1952 and then joined the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission.

Jack Nicholson

The 61-year-old Mr. Nicholson becomes forestry minister after a career as senior public servant and businessman. During the Second World War he was deputy controller of the munitions and supply department and organized the Crown-owned Polymer Corporation, later becoming its executive vice-president. From 1951 to 1957 he headed the public utilities operations of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company and was president of the British Columbia Council of Forest Industries in 1960-61. A lawyer, he entered the Commons in 1962 from Vancouver Centre.

Harry Hays

The new agriculture minister, mayor of Calgary since 1960, is the only Liberal MP from Alberta. The 53-year-old Mr. Hays was elected April 8 in Calgary South. He is a rancher and well known as a breeder and successful purebred cattle.

Rene Tremblay

Minister without portfolio, the 40-year-old Mr. Tremblay is an economist, former Laval University professor, and former deputy minister of industry and commerce in the Quebec government. Born at Lacerville, Que., and a resident of Ste. Foy, he was first elected this year in Matapedia-Matane.

defence minister and Mr. Trembay who is a former deputy minister of industry for Quebec —are headed for other titles.

Mr. Drury will become industry minister when Parliament sets up the new department, combining the present defence production department with the development tasks the new ministry will be assigned. He also heads the cabinet committee on research and atomic energy.

Mr. Tremblay will be the eastern agriculture minister while Harry Hays, 53, Calgary mayor named as agriculture minister and Alberta's cabinet representative, tends western agricultural matters. Mr. Hays is a cattle rancher.

ASSIGNMENTS VITAL

In the organization of ministerial duties, five ministers figured in vital assignments.

Mr. Lamontagne, who served as economic adviser to former prime minister St. Laurent and to Mr. Pearson before winning election April 8 for Montreal Outremont, was charged with heavy responsibility including the sensitive task of managing federal-provincial relations.

He also was given the job of developing bilingualism in the civil service at a time when this is a paramount issue among French-Canadians. His field of action in addition will cover implementing recommendations of the Glassco royal commission on government organization, dealing with the national centennial administration and the proposed Canadian economic council when it is established by Parliament.

J. W. Pickersgill, immigration minister and secretary of state in earlier Liberal governments, takes on the key duties of government leader in the Commons where the 130 Liberals, three members short of a majority of seats, face 94 Progressive Conservative, 24 Social Credit MPs, and 17 New Democrats. The 57 - year - old Newfoundland cabinet representative was assigned the portfolio of state secretary.

He also was charged with ministerial responsibility for the Atlantic Development Board, which Parliament established earlier this year, and for broadcasting, the National Film Board, National Gallery, Public Archives and National Library.

IS OVER GRAIN BOARD

Mr. Sharp, returning to the trade department where he was deputy minister in 1957-58, will preside over the government's grain marketing agency, the Canadian Wheat board. The board was transferred from the trade department to agriculture by the former Conservative administration.

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Sharp "has a long experiences and special knowledge of the grain exporting industry."

Two other ministers — Mr. Garland in national revenue and Mr. Favreau at citizenship and immigration—drew special duties in which they have long-time interests or special knowledge.

Mr. Garland, MP for Nipissing, will have charge of the federal government's multi-million-dollar housing program as the minister responsible for the National Housing Act and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. He has been Liberal housing expert in the Commons since 1957.

Mr. Favreau, a former associate deputy justice minister and member of the royal commission on patents, copyright, trade marks and industrial design, was given responsibility for patents, copyright and trade marks legislation. This responsibility is being transferred from the state secretary's department.

LOSES NO TIME

The new defence minister, Paul Hellyer, who was briefly associate defence minister in the St. Laurent government, lost no time in dealing with another election campaign issue—acquisition of nuclear warheads by Canadian forces.

He told reporters after being sworn in that he expects an agreement with the United States on custody and control of warheads will be signed in a month.

Mr. Hellyer plans to accompany Mr. Pearson and Mr. Martin to London for talks with British Prime Minister Macmillan and expects to visit Canadian forces in Europe. He also hopes to see U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara before the Commons meets or shortly thereafter, he said.

The agreement probably would not come before Parliament, Mr. Hellyer said, since it would comprise an exchange of notes between the Canadian and American governments.

He said he expects the legislature to be called into session Tuesday, May 14.

C. B. (Cy) Sherwood, freshman PC leader who waged a bitter campaign with the premier, said at his farm home at Midland that he is "naturally disappointed" in the result although he won personal re-election to a fourth term in Kings.

Electors had an unpleasant day for voting as a storm swept across the province, hitting hardest in northern regions where up to nine inches of wet snow fell. The last time New Brunswickers voted—two weeks ago in the federal election—the Maritimes were hit by a severe blizzard.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

Heart-tugging nostalgia came in a flood the other day when the sudden death of Harry "Yip" Radley, one of Kingston's most colorful and outstanding athletes, was announced.

During the rip-roaring days of the early forties, when senior "B" hockey was in its early prime and Kingston and Belleville, as usual, were at each others throats, "Yip" became a close personal friend of this writer and Jack Devine.

We held a few post-game sessions in "Yip's" well-appointed apartment, enjoying the hospitality of the big fellow and his gracious lady.

As athlete who ran the gamut of the sports calendar, "Yip" starred in everything with the exception, as he put it, of tiddley-winks. He was an accomplished raconteur with a sense of humor that colored his anecdotes with rib-tickling hilarity.

He was in his earlier days a rough, hard-charging football player. He was a sturdy, rock-ribbed defenceman in amateur and professional hockey. He was the scourge of opposing pitchers when he went to bat in softball and baseball. His gloved fists threw many a hard punch during his brief career as a professional boxer.

As one of his former athletic colleagues once told me, "You like 'Yip' if you wanted to or not. He made you like him. In fact the big so-and-so would command your respect if you saw him commit murder."

He played professional hockey with the New York Americans and later with the Montreal Maroons. He was associated with the Canadian Hockey Association and the Canadian-American League teams of New Haven, St. Louis, Cleveland and Tulsa.

I smelled "Yip" once with the statement that I doubted that he ever played with the Maroons. The big fellow shook his head at the doubting Thomas, pulled out his wallet and showed me a newspaper clipping.

The clipping showed a full-length picture of "Yip" in all the battle regalia of a Montreal Maroon hockey player. It read the caption. It read the title: "Harry 'Yip' Radley, the greatest defence player in the National Hockey League. The announcement was made today by Mr. Radley."

At his "unconscious" best, "Yip" could hold the attention of one, two or three people or a crowd of hundreds. He spoke "from the cuff" from a memory rich with anecdote and story, some of them short, a lot of them "tall." His personality alone more than made up for the rare lack of a punch-line impact.

But under the surface of his lighter-vein personality, there beat a heart that was sincere and strong in purpose. "Yip" was intensely loyal to his friends, himself, his sports colleagues and associates. Athletically he gave his all to his team and to his effort. He played to win and lost with a "wait until the next time" smile.

He had other accomplishments besides those that invoked the roar of sports crowds. The fingers that could blast a puck past a hockey goalie, smash out a home run, or flatten an opponent with a well-delivered punch, could coax the haunting strains of a Liebestraum or the rollicking rhythm of an Irish reel from a violin with almost the touch of a master.

I have often seen him standing besides the family hi-fi listening to a violin record, and playing the melody on his own instrument. Sometimes after the record was finished "Yip" would look at me and say "That guy is not so hot. Did you hear me correct some of his mistakes?"

His favorite story recalled the time he won the "World's Polish Wrestling Championship." According to "Yip" he held the title for 24 hours. "I won it in 19 minutes and was paid $27," he said. "The next night I lost it in 27 seconds for $19. I guess I got the wrong signals."

In the early fifties, "Yip" was a member of the executive of the Kingston senior "B" club. Belleville and Kingston had battled to a three-all tie in the seven-game group final. The seventh game was slated for this city.

"Yip," Reg Walden, Wally Elmy and other members of the Kingston executive rolled into the city in state. Mr. Radley carried a bag on a visit to the press box.

"Here," he said, "I have half the city of Kingston's tax roll; donations from all the banks, and my personal contribution of $10,000. Are the gentlemen of the press interested in any or all of it wager-wise?"

There was a tomb-like silence. "I shall have the pleasure of seeing you later," said 'Yip,' suffering the humiliating pangs of defeat and elimination."

Belleville blanked Kingston 9-0 and won the group title. The Kingston executive suddenly remembered an important engagement right after the final whistle—and the Kingston taxpayers breathed easier.

Rest easy, old friend.

OFFERS SUPPORT

DETROIT (AP) — Coach George Wilson, making his first public statement since Commissioner Pete Rozelle's decision suspending Alex Karras and fining five other Detroit Lions in the National Football League's betting probe, has promised the punished players his fullest support.

DOUBTFUL FOR DERBY

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—Canadian-bred three-year-old Jet Traffic is a doubtful starter for the Kentucky Derby. Trainer Del Carroll says the horse won't start if he has his way and owner Russell A. Firestone Jr. said the horse probably will run in the Queen's Plate at Now Woodbine in Toronto June 15.

Young Swimmer Leads Canadians Tonight ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Mary Stewart, Gold Medal Favorite

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) — Canada's first solid chance for a gold medal in the Pan-American Games ends tonight on the smooth strokes of Mary Stewart of Vancouver when she leads seven Canadians into four swimming finals.

After two days of competition, the Canadian team still was looking for its first medal. Only the swimmers have shone so far.

Miss Stewart, the world record-holder, bids for the championship in the 100-metre butterfly and her performance in qualifying Sunday when she tied the Games record placed her in the favorite's position.

All 14 Canadian entries in the eight swimming preliminaries held Sunday and Monday advanced to the finals and they figure to pick up their share of medals against the favored Americans, who smashed five Games records and tied another.

In the championships decided to date, the best Canadian showing has been fifth in both weightlifting and shooting.

PICK WINNIPEG

But there's a measure of good news for the 134-member Canadian team when Winnipeg was picked as the site of the 1967 Games. The announcement of the selection Monday afternoon set the Winnipeg delegation literally jumping for joy.

"We're very, very happy to get the Games," said Alderman Mark Dankzer, spokesman here for Mayor Stephen Juba of Winnipeg.

Winnipeg won out over bids from Caracas, Venezuela, and Santiago, Chile.

"We've been prepared since 1959 and now we'll go ahead and get the Games on the way," Dankzer said. "We feel confident we will do a fine job and help cement relationships between Canada and the rest of the Americas."

Canadian swimmers grabbed a share of the spotlight Monday in four preliminaries, qualifying seven men and women for the finals Thursday.

Tonight, the seven Canadians battling for a medal are Miss Stewart and Sharon Pierce of Prince Rupert, B.C., in the 100-metre butterfly; beat winner Dan Sherry of Hamilton, and Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls, B.C., in the men's 100-metre freestyle; John Kelso of Ocean Falls in the men's 200-metre breaststroke, and Ed Czalet of Vancouver and Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls in the men's 100-metre backstroke.

ALMOST DISQUALIFY

Monday, Miss Stewart almost was bounced out of the 100-metre freestyle after she finished second to Kathy Ellis of the United States, who equalled the Games record of 1:03.8.

Miss Stewart, the former 17-year-old Canadian star, claiming she had failed to touch the poolside at the 50-metre mark. But they later reversed themselves and let her clocking of 1:04.6 stand.

The best time, however, was turned in by American Terri Lee Stickles, who had a Games record of 1:02.2. She finished three yards ahead of Madeleine Sevigny of Montreal, who did 1:05.9.

Tigers Drop Fourth In Five

Chameleon Cheney Clips Angels

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

In 11 years in baseball, Tom Cheney changed uniforms 13 times.

At almost every stop he was told he had almost unlimited potential—just before they handed him his new travel orders.

But it looks as if it will be a while before he turns in the Washington Senators suit he is wearing now.

The right-hander, who made signs of coming into his own last season when he struck out 21 Baltimore Orioles in a 16-inning game, won his second straight Monday night with a four-hitter as slick as the top of his shiny 28-year-old bald head. Los Angeles Angels were the victims, 4-0.

Only an unearned run kept Cheney from chalking up his second straight shutout. He stopped Boston on one hit in his other start.

TIGERS DROP ANOTHER

In the only other game in the American League, Kansas City whipped Detroit back to a 4-3 decision over the slumping Detroit Tigers, who have lost four of their last five. Cleveland at Chicago, the only other game scheduled, was postponed by poor weather.

New York Yankees made some news on the exhibition game front. Mickey Mantle appeared in the starting line-up at West Point for the annual game with the Military Academy signaling that he may be ready to resume his centre field post.

Mantle has been out for nine days with a pulled chest muscle, and wasn't expected back until next week.

Cheney extended his scoreless inning streak to 14⅔ before the Angels scored in the sixth. Jim Fregosi singled off Cheney's shin, went to second on a fielder's choice by Ed Kirkpatrick and scored on Albie Pearson's single.

HINTON HOMER HELPS

Chuck Hinton homered for the Senators in the first, and Brinkman contributed a two-run single to a three-run Senator fourth that chased Angel starter Ken McBride.

The Kansas City victory, which moved the Athletics within a half game of the league - leading Baltimore Orioles, was a real uphill battle. The Athletics spotted the Tigers five runs in the first inning, but Don Mossi couldn't hold it.

Gino Cimoli and Norm Siebern drove home runs in the fourth, Wayne Causey chased two across in the seventh and Jerry Lumpe drove in the tying run in the eighth.

Dick Hall, third Tiger pitcher, retired the first two men in the ninth, but then Causey and Cimoli singled, and Ed Charles drove the winning run across with another single.

Mr. Chuvalo Wins At Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Heavyweight George Chuvalo, formerly of Toronto now boxing out of Detroit, scored a TKO victory over Jimmy Wakefield of Louisville, Ky., in the main event of a professional fight show at Windsor Arena Monday night before 800 fans.

With a barrage of lefts and rights, the 25-year-old Canadian slugger sent the former U.S. Army champion, who held a 15-pound weight advantage at 220 pounds, down for the count of eight twice in the fifth round of the 10-round contest.

Kingston Jrs. Whip St. Marys

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston Junior Frontenacs trampled St. Marys 8-3 Monday night to stay in the running for the Ontario Hockey Association junior B championship.

The sixth game will be at Stratford Friday and a seventh game, if necessary, will be back at Kingston next Monday.

Grand Slam Homer Helps

Leafs Clobber Travellers

By VERNON/BUTLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitching in cold, damp weather proved no handicap to rookie Phil Cunningham of Columbus Jets, nor did it dim the happy holiday batting eye.

Right-hander Cunningham restricted Richmond Virginians to four singles Monday night and hit a two-run homer that broke a scoreless tie in the fifth inning of the Jets' season opener in their International League game.

Only 620 fans showed up at Columbus for the Cunningham extravaganza, but they included a cluster of friends and relatives since the 21 - year - old hurler's bride of 48 hours.

The victory lifted Columbus into a tie for second in the division lead with Arkansas Travelers, 11-4 victims of Toronto Maple Leafs. Chiefs remained maintained their Northern Division lead with a 3-1 victory over Jacksonville Suns, a near no-hitter for Chiefs left-hander Willie Smith, and Rochester Red Wings moved on to Syracuse's heels with a 9-6 verdict at Atlants. Indianapolis Indians and Buffalo Bisons were idle because of cold weather at Buffalo.

Smith was one out away from a no-hitter at Jacksonville when Larry Brown doubled and Casey Wise followed with a single to give Jacksonville its lone run. Brown batted in both home runs in two games and a round-tripper by Jackie Moore helped Smith square his season record at 1-1.

Rochester scored six unearned runs while stretching its victory string to five. The Red Wings jolted loser Johnny Kucks and four Atlanta relief pitchers for 15 hits, including seven for extra bases. Ossie Virgil, on base 12 consecutive times as the Wings swept the three-game series, rapped three singles, scored twice and drove in two runs.

Toronto included Lou Jackson's grand - slam home run among its 13 hits for a one-sided victory over Arkansas. Dennis Ribant, waved in hurriedly in the first inning when the Travellers scored two runs, hurled a five-hitter for 8 2-3 innings for the victory.

Down Two But Confident

'We'll Win Tonight'-Maroons

By JIM McKAY

WINDSOR (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons, their spirits high despite two one-goal losers in the opening games of the 1963 Allan Cup finals, are confident tonight is the night.

The Maroons are out to dump Windsor Bulldogs who now lead the best-of-seven series 2-0.

"Sure, we're down 2-0 but the boys aren't 'down', if you know what I mean," said manager Bud Holoban Monday.

"Don't forget, we trailed Saskatoon Quakers in the Western Canada final by two games on two occasions yet still beat them 4-3."

Maroons lost the first game 5-4 Friday, then dropped a 3-2 decision to the Bulldogs Sunday afternoon, a game they might have won by three goals had it not been for the sensational play of rookie Wayne Rutledge in the Windsor net.

The series continues tonight and Wednesday night. Further games, all to be played in Windsor, are scheduled for Friday night, Sunday afternoon and next Monday afternoon, if necessary.

This Guy Should Try Suspenders

TORONTO (CP) — Ray Marsh was fine on the short jabs, but he lost the fight with roundhouse rights.

Every time lightweight Marsh took a loping swing at opponent John Thomas, his trunks headed toward his ankles.

When Marsh dropped his gloves to retrieve his drawers, Thomas plowed him.

The three-round amateur bout ended here Monday night went to Thomas by a decision.

Holoban said that "Bill (playing-coach Junda) and the boys couldn't have played much better Sunday. It was just a case of putting the puck in the net. Then we made a couple of mistakes and you can't do that against the Bulldogs and get away with it."

Joe Khakay, a 40-year-old former National Hockey League star, scored the winning goal late in the second contest after he stole the puck from Winnipeg's Lund.

LOSE TWO PLAYERS

The Windsor club was expected to be without two of its key players for the third game.

Left-winger Tommy Walker and defenceman Jacques Beglo, both selected to the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A all-star team last season, were the casualties. Walker suffered torn knee ligaments when checked by Junda in the first period Sunday. Begin re-injured a gimpy right ankle.

New Contract For Giants Coach

Sherman Signs For 'Five'

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants tore up Allie Sherman's old contract and gave him a new five-year pact Monday as head coach at a reported $37,500 a year as a reward for winning two straight Eastern Conference titles in the National Football League.

Jack Mara, president of the Giants, announced at the club's annual spring luncheon that he has scrapped the old three-year contract running through 1963 and has substituted the new agreement. Although no salary was announced, it was reported to call for a healthy increase.

Sherman, a former left-handed quarterback at Brooklyn College, worked his way up through the pro ranks to succeed Jim Lee Howell in 1961.

Braves Clobber Dodgers' Drysdale 10-2

Reds' Pinch-Hit Home Run Sinks Giants

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jerry Lynch, who sits on it most of the time, can tell you all about good wood.

It was good wood he applied to a Jack Sanford pitch Monday night, belting the 12th pinch-hit homer of his National League career and touching off a five-run eighth - inning rally that gave Cincinnati Reds a 7-4 victory over San Francisco Giants.

A 32 - year - old left - handed swinger whose amazing ability to connect at a pinch hitter often has kept him from playing regularly, Lynch is only two away from the record 14 homers pinch hit by George Crowe with the Braves, Reds and Cardinals.

Lynch's key hit against Sanford, the Giants' 34-game whipping boy his 72nd in 345 at-bats as an emergency swinger for the Reds, and lifted his pinch-hit average to .394. Besides the homers, he has collected nine doubles and two triples, while driving in 60 runs.

Lynch's homer against the Giants tied the score 3-3. One out later Frank Robinson hit a two - run homer that put the Reds ahead to stay on a night when the big bats put the rap on the league's mightiest arms.

MILESTONE FOR AARON

Hank Aaron collected the 1,000th run batted in of his career with a third-inning drive and joined Eddie Mathews and Joe Adcock as homer hitters in Milwaukee Braves' 10-2 walloping of Los Angeles Dodgers and 25-game-winner Don Drysdale.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh's 2 - 0 victory over Chicago Cubs, coupled with the Giants' loss, left the Pirates in first place by percentage points. Frazier's double and St. Louis Cardinals, who defeated Houston Colts 5-2, are tied for the runner-up spot. In the other game, Philadelphia Phillies ended New York Mets' winning streak at four games, 5-3.

The Giants led 3-1 going into the eighth and Sanford, winner of his first three games, was working on a four-hitter when Eddie Kasko walked. Lynch, hitting for Don Blasingame, took a long shot then hammered the next pitch over the right field fence.

Gordy Coleman followed with a single and Robinson hit one into the left field stands to give Jim O'Toole his third victory against one defeat. Marty Kutyna also homered for Cincinnati but Tom Haller and Orlando Cepeda connected for the Giants.

HENDLEY WINS

Bob Hendley held the Dodgers to six hits as the Braves broke a four-game losing streak. Matthews' homer, a three-run shot in the third inning, was the first off Drysdale in 102 1-3 innings dating back to last Aug. 24.

Aaron drove in the first Braves run with a single for his 1,000th RBI and hit his fourth homer of the season in the fifth. Menke connected in the eighth.

Earl Francis, Bob Veale and Leroy Face combined for a five-hitter as the Pirates got two unearned runs to beat the Cubs and Glen Hobbie. In the sixth, Bill Williams drove in Bill Mazeroski's two - out line drive, enabling Willie Stargell and Donn Clendenon to score. Francis left in the eighth inning when his arm tightened.

Ray Washburn went the distance for the third time and his third victory without a loss for the Cardinals, allowing the Colts only seven hits. Carl Sawatski and Bill White homered for the Cardinals.

The Mets' streak came to an end with the tying and leading runs on base in the ninth as Phillies' relief ace, Jack Baldschun, got pinch hitter Rod Kanehl to take a called third strike for the final out. The Mets had scored three runs in the inning — two on Frank Thomas' homer. The Phillies put together five runs in the fifth and sixth innings with the aid of three walks and held on behind winner Ray Culp and Baldschun.

PLAY FIVE HOURS

MOSCOW (AP) — The 13th game of the 24-game world chess championship tournament between world champion Mikhail Botvinnik and challenger Tigran Petrosian was adjourned on the 41st move Monday night after five hours of play.

Lon Chaney, Acting 58 Years, Back in Scare Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lon Chaney is back in the scare business after a six-year lapse.

He is playing assistant warlock (mals witch) to headman Vincent Price in another unearthing of Edgar Allen Poe, The Haunted Palace. The sponsor is American International, the company that presented House of Usher, Pit and the Pendulum, Premature Burial, Tales of Terror and the Raven.

It's always a pleasure to have uninhibited Lon at work, especially at the business he knows better than anyone else.

"I've played 'em all," said the craggy-faced actor. "Most of 'em were the second time around — Frankenstein, the Mummy, Dracula. But the Wolf Man was mine, all alone. I played him six times.

"They're all on television now, and you know something? I get more mail now than I got when those pictures were first made. Most of the letters ask when am I going to make some new ones."

Lon is willing, but he has his own ideas about how such pictures should be made.

MUST HAVE SYMPATHY

"All the best of the monsters played for sympathy," he explained. "That goes for my father, Karloff, myself and all the others. They all won the audience's sympathy. The Wolf Man didn't want to do all those bad things; he was forced into them.

"The trouble with most of the monster pictures today is that they go after horror for horror's sake. There's no motivation for how the monsters behave. There's too much of that science fiction baloney."

Nowadays Lon is content to spend most of his time at his ranch in San Diego County, coming to Hollywood for an occasional film or television role.

"I've been acting for 37½ years; my father took me onstage at six months," said Lon. "I think I deserve a little rest. But I wouldn't mind just one more cycle to my career."

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Ron Turcotte, who cancelled all his mounts Saturday because of a mild case of influenza, didn't show signs of feeling any pain as he won the first, fourth, sixth and eighth races Monday.

He became the first Canadian rider this season to record four winners in an afternoon. Last week, the 23 - year - old from Grand Falls, N.B., was the first to record a triple at the meeting.

In the featured sixth race, the Colvin Purse, Turcotte rode Jim Cowan's Johns Champ to victory, giving him his third win of the afternoon and his 14th of the meeting.

AT THE BELLE — Tomorrow — Flivver flies again in Walt Disney's "Son of Flubber", with Fred MacMurray and Charlie the pooch at the controls. MacMurray stars with Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk. "Son of Flubber", opens Wednesday at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

In Las Vegas, June 27

Sonny-Floyd Fight 'On'

NEW YORK (AP)—The off-and-on rematch between champion Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson for the world heavyweight boxing title is on again —in Las Vegas, Nev., June 27.

Liston's adviser, Jack Nilon, has agreed to the date and site "with reluctance," he said at his home Monday in Chester, Pa.

"That's right, the title fight is going to be in Las Vegas June 27," a Liston sparring partner, Foudea Cox, said in Denver, Colo.

Liston, also in Denver, was not available for comment.

Nilon didn't spell out the reluctance, but the chances are that he wanted the fight held in Baltimore, where he is the leading concessions man.

Nilon signed the contract for the first fight in which Liston took the title on a one-round knockout. Patterson has the right to pick the date and site of the rematch.

Shares A.L. Hit Lead With Tresh

Larruping Luis Tied For Top

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Aparicio is off and running in a bid to prove to Chicago White Sox that they made a mistake in trading him to Baltimore Orioles.

The fleet shortstop is tied for the American League batting lead with Tom Tresh of New York Yankees at .400 and is the sole pace-setter in hits with 18 and stolen bases with six. Aparicio went hitless in his first 11 at bats this season. Since then, he's had 18 hits in 34 tries for a .529 mark.

Aparicio, who hit only .241 in 1962, was sent to the Orioles along with outfielder Al Smith last Jan. 14 for pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, outfielder Dave Nicholson and third baseman Peter Ward.

Smith is sixth in the American League batting race with a .375 mark. Ward is hitting .250 for the White Sox. Nicholson is at .176 while Wilhelm has pitched 11 scoreless innings in relief and saved three games.

Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and Chuck Hinton of Washington, .379 each. The leaders are based on a minimum of 25 times at bat.

EDWARDS TOPS NL

Johnny Edwards of Cincinnati Reds, a .354 batter last year, tops the National League with .438. Then come Don Demeter, Philadelphia, .432 and Willie McCovey, San Francisco, .410. The averages include Sunday's games.

Edwards and Demeter pace the National League in runs batted in with 12. Deceaser, Don Clendenon of Pittsburgh and McCovey and Willie Mays of San Francisco are deadlocked for the home run lead with four.

Bob Allison of Minnesota Twins has 13 RBI to lead the American League and is tied with Elston Howard of the Yanks for the most home runs, four.

Hank Aguirre of Detroit and Jack Sanford of San Francisco are the pitching leaders. Each has won three games and lost none. Southpaws Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles Dodgers and Steve Barber of Baltimore have compiled the most strikeouts. Koufax heads the National League with 32 and Barber is No. 1 in the American with 24.

Cleroux, Mgr At Parting Of Ways?

MONTREAL (CP) — A breaking appeared imminent today in the ring partnership between Montreal's Bob Cleroux and the New Yorker who steered him to the Canadian heavyweight title and international ranking.

For some time there have been indications that all is not well between the manager-heavyweight and his 42-year-old manager Al Bachman.

But the first open sign of a conflict came Monday night after the plodding but powerful Cleroux scored a sixth-round knockout over flabby Tony Hughes of Cleveland in a ragged bout that stirred the fans to jeering.

A four-year contract between the pair expires June 18.

Insiders say the main area of conflict is a difference of opinion on promotional commitments.

Seattle Ousts Vancouver

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Western Hockey League headed toward an all-American final today after Vancouver Canucks were eliminated by Seattle Totems in the WHL Northern Division windup game.

The Canucks dropped a whopping 8-2 decision Monday before 5,500 disappointed Vancouver fans as the Totems took the series 4-3.

The other finalist will be either San Francisco or Portland, tied 3-3 in the Southern Division best-of-seven affair.

Bill McFarland and Gord Sinclair scored two goals each and Jim Powers, Guyie Fielder, Gerry Leonard and Bob Barlow got the others for Seattle.

Bob McCuker and Dave Duke scored for Vancouver.

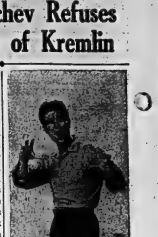
Nina Khrushchev Refuses Camera Tour of Kremlin

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television has developed a new status symbol which, before it has run its course, may push social climbers and ambitious career men toward nervous breakdowns and their press agents to ulcers. Its the special 'hour television tour program, with a famous lady acting as guide.



First, of course, there was Jacqueline Kennedy's White House tour. Then there was Princess Grace's Monaco. Next season, there will be Queen Frederika's Greece and Elizabeth Taylor's London. CBS, apparently, has a corner on this new - fangled - status symbol. NBC tried to get into the act by inviting Nina Khrushchev to conduct its camera tour of the Kremlin. The invitation was refused.

ABC's Close-Up will concern itself April 30 with air pollution —smog—and the focus of the show will be London's problems.

But the most controversial program now in the works is a documentary about the drug Krebiozen, claimed by some to be effective in cancer treatment. The program, which will present both sides of the controversy, has a sponsor—but, to date, no network commitment.

Recommended Tonight:

Close Up, ABC, 10:30-11 EST —The Vanishing Breed, about the problems of running a coun try newspaper.

Lowly Leafs Home Wed.

TORONTO (CP) — Baseball fans here get their first look at the 1963 Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday—but are these the Leafs they're heard so much about?

Toronto was a pre-season favorite to win the Northern Division pennant in the International League. But, going into their home opener, they're in last place.

The season, however, is only eight games old and the Leafs have some excuses—poor pitching and four players on the shelf with injuries.

But, even though they're last, the Leafs will be given royal treatment Wednesday complete with ticker-tape parade, an official welcome from the city and a police escort.

For many of the players, it will be their first look at Toronto and their new home at Maple Leaf Stadium.

At 2:30 p.m. EST they'll trot out against Jacksonville Suns, the defending champs who, incidentally, are in last place in the Southern Division.

NEEDS HELP

Bill Adair, Toronto's new manager, isn't making any rash predictions—but he does expect his Leafs to improve.

"I'm not over-enthused about our club," he said candidly as the season opened. "We need help."

And help may be on the way. The Leafs acquired former major league star Sad Sam Jones during the weekend in an effort to bolster the faltering pitching staff.

There should be more help coming soon. The Leafs expect to get one or two of Don Dillard, Ty Cline and Lou Johnson from Milwaukee Braves of the National League when the majors have to cut to the 25-player limit early next month.

They may also get Dennis Menke, or another infielder, from the Braves. And San Francisco Giants of the same league are expected to send the Leafs a pitcher shortly.

For April 24

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Don't be tempted by promises, added possessions. Be scrutinizing. Avoid the gaudy. Stress quality. Some kind of deception appears obvious. Make sure it isn't the self kind.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Highlight personality today. Turn on charm to win your way. Forcing methods fail. Check defails. Go slowly but surely. There are routine matters you must attend to personally.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Reach back into past. Learn from your previous experiences. Look ahead. But move with knowledge. Lend helping hand. Be generous. You could obtain invaluable help as result.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Stress for comfort, care, assurance of being needed. Important that you "come to terms." Means grow, mature. Realize that finest does not always glitter. Human qualities mean the most.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Key is perception. Look beyond the immediate. Seek the best long range potential. Utilize Leo sense of knowing. Show others you care and can do something about it.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) Today, emphasize greater responsibility, authority. Speak up where finances are concerned. Talk with those close to you. Find out where you stand . . . and why. Fine night for shopping.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Some minor irritations could be turned into major trouble unless you take humorous view. Start remembering not to take yourself too seriously. Taurus person could set good example.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Guard against impulsive actions, especially in dealing with family. Think! Others may misunderstand. Choose new paths. Avoid going back, or throwing good money after bad.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Focus on important details. Means leave no loose ends. Check with library or newspaper. Find out facts. Then, act with confidence based on knowledge. Moderation key tonight.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have heart! Cheerful attitude makes minor obstacles soon vanish. Stress versatile approach today. Plan creative activity, including vacation. Make "special person" happy.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be sure individual who "tells your story" is serious. Day when some jokes can go too far. Try to be aware, perceptive, ready to be skeptical. Valuable knowledge available. Seek it.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Prized possessions can be shown off to advantage. Visit, receive visitors. Communicate needs, desires, wishes. Keep mind and heart open. Wonderful day possible. Make it so.

If today is your birthday you are loyal, have tendency to dramatize events. You feel "close" to the creative arts and to creative people.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:—Moon cycle up for Aries, Taurus, Gemini. Special word to Scorpio. You are being observed more than usual.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP)—Young Carman His of Cobourg, Ont., had to wait until the eighth race at Greenwood Monday night before he got into action — even then the 13-year-old played a waiting game before moving on with Superior Richard to capture the eighth and featured race.

Although Carman is the youngest driver at Greenwood the majority of the 5,470 fans bet him and Superior Richard with confidence, sending them to the post as the 4-to-5 choice. He won over Carabuyn Grattan, who was one length in front of Ko Ko C., in third place.

Superior Richard's time for the one-mile pace was 2:07 3-5 and he paid a $3.80, $3.00, $2.60

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the tissues. Inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement may remain.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is available in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

In Isolated Goose Bay Priest Is His Own Dentist

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

DAVIS INLET, Labrador (CP)—A priest called on a dentist in Goose Bay last year and asked to have some fillings checked.

"Remarkably good," said the dentist. "Who filled your teeth?"

"I did myself," the priest replied.

Rev. Francis Peters is no trained dentist, but he has learned elementary dentistry the hard way, just as he has learned elementary medicine, boxing, carpentry, mechanics, meteorology, engineering, plumbing and barbering.

By inclination, Father Peters is tender-hearted. By training he is an intellectual. But the challenging life at Davis Inlet, where he has been the Roman Catholic missionary to a band of Nascopie Indians for seven years, has taught him to be tough.

He found out soon after his arrival at this isolated post 100 miles north of Goose Bay that the band's strong men were its leaders. They were not necessarily good leaders. Often they were bullies, but in the band strength only was respected.

USED HIS FISTS

Father Peters is lean and rangy, weighing a slight 160 pounds despite his six feet, but there isn't a man in the band who can beat him. He has brought Christianity, and enforced justice via the fist.

"I can honestly say that until I came to Labrador I never laid violent hands on anyone. Sadly it was necessary here."

He held up a roughened fist and added: "This is all they would listen to."

On one expedition in the interests of seeing justice done, he flattened a parishioner with two solid punches but broke a finger. He went home, set the finger and splinted it, took a few aspirins to ease the pain, and got back to work building his church-school - presbytery-parish hall and installing a furnace he made from two oil drums.

When he was interviewed, Father Peters was tenderly nursing a frozen jaw. He had [illegible] on a 40-mile supply trek by motorized toboggan, pushing directly into a 30-mile wind with the temperature 40 below. Three times his face froze. His jaw was still dead white when he reached home.

ONLY TINGLES

"The jaw doesn't bother me yet," he said. "It only tingles. It will probably hurt in a few days when the flesh starts to turn black. I must treat it."

Next morning, despite the swollen jaw, he donned his vestments over his air force surplus pants and caribou-skin mukluks, poured sacramental wine into a glass that once was a peanut butter jar, and celebrated mass.

Father Peters was 30 and a top philosophy student when his order plucked him from his native Holland and sent him to Labrador. He knew neither English nor Indian dialects.

For 6½ years, until the Newfoundland division of northern Labrador affairs opened a store six miles across the bay from his parish, he was the only white man on Davis Inlet.

There were no wooden buildings, only tents. Even today the home of band chief Joe Iserk is the only wooden building aside from the mission.

Single-handedly, Father Peters began the task his order imposed on him.

Today he is proud of three things most of all: The infant mortality rate is down from 80 per cent to five; there isn't an illiterate Indian in the band, and no one lives on relief.

PEDIATRICS TOO

Father Peters pleaded with Indian mothers to learn simple post-natal hygiene. Some children he took care of himself.

Goose Bay magistrate Terry Corbett remembers having seen babies, born in winter, clustered in boxes around the wood stove in Father Peters' building to keep them warm through the first critical days.

Father Peters once had to be absent from Davis Inlet for a few months and nine babies died. In all the rest of his time here six have died.

His over-riding concern is the mental and physical health of his parishioners. He doesn't believe in coddling them, or in allowing them to let themselves be coddled.

"Pure charity is killing," he says. "Nothing is worse for the spirit than to be dependent. These people will be integrated into the white man's civilization in two or three generations. When they come in, I want them to come in as a proud people who have always stood on their own feet and have nothing to be ashamed of."

When necessary, he pushes them. This winter he pushed the band into going inland to hunt caribou.

NEED MEAT

"What should they do? Sit around the government store living on flour, tea and sugar all winter?

"They need fresh meat for their health. They need the work and they need to use their skills. They are good hunters. Most of all, they need to feel that they have skills and are doing things for themselves."

HIS FISTS WIN RESPECT — Rev. Francis Peters, a Roman Catholic missionary at Davis Inlet, Labrador, has learned to be tough during his seven years among the Nascopie Indians. He once flattened a parishioner with two punches but broke a figer.

Labrador Indians are not fishermen but last summer Father Peters pushed them into fishing and they had a successful catch. The Newfoundland government helped by providing boats and equipment.

Given health, work and education, Father Peters feels, religion will come naturally. In his school he teaches the children to read and write in their own language first. Later he teaches mathematics and geography. Still later they learn English. They pick up religion as they go along, mainly because the only Indian textbare translations of religious wrks.

"They are basically a very religious people and their native pagan religion is quiteclose to Christianity."

Traces of paganism remain in religious celebrations and Father Peters tolerates them.

"There is a deep nature in these people that can be transformed only slowly. You cannot expect them to come from centuries of paganism into our world in 10 years. To expect it would be to murder them in the spirit. It will be, instead, a slow job; a long, slow job."

Sixteen and in Grade Nine

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—We have a sixteen-year-old daughter in grade nine. She wants to go away to school next year, or she is going to quit school.

Doris, we just haven't the money to send her away for three years' schooling and then pay for some kind of training We have other children.

She wants to be a hairdresser. Do any hairdressing schools take girls with grade nine education? — PERPLEXED PARENT.

DEAR PERPLEXED—If she is still in grade nine at 16, will another school got knowledge into her head? What does her teacher think of her chances of making grade ten? Schooling teaches us to think, but individuals differ in what they can absorb.

I'd say your daughter should get grade ten, if she can, while at home; then go directly to hairdressing school.

I am sending you my leaflet on the career of hairdresser.

Move To Unseat Mayor Haig Is Dismissed

Judge W. S. Lane Cites Reasons in Judgment

The application to unseat Mayor A. McLean Haig for alleged conflict of interest was dismissed with costs yesterday by Judge W. S. Lane of Picton.

In a 16-page judgment registered late Tuesday afternoon, Judge Lane ruled that, within the meaning of Ontario's Municipal Act governing eligibility of elected representatives, Mayor Haig had no interest in any city contract.

Charles DeLong, applicant in the action against Mayor Haig, indicated the possibilities of an appeal late today.

"Further action will be taken providing sufficient funds are raised to carry the action to an appeal court," Mr. DeLong said.

The action, was brought against the mayor two weeks ago by city councillor Charles DeLong, after an earlier petition to the Ontario Municipal Board headed by ratepayer Ezra Ward Widgen was turned down. Mr. DeLong's application charged the mayor, as president and general manager of Moira-Schuster Limited, a city fuel supplier, should not have dealt with local institutions in the current year.

Named in Mr. DeLong's application were:

(1) Sale of coal to the Bay of Quinte District High School Board;

(2) Sale of fuel oil and was to the Belleville General Hospital;

(3) Delivery of salt to the Belleville Works Department;

(4) Delivery of coal to the Belleville General Hospital.

"As I have stated and as I stated at the hearing," said Judge Lane, "I find great difficulty in criticizing Mr. Haig for any of these transactions. In my view there should be no criticism of him for any one of these acts, and it does appear to me to have been very unfortunate that any citizen should have been felt bound to take steps against him in this regard where there was little foundation for criticism."

JUDGE'S DECISION

A centre-pin of the action against the mayor was his holding of a qualifying share in Moira-Schuster's parent firm, the Weaver Coal Company. This share was sold to the company after the mayor had signed it.

"I am prepared to find," said Mr. Justice Lane, "that there never has been a dividend declared upon the

Canadian Wins Gold Medal In Diving

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) Tom Dinsley, a 22-year-old Vancouver diver, pulled a major upset at the Pan-American Games today, giving Canada its first gold medal of the meet when he won the three-metre springboard diving title by a razor-thin margin.

He cracked the United States monopoly on swimming and diving shortly after pert Judy Stewart of Toronto had come through with a lesser surprise by winning the silver medal in the women's three - metre springboard competition.

Five Toronto Women Freed On Charges

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Five attractive Toronto women posed for photographers and danced on the steps of city hall here Tuesday after being acquitted of charges of robbery with violence.

Morris McCarthy, 56, a Peterborough amateur photographer, claimed the women stripped and attacked him and stole $45 in cash, silverware and luggage after a drinking party March 27.

In evidence Monday Joanne Royale, 20, who said she lived with McCarthy and invited him to take semi-nude photographs of her, said McCarthy hit her on the teeth so hard that one of her teeth pierced her lip.

She also said McCarthy bludgeoned Joyce Bouchier, 17, with a shillelagh.

The other girls are Ann Tanner, 22, a widow, Carol Ennest, 22, and Jessie Marie Gabereau, 20.

Want to Make School Garage Bomb Shelter

TORONTO (CP)—School trustees here want federal funds to convert an underground school parking garage into a bomb shelter.

The Toronto board of education's management committee decided Tuesday to write to Ottawa requesting funds to alter plans for a garage at Northern Secondary School at an approximate additional cost of $95,000.

Manitoba MLA's Find Snoose Box No Aid in Kicking Smoking Habit

WINNIPEG (CP) — A government member told the Manitoba legislature Tuesday night how he tried—and failed—to kick the smoking habit.

Fred Groves (PC-ST. Vital) said he believes he must set an example if he is to urge youngsters to stay away from tobacco. So, a few weeks ago he tried to quit.

The problem was to find a substitute. He ruled out candy or extra eating on the grounds they would also be bad for his health.

He settled on snoose, a mixture of tobacco and snuff inhaled through the nose.

"Three legislature members have been using snoose and the snoose box one night" Mr. Groves said. "And our only reward was an hour-long bout of sneezing."

He said his only point was that it is difficult for would-be smokers to break the habit.

He passed his snoose box around the legislature and members could take a whiff.

Neil Shoemaker (L—Gladstone) arose to debate a motion which he said had been proposed by himself and "seconded by the member from Gladstone."

Mr. Shoemaker was reminded that he is the member from Gladstone.

"I guess the snoose box got the better of me," Mr. Shoemaker said.

Synopsis: The weather continues unseasonably cool over Ontario. Temperatures will be in the 40s this afternoon in all sections and under clear skies will drop below freezing tonight. As a ridge of high pressure moves into the province Thursday mainly sunny and warmer weather is expected.

OUT OF THE EAGLE'S NEST — Five Toronto girls cheer for photographers on the steps of the city hall in Peterborough, Ont., Tuesday after being acquitted of charges of robbing with violence. Photographer Morris "The Eagle" McCarthy, 56, claimed the girls stripped and attacked him after a drinking party and stole $45 in cash and goods. Two of the girls claimed they had been beaten by McCarthy. Magistrate said McCarthy "got what he deserved." # MEDICAL CARE INSURANCE BILL IS INTRODUCED

Coverage Will Be Available to All

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario has taken the first, soft step towards so-called "medicare".

A bill introduced in the legislature Tuesday by Premier Robarts sets up the bare bones of medical care insurance. It has three key aspects:

1. It would be voluntary.

2. It would make coverage available to everyone.

3. It would make use of private insurance companies, who would feel the weight of the only compulsory features of the program.

The Ontario bill differs from Saskatchewan's as night from day. The Saskatchewan program introduced last summer is also universal but, unlike Ontario's, it is compulsory and it is operated by a government medical care insurance commission.

Premier Robart's legislation, which he had forecast last fall, was given first reading Tuesday and will have second reading—debate in principle—before the current session ends in the next few days.

WILL HOLD HEARINGS

Then it goes to a special committee which the Progressive Conservative government is setting up. Public hearings will be held this summer, after which the committee will send the bill back to the legislature with any suggested revisions.

Any such changes will be given consideration in due course in the legislature," the premier said.

Red Line on Laos Hardens, Civil War May Be Result

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sudden hardening of the Soviet line on Laos threatened today to wreck diplomatic efforts to preserve that country's neutrality and save it from civil war.

Disclosure of the change in Moscow's attitude came with the publication there Tuesday of charges that the United States is responsible for the recent outbreak of fighting in the Southeast Asian kingdom.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was described in dispatches from Moscow as insisting that the accusation against the United States be included in the joint Soviet-British declaration calling for a cease-fire. Britain turned down the Russians' demand.

Russia and Britain hold key positions in the diplomatic struggle over Laos. As co-chairmen of an international conference which developed a neutrality formula for Laos last year they share responsibility to see that the neutrality agreement is carried out.

U.S. officials became alarmed last week over the possibility that a serious new Southeast Asian crisis was developing. Over the weekend President

MAY BOYCOTT U.S. SHIPS IN SEAWAY

Battle of Trade Unions Looms

OTTAWA (CP)—The threat of a boycott of American ships in the St. Lawrence Seaway looms in the international battle of trade unions for labor supremacy on the Great Lakes.

The Canadian Labor Congress said Tuesday it will be "forced to consider retaliatory action" against United States ships unless boycotts of Canadian ships in American lakeports are suspended.

The warning was served in a telegram to Prime Minister Pearson, asking him to intervene immediately with President Kennedy to halt the harassment of Canadian ships by the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.) and its allies.

Findings of a federal inquiry into the dispute are still being written.

It was the CLC's opening volley in the renewed struggle between the SIU and the congress-supported Canadian Maritime Union.

The SIU is trying to break the fledgling CMU by picketing and boycotting ships of the Upper Lakes Shipping Company of Toronto, which are manned by CMU crews.

BY U.S. PORTS

Although the SIU-CMU conflict is purely Canadian, the battleground is in American lakeports where the SIU and its allies, chiefly the International Longshoremen's Association, are trying to keep Upper Lakes freighters by picket lines or secondary boycotts.

Loggers Ignore Court Rules As Trial Opens in Film House

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)—The magistrate walked on to the theatre stage, sat in a leather chair and put a large briefcase on a card table.

The defence counsel and Crown attorney sat below him, using rickety card tables in place of the usual oak desks found in most Ontario courtrooms.

Many of the 700 spectators wandered about freely, smoking in the aisles and purchasing soft drinks.

One defendant was ordered to stop smoking. Another, in the front row, slept through most of the testimony.

The unusual scene came Tuesday when 242 loggers went on trial on charges of unlawful assembly resulting from a violence-ridden woods strike during which three strikers were killed and nine others injured.

The trial opened at 1 p.m. and adjourned at 5 p.m. Soon afterward, a crowd, including some of the defendants, filed into the theatre to watch

Pearson Strikes Determined Note In New Challenge

To Take Action to Heal Strains Within Country

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, launching his new administration on a note of determination to meet future challenges, has pledged Canadians "a time to excite the daring, to test the strong and to give new promise to the timid."

He made it plain in a national CBC radio and television broadcast Tuesday night that the paramount challenge "will be taking action to heal the strains and tensions within our country."

Describing the partnership of English- and French-Canadians as "the axis of our nation," Mr. Pearson said:

"I am determined to do everything that a government can do to ensure that this partnership will become richer and be truly equal."

No purpose was more important or more urgent than that the problems dividing the two partners "must be understood and they must be overcome."

SHORT OF MAJORITY

He spoke the day after assuming office with the support particularly of the Liberals' lack of a Commons majority. They have 130 seats to the 94 Progressive Conservatives, 24 Social Credit members and 17 New Democrats—or three shy of a majority.

He said he had no complaint and was resolved not to allow it to influence the government in any way that will weaken its action for you."

The government would not be seeking to evade any issues or avoid a vote of confidence. It would not be seeking any special deals. It would "breach no trust, barter no principles."

Before going on the air, Mr. Pearson announced:

1. Elevation to chief justice of Canada of Mr. Justice Robert Taschereau, 65-year-old senior judge of the Supreme Court of Canada. The new chief justice, appointed to Canada's highest court 23 years ago, succeeds Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin who died Feb. 2.

2. Alan Macnaughton, 59-year-old Liberal MP for Montreal Mount Royal, as speaker of the house of commons.

Although the SIU-CMU conflict is purely Canadian, the battleground is in American lakeports where the SIU and its allies, chiefly the International Longshoremen's Association, are trying to keep Upper Lakes freighters by picket lines or secondary boycotts.

3-Seat Error Made Reporting N. B. Election

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Useless unofficial results of Monday's New Brunswick election are proved wrong in the official count April 29, the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties will enter the next legislature session with the same strength as in the last House.

An election night mixup in ballot figures for Saint John City riding gave the Liberals a net gain of three seats. It was indicated the Liberals had made a turnaround sweep in traditionally Conservative Saint John City while dropping a seat in Victoria to the Conservatives.

Standing in the last House was 31 Liberals and 24 Conservatives. Results reported election night would have given the Liberals 34 seats and Conservatives 18.

However, returning Officer J. B. Conlin said in a statement Tuesday that his office made up no vote totals election night because returns were not received from eight points. These returns were not received until Tuesday, when the Conlin compiled his unofficial totals.

He said returns from the polls received election night were entered on a master sheet and representatives of press and radio made their own totals.

"An examination of the poll returns as entered in my office without totals appears to be correct," he said. "The totals published by press and radio were not made in my office as such totals could not be made until today (Tuesday) when it was obvious that press and radio totals were in error."

If the returning officer's unofficial count is substantiated by the official count, the Liberals still have only one Saint John city seat, occupied by Hugh Mitty, former member of Parliament for Saint John-Albert.

FIRE DEATHS 219

TORONTO (CP)—The annual report of the Ontario fire marshal's office, the attorney-general's department said 219 persons were killed and 611 injured by fire in the province during 1962, compared with 173 persons killed and 543 injured in 1961. The 219 killed in 1962 were, included 90 men, 51 women and 78 children. Total fire loss was $28,037,311 and uninsured loss $5,471,964. There were 36,034 fires.

'I Hate You Ruddy Americans'

Won't Tell Sukarno Hands Off Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP)—"I hate you ruddy Americans," the Briton who was sounding off said with a smile. "I really do."

"Why?"

"Because you won't ruddy well tell that chap Sukarno to leave the formation of Malaysia ruddy well alone."

Reuters in this capital of the country that is to be born as Malaysia Aug. 31 are so hot under their collars they have to can get their brandy down after dinner. They want President Kennedy to tell off President Sukarno for saying Malaysia is nothing more than a continuation of colonialism.

Actually, Kennedy has stated the U.S. position—that the gathering of Malaya, Singapore, North Borneo, Sarawak and Brunei under one flag is a good idea.

But apparently Kennedy, who would like to get along with Sukarno too, feels that once is enough to enter into this international squabble.

What Sukarno means by colonialism is that the RAF will be leaving its base at Changi, nor will British warships quit Singapore Aug. 31. Britain plans to protect Malaysia until it is able to protect itself.

So while a new nation is being born in this land of Rudyard Kipling, the birth won't be without pain.

In addition to hoping to soothe Sukarno, Kennedy and his policy makers have to keep a hand on President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines whose constituents claim North Borneo.

"Anyone who can't speak Malayan in one year shouldn't be given a licence to work or own a shop," an excited patriot declared.

Immediately everyone at the table leaped into the argument.

"How about the 3,000,000 Chinese in the new land of 10,000,000?" an educated man from Peking asked.

It was finally agreed they were too old to learn Malayan, but perhaps their children

Sukarno Backs Rebels

JAKARTA (Reuters) — President Sukarno of Indonesia today reiterated Indonesian support for the rebels of British North Borneo.

He told the opening meeting of a conference of African and Asian journalists here more independence was not enough by itself.

There was a world revolution of new emerging forces against the old established order—a revolution of mankind against the exploitation of man by man.

"That is why we support the struggle of the people of North Kalimantan (Borneo)," he said. "The struggle of the people of North Kalimantan is to resist the formation of Malaysia and to try instead to achieve full independence."

The proposed Malaysian federation will comprise Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak, Brunei and North Borneo.

Princess Alexandra Marries Scot in Medieval Splendor

LONDON (AP)—Princess Alexandra was married today in the medieval splendor of Westminster Abbey to a man she's known since her favorite childhood Scotsman Angus Bruce Ogilvy, 29. Queen and even an archduke could have envied the commoners more that the hardworking 36-year-old Alexandra's British businessman and son of the 8th Earl of Airlie.

In many ways, it was a fairy tale wedding—as any royal wedding seems to be—but Alex, as Londoners know her, is no fairytale princess.

Even a highly nervous Queen Elizabeth, beamed from her seat, a gold and black throne-like seat in the abbey.

Everything went beautifully to plan.

The wedding probably was the last of a British princess for a decade. The only unmarried princess left is Anne, who is 12.

Alexandra, 26, in trailing magnolia lace embroidered with acorns and oak leaves, swept up the blue-carpeted aisle of the abbey on the arm of her brother, the Duke of Kent, who flew from Hong Kong to give her away.

Anne was the chief bridesmaid.

Alexandra blew a kiss to someone as she started up the abbey aisle on the arm of her brother. She smiled frequently and from time to time gently held back her soldier-brother, who seemed bent on getting her to the altar ahead of time.

The princess was calm, radiant and smiling — displaying the habitual demeanor that has endeared her to Britons in all walks of life.

Her bridegroom appeared equally relaxed and smiling and gently solicitous in supporting his bride's hand. He wore the traditional morning coat and striped trousers.

Each gave the marriage vows in strong, clear words. The ceremony included Alexandra's promise to obey her husband.

Leaving the church, the bride's long train trailed

High School Bd. Reduces Year's Budget by $10,000 To Assist in Tax Rate

The Bay of Quinte High School District Board has been able to reduce its 1963 budget requirements by $10,000, it was announced today following the board's regular monthly meeting last night.

Making possible the paring of the year's estimates, the board decided not to hire a new superintendent of secondary schools this year and also will attempt to get along with less than the 17 additional teachers, which were felt necessary for this year.

The re-consideration of the year's budget, was the main item on the night's agenda. City council had asked for re-consideration of the board's 1963 estimates as a means of holding down the city tax rate.

The board previously had approved the year's budget at $1,- 230,000 and this has now been reduced by $10,000. Belleville's share of the board costs is 64.71 per cent.

ACCEPT OFFER

In other business the board accepted the offer of a Toronto firm for $500 as trade-in value on unused string instruments at Belleville College. The instruments had not been used for several years and it was decided to turn them in on new wind instruments.

The board approved sketch plans only for the renovation of two basement rooms at the collegiate with the view of making them into semi-class room and lunch room space. The rooms proposed for alterations are the old rifle range and the welding shop.

It is unlikely that the work will be proceeded with this year.

The board approved calling of tenders for the paving of two parking lots at the collegiate and also tenders for the erection of a chain link fence along the west side of the collegiate grounds.

TRANSPORTATION APPROVED

Transportation was again approved for the transfer of local high school students at Kingston summer school giving the students an opportunity of passing subjects in which they failed in regular examinations.

Continuation of the position of co-ordinator of extra curricular activities was approved, while also agreed that in schools where department of education regulations calls for a department head, a teacher in charge of the department will be considered a department head. The decision affects two teachers in the city.

And finally Mr. J. J. Trudeau was named vice-chairman of the board to replace Mr. A. O. Drysdale who is resigning from the board at the end of the month, because of his transfer to Montreal.

Two Baha'i Members Plan London Journey

Toward the end of April 10,000 Baha'is from every corner of the globe will meet in London, England, to mark the centenary celebrations of the founding of the Baha'i faith. The local Baha'i community observed the event with a meeting on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gray, Alexander Street, Kingston, Ont. "The Baha'is of the world have been working to-ward this goal for this century," said Mr. Michael Mahoney, chairman.

Baha'is attending from the local community were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Curtis and Mrs. Shirley Farnden, Trenton; Mrs. Melba Loft and Mrs. Evelyn Watts, Shannonville. Two Baha'is from Belleville will be attending the Congress in London, Mrs. Yvette Grey and her sister, Mrs. Yvonne Crowder.

Kiwanians Enjoy Film on Golf At Luncheon

About 30 Kiwanians gathered at the Kiwanis Centre Tuesday noon hour for their regular weekly meeting, with president Ralph Gerlach presiding.

There was no guest speaker for the occasion and instead members enjoyed a film on golf, supplied by Jim Thompson.

Kiwanian Armand Duffy announced there would be an inter-club meeting in Waterloo next Tuesday and members wishing to go were to contact him. He said he would be leaving for Waterloo following next Tuesday's meeting, if enough out-of-towners going, and if not, cars would be available.

Kiwanian Jim Tuckaberry led in the singing and the sing-song was conducted by Kiwanian Jim Stewart.

Dental Study Club to Hold City Meeting

The Bay of Quinte Dental Study Club, a division of the Bay of Quinte Dental Society will hold its first meeting this weekend at the Quinte Hotel. Dentists from the Belleville, Picton and parts of Northumberland counties form the nucleus of the study club.

Dr. Jim Sim of St. Catharines, will be the first guest lecturer to address the club. Dr. Sim is a member of the Faculty of Dentistry at the University of Toronto and one of the founders of the dental study club movement in southern Ontario.

The format of this club is the provision of the best possible type of dentistry to the public of this area and Dr. Sims' subject, "Are Your Patients Receiving Complete Dental Services?" is most appropriate for this first meeting. It is felt that members of this nature and continual post-graduate study that practising dentists become and broaden their diagnostic and treatment skills, and keep abreast of recent trends and developments in the medical and dental health field. It is through this continual study that the public health is improved.

Guest of honor at the two-day meeting will be Col. Leman of the Royal Canadian Dental Corps based at Trenton. Dental assistants, receptionists and nurses will also attend this meeting.

Further meetings of the Bay of Quinte Dental Study Club are scheduled for this fall and the public will be kept informed of future developments and meetings.

Judy Stewart Wins Diving Silver Medal

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) Pert Judy Stewart, a 16-pound diver from Toronto, won the silver medal today in women's three-metre springboard diving at the Pan-American Games, pulling up from a third-place standing to finish behind Barbara Ellen McAllister of the United States.

Patsy Willard of the United States, who had led the field after Tuesday's compulsory dives, slipped to third place to take the bronze medal.

Parks Board to Postpone Request for Water Main

TRENTON — The Trenton Board of Parks Management last night decided to postpone a request for a watermain to 300 square feet of land, used for years for planting flowers at the corner of Front and Dundas Streets. The decision was made after a letter from Town Engineer Eric Alderay, saying his department did not have the machinery to install the line on the town land and suggesting that the board contact the Public Utilities Commission.

Board chairman William Ireland said he believed that "no parking" signs erected on parks board land outside the Royal Canadian Legion Hall should not have been installed without the board's permission. The board will ask that the two signs on the Bayshore section of Dundas Street, south of the public library, be moved nearer to the corner of the signs, suggested caution was needed after a traffic committee, should not have been erected without the board's approval.

Board member Clyde Mason made several suggestions for improving the Mount Pelion Park area. He said council intended to erect a chain link mountain road every two weeks. Also, he would get On-tario Hydro to install an unbreakable light near the parking area, a light that would go on and off at the intended-ically when dusk and dawn came. Hydro had agreed to the installation, he said, provided the board paid the bill.

Mr. Mason also claimed that the shrubbery at the portion of the mountain posed a definite danger to mountain top visitors, and suggested that some kind of fence be erected. "It's a heck of a mess right now — just a bunch of rocks that are stuck in the ground," he said.

Finally, he suggested that a drinking fountain be installed close to the water tank, for the benefit of visitors.

The board will decide this weekend where to plant 100 trees bought for five dollars each, and suggested that he did not believe they should be confined to the newer areas of town.

The board will also buy flags for Fraser Park, Dunn Pellat and the Government dock.

Man Fined $40 For Having Fish Illegally

TRENTON—A Trenton man was fined $40 yesterday for unlawfully having pickerel in his possession while the fish were out of season.

Gerald Radway, pleaded guilty to the charge before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in magistrate's court.

A further charge of obstructing a fish and wild life officer was dismissed by the Magistrate.

Wild life officer, George Warner of Stirling, testified that he saw two men, one with a fishing line, between the Canal and the river about 100 yards south of the CNR tracks at approximately 1.30 a.m. on April 17th. He said the other man was acting as a lookout.

Mr. Warner said that while he was watching on the dam a third man went on watch behind him and later six other men walked past him.

The next man to approach he said, was Mr. Radway, carrying a sack, later found to contain 14 pickerel with a total weight of 50 pounds.

"He asked me for my credentials and I showed him my badge, said Mr. Warner, then he put his hands on my chest and began pushing, and I warned him he could be charged with obstruction."

"Was your uniform damaged asked Magistrate Wills? "Yes, but my hat fell off into the mud", replied the game warden.

Mr. Radway denied he used violence to keep the officer away from the fish.

He (Mr. Warner) came at me with a flashlight in his left hand and an object in his right hand and took a strike at me, he said. "I never pushed or touched him in any way. It is quite possible his hat could have fallen off because the ground was rough where he jumped at me."

Air Search Is Continuing

TRENTON—The search for a Montreal business man and his wife missing since Sunday on a flight from Dorval to Sher-brooke, Que., in a Cessna 180 light plane, has so far turned up no clue as to their whereabouts.

Nine RCAF air-craft including an Albatross sent out from the air search co-ordination centre in Trenton on Monday and 21 other aircraft and United States planes are pressing the search for Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Ginsberg.

RCAF officials fear the couple's plane may have been forced down by the bad weather.

Mr. Ginsberg is an experienced pilot.

Madoc Pair Win Presbytery's Bible Quiz

TRENTON — Miss Margaret Sinclair and Mr. Gordon Pitts of St. Peter's Church on the Hill, Madoc, were the successful contestants in the Presbyterian Bible quiz held by the Presbytery of Kingston Young People's Presentation of the new Bible quiz trophy was won by Miss Sinclair and Mr. Pitts by Rev. Norman Hutchinson, convener of the committee in charge of the quiz.

The quiz was held on the Gospel of St. Mark, with the questions being asked by Rev. Robert Sinclair, Madoc, was score-keeper and Rev. Donald Wilson, Trenton was timer. Other young people taking part were Beth Caughey and Anne Carson, Napanee Island; Joann Sherwin and Eric Wallace, Amherst Island; Bruce Post and Sarah Jane Cross, Fulcher; Mac Harper and Paul Pulver, Kingston; Linda Bradstreet and Kent Taylor of St. Columba, Belleville; Sharon Kimberley and Sandra Taylor of Strathcona Park, Kingston; Cecil Hiuser and Robert Sheffield of St. Andrew's, Belleville; Sharon Campbell and Peter Sipkes of Picton; and Jane Meinster and Jim Williamson of Trenton.

A short devotional service was conducted by Miss Carol Goode, assisted by Miss Linda Fallence and Miss Isabel Williamson. The young people and guests were welcomed to Trenton by the president of Trenton P.Y.P.S., Miss Shirley Poole.

Following the presentation of the trophy by the winning team from Madoc, a short recreational period was held, and refreshments were served by the host church. Rev. Sander Dunn, Albert Head, conducted the successful and enjoyable evening with prayer and benediction. Members of the Kingston Presbytery group were billeted and entertained in the homes of the congregation of St. Peter's.

It is the hope that this Bible quiz will be held annually, to-gether with a program for the Presbyterian Young People's Society that will also include drama competition and debating.

Find Children Started Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—A coroner's jury ruled Tuesday night that a March 22 fire in suburban Eastview which killed two children was started by the children playing with matches.

The jury also found that the deaths of Rosalind Beauchamp, 7, and his sister Claudette, 4, were partly negligent.

In his verdict the jury commented that "a limited degree of improper supervision and inadequate housekeeping and unsanitary methods was prevalent on the part of the parents," and Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Beauchamp.

Request for County Health Unit Heard at Session But No Action Taken

Still another request for the establishment of a county health unit was heard at Hastings county council this morning.

The request, from Mrs. Winnifred Donaldson at Belleville General Hospital was contained in a letter to Bancroft deputy reeve, Mrs. Audrey Hughson who turned the letter over to county council.

No action was taken on the request and the matter was laid over for more information and discussion at a later session.

Mrs. Donaldson's request was aimed primarily at the provision of post natal care for newly-born infants of parents living in the rural areas.

Reeve Thomas Armstrong of Deloro said such a system had been in effect in England with very satisfying results and felt that clinics for post natal care could be set up at three or more locations in the county.

CARE BADLY NEEDED

Mrs. Sexsmith agreed that such post natal care was badly needed in the county, possibly more so than a full scale county health unit.

Last year council heard a request for information on the establishment of a county health unit from Frankford Reeve Frank Rabel.

The request for the county health unit was withdrawn, however, due to the high cost of its establishment.

The two mid-Hastings high school boards, the Centre Hastings High School Board and the newly formed Tweed-Hungerford High School Board are now prepared to finalize their agreement together with conditions governing the withdrawal of Tweed and Hungerford from the Centre Hastings body.

Madoc Village reeve Thomas Burnside told county council this morning that following a meeting last night the two boards were now prepared to finalize their agreement and abide by any department of Education decisions.

WILLING TO CO-OPERATE

Tweed Reeve Guy Hughes corroborated Reeve Burnside's statement and said that both boards were now willing to go along with any decision by the department and "let the chips fall where they may."

Tuesday in a letter from the solicitor of the Centre Hastings High School Board, council learned that last year's agreement between the two high school boards was not being implemented and the matter was laid over until the original agreement could be read in council today.

Council received in a resolution from the Ottawa Valley Tourist Association asking that the C.P.R. owned Kingston and Pembroke railway be continued as a scenic route.

Yesterday council took no action on the request for concurrence on the understanding that the railway was entirely out of the Hastings district.

Today, however, Tudor Reeve Verne McMurray said it had been brought to his attention that the railway did cut through the Land O Lakes tourist area, and council accordingly concurred in the resolution.

Warden Charles Long agreed that it would be for the betterment of the area. "It does not pay to be too narrow minded," he said.

No action will be taken at this session on the appointment of a county safety inspector as asked for by the Ontario Department of Labor.

Reeve Verne McMurray, reporting for a special committee on the matter, asked that the appointment be left in abeyance as the department was not now insisting for such appointments in all counties.

He said if the act was rigidly enforced it would be far reaching and very costly for a county such as Hastings.

CALLS FOR SUBSIDY

Council concurred in a resolution calling for subsidy by the Ontario government on interest charges for money borrowed by municipalities for roads purposes.

It also concurred in another resolution asking for a study to be made of the indiscriminate use of insecticides to prevent further danger to wild life.

Reeve Fred Beckett of Rawdon said insecticides were necessary for orchards spraying but that Reeve Burnside said the key word in the resolution was "indiscriminate", and said it had been shown that insecticides were creating a danger when used in large scale forest areas.

Council failed to go along with another resolution which asked government of "insidious" advertising by brewery and liquor firms, which were said to be demoralizing the youth of the country.

COUNTRY LOSING OUT

Reeve Verne McMurry pointed out that until recently effectively recently such advertising had been banned in Ontario, but nothing could be done about such advertising by American stations and periodicals aimed at Canadian listeners and readers.

As result Canadians along the border were still being flooded with the advertising and TV stations and newspapers in this country were losing out in advertising money.

Reeve Alpine of Bancroft agreed the liquor and beer advertising was insidious but pointed out government safeguards by the government were making it so.

He felt that straightforward advertising would be much better.

Deseronto Reeve Gerald Long said the whole setup is wrong. These people have a good product but still are not allowed to advertise freely."

New Liberal Member, Mayor Address County Councillors

An exchange in civic and political greetings was an unexpected interlude in the morning session of Hastings county council today.

Visitors at the session included Liberal member - elect for Hastings South, Robert Temple, Belleville Mayor A. M. Haig, and deputy mayor Ben Corke.

Mayor Haig spoke of the good relations which had existed between the county and city and said that for a good many years he had been trying to improve these relations.

"I feel they were never better than at the present time," he said.

He said that the common interests between the city and the county were now being further cemented through their being partners in the ownership of Belleville General Hospital.

COMMENTS ON DECISION

This common interest in the hospital would be good, not only for the hospital, but also for the two partners, he said.

He commended briefly on yesterday's decision by Judge Wilfred Lane dismissing the application to unseat him because of alleged conflict of interest.

During the period of suspense he had been pen heartened by the messages of support from county council members and from county officials.

"It has been a distressing experience and one which I would not wish on my worst enemy, but through it I have learned, and have been greatly encouraged by the fact that I have more friends than I realized."

Deputy Mayor Ben Corke added his personal congratulations to Mayor Haig in the dismissal of the application to unseat him.

Mr. Temple told county council that it was his intention to try to carry on the traditions of the riding, and to bring in innovations combining the past with imagination for the future.

Balanced Budget Object of Govt. Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—The new Liberal government will soon forward a balanced budget, Finance Minister Walter Gordon said Tuesday night.

He added that this does not mean the objective will be reached "in one year or two years."

"But that's the direction we intend to move," said the new finance minister, who has already begun preparation of the budget speech he has said he will present to Parliament in June.

Mr. Gordon, questioned on the CBC television program Inquiry, also said that overcoming the unemployment problem is "the first objective of the new government in the domestic field."

The first step would be creation of a municipal development fund early in the new parliament to provide investment capital for municipal projects.

Air Cadet Squadron Here Is Presented With Ensign, Inspected by Trenton CO

Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron, No. 608, Belleville, received its ensign last night. Formed only 12 months ago, the squadron has paraded every Wednesday night since, at the armouries. Last night, the squadron was presented its ensign, by J. B. Smith of Toronto, secretary-manager of the Ontario Provincial Committee of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

The ceremony included an inspection of the squadron by G/C D. J. Williams, commanding officer of RCAF Station Trenton, drill by the squadron, and the dedication of the ensign by S/L E. Martin, Protestant chaplain of Station Trenton.

Two squadron NCO's were promoted, in a ceremony following the presentation of the ensign. Cpl. G. Polmanter and Cpl. E. Wardell, both of Trenton, were promoted to the rank of sergeant. The promotions were performed by G/C R. Thompson, Commanding officer of Number Six Repair Depot, Trenton.

Group Captain D. J. Williams, commanding officer of Air Station Trenton spoke to the 57 air cadets and more than 100 spectators, and took the salute as the squadron marched past. Short remarks were also offered by Mr. Smith, for the Provincial Committee, W/C E. M. Butcher, for the Air Officer Commanding, RCAF Station Trenton, and by T. Riley, of Belleville, for the Royal Canadian Air Force Association, sponsors of the new Air Cadet Squadron. Mayor A. McLean Haig, of Belleville, was expected to speak but was delayed on city business.

Music for the marching portions of the event, and for the Air Salutes at the beginning and end of the program was provided by the newly formed R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton — 6 R.D. Brass and Reed Band, directed by Sgt. Howard Kelly.

Members Will Take Another Trip to North

Hastings county councillors will take another trip this year through the northern part of the county, it has been decided.

At the opening of the spring session of council yesterday, Warden Charles Long said he would like to see the council bus trip continued following its successful inauguration last year.

He said that such a trip providing the opportunity for councillors in the south to see the north end of the county was good for county public relations and would do much to keep the county united.

This year, however, a different part of the county will be visited than that which was taken in last year.

May Increase Compensation

TORONTO (CP)—Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree told the Ontario legislature Tuesday the provincial government is studying the possibility of increasing pensions under the Workmen's Compensation Act in proportion to rises in the cost of living.

He was replying to a question by Sam Trov (L—Nipissing) who referred particularly to workmen granted pensions for injuries suffered before 1940.

Mr. Troy said he knows some men who lost their legs in lumbering accidents and only receive about $15 a week. He suggested such men be treated as welfare cases rather than having the responsibility of the workmen's compensation board.

He asked council to keep in close touch with him and tell him of their wishes.

"In this way I can be of help and of service," he said.

In closing Mr. Troyle complimented Mrs. Audrey Sexsmith as deputy reeve of Bancroft, on her election as the first woman member of the county council.

"I compliment Mrs. Sexsmith and also the people of her municipality in recognizing ability, regardless of sex," he said.

Following the noon recess the three visitors had dinner with council members.

COSTS WERE HIGH

The canals and locks systems linking the Great Lakes with the ocean cost Canada $320,000,000 and the U.S. $320,000,000.

Quinte S. H-S Assoc. Features School Bands

The April meeting of the Quinte Home and School Association featured the Quinte Secondary School Band, The Danos Band and the conductor, Mr. Asselstine.

Because of the construction program which has limited all activities in Quinte Secondary this year, this is the first—operation the Band has had to perform publicly. Their performances was excellent, to the enjoyment of all, and the praise Quinte has in its band was justly earned. The first part of the program was performed by the full band and included an interesting professional arrangement of "Paavan" and a lively suite of English madrigals.

It is with much regret that it was learned that Mr. Asselstine is leaving Quinte to return to the RCAF.

The second part of the program was devoted to the election of officers for 1963-64 and the report of the delegate attending the Federation convention in Toronto last week.

1963 OFFICERS

Mrs. Stenson, president of the District Council of Home and School Association installed the new officers: president, Mrs. C. R. Pearce; secretary, Mr. Owen Gray; recording secretary, Mrs. Ross Mecredy; membership chairman, Mrs. Quinney; publicity, Mrs. Longhurst. Several offices will be filled at a later date.

Mrs. Gardner gave a report of the convention saying that it was difficult to condense two whole days activities into 10 minutes, but stated that the Ontario Federation has undergone an overhaul, thrown out the old constitution and voted in a new one.

Mr. Davis, Minister of Education in the Ontario Legislative Assembly, stated that the Home and School has an important foundation, laid down by opinion and the needs of industry and business so that education will fill its place.

POPULAR MUSIC

The band resumed its performance with the dance band giving its rendition of up to date types of music popular with the arrangements of such band leaders as Les Brown. This type of music is more popular with young and old alike and many toes were tapping in time to the music.

Mr. Asselstine gave a memorable contribution to the evening, ranging in the talents of Spike Jones. His antics were most amusing to parents and pupils alike.

LEAVE ICEFLOE

LONDON (Reuters)—Russian scientists have left the Ivefloe scientific station North Pole II which drifted into the Canadian sector of the Arctic, the Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday. The station's food, medicine and fuel in the camp for the icefloe's next occupant, if any.

County Council Approves Tax Rate of 20.385 Mills Up 1.49 Mills Over Last Year

A 1963 county tax rate of 20.385 mills was struck here yesterday by Hastings county council as members approved the year's estimates at the opening day of their spring session.

The rate for 1963 is up 1.49 mills over that of last year when the county rate was 18.895 mills.

Total estimated expenditures of $1,291,715.38 were approved for the county this year as compared with an actual figure of $1,202,197 for 1962.

The big item on the county expenditure list is the county roads system for which a total of $634,981 was approved, the figure amounting to upwards of half the estimated county expenditures.

Public welfare, including children's welfare, including hospitalization, and the county homes and farm will take an estimated $341,900; general government $60,700, law enforcement $182,400, and miscellaneous items $171,854.

WILL GET SUBSIDY

On the revenue side it was shown the general levy of 11.5 mills would raise $356,965, and the school levy of 8.5 mills, $225,636.

The general levy is assessed against all county municipalities, while the roads levy is assessed only against those municipalities within the county roads system.

In addition to the two above mentioned levies there is an additional levy of .385 mill against all municipalities to make up the 1963 rate of 20.385 mills.

The county will receive an estimated $397,075 back on provincial government road subsidy.

Also the county will receive $84,809 back from the city of Belleville and the town of Trenton as these municipalities' share of law enforcement and will receive $52,000 provincial subsidy on the operation of the county home.

HAD A SURPLUS

Revenue from the county home (payments for keep by home residents) and from the county home farm, were estimated at $183,000.

According to the auditor's report also heard at yesterday's session, the county had a surplus of $34,322 on last year's operation.

Last year's surplus, together with accrued surplus from other years, brought the surplus balance at the year end to $61,893.

In 1962 the county started the year with an accrued surplus of $26,354, to which $39,047 was included in last year's budget.

PLANTED SHELTER BELT

MOSCOW (AP) — Yevgeny Chekmenev, 58, head of Stalin's "shelter belt" program, died April 21, the Soviet press reports. Vice-chairman of the state purchasing farm in 1934 when he died, he formerly was head of a program to plant a shelter belt of trees in southern Russia similar to the belts planted in the Dust Bowl of the United States in the 1930s.

The Liberal Cabinet

When John G. Diefenbaker was called upon to form a cabinet after the election of 1957, there was widespread speculation as to where he would find suitable ministerial material.

Considerable speculation also preceded the announcement of Lester B. Pearson's new cabinet on Monday, only this time it was concerning whom he would select from a wealth of potential ministers.

The first Diefenbaker Cabinet gave the country what has been widely termed, in recent months, the most efficient government Canada enjoyed in years. The suspicion arises that the difference in pre-appointment speculation arose largely from the fact that before the 1957 election practically nobody expected that Mr. Diefenbaker would have to form a government, while before the April election of this year almost everybody believed this duty would fall to Mr. Pearson. This time there was a much greater opportunity for political observers to hunt out in advance suitable cabinet material, so they found more than it is to be hoped that the results are as good as they were immediately after the 1957 changeover.

Perusing the names on the Liberal cabinet list, one finds the first half-dozen or so, in order of precedence in the Privy Council, familiar household words. These are the members of "the old guard" the survivors of the St. Laurent-Mackenzie King and St. Laurent cabinets and advisors. Then come a group of members of considerable experience, who came to the fore when the Liberal representation was cut to a handful following the 1958 election. Amongst those completing the list are some bright newcomers.

The Cabinet must be one of the youngest in years. The Canadian Press gives the age of one, Senate Leader W. Ross Macdonald, as 71. Of the remaining 25, only three members, Prime Minister Pearson, Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier and Forestry Minister Jack Nicholson of Vancouver Centre, are in their sixties. The Prime Minister, at 66, is the oldest of this trio. Fourteen are in their fifties. Six are in their forties. The remaining two are Hon. Paul Hellyer, Minister of Defence, at 39, and Miss Judy LaMarsh, Minister of Health, 38. That last-named figure, we understand, is not the product of a woman's customary privilege regarding her age and Hon. Judy's claim to distinction as the youngest member of the Cabinet is authentic.

One of the most interesting appointments involve members of the "old guard." To Hon. Paul Martin goes the post of Minister of External Affairs which Pearson himself held in the last Liberal Cabinet. It will be difficult for Mr. Pearson to refrain from "looking over the shoulder" of his one-time rival for party leadership. The choice of Hon. J. W. Pickersgill as secretary of state at first seems surprising, until one learns that Mr. Pickersgill will also be House leader and therefore cahnot handle too busy a portfolio. How he will acquit himself in the role of House leader is problematic. That he is adept in the give-and-take of debate nobody will dispute, but he may have left some old wounds which may result in him being denied co-operation when he desires it most.

Stick-in-the-Mud Speaks

Twenty-three Port Arthur high school students set out last week to push a bed over 500 miles of highway. They expected the feat to eclipse the 480-mile record set by students of McMaster University last summer.

Their enthusiasm and school spirit are admirable, of course. But it might be more admirable if they concentrated on the old fashioned ideals of gaining fame for their school—through scholarship.

"Allergy is one of Nature's weirdest inventions. Its effects can be fatal, or merely incommoding. And they can also be quite unexpected. One case history tells of a 30-year-old man who began to sneeze every time he ate oranges, another of a man who fainted every time he took a certain fizzy drink containing cane sugar. Yet another person would come out in great red weals on the skin when he was exposed to the sun, while another fell into a coma in a cold wind."—Paul Vaughan.

Fear of cancer is an important factor in keeping people from reporting unusual symptoms to their doctor, according to the Canadian Cancer Society. Knowledge of the facts can help to dispel fear. That's why a large proportion of the Society's effort and resources are spent on public education. Your contribution to the Society can help dispel the fear of cancer and save lives that might be lost through ignorance.

Chicago Law Enforcement Not Effective

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In my city Chicago, which I dearly love, despite its strongarmings, its frauds, its fakers, its prostitutes, its polley rackets, its slums landlords, and similar civic excrescences, a peculiar thing happened last month.

A night club comedian was found guilty by a jury of uttering obscene words in his performance, and was sentenced by a judge to a year in jail and given a $1,000 fine.

The splendid example of civic indignation is only slightly dimmed by the thought that one might step into any police station at any time of day or night and hear the same foul expletives streaming unconsciously from the mouths of those guardians of the city's laws and morals.

In fact, I had a vision of the vice squad detectives saying to one another after the pinch: "What is the world coming to? — think he's doing by using such — language in a — night club?"

The same day's issue that reported his conviction also informed us that a notorious owner of decrepit slum properties won another continuance in his case, and that a well-known operator of gambling joints was given permission to prevent him from exploiting and victimizing the ignorant and impoverished tenants.

There was also another bombing of a building that day, doubtless perpetrated by the Big Boys, who rest secure in the knowledge that not a single gangland killing has ever been solved by the police force in the years since I left Boy Scout Troop No. 4.

The paper was studded with goodies of this sort, but the Chicago public has become resigned, not to say apathetic, toward what would be considered shocking activities in less sophisticated communities. Like the man who thought he cannot spell properly, we have almost become a little proud of our civic infelicities.

The night club comedian who talked dirty was not only a transient in town, and therefore it may have been felt that he was not authorized to take away from the city's general air of raffishness, to use the kindest word I can think of.

After all, we don't want any aliens coming in and corrupting the morals of our youth, our virginal daughters with such Anglo - Saxon vocables. With our own daughters (and sons) reading every day about some new depravity, or old offense, it would be simply too much to expose them to the blunt obscenities of a wandering jester.

We taught that dirty — a lesson. If the slum landlords would only learn decency in public, there might be some hope for a conviction.

Genghis Khan Not Red Hero

Milwaukee Journal

The report from London is that Prof. Daramyn Tumurbir is no longer Mongolia's man on the central committee of the Communist party of Outer Mongolia. He is a victim of Genghis Khan 800 years after that notorious conqueror passed on.

The professor made quite a name for himself building Genghis Khan into a national hero. The Mongolians held a two-month celebration honoring Genghis Khan. They put out a special stamp in his honor. Across the border the Communist Chinese joined in congratulations to the Mongolians upon the 800th anniversary of their noted clansman.

But then the professor went off to Moscow to preach the glories of Genghis Khan. He ran into an iceberg. Russia Communist leaders announced that in his eagerness Genghis Khan had fought "unjust" wars. The territory in which the great conqueror conquered the most is now part of the Soviet Union. So obviously this Mongrel of 800 years ago was an enemy of the people. Just as obviously, Prof. Tumum-Ochir had tried to create "an unhealthy mood in public opinion and to inflame nationalist passions" when he glorified Genghis Khan. So the professor has been fired from the central committee in disgrace.

It was stated by local dealers this morning that seed potatoes will sell this year at a price higher than at any time since the last Great War. Ceiling prices of such potatoes are not governed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and will retail in the Belleville district at between $3.25 and $3.35 per 75-pound bag. During the last war they went as high as $8 per bag. Price of potatoes for table use is $2.15 per bag.

Need More Born Cowards

By Charles McCabe in the San Francisco Chronicle

Is courage everything? Or paregoric, in our place and time, a big fat nothing?

A British literary critic wonders if courage is necessary at all. He suggests this sacred commodity may be one of the worst things the human race is saddled with during its current career. Courage, indulgence, or whatever life is now called in the lists of The Great Bookie.

He's not comedy, an uncommonly witty fellow, who is now promoting an organization that seems to me to have merit. As he described it the other day: "I personally would like to found a new secret society, Sissies Unlimited, whose object is to place cowards in high places.

"The only qualifications are to fear death, to hate pain, not to want to inflict death or pain under any circumstances.

"Acts of outstanding cowardice to be made public when and if we ever dire to come out in the open."

I'm not much of a joiner, but Sissies Unlimited is for me.

This is a time, if ever there was one, when courage, that irrelevant and often most unlikely sharing of power and virtility, is clearing for the birds.

Who in hell wants heads of state, with their fingers on the button a few feet away, to be insecure little souls waiting for somebody to knock the chip off their shoulder?

One of the things that makes me feel really good about the survival of the species is that Mr. Jack Kennedy has had a cold.

What with his navy record and his Pulitzer prize book, which has brought him near death, the president doesn't have to go around proving to himself he is a man of courage.

He has the peace now and the spiritual equipment to consider the virtues of cowardice, in a world where the outmoded concept of courage is getting little, if anything.

Some people are born cowards, and others have cowardice thrust upon them, like maybe Mr. Keenedy. On the whole I prefer the born coward as a leader.

Just as one prefers the person born to the faith rather than the convert and his guilt-laden fervor.

The born coward does not have this terrible need to prove himself, all of the time, that all mankind could be destroyed because one man wanted to establish his manhood in the club, born cowardice at the helm could be a mighty comfort.

It has been said that in 20 years, if world peace is kept, I shall all be living in skyscrapers and maintaining ourselves on a diet of plankton and ketchup.

If we are still here to enjoy even this unlovable fate, it will be because we have the courage to place cowards in high places.

As this historian of history, we have nothing to fear but courage itself.

Peanut Butter Controversy

Watertown Daily Times

Peanut butter, the plain old type children like on sandwiches for mid-morning, midafternoon or after-school snacks, is big news in Washington these days. The attention is the Peanut Butter Manufacturers association and the U.S. department of agriculture's growth program "creating an unfavorable image in the public mind for peanut butter." What's more, while the peanut butter consumption is two pounds per year, the agriculture department is giving poor people six pounds of peanut butter a year.

Why should this upset the Peanut Butter Manufacturers association? Using the 2-to-6 ratio, it would seem the government is, in reality, plugging the use of peanut butter. But the manufacturers contend that "the forcing of excessive amounts of peanut butter on people on relief is developing an attitude which will result in their not purchasing peanut butter at such time as they may have money to do so."

Maybe the manufacturers have a point there somewhere, but we find it to see it. There is an old saying in the business and merchandising world that the more you can make a customer acquainted with your products — the more it will be in demand.

It's just fortunate that strawberry, raspberry or jelly preserves are not directly involved in the dispute. Then everyone would be in a real jam.

To Your Good Health

There Are Many Ideas Concerning Canker Sores

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes canker sores? How can they be cured or prevented? —D. W.

There are various notions about the cause — and maybe you've heard of the medical axiom: the more cures that are proposed for something, the less we really know about it.

When we know the exact cause, it then becomes easy to establish the exact cure.

So we have lots of ideas about canker sores. It may be that several causes are responsible, or maybe a combination of them.

Allergy is often indicated — sensitivity to some food or other — citrus fruits, chocolate, nuts, etc. Keeping a "food diary" is helpful in trying to connect out-breaks of cankers with something you have eaten.

The problem is common among women, and sometimes it seems to be related to the menstrual cycle.

Some think cankers are a result of low-grade infection.

Emotional turmoil has been suggested.

With such a variety of suspected causes, no wonder we have a variety of answers. Remedies which, in my experience, seem to have been successful in some cases, include:

Touching the spots with silver nitrate.

Avoiding foods which have been adequately proved to be offenders.

Antibiotic lozenges; also broad-spectrum tablets.

In very severe and painful cases, a short course of cortisone treatment, if painful, but sometimes it works.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to be a borderline diabetic? And if so can this prevent the onset of kidney disease after surgery? I was declared a diabetic over a year ago but the doctor has not found any sugar since, and I have not been on my diet for several months.

—Mrs. H.P.

These days we have little trouble in getting diabetics to heal properly, because we take care to see that the disease is controlled.

Yes, there are borderline diabetics. A better term could be "mild cases of diabetes." But it's diabetes all the same. The fact that you haven't shown any sugar in the urine for months doesn't mean that the diabetes has disappeared. You'd be very wise to have a blood sugar test to find out just how you stand.

I don't approve of giving up your diet simply because sugar hasn't been detected lately. The goal is to prevent it from showing up. So, especially if you are overweight, get back on the diet. (You'll find that any infection, even a common cold, readily causes sugar to appear.) In short, don't press your luck too far.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is uremic poisoning? —Mrs. S. J.

It results from faulty functioning of the kidneys. Uric acid and certain nitrogen compounds are wastes which the kidneys filter out and — normally — discharge in urine. When something prevents removal of these toxic materials, poisoning results.

Note to S. D.: Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis is a progressive degenerative disease of the spinal cord.

Note to Mrs. L. H.: Yes, there is such a thing as a "nervous cough." We all have our individual "tics" — responding physically to tensions. But unless you have been examined to determine the facts, it's risky to brush off a chronic cough as due to "nerves" or any other simple excuse. Tuberculosis, cancer, bronchiectasis, emphysema, heart trouble are all possible causes of "nervous" or even "cigarette" cough.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 188, Dundee, Ill., for a copy of the booklet "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long self-addressed stamped and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

• • •

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Protection

Vancouver Province

Now organized retail merchants of this province are appealing for government protection against "predatory and ruthless" competitors. Apparently they are willing to shackle themselves to government supervision rather than fight business in the open market place.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is not quite five hundred years that man has known where he is. Practically all the important thinking by mankind, the Bible, Plato, Aristotle, all the classical philosophers, dramatists and other explorers of the human mind and soul, was done at a time that mankind had not the faintest notion of where he was. Let alone where he had been or where he was going. They thought the earth was flat. They supposed it was some sort of miraculous construction with four corners, a top, a bottom, and that hell was underneath, and the sky was heaven. Yet despite their total ignorance of where they were, the thinkers of the past did more thinking, got deeper into the region of fact and the realm of truth than all the thinkers put together since Columbus' time—excepting that as an easy sort of compromise as to when we started to know where we were.

Knowing where we are doesn't seem to have contributed much to our situation, except in the superficial sense that we have, in the same short period, got rid of plagues, improved social conditions, got rid of tyrants with crowns and installed tyrants without crowns, invented a few things like the motor car, airplane and rocket. The biggest fact about knowing where we are is that we are spending billions on space exploration in order to try to go somewhere else.

common shares of Moira-Schuster Limited — and that Mr. Alexander McLean Haig is not the beneficial owner of any share in Moira-Schuster Limited.

The supplies of coal to the school board were contracted for by tender for the 1962-63 winter term. Judge Lane said the mayor took office in January 1963 and therefore his ruling was not concerned with any dealings prior to that date.

Supplied 2,000 tons of coal to the city-owned Belleville General Hospital actually was contracted for by Empire-Hanna Fuels and delivered by Moira-Schuster in a "delivery boy" capacity.

Sale of salt to the city's Public Works Department was made by Sifto Salt, stored at Moira-Schuster warehouses, but "Moira-Schuster, however, has no interest whatsoever" in sales of the salt.

PURCHASES MADE DIRECT. LY

...Purchases made directly from Moira-Schuster by the Belleville General Hospital from January to March of this year totalled $329.18. "They constitute a relatively small proportion of the oil and two purchases of wax, one on January 9th for $136.46 and another on February 15th in the same amount."

At the outset of his judgment, Judge Lane noted that Mr. Haig's position as a shareholder in Empire Coal Company, Moira-Schuster's parent firm. Again, at the end of his report, he discussed the situation in detail, relating it to the pertinent sections of the Municipal Act.

The share certificate issued in the mayor's name was endorsed and signed, but that presently is held in Montreal on the orders of the parent company.

"I am prepared to find that there never has been a dividend declared upon the common shares of Moira-Schuster Limited, and I therefore suggested to him on the evidence that Mr. Alexander McLean Haig is not the beneficial owner of any share in Moira-Schuster Limited, and that if there were any declaration of dividend Mr. Haig would have to hold such dividend as a trustee for the real owners of the share, the Wearever Coal Company.

"On the closing pages of the Judgment, I also noted two more sections of the Municipal Act on disqualification of persons holding elected office with respect to business with a corporation.

"I have noted, Mr. Haig is definitely a manager "and then the question arises as to whether or not on the particular facts here he is a shareholder.

NOT BENEFICIAL OWNER

"Certainly, he is not the beneficial owner of the share in question here."

Judge Lane pointed out that a section of the Act which contained the pertinent words "an interest in any contract with the corporation . . ."

"In construing these words, I must remember that they are to be construed not in a technical sense but according to the ordinary usage of man. If there is any ambiguity left after applying these rules, I must resolve that ambiguity in such a manner as to sustain the choice of the people at the election and not unseat a sitting member.

"I realize that there can be some semblance of meaning of 'interest in' given to a situation where a man may have the welfare of an organization at heart, and in that sense he may have an indirect 'interest in' promoting the welfare of that organization to keep it financially sound—and yet not have any pecuniary interest in a particular contract of that organization.

"In other words, to apply it directly here, Mr. Haig might have in a sense an interest in the welfare of Moira-Schuster Limited to see that the company prospered; this interest might go so far as to contemplate his $13,000-a-year job as manager.

"In this sense he would be interested in the welfare of Moira-Schuster Limited and indirectly interested in whatever contracts he could get. The same type of interest would or should be present in any employee of Moira-Schuster Limited. At the same time, while there is a possibility of such a meaning, that does not appeal to me to be the meaning intended by this section (of the Act) because it would be impossible on the financial structure of Moira-Schuster Limited for Mr. Haig to have traceable financial interest in any contract which Moira-Schuster Limited might have with the City of Belleville.

HAS NO INTEREST

The judge continued: "In my view then, 'interested in' so far as this section of the Act is concerned should be a proper note as has been suggested and it has to relate to a direct financial participation and Mr. Haig's part before he can be said to be interested in any of the contracts in question.

"Since it has been shown to me that he could not possibly be so interested, I must be prepared to rule that within the meaning of the Municipal Act he has no interest in any contract and that there has been nothing shown to disqualify him from taking the application to unseat him. I therefore, am prepared to dismiss the application with costs."

Judge Lane noted that the application to unseat the mayor was for declaration Mayor Haig took office on January 7th 1963.

Delivery of coal to high school board was contracted for by tender and for 1962-63 winter season.

"Consequently, the only thing that results from this contract with the Bay of Quinte High School Board is that they paid to Moira-Schuster Limited $432.25 which was made under the contract . . . the sum of $432.25 on February 15th 1963 and there was on January 7th 1963, an arrangement for removal of certain coal from the principles for which there was a removal charge by Moira-Schuster of $38.25.

"There was a credit at the same time made for coal that was removed, leaving the net balance outstanding on the open account of the net amount.

Judge Lane said was Feburary 18th, 1963.

DON'T MAINTAIN STAFF

"It may be, in the light of the contract that if the School Board required more or later deliveries under the term of the (contract) that Moira-Schuster Limited would be bound to honor their order during the rest of 1963, but there certainly is no evidence before me that would go further in regard to this complaint.

"I have difficulty," said the judge, "on these facts of offering any criticism of the Mayor in relation to this particular dealing. The contract was made before this term of office, the contract was substantially performed before this term of office and the payment that was made, in my view, should not have been under the terms of the Municipal Act involved here."

Judge Lane noted that Empire-Hannah Fuels contracted with Belleville General Hospital in June 1962 for delivery of 3,000 tons of coal — 1,900 tons being delivered by March this year.

"Empire Hanna maintains a staff in Belleville but they do not maintain a staff. It is, therefore, necessary for them to retain a delivery agent in Belleville. For quite a number of years and even before the organization of Moira-Schuster Limited, Empire-Hanna has been accustomed to employ this Moira-Schuster Limited as its predecessor to make deliveries from their (Empire-Hanna) coal yard on the Belleville waterfront. This agreement is that Moira-Schuster supply their trucks, that they obtain and send the bills direct it to the customer, 'fill out the required slips on Empire-Hanna forms and send the information to Empire-Hanna, who, in turn, would directly bill the customer. For this service Moira-Schuster Limited are paid a handling charge.

"It, therefore, follows that the only interest that Moira-Schuster had in the deal between Empire-Hanna and the Belleville General Hospital was the payment as delivery boy, which they were to receive by virtue of their delivery contract with Empire-Hanna.

THREE LOTS OF SALT

Belleville Public Works Department bought three lots of salt totalling 1,000 tons from Sifto Salt this year.

Sifto has no warehouse in Belleville and for a number of years has arranged with Moira-Schuster to store the salt. The salt is never called for, or delivered by Moira-Schuster to Sifto's customers.

Sifto maintains its sales staff and "merely call upon Moira-Schuster to deliver or service ordinary usage of the salt" . . . but they have at no time any connection with the sales end or the shoving of the product."

Mayor Haig made passing reference to the action before Hastings County Council this morning.

He told the councillors he was "greatly heartened" by the messages of support from county councillors (and others.)

"It has brought out the fact that I have more friends than I realized. It was a distressing experience I wouldn't wish on my worst enemy."

Steinbeck, Kant and Maple Syrup Occupy Two Jobless Farm Boys

Guy in market square. He's sitting in the trunk of a car, reading a book. Teen ager. Blue jeans, white shirt, duck tailed haircut, farm boy. Has some jugs of maple syrup on the curb walk. For sale.

Except for the book, he's like any other farm boy. But the book is Steinbeck — "Winter of Our Discontent". So says he thinks it's one of Steinbeck's worst. Not a popular view; the book won a Nobel Prize. But reporter happens to agree, so the guy gets classed as an intellectual, a discerning reader and an all round good fellow. Talk Steinbeck for a few minutes.

"Ask the guy how old he is — Thirt —". He stops, say's he's 16. Suggest that it's 18 when he's driving the car, he agrees. Says he quit school, grade 10, last year. Says the teacher sent out suggested it. "Just fooling around," he explains.

KANT VS SHAW

Another guy comes up. First guy's big brother, twenty years old sports jacket, sports shirt, conservative haircut. Says he finished high school last year but couldn't afford college. Seems to be reading a copy of Kant - "A Critique of Pure Reason" - in the car. Says Kant is OK, but he prefers Shaw. Reporter prefers Bugs Bunny, so no comment.

Explain they're unemployed, live on a farm up toward Madoc. Mother is sick. Younger brother who helps on the farm says his ambition is job on production line of car factory. Good money, he says. Steinbeck would have approved, but this guy says he doesn't want to write. Wouldn't know how, he says.

WANTS TO WRITE

Big brother is looking for a job in Belleville. Doesn't care what it is - what he really wants is to be a writer. With him luck, etc. If he's lucky, he'll get the job and forget writing.

Few weeks ago, they ran off a few gallons—syrup that is. Sold some up near home, brought the rest to market. That's why they're here. Maybe they'll make enough money to buy some more books. Say they've got lots already, but they can always use more.

Half of squalid curdles across square. Reporter recognizes sound of editorial top blowing. Reporter says he makes over everyone kept abreast of the markets in Singapore or London.

Doctor Fears Medicare Might Bring Atrocities

OSHAWA (CP) — A Toronto area doctor connected the principle of a government-sponsored medical-care plan with atrocities committed in Nazi concentration camps when he spoke to the Canadian Club of Ontario County here Tuesday.

"I fear that if they are given too much power, doctors would not handle their monopoly," said Dr. Paul McGeoy, chief surgeon of Scarborough General Hospital.

He said doctors should be left to their individual responsibilities as the best means to maintaining a high standard of medical care.

In an interview today, elaborating on his remarks Tuesday, Dr. McGeoy said it is a matter of tradition and human nature that where there is a concentration of power, there is likely to be corruption.

He mentioned euthanasia, the gas chamber and other "experiments" in Nazi concentration camps, dictated by a "totalitarian medical profession."

Gravelled Parking Yards Around County Buildings Will Be Asphalt Paved

The gravelled parking yards around the new Hastings county administration building will be asphalt paved, it has been decided by county councillors.

An estimate of $4,600 has been made of the cost of the work, but tenders are expected to be called before the paving project is proceeded with.

The paving project was included in the report of the finance and public property committee with a request for council direction on the matter.

Aside from bettering the general appearance of the county building grounds, it was felt that paving of the parking yards would also result in reducing the maintenance work at the new building.

And rewiring of the county jail is currently being carried out at a cost of approximately $2,000. Trade tenders for the ville has been hired to supervise the rewiring made necessary when the inspection department of Ontario Hydro condemned the old wiring.

The report of the agricultural and reforestation committee presented by Vincent Healey of Tweed recommended that the county grants to fairs will be increased this year.

INCREASE FAIR GRANTS

The county will grant $400 instead of $350 to the Belleville Fair which has been designated as Class "A" fair, and $250 to the Class "C" fairs, an increase of $25 over that of a year ago.

The usual grant of $100 will be given to the British Empire Fair Dairy Show held annually at Belleville.

At the spring meeting of the agricultural committee, county agricultural representative Sidney MacDonald discussed the work of the county farm safety council which is stressing highway safety and promoting safety through a 4-H auto safety club exhibits, meetings and competitions.

Mr. MacDonald asked all township councils to give their support to the Tile Drainage and Warble Fly Control Acts.

He also noted that a county branch of the Ontario Beef Producers had been organized.

A letter from Bernard Hurley, solicitor for the Centre Hastings High School District indicated that the 1963 agreement between the Centre Hastings Board and Tweed and Hungerford was not being implemented.

EXPLAINS BACKGROUND

Reeve Verne McMurray said there would be other letters explaining the background of the matter and the solicitor's letter was tabled until after the agreement between the two high school boards at Wednesday's session.

Mr. McMurray said that under the agreement allowing Tweed and Hungerford to withdraw from the Centre Hastings High School District, these two municipalities had agreed to support the Madoc High School to the extent of a certain percentage of school attendance.

It was this condition of the agreement which was not being implemented, it was stated.

CONCUR IN RESOLUTION

And councillors referred to the suburban roads committee as outside resolution calling for increased grants in support of cities and separated towns toward suburban roads. Under present regulations the contribution of cities and separated towns toward the upkeep of suburban roads is limited to one half mill.

Council concurred in a Grey county resolution calling for an increase in the premium for Grade "A" hogs from two to three dollars per head.

Council observed a minute's silence out of respect in the recent decease of the mother of Marmora village Reeve William Shannon.

Kennedy ordered Seventh Fleet units into Southeast Asian waters, evidently to be prepared in case Red China, Thailand, neighboring Laos, requested reinforcements.

Until Tuesday the state department had remained mum on that Russia was co-operating with Britain and France in bring the situation under control before the fighting could spread. The United States has called for dependable cease-fire with pro-Communist units to fall back to positions held before the recent fighting started.

The disclosure that Russia was insisting on pinning the blame for the trouble on the United States and had made its charges public after Britain rejected them b: caused a re-examination of the prospects here.

The state department Tuesday night in a statement rejected the Soviet charges.

Princess

stightly and the couple halted briefly. Princess Anne quickly freed the train.

As the bridal couple reached the abbey steps, two pipers from the Scots Guards blared forth and a tremendous cheer went up from the thousands outside.

The cheers spread up the Mall as the princess and Ogilvy rode in the Queen's glass coach to nearby St. James's Palace for the wedding reception. Four prancing horses pulled the coach.

A plane stood by at London Airport to take the newlyweds to a Scottish honeymoon at Birkhall, a royal residence beside the River Dee.

The tall green-eyed princess, daughter of the late Duke of Kent and Princess Marina, drove to her wedding in a limousine with a transparent plastic top, lent by her first cousin, the Queen.

A jostling holiday crowd cheered her progress down the flag-hung Mall. The hardiest of the crowd picked places 19 hours before the coach clattered by, and hundreds camped out through the night with sleeping bags, oil heaters, vacuum bottles, sandwiches and transistor radios. Ice cream vendors did a roaring trade.

More than 2,000 guests, including the largest assembly of European royalty—in office and out — that Britain has seen since Princess Margaret married Antony Armstrong-Jones, were in the 900-year-old abbey for the ceremony.

SEEN ON TV

Television carried the ceremony to millions of Britons, and many of the guests in the vast abbey watched on 14 monitor sets on each side of the aisle. The royal guests had a closeup view from chairs on each side of the sanctuary, within a few feet of the high-altar.

The royal guests included King Olav of Norway, Queen Louise of Sweden, Queen Ingrid of Denmark, Queen Frederika of Greece, former queen Victoria Eugenie of Spain, former king Umberto of Italy, and former king Michael of Romania.

The gold-robed Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, performed the ceremony.

A diamond tiara circled Alexandra's silky, golden brown hair and from it flowed the long veil her mother wore at her wedding. She carried a bouquet of cream and white freesias, narcissi and lilies of the valley.

Her long-sleeved, long-trained lace dress had a closely-molded bodice and high rounded neckline. Beneath the lace was an underdress of white tulle, handembroidered with gold pailletes.

The bridesmaids wore dresses of cream and white and the pages ruffled white silk shirts and kilts in the Ogilvy dress tartan, symbolic of the groom's Scottish ancestry.

WEAR SHORT ENSEMBLES

Departing from the tradition of long dresses for royal Abbey weddings, Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret were all in short coat and dress ensembles with matching hats.

The Queen's was of palest green organza. Margaret's dress was of pale yellow organza and her coat was covered by thousands of organdy primroses. The Queen Mother was in silver lace.

Princess Marina wore a tunic dress of cloth of gold with embroidered cloth of gold hat.

After a reception at St. James's Palace, the couple were to honeymoon in Scotland.

Alexandra's father, the youngest son of King George V and Queen Mary, was killed in an RAF plane crash during the Second World War. She is 12th in the line of succession for the British throne and in recent years has frequently represented the Queen on formal occasions in Britain and foreign tours.

Ogilvy is the second son of the earl, whose family has long connections with British royalty. As the second son, he does not have a title unless the Queen gives him one as she did Armstrong-Jones. He is a director of 50 companies.

STRIKE CAUSES LOSS

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times Company reported Tuesday it lost $4,136,000 during the 1963 first quarter, when the newspaper was shut down by a strike. In the comparable period of last year The Times had net income of $322,000.

informed the new Liberal prime minister that CMU - manned ships were picketed in Toledo and Milwaukee last week and the freighter Howard L. Shaw was blocked in Chicago by an "SIU-inspired boycott."

His telegram said the Continental Grain Company, where the Shaw is moored awaiting a grain cargo, has served an ultimatum on the ship's owners—either solve the boycott and load grain by Thursday or face cancellation of its contract in favor of an SIU-manned ship.

"This same vessel was immobile in Chicago for more than 30 days last summer, forcing the Canadian Labor Congress to organize an anti-SIU boycott in the seaway to free her," said Mr. Jodoin in the telegram.

He urged Prime Minister Pearson to insist that President Kennedy act immediately to force cessation of the boycotting of Canadian ships manned by Canadians in U.S. ports.

MAY RETALIATE

"If these boycotts do not cease the CLC will be again forced to consider retaliatory action against U.S. vessels in Canadian ports and waterways."

The threat implied a more selective boycott than the action last July, which was directed at all SIU-manned ships, both Canadian and American. Foreign ships were not involved. Shiphandlers on railway docks refused to touch SIU ships, although they handled other vessels. Finally, two SIU-manned ships blocked the entrances to the Welland Canal and effectively barricaded the Lake Erie-Lake Ontario waterway to all ships.

After 30 hours, the boycott was ended—and the federal investigation followed.

A Vancouver jurist, Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, now is in the process of writing a report for the new federal labor minister, Allan MacEachen. The report is expected to be in the government's hand within a month.

Pearson

visit with President Kennedy.

Mr. Pearson said he wants to discuss with Mr. Macmillan ways in which Canada and Britain "can work together to improve the trading relations and the political relations of the free world and the world." There was a great deal Canada could help to achieve.

Mr. Pearson also may spend a day with Canadian forces in Europe while overseas.

AT MEMBERS' PARTY

The Kennedy-Pearson meeting may take place at some border point or possibly Mr. Kennedy's Hyannis Port, Mass., home.

"Our two countries can do much together, for our mutual benefit and for the benefit of the world," Mr. Pearson said in his broadcast. "I want to make sure that the two governments understand each other."

Following the second meeting of the Liberal cabinet, Mr. Pearson announced formation of a special cabinet committee to deal with trade, economics and employment matters with the prime minister as its chairman.

For the days ahead, Mr. Pearson said he welcomes the challenges to come and promised that the government will provide leadership and direction.

HAS SERVED AT UN

Mr. Macnaughton, the nominee for Speaker, during his parliamentary career served as Canadian alternate delegate to the assembly of the United Nations and in 1962-63 was chairman of the Liberal party caucus.

Born in Napanee, Ont., Mr. Macnaughton studied at Upper Canada College, Toronto, and McGill University, Montreal, taking degrees in arts and law. He did post-graduate work at the London School of Economics.

Fluently bilingual, he is well liked among Commons members, especially for his impartial manner in conducting the public accounts committee's investigation of government spending.

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Mr. and Mrs. R. Rogers attended the funeral of the latter's aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. Bert Eastside in Bracebridge on Easter Monday.

Mrs. Alice Hubbs of Belleville visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Hill on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Revoy and son Steven of Havelock were Monday supper guests with the Rev. and Mrs. A. Carson and son Gary.

The Rev. and Mrs. Don Rogers and family of Bancroft are visiting relatives this week in the village.

Loggers

the movie Term of Trial.

During the afternoon Magistrate W. S. Gardner of Timmins repeatedly called for order. One spectator was ejected when he shouted objections to the cross-examination of a witness.

Provincial police identified 30 men as the trial got under way. Ahead of them lies the task of identifying each of the defendants, all of whom pleaded not guilty as men who participated in an attack on an independent settlers' camp here Feb. 11. The trial is expected to last another two days.

The logging camp raid, repulsed when the settlers opened fire with guns, climaxed a six week strike by 1,000 loggers, members of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union (CLC), against Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company. Twenty settlers have been ordered to stand trial on charges of non-capital murder.

It took 30 minutes to read the unlawful assembly charges, which provide for a maximum penalty of six months imprisonment and a fine.

"You have to tie the evidence to these men, each of them," Magistrate Gardner said, pointing to the defendants. "Otherwise, it is very unjust as far as these men are concerned."

DISMISSED OBJECTION

He dismissed an objection by Defence Counsel John Brooke of Toronto when Crown Attorney F. A. Caldbick of Timmins sought to introduce evidence of intimidation by the strikers prior to the raid at the Val Rita co-operative camp at Reesor Siding. 37 miles west of here.

Mr. Caldbick argued it was impossible to decide whether assembly was unlawful unless all the background leading up to it was admitted.

Detective - Sergeant William Murray said his main work during the strike was investigation reports of intimidation, but he was unable to gather sufficient evidence to lay charges.

Const. F. R. Ware, senior officer on duty the night of the raid, said he had known the unusual buildup of cars in Opasatika halfway between Kelso Siding and Reesor Siding, and he radioed a warning to all squad cars and police at the settlers' camp.

POLICE OPPOSE

He said he reached the camp before a cavalcade of about 100 cars drew up. He ordered the 12 policemen there to form lines across the road leading to the area where the settlers had been stockpiling wood.

Const. G. H. Horne said he heard someone say something in French and then the men suddenly surged forward with a yell.

He said another man had shouted: "They have got enough cops to stop us, we are going through."

Bench warrants have been issued against three of the strikers who failed to appear in court.

Medical

Mount Royal since 1949 and first opposition MP to act as chairman of the Commons public accounts committee, will be nominated as Speaker of the Commons for the 26th Parliament May 16.

The prime minister, who celebrated by Health Minister Matthew Dymond on second reading, Mr. Roberts emphasized that the Ontario plan will "ensure that medical services insurance would be available to all the people of this province, regardless of age or physical condition."

It provides for a basic contract of medical care insurance—to be decided upon by the committee subject to government approval—which must be provided by every company or insurer offering such insurance. The government will set the maximum premium which an insurer can charge for basic insurance.

"If I had regimentation or compulsion," the premier said, "every citizen of this province will be free to buy or not to buy, as he or she may see fit, medical services insurance coverage from a carrier of his or her choice and to the degree that may suit his or her individual requirements."

MUST BELONG

An association to be known as Medical Carriers Incorporated would be set up. All companies selling medical insurance in Ontario would have to belong to it, and the members themselves would determine what assessment will be required from each company to operate the plan.

The bill will not disturb that 70 per cent of our population who now are covered by one form or another of medical insurance," Mr. Roberts said. "We will not disturb the traditional doctor-patient relationship."

But the government will make sure that every Ontario resident can have full coverage, whether he can pay for it or not, he said. The government "will accept responsibility" for those who have difficulty meeting the premiums.

And only the person who takes out the insurance will be able to cancel it, he said. The insurance company cannot terminate it.

There was no immediate comment from opposition speakers in the legislature nor from doctor or labor groups.

URGE CONCERN

These developments also occurred Tuesday:

Elmer Sopha (L — Sudbury) and Leo Troy (L—Nipissing) called for more governmental concern about northern Ontario. Mr. Sopha urged a northern affairs portfolio for the Ontario cabinet and both he and Mr. Troy urged full use of the Crown-owned Ontario Northland Railway to develop the north.

Transport Minister James Auld said Ontario is ready to adopt a standard automobile insurance form and hopes other provinces will follow suit. He said the present system of several provinces requiring proof of insurance for drivers involved in accidents, a system not in force in Ontario for non-residents—means a proliferation of "pink cards" which scares away potential American tourists.

Casual Charm

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Somewhat on the order of a shirt dress but definitely much more feminine, this crepe number comes in pastels as well as ever-dependable black and white.

The dress can be worn belt-less or with sash tied high, as shown or low at hipline.

It's an American charmer that is so typical of our way of casual yet distinctive dressing.

Q.F. Naturalists Holds Season's Last Meeting

The Quinte Field Naturalists held their final indoor meeting of the season on Monday at the Entomology Laboratory in the form of a "film night."

The president, Miss J. Nichols, welcomed everyone and conducted a short business meeting which included several reports from members who attended the annual meeting of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists in Niagara Falls.

Announcements were made about two field trips: one to Point Traverse, early in May, and the annual trip to Presqu'ile on the Victoria Day weekend.

FOUR FILMS

Mr. I. Knight introduced the four films to be shown, "World in a Marsh," "The Changing Forest," and "Color in Nature," all natural science films from the National Film Board and the fourth "Treasures in the Earth."

"World in a Marsh" dealt with the interdependence of all life in the marsh from the most minute creature up to the many larger creatures. There was an interesting battle between a garter snake and a bull frog.

"The Changing Forest" and "Color in Nature" showed the evolution in forest growth and how the leaves of the forest trees use their leaves to manufacture and store food. Both pictures climaxed with beautiful panoramic views of trees in autumn splendor.

The film "Treasures of the Earth" was an animated color film on geology which showed how different minerals are concentrated into veins worth mining; how changes in the earth's surface take place through upheaval and erosion and many other aspects of basic geology.

Following the films refreshments were served and everyone had an enjoyable visit before breaking up until the next meeting in September.

USED MASCARA

Holloway St. U.C.W. Views Korean Film

The Holloway Street United Church Women held their monthly meeting in the church on Monday afternoon.

Mrs. C. Holmes, the president, welcomed those attending and turned the meeting over to Mrs. Martin for the devotional.

The meditation theme was the Twenty-Third Psalm. It is the greatest source of comfort to Christian people and a cherished passage for many is the opening, "The Lord is my shepherd". So vividly is it used and known that there are many versions. Mrs. Martin closed with a Korean version and a Korean Christian prayer."

In the business session, which followed, several reports were given and several recommendations were voted upon.

The "Spring Tea" and bake sale was announced for early in June.

Mrs. McMullin spoke for the bazaar committee. She listed the various booths and other plans and asked for enthusiastic help and interest of all the U.C.W.

Mrs. Holmes introduced Mrs. Ellis, guest speaker for the afternoon, who among her other activities is vice-president of the Conference U.C.W.

Mrs. Ellis gave an introduction to this year's study book, "The Rim of East Asia," which includes Korea, Okinawa, Formosa, and Hong Kong. She told of their history, their related cultures due to influences of neighboring China and Japan and influences of traders travelling between these countries.

COUNTRIES POOR

The countries are all poor and their economy is severely affected by the influx of great numbers of refugees. Also by the new ideas and culture which has come with the vast numbers of western people, who have arrived to help.

Mrs. Ellis mentioned many more problems, inflation, lack of civil rights, freedom of speech and press, lack of trained workers in medicine, social work, nursing, teaching and a lack of employment.

In closing Mrs. Ellis stressed the need for outside help but she felt they also needed a great deal of understanding while they adjusted to all the new ideas being thrust on them so quickly.

Mrs. Bush thanked Mrs. Ellis. A film showing scenery and conditions in these countries was shown.

Mrs. Holmes closed the meeting, after which Mrs. Mitchell's group served refreshments.

Four Delegates Attend 44th H-S Convention

BATAWA — On April 18th, the Batawa Home and School Association was represented at the 44th annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations by four delegates: Mrs. Harvey Ackerman, Mrs. Walter Pavlica, vice-president; Mrs. Milton Edwards, secretary and Mrs. Jack Jarvett, executive member.

The convention was held April 17th and 18th at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. The theme for the convention was "Building for Our Future".

Conferences were attended on "Leadership Training"; "Children's Reading"; "Fine Arts"; "Camp"; "School Education"; "Safety"; "Rural School"; "Publications"; "Citizenship and Audio-Visual".

Christ Church EBWA Plans Annual Meet

The April business meeting of the Evening Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church was held in the parish hall on Monday evening with a splendid attendance.

Mrs. P. Burton, president, was in charge of the devotional service, assisted by Mrs. H. Stevens.

Miss Frances Reid, Mrs. L. MacInnes, Mrs. W. Edwards, Mrs. S. Beggs and Mrs. H. Rose gave reports of their departments.

Many expressed appreciation for cards sent them while ill.

Several members volunteered to help with the serving of the beverages at the Junior Auxiliary rally on Saturday next when girls and their leaders from the western part of the diocese will be meeting in the parish hall.

Thankoffering money was brought in and will be taken to the W.A. "Annual" which will be held in Brockville in May.

Plans were discussed for those hoping to make the trip by bus.

Arrangements for catering for the Junior Auxiliary mother and daughter banquet in May were talked over.

The Rev. R. G. Fleming spoke to the members and mentioned he would be attending a course at Waterloo College on the study of religious education curriculum, referring to it as the "New Look in Religious Education in Canada."

Mr. Fleming closed the meeting with prayer.

Stretch The Maple Syrup

by Mary Moore

When I read an article on sandwiches that begins by telling me how sandwiches were first discovered by Lord Sandwich, I feel a little dreary.

But I had never heard exactly how maple syrup was discovered until this Spring. (If you have heard this before stop and skip this paragraph): An Indian Squaw "was cooking venison in the clear sap of the maple tree, when she accidentally let the liquid boil down until it formed a syrup. Instead of being angry, her Brave was delighted with the taste. From then on, all of the Indians used maple sap and syrup as a sweetener. And the custom was passed on to the white settlers".

WEDNESDAY - Dinner Menu

Minute Steaks with Horseradish; Oven French Fries; Winter Succotash (canned drained solids and fresh frozen baby limas); Head Lettuce Wedges with Roquefort Dressing; Baked Custard with Fresh Fruit Sauce; Coffee.

I have a newish recipe for making a milk pudding that will stretch your Spring supply of maple syrup. We had it for dessert on Sunday evening and it was popular. You will notice that it calls for 1 teaspoon of Angostura bitters. You can make the pudding, of course, without the bitters, but it is fine to have on hand for other purposes too.

MAPLE CREAM PUDDING:

¾ cup maple syrup, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, separated, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk or cream, 1 teaspoon Angostura bitters.

Heat maple syrup and butter in heavy frying pan and simmer 10 minutes. Let cool. Place egg yolks in top of double boiler and beat slightly. Add cooled maple syrup mixture. Stir in cornstarch mixed to a smooth paste with ¼ cup of the milk or cream, and salt. Mix well. Gradually add remaining milk or cream (which has been heated to shorten the stirring time) and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and allow to cool to room temperature. If you are in a hurry, stand top of double boiler over bottom of double boiler containing cold or ice water, stirring often. Stir in Angostura bitters. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour pudding into 6 individual serving dishes and chill. Serve plain or with whipped cream. Delicious!

1 cup maple syrup, 4 eggs, separated, 1 cup cream, whipped, 1 teaspoon vanilla, pinch of salt, ½ cup (or more) finely chopped walnuts or pecans.

Heat the maple syrup. Beat the egg yolks until very thick and light. Stir the hot syrup gradually into the egg yolks and cook in a double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold into the cooled mixture. Fold in the whipped cream, vanilla and salt. Pour into refrigerator tray. When partially frozen, stir in nuts well and continue freezing until firm.

NOTE:

If nuts are not used — and this is good without them — partially frozen mixture must be stirred again.

MUST MARRY FIRST

The Brahmans of southern India traditionally insist that the eldest son marry before his younger brothers.

Short-Skirted Look for Guests At Wedding

LONDON (AP) — Shrugging aside tradition, Britain's top fashion designers have chosen the young, short-skirted look for the principal guests at today's wedding of Princess Alexandra and Angus Ogilvy.

It promised to be one of the prettiest and youngest - looking royal weddings in the history of Westminster Abbey.

Royal dress designer Norman Hartnell discarded the jewel-encrusted crinolines and sweeping gowns usually seen at Abbey marriages for the 1963 just-below-the-knee look.

The trend is toward delicate, floating fabrics that are light and gay.

Queen Elizabeth will wear lilies-of-the-valley massed on a close - fitting hat, a Hartnell dress of pale green silk organza and over it a transparent coat of the same pale green.

The Queen Mother will wear a silver lacy gown with a matching coat by Hartnell, bordered in front by misty blue tulle.

It's yellow primroses for Princess Margaret — thousands of them massed on a yellow organza coat. Under it she'll wear a yellow shift dress in the same spring - like material. Hartnell designed them both. Her hat, a tiny toque, tips forward over her forehead.

EARN LITTLE

Men in Brazil's northeast have an average income of less than $100 annually.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My son is marrying a young lady whose family lives out of town. Only my husband, my daughter and I will be attending the wedding. I know that neither the groom's mother nor sister should give the bride a shower, but would it be proper for my husband and me to give a dinner or party to introduce the bride to our friends and relatives who cannot attend the wedding? How can I do this without making them feel that gifts are expected? Also, should the groom's parents write and introduce themselves to the bride's parents? And should wedding invitations be sent to relatives who can't attend? — Mrs. L. J., Elmwood Park, Ill.

Answer: As soon as a couple announces plans to become engaged, the groom's mother should send a note immediately to the bride and her mother expressing approval and happiness. An invitation to visit your home and meet the groom's friends and family probably would be very welcome. A family get-together at that time would be most appropriate. Since only close friends and family will be asked, you can invite guests by phone or in person and will find polite blank that gifts are not necessary or expected.

Even though your family and close friends will not be able to attend the wedding, it would be gracious to ask that they be sent invitations anyway, so they won't have to feel completely excluded from the occasion.

Question: Is it permissible to give a shower for a woman who is about to be married for the second time? I'm to be matron of honor at the wedding and had planned to give a small shower for intimate friends, but I've been advised that it would be in poor taste, as the bride is a divorcee. — Mrs. H. M., Washington, D.C.

Answer: A shower is not usually given for a bride who has been married before, although it's perfectly permissible to give a tea or some kind of party in her honor, either before or after the wedding.

Question: A girl who sits at the next desk in my office has the awful habit of listening in on my personal phone calls, then questioning me about who called and why. Her ears really prick up when a man calls, and she wants to know if I'm dating him and where we're going. I'd like to discourage her and would like advice about how to do it politely. — M. A., Newark, N.J.

Answer: Before discouraging her, I think it would be better office etiquette if you discouraged so many personal phone calls on your employer's time. Tell friends you may receive calls only if they are urgent, otherwise they should phone you at home. If your neighbor didn't have so many choice tidbits to overhear, she'd have nothing to give you the third-degree about and her annoying habit would cease.

Holy Rosary CWL Holds Breakfast

The Catholic Women's League of Holy Rosary Parish Council held their annual mother and daughter Communion breakfast at C.N.R.A. Hall on April 21st. There were 68 in attendance.

The Rev. Father Rufus, Spiritual Director, said grace.

The president, Mrs. E. Reed, spoke briefly and called upon Mrs. L. Hamilton, convener of the breakfast, who asked Mrs. F. Enright to introduce the guest speaker, the Rev. Sister Mary Andrew, principal of St. Michael's Academy.

Sister Mary Andrew chose as her subject the interesting topic "The Eastern Rites of the Catholic Church."

"The adoption of the whole Christian world has been focused during the past few months on the Ecumenical Council. Among the 2500 Bishops present last autumn in St. Peter's Basilica, Rome, a considerable number represented the various Eastern Rites. Sister Mary Andrew pointed out that there are nine million in the Eastern Rite, compared to 300 million in the Roman Catholic Rite.

She gave a description of their services and customs and, despite the surface differences which are great, stated that, fundamentally, the East and Western Rites are the same.

"As the great Pope Benedict XV said, " The church is not Latin or Greek or Slav, it is Catholic."

Mrs. William Smith, on behalf of the League, thanked Sister for her interesting talk which was enjoyed by all present.

A few words from Father Rufus brought the breakfast to a close.

Mother's Helper

NOBODY LIKES soggy sandwiches, or dry ones either, for that matter. For school lunches, better use bread, put a thin slice of cheese or meat on each piece. Spread mayonnaise or other dressing between the layers of filling so it won't soak into the bread. Lettuce should go in the sandwich, too.

Markham Lady Collects, Restores Canadian Pieces

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—Many people have a fondness for furniture that can be called Canadiana—but don't know just how to co-ordinate it in their homes.

But this can be simple, says Mrs. Margaret Philip, a Canadiana expert from Markham, Ont., who collects and restores genuine early Canadian pieces. To show how it's done, she transformed what she calls "the typically modern four bare - painted walls" into a warm, comfortable early Canadian living room at the National Home Show here.

For a sofa, Mrs. Philip used an old settle bed which converts into a bench, and is which pioneers kept their feather-ticks and blankets during the daytime. She covered the stately wooden pine with gaily colored foam rubber cushions.

MAKES THEM USEFUL

"Several old pieces can be adapted for the modern coffee table," says Mrs. Philip. She usually uses a winnower, used by the early settlers in the final stages of thrashing wheat, or a bellows board, used by pioneer blacksmiths for their iron and metal work.

"The water bench of the past makes a bookcase of the present," says Mrs. Philip, explaining that these pieces, used by settlers to hold their water buckets, are becoming very rare and will probably triple in price by the centennial of Confederation.

Small cupboards may be used as end tables, maple sugar buckets as waste baskets, the early candy-cooking kettles as holders for magazines.

The old dry sinks which Mrs. Philip says are becoming scarce make excellent hi-fi or liquor cabinets, and old-fashioned washstands can be converted into record holders.

The large, flat wall cupboards of pioneer homes now can be turned into combination television, record player and book cabinets.

MADE BY HAND

Mrs. Philip says "Canadiana" can only mean original pieces that came from the pioneers — either pieces they brought with them to Canada, or those they made and used in every-day life.

Pine was only one of the woods used by the early settlers, fashioning their furniture by hand. They used equally such woods as cherry, maple, butternut, hickory and elm, she explained.

The different styles of twists and turnings on the legs of tables and chairs help to date and locate early Canadian furniture. The rope twist leg on furniture, for instance, was designed to celebrate the Battle of Trafalgar, and was popular for 20 years.

"There is a feeling of warmth, comfort and solidity to old things. I can't feel anything for the modern," says Mrs. Philip, whose 11 - room house, built of handmade brick near Markham, 15 miles northeast of Toronto, in 1820, is decorated completely in Canadiana.

But the supply of historic Canadian furniture is fast becoming exhausted, she says.

GREET BUTTERFLIES

Each fall schoolchildren in Pacific Grove, Calif., dress up as butterflies to welcome the annual migration there of monarch butterflies.

Big Variety Feature of Accessories

Completing and complementing the total look is the aim of hat, shoes and accessories for spring '63. Since there are many looks — all shaped to lines of natural ease and feminine grace — it follows that there is an equal variety in the choice of this season's accents and complements.

For the open-air, casual country-into-town look, new hat styles headline rounded, rising toques; supple shapes with carefree, slouchy brims; tailored designs with cuff and roller brims. Boldly textured straws and spring felts carry out the theme. All-leather hats and leather trims contribute to the casual mood in an elegant way.

Nautical trend of many spring fashions finds its complement in a diversity of sailor and beret shapes. For spring's ultra-feminine, romantic fashions, emphasis is on subtle draping of sheer and silky fabrics, in high-rising turbans; on ball-type straw toques and brimmed styles; and on floral hats with curving lines, often angled off the face.

Fashion's skinny, skimmy shapes, present in great numbers, call for important hats — hats with more bulk and height, but shaped along simple, sophisticated lines. Curvaceous brims and realistic flowers, beautifully united, provide another highlight for the understated look.

Since hair is a hat for many women, millinery designs often concentrate on showing off a coiffure, via off-the-face poses or delectable little whimsies of veils and flowers. Flowers alone, or jewelry, ornament the hair in lieu of a hat. Pins, mammoth earrings, neck-line ropes and big wrist bangles accent the understated look.

Pale, powerful whites and pastels make fashion news and hats both copy and contrast with the pale tones.

Should Brother Visit Sister?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—My sister who shares an apartment with two other girl friends, has invited me for a week's holidays. She tells me that her two friends will be away at the time and that I can stay at her apartment.

Would this be proper or should I seek my sleeping quarters elsewhere? I am not married.—PLUTO.

DEAR PLUTO—Quite proper. Adult members of a family, of both sexes, often visit around without the slightest flicker of an eyelash from Mrs. Grundy.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOHNNY—I wouldn't vouch for an introduction agency. How can they judge what you'd like? It's still best to take courage in hand, get involved in local doings and take your pick of the fair sex.

DEAR DORIS—After 15 years of marriage my wife has become interested in a salesman who calls on the manager where she works. He took her for coffee and surprised her by telling her about his love for her. She laughed over it with me at first, but later found she cared for him.

They broke off and are supposed to be trying to forget each other, but now she is depressed and won't have anything to do with me. I could kill that man.—WANTING HELP.

DEAR WANTING—Was she bored? Wives and husbands have a way of taking each other for granted, which leaves each vulnerable to any exciting romantic approach from outside. She doesn't know it, but she could get just as bored with him.

When did your first fine love become humdrum? Try to get back to that courtship-within-marriage which can make love grow again. I am sending you the name of a book about it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THOUGHTFUL — Your point is well taken. If, as you suspect, the daughter is the one who needs treatment, the family doctor is bound to spot this.

TO MRS. L. R.—If you would like suggestions about homework, write again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your enquiry.

• • •

(Let a trained social worker counsel you. Write to Doris in care of this newspaper, enclosing a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.)

Ann Landers

Reader Defends Rites For Well-Heeled Pets

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I see "Former Admirer" was shocked when she read you thought it was all right for a child to have a funeral for a pet cat or dog. Well, I have another shock for her.

Here, in our beautiful city of Grand Rapids, we have a pet cemetery. This pet cemetery has some lovely headstones and expensive monuments which have been erected by loving people in memory of their pets.

One can always tell where the fresh graves are because of the wreaths and bouquets of flowers. The people who bury their pets here are not crazy. They are normal individuals who enjoyed their pets and want to give them a nice final resting place.

I feel sorry for anyone who doesn't know the wonderful world of animals. They are missing one of life's greatest joys. —MICHIGANDER.

DEAR MICH.—There is something heart-warming and lovely about a youngster's funeral for his pet. But pet funerals belong to a child's world.

Adults who erect headstones for dead animals should re-read St. Paul to the Corinthians: "When I was a child I spoke as a child, I felt as a child, I thought as a child. Now that I have become a man I have put away the things of a child." I add, humbly, "Amen."

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Most people write to you about their troubles. I want to write to you about my blessings.

It's a woman. And I am deeply in love. If you think I'm a teenager let me assure you I am not. I have loved this woman for 41 years. The road has been a rocky one. We've had as much trouble or more than many of our friends. I've gone broke. There has been illness—and tragedy—but never once did I doubt that I was a lucky man because I had this jewel by my side. We have seven wonderful children. And they are wonderful because of her—not me. She has been the strength and the guiding light in our family.

Her hair isn't golden any more and her hands are work-worn. But to me she is the most beautiful woman in the world. I wouldn't trade her for Venus. That's love.—EL PASO.

DEAR EL PASO—You bet it is. How blessed you are to have these wonderful feelings. And she is blessed, too—to be so appreciated and loved.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—There comes a time in a woman's life when she passes from being a "maiden" to an old maid. I think I've reached the crossroads. Please tell me what to do.

For three years I lived in the same apartment building with Mr. Charming. We first met walking our dogs. It was quite romantic. He invited me out to dinner. That was the first and last meal he ever bought me. From then on he fell in love with my cooking and has been a steady boarder ever since.

Six months ago I decided the arrangement was too convenient for him so I moved across town. Now he comes over for dinner three nights a week and the other four nights he phones to "check." He is insanely jealous and becomes furious if my line is busy because he doesn't want me talking to anyone else.

His says nothing about marriage but wants to make sure I am "saving myself for him." I am 30. He is 37. What's the word?—GYPSY.

DEAR GYPSY—The word is "Good-bye" and I hope you use it soon. If this moocher were interested in marriage you'd be his wife by this time instead of his short-order cook. The guy isn't 37 years old and a bachelor for nothing. Get with it, Petunia.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Co-op Idea Hottest Thing In Our Arctic Circles

By STEWART MacLEOD

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP)—The word "co-operative" wasn't known in the Canadian Arctic five years ago.

Today it's considered the hottest discovery since someone brought the news that southerners would actually pay good money for those carvings the Eskimos did for kicks.

Take Cape Dorset, on the southwest tip of Baffin Island, as an example.

Until 1959, Eskimos in the community were having a tough time. They hunted and fished independently, with more survival as ultimate goal. They couldn't afford to maintain ammunition supplies and their kayaks were rotting.

James Houston, a northern affairs department administrative officer, went into the community and got the Eskimos together in a co-op venture. He found a few good stone carvers who took on the job of teaching others.

This year Oshaweetuk, a Cape Dorset Eskimo, came to Frobisher Bay to the first conference of Arctic co-ops, armed with the latest co-operation statement. It showed the Cape Dorset co-op sold $125,810 worth of graphic arts and crafts in 1962, that the co-op retail store now has four departments and that more than $47,000 was paid out in local wages. It has 61 members.

EARNINGS ZOOM

Peter Kamongoak came from Resolute Bay with a similar story. The co-op there was organized two years ago to handle retailing, fur marketing and handicrafts. In the first year its net earnings totalled $2,103. Last year it topped $32,000.

These are the most successful of the 16 Eskimo co-ops now operating in the Canadian Arctic, but all are making a gigantic contribution to the economic development of this bleak territory. Now one in five of the 11,800 Eskimos belong to a co-op, and the process is still getting under way.

They perform functions from log-hauling to bed-catching and house-building, and most sell stone carvings.

One housing project here has brought 15 Eskimo families their own carpenter shack, into relatively modern three-bedroom bungalows complete with panelled living rooms.

With a down payment of $147, and by erecting the prefabricated buildings themselves, the Eskimos can pay off the mortgage at $25 a month. Most get their wages from a fishermen's co-op that sells smoked Arctic char to white customers.

LOANS FOR CO-OPS

The co-op movement was organized in the Arctic by the northern affairs department's industrial division, headed by Don Snowden, an energetic former newspaper man from Winnipeg with a burning ambition to develop the Arctic.

The division has only two full-time co-op workers, Paul Godt and Alex Stevenson, who spend most of their time hopping from one isolated community to another working for the movement.

Each new co-op gets loans of up to $50,000 from the federal government to start the business. Not one cent has been defaulted.

When Eskimo members of the 16 co-ops came here for their first convention in March, many had never before been out of their own communities. Conventions, as such, were unknown and some were obviously stage-struck as they sat around wooden tables in the local IODE hall, nervously tapping their mukluks on the hard wood floor. Most chain-smoked cigarettes.

LANGUAGE BARRIER

Yet, one after the other, they jumped to their feet to expound their views, their problems and their arguments. Mr. Snowden, who expected difficulty in encouraging speakers, was hard-pressed to keep most in their seats.

The interpreters, who had to contend with two Eskimo dialects, English, European - flavored English and French were sweating at the end of each session.

Dr. A. W. Laidlaw, national secretary of the Co-operative Union of Canada, sat through the week-long sessions. Later he said:

"If somehow or other I can adequately report everything to the people down south they will be amazed at what has happened here in the last few years."

During each day of the conference he was "more and more delighted." While the Eskimos will need considerable assistance, they are gradually taking over their own affairs and "they seem to have an instinctive ability to know who are their leaders."

Hold Dessert, Coffee Meeting

PICTON — The Business and Professional Women's Club held their dessert and coffee meeting on Monday at the United Church hall. Avis Head in thanked the ladies of group 2 for the dessert.

President Gena Ostrander was in the chair. Mary Frederick read the minutes in the absence of Pat McColl. Kay Camp gave the treasurer's report.

Betty Demille volunteered to be chairman of Business Women's Week.

May 6 is the Salvation Army blitz when several members will be assisting.

Maude Piper will be a delegate at the regional meeting on May 11, at Bancroft.

Margaret Shaw will attend the Kiwanis Club dinner on April 29 when May Ryland will be guest speaker.

Members will be attending the Maypole Tea at Trenton on April 29.

Election of officers was held for the 1963 year.

Maude Piper, club projects convenor, spoke on the entertainment for the evening, "Talent Night." She introduced the judges, Mrs. MacArthur and Mrs. Lennox, who were to choose the "Talent Queen." Each member explained how she had made her money. Some members knitted, crocheted or did fancy work, others grew gardens and sold the produce, baby sat and sold candy. To make her talent money the president shovelled grain one day in the fall, while the treasurer buried the pipe line at the Girl Guide camp. Mary Frederick told about her talent in verse. Winner of the talent night was Betty Demille.

Mrs. MacArthur spoke on behalf of the judges and presented Betty with a prize.

The next executive meeting is May 13, at the home of Dora Maddox. The general meeting will be the annual dinner meeting, May 27, when all reports will be given.

The meeting closed with the Club Creed.

Badminton Club Closes Season

PICTON—Marking the close of a successful season, the final games of the Badminton Club were played at Picton Armoury. Competition was really keen and enjoyed by the spectators. Winner of the Ladies' Singles was Maureen Harrington, while the consolation winner was Betty Brown. Ladies' doubles winners were Maureen Harrington and Mary Pick and Ruth Cooper and Betty Ryerott consolations.

Men's Singles winner, John Parkinson with George Fuhlow Jr. being the consolation winner. Men's doubles winners were Rodney Dulmage and Ron Colliver; consolations were Don Hall and Ernie Tenker. Mixed doubles winners were Maureen Harrington and Peter Robinson; consolations were Ruth Cooper and Ron Colliver.

Following play, President Fred Jennings presented the winners with gifts. A delicious cold plate lunch was served by Mary Pick, food convener.

Items of News From Camp

PICTON—While losing out in the Area championships held at Kingston, the 1st Canadian Guards volleyball team will participate in the Command finals at London this month. They had five points to 1 Sigs. Unit 8, winning five and losing four games.

SOFTBALL

With the disappearance of snow and the advent of warm and sunny weather, the Intercounty softball league is now under way at Camp Picton.

The battalion team will also be practising regularly under the guidance of WO2 Imbeau and Sergeant Legear. Despite the fact that Command Olympics are only to be held in September, after the Summer Concentration, it is hoped that full support will be given the team and that all who have a liking and an interest for this sport will participate. In the first game of the inter-company schedule, Number Two Company defeated Number One Company by a score of 17-7.

VISIT BY NO. 211 CADET CORPS

On Wednesday the 17th of April the Cadet Corps from the city to Ottawa sent 40 of its members to Camp Picton on a visit. The Cadets were welcomed at 11.15 a.m. They visited the men's quarters, the kitchen and Mess Hall, dined with the guardsmen and saw a transport display which included a briefing on vehicles on establishment and employment, repair facilities and transport stores. Number Six Company provided a short demonstration of the mortars, machine-guns, anti-tank weapons and the tasks of the Infantry Pioneer Platoon. Later, the Academie-de-La Salle Cadet Corps members were briefed on the organization and employment of the Signals Platoon. The aim, to familiarize these cadets with an Infantry Battalion, was accomplished.

VISIT BY DEPARTMENT OF LANDS & FORESTS

On the 22rd of April the Department of Lands and Firests conducted a demonstration in fire suppression at Camp Picton. Equipment and methods of suppressing fires were shown. Beyond a doubt, the information received will prove invaluable in assisting Unit resources in their duties with respect to control of fires. This additional knowledge will improve their cabability.

TRAINING

On the 17th, 18th and 19th of April, Battalion Headquarters participated in exercise "Shakedown." This exercise enabled the various officers, senior NCOs and guardsmen to refresh their memories on drills and procedures that are used in controlling the sub-units in the field.

These days, all companies are being tested by the Commanding Officer in order to improve present drills and to correct errors in operations.

Exercise "Improvisation" will see quite an amount of activity in the Point Petre training area by each company, in turn, being put through various stages of operations.

MILITIA OFFICERS

During the week the battalion was visited by four militia officers. Three were from the Lake Superior Scottish Regiment (Port Arthur) and one was from the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (Belleville). These officers were given the opportunity of seeing how a regular infantry battalion operates. They participated in rifle company exercises and had a "short stroll" with a fighting patrol.

Laborers, Construction Workers Still Hardest Hit By Unemployment in Canada

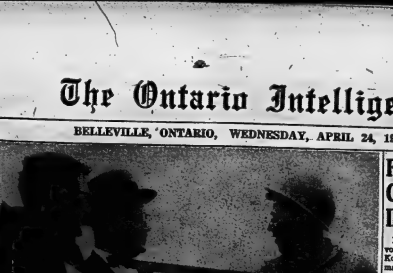
OTTAWA (CP)—Laborers and construction workers are still the hardest hit by unemployment in Canada, but there are signs of improvement.

A slight brightening in this otherwise bleak picture appears in the latest analysis of occupational unemployment prepared by the bureau of statistics.

It shows a drop in the unemployment rate of laborers and construction workers between the first quarter of 1962 and the comparable period last year.

Laborers make up one-fifth of the jobless workers in Canada. But their unemployment rate slipped to 28.3 per cent in the first three months this year from 30.1 per cent in the similar period last year.

In other words, roughly 28 of every 100 laborers were jobless in early 1963, compared to 30 of every 100 in the first quarter of 1962.



RANK SECOND

Construction workers made up 15 per cent of the ranks of the unemployed in the first quarter of 1963, a slight improvement from the 17-per-cent proportion a year earlier. Instead of almost 26 of every 100 construction workers being out of a job—as they were in early 1962—there was only some-all every 100 jobless in the first part of this year.

While the improvements are regarded as encouraging, the unemployment rates of laborers and construction workers are still consistently far above the first-quarter national average of 8.4 per cent.

Ranking behind these two fields of chronic unemployment are workers in transportation occupations. Their unemployment rate was 12.9 per cent in the first quarter of 1963, compared with 13.3 per cent a year earlier.

Next in line are workers in the primary industries, which include logging, fishing, trapping, logging and mining work. Their jobless rate was 10.3 per cent, hardly changed from the 10.6-per-cent rate a year earlier.

PICKET LINE — George Moulton, (centre), Kingston, representative of Local 269 International Sheet Metal Workers, talks over strike with local picketers John Harvey and Frank Poste (right) outside Quinte Secondary School. Strike against local contractor practically halted work on Belleville's biggest building project as tradesmen refused to cross picket lines at $1,500,000 school extension.

Free Competition Cure for World's Ills - - Erhard

BONN (AP)—Ludwig Erhard, voted the most likely to succeed Konrad Adenauer as West Germany's chancellor, is a man wedded to the idea that free competition is the cure for the world's ills.

The 66 - year - old Erhard doesn't spend a lot of time denouncing communism.

Erhard sees free competition as the economic counterpart to free political activity. Germany, he feels, was deprived of both for many years and needs practice in these.

His view of foreign policy does not differ notably from Adenauer's. If he has any predecessors, he likes British "muddling through" better than French planning.

Erhard has spent most of his life in the study of economics. He was born in 1897, the son of a father kept a dry goods shop. The son got his opportunity to study because a wound in the First World War made it hard for him to stand behind the counter.

HELPED BY FRIENDS

Erhard got a job as an institute for market research in Nuremberg, a semi-public institution he had to quit when he got into a fight with the Nazi regime in the Second World War. Friends helped him organize a research outfit of his own.

During the war he was in touch with Karl Goerdeler, leader in the resistance to the Hitler regime. Goerdeler was executed after the failure of an attempt on Hitler's life.

Shortly after the German surrender, Erhard was picked by United States occupation authorities to head the German Bureau of Economics. He has been minister of economics ever since.

Adenauer has chosen his chancellors carefully. All parties condemned what Conservative Leader Diefenbaker called "a change in the philosophy of defence: a change in the views of NATO, if accepted by the NATO partners."

One early theory here was that the U.S. government deliberately tried to unhorse Mr. Diefenbaker because of his hesitancy over accepting American defensive nuclear warheads on Canadian soil.

However, since the election in which the Conservatives were defeated, it has become clear with the situation have felt free to talk about it and this picture vanished.

In brief, it is that the U.S. was worried about the possible implications of high-level talks Mr. Diefenbaker's defence statements Jan. 25 on their European allies in the North Atlantic alliance.

Govt. Will Be Gunning For Freer World Trade But Be Tough Bargainer - - Sharpe

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp says the new Liberal government will be gunning for freer world trade—but will insist on getting as much as it gives in the way of tariff cuts.

"We'll be tough bargainers," Mr. Sharp told a press conference Tuesday.

The trade minister, in office little more than 36 hours, told of his plans to head overseas next month for two big conferences. They are a Commonwealth trade meeting in London and a ministerial council of GATT—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—in Geneva.

The Geneva meeting will decide the ground rules for next year's major round of GATT tariff - cutting negotiations, including the prospect of cuts of up to 50 per cent in the United States tariff. These U.S. reductions will be offered in return for matching concessions by other countries.

Mr. Sharp said it is imperative to Canada that international trade barriers be reduced.

WILL BARGAIN

"Make no bones about it," he added. "We'll be bargaining hard to gain concessions in other markets at least equal to those we grant in our own market."

Mr. Sharp, formerly deputy trade minister under the late C. D. Howe, declined to outline what proposals Canada may make in the trade talks. The cabinet hadn't yet decided.

Mr. Sharp indicated he will seek a further long-term wheat agreement with Communist China. A 2½-year agreement expires next December. But he declined to predict chances of getting a new agreement.

He said "one of the primary objectives of the government" will be reduction of the international balance - of - payments deficit that amounted to $850,000,000 last year.

Britain Appears Bit Frantic To Get Test-Ban Treaty

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Faced by embarrassing bans-the-bomb demonstrations at home and by two stubborn, unbudging nuclear giants abroad, Britain right now is in a bit frantic in its latest efforts to obtain an East-West nuclear test-ban treaty.

It is unlikely that even a direct appeal would cause Soviet Premier Khrushchev suddenly to yield enough ground to provide a treaty sufficiently attractive to gain U.S. Senate approval.

The planned appeal to Khrushchev Wednesday by the British and American ambassadors in Moscow may merely convince the Kremlin there is an element of Western political demonstration—at least on Britain's part—involved, and that the treaty price could be stepped up instead of reduced.

While the United States and Britain are anxious to have a treaty, Britain may be a bit more anxious because of the ban-the-bomb issue at home and because the Macmillan administration faces uncertain election prospects.

NO SECRET TALKS

American authorities shrug off any suggestion that Britain would negotiate behind their back in the hope of persuading Khrushchev to yield some ground on verification or the number of annual on-site inspections. The United States demands at least seven inspections a year while Russia has offered three.

In fact, American point out that the ambassadors of Britain and the United States jointly sought the audience with Khrushchev and that the two countries are working jointly on the nuclear issue.

But there seems room for suggestion from various reports accompanying the ambassadorial audience with Khrushchev, that Britain is now being dragged the United States to the Kremlin conference table. President Kennedy has been criticized by Congress for watering down U.S. treaty proposals. It is unlikely he would improve his popularity by yielding more ground.

LAGS A FACTOR

U.S. reaction to further concessions would be viewed to some extent in the light of the Laotian situation. The question being asked in some Washington quarters is what use would a test-ban treaty be if the Communists cannot be trusted to abide by their agreements as Laos is used as an example.

Russia and Britain are co-chairmen of the conference to maintain Laotian peace. The Soviet-Communist Pathet Lao appears to have largely taken over and expanded its territory through attack without regard to any understanding.

American disarmament authorities say that despite Laos, Cuba and other trouble spots, they are convinced Russia would honor a nuclear test ban if firm agreement is reached. Some even suggest the day may come when, as the leading nuclear powers, Russia and the United States may join to police the world against war.

American officials argue the real culprit in Laos is Communist China and North Vietnam, not the two leading Communist powers are split. However there appears to be some Soviet fence mending under way in China. The Soviet charge that the United States and not the Communists are responsible for the Laotian flare-up adds to suspicion that when the chips are down the Communist breach suddenly will be mended to present a solid front to the West.

Union Refuses To Load Ship In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The Canadian grain ship Howard L. Shaw docked in the Calumet River in the Continental Grain Company elevator complex there but two unions refused to board or berth her.

The unions are International Longshoremen's Association Local 418, Grain Elevator, Flour Mill and Feed Mill Workers, and Local 107, Grain Trimmers and Loaders.

The ship is owned by Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto and her crew are members of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

Jack Connor, president of ILA Local 418, said: "We don't feel that members of the AFL-CIO Maritime Trades Department can condone the CMU's actions locally this is a battle between Jack Sedgewick, International Union and Upper Lakes and we can only hope they settle it. But we don't want our unions not to get involved."

NLRB UNDER

Continental Grain said it would seek an order from the National Labor Relations Board to force the unions to load the vessel. The NLRB last year refused to take action on a similar complaint.

Before 1962, Upper Lakes used crews that were untrust with the SIU. Last year Upper Lakes signed crews with membership in the CLC, which was founded by the Canadian Labor Congress.

The SIU has said the CLC and Upper Lakes have united to drive the SIU out of Canada. The union also says that with the growth of foreign-flag shipping on the Great Lakes — 12,000 American Seafarers' jobs are in jeopardy, along with 20,000 in Canada's economy, if it loses its bitale against the CMU.

URGES ACTION

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk has been urged to press the new Canadian government for early action on the long - stalled Columbia River power treaty. The call came from Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, who pleaded for swift Canadian ratification of the treaty or new negotiations to remove any cross-border differences that may exist.

R. Taschereau Chief Justice Of Canada

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. Robert Taschereau, appointed Tuesday night as chief justice of Canada, traces a family connection with Canada's highest judicial post to the court's founding in 1875.

He is the second Taschereau to become chief justice of Canada and bears a relationship to four previous members of the court.

The new chief justice, 66, next in seniority on the nine-member court to the late Chief Justice Kerwin who died in February, has been a judge of the court since 1940.

His family's connection with it is almost unbroken over its 88 years. When appointed in 1940, he replaced a cousin, L. A. Cannon who had been a Supreme Court judge for 10 years.

A Taschereau was Quebec's representative on the court when it was formed. That was the new chief justice's grandfather, Jean Thomas Taschereau, brother of Canada's first Roman Catholic cardinal, Alexandre Elzear Taschereau.

COUSIN SUCCEEDS

When Jean Thomas Taschereau stepped temporarily from the bench, he was succeeded by a cousin, Elzear, who ultimately became chief justice of Canada before retiring in 1907.

Elzear Taschereau was succeeded on the Supreme Court bench by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, a grand uncle of the new chief justice.

Son of Louis Alexandre Taschereau, premier of the province of Quebec for 16 years, the new chief justice was admitted to the Quebec bar in 1920 and has practised law in Quebec until his appointment to the court.

He was elected to the Quebec legislature in 1930 as Liberal member for Bellechasse and was re-elected in 1931 and 1935. He was appointed a King's Counsel in 1930. He was professor of criminal law at Laval University from 1929 until 1940 and professor of civil law at the University of Ottawa since 1935.

Conservative Wins Record By 24 Votes

SARNIA (CP)—M. T. McCutcheon, Progressive Conservative candidate in the April 8 federal election, was confirmed Tuesday as Lambton - Kent's member of Parliament with a final majority of 24 votes after a recount Tuesday before Judge R. A. Carscallen.

The recount result added one vote more to Mr. McCutcheon's total for 9,520 and cut nine votes from the total by Jack Burgess Liberal candidate from Wallaceburg, whose final figure was 9,496.

Mr. Burgess was Liberal member during the last Parliament.

Company Will Pay Increase But Won't Sign Agreement

Work on Belleville's biggest building project, the Quinte Secondary School's $1,500,000 expansion—virtually ground to a halt this morning as tradesmen refused to cross a picket line of striking local sheet metal workers.

The strikers, members of Local 269, International Sheet Metal Workers, struck today over signing of a wage-increase agreement with Acme Plumbing and Heating

Acme is a local sub-contractor for Sirocke Construction of Ottawa, main contractors for the big extension, planned to include more classrooms and technical workshops for the school by fall.

The strike, involving about four Acme metal workers and their helpers, brought out more than an estimated 50 other tradesmen, who refused to cross the picket lines.

The Acme workmen were seeking an increase from $2.56 hourly-rate to $2.90—but the dispute is not essentially over higher pay.

AGREE TO RAISE

"They (Acme) have agreed to pay the $2.90," said union local representative George Moulton, from Kingston. "But they don't want to sign an agreement for one year."

When the strikers mounted their pickets this morning, plumbers, electricians, bricklayers, carpenters and their helpers refused to cross the lines.

The rest of the workmen remaining on the job were labouring in anxiety about the strike's fate. That fear was also expressed by school principal Leslie Reid.

"We were fighting time with the weather," he said, "and they hoping to have everything ready for the school opening (in the fall)."

"The only ones to suffer in the end will be the students."

Local 269 bargains for sheet metal workers in an area from Trenton east to Prescott.

Macmillan Seeks to Arrange New Big Three Peace Talks To Restore Public Image

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan, with a general election in sight, is working hard for a new round of Big Three talks to halt nuclear testing—and to restore his public image as an East-West peacemaker.

The U.S. and British ambassadors in Moscow were scheduled to see Premier Khrushchev today to explore prospects for a high-level meeting to break the deadlock in the negotiations for a test ban treaty.

Macmillan's aides say the initiative for this move came from the 69-year-old British prime minister.

In continuing personal exchanges with President Kennedy, Macmillan won Washington's backing for the Moscow probe, which began quietly last Thursday. Ambassadors Foy Kohler and Sir Humphrey Trevelyan had a talk then with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on the test-ban negotiations.

ELECTION IN YEARS

Macmillan has vowed to lead his Conservative followers to a fourth successive victory in Britain's approaching general election — expected within a year. His chances of succeeding depend primarily on more effective policies at home, especially in beating unemployment and reviving the national economy.

But a resounding achievement in foreign policy undoubtedly would help Macmillan tremendously. It would assist Britain's somewhat battered international prestige. And it might lure back disenchanted Tories and attract Liberals whose votes are essential if Macmillan's party is to stay in power.

In pursuing his quest Macmillan faces the full problem of finding a bridge for the gap between Washington and Moscow which persuades to enforce a test ban.

Pres. Kennedy administration, as custodian of the West's nuclear deterrent power, could not get congressional approval of a treaty that conceded too much to the Soviets.

Office Staff Stages Party For Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—A surprise birthday party for Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday featured two cakes, one from "all the staff" and the other from cabinet colleagues at the Prime Minister's office staff—including civil servants who remained in the prime ministers office through the change of government, and those who worked with Mr. Pearson in his old office as leader of the Opposition — chipped in to throw the party on the prime minister's 66th birthday.

He said he appreciated the gesture, but he thought the most appropriate birthday card he received came from his wife. It said she had thought of throwing him a big birthday bash with a jazz band, bath-tub gin, and all the trimmings," but the inside part of the card said: "As your age, warm milk and graham crackers would be more appropriate."

Two Presidents Of Railways to Visit Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — The presidents of Canada's two major railways will call on Transport Minister George McIlraith separately in the next few weeks.

Mr. McIlraith will confer first with Gordon and CPR President N. R. Crump, the Ottawa visit will be strictly business—but private.

Both men likely will take advantage of their traditional courtesy calls to fill in the new minister on railway problems with them.

Observers say both railway chiefs will also promise to cooperate fully with the new Liberal government in tackling the pile-up of problems awaiting urgent action on the transport front.

At the same time, they are expected to mention the need for early consideration of the new cabinet of the essential recommendations of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, a six-man panel that reported many troubles to the Conservative government.

WOULD MOULD POLICY

The MacPherson report, not made public in three volumes between April, 1961, and July, 1962, is the most thorough blueprint for overhauling transportation policies and regulations. It has been publicly praised by the railways as a clear diagnosis of railway ills and a valid prescription for remedying them.

The Diefenbaker government promised legislation at the last session of Parliament, but the election intervened before any action was taken.

In essence, the commission proposed a drastic overhaul of measures — including a fundamental change in the freight rate structure—designed to put the railways for a sink-or-swim battle against other forms of transport.

The measures included four specific subsidies totalling about $100,000,000 in the first year but dwindling to about $25,000,000 by the fifth year. The subsidies would offset railway losses on passenger services, branch lines, export grain traffic and statutory free transportation.

Royal Assent Given 50 Bills as PEI House Closes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lieutenant - Governor F. W. Hyndman gave royal assent to 50 bills Tuesday as the Prince Edward Island legislature finished its business and prorogued. The house opened March 14.

Bills approved included a new Election Act and one to raise gasoline taxes by two cents to 18 and the sales tax on consumer goods to five from four per cent.

In other legislation, a redistribution of seats in the 30-seat house increased the representation of urban Queens county to 12 from 10 and reduced that of Kings by two. Salaries and indemnities of members were increased.

The Conservatives hold 19 seats and the Liberals 11. One seat is vacant.

TAKES OVER POWER

In other legislatures:

Quebec — Premier Jean Lesage announced the successful conclusion of two financial operations—the province's first issue of sovereign bonds and the government's first take-over of private power companies—both completed in Montreal Quebec.

The Liberal premier said bond sales have reached $176,000,000 and that the province has set a new limit, the second time this has been necessary.

On the power take-over, he said offers to shareholders of seven private power companies were accepted by a convincing majority. The average acceptance among the companies was 90.2 per cent.

Mr. Lesage also said offers to three more small companies will be announced today and acceptance would make the takeover complete.

Winnipeg — In Manitoba, the legislature adopted a resolution that the government study problems involving retarded children in consultation with interested organizations and bring in appropriate legislation.

Accuse Russia Of Blocking Peace in Laos

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Lord Home today accused the Soviet Union of frustrating British moves to restore peace in Laos.

He told the House of Lords that the military drive of pro-Communist forces in Laos "placed in great jeopardy" the Geneva agreement of last July designed to prevent Laos from from the arena of the cold war.

The next few days should show whether the (Geneva) settlement is to be allowed to survive or not," Home said.

WIDOW GETS CHEQUE

MONTREAL (CP)—A cheque for more than $800 was presented Tuesday night to Mrs. William O'Neill, widow of the Montrealman killed in a bomb blast at a army recruiting office Saturday night. The cheque was collected among army personnel and department of national defence employees in Montreal.

Israel -- Dynamic Nation Is Forged Amid Hostility

By ARYE WALLENSTEIN

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—When Israelis celebrate their country's 15th anniversary April 29, they will be looking with pride at past achievements and with confidence to the future.

On May 14, 1948, powerful enemies invaded the infant country, besieged its cities and villages and swore to wipe it off the map.

Now, 15 years later, a dynamic nation protected by a well-tested and well-trained military machine is going ahead with plans for development and welfare.

True, its Arab neighbors have not yet reconciled themselves to Israel's existence, nor are they prepared to make peace with it. But beyond this immediate ring of hostility Israel has been gaining friends and respect.

One of the most striking features of Israel's activities in the last few years has been the successful program of co-operation with the young emergent countries of Africa.

Thousands of Israeli experts and technicians have been loaned to Afro-Asian countries to help carry out development projects while thousands of Afro-Asian trainees have come to Israel to learn from Israel's successful experience.

BORDER RAIDS RARE

Within a relatively brief period, a hard-working nation has managed to solve formidable problems. The young state has managed to settle more than a million Jewish refugees and now is on the way to expansion and prosperity.

Those who worked and fought for Israel's establishment had one cherished dream—that the Jewish people should have once again a homeland of its own where Jewish pioneers, settlers as well as refugees from disaster, could live as free men.

By now some 1,100,000 Jews have come as olim (immigrants). During these 15 years some Jewish communities abroad have disappeared almost completely as a result of emigration to Israel — in Yemen, Iraq, Bulgaria, to cite only a few examples.

In 1963 the great hardships of the Israelis seem to be a matter of the past, of memories. Just as the murder raids from across the borders, with their toll in life and property, have become just memories, so have the grim austerity of a decade ago and suffering of scores of thousands who lived under canvas in temporary immigrant camps.

DIVERT GALILEE WATER

Today housing has caught up with the demand, food supplies are ample and the economy is booming.

In terms of statistics this has meant in the last few years a steady annual growth of about 10 per cent in the gross national product, a growth of 20 per cent in the national income, a 10-per-cent increase in investment and last year an outstanding increase in the foreign currency reserves which reached about $114,000,000. A substantial rise in exports was reported in the last year.

Up and down the country giant development projects are in evidence. The Galilee the final touches are being put to the $120,000,000 Jordan diversion project designed to carry water from the Sea of Galilee to parched lands in the south. The system of canals, pipelines and tunnels has been a major engineering feat. Within a year Galilean water will begin to flow southwards.

In the Dead Sea hundreds of laborers aided by $12,000,000 worth of modern machinery and equipment are building dams to seal off a large section of the salty lake and turn it into potash evaporation pans.

SEEK ECM TREATY

When complete, the Israeli potash works at biblical Sodom lowest point on the surface of the earth, will become one of the largest in the world with an annual potash production of nearly a million tons.

Perhaps the greatest problem facing the Israeli economy today is the country's relations with the European Common Market. Israel has been seeking a treaty with the Six to put it inside the customs union on terms similar to those of Greece. It encountered some resistance but negotiations are under way to obtain some arrangement with the European Market that will enable Israel to continue and expand its trade with Europe.

Alongside economic consolidation, the country has experienced relative political stability on the home front—in striking contrast with the upheavals in neighboring Arab countries.

BUILD NUCLEAR REACTORS

Despite its electoral system of proportional representation which preserved nearly a dozen political parties and groupings in the Knesset (Parliament), the man who acted as architect of the new state, David Ben Gurion, has been at the helm of government almost without interruption.

The 76-year-old premier has had to ride several political storms, to manoeuvre and to intrigue in order to maintain his majority, but so far he has succeeded.

The most striking projects undertaken by Israeli scientists and technologists are those connected with water desalination and the harnessing of solar energy.

Even in the field of nuclear science Israelis have been trained. A small atomic reactor has been in operation for several years, a larger reactor is being built at Dimona in the Negev, and plans are being studied for the erection of nuclear power stations.

EASING WATER SHORTAGE — A grading machine edges along a canal forming part of Israel's Jordan-Negev irritation project. When it is finished in 1966, the system will pump surplus water from the Sea of Galilee to farmland in the arid Negev district. (CP Photo)

Adventurer Will Have Only Dog and Cat for Company

NEW YORK (AP) — William Willis, still an adventurer at 70 years, proposes to sail some 10,000 to 12,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean from Callao, Peru, to Australia, with only a dog and a cat for company.

Willis, who has sailed the seas as man and boy for 53 years, won fame in 1954 by guiding a raft 6,700 miles in 115 days from Callao to Samoa.

His mileage was 3,300 greater than that recorded by six Scandinavians on the raft Kon-Tiki in 1947. He detailed his exploit in a book, The Gods Were Kind, which has been printed in 15 languages.

Why would a man, to whom fame is no stranger and who is now on the twilight of his life, willingly undergo the incredible hardship of such a perilous voyage—one that could well cost his life?

The answer is that he is akin to the mountain climber who scales a peak simply because it's there. He sails an ocean on a raft because of the challenge.

He said he made his 1954 voyage to "show that a tone man can conquer the ocean and the fury of the elements with his bare hands and the most rudimentary means of navigation."

SURE OF ABILITY

Now he wants to know whether he can endure even more that he did at 61. He believes he can. He has named his raft and his expedition Age Unlimited.

The coming voyage, to start shortly, will cover at least 3,300 miles more ocean than did the first and may require two months longer to complete.

None of this dismays Willis, a slender seaman of medium height and grey hair who wears his years lightly.

"I don't fear the sea and I have not the slightest doubt I will succeed," he said in his hotel quarters where he lives with his wife, Tess, who is helping him prepare for the greatest challenge of his life.

He says he can go two weeks without food, if he has to. But he will be able to spare time from the wheel to rustle up a quick meal on a gasoline-alcohol stove he will take along.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

For some eleven or twelve seasons now top keglers of the city and district have been shooting—or bowling for the elusive title of "Mr. Bowling" of this particular area.

I think this is the 12th season, for holding Bill Bateman, manager of the Bowl-O-Drome here, loses another reddish strand from atop his pate with every event and the last actual count revealed eleven missing since the inaugural census was taken.

The popular tournament which has now reached the "classic" stage has been scheduled for Friday and Saturday, May 3rd and 4th, with one shift slated for Friday at 7.00 p.m. and two shifts on Saturday at 10.00 a.m. and 2.00 p.m.

The tournament this year is limited to 96 entries, and Mr. Bateman, between periodical hair-counts, informs me the contest will be a ten-game affair with the usual four players per lane.

In the early days of the annual quest for the "Mr. B" honor, glory and limited loot, the victor toted home the handsome "Mr. Bowling Trophy," plus $100 in the coin of the realm and possibly a few sideline awards.

More recently with more bowlers of the area vieing for the classic's what-have-you, the tangible inducements have been upped to the point where the winner is much better off financially, trophy and gift-wise, and many needs take a few days off by the kitchen's hot stove to enjoy the all-expense trip to Toronto that is now part of the take.

The little woman should not have any objections for part of the winner's total award this season is an all-expense trip to Toronto (for two), with luxury accommodation at the Westbury Hotel, extra spending money, and the opportunity to participate in the O'Connor Open Tournament on May 25th. (Fee paid.)

And on his wrist the winner will wear the special bonus award of a handsome gold watch donated by the O'Connor Jewel Box. The total value of the first prize package award is $175.

But don't go away. If you fail to get dubbed "Mr. B" and finish in the runner-up position you will be suitably rewarded, although you'll have to dig into the family jeans to pay the expenses of the frau.

Second place loot consists of travelling expenses to Toronto, accommodation at the Westbury and your entry fee to the O'Connor Open. This package is valued at $50. Third place winner will pick up a $25 package which includes the O'Connor Tourney entry and some legal tender.

All efforts are being made to get the full quota of ninety-four entries. This will guarantee 17 additional entries in the O'Connor Tournament or the cash equivalent. And don't forget the entry deadline is Sunday, April 28th, at midnight. If the calendar is not handy, that is next Sunday.

Bowlers may enter once only and must register a half hour before starting time. There will be ten special high game prizes and every participant will take home a "Mr. Bowling" souvenir. I don't know what this is but don't get over-optimistic and expect a set of car keys.

The winner cannot only tell his grandchildren that he once won the title "Mr. Bowling", but that it carried with it the Ten-Game District Singles Bowling Championship.

And he can tell them that when he won the title and take in 1963 he defeated 93 of the best headpin shooters from a wide area. That is no small feat and you cannot blame a guy for crowing about it, especially to his grandchildren.

Hawks Sue Club for Back Wages

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Norman (Red) Mullings, captain of the eastern Allan Cup finalists in Moncton Tuesday said Tuesday night he and a group of players have engaged a Moncton lawyer in an attempt to obtain money "owed to us in salary and time lost from our regular occupation."

Mullings and the players are claiming their pay for the last week of the season. The amount for the entire club comes to about $3,500," Mullins said.

The Hawks were last paid April 15 in Windsor, Ont., where they lost to the Bulldogs four games to one in the eastern Allan Cup finals.

Roy Graham, president of Moncton Sports Incorporated—sponsors of the hockey team—said "the players should be and will be paid, but we've got to wait for the auditor's report."

Commercial Softball Meet Thurs.

The Belleville Commercial Softball League will hold its first meeting of the season at the YMCA Thursday night at eight o'clock.

This will be an organization meeting and all interested persons are asked to attend.

Several of last year's clubs have voiced their intentions to participate again this year but it is expected that new teams and sponsors will be needed to form a compact league.

Once again, all interested parties are urged to attend.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching — Ernie Broglio, St. Louis Cardinals, hurled second two-hit shutout in 15-0 victory over Houston Colts.

Batting — Frank Howard, Dodgers, hit two-out ninth inning home-run—only second hit of game for Los Angeles—for 2-1 triumph over Milwaukee Braves.

Illness forced a seventh Canadian, Ed Catalet of Vancouver, to withdraw on the final of the men's 100-metre backstroke. Catalet stayed in bed at the Games Village, nursing an infected throat and fever.

Canada had four medals in swimming and shooting after five days of competition and figured to pick up several more in diving, fencing and swimming today.

Seven Canadians are finalists tonight including Miss Stewart in the women's 100-metre freestyle.

In swimming Tuesday, John Kehoe of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Dan Sherry of Hamilton won bronze medals for third place finish in the men's 200-metre breaststroke and the 100-metre freestyle respectively.

CANADIAN SECOND

Gary McMahon of Dartmouth, N.S., a physicist, captured the silver medal in the pistol shooting with 546 points, just a point behind the gold medallist, Capt. Franklin Green of the U.S. Air Force.

The U.S. was making a runaway of the swimming meet as expected. The Americans sent the largest team to South America—more than 400 men and women. Canada's team totals 134.

The four first-place medals in swimming boosted the over-all U.S. gold medal bag to 10. No other country has more than one in the 15 championships decided to date.

The 16-day Games end May 5 with the main attraction—track and field—still to come. And the U.S. is expected to score a virtual sweep in that phase of the competition.

Chet Jastremski, Steve Clark and Ed Baritsch won the gold medals in men's swimming Tuesday.

SETS RECORD

Jastremski, the world record-holder at the distance, captured the 200 breaststroke in 2:35.4, two seconds faster than the former Games record he set in qualifying Sunday. Jastremski is a student at the University of Indiana.

Clark, a Yale University student, blazed to victory by a whisker over teammate Steve Jackman in the 100 freestyle, equalling his Games record of 54.7 set Sunday. Sandy Gilchrist of Ocean Falls took fourth in 56.5.

Baritsch of the University of Michigan captured the 100 backstroke by two feet over Charles Bittick, a Californian, in the Games record time of 1:01.3.

In the women's butterfly, Sharon Pierce of Prince Rupert, B.C., facing her first major international competition, took fifth place in 1:17.6.

In diving, Canadians were third in both phases of the men's and women's three-metre springboard competition after five compulsory figures. Tom Dinsley of Vancouver and Judy Stewart of Toronto were expected to hold their positions today with five optional dives.

U.S. WINS

Yacht racing got under way Tuesday with the U.S. winning four of the six Flying Dutchman races in the Flying Dutchman, Dragon, Lightning and Star classes. Brazil captured the Finn and Snipe classes.

The Canadian entry in the Dragon class, represented by the Montreal crew of Dr. Sandy MacDonald, Peter Dorian and Lynn Watters, finished second. Canada's Tony Vegers and Andrew Baby—both Montrealers—sailed their yacht in the Flying Dutchman class into third place and Harry Jemmett of Kingston, Ont., skippered his Finn dinghy to a fourth placing. Canada had no entries in the other three classes.

Meanwhile, cries of "professionalism" were heard against the Cuban baseball team, which smothered the U.S. 13-1 in the opening game Sunday and which is the favorite for the championship.

In the first major controversy of the games, Victor Luque of Mexico said he was investigating reports that the Cuban team included players from former Cuban professional leagues. "If I find it true, I will protest formally," he said.

New Course Eliminates Church Street Hill

Ken Colling Harrier Race Set For May 1

The annual Ken Colling Cross-Country Run, a test of skill over a revised route, has been scheduled for one week from today, Wednesday, May 1.

The race, open to all high school students in the Bay of Quinte Area, will start and finish at BCIVS. Race time is 4.15 sharp.

Due to traffic complications on Station Street in past years, the course has been changed and slightly lengthened for the 1963 race.

But while the distance is a small fraction of a mile more than the "killer" part of last year's race will be happy to hear that the "killer" part of the course, the Church Street hill, is a thing of the past.

The new course appears much more compact than in former years. Race officials say it is 4.5 miles in distance.

The starting point is on Queen Street, directly opposite BCI. The harriers will proceed east on Queen to McDonald Ave.; south on McDonald to Bridge Street; east on Bridge to Parrott Drive; north on Parrott to Victoria Ave.; west on Victoria to McDonald; south on McDonald back to Queen Street and finally west on Queen back to the finish line on the BCI campus. Thus, Station Street and the Church Street hill are not included in the course at any point this year.

A funnel type finish will be used and numbers will be handed to the contestants as they enter the narrow part of the funnel. These numbers must be presented to the official score keepers who are asked to repay special attention to this new system since the numbers they receive entering the funnel will be the official "receipt" for their finishing position.

The deadline for entries is Tuesday, April 30, and no post entries will be accepted this year.

Mr. Cleo Colling, who donates the Ken Colling Memorial Trophy in memory of his brother, announced recently that a new trophy has been purchased.

This will be the third Ken Colling Trophy, the first two having been won for three years in a row by contestants. Any three-time winner receives the trophy as his permanent possession.

Bill Vermilyea has won the trophy for the past two years, thus the new trophy for this year's race.

Special prizes will be presented to the first seven finishers and crests will go to the first 20 finishers.

Due to the fact that Homer "Bear" Norwood is incapacitated through a serious injury, the race this year will be under the direction of Mr. Ken Colling of B.C.I.V.S. The popular "Red" an official since the race started, became 16 years ago, is out of the hospital after suffering a broken leg and will likely be a spectator at this year's race.

Start Rally Second Half

By BRUCE LEVETT

WINNIPEG (CP) — The second half of the 4,000-mile Cross-Canada Rally begins today and some drivers and officials are hoping it will be tougher than the first half.

Three cars dropped out on the Vancouver - Calgary leg, none failed to make the Calgary-Regina stretch and only one didn't check in here.

The first part leg toward the Montreal finish line goes from here to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., today.

A doubtful starter is the battered Bentley of Don and Colin Boyd of Thornhill, Ont., suffering from a disintegrated right rear wheel bearing.

A total of 16 cars made the run here Tuesday without incurring penalty points and some organizers are hoping for bad weather to separate the men from the boys.

Largest drop-out came Tuesday in the muddy Riding Mountain National Park when the supercharged Corvair of Victoria's David Cooper and Bob Low ran into mechanical difficulties. Reports said they had broken a gear.

TIE FOR SECOND

The Peugeot 404 of Toronto's Frank Curran and Ron Carney, the top private entry so far, went into a tie for second place with the Falcon Sprint of Paul MacLennan and Art Dempsey, both of Toronto. Car 112, the hard-driven Volvo of Bob Alexander and Jim Jellett of Vancouver, slipped two positions to 11th.

Dick Doyen and Clay Gibbs of Milwaukee, in a Toronto-sponsored Chevy II, held first place with a single penalty point. They came the Peugeot-Falcon tie for second with four points.

In fourth spot, three cars were tied with five points—Howell-Silvera, Falcon; Merson-Wilson, Falcon, and Bailey-Gallop, Renault.

Mud in the park area caused some drivers concern.

Alice Fergusson of Toronto, Studebaker driver, said: "We came through with our rear end waggling like a ballet dancer."

FIND ANCIENT GRAVE

An ancient burial ground estimated to be more than 2,000 years old has been found near the Trent River at Campbellford, Ont.

Punchless Dodgers Win On Two Hits

Cards, Giants Top-Tied

By MIKE RATHBY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The latest episode in the troubled life of Walt Alston and his embattled Los Angeles Dodgers might be entitled How to Succeed in Baseball Without Really Hitting.

The Dodgers, with a collective batting average of .220, defeated Milwaukee Braves 2 - 1 Tuesday night with a truly heroic blow by Frank Howard—a home run with two out in the ninth inning that brought the Dodger output of base hits for the evening to a grand total of two.

Dodger pride in the thundrous assault was dampened by the premature retirement of Sandy Koufax in the seventh inning when the fireballing left hander complained of a pulled muscle in his shoulder.

But a report from the clubhouse indicated the injury suffered by Koufax, who was sidelined most of last season with a circulatory ailment in his finger, was not serious.

St. Louis and San Francisco, meanwhile, moved into a tie for first place. The Cardinals pounded 17 hits and crushed Houston Colts 15-0 while Ernie Broglio pitched a two - hitter, and the Giants whipped Cincinnati Reds 4-3 behind Juan Marichal's six-hitter.

CUBS SHOW FANGS

Pittsburgh dropped to third as Chicago Cubs scored six runs in the fourth inning—more than they had scored in any previous game—and rolled to a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia New York Mets and Philadelphia Phillies were not scheduled.

Howard's homer off reliever Claude Raymond of St. Jean, Que., raised his average to .392. He is third in the league in batting and has hit two of the Dodgers' four homers this season, his other providing Koufax with a 3-0 victory over Houston last Friday.

Ron Perranoski, working in relief of Koufax, wound up with Tuesday's victory. Shaw left for a pinch hitter in the eighth. He allowed an uncarned run in the second inning when Mouse Skowron was hit by a pitch, McMullen singled and Dennis Menke bested Nate Oliver's grounder.

Broglio, winning his second without a loss by burling his second two-hitter, lowered his earned run average to a brilliant 0.82. He has been touched for only 16 hits in 33 innings. The Colts attack consisted of Al Spangler's bunt single in the third inning and a double by Bob Lillis in the seventh.

WHITE, BOYER SHINE

Bill White and Ken Boyer led the Cardinals attack against loser Jim Golden and three successors. White collected three runs-batted-in with four singles and both threw runs while Boyer drove in four runs with two singles, an infield out and a base-loaded walk.

There were fire-works at San Francisco, where Marty Keough hit a disputed foul out of the park in the ninth inning with a man on base before going down swinging for the final out. The Reds claimed Keough's blow was a homer. They lost the argument and Marichal won his second victory against one defeat.

Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda each drove in one run and scored one as the Giants tagged Joe Nuxhall with the loss. Jesse Gonder homered for Cincinnati in the eighth.

Jim Schaffer's three - run homer was the key hit for the Cubs in the fourth inning uprising that beat the Pirates. Lou Brock hit an inside - the - park homer in the sixth. Larry Jackson went the distance for Chicago, allowing eight hits, and evened his record at 2-2.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY—Senators outfielder Minnie Minoso goes into his slide as he steals home in sixth inning in game with the Los Angeles Angels in Washington. Angels catcher Ed Sadowsk (8) moves to make the tag as umpire Lon Di Mure watches the action Senators batcher Chuck Schilsle, who was at bat, steps away from the plate. The Senators and Angels played a see-saw game with the Angels winning in the tenth, 5-4, on a solo homer by shortstop Jim Fregosi. (AP Wirephoto)

Blank Maroons 2-0; Grab 3-0 Lead

Bulldogs Three Up--One To Go!

By JIM McKAY

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs will attempt tonight to achieve what no other Windsor team has ever accomplished—win a Canadian hockey title.

Coach Harry Watson's hard-working senior Ontario Hockey Association champions pulled to within one victory of the Allan Cup championship here Tuesday night when they shut out Winnipeg Maroons, 5-0.

It was Windsor's third consecutive victory in the best-of-seven series. Should the lanky Maroons prolong the series tonight, the fifth game will be played here Friday night.

A crowd of 4,460 saw Jerry Servias and captain Lou Bendo score the Bulldog goals in a tough, close-checking game.

Watson couldn't hide his feelings after it was over.

FEELS GREAT

"Boy, I feel great after winning that one. No, I don't think they can win four straight from us now. These guys want to win this thing too badly. Tonight's game showed it. It was a great team effort in the face of a wonderful try by a fine Winnipeg team."

Winnipeg playing - coach Bill Junda, obviously disappointed, said:

"We made two mistakes and they scored on both of them. That was the ball game. We're still out there. We'll show up Wednesday night."

Rookie goalie Wayne Rutledge, who performed last year for Niagara Falls Flyers in the OHA Junior A, kicked out 28 shots to record his fourth playoff shutout in 22 games.

Bulldogs made their best start of the series in the first period and kept the Maroons off-balance for part of it. Both goalies were tested but, eventually, one team would break through. Don Collins, playing his first game as a replacement for Jullan Klymiw, matched Rutledge at every turn.

CHECKING FIERCE

The pace of the second period was even slower than the first because of the checking by both sides. Servias finally broke the ice at 10:01 with an assist from Jim Josephson.

Josephson checked Shorty Melanchuk in the corner to the left of Collins, tore behind the net and flipped a pass out front. Servias was unguarded and neatly slipped the puck under Collins.

Bendo tallied the clincher near the five-minute mark of the final period and again Melanchuk was the victim. He attempted to flip a pass over his own blueline but Real Chevrefils stuck out a leg and the puck rebounded to Jack Costello, who threw a pass to the crease which Bendo pounced home in one motion.

US College Cuts Back On Canucks

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Colorado College is cutting back on its recruitment of Canadian hockey players and is scheduling only two games next season with Denver University.

Both teamed up Canadian players Jerry Carie, Colorado College athletic director, confirmed Monday that the Tigers would play Denver only twice in its 16 - game Western Collegiate Hockey Association schedule.

Colorado College has two games each with Denver, Michigan Tech, North Dakota and Michigan but four each with Minnesota and Michigan State.

NFL Players Ass'n Wants To Speak 'Itself'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Player Association of the National Football League would like to speak for itself at league meetings.

Ever since the association was organized, the league commissioner, first Bert Bell and now Pete Rozelle, has presented player proposals to club owners at league meetings.

Pete Retzlaff, association president, would like to change all that.

"A representative of the association seems the most logical person to present our proposals," says Retzlaff.

The players are asking for an increase in pre-season game salary to $100 from the present minimum of $50, a cutoff date for the start of contract negotiations, standardization of officiating, retroactive service for the pension plan, and a closer look at the financial possibilities of closed circuit television.

'Lost My Spark'

End Of Trail For Ingo?

STOCKHOLM (AP) — "I've lost my spark, and I am aware that the time to leave the ring is coming up," Ingemar Johansson said Tuesday in an interview with Aftonbladet.

Johansson, former world heavyweight champion and present European title - holder, won a narrow points victory Sunday over Britain's Brian London in a 12-rounder here.

Ingo was knocked down four seconds before the gong finished the match in the last round, and was "unable to defend himself when the bell saved him," according to Irish referee Andrew Smythe.

"I'm not sorry, but I am ashamed," said Ingo. "It was a really lousy fight, I'm not nervous any more. That is a warning. The reason may be that I am a little too well-to-do. You have to be hungry to keep the spark," Ingo was quoted as saying by Aftonbladet.

No Word Yet of John Lewis

In answer to several inquiries by phone and mail regarding John Lewis, the city's weightlifting representative at the Pan-American Games in Brazil;

No word has been received either by news services wires or personal contact of Lewis's competition activities.

The only reports this newspaper receives on the Games come via the Associated Press through the Canadian Press news services.

Actually it is doubtful if John has competed in the middle-heavy weightlifting division.

Ken Carr-Braint, who coached Lewis to his Canadian and British Empire championships said he received no word from the young centralist, but believed he would be in competition today.

Carr-Braint said Lewis's family had received one postcard from John since he left for Sao Paulo, Brazil.

The wires services carry full accounts of the Canadian athletics teams' activities in all phases. Had Lewis competed, the story would have been on the wire.

This newspaper carried a full account of Lewis's feats and hopes in the Games a short time ago.

It will carry the results of his endeavors for his city and country as soon as they occur.

Bob Cleroux Breaks With Manager

MONTREAL (CP) — Heavyweight Bob Cleroux and his manager Al Backman of New York split up Tuesday in a dispute over money, their contract, and promotional commitments.

Their four-year contract actually runs to May 18 but said Backman:

"So far as I'm concerned its over now."

Backman, 42, said Cleroux asked him to stay on without a contract.

"That would mean I'd be a manager in name only and you can guess what I replied to that."

Cleroux scored a sixth-round knockout Monday night over Tony Hughes of Cleveland at the eastend Paul Sauve Sports Centre here.

Wrestlers Win at Sao Paulo

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) Canadian grapplers scored two victories and earned a draw in five matches on the second day of preliminaries in the wrestling tournament at the Pan-American Games Tuesday.

Robert Steckle, 33-year-old farmer from Kitchener, won his first match of the Games in the middleweight class, pinning Brazil's Francisco da Silva.

Once-beaten James Christie of Burlington, Ont., won a decision over Luis Figueroa of Venezuela in the light middleweight class. Christie lost his opening match Monday to an Argentinian.

Matti Jutila of Sudbury, battled Mario Tovas of Mexico to a draw in the featherweight class. Jutila, a 31-year-old carpenter, was the silver medallist in the class at the British Empire Games last November.

Kurt Boese, a Kitchener plumber, lost his first match in the lightweight class to Jose Azzari of Guatemala. The 34-year-old Boese defeated an Argentine entry Monday.

Western Hockey

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Way back last October when the Western Hockey League season was young, Seattle Totems felt generous and sent their extra goaltender Jimmy McLeod to San Francisco.

In the league championship they may live to regret their generosity.

Jim put on a spectacular performance Tuesday night as Seals beat Portland Buckaroos 3-1 and entered the final by taking the best-of-seven Southern Division series 4-3.

The championship best - of - seven Seattle-Seals series opens in San Francisco Friday.

McLeod turned back 41 shots, 18 in the second period, as Bucks tried desperately to salvage the game for 10,549 Portland fans.

Orland Kurtenbach, Danny Belisle and Nick Mickoski fired goals for Seals. Tommy McVie had the Buckaroo loner.

SUSPEND DAVIS CUPPERS

WARSAW (Reuters) — Three top Polish Davis Cup tennis players have been suspended for customs offences and dropped from the national team, the Polish Lawn Tennis Association said Tuesday. The association decided at a meeting Monday night to suspend Wieslaw Gasiorek, Wieslaw Nowicki and Josef Ortlikowski pending an investigation of an incident as they were leaving for France last Saturday.

Handgun Shooting

Following are the results of the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's regular shoot held last Sunday morning. Twice-weekly shoots will be held from now until the end of the season, each Sunday morning at ten o'clock and each Wednesday evening at six o'clock.

This week's results: Bob McPherson 23, Harry Farrell 23, Doug Johnston 23, Cy Gardner 22, John Hutchinson 21, Gerald Robertson 21, Tom Akey 20, Clifford Hart 20 and Earl Boldrick 20.

Says Color Is Fading In NHL

ST. THOMAS (CP)—George Hayes of Ingersoll, Ont., a National Hockey League linesman, said Tuesday night the color is disappearing from the NHL because "now everybody is too serious and too scared to make a move."

"The game is not as rugged as it used to be," Hayes told a hockey banquet here. "Body checks add much to hockey and a good brawl never hurts a hockey game.

Hayes said there was only "one good brawl in Chicago between Reg Fleming and Eddie Shack," during the 1962-63 season.

In Hayes' opinion, Shack "is the most colorful" player in the league. "Whenever he steps on the ice at Maple Leaf Gardens, the fans start buzzing."

At the founding meeting Monday night, Saul Lechtzier of Vancouver was elected president with Jack Hellewell of Long Branch, a Toronto suburb, eastern vice-president. Lechtzier said the aim of the association, as well as promoting the game on a national level, will be developing new national tournaments, television shows and a national magazine.

Tigers Drop Another, Angels Win

Birds Cling To Perch On Pappas 1-0 Win

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

From the day they signed him at 18, Baltimore Orioles were convinced pitcher Milt-ladies Stergio Papastergios had everything.

He's lost a few things along the way, like a fistful of vowels and consonants, plus his appendix. The latters went when he shortened his name to Milt Pappas. The appendix was removed last season.

The operation spoiled the 1962 American League campaign and delayed the young right-hander's anticipated leap into the 20-game winners' circle.

Now, at 23, he seems ready to make the jump.

Pappas won his second game of the young season Tuesday night with a five-hit, 1-0 shutout over Minnesota Twins. It also was his second complete game and dropped his earned run average to 1.57.

The victory protected Baltimore's one - half game league lead. Kansas City Athletics took a 3-0 decision over Detroit Tigers, losers of five of their last six, and Los Angeles Angels edged Washington Senators 5-4 in 10 innings.

The Boston Red Sox - New York Yankees game was postponed because of cold weather.

FANS TEAR EARLY

Pappas, who pitched only 11 innings in the minors and has been a Baltimore starter since the age of 19, has won 10, 15, 15, 13 and 12 games in the last five seasons. He furthered his drive for a big year this season by striking out six of the first 10 Minnesota batters. Only one Minnesota runner advanced to third and he got there on an error.

Dick Stigman took the loss and became the sixth consecutive left-hander to lose to the Orioles this season. It also was the second straight game in which the twins were unable to score a run.

The Baltimore run was driven across in the second inning by Jerry Adair with a sacrifice fly, following singles by brooks Robinson and Joe Gaines.

Kansas City's Ed Rakow, a prime reason for the fine start of the Athletics, threw another masterpiece at the Tigers. He struck out six of the first nine men he faced, allowing only five hits. Norm Cash's homer was the only damaging blow.

ALL RUNS UNEARNED

Phil Regan, the Detroit starter, was the victim of sloppy support. All three of the Athletics' runs were unearned.

The first run scored on an error, and Ed Charles singled home the winning run in the fourth.

Angel shortstop Jim Fregosi crashed three hits, including a game - winning home run with two out in the 10th, against the Senators. Don Rudolph, Washington starter, retired the first 15 men but the Angels got to him in the sixth and seventh.

Fregosi hit the winning homer off Jim Coates, former Yankee right-hander appearing for the first time in a Senator uniform. Bo Belinsky started for the Angels but did not survive the sixth. He has yet to win this season.

CHESS MATCH DRAWN

MOSCOW (AP) — The 13th game of the world chess tournament was declared a draw Tuesday, after the 56th move at the request of defending champion Mikhail Botvinnik. Tigran Petrosian, the challenger who was playing the white pieces, agreed. Both men are Russians. Petrosian leads 7-6 in the 24-game series.

AT THE PARK — Elvis Presley sings six new songs and does the twist in "Kid Galahad", opening in color Thursday at the Park Theatre. Here he romances co-star Joan Blackman. Lola Albright, Gig Young and Charles Bronson also star in the sentimental drama with music and on the same program the biggest, brightest, bouncinest musical comedy of the year in Technicolor and CinemaScope "Summer Holiday" starring Cliff Richard and having its first Belleville and district showing. One complete show starts at 7.15 p.m. "Kid Galahad" shown at 7.50 p.m. and "Summer Holiday" at 9.40 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Domestic Blitz: Nancy Olson raises an accusing voice to Fred MacMurray in Walt Disney's "Son of Flubber", also starring are Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk. Filled with fun, and loaded with laughs, "Son of Flubber" opens today at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Lose 9-7 Overtime Thriller, But-

Espanola Eagles Scare Falls

ESPANOLA, Ont. (CP)—Espanola Eagles, biggest thing to hit this Northern Ontario town since pulpwood, are winners today even though they lost.

Confusing? Well, so are the Eagles.

They're the most unlikely of all Memorial Cup contenders and the mighty Niagara Falls Flyers were supposed to sweep their best-of-seven Eastern Canada final in four games without perspiring.

However, someone forgot to tell the Eagles.

The Flyers, who won the opener 6-2 Sunday with four goals in the final six minutes, needed three overtime goals to win 9-7 Tuesday night.

The series now switches to Niagara Falls for the third and fourth games and the Flyers could well make a clean sweep.

HE'S NOT WORRIED

But, Espanola coach Red McCarthy isn't worried.

"Maybe," he said after Tuesday's game, "we'll get our town a little publicity."

McCarthy, coach of the team, manager of the arena and Espanola's recreation director, was torn between two of his three jobs.

The Eagles' showing was as good as a win in his eyes, and it was a successful night for McCarthy the arena manager.

"The biggest crowd anyone around here can remember," he said. Long after the 1,500-capacity arena had emptied of its 1,850 hysterical fans, Red was busy counting the money.

It was a magnificent effort by his inexperienced young team. At one time, early in the second period, the Flyers led 5-2.

WOULDN'T GIVE UP

But this was a night that would go down in Espanola's sports history—and the Eagles wouldn't give up.

"Our kids were playing right up to their capacity," said McCarthy.

Espanola, 45 miles west of Sudbury, hasn't had too much to brag about in sports.

When Espanola fought back with three goals late in the second period to make it 5-5, the fans' roaring started in earnest. The Eagles finally tied it up at the 12:41 mark of the third and it became deafening.

When the Flyers took a 6-5 lead five minutes later, there wasn't a handclap in the house.

With less than two minutes remaining in regulation time, they started to chant and the Eagles finally responded. Wayne McCuaig, an import defenceman from Sudbury, scored with 15 seconds to go.

But, in the 10-minute overtime period, Niagara Falls scored twice in the first five minutes. Again there was silence. But McCuaig struck again and the Eagles had less than two minutes to get the equaliser.

TOWN SHRIEKS

They pulled their goaltender and the town shrieked behind them.

But a villain named Gary Dornhoefer, who will never be popular in Espanola, scored on the empty net.

Bill Claskin scored twice for Niagara Falls and other markers were Ted Snell, Don Awrey, Ron Schock, Bill Goldsworthy, Wayne Maxner and Terry Crisp.

Bob Fallat scored twice for the upstart Eagles and Ike Ikoras, Ike Piche and Ronnie Allain had one apiece.

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP)—It's 2½ years since the 1960 Grey Cup final played to an unlimely game ending, setting off a clamor that Vancouver should never again be host to the football classic.

The accusers never did agree on a scapegoat to answer for the deluge of fans who swept the playing field with 41 seconds left and forced the game to be called, score: Ottawa Rough Riders 16, Edmonton Eskimos 6.

But the cries have been taken to heart. Another Grey Cup game will be held here Nov. 30, and things will be different.

A fence is up at Empire Stadium, no ground-level seats will be sold, and Chief Inspector F. C. Errington of the city police has made himself an expert on crowd control.

This edition will bear other results of the 1960 incident in a positive way—a kind of revelry spiced with variety and decor.

PLAN GREAT PROGRAM

The city is offering perhaps more good entertainment—apart from the game itself—than has ever previously been afforded Grey Cup visitors.

This, says Festival Week chairman Jack Bain, is going to be the "Out-of-Towner's Grey Cup."

On the drawing board:

A golf tournament, bowling tournament and bonspiel, with a skiing program if Mount Seymour has snow.

A luncheon for 1,000 persons invited by the nine teams of the Canadian Football League.

A gala dance the night before the game.

A new kind of Miss Grey Cup contest.

A "shorter, sharper" parade.

The golf-bowl-curl plans are just getting off the ground, but they are certain to figure prominently in Festival Week. Commercial interests indicate they will make facilities available. Top names in all three sports will be invited.

The luncheon, buffet-style in prompts. Such songbirds as Anna Maria Alberghetti, Kay Starr, Jane Powell, Edie Adams and Rhonda Fleming trilled a number or two. The guest of honor responded with a Pascal aria.

CHOICE SIGNIFICANT

Kathryn's choice of selection was significant. Having proven herself in films and on the musical stage, she now is eying the world of opera. She has a commitment with the San Francisco Opera to make her operatic debut after she concludes her year's run in Camelot.

Kathryn argues that there is no reason why opera couldn't be a paying operation instead of being shackled to perennial deficits. The answer, she feels, is more sensible operation and more popular appeal.

"For one thing, why should the opera bill change every night?" she asked. "It's terribly expensive to carry so many sets and change them after each performance. Why couldn't you run one popular opera for a week or longer? If it is good enough, it will draw.

"I'm convinced that opera can reach a wider audience with the addition of some showmanship. There is too much tradition in opera. Tradition is just another word for laziness."

Set Designer, Jan Scott, Achieves Minutest Details

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — At the end of every NBC drama produced by the Directors Company—most recently The Shark —there appears a credit line listing Jan Scott as set designer.

A more accurate description of Miss Scott's function would include a string of words including "architect," "engineer," "landscape gardener," "interior decorator" and—very important — "camouflage expert."

Recently when the company was shooting The Legend of Lylah Clare (to be broadcast May 19) her problem was to construct a staircase, rising 40 feet, and somehow conceal the camera at its base and at the top so that shots could be taken from both ends.

She achieved it—by building blinds behind which cameras could be hidden and be rolled out quickly for use.

Even before that, Miss Scott used her engineering skills designing the staircase. She added up the combined weight of the people who would be on it and the weight of the machines and other gear. To this she added another 2,000 pounds as a safety factor. The pipe scaffolding used as the set's base must hold all this—plus, of course, the weight of the structure itself.

Easiest to construct are the small sets, Miss Scott says, although sometimes she has to produce a many as 20 for a program—Sacco and Vanzetti several years ago was a multiple set effort.

Talented Kathryn Grayson Turns to World of Opera

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Kathryn Grayson has come back to town as star of her own television show, Camelot, and filmland society signalled the event with one of the most brilliant parties of the season.

The hostess: Kathryn's longtime chum, Ann Miller. The place: The Beverly Hilton's Zsa Zsa Room. The menu: Fruit served on half coconut in husk, filet of beef, spumoni molds decorated with likenesses of Miss Grayson in spun sugar.

The guests: Glenn Ford with Rhonda Fleming, Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond, Donna Reed, Anne Jeffreys, Robert Sterling, Rita Hayworth, Dorothy Malone, Jacques Bergerac, Cesar Romero, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Peggy Lee, John Vivyan, etc., etc. Also three lovely widows, June Allyson, Kay Gable, Edie Adams.

The entertainment was imthe Hotel Vancouver, will be attended by such civic and political figures as B.C.'s Premier Bennett and Vancouver's Mayor Rathie.

The Friday-night dance is being moved this year out of the rundown Exhibition Forum and into one or two downtown hotel ballrooms, its size cut from 3,500 to about 1,200.

It will coincide with selection of Miss Grey Cup, where the men in charge plan the biggest changes.

"Some contestants have always been at a disadvantage because of embarrassing bathing costumes and colors," says Mike Ellis, representing the sponsoring Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce.

BEAUTY PARADE

This is going to be a kind of Miss America contest. Judges will choose the top five, narrow it to three, then choose Miss Grey Cup.

"The girls will parade in evening gowns and bikinis—well, not bikinis—let's say bathing costumes."

The parade staff has been working since February, and committee secretary Jim Benadey says they are going after a "quality parade, not necessarily a quantity parade."

They expect about 80 entries, including about 30 floats and 20 bands, and live television coverage by both nation-wide networks.

Benadey says a suggestion of a Friday night torchlight parade was quickly rejected, partly because it wouldn't lend itself to television, secondly because of the danger.

DESERONTO
Resignation Of Councillor Is Accepted

DESERONTO — The ranks of the town council were further depleted at the regular meeting last Tuesday night when the resignation of Councillor Dafoe was accepted. This is the second resignation from the council since the first of the year and at the last meetijg there were only the mayor, reeve and three councillors.M. Dafoe is accepting an appointment to the local Board of Education.

In the correspondence a letter from C. R. Thorne of Belleville quoted the rate for acting as dog-catcher and on recommendation of the fire and police committee he was hired.

An increase of $6 in wages was accorded F. Sutcliffe for the sewage detention. This request had been deferred for two meetings.

A letter of commendation for the local police was received from W. M. Smith who felt the townspeople should be more constructive.

The Medical Officer of Health recommended the council give approval to the establishment of a meat packing plant in town. His opinion is that a plant in operation in Belleville will create no odors and no complaints from neighbors. The report was accepted.

Councillor Alford who is chairman of the property committee reported on the condition of the steps at the library. In his opinion he thought that the Library Board should repair the steps themselves as they had $100 in the treasury and stated that the council did not get any thanks for the work of last year.

WILL ATTEND COURSE

On a motion from the fire and police committees the council decided to send a delegate to the school in Toronto from April 24 to 26 inclusive. He was allotted $75 expenses.

A by-law adopting daylight saving beginning April 28th was passed. Councillor Alford, a former reeve ,introduced a motion that stated "whereas the Hastings County Council voted down a request to close the high school last year and the town are still maintaining a school for 6 pupils, the council should assume the cost of the school. On a recorded vote the motion was lost. Only Councillors Howard and Alford voted for it.

Councillor Brooks again inquired if a report from the Water Resources commission had been received and was told that none was yet available.

Reeve Lott reported regarding the application of Mr. Chisholm that the council should get in touch with the Municipal Board regarding the alterations in the zoning by-law to allow the old Ideal Vandery plant to be used for a meat packing plant.

Councillor Detlor advised council verbally about his reasons for resigning from council and stated that he felt he could be of more use to the town on the Board of Education.

Mr. Cummings, one of the ratepayers present, asked if it were true that council were going to purchase a new police car and was advised that it had been included in the estimates for the year.

F. Brooks also spoke to council and stated that he felt council should call a nomination meeting for the purpose of filling the vacancies. He was advised that the vacancies would be filled by appointment.

Carlos Montoya, Celebrated Guitarist, Allows No One To Carry His Instrument

By ALAN WALKER

TORONTO (CP) — A short, swarthy man in a dull blue suit sat silently in the middle of a bare stage and stared at his worn guitar.

Suddenly his brown eyes flashed fire and his fingers melted into a blur. With an explosion of Spanish gypsy rhythms, world-famous Flamenco guitarist Carlos Montoya began another concert.

A few hours before his Toronto appearance, Mr. Montoya and his American wife Sally, who fills in occasional gaps in his halting English, talked about their roamings that will cover continents as far away as Australia in 178 concerts this year.

"Everybody thinks gypsies always travel," said Montoya. "Well, some of them like to, the central European ones, but me, no, I am a Spanish gypsy and I like to stay in one place.

"But I like to play too, and I can't settle down now, there's no backing up."

Born 53 years ago in Madrid, Montoya got his first guitar when he was eight years old and started learning classical style but soon rejected it for the freedom of the Flamenco.

ALWAYS IMPROVISES

"Classical music is okay but there isn't much feeling in it when you have to follow something somebody else wrote. And it's all one-two-three-four, one-two-three-four.

"I want to be able to count up to five when I feel like it."

Not content with waving his hands and arms about his music, Montoya whipped off his tie, picked up his guitar and demonstrated.

"I don't have to read music," he shouted happily above his playing. "The music is not on paper, the music is here," and he pointed to his heart.

He never really practises, his wife said, he just plays all the time. Flamenco music is characterized by improvisation within traditional rhythms and Montoya improvises at every opportunity.

"I remember once when we were down in Honolulu for a concert and we had the afternoon off," Mrs. Montoya said. "I was in the car when I heard Flamenco music on shore.

"It looked, and there was Carlos laughing and running up and down playing a ukelele he had borrowed from a beach boy."

GUARDS GUITAR

When Montoya set down his guitar, he does not where it came from. A little man named Marcello Barbero made it in Madrid 10 years ago. Now the maker is dead and Montoya says that that guitar more carefully than a mother guards her child.

He rarely lets it out of his sight and never lets anyone else carry it, not even his wife. But there's no insurance on it.

It is made of light-colored wood with a dark brown neck. Under the strings on the body where Montoya's fingers tap out the shifting, complex rhythms that accompany the actual music, there is a special replaceable plastic plate that absorbs punishment.

That instrument has to last. "... cannot find another one as good," Montoya said.

Gut strings used to break easily and Montoya recalled having three let go during one concert. Now he uses nylon strings.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For April 25

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): If you are patient, most problems are solved. Specifically, means latter part of day sees tremendous improvement in outlook. Be ready to move, act when opportunity arises.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Neglect of details creates delay, even loss. Have papers in order. Check routine activities. Keep house neat. Surprise indicated. Check personal appearance. Be on time for appointments.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Lunar cycle up. Be confident, but also considerate, especially of older individuals. Display sympathy. Reveal you are as human as you are brilliant. Follow dictates of golden rule.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Don't be discouraged by minor delays. If you expect perfection be prepared for disappointment, displays of temper. But you still win out . . . If you are mature in attitude.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21): After "rough" day, feel free to relax with friends tonight. There are pressures. But they are only of challenge. They are welcome tests . . . stand up to them. Check budget, money program.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Insist that others do not benefit at your expense. Make sure you are not left holding the bag. Plan for completing projects. Don't let others talk you into leaving "loose ends."

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Keep some sources of information to yourself. Later, write and communicate. Put program into effect. Don't procrastinate. Take initiative, be independent, original, unique in approach.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Double precautions, protect assets. Don't take word of so-called experts. Check personally. Apply past experience. Use experience, common sense. Speak up for your ideals.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Today, look in many directions. Don't be bogged down with only one method or course of action. Highlight versatile approach — and sense of humor. Use charm rather than force.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Fulfill obligations. Keep resolutions. Overcome temptation to skip usual routine. Strive for orderliness. Means be thorough. Do job to best of your ability. Reward due!

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Pleasure indicated as result of recent creative endeavors . . . and investments. Utilize powers of observation. Get facts; analyze them. Find out the why of recent events. Be with loved one. . . .

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Important you finish what you start. Enlarge horizons, potential. Includes contracts with members of opposite sex. Day to look to your own needs for greatest security.

If today is your birthday . . . you are deeply concerned with social justice and also have the desire to see others do their best.

General Tendencies: Old gives way to new. Opposition creates disputes, but the air is cleared, progress results.

P.M. To Visit Macmillan, JFK Early In May

Defence and Trade To Be Chief Subjects

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson will be laying the groundwork for improvement in Canada's trade imbalances with Britain and the United States when he talks to Prime Minister Macmillan May 2-3 and President Kennedy May 10-11.

Defence problems will be another important topic for discussion at the meetings whose dates Mr. Pearson announced Wednesday—third day of what the prime minister has called the 60 days of decision of his government.

His previously-indicated views in favor of freer world trade and lower tariff barriers will be put forward in London and Hyannis Port, Mass., at an important juncture in world trading developments.

Chief elements in the world trading picture are the preparations for a round of tariff bargaining among most of the countries of the free world and plans in the United States to make use of the tariff-reducing authority given the President in the Trade Expansion Act — aimed chiefly at the European Common Market.

LAY BASIS AT GATT

The basis for next year's tariff negotiations will be laid at the Geneva meeting May 16-21 of members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. This will be preceded May 13-14 by a meeting of the Commonwealth Economic Consultative Committee which will deal with positions of the various Commonwealth countries at the GATT talks.

Canada's role is affected by her trading position with both Britain and the U.S. Canada sells Britain non-processed raw value than she buys there. And for every $3.70 worth of goods Canada sells to the U.S., she imports $4.30 worth.

Canada's problem is to be able to buy more from Britain without injuring the growth of the markets there for Canadian goods and to get more to the U.S without restricting American access to Canadian markets.

The precise line Mr. Pearson will take in London and Hyannis Port is vague. However, Mr. Pearson said during the election campaign that he would like to discuss with Mr. Macmillan and his cabinet "ways and means of deepening and strengthening our political and economic relations."

He said he would propose "joint action to promote freer trade and for means of association with the new trade patterns developing in Europe and other parts of the free world."

WANTS TARIFF REVIEW

His views on trade barriers including tariffs were covered in a letter to a group of students as: "I am not one of those who

AIR DEFENCE PROBLEMS FACE LIBERAL GOVT.

NORAD Pressing For New Interceptor

OTTAWA (CP)—There are indications the Liberal government may be confronted with some of the same air defence problems which beset the Progressive Conservatives — and some new ones as well.

Air Vice-Marshal M. M. Hendrick, chief of RCAF air defence command, says: "Enemy manned bombers can fire air-to-surface missiles from outside the interception and interception range and this is a problem which requires immediate action."

He made the statement recently at Ent Field at a North American Air Defence Command briefing for 1,200 northern California civic leaders.

The statement underlies the reason NORAD, a joint Canada-U.S. command, is pressing for a new manned interceptor.

There is no suggestion here that Canada try to build a new interceptor. But if the U.S. goes ahead with such a program, Canada as a partner in NORAD must be caught up in the problem of cost-sharing and deployment of planes.

ACQUIRING VOODOO

In 1961, the Conservative administration acquired the American Voodoo jet interceptor and added the 66 of them to NORAD, over financial responsibility for its radar station in Canada from the U.S. Two of these planes have cracked up. No provision was made for spares.

Defence officials say they feel that though the nuclear question is apparently settled, Canada still will have to spend vast sums on air defence to remain a partner in NORAD. The present NORAD agreement runs to 1965.

NORAD is not only pressing for a new interceptor to counter the new bomber threat but also wants "as a matter of the highest priority" an active defence against the intercontinental ballistic missile and submarine-launched missile.

Gen. John K. Gerhart, chief of NORAD, says: "We are at present crossing the threshold of the period when the intercontinental ballistic missile will become the major threat to our security."

Canadian-Developed A-Process To Keep Potatoes Tasting Fresh

OTTAWA (CP)—Personnel at the four most northerly weather stations in the Canadian Arctic will get fresh-tasting potatoes this summer, thanks to a Canadian-developed atomic process.

Two tons of potatoes, irradiated by gamma rays from a cobalt-60 source to keep them from sprouting and spoiling, will be shipped north this year to the four remote points.

The transport department said Wednesday that the shipment will be the second in a continuing experiment in conjunction with crews of the Atomic Energy of Canada Limited.

Before being shipped north by boat, the potatoes will be treated in a mobile cobalt-60 irradiator developed by the commercial products division of Atomic Energy of Canada. The radiation inhibits sprouting by stored vegetables—a factor that withers vegetables and speeds decay. Potatoes will go to Eureka, Mould Bay and Prince Patrick Island in the Arctic and to Ringnes Island and Alert at the northern tip of Ellesmere Island.

Last year 500 pounds of irradiated potatoes were sent to Eureka. Keep under good conditions of temperature and ventilation, they arrived on the year with virtually no spoilage.

Untreated potatoes or potatoes irradiated by other authorized treatments would have spoiled in a fraction of that time. Controlling to problem is the fact that because northern food supplies must be shipped in summer, potatoes must be drawn from the crop of the previous summer. At the time of shipment they are already nearly a

P.M. EXPRESSES CONCERN OVER CONFEDERATION

Will Try to Heal Some Divisions

OTTAWA (CP) — The paramount concern of Prime Minister Pearson with the strains on Confederation has been emphasized by a number of steps taken in the first few days of Liberal government.

Informants say they herald further efforts to seek co-operation from the provinces and from English-speaking Canada to heal divisions of which recent violence in Quebec are symptoms.

Among additional steps may be federal-provincial consultation on the terms of reference of a royal commission inquiry into biculturalism and, possibly, a federal proposal that the study be made a joint inquiry of the federal and provincial governments.

In the first half-week of the new Liberal administration, there were these concrete illustrations of the importance Mr. Pearson attaches to this question:

1. In naming his close friend and adviser, Maurice Lamontagne, to the cabinet as president of the privy council, Mr. Pearson assigned him special responsibilities for developing bilingualism in the federal civil service and for federal-provincial relations.

DISCUSSED BY CABINET

2. Biculturalism was one of the three questions considered at the cabinet's first working session. The object, Mr. Pearson said, was to decide how a royal commission could be set up with the least possible delay.

3. Selection of cabinet ministers from outside Quebec was governed in part by Mr. Pearson's views on the importance of the French and English partnership. Two ministers—Veter-

MODERN 'MATA' JAILED

LUEBECK, West Germany (AP)—A 19-year-old girl who helped persuade two American West German soldiers and sailors to flee to Communist agents was sentenced Wednesday to two years in a juvenile home. Margit Grienberg, a bookkeeper, was trained for her role in East Germany, evidence showed.

IT'S NO FLOOD — Submerged to their roofs about 100 feet off shore, these wrecked cars are used by Ted Whitworth as a breakwater for his marina at Long Point Bay near Port Rowan, Ont., on Lake Erie. ## Lieut.-Governor Designate Cleared of Any Impropriety In Reviving Racing Charters

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Cass tabled a report in the legislature Wednesday clearing Lieutenant - Governor Designate, W. Earl Rowe of any impropriety in reviving three dormant racing charters to establish Windsor Raceway.

Mr. Cass told the House that applications to revive two of the three charters were "correct in form and law and the information contained therein was correct in fact."

In the case of the third charter, the attorney-general said, Mr. Rowe had consulted "prominent members of the legal profession and had complied with their advice." At the time he signed an affidavit accompanying the revivor application "it was his honest belief that the facts stated therein were true."

NDP Leader Donald C. Macdonald had charged in the House earlier this session that Mr. Rowe had signed a false affidavit in applying for revival of the corporate powers of the Grimsby Recreation Company, a racing association incorporated in 1911.

Mr. MacDonald alleged that the affidavit was false in that no shareholders' meeting had been held to elect Mr. Rowe and his son Lennox, as officers of the Grimsby Company.

In his report on an investigation of the allegations, Mr. Cass said: "All the meetings which were stated to have been held in the material filed with the provincial secretary's office were in fact held and all the requirements under the Corporations Act and departmental practice were complied with in respect to the application."

This was the attorney-general's finding of investigations into the revival of the Grimsby Recreation Company, and a

Security Tribunal Clears Top Officials of Scandal

LONDON (Reuters)—A powerful security tribunal today cleared top government officials of allegations arising from a big security scandal last fall.

The scandal was touched off by the arrest of William Vassall, an admiralty clerk, who was sentenced to 18 years imprisonment for selling secrets to the Russians.

The tribunal, headed by eminent jurist Lord Radcliffe, rejected as completely baseless suggestions of an improper relationship between Vassall and Thomas Galbraith, 39, former parliamentary undersecretary in the admiralty.

The tribunal said 50,000 word report also said there was no truth in charges that Navy Minister Lord Carrington and his service chiefs knew a spy was in the admiralty 18 months before Vassall was arrested.

Vassall, who earned £15 (about $45) a week as an admiralty clerk, lived well beyond his means with the help of money paid him by the Russians.

Galbraith resigned his subsequent government post as joint parliamentary undersecretary of state for Scotland after letters—mainly on routine matters—he had sent to Vassall were made public. However, he still holds his seat in Parliament.

Carrington said at his post-ed of the admiralty he would feel

ASKS BUILDUP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Future Communist threats will follow small uprisings and aggression, Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said Wednesday in calling for a multibillion-dollar buildup of U.S. general purpose and non-nuclear fighting forces. He told a Senate appropriations subcommittee the biggest share of the $43,000,000,000-plus annual defence money bill should be spent on general purpose forces.

GAS COMPANY STOCK AGAIN BEFORE HOUSE

Attorney-General To Give Statement

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature, already told that it was misled by sworn statements in a 1958 inquiry, is to hear today from Attorney-General Fred Cass about a new investigation into the disposition of stock in Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company.

Mr. Cass told reporters Wednesday that he will make a statement on NONG — as the company is known in the legislature today. But he emphasized on two occasions that the current investigation is "several months" away from completion.

A former attorney - general, Lands and Forests Minister Kelso Roberts, brought the subject back to the House Wednesday when he said he "firmly believes" the legislature was misled by certain sworn statements to the three-man inquiry board which studied NONG's distribution of promotional stock in 1958.

He said 14,000 shares of NONG stock were apparently distributed "to the very great benefit, without cost, of certain persons and one in particular who got the major part of the 14,000 shares and who was at certain relevant times an elected official of a municipality having business with the gas company."

GO TO NOMINEE

New evidence uncovered in an investigation by the attorney-general's department since last summer has indicated that most, if not all, of the 14,000 NONG shares "were disposed of to Convesto as nominee for Continental Investment Corporation Limited in January, 1957, at a price somewhat below the market price," Mr. Roberts told members.

The minister said Convesto

Kennedy Fears Violence In Southeast Asia

Says Peace Must Be Preserved in Laos

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy says the entire Southeast Asia region including Malaya may be rocked by violence if peace is not preserved in Laos.

Making a last-ditch appeal to Soviet Premier Khrushchev to help keep the peace, Kennedy told a press conference Wednesday: "If we fail in Laos, it would think the prospects for accords on matters which may be geographically closer to us would be substantially lessened."

Kennedy challenged critics of his Cuban policy to say whether they advocate going to war to topple Premier Fidel Castro. He said that's the question being sidestepped by those who call for a more militant policy against Cuba's Communist regime.

And except for going to war, the president declared, "it would seem to me that we have pretty much tried all of those things that can be done to demonstrate hostility to the concept of a Soviet satellite in the Caribbean."

ADDRESSES CRITICS

Kennedy addressed himself to two recent Republican critics—former vice-president Richard Nixon and Senator Kenneth Keating of New York — as the Cuban question vied with the tense situation in Laos for preeminence at the conference.

"Unleashing the exiles . . . cannot do the job" of toppling Castro, Kennedy said in rejecting a proposal put forward last week by Nixon.

And Kennedy rejected outright Keating's contentions that Russian troops arriving in Cuba in recent weeks have about equalled the number withdrawn.

"It is our clest intention that 4,000 or 5,000 have left since January, and that there has not been an equal number come in, in fact, much, much less, 500 or 600 at the most," the president said.

Meanwhile, W. Averell Harriman, undersecretary of state for political affairs, conferred in Moscow with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on Laos.

Boy Shot, Killed Self With Revolver

WATERDOWN, Ont. (CP)— Peter Black, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Black, accidentally shot and killed himself with a revolver here Tuesday. The revolver in the den of his father's mansion in this community three miles south of Hamilton.

Inspector Harry Sayeau of the criminal investigation branch of the provincial police said the boy was playing in the den shortly after supper when the accident occurred.

There was only one shell in the 45-calibre revolver which, police said, he took from a gun cabinet in the den.

Mr. Black is the owner of Brasheid Sod Supply Limited, an executive of the Otis Elevator Company Limited and a real estate dealer.

'Brilliant-Minded' Hamilton Boy Placed Bomb in Telephone Booth

HAMILTON (CP)—A 15-year-old boy with "a brilliant mind" for science, admitted today to building a home-made bomb and leaving it in a telephone booth.

Juvenile court was told the bomb exploded in the hands of a 10-year-old boy, who found the attractively-packaged box and took it into a nearby store.

The accused boy claimed his objective was "merely scientific" and that he only intended to test the chemical mixture.

Judge Hugh Arrell remanded the case until June 24, arranging a mental health examination for the boy.

Evidence showed the six-inch square package was covered with bright paper and tied with a red ribbon. Inside was a chemical mixture that would ignite when tilted at an angle. It had a hole in two opposite ends.

When the 10-year-old found the box March 30 he took it into a confectionery store to find the owner. As he handed it to a woman in the store, it exploded "like a rocket, shooting flames in all directions." The boy suffered severe burns to both hands and the woman also had a burn.

Death as Predicted

Postman Slain on Anti-Segregation Hike

ATTALLA, Ala. (AP) — An anti-segregation hike which ended in death for a Maryland postman—as he had been told it might—will be completed by members of a civil rights group.

The Baltimore chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality and the student non-violent co-ordinating committee in Atlanta were making plans today to take over the personal pilgrimage which brought death to William L. Moore, 35, of Baltimore.

Moore was shot to death Tuesday near this northeast Alabama town, about 60 miles northeast of Birmingham.

Police said known clues to the slaying were tire marks and two empty cartridges found at the scene, and two small-calibre bullets taken from Moore's body.

The killing brought cries of anger, protest and astonishment from President Kennedy, Alabama Governor George Wallace, senators, congressmen and pro-integration organizations.

The vacationing postman was walking from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Jackson, Miss., to extend his campaign for Governor Ross Barnett. He carried pro-integration signs.

Kennedy, at his press conference Wednesday, called the killing an outrageous crime. He expressed personal shock about what he called the assassination of citizens exercising their rights.

A diary belonging to Moore told of several warnings that the group might not make it to Mississippi. It related several epithets hurled at Moore as he walked along the highway and said rocks had been thrown at him on at least one occasion.

Blind Since Age of Nine Weeks, Woman of 60 Regains Her Sight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Since she was nine weeks old, Bessie Sikes has been virtually blind. Suddenly, at 60, she has regained her sight.

"I think it's just a wonderful, amazing freak," Miss Sikes said. "I don't know how long it will last. Maybe a few days. Maybe a year. Maybe forever."

For 60 years her only sight was one-per-cent vision in her right eye. She could tell night from day; nothing more.

A few minutes after 8 a.m. Sunday she walked into the kitchen, drank a glass of water, and casually rubbed her left eye because it seemed moist.

Suddenly she saw.

"I thought I'd gone crazy. My crazy left eye was going around and around, it wouldn't stop," she recalled Wednesday.

An ophthalmologist who had known her for 25 years, who insisted on anonymity, described her long blindness as chorioretinitis, inflammation of the retina with a membranous coat over the eye.

Somehow a cataract became dislocated, the doctor said, and the vision of the eye had not been destroyed.

Absentee Property Owners Should Not Sit on Council Is Feeling of County Fathers

Hastings county councillors agree taxation without representation is unfair but at the same time they see a danger of municipal councils being overwhelmed by absentee property owners.

Accordingly council this morning concurred in a resolution which called for six months domicile in municipality before a candidate would be eligible for election to council.

In speaking to the resolution, Reeve Verne McMurray, of Tudor and Cashel told council that cottage owners were justified in their objection to taxation without representation.

But at the same time he said could be overwhelmed by absentee cottage owners, who have no interest in the municipality other than their cottage sites.

"Small cottage owners very often have no interest in schools or other municipal problem," he stressed.

MANY BY-LAWS READ

He said if these people wanted to live in the municipality, then they had a perfect right to be elected to serve on council.

The morning session of council was taken up mostly by the reading of by-laws which saw formal settings of the 1963 county rate; adjustment of salaries for county administrative officials and the establishment of a staff leave plan for all salaried employees of the county.

The sick leave plan comes into effect immediately and is retroactive to January 1st of this year.

The appointment of Mrs. Frances Vanclief as deputy county clerk was also approved by by-law.

Council also concurred in a resolution calling for compulsory automobile insurance and more prompt settlement of accident claims.

No action was taken on a resolution asking for compulsory vaccination of livestock against rabies.

And councillors agreed that it was unfair for medical service groups to get permission from the county to canvass and then claim that their particular group was the one to be officially adopted in the county.

The matter was brought to council's attention by the Quinte Co-operative Medical Services.

Warden Charles Long agreed that no private medical service should be given permission to canvass in the county endorsed a certain plan.

The only other business of the morning session was the report of Deloro Reeve Thomas Armstrong county representative on the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization committee.

Reeve Armstrong reported on the activities of the organization and on preparation of station's 1963 budget which he said was up because of the purchase of communication equipment.

"This," he said, "would be a non-recurring item as it was a one-shot purchase."

The spring council session will wind up this afternoon with the hearing of the county roads and bridges report.

Bridge Courses Conclude at Y

Two very successful bridge courses were completed at the Y.M.C.A. this past week. Wednesday evening a course including 22 people, under the capable instruction of Mr. Gordon Edwards was concluded with a presentation to Mr. Edwards of a leather compendium as a token of appreciation from the Y.M.C.A. The class also presented the instructor with a gift.

Tuesday evening a 10-week course of 21 persons also ended. Mr. Frank Domenico, a well-known Belleville bridge player, instructed the Tuesday night course. Mr. Domenico also received gifts from the Y and from his group, both of which greatly appreciated the time which he gave to the course.

Both courses covered the theory and practical points of bridge and initiated many new players to this game.

Assessors, Census Takers Out 7,000 in Nose Count

This is the case of the missing 7,000 Hastings county residents.

Municipal assessors list the number of county residents (except those in Belleville and Trenton) to be 43,000.

But census enumerators claim there are 50,000 people in the county.

The difference in the figures raised a question in county council yesterday from Clerk Treasurer Carl Bateman who asked what explanation could come up with a higher county population figure than local assessors.

County assessor Cecil Geen couldn't answer the question.

"I don't see why there should be any difference," he admitted.

ASSESSMENT UP

The brief discussion on population figures came up during the report of the county assessor and the presentation of suggested figures for the 1964 assessment equalization.

The report showed the total county assessment in 1962 as $31,250,799, an increase of $695,021 over the previous year. Mr. Geen said all county municipalities with the exception of two showed an increase.

The assessment of exempt property on which grant in lieu of taxes is paid amounts to $629,140, this figure including an assessment of $198,355 based on the mines profit tax payment received by Faraday township.

Equalized assessment figures for next year as proposed by Mr. Geen were approved. The total figure for the county is $31,300,700, approximately $100,000 more than the total of the actual assessment figures.

COTTAGERS REVENUE SOURCE

The breakdown of county assessment figures show Thurlow township with the greatest assessment, $6,979,521, including business assessment.

At the other end of the scale is Mayo township in the north end of the county with an assessment of $137,000.

Sidney township is listed as the most populous with 6,687 persons, while the smallest municipality in terms of population is the village of Deloro with 188 persons.

Of the 43,000 county assessment 26.2 per cent is for land, 67.1 per cent for buildings, and 6.7 per cent business.

And county assessment figures show that cottage owning vacationers are a big source of revenue for many of the northern municipalities.

Public School Board Budget Down $8,500

The Belleville public schools board had reduced its 1963 budget by $8,500 following a request from city council for a review of the year's estimates.

The budget reduction figure of $320,000 was announced at the date of the council request and the date of this week's board meeting, difficulties existing in indicating the necessity of a substantial cost to replace a school heating system.

The Board received and accepted the resignations of the following teachers: Miss Sandra Brown, Miss Mary Drew, Miss Mr. Mr. Kelly, Jan Reid, Miss Frink, Miss Marilyn Herrington, Audrey Elgie, Miss Wendy Carmen, Mr. Gordon Orr and Mr. John Stark.

The Board received an invitation from the Home and School Association of the Queen Elizabeth School to attend a meeting May 8th at which the Hon. William G. Davis would be the speaker.

In response to a complaint from a parent that painting in the Huntingdon Public School in operation created a hazard for children with allergies, the Board decided that in such instances parents might apply for, and expect to receive permission for children to be transferred to other schools while the painting program was in progress.

NAMES COMMITTEE

Trustees Mac Smith, Jas. Ritchie and W. Townson were named a special committee to review the Board's bylaws and rules of order in relation to recent amendments to the general regulations for public schools.

The report of the auditors, received at the March meeting and referred to the trustees for study was approved.

Accounts totalling $76,436.18, including the March payroll, $61,826.13 were approved for payment.

Final payment to the H. J. McFarland Construction Co. Ltd., $18,260.13 for the Park Dale School, was approved.

The method of election of trustees, whether by ward or by general vote, was discussed in response to a request from City Council and was referred to the May meeting for further attention.Members present at the meeting were chairman Morley Lovelace and trustees Hazel Pugh, J. D. Bacon, E. B. Bishop, F. P. Clarke, L. A. Langsbeer, D. M. McRibbon, J. R. Scott, M.D., Mac Smith, W. Townsend, W. G. Trill and W. A. VanTassel.

Sonic Boom Causes Damage To Curling Rink

GANANOQUE, Ont. (CP)—A double sonic boom created by two unidentified jet planes caused more than $800 damage to the Gananoque Curling Club Wednesday. A 135-foot section of fluorescent light fixtures crashed to the rink floor. Cracks were found in the concrete walls of the municipal building.

The club plans to submit a claim for damages to the defence department.

Barbershoppers To Be Judged In 5 Categories

The panel of five judges that will choose the two top quartets that will appear in the International Finals on the Saturday afternoon next July to represent Ontario have no easy task ahead of them as the judges will have to adjudicate the numerous quartets and choruses that will vie in the Ontario Barbershop Jamboree this Saturday evening.

These men are all highly trained experts in their field and are certified by the International Society. The competing groups will be judged by assessing them in five different categories.

1. Arrangement (30%): Content must not be arranged and sung in authentic Barbershop style, with any deviation from these accepted patterns resulting in penalties being given. Outstanding arrangement of songs are to include good use of chord harmony progression and sequence, and the clever blending of words and phrases.

2. Harmony Accuracy (20%): Each voice in the quartet and chorus must sing in a manner is closely checked by the harmony accuracy with the judges being on the alert for the slightest deviation from true pitch.

3. Voice Expression (20%): This involves important details as diction, shading, attacks and releases, with proper phrasing also entering into this category.

4. Balance and Blend (20%): This category determines the ability of singers as individual voices, with how they blend with each other and the degree of perfection in the composite tone achieves.

5. Stage Presence (20%): Here the judges look for the degree of professional deportment along with appropriate and effective costuming pa sented.

TIME IMPORTANT

The time element is also inserted with each quartet and chorus being allowed not less than four minutes or more than six minutes of total singing time during their two numbers chosen for entry in the competition. This is checked by stop watches and penalties are handed out to any who don't adhere to the allocated maximum and minimum time allotments.

In District International Preliminary Contests such as will be held this weekend two quartets are chosen as qualified to represent the Ontario District in the International. The number of quartets that can represent Ontario is based upon the membership in the district membership bears to the total membership of the Society.

It is impossible for the audience to accurately predict with any degree of accuracy who will be the winner and even the judges themselves have a difficult of determining this until the Secretary of Judges has completed the scores at the end of the contest. It sometimes happens that a particularly unique quartet or chorus of vigorous audience appeal but fails down under the finer techniques of barbershop singing and therefore loses out to a less flashy group. The judges are paid them as they hear them during the actual contest, disregarding all performances or audience reaction to a given quartet.

The judges are P. McPhillips, Williamsville, N.Y.; E. Hopkins, Darien, Conn.; E. Pickard, Wilioughby, Ohio; F. DePaola, Rochester, N.Y. and H. Howe of Toronto.

Those who attend the Saturday evening show will be in for a new thrill in experiencing the excitement of the final quartet competition as well as being assured of a fine barbershop harmony performances from the various competing groups.

Tickets are available from Chapter members or at Wilder's Men Wear, Schryver's Pharmacy or The James Texts Limited.

Admits Making False Statement In Car Purchase

Police investigations often have a cumulative effect — as witness the charges against 22-year-old Albert Archie Culbertson.

Provincial police originally charged the former Tyendinaga township youth with theft of $130 in rhinestone jewellery, rings and cameras from his mother's home in mid-April. While they were investigating the incident, they had a hand in the purchase of his automobile and his driver's licence.

This morning in magistrate's court Culbertson was charged with making a false statement to obtain his licence and driving while under suspension. He pleaded guilty to the charges along with the theft count. The statement by Culbertson was shown the magistrate.

OPP Constable I. A. Gaudry told Magistrate T. Y. Willis that the jewellery, including a bracelet, brooch and engagement and wedding ring were stolen from the home of Mrs. Ray Hill.

While investigating the charges against Culbertson he found he had previously purchased an automobile from a local resident.

"He went to the hotel in Deseronto and — somebody forged the original owner's name on the application for the (car ownership) permit."

"The licence was purchased by the accused in the name of the original owner (of the car), added the constable.

On April 17th, Culbertson's licence was suspended for a driving offence in Toronto.

STUDENTS ARE WARNED

Doubt over circumstances surrounding the charges arose when the constable said the accused had purchased the car one year in 1962. However, Culbertson spoke up from the dock claiming it was purchased for two years in 1961.

He was sharply interrupted by the magistrate who requested the constable to enquire into the circumstances.

Magistrate Wills said he felt Culbertson was "weaselling" on his statement in court.

"If this man is lying here now I have very grave doubts about the things he said in his statement," said the magistrate setting the case over until May 2nd.

"He is going to get a sentence of some term if impris-onment anyway," concluded the magistrate.

IN MEMORIAM

ROWLER — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother Gertrude Bowler who passed away April 25th, 1962.

Sweet memories, resting at last. Her weary hands and heart at rest.

In silence she suffered, in patience she bore.

Till God called her home to suffer no more.

—Sadly missed by the family.

MASLO — In loving memory of our dear father Joseph Maslo who passed away April 25th, 1961.

In memory of a dear father who passed away one year ago.

Sweet memories, resting there, Always be kept in our prayers.

Memories like gems we treasure dearly, Silently pass by, but never forget.

We know she has gone to realms of bliss,

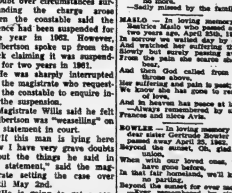
To be united in peace at last.

—Always remembered by daughter Frances and son-in-law Ave.

BOWLER — In loving memory of a dear sister Gertrude Bowler who passed away April 25th, 1962.

Beyond the sunset, Oh, glad reunion,

When with our loved ones, who have gone before,



We shall clasp hands to part no more,

And greet the dear ones gone before.

Beyond the dark night dawns the bright day.

—Ever remembered by sister Minnie, Etta and Ethel.

Juvenile Delinquents To Be Housed at County Home

After months of searching and seeing plans go awry, Hastings county now has detention accommodation for juvenile delinquents.

The accommodation is at the Hastings county home in a building originally constructed as a paint storage but now completely renovated to provide accommodation for juveniles who get into trouble with the law.

The accommodation provides for separate rooms for boys and girls. The rooms are fitted with toilets, showers and double bunks.

Provincial regulations say it is the responsibility of the county to provide such accommodation and for years basement rooms in the county jail's residence were used for this purpose.

But this was frowned on by provincial authorities who directed that other arrangements be made.

COST IS SHARED

The county advertised without success for persons to take on the responsibility and finally the Children's Aid Society volunteered to act as delinquent custodians providing separate detention accommodation was provided at their Highland Ave. headquarters.

But residents in the area violently opposed the move.

The police and the county jail will be responsible for the guarding and custodial duties at the detention home, these duties to be carried out during the day.

A committee composed of county clerk-treasurer, Carl Hollowell and Inspector J. C. Hayes of the Belleville police, and Don MacKinnon, probation officer is responsible for the operation of the home.

Finally someone thought of the unused paint storage building at the county home which in recent years has occasionally been used as a vegetable storage.

The city and the county agreed to share the cost of alterations and renovations to provide for two detention rooms, and this work has recently been completed.

Yesterday county councillors visited the new accommodation in connection with an inspection of the county home and agreed that finally the detention room problem had been solved.

CNR Pensioners Told of Varied Vacation Offers

Canadian National Railways pensioners of the Belleville Division, with numerous guests from other Ontario divisional points, gathered at Club Canara yesterday for their monthly luncheon and a program of business and entertainment.

Mr. J. E. Fleming, passenger sales manager for the Canadian National Railways, was the speaker for this occasion. Following luncheon, he addressed the pensioners at some length on the subject of passenger sales. He described the various methods employed to interest the travelling public in railway transportation, and cited many examples of how the potential purchasers can find themselves travelling more economically, and more comfortably, than by any other form of transportation.

For the vacationing public there is being offered a variety of all-expense-included tours to all parts of Canada, with emphasis on land and sea vacation trips to the Pacific coast and Alaska. Also described were tours of the northern parts of Canada which included in their itinerary stays at Jasper Park and Banff. The speaker outlined the cost to the potential vacationer of several of these tours and stressed the fact that in holidaying with the railway he, or she, was getting real value for vacation dollars.

ASKS ASSISTANCE

Mr. Fleming in his capacity as a promotion and sales of the railway's services asked his audience to assist his department by alerting friends to the advantages and economy of the package tours being offered. His listeners were impressed by the many novel features being introduced for the comfort and conveniences of the travelling public.

At the conclusion of the address a telegram from Mr. G. F. Hamilton, manager of the pensions and welfare for the CNR was read. As a gesture of goodwill toward its retired veterans the railway is offering a greatly reduced rate on a ten-day holiday cruise to the coastal communities of British Columbia from Vancouver to Skagway. The voyages are scheduled for various dates through the summer months.

Mr. Fleming was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his address. He was assured of the support of his newly-made friends in the furtherance of the business of the railway, and of a hearty welcome should he be pleased to again address the same audience.

Courtesy of the publicity department of the railway a film in color, depicting the beauties of a journey through the Rockies, was shown. There followed the usual period of story-telling and reminiscing before adjournment in the late afternoon.

Comrades of Two Wars Guests at Vimy Dinner

TRENTON — Canadians who died in two world wars were remembered at last night's Vimy-VE Day dinner in Trenton Branch 110 of the Royal Canadian Legion. A mood of sober reflection characterized an evening which otherwise was a happy one for most old comrades in arms. Most veterans agreed that while they may laugh now at some of the amusing situations of war, it seldom was a laughing matter at the time.

The general mood of the evening was set during the opening ceremony, when the entire assembly of approximately 400 men, most of them First and Second World War veterans, stood to attention while the branch Padre, Rev. James Payton, said grace. For a few minutes everyone stood in silent tribute to those who died, not only at Vimy in the first war or in Europe in the last conflict, but wherever battles were fought.

Dinner followed and probably many veterans remembered how they had eaten during the war. Last night's meal, served by Branch 110 Ladies Auxiliary, consisted of beef, vegetables, apple pie and cheese. It was eaten readily, without reluctance.

The men ate while Stephen Chomaz, leader of the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra, played the violin accompanied by a pianist. Many of the requests were for tunes familiar to the men when they were in Europe.

An honorary life membership was conferred upon Claude Wallace for the 73-year-old veteran's outstanding service to Branch 110. Branch president, W. A. Lawson, chairman for the evening introduced the head table guests. These included the presidents of the RCAF Association, Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club and Lions Club; newly - elected Liberal Members of Parliament Robert Brown and Pauline Jewett, representing Hastings South and Northumberland respectively; Mayor James MacDonald; manager George Boyce of Domtar Newsprint; manager L. H. Bearne of OMC Boats; James Utley; Hazel Farley; Rev. J. Payton, and guest speaker for the evening, Archdeacon A. S. McConnell, of Belleville.

TRIBUTES PAID

It was also announced that veterans over 65 with five years or more service in Branch 110 will in future have their membership fees paid by the Legion.

Eali Donaldson then paid tribute to the Canadian armed forces, represented at the dinner by Group Captain W. Schroeder of Air Transport Command at RCAF Station Trenton; H. R. (Bert) Curtis, Officer Commanding the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps in Trenton, and the officer commanding the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. "Pride for democracy," he called them.

Then came silence while the assembly rose again for the playing of the Last Post, followed by the lines of commemoration recorded by the late "John" A. Silver, and then another recording of the Reveille.

James Utley introduced the guest speaker, who assessed the mood of the occasion and emphasized that all was not lost in the war. Much was gained in comradeship, said Archdeacon McConnell, but now some of the same spirit is needed to tackle such things as the separatist problem in Quebec.

Also, he could not go along with the ban-the-bombers, he said, although he sympathized with their sincerity. "They tried to disband the Royal Navy before the war," he said. But it's a good thing they didn't; otherwise Canadians would not have been able to go overseas and the defence of freedom would have been impossible."

He also expressed pride in the Legion's stand on the Red Ensign as Canada's official flag.

The Archdeacon was thanked by the immediate past president of Branch 110, Kenneth Craddock.

Careless Driving Brings Fine, Loss of Licence

A young Adolphustown man was sharply reprimanded in magistrate's court in Belleville today after his licence was suspended six months for careless driving.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills told 23-year-old James Vincent Prout that his driving showed a "disregard of the rights of the public" after his arrest following a police chase in Deseronto March 30th.

The story of the chase, given the court by a Deseronto police constable, revealed that Prout's car:

Drove through three stop signs; drove the wrong way on a one-way street; cut off another automobile; crashed through a guardrail into a plowed field; hit a tree and was wrecked, throwing out passenger George Howie, 21, of Napanee, causing him minor injuries.

However, police charges didn't end there.

Taken to Deseronto jail Prout later damaged a toilet water tank, and was charged with damage to municipal property.

Prout, who pleaded guilty to the charges, had a record of four other driving convictions, the court was told.

"You are 23 years of age and you ought to know better," the magistrate told Prout.

He said Prout must be well aware of the consequence of careless driving "and you drove in a thoroughly dangerous manner."

"You injured a friend. You might easily have injured a number of innocent people."

He fined him $50 for careless driving along with the licence suspension and $15 on the damage charge. With costs, the total court levy against Prout came to $135.

Student Visits VON Branch

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses welcomed Miss Jane McDougal, post - graduate public health student from the University of Toronto, during the April meeting, held in the VON Board Room, over the C.N.R. Building. Miss McDougal will remain in Trenton approximately one week, in which time she will accompany Miss Anne Stewart, Trenton and district nurse, on various nursing duties.

Board members, with the aid of outside help have done an excellent job of redecorating the board room. Improvements also include the large VON sign, installed recently in the window of the Board Room, which can clearly be seen from the main street.

It is hoped Miss Stewart will be able to attend the VON annual meeting to be held in Toronto on April 26th.

Miss Stewart reported the nursing activities for March, which she stated was the busiest month since June of 1962.

A total of 102 visits were made during the month. These included 84 nursing care visits; 101 calls for health supervision, plus 11 visits to Middleton Park and Sidney Township and one night call. The three Child Health held in March showed a marked increase in attendance with a total of 53 people present. Pe - natal instructions and exercises are continued in King Street United Church with a total of 14 mothers-to-be enrolled.

Some Tradsmen Start to Filter Back to Work

The strike of local sheet metal workers at Belleville's Quinte Secondary School continued deadlocked today as other tradesmen started to filter back to work.

Up to 1 p.m. carpenters, brick and block layers had crossed the picket lines to resume work on the $1,500,000 extension project where all skilled work stopped with the strike yesterday.

Meantime, there have been no moves on either side in the dispute between Local 269 of the International Sheet Metal Workers Association and Acme Plumbing and Heating, a Belleville sub-contractor at the project.

Acme sheet metal workers - four in all - - are seeking the signing of a one-year contract on a $2.90 hourly rate. The company has agreed to pay the wage but refused to be bound by the agreement which would set the higher rate for all work done by the company.

"We can't sign," Acme operator Vince Trudeau told the Intelligencer today, "unless they set a different rate for domestic work."

He said the company could not afford the higher rate on domestic - - as distinct from commercial - - project "and still meet competition."

NAME MISLEADING

The name of New College, Oxford University, is out of date. It was founded in 1379.

Council Will Not Set Rate Until Meeting on April 29

Belleville city council will not set the 1963 tax rate until its regular meeting on Monday, April 29th.

This was stated yesterday by Mayor A. M. Haig, who noted that revised estimates from the public and high school boards had now been received.

At the last council meeting it was suggested a special meeting might be held this week to finally approve the year's estimates and strike the tax rate, but it has been now decided to wait until the regular meeting date on Monday.

Council will meet in caucus about 3.30 Monday afternoon and go over the revised budget and then set the mill rate during the regular council session.

Reports are that council will be able to set a tax rate of about one mill lower as result of the review of estimates by the two school boards and other slight reductions.

Dangerous Reading

Somebody ought to do something about South Africa.

It takes considerable courage to write that sentence. It may make the writer liable to the death penalty.

No, that's no joke. A new "general law amendment bill" gives South African courts power to impose the death penalty on anyone who since 1950 has advocated invasion of the country. "Doing something about South Africa" might be interpreted as advocating the invasion of that sovereign republic by the United Nations or by some freedom-loving land—the thought had occurred.

Come to think of it, the reader peruses this at his peril. Justice Minister Balthasar Vorster says he is "prepared to take stronger action if necessary." Who knows, this stronger action could be the death penalty for those who read any advocacy of invasion of South Africa. And the law could cover what had been read in the past—the present law against advocating invasion is made retroactive to 1950.

No recent member of the armed services of any country should visit South Africa. Having been trained in sabotage outside South Africa is made a capital offence.

No person should visit South Africa. Police are being given power to detain suspects incommunicado, without intervention of the courts, for recurring periods of 90 days. Recurring periods of 90 days, no limit to the number of recurrences mentioned, approximately four to a year, forty to a decade, 280 for the Biblical life-span of four score and ten years.

And some people regret that South Africa was "forced" out of the Commonwealth!

A Reasonable Margarine Color

The Ontario Government has introduced legislation which will allow margarine to be colored a deeper shade of yellow than butter.

Dairy farmers, of course, will dislike this proposal. Still, we have had some sympathy with the groups lobbying for colored margarine. This sympathy, though, has grown very thin when the lobbyists protested against margarine being colored a deeper yellow than butter and has now vanished entirely with the official explanations of the proposed color.

According to the legislation, butter's traditional color range will remain unchanged, from 1.6 degrees to 10.5 degrees on the Lovibond "tintometer." Margarine can be anything above 10.5 degrees. "If the English language means anything, this then means the deepest-colored butter and the lightest-colored margarine will be virtually the same color.

Some margarine or dairy butter actually nears the darkest permissible color in June, when cows are on lush new grass. What's more, Hon. W. A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture, says that an exemption from the color maximum will have to be made for whey butter, which, he states is usually darker than the 10.5 color index. Any person who has delighted in the subtle difference of whey butter knows it is nonsense to describe its deeper color—as "unappetizing," which has been the adjective some of the margarine lobbyists have applied to the proposed color for margarine.

Any question of colored margarine who will not gladly accept the proposed color limitations can only be interested in disguising margarine so that it looks like butter, either in order to sell it as butter or to conceal from family or guests that it is margarine and not butter which is being served. We have no sympathy with either type of deception.

Fun and Games

The Japanese tax administration has announced that all tax offices will hold open house three times a month, in the future. Taxpayers will be invited to the sessions, where they will be served tea and offered "sympathetic advice" on their tax problems.

This move promises to open a whole new field in government-taxpayer relations. If imaginative use is made of the possibilities, paying taxes might even be fun.

"I think there is a danger that people will regard psychiatry, and I suppose especially psycho-analysis, as a way of letting people take less responsibility for themselves. In fact, I think from its whole original concept, the idea of this kind of treatment is to help the individual to take more responsibility for himself and not less. Psychiatry isn't just a matter of making excuses for people."—Psychiatrist Dr. Anthony Storr.

Ottawa Offbeat

O'Hagen to Smooth Path Twixt Pearson and Press

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Regardless of how you may think they stack up competitively in most other things, there is simply no question but that Prime Minister Pearson is away out ahead of former Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the understanding of press and public relations.

Not to say that John Diefenbaker was not an accomplished hand at the art.

Perhaps his very skill was one of his difficulties.

He knew so many newspaper-men for so many years, understood all about headlines and how to make them, was wise to deadlines and their timing — in fact, was so knowledgeable that he insisted through most of his six years, in personally handling his own press relations.

No Prime Minister has — or rightly should have — the time for this.

At the outset of his days in the East Block, Dief did have a press secretary and a good one, too, if he had ever allowed the unhappy newshawk he drafted for the job to do it.

After a year and some months of mutual frustration, they gave it up, and the Prime Minister took on the impossible assignment of being his own press secretary.

PLAYED IT BY EAR:

He was good, too, in a lot of ways.

Knew how to time an important announcement to catch home editions in Toronto, Ontario and Quebec and smother any news his political rivals might fondly have hoped they were making.

Knew how to "leak" a big piece of news involving Government policy when the time was ripe for size on the public in advance. He was the master bite-flier among recent Prime Ministers.

But he was too busy to be bothered with the regular routine run of the mill news, and never would take the time and trouble to provide texts of his speeches or other statement or insurance against misquotation and misinterpretation.

He kept several executive aides and special assistants like the very able John Tucker or ceedingly busy, but they, too, had other things to worry about than the daily grind from the often dull Parliament Hill news mill.

Finally, when it was far too late, he did find a press secretary, veteran news and editorial room hand Burt Richardson who could, would, and did, keep pace, ant, did do the job.

But by then he was only weeks away from this last disastrous (for him) election campaign, and so it did not do him much good — although it may, in the months or years to come (Opposition).

With Prime Minister Pearson, things are going to be different.

He's got a press secretary, and a good one, Richard O'Hagen, at his side to run interference for him with the press. Prime Minister (for any Prime Minister)-press.

CAN COUNT ON IT

O'Hagen sees that there are texts of important Pearson speeches on tap, notes or extracts from statements made available. And on time.

He can field queries from the Parliamentary correspondents, answering questions perhaps not important enough to put through to the Prime Minister himself, and be can be quoted as speaking for the PM.

He can make those arrangements for provision of such newsworthy and fast-breaking things as a full gallery of pictures of the new Cabinet Ministers' wives for the woman's pages.

He usually knows — and can say — what the Prime Minister's plans are for the day or week.

Much of the time, Dief's one press secretary, and often his other East Block aides, never could say what Dief's Mans were — because he seldom bothered to tell them.

You could always find out for yourself, of course, simply by calling the Prime Minister on the phone. He would always answer, and usually was most obliging and very pleasant. But you could not always get through, for a Prime Minister has other more important things to do than answer reportorial phone calls.

So it makes better sense to have such a handyman as Dick O'Hagen around — somebody both the Prime Minister and the Press can count on to do the rather delicate job with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of fuss and delay.

Bad Judgment

It seems Nature uses poor judgment when it makes a man's hair on his head thinner and his beard tougher.

Strictly Personal

Independent Means Can Cost Too Much

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: The two rarest public types in the world of politics are the liberal who knows what requires to be changed and the conservative who knows which things are worth conserving — but these are only one out of a thousand in this census.

Small children instinctively feel more at home with animals than with adults, and this natural affinity, I think, is simply that animals do not pretend to be, or feel what they are not.

Some critics pay so much veneration to the authors of antiquity not so much out of reverence for the dead as out of spite and envy toward the living.

The fatal flaw that forever prevents the clever man from becoming the wise man is his refusal to accept the truth of La Rochefoucauld's maxim: "On peut etre plus fin qu'un autre, mais non pas plus fin que tous les autres" — "One person can be smarter than another, but not smarter than all the others."

A person may not believe your flattery, and may like you no better for it, but still he cannot help being pleased that you consider him worth flattering.

When we say that someone has "independent means," we usually mean precisely the opposite — that he or she has inherited or married money and is dependent upon the legacy received through these lucky efforts. Such "independences" most often exacts a high price.

Watching a well-dressed, well-groomed and skillfully made-up woman in an elevator keep patting her hair to see that no errs and adjusting her coat collar, it occurred to me that if a woman lacks repose all her contrived appeal turns to ashes in the beholder's mouth; and a man who is overly-conscious of being well turned out and preoccupied with his appearance is the creating, utterly destroys what she is trying to achieve.

(And perhaps this is Mr. Diefenbaker's definition of a "lady" that "she never thinks of being one"?)

To explain away a mistake is a more grievous error than making the mistake in the first place — the consequences of making a mistake can often be rectified, but the habit of explaining away prevents all future learning and growth.

If people were prevented from chattering about the recent books they have read, nine-tenths of the volumes on the best-seller list would perish in the first three days.

Knowledge is power only when it is based on self-knowledge; otherwise it becomes either ineffectual or self-destructive.

Settle Row Over Border

Cape Breton Post

The Rio Grande, celebrated in song and story as marking the boundary between Mexico and the United States, is not as impressive a stream as you might think if you're looking at its long course on the map.

The same as many another wayward river, the Rio Grande has an annoying way of changing its course sometimes, and this happened at El Paso, with troublesome diplomatic consequences. El Paso is a border city. The latter country claimed the land which the change of course put on the north side, and the Texans, you will not be surprised to learn, claimed that any land on the north side of the river belonged to them.

The problem has now been solved in a way that should satisfy everybody. On the controversial property an international university will be built for the benefit of both Mexican and U.S. students.

"I think he's still hungry — Shall I give him another one?"

Consideration of the protest of Hastings County cheese producers against the recent newly-established price of cheese will be given to the House of Commons, it is reported by Capt. George S. Hastings cheese producers protested against the 20-cent price of cheese as recently established by the government, claiming the increase did not cover the increased cost of production.

Had Enough Elections

La Voix de l'Est, Granby

Politicians must not overlook the fact that the public has had enough of elections. It wants political stability, government stability. In other words it wants an new government to get resolutely to work, with the support of all the other parties, so that the country can at last enjoy constructive policies to ensure the development of its institution and its economy.

Thus the role of the opposition parties is not to harass the government with non-confidence motions but to second it in its efforts to get out of the quiet which afflicts the whole population. Parliament... must no longer be a platform on which everybody prepares for an approaching election, but the place where the big problems are studied, elaborated and discussed intelligently, thereafter to be solved adequately by appropriate legislation.

It is more than time to get back to serious business. There is work to be done. The problems are numerous and complex, and they demand the attention of all the men the people have elected. These men must not let themselves be blinded by political divisions and rancour.

Athlete's Foot Can Be A Stubborn Problem

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had athlete's foot on and off for many years. Is there a cure? I soak my feet in epsom salts, which makes them feel better — G. M. H.

One word of warning. First be sure it is athlete's foot and not some other skin ailment.

Athlete's foot is a fungus infection. It can be recurrent and stubborn. Some skins are particularly sensitive to this fungus — or maybe we should say, "these fungi," because there can be variations.

Getting rid of it is a two-fold job. First, scrupulous foot hygiene. Then medication.

By foot hygiene I don't mean merely washing the feet, but changing socks daily. (Oftener may help.)

Iron the socks. The heat sterilizes them. Fungus, which likes moisture, can't necessarily be destroyed just by washing.

Since the fungus burrows not only into the skin but into anything warm and moist, you can be fairly sure that it can linger in your shoes and slippers. So make this a rule: Wear only clean, ironed socks even around the house in slippers. This will protect you against reinfection.

It's helpful to alternate shoes so they can dry out for several days between wearing. They should be sprinkled with one of the many anti-fungus foot powders.

Soaking the feet in epsom salts may be soothing, but it won't cure the fungus.

A solution (one part in 8,000) of potassium permanganate is effective as a fungus-killing foot bath, but it leaves a brown stain on skin, tends to irritate the pan you use. It is also a poison and must be handled with care.

A stainless solution as a foot bath is a tablespoon of boric acid to a pint of water.

In recent years a drug called griseofulvin, which can't be taken by mouth, has been very successful in curing some although not all kinds of fungus. The drug must be prescribed by a physician, with the dose correctly calculated.

For less severe cases, the various anti-fungal foot powders and ointment are helpful.

When athlete's foot keeps recurring over a span of years, the quickest and surest answer is to have a dermatologist (skin specialist) outline the best treatment for your case, and then to follow the prescribed routine meticulously.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is meant by a cyclothymic personality? I have a friend who has been so described. He is also subject to quite severe colds. Is it possible to overcome the problem without having shock therapy? — W. S. L.

Cyclothymic means having alternate moods of states and depression. Psychotic episodes are periods of mental illness. Whether shock therapy is required depends on the severity of the case. It frequently is part of the treatment.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are syphilis and measles the only venereal diseases? If not, why are they the only ones you ever hear anything about? Just curious — S. A.

No, but the others are less frequent or less perilous.

Attention all women! For the pamphlet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues," write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dunellen, N.J. Enclosing a self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover printing and handling. This pamphlet may help you.

Wife's Meal Deductible

Portland Oregonian

Under the new business entertainment regulations of the Internal Revenue Service as originally drawn, a man could write a business expenditure and the latter's wife to dinner and charge the bill to expenses. But if his own wife was in the group he'd have to pay for her meal from his own pocket.

Internal Revenue Mortimer M. Caplin has liberalized the regulation to include the host's wife among the entertainees.

This makes both political and business sense.

If women had to stay home and eat with the kids while their husbands were entertaining business friends and the latters' wives at plushy restaurants, a groundswell of anti-Kennedy sentiment might well develop among feminine voters.

Also such expense-account officers are supposed to be strictly for business. Two men would have a difficult time talking business with one woman present. They couldn't ignore her presence. With two women in the table the men busy themselves about clothes and such, the men can get right down to the essentials of business when they should get together for a business golf game.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In recent weeks I have had occasion to receive a group of new letters from old friends. And it is perfectly astonishing how many of them are signed by totally undecipherable signatures. With the help of the phone book, I have had to find out from the identity of my friend by guessing, and then looking up his address. But that is only for the in-town ones. By poking through the waste basket and finding and matching up envelopes, I have succeeded in identifying other dear old buddies whose letters were entirely legible, but whose signatures were hieroglyphics like unto Egypt's.

One that had beaten me appeared to be a wiggle followed by a very line three inches long. Another mystery looks like a screwdriver-gauge of some sort. If I can recollect a Screwdriver among my old acquaintances. There is a scrawl, a blur, and a very wonderful tender, kindly old friend who appears to be a Noofo.

I suppose that after say a hundred years, a man gets a little tired of writing his name on countless cheques, letters, contracts, receipts and all the other things that encompass us in the new documentary world.

But it seems to me there ought to be a law.

County Home Farm Besides Showing Profit Helps to Give Residents Physical Outlet

The 100-acre farm operated in connection with the Hastings County Home in the west end of Belleville once again showed a double profit last year.

The county farm showed a net credit of $3,361, but its value in providing a physical outlet for the male residents far exceeds the boons in dollars and cents.

At least this is the feeling of County Home superintendent Kenneth York who says that it would be difficult to assess the true value of the county home in terms of contentment for the elderly county home residents, the majority of whom have a rural background.

"It just couldn't be figured in dollars and cents," he says.

Yesterday at county council, the County Home report read by the county homes committee chairman Reeve John Wilkes showed that revenue of $117,294 was received from the farm last year, while farm expenditures totalled $13,932. The net profit was $3,361, a figure being gradually reduced as costs of operation and labor increase.

VOLUNTARY ASSIST

Many of the male county home patients voluntarily assist with the farm chores and other jobs although there is no requirement for them to do so.

Currently there are 206 residents at the county home, 105 male and 101 female. Of the total 55 are from the city of Belleville.

Total operational expenditures at the home last year were $219,909, including $11,358 in capital costs, sewers, and furnishings.

Net cost of the home operation for the year after revenue was taken into consideration was given as $16,511.

Operational cost per resident day during the year was a net $2.80.

Hastings is one of the few counties still operating a farm in connection with the county home.

KEEP 20 COWS

The farm policy is not encouraged by officials of the Ontario Department of Welfare but Mr. Yorke feels it has a value far in excess of the dollars and cents profit that it shows.

Financially it is a separate entity and an entirely separate set of books is maintained for the farm.

Twenty milking cows are kept at the farm while hog raising is also a major item of farm operation. Much of the farm produce is used in the home and residents from the rural area enjoy helping to look after the stock and as far as Mr. Yorke is concerned the county home farm operation will continue as long as possible.

"It gives the men an interest, something to do," he says.

Foresters Hold Bowl Banquet

The Quinte District Council Canadian Order of Foresters held their annual presentation bowling banquet at the Park Dale Community Centre last weekend.

About eighty persons attended the chicken dinner and also the election of officers which saw Clifford McGrimmon named president, Gary Orr vice-president, Bruce Cairns secretary and Earl Derry treasurer.

Retiring vice-president Gwen Ray presented the first place trophy At the "Lil Injuns," consisting of Captain Mike Scerri, Vi and Bes McCrystal, Louella and Leonard Lucas, Joyce and Don Kellar and Ron Elliott.

The "B" division trophy was presented by out-going president Sam Orr to captain Earl Derry, Al and Rosalie Hardy, Bill and Phillis Gevekoth and Bob and Rita Cox.

Ladies' high average trophy went to Gwen Ray (200); the ladies' high triple to Bernice Hall (567) and the ladies' high single to Vi McCrystal (373).

Ron Elliott took men's high average honour (211); the men's high triple went to Gary Orr (763) and the men's high single to Sam Orr (332).

Each bowler received an ash tray while men with over 300 and women with over 275 received key chains with the C.O.F. crest.

Flinton Girl Hurt in Crash, Ribs Injured

An 18-year-old Flinton girl was taken to Belleville General Hospital last night after a car crashed off Highway 2, east of Point Anne.

Grace Braydon suffered rib injuries when the car—driven by Cyril Eugene Furbert, 11 Tracey Street, Belleville—veered out of the Canada Cement Company truck road, across the highway and crashed in a ditch.

A second passenger in the car, 30-year-old Gordon Shelbrake, of Hannon, Ont., was released after treatment at the hospital for minor injuries.

Colored Cheese Little Higher On Exchange

Colored cheese commanded a one-eight cent per pound premium on the Belleville Cheese Exchange this week. The average price for white cheese was 35¾ cents, and colored cheese 35¾c.

Offered were 3,800 special cheese, 876 first grade white cheese, 4,202 colored, 201 first grade white squares and 2,903 first grade colored squares.

The premium for square cheese is in addition to the prices quoted above.

Hugh Murray Ltd. Awarded School Addition Contract

Subject to approval of the Ontario Municipal Board and the Department of Education, the tender of Hugh Murray Ltd. of Belleville has been accepted by the Belleville Public School Board for the construction of a ten-roomed addition to the Harry J. Clarke School.

The Hugh Murray Ltd. tender for $186,943 was the second lowest submitted but was approved on the basis of an earlier completion date. The completion date promised by Mr. Murray was August 31st of this year.

There were five tenders received by school board, the bids ranging from a low of $194,900, submitted by T. A. Andre and Sons, Ltd., of Kingston, to a high of $203,750 from The Trickam Company of Belleville.

The completion date promised by the low bidder was Sept ember 30th, but board members wanted the school addition ready for the September 1st school opening following the summer holiday period.

The school tenders were received at a special meeting of the board late last week.

Total cost of the new school addition is given as $225,000, made up of $186,943 general contract, $11,750.58 architects' fees, $5,606.42 for contingencies, and $13,000 for furniture and equipment.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Trends were lacking in all sections of the stock market during light morning trading today.

Minus signs were scattered through all main list groups with Canadian Celanese down ¼, Dominion Textile off ½, International Utilities ¾ and Abitibi, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Industrial Acceptance all ¼.

Among stronger issues, Canadian Westinghouse advanced ⅛, Page-Hersey ½, Algoma Steel ⅝ and Great Lakes Paper ¼. Crown Trust went ahead a point to a new 1963 top of 69 in extremely light volume.

On index, industrials dropped .50 to 633.94, golds .26 to 87.47 and western oils .29 to 125.13. Base metals rose .55 to 212.64. The 11 a.m. volume was 781,000 shares compared with 793,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Among higher base metals, Noranda gained ½, Falconbridge and International Nickel each ¼ and Craigmont ¼.

In western oils Northcal advanced one cent to 30 cents on a turnover of more than 155,000 shares.

The market refused to establish a definite trend and most price changes were narrow Wednesday.

Lack of trend through the session was indicated chiefly by banks, financial institutions and steels.

Stronger steels featured Dominion Bridge, up 1¼, Ontario Steel, ahead a point to a new 1963 high of 19, and Hayes Steel, up ½ to a new top of 18¾. In contrast, Dominion Foundries and Steel slipped ¼. Page-Hersey fell ¼ and Dominion Steel and Coal declined ¼.

Major banks were mixed, posting only modest price changes. Among financial institutions, Crown Trust rose two points to a new high of 68, and National Trust rose ¾. Guaranty Trust dropped ¾. Industrial Acceptance ½ and Investors Syndicate A ¼.

Autolab B stole the spotlight among penny issues as it dropped 64 cents to 36 cents on a turnover of more than 48,000 shares. It hit a new low of .33 earlier in the day.

Among other industrials rose .34 to 634.44 and golds .23 to 87.72.

Cross-Canada Survey

Pockets of Resistance To Daylight Saving Time Still Remain in Country

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Most Canadians will be short of an hour sleep this weekend in the annual manipulation of time that takes away an hour of morning daylight, and adds it to the evening, for the middle six months of the year.

They will get back this lost hour of sleep during the last weekend of October, when time-keeping again becomes standard for a winter of early sunsets.

Pockets of resistance to daylight time remain, notably in Alberta where standard time is observed all year round by provincial legislation.

But a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows daylight time is gaining adherents as Canada becomes more urban in fact and outlook. Prince Edward Island this year joins British Columbia and Newfoundland in officially decreeing the clocks an hour fast for the summer on a provincial basis. Legislation being processed in Manitoba would make summer daylight time province-wide there.

WARTIME ORIGIN

Daylight time was first adopted in Canada 45 years ago by federal legislation as part of wartime measures to conserve power. But the act lapsed after that summer of 1918 and any action since then has been that of the provinces, most of which left the decision in turn to individual communities.

Traditional opposition to setting timepieces an hour fast came often from the countryside, where farmers like an extra hour of morning daylight to lift the dew.

Town folk don't much care whether the dawn comes up at 4:30 or 5:30 a.m., but they favor an extra hour of after-work daylight when the weather is good for golf.

As if the seven time zones spanning Canada from Newfoundland to the Yukon weren't enough to rattle the traveller, the myriad decisions on summer time permitted under the local-option system often create complete confusion.

The railways traditionally ignore regional aberrations and stick to standard time. But this summer Canadian National Railways will schedule trains and ferries operating in Prince Edward Island on daylight time in accordance with the Island's adoption of summer time.

AIM TO END CHAOS

The Manitoba government's legislation aims at erasing habitual summer chaos in which Winnipeg has adopted daylight time regularly while other communities in the province have taken to fast time some summers and held to standard time in other years, depending on the local mood.

Manitoba's action is likely to increase the quandary in neighboring Saskatchewan, most of which is in the Mountain time zone with Alberta, although southeastern Saskatchewan shares the Central Time zone with Manitoba.

Western Saskatchewan communities habitually stay on Mountain Standard time the year round to jibe with neighbors across the Alberta border. Eastern Saskatchewan centres have held with the Central Standard Time of nearby Manitoba. Many central Saskatchewan towns adopt daylight time for six months.

The time problem in Saskatchewan produces situations where school districts keep one time while local municipalities officially have another. A provincial time committee, aiming at uniformity, has made three recommendations so far and none of them won anything approaching unanimous approval in municipal and school associations.

ONTARIO MIXED

Adoption of uniform summer time in Manitoba might also affect northwestern Ontario, which has maintained Eastern Standard Time the year around because daylight time would have put communities there two hours ahead of neighboring Manitoba centres during the summer. But Port William and Port Arthur are staying on standard time again this summer.

While most of the rest of Ontario adopts daylight time, the northwest corner of the province has its own peculiar patterns. Windsor stays on standard and conforms with Detroit and most of the rest of Essex County ignores daylight time. Nearby Kent County with it, adopts daylight time from April 28 to Sept. 1 instead of the general April 28 to Oct. 27 span.

Farther east, the trend towards uniformity is gathering strength. Quebec has changed regulations that required municipalities to pass province-approved bylaws in order to adopt daylight time. This year only the minority of communities wanting to retain standard time must pass bylaws saying so.

RESISTANCE LESSENS

But Quebec communities east of the 69th meridian of longitude—the dividing line between Eastern and Atlantic time—can retain Atlantic Standard Time the year 'round as usual. Gaspe thus has the same time as the rest of Quebec for six months of the year.

Resistance to daylight time is crumbling in the Maritimes. General adoption of fast time by Nova Scotia communities makes it effectively province-wide.

In New Brunswick, Woodstock and nearby Hartland decided this year to go along with most of the larger communities in adopting daylight time for six months instead of reverting to standard at the end of September. The city of Edmundston and Deer Island are among the few remaining standard - time holdouts down east.

Gas Company

had acted "not as principals at all, as had been sworn to, but as agents for certain named persons—named by the president of the gas company."

At its furious peak, the NONG stock scandal shook the Progressive Conservative government of former premier Leslie Frost.

Lands and Forests Minister Clare Mapledoram and Public Works Minister William Grieve resigned when it was disclosed they had bought stock in the company. Mines Minister Phillip Kelly resigned before the scandal broke, but it was later disclosed that he was one of four promoters who had made profits of about $500,000 each in NONG stock.

The inquiry ordered by Premier Frost, after allegations by CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald, found that 730,378 promoters' shares in NONG were distributed illegally for $333,420—an average of 45.6 cents each—before public investors paid $4, 000,000 for 400,000 shares.

BUY IN BLOCKS

Among the distributions, that inquiry listed 14,000 shares to Conyers of Wallaceburg for $35, 000. The company had been picked to handle sales in small blocks to keep the market steady, the report said.

Among others named as stock purchasers by the inquiry were Liberal Leader John Winters, the president of the Ontario Conservative Association, a civil servant and two municipal officials in a northern improvement district.

But the report said that, outside of the stock listed, "there was no other evidence disclosed of sale or gifts from any of the promotional group to any other cabinet minister, or any other elected or appointed provincial or municipal official."

Two Liberal members demanded Wednesday that the legislature be brought up to date on the latest inquiry into NONG.

Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) accused the government of withholding the report because it was too embarrassing to the government.

IT'S NOT READY

Mr. Carr retorted that the report "is not ready and won't be for some months."

Stanley Singer (L—York Centre) said the government must make available all information it has on the NONG transactions before the present session adjourns.

Even if the report has not yet been printed, Mr. Singer said, the matter is of such importance that members should hear of it as soon as possible. If necessary, the House could "adjourn for a day or two" until the information was prepared.

HAVE GLASS HOUSES

The families of some Swedish glassblowers live in houses with translucent glass walls and glass mosaic floors.

CAMPBELLFORD

Seymour Council Holds Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — Seymour council held its regular meeting on Friday with all members present.

A delegate was received by council from the Northeast Northumberland High School Board in the person of G. W. Rutherford, who presented the high school budget.

M. Brunton was named to represent Seymour Council on a proposed Arena Board in response to a request from Councillor Arthur Moody, of Campbellford.

The fee to the Good Roads Association of $5.00 was passed for payment and the assessment for the Lake Ontario Development Association was also passed.

The clerk was instructed to advertise the sale of a truck and order gas and gravel.

Council adjourned after the passing of the pay sheet.

other charter under the name Grimsby Driving Park and Athletic Association.

With respect to a third charter revived by Mr. Howe to set up Windsor Raceway, Mr. Cass said documents filed and procedures followed to renew the dormant corporate powers of Clinton Driving Park Association "were in accordance with departmental practice."

TABLES LETTER

The attorney-general backed up his statement on the Clinton charter by tabling a letter from a prominent Toronto legal firm.

In a letter to the attorney-general, lawyer Walter B. Williston wrote: "In my opinion there could not be any suggestion of impropriety on the part of Mr. Rowe when he applied for the revival of the corporate powers of the Clinton Driving Park Association Limited."

In revival proceedings, Mr. Williston wrote, the Clinton association "was represented by one of the most distinguished legal firms in Ontario and in my opinion Mr. Rowe had every right to rely on their advice and believe that all corporate proceedings were properly conducted."

PSI ROLLS ENLARGE

TORONTO (CP) — The number of people enrolling in Physicians Services Incorporated jumped 26 per cent last year, President Dr. J. O. Lockhart of Hamilton told the annual meeting Wednesday of the doctor-sponsored, prepaid medical care plan. The total membership stood at 1,645,773 as of last Dec. 31. Dr. Lockhart was re-elected president and Dr. J. O. Ruddy of Whitby was re-elected vice-president.

O.E.S. No. 55 Holds Attractive Butterfly Tea at Masonic Temple

Using a mauve, yellow and pink color scheme, the Belleville O.E.S. No. 55 held a most delightful "Butterfly Tea" in the Masonic Temple, Foster Ave., yesterday afternoon.

The event was charmingly convened by Bobbe Locke assisted by co-convener Wynn Tomlinson.

At the entrance to the auditorium, where Mrs. Myrtle Cross, W.M., and Mrs. Merle Simpson received the guests was an artistic arrangement depicting a colorful flower garden with three-tier bird bath, large white swans and numerous butterflies in flight. Everywhere the eye turned the theme of butterflies and the pastel colored 'decor' was much in evidence with white baskets containing large pink gladioli, golden yellow snapdragons and forsythia, giant yellow and white poms and Easter lilies, placed at strategic vantage points throughout the hall.

SALES TABLES

The sales tables were decorated with an assortment of butterflies and frilly pastel yellow, mauve and pink streamers, each laden with their respective products.

The entrance to the tea room was sentinelled with a white picket gateway, backgrounded with graceful green potted ferns, sprays of multi-colored leaves and many butterflies. Warmly welcoming the guests at this point were the tea room hostesses, Irene Brown, P.M., Luella Brickman, P.M., Thelma Liddle, P.M., Jean Adams, P.M., Phyl Berry, P.M. and Pearl Johnston, P.M. Dorothy Jones was the tea room convener assisted by Jean Bell, co-convener.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The focal point of interest, however, was the attractive tea table with its snow-white linen cloth centred with an exquisite arrangement of deep pink carnations, mauve 'mums, yellow daffodils interspersed with greenery. Tapering mauve, yellow and pink candles in tri-branch silver candelabra, glasaing silver tea services and prettily adorned serviettes added to this lovely setting.

POURING TEA

Those who poured tea were: Margaret Shaw, P.M.; Audrey Elliott, P.G.M.; Dora Elvidge, P.M.; Marion Heath, DDGM; Dorothy McCutcheon, PDDGM; Beatrice Embury, P.M.; Edna Morden, P.M., and Hazel Bangsar, P.M. The dainty goodies were served by Mrs. D. Hollinger, Dorothy Ellis, A.M.; Mrs. Evan Barlow, Nora MacDonald, Mrs. B. Mitts, Mrs Hirold Wright, Mrs. Ethel Sommerfield, Mrs. Isobel Boulton, Wilda Fever, Fern House, Margaret Freeborn, Ann Combe, Jewell Holway, Rebecca Carman, Mrs. W. Oliphant, Ruby Skinner, Beverley Shaw, Mrs. W. Bailey, Mrs. Anne Fisher, Mrs. Mae Black, Vera Johnson, Mrs. John Good, Mrs. E. Warren, Glena Black and Mrs. Olga MacDonald.

The various kitchen duties were performed by Mrs. Dorothy Burns as convener, Phyllis Barlow, PM, co-convener, assisted by Annie Scott, Gladys Adams, Florence Moon, Bessie Bonter, Eva Peck, Freda LaRue, Gladys Grey, Minnie Niblock, Rebecca Carman, Marion Wrenshall, Lois Coughlin, Cleta Elliott, Edna Fox, Flossie Laycock, Evelyn Francis and Olive Whitehead.

DELICIOUS HOMECOOKING

The home baking table, convened by Mrs. Earl Hall, P.M., and Mrs. Ada McMullen, P.M., assisted by Mesdames J. Frith, Mrs. Barr, J. Mann, E. Pick, E. Clancy, M. Harnden, H. Insley, M. Finnigan, C. Rushton, C. Elliott, C. Bailey, G. Bishop, C. Maybee and E. Dowsett, was laden with a grand assortment of goodies including pies, tarts, date loaves, bran muffins, assorted cookies and a variety of cup cakes.

Jeane Stephenson, Emily Stevens, Lottie Faulkner, Isabella Smith, and Ruby Joby were in charge of sales at the candy table where there was a delicious assortment of maple creams, chocolate fudges in cellophane bags and economical boxes.

The grocery baskets containing a fine variety of everyday needs were decorated with colorful crepe paper and those in charge were in charge of convener Margaret Reynolds, co-convener Wanda Clare, assisted by Maude Gay and Stella Durrette.

The tickets at the door for this successful event were taken by Signe Orve, Etta Pinder, Ila Clapp and for the tea room, Sara Morgan, Maude Elliott, P.M., and Nellie Armstrong.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

The April meeting of Avondale Neighbors' was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Anger. Winners of the telephone euchre were announced and prizes awarded to Erma Reid, Cynthia Wright, Stuart Lough and Shirley Griffith.

Pearl Holmes and Lena Reid were in charge of the program.

Lunch was served by Margaret Twiddy, Ethel Day and Beatrice Coward.

Vota Vita M.C. Topic "Close-up Of French Canada"

The regular meeting of the Vota Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Ave. Baptist Church was held on April 16th in the church parlor with 23 members present.

The president, Mrs. Burns opened the meeting with prayer.

The regular business was discussed and attended to and the meeting turned over to Grace Smith's group.

Mrs. Smith used the Shepherd Chapter for her devotion. Mari Hales favored with a solo, titled "One Day."

The subject of the meeting was "A Close-up on French Canada."

The work of the Grande Ligne Mission in Montreal was given in the form of an interview. The urgent needs of the mission and also for French teachers for the Feller Institute and the French Protestant schools. Those taking part were: Mrs. Ruth Campbell, Miss Edith Spracklett and Mrs. Bernice Stevens.

After the meeting closed a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served by the group in charge.

Women Tell Of Projects To Aid IODE

HAMILTON (CP)—Delegates to the provincial convention of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire were told Wednesday night of seven ways to meet the perpetual problems—money and public relations—which afflict women's clubs.

Members from seven Ontario communities told of proven projects which had helped in both problems, during a panel discussion attended by more than 300 delegates.

Mrs. George Blake of London, Ont., described a Christmas shoppers' party while Mrs. R. J. Skippon of Sarnia discussed an economy centre—a sort of thrift shop — operated there by 12 chapters.

Garden parties have been successful in Belleville, Mrs. R. C. Ellis reported.

In Guelph, a store which accepts merchandise donations from anyone in the community, as well as second-hand articles, was described by Mrs. R. L. Demaray.

Women in Marmora were invited to participate in an IODE crafts show, said Mrs. G. J. Middleton. A party-fan-and-fashions evening was held by a Niagara Falls chapter and discussed by Mrs. K. C. Bay.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Holds Successful Spring Tea

Garlands of entwined blue and white — color motif of St. Joseph's C.W.L. cascaded from lighting fixtures to the ends of massive ceiling beams in the Knights of Columbus hall, Station Street, yesterday afternoon for the delightful "Spring Tea" and bake sale sponsored by the League.

The many guests were received by the president of the League, Mrs. C. Murphy, assisted by Mrs. B. P. Beirne, social convener, whose welcoming smiles made everyone feel at home, and free to wander about the spacious auditorium, making purchases from the two attractive tables of merchandise, the home baking with its delicious confections of apple, berry and lemon meringue pies; dainty little cup cakes iced in pretty pastel colors of pale pink, yellow, blue and green, looking so like a bed of cocoanut; moist watering homemade breads and tea biscuits; many varieties of tiny cookies; long loaf cakes iced in soft chocolate; date loaves, chocolate drops; layer cakes, one of which was iced in yellow touched here and there with tiny green leaf - like decor — a gem of a cake, so springlike in appearance, this would become the prize of the person holding the lucky ticket. And to conclude this eye-catching display was a little jar of fresh maple syrup — the perfect adjunct to warm pancakes for breakfast.

HOMEBAKING CONVENERS

The booth was convened by Mrs. L. Bankey; Mrs. M. G. Barlow; Mrs. J. Kennedy, and Mrs. Thompson.

The other booth was that of the religious articles, convened by Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Klazek. Here were rosaries in different colors, with gold and silver - toned chains, also leather cases; framed pictures of the Virgin; wall plaques; missals; colorful little figurines of the saints; lockets with the Sacred Heart; pencils, and various articles, as well as Crucifixes.

LOVELY TEA TABLE

Along one side of the spacious auditorium was situated the eye-catching tea table with its white lace cloth, centred by a most attractive arrangement of white and blue 'muma nestling on a bed of glistening huckleberry leaves, and flanked by tall blue and white candles in lacey - collared tri-branched candelbra, and at the end of the table the two serrated silver services.

Those who pours the delicious warming cups of tea, so welcome after the cold of the outside elements, were: Mrs. V. Muldoon; Mrs. H. Carr-Brainf; Mrs. B. McSherry, and Mrs. J. Anton; while those who serve included: Mesdames M. Hilbig; B. W. Hurley; J. Hanley; E. G. Tugnett; J. Rayvroft; T. Black; T. McQuaid, and J. A. Keeley.

TEA ROOM HOSTESSES

The tea room hostesses were: Mrs. P. Mercier, and Mrs. J. Belanger, who escorted the guests to the little quartet guest tables, which were appointed with snow - white tea cloths, and centred by a dainty plate of sandwiches and tempting cakes divided the one from the other by a lacey white doily. White servieties added their quotient of attractiveness.

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. T. Walsh.

Commendation goes to those responsible for a dainty and delicious Spring tea, and also to Mrs. J. J. Marta; Mrs. C. Nicholes; Mrs. J. E. Poirier; Mrs. R. Johnson; Mrs. D. J. Boyle; Mrs. E. J. Beehler, and Mrs. J. W. Lane who assisted in its success, as well as to Mrs. G. Whalen, and Mrs. G. Bell, who did much telephoning.

Girl Wants to Marry, Knows Little of Origin

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) — In this nation of thousands of former displaced persons and remnants of families, the case of a pretty 19-year-old girl who has been trying to establish her identity has aroused widespread interest.

When blonde Zehava Reiss went before a rabbi for her marriage registration he asked her two traditional questions: "Who are you and who are your parents?"

Zehava decided to take her problem to a mass-circulation newspaper which published a picture of her as a child.

Zehava knew little about her origin except that she grew up as an adopted child of a family living at Beith Yitzhak in Sharon Valley after being brought to Israel from Europe in 1948.

The girl without a past was flooded with answers.

RECALLS ORPHAN

Mrs. Ela Slotzky, who had been a social worker in post-war Germany, looked through old faded pictures in her own albums and after meeting Zehava established that she must have been one of her wards.

"You were found in a hospital," she told Zehava. "I first saw you in a hospital in the city of Ulm. That was in 1946."

Mrs. Slotzky recalled how the girl, then about three years old, was placed in her custody and joined a group of Jewish orphans from Poland. In 1948, a couple of months before the proclamation of Israeli independence, Zehava sailed to Haifa with 600 orphans.

As might be expected, Zehava's appeal also produced some disappointments.

LOST SISTER

A settler from a village near Ashkelon, who had come to Israel from Hungary, telephoned to say, "I believe you are my kid sister."

He told the tragic story of his family at the hands of the Nazis and of a tiny young sister who was snatched from the arms of his father at the gates of Auschwitz concentration camp.

He produced two faded pictures of his baby sister which he had treasured through the years.

But there was little resemblance between those pictures and early snapshots of Zehava in Germany and Israel. The man returned home in sorrow.

Zehava at least learned from Mrs. Slotzky that her exact birthday was May 6, 1943. But there was no other personal information on documents which accompanied the child.

SELL FEWER CLOVES

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Sometimes envy paces itself off as morality. When this happens it is time to beware. For there is no righteousness in self-righteousness, no true humbleness in abject, studied humility. Remember Uriah Heep! He pretended to be the "smallest person going." But we know better: his careful pretensions merely masked his crass and unscrupulous ambitions.

Unnecessary modesty, in reality, is more closely related to our aggressive envies than to our desire to recoil from recognition. Over-modest folk often do not deign to undertake tasks well within their power of accomplishment out of fear of being outdone by their associates. Result: unnecessary envy of their colleagues who can do what they should be doing but will not do, because excessive humility has gotten in the way.

Lord Bertrand Russell once remarked that he did not believe that any peacock envied another peacock his tail, because every peacock is persuaded that his own tail is the finest in the world. Result: peacocks are peaceable birds!

Which is to suggest to many would-be parents or teachers that instead of playing down their children's opinion of their own potential, they ought to be playing them up. What if peacocks had been taught that it were an evil, wicked thing to have a good opinion of oneself? Whenever one would see a fellow peacock spreading forth his tail he might say to himself: "I dare not believe that my tail is better than his, for that would be conceit. But, oh, how I wish it were!"

—J

CONCEITMENT

What then?

Perhaps this will help to carry Lord Russell's example to its final conclusion:

The afraid-to-be-conceited, "righteous and humble" peacock would probably rationalize self-pretty his envy of his chum in the following fortious way: "Just look at that conceited cock! Perhaps I ought to pull out some of his feathers! That would take away some of his arrogant pride! And once his feathers were removed, I would no longer need fear comparison with him. As a matter of fact, peacocks who strut their feathers are really guilty of conduct unbecoming of a peacock! There ought to be a law against it!"

And a law would probably be passed — a law which all inferior peacocks would willingly accept as being in the best interests of the "peacock nature": only the "humble" bird is the good bird; and pretty feathers are to be plucked out in the interest of keeping peacocks good. And of course, since good peacocks make happy peacocks, all the unhappy peacocks would agree.

Maybe it's not so heinous a sin, after all that peacocks continue to strut proudly. Since each of them, unlike our mythical example, thinks himself more gorgeous than all the others, none of them has need to repress envy by draping it with humility.

Pride, it has been suggested, goeth before a fall. But false modesty trips up too. When we are urged to over-cultivate our capacity for self-criticism we are likely to become smug "saints" who delight in the downfall of the "sinners" — all of those who have a normal and healthy capacity for self-appreciation.

'Arts in Our Community' Topic at U.W. Club Meeting

Taped interviews with Mr. James Alexander, Mr. Steven Choma, and Mr. Trevor Dickson highlighted a program on "The Arts in Our Community", which was presented by Mrs. G. E. Boyce and Mrs. H. U. Graham at the April meeting of the University Women's Club of Belleville and District.

Mr. Alexander, the director of many of the plays presented by the Belleville Theatre Guild, and the Trenton Drama Group, indicated that two of the problems faced by amateur groups in the area were those of accommodation and cost. He noted that, while both the Belleville Theatre Guild and the Trenton Drama Group had played in almost any hall which would seat over 50 people, none of the accommodations had been ideal from the performers' point of view.

"High School auditoria have been built to please the School Boards and the 750 people who live in them, and to please the performer," said Mr. Alexander.

HIGH RENTAL CHARGES

Moreover, it was not possible to use even this less-than-ideal accommodation to the best advantage because of high rental charges. Amateur groups could not afford to rent a High School auditorium for rehearsal-movements in a play because a problem, noted Mr. Alexander, still, therefore, blocking

"Added to costs of renting halls were those of lighting, with any good spotlight costing $100, and of renting costumes, so that the minimum outlay for a three - act production was estimated at $750. Without the help of the local merchants and industry, amateur groups in the area would probably not stay solvent," confessed Mr. Alexander.

In conclusion, Mr. Alexander noted that two good plays, "The Diary of Anne Frank" and "Riders to the Sea", had been performed by local High School students in recent years, and he suggested that more English teachers be encouraged to choose similar "ambitious plays".

NO ACCOMMODATION PROBLEM

Mr. Steven Choma, conductor of the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra, a group of 60 musicians from many parts of the district, indicated that there were many agencies, including music teachers, choir leaders and organists, who were functioning for the development of musical culture in the area. He suggested that accommodation was not a problem since two High School auditoria, at B.C.I.V.S. and at Trenton High, also provided suitable concert halls.

However, Mr. Choma indicated that audiences, or rather, lack of them, might be a problem. He suggested that in order to educate today's children as the audience of the future, a wider musical appreciation system should be instigated in the public schools and that parents should encourage their young children to live performances of orchestras.

HINDRANCES TO POETRY

Mr. Dickinson, Head of the English Department at Quinte Secondary School, discussed some of the problems facing those who try to teach poetry, as well as some possible solutions to the problems.

He noted that teachers had to break down a barrier of misconceptions: "Poetry is for prudes." "Poetry has no relevance to the world in which we live." "The poet is an effeminate freak." misconceptions which led "children to whom rhyme and rhythm once appealed" to "make nauseous stomach turns" when poetry was mentioned.

"The mark neurosis" was helping to "strangle" teachers of poetry and the poet with them," said Mr. Dickinson, since the stress on high marks made expedience our motto, rather than appreciation.

The fact that English syllabi were often imposing to newcomers and yet teaching English was often considered a "hack-job" that anyone could do, were cited as added hindrances to the growth of a love of poetry among high school students.

Mr. Dickinson described some of the ways he had tried to break down the "I hate poetry" barrier and also read poems written by high school students to illustrate the success which had resulted from an attempt to remove poetry from the classroom by way of a weekly Poetry Club at his home.

Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. Graham were introduced by Mrs. R.H.G. Cunningham, the convener of the University Women's Club Reading Group, and thanked by Mrs. R. E. Barrett and by the president, Mrs. J. K. Pugh.

REPORTS HEARD

During the business meeting, reports from the "Spring Fair" general convener and from the scholarship committee were heard. Mrs. F. B. Sheffield reported that planning for the Spring Fair had been completed and that the draw painting donated by Mr. Maury Macdonald, was on display in the window of Leslie's Shoe Store.

Mrs. R. E. Barrett, vice-president, reported that the scholarship committee had recommended the award of a third $300 scholarship for this year only, in addition to the two usual ones, and that the scholarship selection be reviewed annually in April. The Club voted unanimously in favor in accepting the suggestions of the scholarship committee.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE

The Federation representative, Mrs. G. E. Boyce, reminded members of the Regional Conference which will be held in Renfrew on April 26th and 27th and of the council meeting which is to be in Toronto, June 20th to 23rd.

All members were invited to attend the April bridge party at the home of Mrs. J. L. Acton and a meeting of the Reading Group at the home of Miss Alice Ashcroft on April 30th.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served by the social convener, Mrs. R. S. Burtt, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Martin, and Mrs. R. M. McNicol.

H-S Comes Of Age Topic At 44th Meet

The following is a press release issued at the recent 44th annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, and since the local council is a district one, to which many parents belong, the subject matter will be of much interest.

After lengthy discussions, delegates representing the 1,500 Associations in the Ontario Federation of Home and School adopted a new set of by-laws based on the recommendations of management consultants. The new organization structure will enable the local Associations to exert more direct influence at the higher levels of the Federation, while the Federation itself will be streamlined for increased efficiency after thirty years of incorporation as a non-profit organization.

FAMILY MEMBERSHIP FEE

The annual meeting also produced stormy sessions in which a proposed membership fee increase was hotly debated but rejected through failure to pass by a two-thirds majority. Later, a family membership fee of $1. was accepted. In future parents or other interested persons who join a Home and School Association will pay $1. per family towards the Federation and Council expenses once each year in addition to the fee of the individual Association.

Despite indications of organized opposition to the changes in by-laws and membership fees, a general feeling of dedication to the basic principles and objectives of the Home and School Movement was at all times apparent. Inspirational notes were struck in speeches by the president of the Canadian Federation, Mr. C. B. Bedford, of Saskatchewan and later by the Honorable W. G. Davis, Minister of Education for Ontario. Mr. Davis said, on behalf of his Department, that Home and School was a valuable auxiliary to the work of Educational authorities in the Province.

Bereaved Family Seeks Advice

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—In May my parents are going to celebrate their Golden Wedding. Last summer my brother's little boy was killed in a car accident. My other brother and his wife still want us to have a celebration for our parents, and I'm not just sure as to what should be done. My parents were badly broken up over this accident and my brother and his wife (the little boy's parents) are still not themselves at all.

Do you think we should ask them if they'll come? Would it be better to have a small gathering at home instead of a larger one in the community hall? My parents have lived here thirty five years, so are well known all around. Also, should we tell my parents? My other brother thinks it should be a surprise.—DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER—Better consult with the principals: your parents, and the bereaved brother and sister-in-law. Life goes on; fifty years of marriage deserve recognition, and a celebration might rouse them all from a depression which will not bring back the little boy and helps no one.

I'd go for the smaller reception, at home, under the circumstances.

DEAR DORIS—Before we started going together my boy friend drank very heavily, but after we went out about twice he quit because I refused to drink with him. Now he has started again and wants me to. I still refuse. I am losing my patience and I've told him I will break up with him if he doesn't quit.

We are very deeply in love (I'm 16, he's 18) and we would both be heartbroken if we broke up. What should I do, break up with him, or drink with him, or sit on my side of the car watching him drinking bottle after bottle? Please remember, I love him very much, and it is not puppy love.—LORELEI.

DEAR LORELEI—What 16-year-old girl ever thought it was puppy love? Your beloved is showing he is still far from grown up.

You feel strongly about the alcohol. If you hold out he will have to choose between you and it. If he holds out, you make the choice. I'd say you are poles apart.

Honors Couple At Shower

MINTO.—Salem Church hall was filled Saturday evening with friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmer (Shirley Brodsworth) to honor them on their recent marriage.

Mr. H. Stobbart acted as chairman and invited the bride and bridegroom to seats of honor as the platform and expressed best wishes to them on behalf of himself and the community. Mrs. Vene Hagerman played for community singing and was assisted by the Misses Marilyn Geen, Helen and Ruth Serles, and Ruth Hagerman. Mrs. Stanley Keller gave a reading. Misses Betty and Mary Lou Sine sang accompanied by their mother and Miss Jane Clements gave an instrumental.

Miss Carol Sine read an address and Fred and Shirley were presented with a space saver on behalf of the community; also received several individual gifts for which they expressed thanks and gratitude to all for the gifts as well as to everyone who had contributed were responsible for the success of the shower. They invited all to visit them in their new home in Peterborough.

BIRTHDAYS ARE ROUGH

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Birthdays are hectic at the home here of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bernaci. Their three children, Michael, 10; Brian, 8 and Maren, 4, all have their birthdays on the same day. "My husband really brags about it," says Mrs. Bernaci.

Food, Cooking, Elegant Dining Find Renaissance Says Cookbook Author

—By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Food, cooking and elegant dining are finding a renaissance in Canada, says the cookbook author and journalist, Helen Gougeon Schull.

The author of Helen Gougeon's Good Food and former women's editor of Weekend magazine, believes the reasons for this are: Several years of wartime rationing and war work for women, the general idea that "cooking isn't stylish"—and travel, which develops a cosmopolitan interest in food. Another reason is the removal of the servant class.

"Besides," adds the enthusiastic gourmet, "even with money and a 15-room house, Canadians usually prefer to cook at home instead of taking people out to dinner."

Mrs. Schull, who doesn't like being called an "expert" but a housewife who loves cooking, found evidence of this renewed interest when women she taught in a cooking course last fall had a "tremendous hunger for recipes and information." Cookbooks are best sellers now and every woman whould own a good basic cookbook.

Cooking "helps make a girl a whole person," she says. But where do girls learn to cook?

The attractive, blue - eyed Mrs. Schull noted that home economics is not compulsory in all schools and Canada has few cooking schools.

The logical place to learn, she feels, is in the home. And youngsters should learn at an early age. "Mothers make a mistake when they discourage children from going into the kitchen."

Her own daughter Christiane, four years old, already kneads dough for bread and makes scrambled eggs while two-year-old Joseph has taken up eggbeating.

Teen - agers, who are also becoming more keen on cooking, should start collecting recipes — from their grandmothers.

Cooking "isn't a panacea for the modern woman," says Helen, "but it can serve a number of purposes." Breadmaking, for example, is "wonderful therapy." During the Second World War, doctors in Britain advised wives to knead bread to ease tension.

"Cooking can be a girl's best friend, even if she's single." A bachelor girl could become famous for her buffet dinners.

"Food is a major part of the evening. I can't imagine going to the theatre or art gallery on an empty stomach."

Helen attributes her aptitude for cooking to her French-Canadian upbringing in Ottawa. She began writing for the Ottawa Journal when she was 18 and at 21 published her first pamphlet on cooking.

Cooking is still very much on her mind. "Good cooks," she claims, "must cook every day." Her husband, writer Joe Schull, jokes about the large, flat stones she hauled from Lunenburg, N.S., and from Scotland which were "perfect" for pressing pates and cucumbers.

Her advice on entertaining with food is "keep it simple." Women tend to "exhaust themselves with details." She suggests a good stew or casserole which could be frozen ahead of time.

"Serve a nice soup at the table and have the rest of the food on a buffet where guests can help themselves."

Wise and a spectacular dessert are two of Helen's recipes for success. Disasters are inevitable from time to time, she says. "You may not remember you succeeded—but you never forget where you have failed."

Homemade Oatmeal Bread

by Mary Moore

A modest reader, Betty G., wrote: "Perhaps you have the enclosed recipe but if not, maybe you and your readers would like to try it. It comes from New Brunswick — down there they have it Saturday night with baked beans — my family are crazy about it — prefer it to cake".

With that recommendation from Betty, I made up a batch which consisted of two lovely loaves of homemade bread, so fragrant and golden brown I wanted to take a loaf to everybody in the neighborhood. My friend Lillian is sick and has lost her appetite so I took her a loaf and her mother said she thoroughly enjoyed it sliced and toasted.

This recipe makes 2 very economical loaves of delicious bread.

OATMEAL BREAD (yeast — courtesy Betty G.):

1 package granular yeast, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 cup Scotch oatmeal (ground, not rolled — not quick-cooking), 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup molasses, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup warm water, 5½ cups sifted all-purpose flour.

In a measuring cup, measure the first amount of lukewarm water, and add the 1 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle yeast on top, give it one stir and let stand 10 minutes or until risen to top of cup.

Into your large mixing bowl measure the 1 cup boiling water and slowly stir the oatmeal into it. Let stand for 5 minutes. Add the molasses, sugar, shortening, salt. Rinse out the molasses cup with some of the 1 cup of warm water and add the 1 cup of warm water. Stir well. The mixture is lukewarm by now so add the risen yeast liquid and stir again. Add 4 cups of the sifted flour and mix it in as well as you can. Now sprinkle your board with the remaining flour (1¾ cups) and turn dough out and knead it 200 times. Most of the flour will be worked in by this time. But some will still be loose on the board but leave it there. Put kneaded dough back into greased bowl, grease top of dough, cover and let rise until light and doubled — about 2 hours. Turn out on floured board and knead 100 times. Divide and shape into 2 loaves. Put into 2 greased standard loaf pans and cover with tea towel and let rise until well above rims of pans (at least 1"). Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes then reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for another 35 minutes or until deep gold and loaf sounds hollow when tapped. Cool on racks. This bread freezes excellently.

Whimsical "New Head" Evolved by Designer

By PEGGY MARIN

PARIS (Reuters)—High hairstyles with false hair twisted into loops and scrolls towering eight inches about the crown of head go with formal fashion for the spring and summer of 1963.

Alexandre, one of the best known Paris hairdressers, has evolved a whimsical "new head," reflecting the present tendency to abstract art.

It all started with dress designer Yves St. Laurent last summer.

Wanting to introduce fanciful hairstyles for winter evenings, he asked Alexandre to create abstract effects combining characteristics of a Chinese pagoda with a peruvian of the 21st century.

Paris loved it. And, as is often the case, other designers picked up the trend for the following season. This spring, Alexandre has created futuristic hairstyles which are as daringly to each house as each designer's own fashion silhouette.

ADMITTEDLY FALSE

Today, the "switches" (false hair) no longer masquerade as the wearer's own hair, although the most expensive "additions" are made to order and carefully matched in color and texture.

Like a wig, false hair has the advantage of being able to be sent to the hairdresser by itself for a revamping job.

Designer Marc Bohan personally made a change of hairdressers this season. The Maison Dior formerly employed Guillaume style the mannequin's hair. But this spring M. Bohan collaborated with Alexandre to evolve the newest "new head" look.

The result is a series of hard little buns about the size and shape of an inverted teacup. Other styles use coils like giant small shells, or feature 10-inch wide, flat bows of real hair, which are worn just above the brow or low at the nape of the neck.

Should Take Interest in Immigrants

HAMILTON (CP) — A direct personal interest in immigrants will ease their assimilation into the Canadian way of life, Mrs. Earl D. Gott of Brantford told opening sessions Wednesday of the provincial convention of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Mrs. Gott, the organization's immigration and citizenship convener, said some chapters maintain contact with immigrants by holding conversation groups, and urged others to follow suit.

"Too many people who have taken basic English classes have no opportunity afterward to converse with native Canadians and they lose what they gained," she said.

World affairs convener Mrs. C. L. Baldwin of St. Marys said members must not feel disappointed if their part in the struggle against communism seemed very small and unsatisfying.

"It is the cumulative effect of thousands of small efforts that will make a difference in the world-wide struggle with communism," she said.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five per cent of Vancouver's secondary school enrolment dropped out during the last school year. The school board reported that 699 boys and 568 girls left school and only seven per cent of them indicated that financial difficulty was the cause.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: Would a good cook book make a suitable wedding present? A friend of mine is getting married soon, and it's one thing I'm sure she'll be able to put to good use, since she's never had much practice around the stove. Would you suggest a book that would be helpful to a new bride?

A. S., Passaic, N.J.

Answer: A cook book is always an appropriate present for a new bride, and "The Joy of Cooking" seems to be one of the best for the kitchen novice. "Cameron Cookery" and "Chafing Dish Cookery" are other books that new cooks find helpful for preparing simple, yet glamorous, meals.

Question: Our daughter goes to school out of town and frequently spends the weekend with friends of ours who live in a town nearby. They take her to shows and dinner and even permit her to give parties for her friends in their home. I'd like to reimburse them for their generosity, and wonder if I should send them a cheque to cover some of the expenses they encounter on her behalf? Do you think this would be proper, or would it only offend them?

Mrs. W. M. Boston, Mass.

Answer: A cheque might embarrass them, since, obviously, they enjoy your daughter's company and have provided her with a second home, in effect. Your daughter should try to reciprocate, however, and occasionally take them out for dinner as her guests. You might send her a special allotment once in a while for this purpose, and also to cover some of the party expenses which, properly should be part of her responsibility.

ana Minister Roger Taillet of Manitoba and Fisheries Minister H. J. Robichaud of New Brunswick claim French as their mother tongue, though both speak good English.

4. In his first broadcast after assuming office, informants say Mr. Pearson made a point of emphasizing that no purpose is more urgent than to understand and overcome the problems dividing English and French Canada and to ensure the Confederation partnership "will become richer and be truly equal."

These steps were taken against a background of rising dissatisfaction in French Canada marked by the recent growth of separatist movements and, in recent weeks, by bombings regarded by administration officials as dangerous symptoms that Quebec's patience is wearing thin.

Mr. Pearson holds the view that the Confederation partnership problem was aggravated during the period of Progressive Conservative administration.

HAD SIX MINISTERS

In his six years in office, former Prime Minister Diefenbaker never had more than six French - speaking Quebec ministers. Mr. Pearson has seven and former Prime Minister St. Laurent had six.

And some of the Conservative ministers seemed to be given the special status as chief lieutenant—regarded as important in Quebec—that Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier is being given by Mr. Pearson and that Louis St. Laurent and the late Ernest Lapointe were given by Mackenzie King.

The direction in which Mr. Pearson has pointed his government on biculturalism was indicated last December when, as opposition leader, he proposed a royal commission inquiry.

He noted then that many of the problems involved, such as education, fall within provincial jurisdiction. He urged immediate consultation on this with the provinces aimed at a joint federal-provincial inquiry.

He also said that if the approach failed to meet with a "positive" response, or if some delay developed, the federal government should go ahead with the inquiry in areas where Ottawa has jurisdiction.

WAS ILLUSTRATION

Informants say that in his Tuesday broadcast Mr. Pearson intended his references to the Confederation partnership to illustrate in general what he said last December; that he was proceeding along the lines he laid down then and during the election campaign.

In analyzing the question last December, Mr. Pearson emphasized his view of what Confederation has come to mean to French and to English Canadians.

The former, he said, regard it as having "created a bilingual and bicultural nation." To English Canadians it means "for all practical purposes, there would be an English-speaking Canada with a bilingual Quebec."

He considered this "the basic source of present misunderstandings and difficulties in relations between the two founding Canadian races."

He said the answer depends to a greater degree on English Canadians than on French Canadians.

Navy Veterans To Hold Church Parade

DESERONTO — On May 2nd the Navy Veterans of the town are planning a church parade to St. Mark's Church at 10.30 a.m. Cmdr. A. E. Hill is organizing the parade and the event will commemorate the Battle of the Atlantic.

The plans call for the parade to move off from the Legion hall at 10.30 and proceed to the Cenotaph where a wreath in the form of an anchor will be laid. The parade will then move on down Main St. to St. George, follow St. George St. to the highway and then to St. Mark's church where an appropriate service will be conducted by the rector, Father J. M. Souter.

Arrangements have been made to have the Hastings and Prince Edward band in attendance and it is expected that the members of the Canadian Legion will be invited to participate. While there are a number of Navy veterans in town this is the first year that an effort has been made to have a service solely for them to commemorate the Battle of the Atlantic. All Naval Veterans are requested to attend.

In reation to discussions on trade with Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Pearson said he would cover "the measures we can take to increase and balance the trade between our two countries and to expand trade throughout the world."

On defence, he said he wants to talk with Mr. Kennedy on "our joint responsibilities as partners in the defence of this continent and as members of the Atlantic coalition."

It seemed certain this would include the question of nuclear warheads for the Canadian arms systems in continental and NATO defence forces.

it his duty to resign if the inquiry into the Vassall case showed culpable negligence in his department's security system.

Prime Minister Macmillan set up the tribunal last fall at the time he met with opposition Labor legislators of conducting a whispering campaign—not connected with Galbraith's efficiency but with his moral character.

Macmillan quoted what he called an "authenticated story" of a reporter telling a member of Parliament that another journalist had heard from either the police or the security service that Vassall planned to join Galbraith in Italy if he had not been arrested last Sept. 12.

SCOUTS SUGGESTIONS

The three - man tribunal said in a summary of its findings: "There was nothing improper in the relationship between Mr. Galbraith and Vassall. Any suggestion that they were planning to meet in Italy and that Vassall then intended to defect to the Russians is without foundation."

The tribunal said there was no truth in the charge the admiralty ignored reports from the Moscow embassy that Vassall was a homosexual or had made Russian contacts in Moscow. It said no such reports were made.

However, the tribunal said the system by which the admiralty selected Vassall for the post of naval attache's clerk in Moscow was inadequate to the needs of the situation and only permitted a superficial check of his general reliability and character.

Laotian issue. Kennedy said Harriman carried a private presidential message to Khrushchev.

MENTIONS ACCORD

While contents of this message were not disclosed, Kennedy emphasized that Khrushchev undertook responsibilities as co-chairman of a Geneva accord to maintain neutrality in Laos and "we would hope that the Soviet Union would make an effort to fulfill its commitments."

If Laos fell to the Communists, he said, this would put additional pressure on Thailand, Cambodia and South Viet Nam "which in itself would put additional pressure on Malaya."

"That is one of the reasons why we are concerned with maintaining the Geneva accords as a method of maintaining stability in Southeast Asia."

From other sources it was learned Kennedy considers Laos a testing ground — to show whether the Kremlin has adopted a tougher policy towards the West. This would force the U.S. to respond with a toughness of its own which would virtually eliminate all hope for a nuclear test ban treaty or other agreements with the Communists.

Kennedy said he has no plans for a summit meeting with Khrushchev and sees no possibility for such a meeting during the next few months unless a nuclear test ban treaty is reached. British and U.S. ambassadors conferred with Khrushchev on Laos in Moscow Wednesday but Kennedy said: "I am not sanguine."

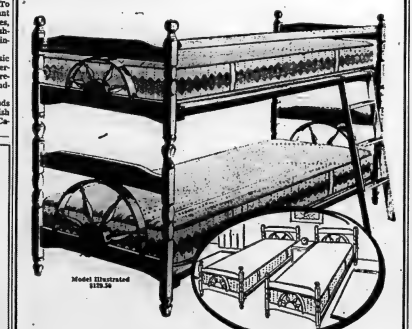
year old.

The transport department decided to experiment with the use of irradiated potatoes as a morale-builder and a method to save money and prevent waste in areas where food transportation costs are high and storage a problem.

Virtually all potatoes shipped to northern communities are in processed instant flaks form.



However, the department says that natural potatoes are prized by cooks and personnel in isolated posts because they can be prepared in many ways and provide variety in menus.

Irradiation of potatoes is in the process of being adopted by the Canadian potato industry. The department is the first branch of the federal government to use the process in its catering operations.

Each year the department has to provide foodstuffs for some 4,000 staff members and their families in remote parts of Canada. It hopes that the irradiation process will make it possible to supply virtually all these people with fresh potatoes in the future.

180 Statements Entered Against Loggers Charged With Unlawful Assembly

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)—Crown Attorney F. A. Calchbick of Timmins was expected to end his case today against 342 loggers charged with unlawful assembly during a violent strike in this northern lumber region.

He indicated this Wednesday after provincial police officers introduced as evidence 180 statements taken from the loggers after three of their fellows were fatally shot when they stormed an independent settlers' camp near here Feb. 11.

Another 60 statements will be presented and the trial, originally expected to end today, may now extend until Saturday to avoid an adjournment.

Magistrate W. S. Gardner seated behind a flimsy card table on the stage of a movie house where the trial is being conducted—threatened to eject the 700 spectators after wife-applause broke out when a policeman failed to identify one of the loggers.

"What do you think this is?" he shouted as the tumult died down. "If there is any more of this stuff everyone but the defendants will be cleared from the courtroom.

WARNS WANDERERS

Magistrate Gardner had earlier warned there would be no repetition of Tuesday's smoking, pop-drinking and wandering by those in the area in session.

Twenty settlers—independent loggers—have been ordered to stand trial on charges of non-capital murder after they repulsed with gunfire the raid on the Val Rita Co-operative at Reesor Siding, 37 miles west of here. The attack eliminated a six-week strike by 1,000 members of the Sawmill and Lumber workers' Union (CLC) against Spruce Falls Power and Paper Company. The purpose of the raid was to prevent a shipment of logs to the Spruce Falls mill.

Magistrate Gardner dismissed an objection by defence counsel John Brooke of Toronto that the statements were incomplete and were obtained by a means of cross-examination.

Police witnesses said that at the time of their arrest the loggers were given a formal warning when the charge was read to them and asked whether they wanted to make a statement.

ASK FIVE QUESTIONS

The men were asked five questions: Where they had been on the night of Feb. 10; whom they were with; how they got to Reesor Siding; if they were injured and who did the shooting.

Although many refused to make statements, most answered the questions. The statements were not signed but consisted of notes in constables' notebooks.

Some of the loggers said the shooting was over before they arrived at the scene; some said they got into cars not knowing where they were going and others said they stopped their cars as spectators and police took their names before they left.

"I received $10 a week from the union. If I did not go to the siding I probably would not have received the money," said a statement by Noel Carriere, 27, of Val Rita.

HAD TO GO

"I had to follow because I had to do something to eat," Dominique Michaud said in statement. "I was on the highway when I heard the gunshots."

Shigeo Ishikawa said he was at Reesor Siding with about four other men when the shooting started.

"I was not particularly interested in going on strike," he said. "There was no vote taken and I don't agree with the trouble from the start."

One man who refused to answer the questions told police: "I don't remember anything. I might have been drunk. I am a heavy drinker."

THE FINAL TOUCH — Rodger Greig, of the Hastings County Historical Society, sets the correct time on a 19th century French clock in the Hastings County Museum exhibit at the Quinte District Home and Sports Show at the Belleville Armouries. It's only a gesture, because the clock doesn't work. About half of the nearly fifty displays prepared for the show were erected last night, in preparation for today's opening.

Truce Team Off to Visit Neutralists

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) — An international truce team left here today for the beleaguered headquarters of Gen. Kong Le's neutralist forces on the Plaine des Jarres in central Laos.

The team, represented the International Control Commission, made the trip despite reports of "considerable opposition" from Poland, one of three nations making up the commission. The other two are India and Canada.

The group consists of Indian, Canadian and Polish officers and interpreters and plans to make daily trips to the airport, the last stronghold still held by the neutralists in the wake of recent advances by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

Commission Chairman Avtar Singh of India said the commission agreed Wednesday night to a request from Prince Souvanna Phouma, neutralist premier, that a "provisional" team should be sent to the key area in central Laos where an uneasy cease-fire has prevailed since Sunday.

Souvanna said in a letter to the commission that he believes the team would help to bring calm on the Plaine des Jarres. It would also give the commission an independent source of information of incidents there.

Some Sources Doubt Adenauer Has Readily Admitted Defeat

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It appears Konrad Adenauer is at least going to keep power in West Germany to Ludwig Erhard but there persists an odd attitude of disbelief in when-I-see-it.

The 87-year-old chancellor—the oldest major political chief in the world—has so long and steadfastly backed Erhard's succession that some sources still doubt he has readily admitted defeat.

It is observed that the change-over would, when the time comes, still involve the resignation of Adenauer, or a vote against him, and election of his successor by the whole Bundestag.

However, Adenauer seems to have accepted with grace the vote of his Christian Democratic party—despite his doubts about the ability of the 66-year-old economics minister—when he said:

"Absolutely nothing, Herr Erhard, stands in the way by my giving you my whole support for the benefit of the German people."

LIKED IN BRITAIN

In Britain, Adenauer has frequently been criticized but newspaper comments on the developments at Bonn show admiration of the old man's character and respect for his political judgment. The Guardian says:

"Whatever one may think of Dr. Adenauer's aims, no one can dispute the toughness and skill with which he has pursued them. . . . Compared with this wily and resourceful politician, Dr. Erhard looks a mere technician — popular with the German people because his technique has delivered the goods, but with no proved ability to withstand the strains of highest office.

"This, more than alleged differences of policy, seems to be the main reason for Dr. Adenauer's low opinion of him."

Few observers in West Germany or elsewhere believe that Adenauer plans to retire from the political scene regardless of the outcome of the current moves.

There has been consistent of two Adenauers—the "morning" chancellor who is full of vigor despite his great age and the "afternoon" chancellor who wilts under the burdens of his job as the day wears on.

FEW OTHER INTERESTS

But German observers stress that Adenauer is essentially a political person—with few other interests—and can be expected to continue using his still-strong political influence in whatever position he finds himself.

It is suggested half-seriously that Sir Winston Churchill, for instance, could fall back on such interests as painting, bricklaying and yachting on having high office. But Adenauer would probably find his greatest enjoyment in haunting his successor.

PRETTY PATTERN — Finishing off decorative concrete blocks used in the Wilson Concrete Products Home and display. Nearly fifty booths will be ready for the official opening of the show tonight.

PUFF PUFF — Bob Hendry finds it's hard work blowing up balloons, when there are hundreds of them to be blown up. The balloons will be given away by a local water softener dealership at the Quinte District Home and Sports Show. The show opens officially at 8 p.m tonight, but early birds can get in at noon.

Visitors Hope To Catch Sight Of Honeymooner

By PATRICIA CLOUGH

BALMORAL, Scotland (Reuters)—Sightseers and sunshine greeted Britain's royal honeymooners here today.

Scores of visitors arrived in the highland village of Ballater hoping to catch a glimpse of Princess Alexandra and her Scots businessman husband Angus Ogilvy if they take a hoped-for stroll around the royal Scottish estate of Balmoral.

The 26-year-old princess, the Queen's cousin, and Ogilvy, 34, arrived here wearily at midnight Wednesday after a plane and car journey from London following their colorful Westminster Abbey wedding.

Despite their late arrival groups of local people waited in the darkness along the route to welcome the newlyweds with lusty cheers. Alexandra and Angus turned in for the night at Birkhall, a 20 - roomed white mansion on the royal estate loaned to them by Queen Mother Elizabeth.

"It has been quite an ordeal," Alexandra told reporters at London airport when the honeymoon journey began. Ogilvy, the second son of the Earl of Airlie, added he reporters "but it has been as tough for you as for us."

HAS LONG TITLE

Alexandra, it was announced, will now be known as Her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra, The Honorable Mrs. Angus. Ogilvy. Many Britons simply call the dark-haired princess "Alex."

It was believed the couple would spend only the first part of their honeymoon in Scotland and then go abroad, probably to a warmer country. The princess was understood to have ordered several outfits of lightweight clothes from her dressmaker.

They brought a big piece of their wedding cake here with them for servants at Birkhall.

Boy Killed Riding Bike On Highway

GOULAI RIVER, Ont. (CP) Garry Cochrane, 12, was killed Wednesday when hit by a car while riding his bicycle on Highway 17 near his home in the community 22 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Provincial police identified the driver of the car as Peter Vardanoff of Sault Ste. Marie. Police said the youth apparently crossed in front of the approaching car.

Corporation Taxes Should Be Eliminated and Profits Taxed Says Accountant

MONTREAL (CP)—In a presentation that clearly fascinated the royal commission on taxation, a company executive offered Wednesday a radical plan for clipping the wings of management and turning over more investment control to average Canadians.

Frank S. Capon, vice-president of Du Pont of Canada Limited and a chartered accountant, appeared before the six-man commission as a private individual "and an average Canadian . . . very much concerned about the future of our country."

Corporation taxes should be eliminated, said Mr. Capon. The accumulated profits of companies should be heavily taxed. More shares should be spread through Canadian households, and those shareholders should have a bigger voice in future investment.

Unless more Canadians were allowed to take part in capital investment "our people will have to rely more and more on socialistic handouts."

HITS AT TAX

He told the commission, headed by Toronto Chartered Accountant Kenneth Carter, that the corporation tax now results in industrial inefficiency, lavish spending and astronomical salaries.

Because firms paid roughly 50 per cent of their incomes to the revenue department, they looked on $1 as being worth 50 cents.

"Expense-account living, including travel, club memberships, company planes and cars, lavish offices and all the other paraphenalia of business life today are based on the premise that the net cost after taxes is insignificant."

Before the hearing started, Mr. Carter said he arose an hour earlier in the morning so he could read the brief a third time. "Every time I read it I find myself more in line with some of your thoughts," he told Mr. Capon.

IT'S 'VICIOUS'

Mr. Capon termed corporation tax "vicious"—tax that hit the consumer, the shareholder and the public at large.

If the tax were eliminated, most of the revenue could be recovered through taxing undistributed profits, and putting a tax on dividends paid to institutions and foreign shareholders —who number about 60 per cent of the total. The 20-per-cent tax credit on dividend income should also be eliminated.

Along with this, he said, the elimination of corporation tax would lower prices and therefore raise the standard of living. Firms would be in a better position to compete in foreign markets and production would increase.

Committee on Economics, Employment in New Cabinet To Be Vital Cog in Govt.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson's new cabinet committee on economics and employment is held its initial meetings Wednesday amid indications it will become a vital cog in the new machinery of government.

It is designed to have far-reaching scope and crucial coordinating body for all government policies and projects affecting domestic and international trade and economics and —related to them — anything that affects the employment situation.

Membership of cabinet committees is not usually announced since decisions flowing from the committees have to be ratified by the whole cabinet before they are implemented as government policy.

Key members of the new body, however, are understood to be Finance Minister Walter Gordon, Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp, Labor Minister Allan J. MacEachen, and Privy Council President Maurice Lamontagne. The first is an accountant and business consultant, the others economists.

Mr. Pearson is chairman but did not attend the initial meetings, convened to canvass the field of the committee's work and set up its machinery.

It will have a secretariat, probably drawn from the Privy Council office which co-ordinates the work of government departments bringing before the full cabinet.

Tom Kent, a special assistant to Mr. Pearson who ran unsuccessfully in the April 8 general election against New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas in Burnaby-Coquitlam, is expected to have a special watching brief on the committee's activities.

With such broad responsibility, observers see the economics and employment committee becoming, in effect, an inner cabinet in the Pearson administration.

Before the election, Mr. Pearson was reported to have been considering proposals to modify the Canadian cabinet structure along the lines of the British practice of having two levels of policy-makers. He rejected the plan, for the time being at least, and all cabinet ministers were sworn in as full members of the administration.

U.S. Can Land Men in Thailand In Few Hours

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters) — Admiral Harry Felt, United States commander in chief in the Pacific, said today that American troops could land in Thailand in a matter of hours.

He was answering reporters' questions on what action the U.S. might take in the event of a new flareup of fighting in neighboring Laos.

Felt said that Marine-carrying vessels of the U.S. 7th fleet were moving around ready for any emergency, but they were not in the Gulf of Thailand as earlier reported.

The admiral said the Laotian situation was "on the front burner of the political stove these days," but he hoped a political solution could be worked out for the troubled kingdom.

In Moscow the Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda attacked the fleet's presence off Thailand.

Its operation, the paper charged, "shows clearly that forcesats of a U.S. aggression in Laos are not without ground."

Complete YMCA Sewing Course

A 10-week sewing course under the direction of Mrs. Jack Glover, came to a close Monday evening at the YMCA.

As part of the "Learning for Living" program of the informal adult education series, the course proved a great success, with fourteen ladies participating.

The ladies began with the fundamentals of sewing through demonstrations and explanations, given by Mrs. Glover, and applied their knowledge by making simpler garments, such as blouses, and working up to skirts and dresses. Some advanced to coats.

The evening concluded with coffee and lunch.

Cottagers Seek Voice in Affairs Of Communities

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto lawyer L. Grieve Robinson said Tuesday night the reason for forming a provincial organization of summer cottagers is a question of no taxation without representation.

It is shocking that this principle can still be the basis of the cottagers' fight, he told about 60 cottagers' associations at the meeting of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations.

Formation of Cottagers' associations has grown out of attempts in recent years by cottagers to seek a voice in the affairs of the communities and townships where they own summer homes.

Cottagers sought places last fall on several local councils.

Mr. Robinson was elected a vice-president of the new group, along with Kenneth Mitchell and Donald Pyper. David Harcourt was named treasurer and Norman Marriott, secretary.

Albert Hoad, who was elected president, said cottagers require a voice on the provincial level as much as on the municipal level.

TO TALK IT OUT

"It might be a good idea if the province called a meeting of representatives of both cottagers and local councils to talk out their problems," he said.

Mr. Robinson said cottagers feel rural councils pay too little attention to them in relation to the sometimes substantial contribution they make to the municipality's economy.

Mr. Hoad said it is a promising sign that animosity disappears when cottagers and local residents of rural communities are elected to serve on the same council.

The federation's constitution adopted Tuesday night calls for the cottagers to have an interest in conservation, planning, protection of water resources and recreational safety.

LONDON (CP) — Spring is in the air and moves are afoot to provide the lone pelican in St. James' Park with a mate. Member of parliament Tony Stodart has asked the works ministry to obtain a female pelican in order to start a family.

Ann Landers

Wife's Hostility to Baby Sign of Mental Illness

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I cannot discuss this problem with anyone else because I'm ashamed to admit the situation exists.

We have a two-year-old boy and a four month-old daughter. My wife adores the boy and keeps him immaculate. She is always cuddling him or playing with him. She brags about him to friends and relatives and it's plain to see she worships the little guy.

My wife ignores our little girl completely. The child is often lying in soiled clothing when I come home. She cries all the time. I sometimes wonder if she has been fed. The child has a rash on her legs which the doctor says is from neglect. My wife keeps "forgetting" to get the medicine he prescribes. I finally went out and got it myself.

I'm afraid my wife dislikes the child and is not caring for her properly. Is it possible for a mother to feel this way? Please give me some help. I am deeply concerned—J. L.

DEAR J. F.—Your wife's attitude toward the little girl is indeed "unnatural." It is sick. Her resentment against the child is a transference of hostility and anger which is rooted elsewhere.

Your wife needs professional help at once and I hope you will see that she gets it. Very young children must have love and affection. They can be permanently scarred if they are not given emotional support.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I know you will never print this because it's easy to see what side you are on.

Why did you publish all those letters about "Old Gaffers" making it appear as if they are the dangerous drivers—a threat to life and limb?

Anyone who has an ounce of sense knows the teenage punks are the guilty ones. This is why insurance rates are sky high for drivers under 23.

A recent survey showed that seven out of ten boys between 16 and 25 years of age have been involved in a major accident. Only two out of ten old gaffers had been in wrecks.

I'd risk my neck any day with a 72 year old gaffer before I'd ride with a 17-year-old punk who has to rev up a piece of junk just to get the thrill of speeding.

Too bad this letter will go into your wastebasket instead of in the newspaper where it belongs—MILLION MILE GAFFER WITH NO WRECK.

DEAR NO WRECK—You drive a lot better than you read, dad. I made it clear the "Old Gaffers" letters were expressions from readers and did not reflect my point of view.

Every survey I have seen proves that drivers under 25 years of age are far more dangerous than the senior citizens.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What to Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Batawa

BATAWA—All Batawa Organizations will be included in the vast Department of Forestry Tree planting on April 27th.

BUYS PAINTING

LONDON (Reuters) — Francis Taylor, father of screen star Elizabeth Taylor, today paid $437,000 for Van Gogh's painting View of the Chapel of St. Remy at a sale of 12 French impressionists which brought $892,600 at Sotheby's auction rooms.

ART PAYS OFF — Art is paying off for scores of Eskimos who have given up hunting and fishing and turned to stone carving and other handicrafts for a livelihood. Among them are Lukta and Ejuvudluk, shown pulling a print from a stone block at the Cape Dorset co-operative, one of 16 stores established by Eskimos in the Northwest Territories. ## Eskimos Mean Business In Their Tourist Plans

By STEWART MacLEOD

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — The visitor from the south, eagerly eyeing all the Eskimo carvings in the little retail outlet, selected a fine carved head and asked the Eskimo proprietor the price.

The Eskimo pulled out a nifty little calculating wheel, pointed the arrow to the appropriate "margin of profit," and casually announced it was $280.

The visitor shrank back and slid over to the parka rack to view the models worn by virtually every Eskimo youngster in the community. He picked one up and asked the price.

Out came the "margin of profit wheel" that quickly arrived at $47.50.

"Well how about those tiny, toy baby mukluks?" asked the visitor, pointing to the two-inch gobs of fur.

"Those are $3.80," said the Eskimo with the wheel.

"These prices are just as high as they are down south," said the surprised visitor.

READY SALE

"Just about," replied the Eskimo with a mighty grin. Then he went on to explain how visitors from the south are always determined to return with Eskimo handicrafts and therefore there is no problem selling the stuff up here.

However, he thought Toronto prices were a shade higher.

In his 20-foot-long shop, operated as part of the local rehabilitation centre, the Eskimo carries a $30,000 stock of local handicraft. He says sales usually total $1,000 a month.

Transients are the biggest customers, followed by servicemen and government employees in the area. The Eskimos don't buy much.

"Well, what about all those $47.50 parkas the kids are wearing around here?" the visitor asked.

"Oh, they make those. They don't cost very much."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Golf opened the wide door of opportunity to a handsome broad-shouldered youngster today. It could be the "turning of the tide in the affairs of this young man which if it floods could lead on to fortune."

Gary Bowerman, 22 next month, left yesterday for Toronto on the first step of a stairway of events that could result in a lucrative career in the sport he loves so well.

GARY BOWERMAN

The blonde son of Steve and Joy Bowerman, who, to quote his closest golf associates here, "mentioned nothing but manhood practically overnight", climaxes nine years of life on the links with a position with the Toronto Islington Golf and Country Club.

Gary starts his professional "apprenticeship" under tough former Scottish pro Les Franks, rated as one of the best teachers in Canada, who is the problem-solver for such Canadian pros as Balding, Johnson, Leonard, et al.

Young Mr. Bowerman steps on the bottom rung of the pro golfer ladder with three assets: potential, confidence not approaching cockiness, and humility. "I'm starting at the bottom," he said in an interview, "and I realize it is not going to be easy. I am very hopeful of making the most of every opportunity given me."

He will meet lots of people at the 700-member Islington Club. He will be mingling with golfers, fixing clubs, learning care of equipment and the course, etc., for six days a week in his freshman year.

Gary says he would like to become a touring pro some day but feels that his new post opens the doors to opportunities to become a touring pro; a club professional and business openings through contacts with the right people.

Shift work will give him the opportunity to practice golf almost every day. Weekends will see him busy, but he says assistants get a day off a week and play at different district courses.

He does not think he will have to relinquish his amateur standing this year, nor does he know if he will have any chance in tournament play. He would, he said, like to play in the Ontario Amateur this year, stated, I believe, for Kingston.

The young golfer who flashed his potential with a brilliant "overnight" course-shattering 66 and duplicated it not a few times later on his home course at Quinte, has studied all the angles that could affect his future.

He learned "business," he said from his selling experience at Meagher's Men's Wear. Game-wise he has studied the play of the masters, but believes in developing his own style of play.

"I owe a great deal to the Bay of Quinte club professional George Balazs, who has helped me tremendously on the links and who assisted me with obtaining my new position—and to my parents who have made it possible for me to play and follow up golf," he said.

Gary got off on the right foot on the Bay of Quinte links this spring (?) shooting a 70, two 71's and a 72. Once while playing with George Balzs and Val Smith his card read "70L". He didn't know that they had slipped an extra putter in his bag which called for a penalty. They told him about it at the 15th hole. Purely a gag on their part, he said.

After a summer's work at Islington, Gary hopes to go to Florida, where if luck holds out, he may find a golfing position for the winter months.

This is only part of his resolution to succeed. He has all the requisites of a good professional golfer. He is tall, well-built, blessed with good looks and golfing ability.

Better still, he has the determination to succeed; the willingness to start at the bottom and the realization that a long, tough trail looms ahead, roadblocked with headaches, perhaps a few heartaches, but ending in the clubhouse of success.

I have an idea it will not be too long before the golfing world will be hearing from this ambitious youngster, who stands on the threshold of a fine sports career and realizes that ultimate success will be achieved mainly through his own effort.

Canada 2nd Place In Medal Standing

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) Robert Osborne of Vancouver, general manager of Canada's 194 - member Pan - American Games team, is a staunch advocate of spreading goodwill through sports.

Osborne, director of the school of physical education at the University of British Columbia, couldn't have been more delighted with his U.S. neighbors than over what is happening at the diving championships at the Palmeiras Club here.

Shortly after Tom Dinsley of Vancouver upset the form charts Wednesday and won the three-metre springboard diving title and then Judy Stewart from the Toronto suburb of West Hill finished a surprising second in the women's competition, the pair began practising their platform dives—under the eye of United States coaches.

To hold down expenses, the Canadians didn't bring a diving coach. But Pat Clapp of Milpitas Dooley and Miss Stewart have been getting from U.S. coaches Jack Roth and Fred Orlando helped them to their gold and silver springboard medals.

Dinsley's gold award was the first of the Games for Canada and it broke the U.S. monopoly in swimming and diving. The Americans have won four swimming championships so far and the women's springboard title.

MOVES INTO SECOND

Canada moved into second place in the unofficial medal standings with one gold, five second-place silver and three third-place bronze.

The Canadian team won two silver medals in shooting Wednesday, a silver in wrestling and a bronze in weightlifting.

U.S. men and women added nine more gold medals during the fifth day of the Games Wednesday for a total of 19 out of the 27 awarded to date.

Dinsley and Miss Stewart face a tough field of champions in the spectacular diving off the 10-metre (33-foot) tower that is scheduled for the weekend.

Dinsley, 22, an accountancy student at the University of Indiana who admits he usually blows at least one dive in pressure competition, didn't Wednesday.

In just about the closest possible finish, the Canadian nosed out Dick Gilbert, the U.S. champion and Dinsley's teammate at Indiana, at a decimal—154.40 points to 154.17. Ken Sitzberger, 18, an American high school senior headed for Indiana in the fall, won the bronze medal with 148.93.

CAPTURES GOLD MEDAL

In the women's springboard, Barbara McAlister, the U.S. champion, captured the gold medal with 164.31 points. Miss Stewart, a 98-pound tyrpist who finished 10th in the U.S. nationals, scored another upset by taking second with 135.13 points to 131.00 for the bronze winner, U.S. Olympic star Patsy Willard.

Dinsley, a native of Regina, said the win was "the greatest experience of my life."

"I knew I had to get it with my big one—the 3½ somersault on my fourth dive—and that was the one that won it. It was wonderful to hear that tune (O Canada) after I won it. Tears came to my eyes."

It was the same high point dive—the 3½ somersault—that cost Gilbert the crown.

"I blew it," he admitted.

Dinsley earned 20.25 points for his breath-takingwhirl while Gilbert only collected 18.63.

That did it although the American coiseored Dinsley on the final dive.'

MARKSMEN DO WELL

Canadian marksmen picked up their second and third silver medals of the Games, trailing second behind the United States in the team pistol and small-bore rifle competition.

Gary McMahon of Dartmouth, N.S., paced the Canadians in the team free pistol shooting as the U.S. outscored them 3,170 points to 2,146.

Tuesday, McMahon was the individual silver medallist, losing by a point to the winner, U.S. Army Capt. Franklin Green.

In the small-bore rifle three-position event, U.S. Army Sgt. Gary L. Andersen scored 1,167 points to grab the individual title and the Americans won the team crown with a total of 3,520 points to Canada's 4,321.

Clint Dahlstrom of Calgary finished sixth individually with 1,096 points.

U.S. wrestlers won three gold medals and figure to sweep all eight classes. Featherweight Ron Finley, middleweight Jim Ferguson and light heavyweight Jack Spates were the new champions.

Matti Jutila, 31, a Sudbury, Ont., carpenter, won the silver medal in the featherweight class.

Break Egg With 3-1 Win

Maroons Spoil Dogs '4-In-Row'

By JIM McKAY
Canadian Press Correspondent

WINDSOR (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons, revelling in the role of the underdog, prolonged the 1963 Allen Cup finals to at least a fifth game here Wednesday night when they handed Windsor Bulldogs a 3-1 defeat.

The Bulldogs and a sellout crowd of 8,110 were primed for their first Canadian hockey title in the city's history after winning the first three games, but the Maroons refused to co-operate.

Led by a sparkling display by 21-year-old goaltender Don Collins, the Maroons set a goalless period pace to win their first game in the best-of-seven series for the Canadian senior hockey title.

Chuck Lumsden, Shorty Melnechuck and Lloyd Orrin were the Winnipeg scorers and the only Windsor reply was from Real Chevrefils.

"Stranger things have happened," said Winnipeg coach Bill Juzda when asked about the possibility of his club winning four in a row.

"It could be 3-3 right now," said the stubby playing coach who sat out the last two games with a groin injury. "This club is never out when it's down. They like to be the underdog, makes them work that much harder."

IS DISAPPOINTED

Windsor coach Harry Watson, while slightly disappointed, was non-committal about it all.

"What the heck, that team (Winnipeg) is much too good to bow out in four straight games. The Maroons were overdue to win one. I'm just thankful we won the first three," Watson said.

Lumsden opened the scoring after five minutes of play. He skated from his own zone and shot a high backhander that caught a top corner.

Bulldogs got it back at 16:06. Collins made a fine save when Chevrefils tipped a long drive by Jack Costello but Chevrefils took another stab at it and the puck rolled off Collins' arm just over the goal line.

In the second period there was no breakthrough until the last minute. This was another fluke goal.

During a wild scramble in the Windsor crease Melanchuk saw the puck lying loose and skated in quickly from his defence position to slam it home.

The teams were both shorthanded in the final period when Orrin got the clincher. He found a loose puck in the centre alol.

Reds Ousted In Balk Rhubarb

Whole Team Gets Gate

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim Owens took a pause that didn't refresh, then took a shower that had the same effect. Fred Hutchinson conducted a 17-minute balkyard in with himself while John Tistouris took the longest warmup in baseball history. And all because Shag Crawford said a four - letter word—BALK.

The word touched off the biggest on-the-field dispute of the season over the new game of balkball as played in Warren Giles' National League, overshadowing a fine three - hitter pitched by Johnny Podres in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 7 - 0 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night.

The balk calls that have continually disrupted games under the new strict enforcement of the rule requiring a pitcher to stop for a full second before delivering interrupted play for about 30 minutes during the second inning of the Dodgers-Reds game.

The explosion came after plate umpire Crawford, a member of the now famous Augie Donatelli umpiring team, called two balks on Reds' starter Jim Owens, enabling Johnny Roseboro to move from first to third then scored on a single by Willie Davis.

PAUSE DIDN'T PLEASE

Then, pitching to Podres, Owens twice paused unusually long before throwing to the plate. Crawford signaled a warning. Owens stretched and fired. Crawford yelled balk. Owens yelled something else, and towels and players popped out of the Cincinnati dugout. Owens was ejected.

Donatelli, whose umpiring team has called 32 of the 67 balks enforced in the NL, then sent the entire Reds team, with the exception of relief pitcher Tsitouris and catcher Johnny Edwards, to the dressing room. Hutchinson talked and talked, and Tsitouris warmed up endlessly.

When Hutch had finished his dissertation and Tsitouris had pitched about the equivalent of three innings, the Reds players were called back on the field and the game resumed.

Podres needed little aid, but got it from the balks—one on Tistouris in the seventh inning sent Nate Oliver home from third—and home runs by Roseboro, Ron Fairly and Frank Howard. Podres also was charged with one balk.

SOME PLAYED BALL

In baseball, meanwhile, St. Louis Cardinals continued to get key base hits from trade acquisitions Dick Groat and George Altman, edged San Francisco Giants 4-3 and moved into sole possession of first place.

Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Philadelphia Phillies 6-4, Milwaukee Braves edged Houston Colts 4-3 and New York Mets shut out Chicago Cubs 2-0.

The Cardinals, shut out on one hit by Billy Pierce for five innings, erupted for four runs in the sixth with key hits supplied by Groat, a former Pirate hitting .373, and Altman, a former Cub hitting .375.

Rookie third baseman Bob Bailey hit a three-run homer in the fourth inning and Roberto Clemente drove in the winning runs with a seventh inning double for the Pirates. The Phillies had tied the score in the fifth on Wes Covington's two - run homer off Bob Friend, now 3-0.

Home runs by Eddie Mathews and Mack Jones gave Warren Spahn the support he needed to go all the way against the Colts for the 330th triumph of his career. Spahn allowed seven hits, including a homer by Carl Warwick.

Carl Willey, acquired from the Braves, held the Cubs to three hits for his first victory and rookie Ron Hunt hit his first major league homer as the Mets posted their fifth victory in six games.

Chisox Whip Yanks; Kaline's Homer Wins For Tigers

KC's Blank Birds, Barge Into Loop Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Orlando Pena, a refugee from the other world of the National League, and the little green men have taken over.

Pena, a skinny, 155-pounder who once worked for Cincinnati Reds, blanked Baltimore Orioles 5-0 as he and his gaudily attired Kansas City teammates barged into first place in the American League Wednesday night.

The Athletics, whose position atop the league is even more eye - popping than the bright green and gold uniforms they came out with this year, took a half-game lead over Chicago White Sox and Baltimore.

The White Sox retained second place, just seven points back of the leaders, on the strength of a 6-4, 12-inning triumph over the Yankees in New York. Al Kaline's 18th inning homer was the difference in the Tigers' 4 - 3 squeaker over Los Angeles Angeles at Detroit. Minnesota's Camilo Pascual won his first of the year in the Twins' 6-4 victory at Washington, and the Indians beat Boston Red Sox 3 - 0 at Cleveland.

Right - hander Pena spent three seasons with Cincinnati, then drifted down to the minors before moving up to Kansas City in mid-season from Toronto last year.

DECISION IN 9TH

He had to work out of three late-inning jams to preserve the shutout, and didn't have the victory nailed down until the Athletics broke loose for four runs in the ninth. Pena was rapped for 10 hits, but the Orioles left 10 runners stranded and had two others thrown out at the plate in the sixth inning.

Wayne Causey singled in the decisive run in the seventh against loser Mike McCormick. Mike Hershberger singled in two White Sox runs in the 12th at New York. Knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm picked up the victory, allowing only one hit in 3 1-3 innings of relief, but the Yanks tied it in the ninth when one of his deliveries got away from the catcher.

Kaline tied it for the Tigers when he doubled in two seventh inning runs, then won it with his wrong-field drive in the 15th. The Tigers and Angels matched 12th inning runs in the 47-degree weather. A crowd of only 1,575 was on hand.

Pascual, a 20 - game winner with the Twins last season, struck out 12 en route to his first 1963 victory. The Twins staked him to an early 5-0 lead, but he had to stand off a Senator rally in the fifth.

Gary Bell, making his first start since last July, and Jim (Mudcat) Grant combined on a four-hit shutout of Boston. Bell struck out 10 before he tired in the ninth and walked two. Woodie Held provvided the Indians all the hitting they need with a two-run homer in the fifth off loser Earl Wilson.

Celtics Win Hoop Title From Lakers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Boston Celtics won their fifth consecutive National Basketball Association title Wednesday night, beating Los Angeles Lakers 113-109 in the sixth game of the championship best - of - seven playoff before a crowd of 15,521 in the Sports Arena.

The Lakers winning the series 4-2, outscored Boston in the first period Wednesday night but the Celtics' defensive ace, big Bill Russell, wrecked the Los Angeles attack in the second period.

With Russell blocking shots and grabbing rebounds, the Celtics outscored Los Angeles in the quarter 33-17 and never were headed thereafter.

WIN WITH 10 MEN

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuters) — London's Tottenham Hotspur overcame the handicap of playing with 10 men for the last 35 minutes to beat OFK Belgrade 3-1 in the first leg of their European Cup - Winners Cup semi-final here Wednesday night.

Frontenacs Put Five On All-Stars

OTTAWA (CP) — Kingston Frontenacs, winners of both the regular season and playoff championships in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, have swept five places on the all-star team. The only other member is from St. Louis Braves.

League headquarters said today all but one member of the team was chosen unanimously in a poll of sports writers and broadcasters in league cities.

Hull-Ottawa Canadiens placed four players on the second all-star team, with centre Murray Hall of St. Louis and left winger Marc Dufour of Sudbury Wolves being the only outsiders.

Members of the first team from Kingston are goalie Bruce Gamble, defencemen Harry Sinden and Pat Stapleton, centre Jeannot Gilbert and left winger Don Blackburn.

Rookie Alain Caron of St. Louis was a unanimous choice for the first team at right wing. Caron established a goal-scoring record with 41 goals in 54 regular season games.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Louis Ruby's Batting Way, disqualified winner of last year's Quebec Derby, produced a strenuous stretch drive to outdose 5 favored Hellenic Stable's All Canadian in the featured Golden Garden Club Purse at Fort Erie Wednesday.

Confidence Man, owned by John Knox of Buffalo and Dave Mann of Toronto, finished third. Harlon Dalton rode Ruby's four - year - old filly, which trilled the crowd of 4,981 with her impressive closing rush. Batting Way, Dalton's second winner of the afternoon, returned $13.70 to her supporters. Irish-born Sam McComb won both ends of the daily double, bringing in Maurice Trusler's Peter Wrack in the second event. The double, Nos. 7 and 10, returned $129.70. Devon's Pet won the first.

The quinella event was the sixth race, where the favored Balaklair outran Willie Morris-ey's Tiny Fruit in the stretch to return $33.30 for the forecast wagering.

CANADIANS WIN DIVING MEDALS — Canada's Judy Stewart and Tom Dinsley show medals they won in their three-meter springboard diving events at Pan-American Games in Sao Paulo, Brazil, today. Dinsley won his event and Judy took second in hers. (CP Wirephoto via radio from Sao Paulo)

Wasn't Fooling Over Million For Big M

'Boxing Is Out' Says Norris 'But Hockey'

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP)—The big man sat down in a plush chair, behind an expensive desk. His deep tan blended well with the walnut paneled wall.

"Boxing? I won't talk about it," said Jim Norris, a multi-millionaire who a few years ago was baron of the sport.

Norris was soothing the wounds of a major disappointment. His beloved Chicago Black Hawks were knocked out of the Stanley Cup playoffs by Detroit in the semi-finals.

Being eliminated in the playoffs after failing to win what would have been their first National Hockey League title was a major disaster to Norris.

Hockey was his subject. And Big Jim Stuck to it.

"Let's face it," said the 57-year-old Norris, who is also prominent in thoroughbred racing, "I'm not getting any younger. There might not be many more chances. We were in first place for three months. Then we failed to win the title. Then we get knocked out by Detroit, a club which finished behind us."

POUR IN MONEY

Norris and his partner Arthur Wirtz have poured more than $2,000,000 into the Chicago hockey franchise, converting the Black Hawks from perennial losers into title contenders. But don't feel sorry for them parting with all that money. They've been drawing capacity and near - capacity crowds into Chicago Stadium in recent seasons.

"If it weren't for hockey," said Norris, "this stadium would probably be a garage now. We used to have rodeos, the circus, bike races and boxing. But those days are gone. Hockey keeps this building going."

Before Norris said "and boxing," he drew a deep breath.

"Look, let's forget about boxing. I've never been a popoff and I don't want to start now. You can only get burned once. I've been cleared of all accusations. I simply have no further interest in boxing."

Four years ago the United States Supreme Court forced the breakup of Norris's International Boxing Club. A year later Norris dissolved National Boxing Enterprizes, putting an end to his career as a boxing promoter.

Norris suffered coronary attacks while knee deep in legal entanglements. He then turned his energy to hockey—his first love.

NOTHING LIKE WINNING

"There's nothing like winning a hockey game," said Norris. "I like baseball and never miss a Chicago Bears football game but I was born in hockey. I've been a member of the league's (NHL) board of governors since 1931. That's a long time."

Money has never been a problem for Norris, a fast man with a buck. He likes to make it but is also willing to spend it. Last fall he offered $1,000,000 for Toronto Maple Leaf star Frank Mahovlich. He thought he had the deal completed but the Leafs' board of directors finally turned it down.

"I was sincere," chuckled Norris. "It wasn't a smart move financially because it wouldn't help out in a tax situation and the Toronto club would be in trouble with its fans."

"But if they would have made it, I would have put a competitor out of the way. It would have demoralized the team. Since they finished first, a game ahead of us, we probably would have won the championship. That alone would be worth a million dollars."

"Boxing? Forget about it."

New Zealand, British and West Indies interests are cooperating in establishing a milk processing plant in Barbados.

Memorial Cup Dates Announced

EDMONTON (CP) — Final dates for the Memorial Cup Canadian Junior Hockey championship series were announced Wednesday by Art Potter of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The best-of-seven series will start May 2 in either Brandon or Edmonton.

Should Edmonton Oil-Kings represent the West in the series the remaining game will be played in Edmonton May 4, 6, 7, and if necessary, May 9, 11 and 13.

In the event Brandon Wheat Kings represent the west remaining games will be played in Brandon May 4, 6, 8, and if necessary, May 10, 11 and 13.

The Oil Kings currently lead the Wheat Kings 3-1 in a best-of-seven series for the Western title. In the east, Niagara Falls Flyers lead Espanola Eagles 3-0 in a best-of-seven series.

Maury Wills "Going Straight"

Former Blue Bomber

Charges "Blacklisting"

WINNIPEG (CP) — Football player Al Ackland said Wednesday he's convinced Canadian clubs have blacklisted him.

The 23-year-old lineman said in a telephone interview that two Western Conference clubs he approached about playing gave him the cold shoulder.

"They're closing ranks and I'm being blacklisted," he said.

The charge was denied by Canadian Football League Commissioner Sydney Haller who said "there certainly is not" such a thing as a blacklist.

Ackland said he can't get football employment because of a lawsuit he brought against the Winnipeg Blue Bombers last winter.

He claimed the Bombers, 1962 Canadian champions, prevented him from making a living by placing him on their intermediate protected list.

SAVE HIM RELEASE

Ackland said the Bombers finally gave him his release after he launched the suit.

"If too many kids get away with what I'm trying to do, it's going to break the control they (the clubs) have over Canadian ballplayers," he said.

Ackland said he was placed on the protected list in November, 1961, and his two-year stint would normally have ended in November this year.

He attended Humber training camps for the last two seasons, but failed to make the team and played with the intermediate Elmwood Colts without pay.

Other clubs cannot negotiate with players on the protected list. Each team is allowed 12.

IS GOOD ENOUGH

Ackland, six-three and 215 pounds, said he thinks he's good enough to catch on with some club.

"Edmonton Eskimos contacted me two years ago and wanted me to try out," he said. "I'm not conceited. But I think I'm capable of playing professional ball."

Ackland said he's quit two regular jobs to attend Humber training camps. Jobless now, he said his unemployment record makes it difficult for him to get another.

Ackland offered to play with any Canadian club this year for expenses only.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Little Maury Wills, who stole a record - shattering 104 bases last season, has yet to steal his first one this year.

Last year's most valuable player in the National League is not getting panicky, nor is he offering any alibis.

But he did say Wednesday that he is still cautious about an ankle he sprained when Los Angeles Dodgers opened season play at Chicago.

"And I am having a little trouble getting a good start and pivoting," the Dodger shortstop added.

You won't hear it from Wills, but other ball players can offer part of an explanation.

Dodger Stadium's new infield is softer and much slower than last year, where Wills copped 61 of his bases.

The stadium, and the new crushed rock infield, are the pride and joy of Walter O'Malley, the Dodger owner and boss.

There are other factors, however, why Wills has no stolen bases as against the four he had at this same date in 1962. For one, he missed six games after a collision with Chicago's Dick Bartill at home plate when the ankle was hurt.

He has been on base just 13 times thus far, and been caught trying to steal just once.

Wills has no complaints about the aching legs he suffered last year—the legs he revealed recently were "cured" when hypnotist Arthur Ellis "mind-talked" him out of such imaginary ailments.

Trans-Canada Rally

Milwaukee Pair Leads

By BRUCE LEVETT

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Drivers competing in the 4,000-mile Trans-Canada Rally met a grim sight Wednesday night as they pulled into the Sault after 900 miles twisting from Winnipeg.

Rally cars were waved slowly around the blanket - covered body of a youth who had been hit and killed on Highway 17 north, 22 miles from here.

None of the rally cars was involved in the accident.

"It was a pretty grim sight," said Dick Doyen of Milwaukee.

Doyen, with co-driver Clay Gibbs in a Chevy II, is leading the event.

All the cars made it to the Sault but preliminary results showed that early standings had been shuffled.

The Peugeot 404 of Toronto's Frank Curran and Ron Carney picked up a 10-point penalty to drop far down the list from the second-place tie they had held at the beginning of the day.

The Ford Falcon Sprint of Paul Maclennan and Art Dempsey, both of Toronto, moved into second.

Another Falcon, that of George Merson and John Wilson of Toronto, is in third place.

HITS A DEER

The Maclennan-Dempsey car came in with a dented right front fender and door, and broken outside mirror and windshield, suffered when they hit a deer on a road approaching the Ontario border.

"We backed up and got out but the deer just got up and ran away," Maclennan said. "There were tufts of deer hair embedded in his door handle.

It was a night of feverish activity as the cars pulled in.

Four mechanics leaped on the Sault Volkwagen of Jim Calion and Glenn Ferguson, who had driven here from Fort William on three cylinders. Eight minutes and 45 seconds later, a new engine had been installed and was running.

The Falcon Sprint of Bill Silvera and Lloyd Howell of Toronto picked up 14 penalty points and fell far down the list after missing a turn when their maps disagreed with the official route book.

The same corner cost the Ottawa Peugeot Herker and Quick 21 points. They also lost time with a blown tire.

Slim Crowd Sees Leafs Win Opener

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In these days of 10-team leagues and expanding schedules, baseball arrives in the smaller cities of the International League hard on the heels of the first robin. In fact, if they push the opening day much earlier, the robin is apt to be the only occupant of the stands.

A shivering crowd of 5,167—smallest in living memory—appeared in Toronto to watch the Maple Leafs clobber Jacksonville Suns 9-1 Wednesday. In 40-degree weather at Syracuse 4,101 brave souls suffered as the Chiefs blew a 5-2 decision to Atlanta Crackers in the 17th inning.

At Rochester a substantial crowd of 10,136 saw the Red Wings take a 17-5 lacing from Arkansas Travelers. Buffalo Bisons got three-hit pitching from Babe Birrer at Columbus as they blanked the Jets 9-0 and Indianapolis Indians topped Richmond Virginians 5-3.

The Leafs, whose opening-day attendance has declined steadily since the 1953 record of 20,202, got four-hit pitching from Steve Ridzik and a grand-slam homer from Pepper Thomas as they routed Ruben Gomez, 8-0 with the Suns last year, before he got a man out in the first inning.

PALMER TRIES FOR FOUR

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Arnold Palmer leads a field of 144 into the $30,000 Texas Open today, best on winning it for the fourth year in a row so he can make golf history. It's the tournament that has become known as the Palmer Benefit and, to further emphasize it, tournament officials have decided this year's event is him. If Palmer wins this time, and he is favored to do so, he will set a record—no player ever won one Professional Golfers Association tournament on the tour so many times in succession.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

- MARIS IS LAME

'Great Escape' Another Top War-Prison Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What is The Great Escape.

It is a movie of high adventure and that is the best kind of entertainment the motion picture can offer. When you can be engrossed for two to three hours in the life-or-death struggle of human beings, you can't ask for much more from your theatre admission.

there about wartime prisons that makes such good movies?

First came Stalag 17, then Bridge on the River Kwai. Now the Mirisch company is presenting another of its quality films.

The Great Escape Is based on Paul Brickhill's true story of the almost superhuman efforts of 600 British and American air forces officers to harass their German captors by a mass outbreak. They struggled for a year, digging three tunnels 30 feet into the earth to escape sound detection, then hundreds of feet laterally to pass the prison barriers.

WAS SUCCESSFUL

The logistics of the feat required the utmost of human ingenuity—forging of passes and identification cards, tailoring of clothes for disguise, scrounging wood to shore the tunnels, disposing of the removed earth, etc. All this was accomplished and the escape was a success, at least in its purpose of bedevilling German effort away from prosecution of the war.

John Sturges was an ideal choice for producer-director of The Great Escape. He has demonstrated with films like Bad Day at Black Rock, Gunfight at O.K. Corral and Magnificent Seven his skill at manipulating large, predominantly male casts in complex plot patterns.

The acting, like the escape, is a group effort. Each of the major performers is allowed his moments, but none outshines the others.

The American contingent is headed by two emigres from television, Steven McQueen and James Garner. The Britons, led by Richard Attenborough, James Donald and Donald Pleasance, perform with utter competence and not a trace of the stiff upper lip.

TV—Radio Column

Comedy Will Be King Of Channels Next Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The executives of network television and advertisers obviously believe that, more than anything else, audiences like to laugh.

The final nails are being driven into the structures of next season's schedules and, once again, comedy is king of the channels.

Of 86 prime - time evening shows next fall, 36 fall into the comedy category.

The second most popular category will be dramatic anthology. There will be 17, an increase over this season, so they may be said to be trend. There will be 15 variety shows, weekly and semi-weekly.

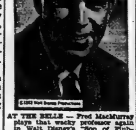
It promises to be a lean year for horse opera—seven remain, two of which will be 90-minute shows.

Apparently the brave efforts of the three networks to schedule news and actuality programs in prime - time slots haven't worked out too well.

Sole survivors next season will be CBS Reports and some once-in-a - while Chet Huntley and David Brinkley specials, specials, spotted in a late Wednesday evening hour also occasionally occupied by the Telephone Hour and Andy Williams.

NBC used a Candid Camera trick to sneak some forbidden pictures of legal slot machines in its The Business of Gambling to air Sunday.

Grist-for-the - medical - mill: The May 23 episode of CBS' The Nurses uses the thalidomide pill tragedy as the headline theme for its dreams, and goes on to extract plot and pedal from the birth of a deformed baby, altogether a chilling subject.



Why don't the medical shows ever go in for common unalarming ailments, like head-colds, poison ivy and upset stomach? Or would that invade the territory of the surrounding commercials?

Recommended tonight:

The Voices of Charlie Post, ABC, 10-11 EST—repeat of one of the anthology series' better efforts.

AT THE PARK — Elvis Presley stars in the color by deluxe screen hit "KM Galahad", opening tonight at the Park Theatre for a three day engagement. On the same program the biggest, brightest, boisterous, musical comedy of the year in Technicolor and Cinemascope "Summer Holiday" starring Cliff Richard and having its first Belleville showing. Complete show starts at 7.15 p.m. "Kid Galahad" at 7.50 p.m. and "Summer Holiday" at 9.40 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Fred MacMurray plays that wacky professor again in Walt Disney's "Son of Flubber", also starring Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk. Filled with fun, and loaded with laughs, "Son of Flubber" is showing tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

National League Prexy Suggests Change

Balk Epidemic May Swan-Song New Rule

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The end of the balk is happily appeared near Wednesday. Admittedly baffled by the epidemic of balks President Warren Giles of the National League indicated he is almost ready to suggest a liberalization of the controversial one-second balk rule.

The vigilance of National League umpires in following the rule book has resulted in a situation where balks have been called in the National League and only two in the American. One crew of umpires, headed by Augie Donatelli, has called 27 of the violations.

Giles told The Associated Press by phone from his Cincinnati office that he is "studying the matter, getting statistics, making some inquiries of pitching coaches and other people and trying to come up with a satisfactory solution."

Asked what he might recommend, Giles said:

"If the balk rule had not been enforced as rigidly in the past in our league as it is now and if the American League is not enforcing it to the letter as our umpires now are, a liberalization of the rule would appear desirable."

RULE IS CLR

The rule is clear. One of the many ways in which a balk can be called is if "the pitcher delivers the pitch from set position—one of two legal pitching positions—without coming to a stop of one full second." This rule has been in the book since 1950. Obviously it never has been noticed as the National League is enforcing it this year.

Giles suggested two things that might have caused an increase in balks:

1. The change in the balk rule because of the unique delivery of Cincinnati's Joey Jay might have focused attention on the old one-second stop rule and

2. The increased emphasis on stopping leaping runners on a base because of Maury Wills' base-stealing last year.

"If some that would not explain the proportion between our league and the American. . . after I complete my study I will try to get things back on an even keel."

Commissioner Ford Frick has remained on the sidelines in this controversy which has provoked acid comments from several National League managers.

"It's getting to be a joke," said Casey Stengel of the Mets Monday night in Philadelphia. "Right or wrong, it's louning up the game."

Game Short Of Title

Oil Kings Edge Brandon

BRANDON (CP) — Western Canada's Memorial Cup series switched to tight play Wednesday night as Edmonton Oil Kings downed Brandon Wheat Kings 1-0 and moved within one game of an unprecedented fourth straight western junior hockey title.

The game gave Edmonton a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Third-string forward Ron Anderson, a 19-year-old in his first season with Edmonton, scored the only goal. He got it while Brandon was playing short handed.

Russ Kirk got the shutout for Edmonton by turning aside 29 shots, including 13 in the third period.

Ken Kachulak, Brandon's goalie throughout the regular season replaced Rick Best in the nets. Best, a pickup from Winnipeg Braves, played the first three games of the series. Kachulak stopped 33 shots.

The lone goal came in the seventh minute of the second period. Defenceman Jim Eagle raced down the boards and passed out of the corner for Anderson who rapped the puck in from point-blank range.

Dept. Admits to Confusing Thousands of Taxpayers

OTTAWA (CP)—The revenue department admits to confusing thousands of the country's 6,000,000 taxpayers.

It says that the 1962 income tax returns forms, though they appear simple, were just too much for numbers of kitchen - table mathematicians who for the first time had to calculate the tax going to both the federal and provincial governments.

The T-1 short form used by wage-earners had a note referring to an attached guide. It said that if taxable income was $5,000 or less a printed tax table could be used, by-passing the slightly complicated chore of working out percentages to calculate the divided tax under the new system.

The note was ignored by thousands. They plowed ahead in the relatively difficult task and messed it up completely. So did other hundreds in the $3,000-plus brackets who were required to enter their calculations on the form itself.

Net result: One in every five taxpayers got it wrong.

MAY BE HIGHEST

Possibly this is the highest error rate on record. The normal percentage of error for income tax returns is about 12 per cent. This year it was 20 per cent and some put it as high as 23 per cent.

All this has put a slight cramp in the giant electronic genius—$2,500,000 worth of wires, punched cards and magnetic tape—that processes the returns in Ottawa at the rate of 60,000 a day.

SLOWS IT UP

It has slowed the tax-verification system to the point where tax refunds are going into the mails, also electronically, about a week later than usual. With about 60 per cent of all taxpayers claiming refunds, there has been no little grousing, officials say.

"It's our fault," say the revenue department people. "Don't blame the taxpayers."

Even now they're at work to simplify the forms that taxpayers will cope with next spring.

The change in 1962 tax forms followed the end of the tax-rental arrangement that had applied for years in every province except Quebec. Now the provinces get a basic 16 per cent of the federal income tax, plus whatever extra they choose to levy. Ottawa continues the collection for them.

NDP Leader Launches Attack On Roberts

Supreme Court Justice Appears in NONG Issue

TORONTO (CP)—A justice of the Ontario Supreme Court was linked Thursday night with a renewed investigation into the disposition of shares in Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company (NONG).

The New Democratic Party leader, Donald C. MacDonald, said Mr. Justice Leo Landreville was the person referred to as former attorney - general Kelso Roberts, now lands and resources minister, in a statement Wednesday night.

Mr. MacDonald said Mr. Roberts should resign for making "incredible statement" or be forced to resign by Premier Robarts.

Mr. Justice Landreville was mayor of Sudbury in 1957 when NONG obtained a franchise to distribute natural gas in the city in preference to a publicly owned gas system advocated by some aldermen. He was appointed to the bench the same year.

HOUSE MISLED?

Mr. Roberts told the legislature Wednesday that an investigation reopened last summer had convinced him that the legislature of 1956 was misled by sworn statements concerning the distribution of 14,000 NONG shares.

Mr. Roberts said the new evidence indicated that a certain elected official in a municipality that had done business with NONG had received a major part of 14,000 promotional NONG shares.

Speaking despite steady heckling from government benches, Mr. MacDonald said: "He didn't need to name names. Anyone with a real knowledge of the background of the NONG scandal knew he was talking about one person, an elected official and a block of 14,000 shares.

"Why don't you name him?" interjected Lloyd Letherby (PC —Simcoe East).

"Mr. Justice Landreville," Mr. MacDonald replied.

LAUNCHES ATTACK

The NDP leader, whose attack Thursday led to an investigation of NONG's promotional efforts in getting gas distribution franchises, launched a bitter attack on Mr. Roberts.

"If the prime minister knew the true minister of lands and forests was going to make the statement he did, there was a clear obligation on the prime minister's part to see that such a statement was not made," Mr. MacDonald said.

The present attorney-general, Fred Cass, had generously declined comment on the renewed investigation by the Ontario Securities Commission, Mr. Donald said he thought that a report was not expected for several months.

"If he didn't know, or if the minister made the statement in defiance of the prime minister,

STRONG EXPORTS GIVE CANADA TRADE SURPLUS

Imports Are Lower For First Quarter

OTTAWA (CP) — Continued strong increases in exports gave Canada a trade surplus of $69,500,000 in the first three months of 1963, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Preliminary figures showed that in the first quarter exports totalled $1,487,300,000, a 6.6 per cent increase over the $1,395,800,000 figure of the January-March period in 1962.

Meanwhile, imports dropped 3.5 per cent to $1,417,700,000 from $1,469,900,000 in the same period last year.

In the first three months of 1962 Canada had a trade deficit of $74,000,000.

The bureau of statistics said the improvement in the trade balance was influenced by last year's devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 92.5 cents in terms of the U.S. dollar and surcharges levied on imports. The emergency surcharges, imposed last June, were swept away April 1.

The trade figures for March showed a surplus of $23,200,000, the -10th consecutive monthly export surplus since June, 1962. Exports totalled $502,800,000, a 6.8 per cent rise over the $470,800,000 recorded the previous March. Imports declined 9.5 per cent to $479,600,000 from $530,100,000.

U.K. PATTERN CHANGES

A major change in the trade pattern was shown in Canada's trade with the United Kingdom. In the first quarter of 1963 Canada's trade surplus with the U.K. was $107,700,000, double that of the similar period last year. Britain was the destination of 14.2 per cent of all exports and the source of only 7.3 per cent of imports.

Exports to the U.K. in the January-March period rose 11.1 per cent to $211,500,000 compared with $190,400,000 in the first quarter of 1962. Imports fell 28.4 per cent to $103,800,000 from $127,600,000.

Exports to the United States in the first quarter totalled $878,600,000, a 2.5 per cent increase over the 1962 figure of $857,100,000. Imports dropped 2.1 per cent to $1,035,200,000 from $1,057,100,000.

Undeveloped Nations Hampered By Trade Curbs of Richer Lands

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Aid programs for underdeveloped countries are being partially nullified by restrictive commercial policies of the very countries rendering assistance, a meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce was told today.

Two Indian delegates to the 19th congress joined in a plea for more liberal treatment by Western countries of the products which underdeveloped states offer for export.

"It is generally agreed that the disappointing foreign trade record of the developing countries is due, in part, to obstacles hindering the entry of their products into developed countries," said Madanmohan R. Rula, chairman of the ICC's Commission on Asian and Far Eastern Affairs.

P. Chentsal Rao, general secretary of the commission, declared that trading policies of developed countries are "not in line with their willingness to render economic assistance." He noted that India's exports have remained almost stable for some time.

SPACE RESEARCH PLAN LAUNCHED BY COUNCIL

Fort Churchill Scene of Work

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Research Council has launched a new space research program on the rebuilt rocket range at Fort Churchill, Man.

Two Black Brant II research rockets carrying sensitive instruments were fired into the northern lights April 5 in an expanded NRC effort to learn more about "near space"—the lower part of the ionosphere from 30 to 300 miles up.

The aurora borealis or northern lights, which occur in this part of the ionosphere, seriously disrupt northern communications.

The council played a small role in previous rocket launchings at Fort Churchill by the Defence Research Board and the United States Air Force before the range was destroyed by fire in 1961. It has since been rebuilt with the U.S. putting up about $2,000,000.

Under the new program started April 5, the council is providing its own rockets and instruments for taking readings

Truce Team Watches Reds Bombard Neutralist Forces

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) — The pro-Communist Pathet Lao bombarded neutralists forces in the central Laotian Plaine des Jarres Thursday as an international truce team watched, authoritative sources said today.

The sources said the sound of the mortars and the flashes of shells fired from four Pathet Lao positions were observed by members of the three-nation team, sent on its first trip to the area Thursday by the international control commission which is charged with supervising Laotian neutrality.

It was the first known break in the uneasy truce which has prevailed in Laos since Sunday.

The sources said the team—representing India, Canada and Poland—watched the bombardment for three hours until rainstorm swept the area and it was stopped.

Then the inspectors returned to Vientiane. They were expected to make another trip to the Plaine des Jarres today.

Neutralist Gen. Kong Le told the control commission team at his Plaine des Jarres airport

Mail-Order Drugs for Needy Urged by Select Committee

TORONTO (CP)—A select committee of the Ontario legislature recommended today that a central mail-order outlet be set up to dispense drugs to the needy or those using large quantities of expensive medicines.

The suggestion was one of nine brought down by the committee following a study which began three years ago into the cost of drugs.

Labor Minister H. Leslie Rowntree, who was named chairman a few months before entering the cabinet, tabled the report today in the legislature.

The committee also recommended federal licensing of all drug manufacturers in Canada; abolition of the 11-per-cent federal sales tax on prescription drugs; removal of import tariffs on scientific equipment used in drug research and manufacture, and steps to reduce the cost of advertising and promoting drugs.

The report was signed by all members — eight Conservatives, one Liberal and one New Democrat — except Liberal-Labor member Albert Wren, who died in 1961.

However NDP member Ken-

HOUSE SITS TO EARLY HOURS, HEAVY AGENDA

Will Prorogue This Afternoon

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature sat until the early hours today amid indications that prorogation will come later today.

It was a busy day for the legislators as the House sat until 1:40 a.m.

The government was accused by Kenneth Bryden (NDP—Toronto Woodbine) trying to jam important legislation through the House at the last moment.

Premier Robarts said there was no desire on the part of the government to let anything slip by without comment, but he added that the House has to sit hour after hour to bear the same things debated time and time again.

The premier indicated he would be willing to hold an afternoon session today, a rarity on a Friday, if necessary.

It was a controversial day. Medical insurance, a report on the takeover of Canadian Oil Companies Limited by Shell Investments Limited last fall, and further debate on the controversial Northern Ontario Natural Gas securities investigation provided ammunition for the members.

APPROVE BILL

The Progressive Conservative government's medical services insurance bill introduced Tuesday by Premier John Robarts was approved in principle although under heavy fire from both Liberal and New Democratic Party opposition members.

Attorney-General Fred Cass told the House an Ontario Securities Commission investigation revealed no evidence to support allegations that "corporate insiders" or "professional traders" made large sums of money at the expense of Canadian Oil shareholders.

Charles DeLong Says Appeal Will Be Made

City ratepayer Charles DeLong told The Ontario Intelligencer today he will appeal what "going ahead" against a judge's decision dismissing an attempt to unseat Mayor A. McLean Haig.

However, up to press time, no appeal had been registered at the county clerk's offices at Belleville, Mr. DeLong said.

Mr. DeLong was respondent in an application, dismissed on Wednesday by Judge W. J. Lane of Picton, alleging conflict of interest in city business against the mayor.

Mr. DeLong's counsel in the action, Belleville lawyer Ben Hastings, was in court and not available for comment when Mr. DeLong made his statement.

Wild Gun Battle With Police Near Brampton

House Staked Out Since Wednesday

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Four men, three from Toronto, were charged today with breaking and entering while armed following a wild gun battle Thursday night with police in a sawmill house here.

Two of the gunmen were wounded and all four arrested, one after he was tracked down by a dog 20 minutes later, after they forced their way into the house and were ambushed by police.

The men are John Paul, 23, of no fixed address, who is in South Peel Hospital with a gunshot in the hip; and Toronto men David Read, 34, in hospital with a gunshot wound in the arm, William Glover, 35, and Harry Ross, 32.

No policemen were injured but Det. Sgt. Victor Hill of the Toronto Township Force had a lucky escape when a gunman showed a pistol into his stomach. He pulled the trigger but the weapon misfired.

The wounded were in hospital in this town 10 miles northwest of Metropolitan Toronto but police were not in serious condition. One was wounded in a leg and the other in an arm.

The other two were held overnight in township cells in Cooksville.

POLICE ARE TIPPED

Fifteen township and Metropolitan Toronto police had been staked out since noon Wednesday after Metro police were tipped that a robbery attempt would be made.

A spokesman said the informers mistakenly believed there was a safe containing a large amount of money in the home of Frank Bail and his son Gordon who operate a sawmill adjacent to the house on Highway 10 two miles south of this Toronto-area town.

Metro officers had kept a group of men under surveillance for some time. Six township men were stationed out in the house and nine Metro policemen were scattered around the property. They kept in touch by walkie-talkie.

Shortly before 10 p.m. a car pulled up outside the house and four men got out. They smashed a porch window and a pane of glass on the kitchen door, permitting one of the intruders to reach from outside and open the door.

As they entered they were approached by Sgt. Hill whose life a moment later was saved by the radium dial on his wristwatch. The infuriated officer gunmen opened up but were caught in a withering fire from officers stationed around the house.

After several seconds the invaders fled through the house and dived through a glass storm door at the front. Three of them, including one of the wounded were arrested at their car. Police searched briefly in block for the fourth man but had no success until a neighbor,

65 Out of 242 Loggers Freed Of 'Assembly'

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)— With charges of unlawful assembly dismissed against 65 out of 242 loggers at a mass trial here, Magistrate W. S. Gardner begins today on charges of rioting against all 242 defendants.

Crown attorney S. A. Caldwick indicated the riot charges may be dropped.

Before the trial was scheduled to resume at 1:30 p.m., however, defence counsel planned to meet with the loggers in the theatre being used as a courtroom to discuss the proceedings with the men and decide whether the loggers themselves should testify.

Defense counsel John Brooke of Toronto moved Thursday to dismiss the charges of unlawful assembly against 65 of the bushworkers for lack of evidence, and Magistrate Gardner upheld the motion.

But he stilled the murmur of approval from the audience when he said they still faced rioting charges. Mr. Brooke reserved his position on the other 177 accused until he could talk to each one personally.

CHARGES FOLLOW RAID

The charges against the men resulted from a raid by some 400 striking loggers last Feb. 11 at a logging camp at Reesor Siding, 40 miles west of here, where independent log-cutting settlers had piled wood for shipment to a strikebound mill.

Three strikers were killed in a blaze of gunfire and nine others wounded.

Meanwhile, there were developments Thursday in Toronto on charges of non-capital murder against 20 settlers as a result of the shooting.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario Supreme Court upheld the committal for trial of Paul Coulombe, 34-year-old manager of the settlers' co-operative, on the murder charges. But he ordered the 19 other settlers to be returned before a magistrate for further evidence on the preliminary hearing of similar charges against them.

Defence counsel Joseph Haifley had argued there was no evidence at the preliminary hearing linking the other 19 to the shooting. Crown spokesman said it had been understood that at the purpose of the preliminary hearing, it would be admitted that Coulombe and the other 19 were the ones arrested at the scene.

All 20 settlers are to be released again on $5,000 bail.

Believe All Trapped Miners Dead

Rescue Workers Find Fourteen Bodies

CLARKSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — Clinchfield Coal Company announced shortly after noon EST today that 14 bodies of 22 men trapped by an explosion in its Compass No. 2 mine near here have been recovered.

There presumably are hope the other eight—even deeper in the mine—would be found alive.

Three bodies were found first near the main mine tunnel, about 1½ miles from the main entrance. Eleven others were found a short time later in a lateral working section.

Announcement of the finding of the first victims of the gas explosion was made by Mine Superintendent Harry Chapman, whose brother is one of the missing miners.

The bodies, Chapman reported, were found near the opening of a drift in which 13 miners were scheduled to be working when a rumbling gas explosion hit the mine Thursday night.

Seven other men were assigned to a drift 2,000 feet farther into the mine and two men were assisting both crews.

Outside a small crowd of women, coal miners in working gear, police and coal company officials kept a silent vigil. Ambulances and rescue vehicles stood by.

In a parking lot near the shaft were a few cars belonging to the men who went down into the pit Thursday afternoon.

There was nothing on the outside to indicate what had taken place. Fans which circulate air through the mine continued to operate. The shaft was not damaged. The elevator which can carry 10 men down into the working area was still operating.

The explosion, tentatively laid to deadly and explosive methane gas, possibly in combination with coal dust, blew dirt and debris out the 330-foot main mine shaft just after 11 p.m. Twenty - nine miners working away from the explosion area tumbled out of the mine.

A hurried call was put in for mine rescue crews, equipped with oxygen breathing apparatus, was rushed to the mine from Clarksburg and Fairmont, to the northeast.

Clinchfield Vice - President Stephen Canonico said the lead rescue team encountered traces of methane gas about 3,500 feet from the area in which the men were working. Blowers dispersed the deadly fumes.

The Compass No. 2 mine, a shaft and drift operation as opposed to open surface mines, employs 185 men. It produced 635,000 tons of bituminous coal in 1961. Extending some four miles underground in a southerly direction from Dola, it has been worked by Clinchfield since 1953.

British M. P. Says Canada Faces Hard Job to Avoid U. S. Control

LONDON (Reuters)—An opposition Labor party legislator said today there is strong United States economic control in Canada and Australia and to some extent in New Zealand. Emanuel Shinwell said "in a large part of the Australian continent and certainly in Canada American domination has reared its head.

"It is going to be mighty difficult to prevent the Americans from gaining effective economic control," he added.

Addressing the Commons during a debate on Commonwealth co-operation, the former defence minister said if Britain did not advertise more and let the Commonwealth know its capabilities, favorable Commonwealth sentiment would disappear eventually.

Patrick Wall, a member of the ruling Conservative party, said under questioning that the Commonwealth would turn increasingly to the United States if the Commonwealth continued to produce too little capital for financial development.

Wall, a vice-chairman of the Conservative party's back bench Commonwealth affairs committee, indicated he favored "marrying" the Commonwealth to Europe.

This move would generate the capital required to bring both Britain and the Commonwealth closer together, he said.

Almost three months ago France vetoed Britain's bid for membership in the six-nation European Common Market.

Required Services May Be Lacking if Property Owners Do Not Get Assistance

Rapidly soaring municipal taxes have now reached the stage where property owners must get more help or taxes will not be able to pay for the required services.

This was stated yesterday at Hastings county council by Marmora Reeve William A. Shannon, county representative on the Belleville General Hospital Board, as he reported to council on the progress of plans for the proposed new hospital addition.

Reeve Shannon said drawings for the hospital plans were progressing and were expected to be available soon.

In referring to the rapidly increasing costs of municipal services, Mr. Shannon admitted that government assistance for roads, schools and hospitals was already considerable.

COSTS UNBEARABLE

At the same time, however, he stressed that local costs for such services were getting to be more than the property owners can bear.

"The stage has now reached the stage where property owners must have help to a greater extent or they will not be able to pay," he said. "Otherwise the required services will not be there."

Much of yesterday afternoon's council session was taken up with the roads and bridges committee report and a lengthy discussion on a grant for the Madawaska Valley Tourist Association which asks for the extreme northern part of the county.

VOTE $500 GRANT

Council voted a grant of $500 to the association.

Also heard was the report of county weed inspector Harry Coulter who said that instructions on the use of chemical weed controllers be closely read and followed.

Chemical weed killers first appeared on the market about 1940 and since then had gained wide usage with spraying of many types of field crops now being quite common.

Entomology Lab Interests Dutch Visitor

"I was hoping they would show it to me, but I didn't want to ask", said Dr. M. H. E. Moerel, First Commercial Secretary of the Netherlands Embassy in Ottawa. Dr. Moerel was speaking of the federal government Entomology Laboratory which he saw during a guided tour of Belleville yesterday afternoon. Dr. Moerel, a research chemist himself before he became a diplomat, was in this city to open the Quinte District Home and Sports Show, last night.

Speaking of Belleville, among newsmen, Dr. Moerel said he thinks it might be a better place to live than Ottawa. A veteran of two years in Canada's capital city, Dr. Moerel commented that small cities, like Belleville appeared to promise more "life". Dr. Moerel added that as a small town man himself, he never had learned to like large cities.

He was favorably impressed, he said, during the drive from Ottawa along number seven highway. After a night in Belleville, Dr. Moerel is tied up in a more formal form of diplomacy today, at trade talks in Toronto.

Hospital Will Open Doors During Week

The Ontario Hospital at Kingston has announced that during Mental Health Week, being observed from April 29th to May 4th, it will open its doors to the visiting public.

Hospital authorities say that by opening the hospital to visitors one or two evenings during the annual "week", they have found that quite a number of persons have visited the hospital.

Activities at the hospital during Mental Health Week will begin with a lecture to be given by Dr. Jack Hood of the Institute of Living, Hartford, Conn. in the auditorium of the Westwood Building on April 29th.

HERBERT McGIBBON

PICTON — A former member of the town council, Charles Herbert McGibbon, died suddenly Wednesday evening, April 24, at 62 Frankland Ave., Toronto, where he had been residing the last six months. He resided at 11 Division Street, Picton.

Funeral service is being held at the Ross Funeral Chapel, Walton Street, Port Hope, Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock with interment in Union cemetery there.

Mr. McGibbon is survived by his wife, the former Elsie May Brown; a son, Allan Herbert, in Toronto; two grandchildren, Deborah and Karen McGibbon; a sister, Mrs. Maud Giddy, of Cobourg and a son, Jack, was killed in an auto accident in 1952.

Keenly interested in municipal and community affairs, Mr. McGibbon entered town council in 1936 and for some years was a valued member.

Another of his special interests was in Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and for some years was closely connected with its activities.

BORN IN PORT HOPE

Born at Port Hope, he resided his entire life there. His years were spent in a hardware store in that town before he went to Picton, where he was engaged with a hardware merchant for six years. In 1919 he was similarly employed at Lindsay and then travelled for the Lewis Company of Belleville, making his home in Port Hope. On January 1, 1919, Mr. McGibbon went to Picton and accepted a position with Carter Bros. Hardware, where he was a valued employee until retiring a few years ago.

In earlier years he was greatly interested in the breeding of poultry and served as treasurer and director of the County Poultry Association. He also served as a member of the Advisory Vocational Committee of Belleville Collegiate. Above all, he was a booster for his adopted town and county; a man with a friendly greeting to everyone.

SAMUEL R. McGEE

The funeral service of Samuel B. McGee of Tweed, was held from the W. M. Bush Funeral Home on Monday, April 22nd. Service was conducted by Rev. J. Payton.

A second service was held in the funeral home on Sunday evening, April 21st, by the Odd Fellows of Tweed and the Masonic order.

Bearers were: Lorne and Ross Bradley, Jim Sullivan, Stephen Hubbs, Ross McKenzie and Bob Burlington.

Interment was in Victoria cemetery.

Mr. McGee passed away suddenly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ross Uphill in Toronto on Friday, April 19. He was in his 87th year.

Born in Stirling, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dan McGee of Stirling. His wife, the former Letty Spry of Stirling, predeceased him.

He resided in Belleville a short time before moving to Tweed where he had lived for the past 52 years, operating a tailor shop on Victoria Street until about a year ago.

He received his 50-year jewel from the Odd Fellows of Tweed in June, 1962, and was a member of the Masonic Lodge at Tweed for many years.

Mr. McGee was a member of St. John's United Church in Tweed of which he held the position of Elder.

Surviving are two daughters and one son, Elda (Mrs. M. L. Bradley) of Navan, Ont.; Helena (Mrs. I. R. Upshall) of 349 Beechcroft Drive, Toronto, and Bill of 2 DeMarco Blvd., Toronto.

He was the last of his family.

MRS. ALICE HANNAH EVERSON

The funeral of Mrs. Alice Hannah Everson was held in Beaverton United Church on Thursday afternoon. Rev. C. W. Coleman of Belleville conducted the service in the church and the committal rites at Stoney Church Cemetery in Beaverton.

The bearers were Ross and Carl Moynes, Andrew and Clare Everson, Howard Western and Gordon Berry.

OAKLAND BERNARD JACKSON
(Madoc)

In failing health for the past three years, Mr. Oakland Bernard Jackson, father of Magistrate R. C. Jackson, died at his home in Madoc on Thursday. He was in his 82nd year.

Born in Enterprise, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oran C. Jackson and for many years operated a general store in that centre. He formerly worked as a blacksmith and contractor. He attended school at Enterprise and also at Albert College in Belleville. He had lived in Madoc for the past 10½ years.

He was an adherent of the Wesleyan Methodist Church at Madoc and was a life member of Victoria Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 290 at Centreville. He was well known and highly respected both in the Madoc and Centreville areas.

He is survived by his wife, the former Flora M. Ball and one son Magistrate Ronald Cogswell Jackson, Madoc.

Also surviving are a brother, Basil Claude Jackson, Enterprise and a granddaughter, Sharron predeceased him.

Funeral service in late residence; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Chamber Plans Membership Campaign

Belleville Chamber of Commerce plans a membership drive during the coming year, but no definite program for this drive has been decided. Suggestions offered, during yesterday's meeting of the directors of the Chamber, by Membership Chairman G. Hume, included a direct mail campaign, and a "Get Acquainted Breakfast," to be held later in this year.

But definite plans could not be made yet, according to Mr. Hume, because he was forced to act as a one-man committee as directors had not yet authorized him to enlist aid.

Ben Corke, chairman of the Chamber, suggested that Mr. Hume select four men, in addition to himself, to prepare a program. Mr. Corke suggested that members of the membership committee be selected from outside the board of directors of the Chamber, "so we can get fresh 'old fogies' in here," Mr. Corke added. "We've all been through it before, and sometimes we get discouraged."

PRICE TOO HIGH

Note cans seem to be a bit too much to pay for envelopes, Belleville Chamber of Commerce directors decided when price was quoted on lots of 100,000 of an envelope that might be used for the Chamber's publication itself, suggested to replace the letterhead envelopes now in use.

The suggested envelopes are printed in full color, with a total of eight printings, front and back. Directors of the Chamber requested a sample, advertising the Red Ensign Atlas, Chamber of Commerce, at their monthly meeting yesterday. The directors decided the envelopes were desirable, but not at that price.

TO BUY NEW SIGN

One hundred and forty dollars for a sign is another matter though, the directors decided. Faced with the need to repaint the present sign outside the chamber rooms, and with the probability that it would need repainting every year, the directors decided a new one would be a good investment. The present firm that quoted the $140 price on a new sign says it will last five years without repainting. Repainting on the old sign would not last, the directors were told, because of the type of finish used on the original paint job.

Also planned by the Chamber's Tourist Committee, under the chairmanship of Ron Keel, is distribution of tourist pamphlets through local service stations. The program, planned to begin next week, will place racks of Belleville and area tourist information in selected service stations in the area. Service centers along Highway 401 will be among these locations, the directors were told.

SGT. YORK RECOVERS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Ailing Sgt. Alvin York, America's First World War hero, will be released from a hospital either today or Saturday, a hospital spokesman said. York, 75, was admitted to hospital April 13 with a blood clot in the left lung, kidney infection and other complications. He was on the critical list until Tuesday.

Hastings CNIB Board Holds Quarterly Meet

The quarterly meeting of the Ontario National Institute for the Blind Advisory Board for the County of Hastings met at the home of Mrs. J. R. Selden, Bleecker Avenue, on Tuesday evening. Mr. Nostrand Sprague, chairman, presided and expressed his gratitude at the fine attendance of board members.

Mrs. Ruth Hamilton, secretary, and his assistant-secretary, Mr. Doug I. McCallum of Kingston, were in attendance. There are 127 in the County of Hastings registered with the CNIB.

Mrs. G. Wishart read the correspondence. The resignation of Mrs. George Wright was accepted with regret. Mrs. Wright has served on the board for many years and as appreciation for her work and interest as are all agencies to budget its funds realistically so that the 1963 objective of the United Appeal may be reached.

FUNDS CAMPAIGN

Miss Reynolds reported on her calls and welfare work. Miss Elinor Rollin is giving her report for the 1963 Campaign. Campaigns for Funds stated that as of March 31st, the end of the Clinical year, $82,282 had been raised, down from last year's $8,000.70. This was due in part to the fact that the campaign was held in Stirling. Trenton contributed $3,290.86 and canvassing in various parts of the country contributed $3,971.07.

There are 10 residents from Deseronto living at the Bayside, St. Lawrence Hall, three of whom receive residence supplement. Some of the residents' funds for an elevator in the residence has been launched in Deseronto. Mrs. Hamilton is the area. As stairs are a great handicap to blind and elderly people it is felt that the elevator is a necessity in order for the home to function adequately. Various Service Clubs and friends are interested in the blind are being asked to contribute.

Mrs. M. J. Waller announced that a sale of 'Blindcraft' will be held in a store on Front Street towards the end of May. The annual dinner meeting of the Board will be held in Picton or Bon Ouired Church on May 13th, guest speaker being Mr. Ralph Wyatt, CNIB, Toronto, supervisor of field services.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Mrs. G. Wishart and Dr. H. E. Wallace were appointed to the Board of Governors of Quinte-St. Lawrence Hall, Mr. G. Wishart as an alternate to Dr. Connor. Mrs. H. Rollins was re-appointed to the admission committee for residence. It is the desire of this Board that we recommend to the Board of Directors of the Quinte Hospital that Dr. H. E. Welch represent the CNIB.

A tea held Monday in September will be "Blitz" night for the CNIB campaign in the County of Hastings to coincide with the drives being held in Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington.

At a previous meeting it was reported that although the Kingston area had received gifts donations from the Ekye Bank for corneal transplants there had been no transplants. Mrs. Timmins, at this meeting, was asked to report that a legacy of two eyes had been given to Belleville to the Eye Bank in Kingston. Subsequent eye operations have been reported successful and through this most precious gift sight has been restored to two people. What better legacy can one leave?

Dr. H. E. Welch was appointed convener of a committee to be set up to introduce this important field of service to the various service and church groups in the area.

VISITS MADE

Mrs. Timmins and Mr. McCallum reported on their visits that had been made to the blind in the County and to Belleville to ascertain their various needs. Folding canes, Braille watches, talking-watches, talking-reading and a fuel allowance were some of the wants supplied. Bancroft Lions Club and various Public Health nurses in Detlor, Maynooth, Wallbridge and Marmora have referred children to the CNIB for eye examinations and where glasses were recommended these have been supplied. Eye doctors give of their services and glasses are supplied at a very nominal cost.

The White Cane Club continues to function twice monthly under the guidance of Mrs. H.

April Birthday Club Enjoys Annual Meeting

TRENTON — "Happy birthday to us," sang eleven members of the April Birthday Club at Trenton Memorial Hospital last night.

All eleven members and the five club members who were unable to attend the annual get-together, were born in April. And all are, or have been, members of the hospital's nursing staff.

The April birthday parties began nine years ago, when four out of five staff-members lunching together discovered that their birthdays fell in April.

Since then, newcomers to the staff are greeted with the question "When's your birthday?" almost before they get their first patient assignment.

Miss Hazel Naudette, appointed night administrator last year, did not let her staff down. Her birthday is in April but she was on duty and not at last night's party.

Also present were: Blanche Brown, Ann Long, Aileen Theriault, Donna Boyarchuck, Verna Nelson, Shirley Foster, Annette Frisbaer, Lorraine Hogge, Ida Angus and Margaret Scott. Unable to attend were May Morgan, Mrs. E. Tyerman, Helen Hawkins, Nancy May and Pauline Chard.

Quebec Subject Of Talk to Lions Club

TRENTON — Dr. Norman Rawson, minister of St. James' Church in Montreal, spoke to Trenton Lions in the Queensway Hotel last night.

Theme of his talk was better understanding between peoples of different ethnic backgrounds and religions. He said he has the opportunity of studying relationships among such people in Montreal.

The United Church minister said that for the most part there is harmony among Protestants, Roman Catholic and Canadians of French, Italian and Anglo-Saxon background.

However, he emphasized that the separatist movement in Quebec should not be taken too lightly. The movement is a very real thing," he said, although the mass of the people are behind it.

"Most of the English and French Canadians are completely opposed to the group," he said, and the latest bomb-killing of a night watchman, believer of the work of a separatist group, has brought a new wave of criticism."

Dr. Rawson was a minister in Hamilton for 18 years and in Ottawa for eight years before going to Montreal. He would not exchange his time spent in Montreal for any other two years, he said.

The minister was introduced by past president Sherman Gresham and thanked by past-president Ralph Weaver.

Guests included Rev. W. J. Irwin of Trenton and Rev. A. Semple of Carrying Place and delegates of Lions from Belleville and Frankford.

Rollins. Mrs. Esther Clarke, of the Hastings County Home, who has been blind for more than 50 years, will be celebrating her 98th birthday on May 27th.

At the close of the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Continue Hunt For Missing Quebec Plane

TRENTON — The search for Montreal businessmen Hyman Ginsberg, 44, and his wife, Estelle, 41, is continuing with 49 aircraft in the air.

Officials of the RCAF Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Trenton reported this morning that 33 United States Civil Air Patrol planes, four civilian planes and 12 RCAF aircraft are searching for the couple, who disappeared Sunday afternoon on a flight in their light plane from Dorval to Sherbrooke, Que. The Trenton centre has sent an Albatross and a helicopter.

RCAF officials say there is good weather in the Sherbrooke area today and this will encourage the search. So far, the aircraft have spent 304 hours' flying time and covered 32,000 square miles.

Has Devised New Alphabet For Eskimos

TRENTON — April's issue of "Canada Month" carries an article on the work of a former Trentonian Rev. Marguerite of Sundre, Alberta; Jean of Ban Gagne, as head of a project designed to provide a system of writing for Canada's Eskimos.

Mr. Gagne, who resigned from the Trenton staff in the spring of 1962, was appointed by the Department of Northern Affairs to devise a syllabic alphabet from among the many different forms of "syllabics" writing employed by the countless Eskimo tribes fanned out across the north.

A young Eskimo girl, Leah Illaug, who also works in the Northern Affairs department has recently published a book of legends, using the alphabet devised by Mr. Gagne. This is the first work of fiction in an Eskimo language.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

TRENTON — Fire Chief Cecil Ellis comes home today after attending the Fire Chiefs' Conference at the University of Toronto. Fire Chiefs from across Canada met during the three-day seminar. They were to study the latest fire-fighting and rescue techniques.

Car Rolls Over On Cordova Rd.

MARMORA (Special)—A Picton man escaped injury when his car rolled over on the Cordova Road, seven miles northeast of Marmora, early Monday morning.

Police said after James Edward Wood lost control of the automobile on a curve and came to rest against a tree.

Wood was arrested. Officers from the OPP Madoc detachment investigated.

FILM DIRECTOR DIES

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear mother Catherine Stout, who passed away one year ago today.

Today my thoughts wander over the years
To a lonely grave, I cannot see.
Loving memories are all I have left.
Of a mother I loved and will never forget.

—Always remembered by her loving daughter Kathleen and son-in-law Dougie.

FITZGIBBON — In loving memory of our mother, Ella Fitzgibbon, who passed away April 29th, 1953.

A silent thought, a secret tear,
Keeps your memory ever dear.
—Ever remembered by son Edward, Fergus, Goldie, Wilfred and Martin.

CARDS OF THANKS

Words cannot express our appreciation and thankfulness to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and assistance given us, in the loss of our beloved

Bud and Helen High and children.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown to us in the loss of our beloved father, Frederick Jones Lee. We especially wish to thank the Reverend R. G. Furness, the pallbearers and comrades of Unit No. 301 A.N.A.F., who conducted the service, To Dr. J. S. Hall, the staff and nurses of the Grant Funeral Home for their kind attention and service, and many friends who sent floral tributes and messages of sympathy.

Judge Anderson Suggests Merger Of County Courts

TORONTO (CP)—Judge J. C. Anderson suggested Thursday that Ontario's county courts be merged into one court to ease the work load.

Reporting to the annual meeting of the County and District Court judges Association of Ontario, Judge Anderson said the new court might be called the Superior Court of the Province or the Provincial Court.

A second re-organization suggestion he made was that the Judicature Act be amended and that all federally appointed judges be organized into one court with three divisions—the Appellate, Circuit and District and County courts.

Judge Anderson said that in many jurisdictions the number of cases coming before County Court that are Supreme Court jurisdiction made up at least half the trial work of some County Court judges.

Harriman Met For Two Hours With Gromyko

MOSCOW (Reuters) — U.S. Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman met for two hours and 40 minutes today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and was given an assurance that the Soviet Union is trying to solve the Laotian crisis.

Harriman, a former ambassador to the Soviet Union looked serious as he left the skyscraper Soviet foreign ministry.

"We have had a talk about events in Laos," he said. "Both of us reassured the other that governments are endeavoring to do all they can to maintain the neutrality and independence of Laos."

Asked if he was optimistic or pessimistic after his long meeting, Harriman replied: "I would not know about using those words."

U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, who was present at the talks, told reporters Harriman was expected to see Premier Khrushchev later.

Harriman came to Moscow with a "short message" for Khrushchev from President Kennedy.

Bridge Construction Boosts County Roads Costs in '63

This is bridge construction year in Hastings county, with no less than four bridges in the county roads system scheduled for replacement, along with other phases of its roads maintenance and construction program.

Major item in the year's bridge building program is a bridge and new structure across the Moira River at Canniton, on the county suburban roads system.

Estimated cost of the bridge is $100,400, of which 10 per-cent will be paid by the county, 10 percent by the city and 80 percent by the provincial government.

Two other bridges to be built are the Baldwin and Guernsey bridges with estimated costs of $24,800 and $26,300 each.

And finally the county proposes to commence construction of a replacement bridge at Stoco across the Moira. This year's plans call for construction of the replacement bridge at a cost of an estimated $54,000.

Clarke T. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, told county councillors Thursday that highway department grants toward Hastings county roads and bridges this year would be $300,000.

Bridge construction on which the department pays 80 percent subsidy, was given as the reason for the unusually large amount of department grant.

PAVE IVANHOE ROAD

Mr. Rollins said that tenders would be called May 8th for paving of that section of the Madoc road south of Ivanhoe, rebuilt last year. Also to be called are tenders for grading and paving of a short stretch of the Madoc road in Ivanhoe village.

Tenders for the rebuilding of the third phase of the Madoc road from Halloway to the Foxboro would be called on October 2nd and would include the bridge structure at Chrysler Creek north of Foxboro.

Referring to the highways department capital works program scheduled for Hastings during 1963, Mr. Rollins gave assurance that tenders for the approaches for the proposed Big Island bridge across the bay of Quinte west of Deseronto, would be called in the not too distant future, as well as tenders for the railway overpass and by-pass at Marysville.

The above work is preliminary to construction of the high level bridge and eventual meeting of Highway 41 from the south with 401 Highway.

WIND UP SESSION

Thursday's meeting of the county council was the wind up of the annual spring session and saw presentation of the roads and bridges committee report by Rawdon reeve Floyd Beckett.

He said that this year's "regular" road by-law in the amount of $350,000 had been approved while the supplementary by-law would be $242,500.

He noted that the plan and profile for the re-construction of county road No. 8 from Frankford south through Glen Miller to Highway 401, had been received from the surveyor, M. J. McAlpine, but that the final new road location had not been entirely decided upon.

It is expected the road will be rebuilt as a development road project, although it is unlikely the project will be started this year.

No allotments for development road work have yet been received in the county section of the highways department, although these are expected in the near future.

LAND PURCHASED

All land purchases, with the exception of Darlis, denying she's a compulsive thief. Police said she has a dope habit to support.

Her biggest haul was $1,700. "But another time I got $1,- 000," she said. "I wish I'd never reported it. My smallest take? I stole a dollar once."

"Sunday," she said. "Never on Sunday."

Mr. K. Carries Struggle to Party Front

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has carried the East-West ideological struggle to the party front.

Khrushchev Wednesday condemned Russians who praise the West because it is able to produce such better products than the Soviet Union.

The Soviet leader said "some cunning and some old" Soviet writers were among the worst offenders in this regard.

They have gone abroad and found capitalism has come in colors unobtainable in Russia, he said. And they sighed "oh, how beautiful because they make better paints than ours."

Russia, he said, had sent man up into space before America, and manned Soviet space ships had orbited the earth 64 times compared with America's three times.

Then he advised: "Give us time and we shall produce panties for your wives in colors which cannot be seen anywhere else.

'Cat-Walker' Finds Many Doors Unlocked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Five out of 10 people leave their doors unlocked. They make it so damned easy."

A 23-year-old woman was delivering a lecture—in jail—Tuesday night on how to succeed in burglary without really trying.

Darlis Joan Erwig has been arrested at least 10 times, been convicted only rarely. Half her arrests have been on suspicion of burglary. She admits to two convictions, on one of which she served 30 days, the other 32 for burglary.

Her other arrests were on a variety of charges, including narcotics.

Her latest, last Sunday in Venice, Calif., was on suspicion of burglary.

STEALING SINCE 17

"How many jobs have I pulled? Well, I can't count for sure," she told reporters. "But I've been stealing since I was 17. Maybe 4,000. Maybe 6,000. Can't say for sure. But sooner or later I'm bound to get."

Darlis calls herself a "cat-walker."

"I've never forced my way into a place in my life," she said. "I just walk along until I see a door or window looking apartment house or motel and then I get inside and begin burning. Some locks I can't open. You'd be surprised how easy it is. Just like going to the store for a loaf of bread."

She said she works most effectively and safely between 2 a.m. and daylight.

"I only steal when I need money," said Darlis, denying she's a compulsive thief. Police said she has a dope habit to support.

Her biggest haul was $1,700. "But another time I got $1,- 000," she said. "I wish I'd never reported it. My smallest take? I stole a dollar once."

"Sunday," she said. "Never on Sunday."

Recreation Highlights

How would you like to plan a continuous daily program for approximately 5,000 energetic and usually boisterous children?

That may seem like quite a tall order, but that is exactly what Belleville's playground supervisors will be doing each day this summer. Belleville has a total of 20 regular playgrounds and 3 special ones located on John Street at the School for Retarded Children.

Last year these 21 play areas had a combined total attendance of over 50,000 for the entire season.

On Thursday, April 18, interviews were held with over 90 applicants hoping for a job on a municipal playground this summer. Not included in this number were several of last year's staff who had previously signified their intentions of wishing to return for another season.

With a total of 25 positions vacant and with over 90 applicants competing for them, it is easy to understand why personnel selection is a motivous experience with children, play a major role in the final selection of the summer playground staff.

On Monday, April 22nd, letters will be mailed out to successful either acceptance or refusal were mailed out and it is planned to hold a staff meeting with this year's playground staff on Tuesday, May 14, 1963, at 7.30 p.m.

Being a playground supervisor is a position which carries with it a lot of responsibilities but at the same time can be most rewarding.

Boys and girls who will be working on playgrounds in all of Eastern Ontario will attend a training course at Camp Quin-Mo-Lac, near Madoc, Ontario from June 23-28 inclusive. Here, they will be taught such subjects as nature lore, astronomy, camp craft, practical hikes and camp fires and camp games, special events, it was felt that this "Day Camp" course was needed and it is planned as to be included in the regular playground training courses, without interfering with the actual Playground Training Course itself.

On returning from the course, Belleville's supervisors will have three days of rest before they report to their respective playgrounds on Tuesday, July 2nd, at 9.00 a.m.

Although playgrounds are not assigned until the completion of the course, 22 girls and three boys will be assigned to the 21 parks within the Belleville area.

These are the people who will be teaching your children how to swim, play softball, only to mention a few, but most important of all, how to get along well with other children and how to enjoy true companionship both on the playgrounds and away from them.

Be willing to give them a hand and help them in their summer occupation.

they'll appreciate it.

A. O. Drysdale Made Honorary C of C Member

Belleville Chamber of Commerce has an honorary member now, for the first time in its 97-year history. A. O. Drysdale, a director of the chamber for several years and chairman of the Committee on Provincial and National Affairs, was offered the honorary membership yesterday, when he resigned from the chamber.

O. L. Bell moved the honorary membership for Mr. Drysdale at yesterday's meeting of the chamber board of directors, after the reading of Mr. Drysdale's letter of resignation. The motion was seconded by Walter Elliott.

Explaining his resignation, Mr. Drysdale said he would be moving to Montreal soon, to a new position in the head office of the Canada Cement Company. In Belleville, he had been superintendent of the Canada Cement plant at Point Anne.

John Legate, new superintendent of the Point Anne cement plant, attended the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors at the request of Mr. Drysdale, in place of Mr. Drysdale. Born, raised and married in Belleville, Mr. Legate is returning to the area from service with the Canada Cement Company branch in Winnipeg.

Workers Again Refuse to Cross Picket Lines

Associated tradesmen at Belleville Quinte Secondary School this morning refused to cross picket lines of striking labourers and caused the work freezing all progress on the $1,500,000 extension project.

Yesterday, however, they had reversed their decision taken when the strike started Wednesday and break the picket line. Bricklayers and carpenters with their helpers, once more returned to work. This morning however, the reversal was reversed as the tradesmen once more refused to break the line of striking Local 259, International Sheet Metal Workers Association.

The strike, over signing of a one-year pay increase agreement with Acme Heating and Plumbing, brought four sheet metal workers on strike. The refusal of the other trades to break the pickets means between 25 and 70 men have stopped work.

"We only have about a five-man force on the school job today," a spokesman for Sirotek Construction, main contractors on the site, told The Ontario Intelligencer. "All work has practically ceased."

Labrador Retriever Goes Across Town To Give Self Up to the Dog Catcher

This is the story of two men and a slightly shaggy dog—a Labrador retriever.

The story has a funny ending—funny Ha-Ha that is—for everyone but the owner, city real estate agent Doug Stork. After what happened yesterday he has, to put it in the vulgar vernacular, the quinzi cal feeling of being wagged by this tale.

Well, anyway, back to the story, as told by the owner.

Mr. Stork lives on East Dundas Street in the shade of the Belleville General Hospital. Nearby two miles away, on the Canniton Road, resides city dog catcher Charles Thorn.

Between these two men the Labrador retriever has alternated frequently in the past year. The burly Lab it seems has a penchant for wandering at large away from the Stork residence. Mr. Thorn, in his official capacity, has the job of picking him up. Each time, according to city by-law, Mr. Stork has had to pay $2 to retrieve his lab.

"It happens sometimes twice a week," says Mr. Stork. "He's cost me a fortune, but he's my favorite hunting dog.

DOG KNOWS ROUTE

"Sometimes I pick him up at the city pound. Other times Mr. Thorn picks him up from his house and I go around there."

It seems the dog got familiar not out the city routine, but the route.

Yesterday the phone in the Stork offices jangled again—and again it was dog catcher Thorn.

"Get again," he said, he had Mr. Stork's retriever, only this time he couldn't. In all heart, charge him anything.

How come?

Well it seems the Thorn family heard a scratching on their front door yesterday. They opened the door—and on the doorstep sat Mr. Stork's favorite hunting dog!

"Right around the town he goes," says Mr. Stork, "to give himself up."

With a slightly distracted gaze he asks: "Do you think it's getting to be a joke?"

Dutch Princess Visits Childhood Ottawa Friend

OTTAWA (CP)—Crown Princess Beatrix of Holland arrived in Ottawa Thursday and was reunited with her childhood friend, Mrs. T. Bradbrooke Smith, a little more than an hour later.

The princess, 25, flew to Montreal from New York earlier in the day and was driven to Ottawa by car for a three-day private visit. Princess Beatrix made a short stop at the home of The Netherlands ambassador where she changed her costume. Then she was driven to the Smith home where she met her 15-day-old namesake, Beatrix Claire, the Smiths' only child.

Princess Beatrix and Mrs. Smith spent five years together in Canada after the Dutch royal family came to Canada as Second World War refugees. They were reunited later in Holland, starting an apartment while both attended Leiden University. Mrs. Smith remained in Canada after the war when her mother, a Dutch war widow, married H. F. Armstrong with the external affairs department.

Sukarno's Blind Spot

President Sukarno of Indonesia has reiterated his support of the rebels in British North Borneo.

This is one of the group of British colonies in Southeast Asia which it is proposed to unite into the Federation of Malaysia. Eventually, this Federation would become completely independent, but for the first few years of its life Britain will maintain bases in the area for its protection.

It is easy to understand why there should be some resistance to the proposed Federation. Some of its component parts have had little relationship, one to the other, beyond the fact that they have been British colonies.

It is easy too, to understand why President Sukarno would urge the people to seek "full independence. There can be no real sovereignty while defence arrangements are in the hands of a foreign power, because no matter what liberties may be enjoyed they are by leave, rather than by right.

But when President Sukarno talks about a revolution of mankind against the exploitation of man by man, and equates this to self-determination and nationalism, he is talking nonsense.

The exploitation of man by man is not limited to the exploitation of the colonised by the colonizer.

The same day that President Sukarno voiced his support for the North Borneo rebels there came over The Canadian Press wire a story about a Lebanese immigrant in Halifax who was over-joyed—he had found another job. Instead of getting $15 a week washing dishes in a Halifax restaurant, he would in future receive $25 a week for washing dishes in a St. John hotel.

That man is being exploited just as surely as any coolie in Malaya or any black boy in Africa.

Exploitation is not a matter of color or of race. A man can be exploited just as badly in a country ruled by people of his own race as in a country ruled by foreigners.

Indeed, the fear of exploitation is one pressing and sound reason why independence cannot always be granted as quickly as some would like to see. Most of the colonizing powers have put aside their thirst for exploitation—but as experts in the art they realize that if they are to withdraw too hastily the poor and the lowly will be subjected to terrific exploitation by small groups of the privileged and educated of their own race.

Nothing prevents exploitation so effectively as a prosperous community and prosperity is best fostered by making nations large enough to support a sound economy. The proposed Federation of Malaysia may fail to match the dreams of those who advocate it for a variety of reasons. But it is not an instrument of exploitation but rather a weapon against exploitation. President Sukarno may perhaps be excused for failure to recognize this, because of his experiences in winning for his own Indonesia its freedom from the Dutch, who in their day were expert exploiters. Still it remains a fact that the course he is advocating for the people of North Borneo is more likely to lead to their exploitation than to protect them from it.

"Bare Bones" Medical Plan

Premier Roberts has introduced a bill which, in the words of The Canadian Press, "sets up the bare bones of medical care insurance."

If those bones had been in Mother Hubbard's cupboard, it would still have been bare.

The bill bears no resemblance to "medicare" on the Saskatchewan pattern.

That will be both hailed as its prime virtue and condemned as its worst fault.

The bill seeks to provide medical care insurance for all who desire to purchase it, yet to leave every person free to decide whether or not to make this purchase.

This is a great feat if it proves feasible, and sceptics would be well advised to await developments before assailing the proposal.

On the face of it, though, the plan faces heavy obstacles. If people have any sense at all, they will purchase such insurance if they have any reason to believe they need much medical attention. Because of this, payments may be expected to be large. If the plan is to stand on its own feet, this will make the cost considerably higher than under group plans, which enroll healthy and ailing alike. A coststabilizing feature will be provided by the government's announced intention to purchase insurance for those unable to meet the premiums. Still, one would expect the cost to be much higher than in any compulsory plan.

Not to go to the theatre is like making one's toilet without a mirror.—Arthur Schopenhauer.

Strictly Personal
Many Lessons Learned At Alcatraz

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the wire service stories out of San Francisco last month, reporting that Alcatraz Prison had shut up after nearly 30 years as a "maximum security" jail for "incorrigibles," failed to mention the most significant fact of all.

For in the decades of operation, "The Rock," as it was unaffectionately known by inmates and guards alike, became less and less grim and punitive toward its prisoners. Founded on a philosophy of absolute toughness, it was nevertheless learned in practical experience that such toughness did not work out.

When it was first opened in 1934 as a Federal penitentiary, the rule of silence was imposed upon the inmates. This was dropped in less than three years. Then, industries were established, and a two-channel radio system was installed, "barred" evening programs in each cell.

Privileges at first denied the men, and later given, included subscriptions to as many as eight magazines (and many a dozen books; considerable correspondence; the buying of art supplies and musical instruments; movies at weekends; and three packs of cigarettes a week.

As time went on, the inmates were permitted to take correspondence courses, and could earn up to $50 a month working in the laundry, the furniture, gloves and brush factories, or the tailor shop. Softball and handball were instituted in a recreation area.

All these innovations, according to Alcatraz officials, "have reduced tensions and improved morale." Many of them were initiated in 1938, when the entire prison riot in which two guards and three inmates lost their lives. It was the bloodiest disturbance at the penitentiary.

As I suggested in a recent piece, these reforms were sentimentalists who are against "coddling" criminals learned from the experience at Alcatraz that human beings are made only worse when they are treated like animals and given no chance to exercise their distinctively human abilities.

The rigid punishment policies at Alcatraz did not work, and were not even considered humane. Putting a man behind bars is punishment enough for anyone; any severely imposed after that is the only turns men better and desperate and utterly incapable of being rehabilitated. There is not a warden in the world who is not painfully aware of this fact.

Society still lags behind its penological experts in its primitive and vengeful and fearful — and our attitude makes the job of prison officials twice as hard. Let us hope the closing of Alcatraz marks the opening of a new chapter in American prison treatment.

Bullet-Proof Cage for Apes

Calgary Herald

One of the most provocative statements to come to our attention in some time is the announcement that a bullet-proof house is being for the ape fraternity at the Calgary Zoo.

Bullet-proof glass, more than one inch thick, will replace the conventional steel bars.

Just when, in the dispensing at that island retreat? Is the place turning into an armed camp where bullet-proof glass is the architectural norm?

And who is the bullet-proof glass designed to protect, the apes or the humans who peer in at them?

Shooting at the apes is a relatively uncommon sport in these parts, but we must be assured that the glass is not to protect the apes.

Obviously then, it is human lives which are to be safeguarded.

Everything considered, one can hardly blame the apes if they have armed themselves. It must become wearisome to have hundreds of visitors staring at you hour after hour.

After all, there is such a thing as privacy.

All in all, an intriguing development. And it's possible to wonder if zoo officials know something that the rest of us don't.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 24th, 1943

The stealing of a number of muskrat traps from along the marshes of Bay of Quinte was reported to city police by Bonnie Gerow of Rossmore over the weekend. Mr. Gerow informed the authorities that he had seen two men in a boat moving from his trap lines towards the south shore of the bay and believed that they had been responsible for the stealing of the traps. The matter was turned over to the Provincial Police.

The old proverb "lightning does not strike twice in the same place" just is not accepted by Mrs. Arthur Sharp of Hoard's Station northwest of Stirling. Last Autumn thieves stole seven, two of her fattened chickens without leaving any clues or traces. Over the weekend chicken thieves returned and stole nine more of Mrs. Sharp's hens. Today she has only two fowl left of her flock and naturally complained to Provincial Police regarding the matter.

Miss Patricia Alexander, nurse-in-training at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander on Bleecker Ave.

Miss Emma Rainie of Rawdon township is spending a few days with her sisters, Mrs. G. T. Bristol, Bowesill St.

His son the Rev. W. H. Daw, is now the Rector of the parish. Canon Daw was born in Newfoundland and was educated at St. Augustine's, Canterbury, England. During the time Canon Daw was rector of Christ Church parish, the organ in the church was removed from the loft to the front of the church; surpliced choirs were introduced in the city's Anglican churches; the first being in Christ Church. Canon Daw also put in force the system of free pews at Christ Church. During the Great War Canon Daw served overseas.

40 YEARS AGO

April 24th, 1923

Here is an interesting item from our file copy at this time many years ago. The year being 1873: "In a town which we refrain from naming, two respectable young men were recently fined $20 and costs each, the total of which was $75. Their offence was that of disturbing public worship by whispering to young women in the congregation. Probably, certain young men in Belleville will take warning and do their whispering outside the church".

The Liberal Conservative Association of West Hastings held a grand rally in Griffin's Opera House, Mr. George Ostrom occupied the chair, and the chief speaker was the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson. Addresses were also made by Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., Mr. W. H. Ireland, M.P.P. and Major Belford of East Northumberland.

50 YEARS AGO

April 26th, 1913

The buoys have been placed in the harbor.

The members of the Belleville Literary Association tendered a banquet at the Y.M.C.A. to the Rev. A. H. Drumm, minister of John Street Presbyterian Church here, who resigned to accept a call to the Presbyterian Church in Bowmanville. The chair was occupied by the Rev. C. G. Stobo, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Mr. Drumm has been in Belleville for the past ten years.

Mr. D. J. Fairfied spent yesterday in Bancroft on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Balman have returned home from Forest where they visited friends.

Byron McCrodan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. McCrodan, is home from Toronto University to spend a few days.

Mr. T. Crozier of Brockville is the guest of his son, Mr. T. H. P. Crozier on Alexander Street.

Medical Plan Back in 1654

Stratford Beacon-Herald Herald

Etienne Bouchard was a physician and surgeon who came to Canada from France, to practise his profession at Montreal. He opened his Canadian career in what might be called enterprising and adventurous times. When he came in 1653, Montreal was a stockade settlement in a forest clearing with a total population of less than 500. The settlement on Montreal Island founded by Maisonneuve in 1642 was still a risky enterprise when Bouchard arrived. The Iroquois, who were pro-Dutch and hostile to this colony of white men in their territory, used the St. Lawrence, the Ottawa, and the Richelieu as the main water highways of their hunting parties and war parties to the Dutch

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were generally steady on slaughter steers, heifers and yearlings at the Ontario public stockyards this week.

Cow prices were actively strong and replacement cattle were in good demand.

Veal calf prices were lower. Hog prices were easier. Feeder lamb prices were higher and receipts of spring lambs were too few to establish a market.

Cattle receipts were estimated about 10,000 head, about 900 more than last week and nearly 800 more than the same week in 1962. Western cattle receipts were sharply higher at 457 head as compared to the last week. Western stock calf receipts totalled 32 compared with 35 last week. Two loads of slaughter cattle were shipped east, one to Montreal, the other to Halifax. No cattle were sold for export to the United States but 112 veal calves were shipped there for slaughter.

Slaughter Cattle: Choice steers closed at 23.50-24.50 with fancy feedlot steers to 25.10; good 22.50-23.50; medium 20-22; common 16 - 19; good heifers 21.50-22.50 with choice 22.50-23 and odd sales to 23.50; medium 19.50-21.50; common 16 - 19; choice fed yearlings 24-26 with odd top to 27; good 22-24; good cows 18-19 with sales to 19.50; medium 16.50 - 17.50; canners and cutters 13-16; good heavy bologna bulls 19-20 with sales to 21; common and medium 15-18.50.

Replacement cattle: Good stockers 24-26 with sales to 27 and good stock calves selling to 30; common and medium stockers and stock calves 20-23.

Calves: Choice vealers 33-35 with odd tops as high as 37; good 28-32; medium 24-27; common 20-23; boners 16-18.

Hogs: Grade A 23.35-25.15; heavy sows 18.35-19.15 with light sows gaining a $3 premium; stags 12.50 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good feedlot lambs 26.50; common and medium feedlots 20-24; good light sheep 8-10; common sheep 3-7.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Price changes were only fractional as the morning trading volume showed a slight increase on the stock market today.

Golds was the only section to show a rise on the exchange index and the 11 a.m. volume was nearly 1,250,000 shares, the highest in nearly three weeks.

Financial issues were mixed on the main list with Laurentide Financial A up ⅛ and Bank of Nova Scotia and National Trust each ahead ¼. Toronto-Dominion Bank and Bank of Montreal were each off ¼ and Royal ⅛.

Steels remained in higher ground and featured Dominion Bridge and Dominion Foundries and Steel each up ¼ and Ontario Steel and Page - Hersey both ⅛.

On the downside, Texaco Canada, trading ex-dividend 40 cents, dropped ⅛, Interprovincial Pipe Line and Distillers Seagram each ⅛ and Imperial Tobacco ⅛.

On index, industrials eased .10 to 632.26, base metals .28 to 212.97 and western oils .42 to 122.40. Golds rose .14 to 97.43. The 11 a.m. volume was 1,206,000 shares compared with 281,000 at the same time Thursday.

There was little activity in golds except for an announcement that San Antonio was temporarily suspended from trading beginning at the open today. The company requested the action to minimize trading in the stock during a discussion of a bill affecting the company by the Manitoba Government.

A slightly lower base metals market showed Falconbridge down ⅛, while International Nickel rose ⅛ and Labrador ⅝.

Western oils were also down with Calgary and Edmonton off ⅛ and Home B up ⅛.

The market was lower during light trading Thursday.

Banks and most financial stocks were generally representative of the industrial drop, and minus signs were scattered through most other groups.

Bank of Nova Scotia and Laurentide Finance A both fell ¼, Industrial Acceptance ⅛, National Trust and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce each ⅛, Traders Finance A and Investors Syndicate A both ¼ and Royal Bank ¼.

Steels, after opening weaker, were mixed at the close with Slater, Canadian Iron and Steel Company of Canada all down in a ¼ to ½ range, and Dominion Bridge, Algoma Steel and Dominion Foundries and Steel were up in a ¼ to 1¼ range.

Other significant changes featured Walker - Gooderham and Building Products down a point and Canadian Utilities and Dominion Bridge up 1¼ and 1¼ respectively.

On index, industrials fell 2.06 to 632.38, golds .38 to 97. 35 and western oils .70 to 122.82. Base metals rose 1.16 to 213.25. Final volume was 3,284,000 shares compared with 3,156,000 Wednesday.

Base metals rose with Noranda ahead ¾, International Nickel ¼ and Craigmont ⅛.

Delegate Will Be Named In Near Future

Belleville should be represented at the annual meeting of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, the directors of the local chamber decided yesterday, but they didn't decide who would do the representing. Part of the problem, directors conceded, was that few members of the board could commit three days of their time a month from now.

The annual meeting of the provincial chamber is planned for May 29, 30 and 31, in Toronto.

A. O. Drysdale, who would normally represent Belleville, will be at the meeting, but he will stay only two days. And most of the really important business will be passed on the third day. Also, Mr. Drysdale officially resigned from the Belleville chamber yesterday, because he will be moving to Montreal.

Registration of a delegate will cost $45, a fee that covers all expenses except hotel bills. Delegates not registered cannot vote, and may not present briefs at the meeting. Earl Dickenother, secretary-manager of the Belleville Chamber, will attend, but as a paid employee of the Belleville chamber, not as a member.

The directors consider Belleville's representation at the provincial meeting an important matter, because they have an interest in a brief concerning store hours, which will be presented at the meeting. The directors decided to defer selection of a delegate, and consideration of the expenses to be covered. Ben Corke, chairman of the board of directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, will announce the delegate's name when the decision is made.

Land Owner 'Made a Patsy' Out of Singer

- - Grossman

TORONTO (CP)—A Peterborough land owner who tried unsuccessfully to "unload" property on the Ontario Liquor Control Board "made a patsy" out of Vernon Singer (L—York Centre), Ontario chief liquor commissioner, Allan Grossman, told the legislature Thursday night.

Mr. Grossman (PC—Toronto-St.-Andrew) was replying to charges made by the Liberal member during the budget debate that the LCBO had paid too much money for a store site in Peterborough and made the purchase without consulting local officials.

Mr. Singer said the board paid $23,500 for 1¼ acres on the north side of Highway 7 purchased in 1963 from Donald and Gerald McGillis.

The site was part of a 10-acre parcel which the McGillises bought for $33,000 in 1957, Mr. Singer said. He charged that property for sale south of the McGillis property was going for less money.

Mr. Grossman replied that the city of Peterborough should be ready to "pin all the blame on my chest" for getting the store located. He said there was never any trouble with the local council.

"Mr. Singer has been made a patsy by some vendor trying to unload property on the board, and we wouldn't pay the price. So he has been making trouble in council and in the city ever since."

The liquor commissioner said he had visited Peterborough personally to iron out difficulties in selecting a site for the store.

He looked at 18 sites but each one was rejected for various reasons including traffic congestion and the price asked.

"Some . . . tried to hold us up and we would not go for it," he said. "Others thought their property should be bought because they had influence with someone on city council or someone else."

Mr. McGillis was unwilling to sell a portion of his land, saying he would be liable for taxation as a subdivider, Mr. Grossman said. An agreement was later reached to buy the 1¼-acre site, he said.

Space

in the ionosphere and transmitting information to ground stations. The launchings of the Canadian-made rockets will be by NRC, Canadian Army, DRB and USAF personnel.

ARE THE FIRST

Dr. D. C. Rose, head of the council's division of NRC, said Thursday in an interview that the rockets launched early this month are the first of a series in a long-range program to study the lower part of the ionosphere. The universities of Alberta and Saskatchewan were co-operating in the design of the instruments to be carried aloft.

Four more rockets will be fired from the Churchill station in the fall and another group in the spring of 1964. From that time on NRC plans to fire about 10 rockets a year.

Dr. Rose said rockets are the only way the lower part of the ionosphere can be studied. It is too high to be reached by manned or unmanned machines from earth and too low for orbiting satellites.

"Preliminary results indicate that both firings this month are successful and that scientific findings of importance will be forthcoming when the telemetering data has been analyzed," Dr. Rose said.

The two rockets reached a height of 90 miles and have transmitted information to ground stations for a period of about six minutes before plunging into Hudson Bay.

CARRIED 200 POUNDS

One of the rockets carried a nose cone containing 200 pounds of instruments. The other carried three separate packages of instruments which fell to earth independently.

The Black Brant II rocket is 17 inches in diameter and costs about $15,500. Cost of the equipment package varies depending on its size and type of experiment used.

Dr. Rose said the research program will produce valuable information on why the northern lights and other phenomena in the ionosphere play havoc with radio communications.

"To increase man's knowledge of space we want to learn the structure of the ionosphere; what causes it to be there and why it stays there. I expect to see a long era of rocket experiments before we have the answers to these questions."

W. I. Plans Gala "May Day Ball"

PICTON — Picton Institute held its first social meeting in the Community Centre with approximately 100 members and guests present.

The guest speaker, Mr. J Lansing, gave a most informative talk on the growing of gladioli, illustrating his talk with color slides.

Mr. Phil Dodds, provincial horticultural representative, spoke on behalf of the Prince Edward Horticulture Society and urged everyone to beautify their town a bit of this beautiful country, especially since several people from other horticultural societies will be touring Prince Edward some time this summer.

A full report was given on the "Beautification of Picton" project being sponsored by the Picton W. I.

An invitation was extended to the guests to attend the "May Day Ball" being held at Glue hall early in May. A delicious cold turkey buffet will be served at 10.30.

A dainty buffet lunch brought a most enjoyable evening to a close.

Six Entries In District Softball Loop

PICTON — Picton and District Softball League was reorganized this week with six entries. Representing the teams were Veterans Armouring, Outlet Park; Capt. Ball, Canadian Guards; Jack Laundry, Hamilton; Ken Hummel, McFarlane; Tom Halloran, Wellington; George Hannah, Pr. Ed. Co-op.

The executive consists of Creighton Lockyer, president; Capt. Ball, vice-president; S. Breisenridge, secretary; Norman Mallett, treasurer.

Plans are being made to hold the league opening on May 20.

Dr. Matthews To Give Talk on

Rev. Dr. D. M. Matthews, associate Professor of Religion at Queen's University and Professor of Systematic Theology at Queen's Theological College, will address the alumni at the annual meeting dinner on May 1st at St. Mary Magdalene Parish Hall in Picton.

Dr. Matthews has written many articles for various journals on theological topics including the "Canadian Journal of Theology" and "Queen's Quarterly".

His topic will be "Too Many Religions".

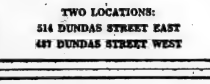
Frederick Jackson, offered no use of his weaponry.

Within 20 minutes the dog located the bandit man, part of his uppey leg torn away by a shotgun blast, hiding beneath a lumber pile. He surrendered quickly.

Police said they found a large number of guns and ammunition, marijuana and hypodermic needles in the car used by the invaders.

There was some indication a fifth man was involved and officers spent the night in the area.



When police received word of the robbery plans, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ball went to stay with relatives while their son remained at the mill. He carried on normally during the day to avoid arousing suspicion and after dark remained in the upstairs of the house.

Police said a valuable collection of antiques in the kitchen and other rooms was badly shot up. Frank Ball had returned recently from an antique-buying trip to Europe.

University Teachers Getting Raw Deal Enquiry Told

MONTREAL (CP) — University teachers are getting a raw deal under the Income Tax Act and should either be classified as a "business" or "profession," the royal commission on taxation was told today.

The Canadian Association of University Teachers said its members, by being classed as employees, are being "most unfairly" discriminated against.

They are not allowed to make deductions for such things as expenses incurred in research; the cost of professional journals; books, gowns and text books; the cost of summer school refresher courses, and living expenses while working during the summer as visiting professors.

The brief to the Carter commission said that most professions enjoy a choice of independent practice or working for an employer. But the university teacher, "a highly qualified, skilled professional man," has no such choice. "He cannot run a university either on his own or in partnership."

"The fundamental question is whether a full-time university teacher, who has dedicated himself to teaching and research as a member of a university faculty, is actually carrying on his profession when he is paid a fixed salary by his university employer."

In the United States, said the brief, it is possible for an employee to be classed as a "man for expense deductions" and in Britain and Australia many expenses of university teachers could be deducted.

In arguing that university teachers differ from the normal definition of employee, the brief said they are not involved in the normal master-servant concept and they are not employed for profit-making by the university.

MAKES LITTLE CHANGE

Although it is smaller in size and buying power, the U.S. one dollar bill has changed little in design since first issued in 1878.

headquarters that the firing began at 5 a.m. Thursday, sources said.

They said the neutralist general reported the attacks were from the pro-Communist Pathet Lao units and some dissident neutralists, using artillery as well as mortars.

But Royal Lao said his own forces did not return the fire, and the sources said the Laos saw no neutralists shooting back.

Initial diplomatic reaction in Vientiane was depressing. There was hope the inspection team—which went to Kong Le's position after reported disagreement about the trip among commission members — could strengthen the cease-fire.

NDP Leader

then his resignation should be asked for."

And, Mr. MacDonald said, if the legislature was misled in 1959, "it was misled by the acquiescence of the then attorney-general (Mr. Roberts) and the prime minister of the day (Leslie Frost)."

Waving a copy of the 1960 Hansard report, he said: "It was brought to his attention and he deliberately refused to do anything about it."

Quoting from his own speeches and those of Mr. Roberts in 1959, Mr. MacDonald said contradictory statements by Ralph K. Farris, president of NONG, and Mr. Roberts in earlier inquiry were brought to the attorney-general's attention.

"Now the minister comes into the House and admits some witnesses were liars. He even names Mr. Farris."

"On the basis of new evidence," Mr. Roberts interjected.

Mr. MacDonald said Mr. Roberts had been informed in 1959 that some "evidence was perjured."

The minister had documentary evidence and he refused to look at it," the NDP leader said.

ALLEGES COVER-UP

He said the current NONG investigation was revived, not on the initiative of the minister but on the initiative of the British Columbia government which had uncovered certain material. He accused Mr. Roberts of having covered up the facts.

"That is an absolute falsehood and I rise on a point of personal privilege," Mr. Roberts declared. "It is an absolute falsehood."

The NDP leader continued: "He was going to be provided with an opportunity which would reveal his sins of the past.

"So he makes the best of it and reopens the inquiry. The minister had a desire to get back at the Liberals, and from the evidence he had he felt he had a good many top Liberals involved, other than the leader of the Liberal Party."

The 1959 inquiry into NONG, whose report was published early in 1960, shook the government. Two cabinet ministers resigned when it was revealed they had profited from NONG share transactions and a third minister, who had resigned some months earlier, was implicated as one of four promoters who had made $500,000 each on illegal stock transactions in NONG. John Wintermeyer also had transactions in the stock before becoming Liberal leader.

DEMANDS RESIGN

Repeating his demands that Mr. Roberts be asked to resign his cabinet post, Mr. MacDonald said he was not approved first by the cabinet. Mr. MacDonald said: "It is quite possible this was no breach of cabinet secrecy."

Earlier in the debate, Vernon Singer (L—York Centre) said Mr. Roberts had violated his oath of cabinet secrecy in divulging information which Mr. Cass had refused to reveal publicly.

Mr. Singer said it was a case of "one cabinet minister fighting with another" and "the most incredible display ever seen in a government of a democratic institution."

He said Premier Roberts was "not able to control the minister of lands and forests and stop him from making this partial statement damning an unnamed person."

ASKS GIVE FACTS

The Liberal member demanded that the government "make available all the facts that are available" from the re-opened NONG investigation.

Mr. Roberts' statement was "a betrayal of his government and a betrayal of his oath as a member of cabinet council," Mr. Singer said.

Earlier Thursday, Mr. Case said the securities commission had left it advisable to await termination of an exhaustive investigation before bringing in a report on the NONG inquiry. He said the report could not be expected for "some time."

Successful Living

Faces Death Within a Year

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Two months ago the doctors told me I have a hopeless cancer and I will have about a year to live. I decided to keep this from my husband and children. However, my eldest daughter found out about it and immediately quit her job and came home.

I have sworn her to secrecy and the change in her attitude towards me is making the whole family wonder. She is being the most wonderful person—she will walk on me hand and feet. I did not want or expect this, but she says I am going to accept what she can do or she will tell the whole family. In about six months my family will have no home, but in the meantime I would like to have these six months to live fully—by that I mean I want six months to try and take time to do and enjoy all the little things that we all either skip over in a time when no one realizes how very short life can be.

The thought of death was very trying for a couple of months, but I now feel I am luckier than most people because I have time to try and make a perfect memory for my family.

I feel badly that my daughter is giving up her work and independent life. As my mother-in-law is a widow, I know she will stay in and suffer over it my death. So please, Doris, give me your opinion, even if you think I am wrong.—DOOMED.

DEAR DOOMED—You are an inspiration to the rest of us. I'd suggest you accept your daughter's devotion as graciously as it is given; this is part of kindness too. Sharing your memory will help you with your enjoyment of what is left to you of this life.

Within our Christian religion there is faith to believe us in our approach to death. To live one day at a time is indeed the only way. And give your dear ones all the love in your heart to remember you by.

DEAR DORIS—My son and his wife have the sweetest baby boy now 13 months old. He is not wanted, came at the wrong time they said, and they are making him suffer for it. My son does not like to be made to behave. So he is paying for him to be boarded at someone else's place and they go to see him sometimes. He makes the excuse that they both work odd hours.

I think I am in a position to keep him but my husband does not want me to as he is due to retire this year and will have a very small pension for us to live on. Am I right in my wanting to keep my grandson? I feel that dear little baby who is so bright and trying so hard to do what is wanted of him should have the chance of living with people who want him and treat him the way he has a right to be treated.

My husband says I have no right to interfere. Perhaps he is right, but I can't sleep at night thinking of that little boy.—PANA.

DEAR NANA—Taking it out on the baby for picking the wrong birthdate is too unfair to be funny. I am sending you the name of a book which quotes chapter and verse of just how this type of neglect can warp a small baby's personality for life. This will help your thinking and their—if you can get them to be interested in the psyche of this small miracle of theirs. Adoption is unthinkable.

DEAR DORIS—I am the victim of a nervous disease which means that I have a handicap. This is not outwardly visible, but my muscles lack strength. I would like to earn a little extra money but cannot take a medical without the company doctor spotting my disease.

Under these circumstances employers become afraid. I hear it being said constantly that disabled people need lots of rest. But there are many like me who would succeed with too much rest and not enough to do. I thrive on activity.

How can I overcome these fears which keep anyone from discovering that I would be a capable and willing worker?—INNER DRIVE.

DEAR INNER—Among the handicapped are some of industry's best workers. Such persons are often so eager to make good that they far surpass the accomplishments of some healthy, more casual employees.

Try doing some volunteer work for a time. This way you could prove to yourself and an employer that you've got what it takes.

* * *

(Don't just muddle along. A letter to Doris, through this newspaper, can get you a new slant on your problem).

Mail-Order

ment Bryden added the recommendation that federal laws be amended to abolish brand names from the use of brand names in the most important single factor making for high promotion costs and proliferation of products."

A summary of the report was released to the press before it was tabled.

In its summation of the report, the committee stressed repeatedly the difficulty for general practitioners and other doctors in selecting the cheapest and most useful product from the host of medicines which flood the market.

It heard testimony that "while there has not been a major new drug released to the market since 1955, there continues to be 200 to 400 new drugs introduced each year."

That drugs can be obtained more cheaply through bulk purchases by generic name rather than by trade name has been proven by the Ontario health department, the committee said. It was informed that since the department began such purchases, "savings amounting to approximately $800,000 were realized . . . on the purchase of drugs, without decreasing the quality or quantity purchased."

It found the cost of drugs "is a hardship to persons who use large quantities of drugs in the case of chronic illness" and in the case of those on pension or other small fixed incomes.

AID TO NEEDY

". . . some assistance, it is felt, should be provided to relieve the financial burden. The committee therefore recommends that a central mail-order outlet be established whereby chronic and needy patients who use large quantities of expensive drugs can obtain them at a lower cost.

"It is possible that dispensaries of some of the larger hospitals could be used for this purpose."

Mr. Rowntree told reporters that details could be worked out by those concerned. "We didn't feel we should lay down how it would operate it."

The committee found that industries in the drug trade in Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom had already produced some price reductions in Ontario.

It estimated that Ontario accounted for more than half of the $150,000,000 in drugs manufactured in Canada. Of the 106 companies in Canada that year, nearly half were American-owned, 35 per cent were owned by Canadians and the rest by British and European interests.

The large foreign interest in Canadian drug manufacture was mentioned by the committee in the question of research.

RESEARCH COST LITTLE

"One of the most consistent arguments advanced to support the cost of drugs is the expense involved in research and development. . . . A special report revealed that the average spent on research amounted to only 2.5 per cent of the companies' sales dollars. In fact, research in Canada is largely restricted to two or three of the larger companies and institutions like the Connaught Laboratories and the universities."

Since so many firms rely on parent organizations outside Canada for research, the committee said, import tariffs on drug equipment should "be removed as a means of encouraging drug research and manufacture in Canada."

The report found there "is no doubt, there is considerable waste" in promoting drug sales, since busy doctors have little time to see salesmen, read literature from the drug companies or test adequately new drugs supplied to them.

The general practitioner was not always equipped to judge the relative merits of such drugs much less its cost. And promotional literature "tends in underplay the cost and overplay detractions of their new products," it said. No single publication is available "which will tell the doctor all he wants and needs to know about every new drug."

The committee, therefore, urged "increased co-operation between manufacturers, pharmacists and the medical profession" aimed at reducing expensive advertising and sales promotion.

And to help doctors sort through the host of new drugs and their prices, it pressed for a "better method of disseminating information between manufacturers, pharmacists and the medical profession, with special emphasis on a references to price, be devised to enable the medical practitioner to prescribe the most economical drug of good quality."

To relieve the druggist caught in the squeeze between high business costs and stiff price competition, the report urged more standardization of drug packaging for more economical distribution, and a change of laws to allow pharmacists to lock their prescription department while away from it without closing the entire store as now required.

House

Outlining provisions of the draft medical care bill, Health Minister Dymond said it is estimated that $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 will be required to finance the plan in its first year of operation.

A Liberal motion that the bill be withdrawn for study and redrafting was defeated by a 45 to-23 vote. The bill will form the basis of a special committee study before it is reintroduced next session.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer criticized the plan as "too vague" and said it does not spell out whether it is to be "an indemnity or a true type plan." Indemnity would cover only part of medical care costs while "fundamentally" a service type plan would cover all costs.

Kenneth Bryden (NDP—Woodbine) said the government plan is "not supportable" in his party's view and "is not in any sense a medicare program." The bill was an attempt to regulate some of the worst abuses that had grown up under private insurance plans.

He said 46 private companies offering medical care insurance programs collected $150,000,000 in premiums last year and paid out $73 in benefits for every $100 collected. An NDP program would cost only $5,000,000 a year for administration.

Dr. Dymond said such a program as the NDP proposes would require compulsion and that "this government does not subscribe to the philosophy of compulsion."

Considering the cost, Dr. Dymond said, "this is no picayune effort—it certainly is not as phoney as a $3 bill."

Mr. Cass said the OSC questioned persons who had bought Canadian Oil shares in August and September, 1963—the interval between an unsuccessful and a successful bid for control of the company.

The investigation was ordered after the acceptance of an offer by Shell Investments of $32.50 a share for Canadian Oil, conditional on Shell acquiring "at least 50 per cent of the outstanding common shares."

STUDY QUESTION

The question of the possibility of corporate insiders taking advantage of information to the prejudice of shareholders was being studied and if protective legislation was indicated, "it will receive the close consideration of the government."

Labor Minister Rowntree introduced new regulations covering the safety of workmen in compressed air operations.

Mr. Rowntree said one change, "perhaps the most significant," provides for the three-stage decompression of workers moving from compressed air conditions into atmospheric pressure, formerly a two-stage procedure.

Are You Ingenious?

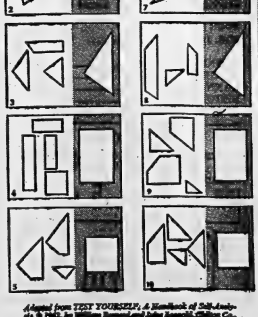
By WILLIAM BERNARD and JULES LEOPOLD



Maybe there is nothing new under the sun. But new ways of combining and utilizing existing elements or concepts keep the architect, engineer, scientist, inventor and even the artist in business. To make new shapes out of old, to evolve new ideas by altering and blending old ones, involves first of all an analytical breakdown into parts, forms and properties. This is followed by a synthesis—putting together these functions into a new whole with altered characteristics.

The analysis-synthesis approach is common chiefly among trained thinkers.

This test is perhaps the most difficult in the series. A high score tends to indicate aptitudes for pseudo-inventing, creative and organized thinking, and the factor of intelligence applied to a group of specific relationships but not necessarily involving verbal skills.

DIRECTIONS—In each of the two problems, the separate pieces can be put together to form the figure in the square. Examine these figures and then on the large figure to indicate how it could be made up of the pieces. You may experiment with your pencil or fingers only.

St. John's F. G Plans Coming Bazaar, Euchre

POINT ANNE — The regular monthly meeting of St. John's Friendship Group was held on Tuesday at the home of the president, Mrs. Paula Horwood who opened the meeting.

The group decided to hold the bazaar in May with a bake sale and bazaar at 6 p.m. followed by a euchre at 8 p.m.; pie and tea to be served for a nominal charge during the bazaar to those wishing it.

A basket of groceries to be given as a door prize and Clara Green was appointed to decorate and look after the basket.

A special meeting of the group will be held on May 7 to form a committee to look after the various tables.

It was requested the secretary send invitations to the various ladies' groups in the district asking them to the bazaar.

The president closed the meeting and served lunch with a birthday cake the centre of attraction.

Each member present brought her "Birthday Money." Money."

Slovak Origin Children Go To School

MONTREAL (CP) — Every Saturday afternoon, more than 60 Canadian - born children of Slovak origin attend the Canadian Slovak School in Montreal.

The school, started four years ago by the Canadian Slovak Cultural Centre, wants to help enrich Canadian culture by "teaching our children the heritage and customs of Slovakia."

Mrs. John Dvorsky, president of the women's auxiliary of the centre, said many children had never heard the Slovak tongue before coming to the school, which teaches them the language, dances and folk customs of their forefathers.

"They have grown up in homes where their families intermarried with the English, French, Germans and Italians. Others came from homes where Slovak was the first tongue.

Mrs. Dvorsky, born in Canada of Slovakian parents, said very often the children were wrongly told in public schools that they were Czechoslovak—not Slovak.

She referred to the fact that the Czechs and Slovaks were separate nations before their union in 1918.

W.I. Names 1963 Officers

WELLINGTON — The Wellington Women's Institute met in the town hall last Tuesday evening with Mrs. Tripp, the president in charge of the meeting.

During business, invitations were read and accepted to attend Picton W.I. and Consecon W.I. meetings. Annual reports were given by the convenors of the standing committees.

The slate of officers was brought in by Mrs. Jackson and were installed as follows: president — Mrs. C. # County Home W. A. Enjoys Bingo Game

On April 22nd the Women's Auxiliary of the County Home met for its regular monthly meeting in the library of the Home.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Daniels, the vice-president, Mrs. Daniels, presided. All reports were given.

Plans were made for the fall tea and bazaar; Mrs. Nobes and Mrs. Wallbridge were appointed.

At the conclusion of the business, the ladies met with the residents for the customary birthday party in their honor. The game of bingo, which the Auxiliary had recently purchased, was played with the guests participating.

The friendship circle was formed and the birthday song was sung for those residents having birthdays within the month.

Mrs. Hattie Foster, the eldest resident present, cut the beautiful birthday cake and pictures were taken.

Mrs. Trupp and Mrs. Bamber presided at the lovely spring like tea-table and everyone enjoyed a social half-hour over tea and cookies, while chatting with the residents and helping to make their day a happy one.

XI Beta Zeta Discusses 'Friendship'

A recent meeting of XI Beta Zeta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held at the home of Mrs. H. House with Mrs. E. Drury as speaker for the evening. Her topic was "How to Make Friends." She pointed out the various qualities one looks for in a friend, companionship; loyalty; tolerance; and read a most interesting and informative story about the life of Edith Cavell, the English nurse, who, during World War 1, established a hospital for soldiers, both Allied and German, bringing comfort and friendship to all who came in contact with her.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. H. House.

The theme, "Friendship" was again the subject for a further meeting when the hostess, Mrs. D. Boyce, was in charge of the program. Each member was asked to give a short sketch of a true friend. Mrs. Boyce read a true story telling the fact that each one, in her own way, has a need of friends.

The president, Mrs. R. Hitchey, was pleased to announce that three new members will be joining the group at its next meeting.

During the serving of refreshments, plans were made to attend the annual Founder's Day banquet to be held late on April.

Tuesday P.M. Bowling Loop Holds Banquet

The third annual banquet of the Tuesday Afternoon Ladies' Bowling League was held on April 23rd at the Belmont Banquet Room. Mrs. Una Buchanan presided at the tables for the "Queen," and Mrs. M. Skinner gave the invocation, after which all enjoyed a roast beef dinner.

Some business was discussed at the conclusion of the meal, and the officers for next season were introduced as follows: president, Eileen Chaplin; vice-president, Mary Latham, and treasurer, Reta Lawrence.

The president, Del Wills, called on Ella Davis, co-captain of last year's winning team, to present the Labatt trophy to the captain of this year's team, Merne Richardson of the Folks Dots.

Eileen Chaplin presented the Individual trophies to the team members who are: Merne Richardson, Mary Fletcher, Del Wills, Eltreida Vader, Jo Clendenan and Jean Spencer.

HIGH AVERAGE TROPHY

The high average trophy was presented to Jean Spencer by Reta Lawrence, treasurer of the league. There was a tie for high triple, so the trophies were presented to Jean Bonter and Mary Latham by Dot Wills, president of the league. The high single trophy was won by Jo Johnson, presented by Mary Latham.

The past president, Mary Fletcher, closed the meeting with a gift and thanked her, on behalf of all the ladies for her work, as president. Each team was given prize money in order of standing.

DOOR PRIZES

There were six door prizes drawn during the evening, donated by local establishments and the club. The winners of these gifts were: Phyllis Pope, Caroline Cone, Ruth Chambers, Ella Davis, Evva Thrasher and Jane Gay.

The ladies enjoyed a lively game of Court Whist for the remainder of the evening for which Mary Fletcher was card convener.

The prizes were won by Phyllis Pope, Dorothy Rashotte and Jo Clendennan.

HAVE NEW HOMES

Nearly one third of the families in Belleville are living in homes built since the Second World War.

Pre-season plans augur well for the women's division of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club.

Women's division president Ena Cooke chaired the first meeting of the golfing distaff side recently, attended by 60 members, including seven new ones.

The meeting was featured by the presentation of the annual awards of the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union to three members.

To Anne Acton went the award of the Silver Division with Dolly Diamond taking the bronze division award. Doris Hogle was presented with the bronze award of the business girls' section.

The presentations were made by Helen Smith. They are presented annually to the second players with the lowest scores of the previous season.

After Wynn McKeen's house committee report, Mary Mott, social convener, outlined plans for a dessert bridge on June 5th and a mixed bridge on June 25th. A new departure is a duplicate bridge which gets under way early in June.

It will be held every two weeks and is open to members and non-members.

Games captain Phyl Dyble announced plans for the week-by Thursday draws which proved highly successful last year. The first draw will be held May 9th.

The official season of the trophy ends under par on May 5th with a mixed two-ball tournament followed by a buffet dinner.

Members of the 1963 women's executive were introduced by President Corke.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

THE GROWING POPULARITY OF SOUP

Noticed anything different about the air recently?

Spring has freshened it with a marvelous aroma. But, if you sniff — politely, of course — beyond the scent of new grass and budding lilacs, you might detect the equally stimulating scent of soup.

Small wonder that the smell of soup is on the air, considering the quantities being served on American tables. Recently, when we had a cup of soup with Master Chef Walter Obrist, of Switzerland, he informed us that soup pots are bubbling at the rate of $500 million a year and that each of us drinking — or eating — 37% more soup than we did in 1950.

Utensils for serving and savoring soup have kept pace with production of the brew, and Mr. Obrist confessed he was surprised to find here such an assortment of spoons, plates, cups, mugs and large heavy bowls.

For himself, Mr. Obrist feels that "soups should only be eaten from pure white soup plates so that its true color and texture may be enjoyed as well as its flavor. Soups should be a true delight to the eye as well as to the palate."

UBIQUITOUS SOUP

Regardless of how its served, in white plates or individual tureens, soup is likely to appear on the menu not only at lunch or dinner, but at any time of day or night — at breakfast, at the cocktail parties (on the rocks, of course), during office soup breaks from vending machines, or even as a nightcap. There are any number of social occasions on which soup is ready for you. The question is, are you ready for soup?

For instance: Do you eat soup or drink it?

When it's served in a cup or mug, are you allowed to pick it up and drink it, or do you use a spoon?

If the cup has two handles, do you hold both or just one? Which one?

Do you tilt the soup plate towards you or away from you. Or are you really supposed to tilt at all?

Do you guide the side of the spoon to your mouth or sip from the tip?

P. S. Are you sure?

Here are some general rules of thumb:

A thin soup served in a cup may be sipped directly from the cup. Any bits of meat or vegetables left in the bottom are polished off with a spoon. The cup may be lifted with both handles or one. Fortunately, half the problem is already solved, since two-handled cups, which used to be used widely, are found today only at formal dinners.

A thick soup, such as chowder, is served in a bowl or large soup plate, and eaten from the tip of the spoon. More liquid soups are sipped from the side of the spoon.

Jellied consomme or madrilene is eaten with a small spoon from a china cup. Bouillon or consomme-on-the-rocks, which has become so popular in recent years, usually is served in an old-fashioned glass with a wide mouth.

FILY AWAY FROM

When eating soup, tilt the soup plate away from you and spoon it up in the same direction. But once the soup is in the spoon, bring it towards you; don't bend over the bowl to reach for it. Some purists feel you should never tilt, but generally it's considered acceptable.

At dinner, soup is always served in plates, but at late supper it belongs in cups or bowls.

Intensive research has revealed no special considerations that are recorded our mustached or bearded brethren, except that perhaps they be allowed an extra napkin.

And remember! The Sip in Soup is always Silent!

GRANNIES PLAY GOLF

EDINBURGH (CP) — A golf club for grandmothers has been formed here. The 32 - strong membership list includes two great-grandmothers.

Christ Church C. C. Enjoys Social Time

On Monday evening members of Christ Church Contact Club held a social evening under the direction of Irene Weatherstone's group.

Interesting slides on home decorating were shown by Mr. Ossie Mann, a representative from a well-known Paint Company from which members accepted many new home-decorating ideas.

Prizes were won by Mickey Lake and Trudy Sands. Other prize winners during the evening were: Marjory Bunnett, Shirley Harris and Trudy Sands.

NO MONDAY MEETING

It was announced that there would be no meeting on Monday, April 29th. Instead of the regular Monday night meeting, Contact Club members are requested to assemble at the Parish Hall on Tuesday, April 30th.

Members were reminded of their corporate communion being held on May 5th, for which all members are requested to be present. Members were also reminded to gather as much rummage as possible for the sale to be held in the near future.

Final plans were made at Monday night's meeting for the "Coffee Serenade".

Hostesses for the evening were Betty Kerr and Ann Tredell.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Would you have a recipe for sweet corn relish similar to commercial which could be made out of corn niblets? — June L.

ANSWER:

Yes.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menus

(This is a reducer's meal — see Tuesday — For non-reducers Add Baked Potatoes and Gingerbread.) Fish Fillets Baked In Milk (see Tuesday); Herbed Shoestring Beets (see Tuesday); Sliced Cucumbers and Tomatoes on Shredded Leaf Lettuce with Reducers' Salad Dressing; Applesauce Whip (see Tuesday); Coffee.

CORN RELISH (from canned or fresh frozen niblets):

4 cups niblet corn (canned or fresh frozen), drained, 1 1-3 cups chopped cucumbers, 2-3 cup chopped onion, 1-3 cup chopped green peppers, 1 1-3 cups diced celery (canned, thick part), 1 2-3 cup vinegar, 2 2-3 tablespoons salt, 1 1-3 cups sugar, 1-3 teaspoon celery seed, 1-3 teaspoon turmeric, 1 1-3 tablespoons flour, 1 1-3 tablespoons mustard, ½ cup cold cept corn and tomatoes and bring to boil and cook until onion is tender. Add corn and tomatoes. Mix flour and mustard with cold water to form a smooth paste. Stir into relish until it thickens slightly and stir and cook 5 minutes longer. Pour into sterile jars and seal.

QUESTION:

. . . I have been searching for chocolate candy recipe made with mashed potatoes. I would appreciate it if you could share this recipe or others form aking chocolates. Your column is a boost to us housewives — Gloria D.

ANSWER:

I nearly have what you are asking for. It is called

COCOANUT PEAKS (given here April 5/58 — courtesy Mary F.):

1 cup hot mashed potatoes, 4 cups icing sugar, 4 cups cocoanut, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt.

Mix together and form into peaked-up mounds. Put small amount melted sweet chocolate over the top like a top-knot. These may be colored any color but look very nice white.

NOTE:

You may add 2 or 4 tablespoons cocoa to this mixture if desired. Readers, if you have the chocolate candy made with mashed potatoes Gloria wants would you please send it to me? I have mailed to you, Gloria, former releases giving recipes for making chocolates.

QUESTION:

Perhaps sometime in your column you could tell us about wild rice and fiddleheads. I often use your recipes in my daily plans — Florence M.

ANSWER:

I have mailed to you a former release from June 12/58 giving information regarding fiddleheads. Fresh frozen green fiddleheads (young ferns) from New Brunswick may be purchased at some counters.

The following recipe for preparing Wild Rice is new to me and a clever way to make it stretch, for in my community wild rice is $2.50 per lb.

COLONIAL WILD RICE:

Rinse ¼ lb. wild rice in colander under running water. Turn into saucepan and cover with boiling water and let simmer 20 minutes over very low heat. Drain and cover with boiling water again and let simmer over very low heat another 20 minutes or until tender. At the same time cook ¼ lb. brown rice (unpolished ordinary white rice) in large quantity of boiling salted water until tender (about 35 minutes). When both kinds of rice are tender combine and add ¼ cup chutney, 1 teaspoon curry, 2 or 4 tablespoons butter and more salt it needed. If desired only salt and butter can be added. This extends your wild rice completely satisfactorily and is an exotic dish to serve with Beef Stroganoff.

Will Be Last Summer to Play Pipes

VICTORIA (CP) — A comely Victoria lassie will return to Victoria's ferry docks for the eighth summer this year and then will fold her bagpipes and ane come back again.

Lona Donaldson began piping to greet tourists on ferries at the age of 11. Now 18, she will graduate from high school in June and after her quayside stint at $72.50 a week this summer she plans to go to the provincial mental institution at Essondale to train as a psychiatric nurse.

During the past summers she struck up acquaintances with a host of travellers, including celebrities Bob Hope, Dale Evans and Sebastian Cabot.

"I think last Christmas I must have got cards from every state in the union," she said.

Mother's Helper

A MOST POPULAR gift for a child of school age is his own custom made desk etc. Load a cardboard box, with his name, assemble in it an assortment of "real" items: paper clips, stamps, envelopes and paper, rubber bands, a ruler, compass, eraser, rubber cement, etc. Contents, of course, are limited only by how much you want to spend.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed and written for the working persons, who are not in a position to employ the services of such a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor
Income Tax Department.

Taxpayers who wholly or partially support dependants who do not reside with them often are at a loss as to the extent of their claim, particularly when the dependants reside in another country.

First of all, the taxpayer must furnish proof that he supported such dependants. This proof may be in the form of receipts for money remitted to them and the receipt to be accepted by the tax department must show both the recipient's and the remitter's names. These names do not show on a post office money order receipt, so it is advisable to remit the money by a bank money order.

Another acceptable receipt is a copy of a customs declaration for parcels sent overseas to dependants. Such customs declarations have the post office date stamp on them.

When the taxpayer has submitted proof of support he is allowed the amount of the $550 or the amount of support proven by receipts, for each dependant claimed.

The above does not apply to a wife or children residing in another country. In these cases there is no provision for partial support. The taxpayer is allowed the full $1,000 for the wife and $550 for each child, depending on the amount of his contributions. He must remit a specified amount and this varies according to the country in which they reside. If his contributions do not reach the required amount, there is no claim at all.

Before making claims for non-resident dependants, the taxpayer should check with his local income tax office for particulars, as to the amount of contributions required to allow his claim.

Any inquiries received will be answered if a self addressed and stamped (3 cent) envelope is enclosed.

Question 1 — I entered Canada from Germany in 1962. My wife is still there. Before leaving I left sufficient funds to support her until she joins me here. Can I claim her on my tax return?

Answer — Yes. Get a letter from her stating you have supported her in 1962 and attach it to your return.

Question 2 — My brother and I each send $500 to our parents in Italy. They have no other income. Who claims them?

Answer — You may each claim $500 providing the necessary receipts are attached.

CAMPBELLFORD

Nigeria's History Given At Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Guest of the Campbellford Rotary Club at their regular Monday luncheon meeting was Gabriel Olusanya, a native of Nigeria, who is doing graduate work here at the University of Toronto. He was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Bateman over the Easter holiday and spoke to the club of the history of his country.

He commended Rotary for their high ideals in the field of international relations.

Nigeria is about three-quarters the size of Ontario and has a population of 42 million, of one-sixth of the population of Africa. The products of the country are tin, coal, iron, palm oil, peanuts and forest products.

The country is a democracy in the British Commonwealth of Nations, a status recently reached by peaceful methods.

Its history goes back to the 15th century, when the Portugese first traded with West Africa. Later it became the great source of slaves; With the growth of industrial Britain, the free trade policies of developing a trade with Nigeria in oil for their machinery, at the same time founding a new colonial expansion. At the end of the 19th century, Africa became important to Europe, when there was a rush for colonies. England acquired Nigeria as a protectorate.

Since the independence of Nigeria and the final constitution in 1960, it has been welcome, like Canada, a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, and though experiencing some difficulties, has a bright future.

Nobody Knows Why Stomach Cancer Declines

The annual number of deaths from stomach cancer in Canada is falling and no one knows why. According to figures just released by the Canadian Cancer Society, there were 8,726 deaths from stomach cancer in 1961, a figure which is 128 less than the total in 1960, in spite of a rising population. Since 1930 the death rate per 100,000 has dropped from over 40 per 100,000 population to about eleven.

"We can't take any direct credit for this, although we would hope that some credit might reflect upon our campaign to educate the population on signs which might mean cancer and the need for early treatment," says Dr. R. M. Taylor, executive vice-president of the Society.

Stomach cancer, which is often undetected until it is far advanced and likely to prove fatal, shows many variations in incidence in various parts of the world. Some research projects show that Finns are four and one-half times more likely to get it than the rich — although no one can explain why. Japan, for example, showed that among Californis men, divided into five social classes, the rate for stomach cancer deaths was: 51 for Class 1 — professional men and clients of doctors; to 155 for Class 5 — unskilled workers.

It would seem, therefore, that stomach cancer is somehow related to the conditions of life, because as the standard of living rises the rate of deaths from stomach cancer falls. The fact that there is about 50 per cent more stomach cancer in Newfoundland than in the rest of Canada, according to one study, could be explained by the relative Quebec than in Saskatchewan, according to another, might also be explained by the relative standards of living.

ONCE TOP KILLER

Another stomach cancer mystery is why it is the top killer among men as women: 1,623 men in 1961 compared to 909 women. The rate is second in the ages from 60 to 70. Until 1958 it killed more men than any other type of cancer, but that year, and every year since at an increasing rate, lung cancer has taken first cancer killer among males — 2,411 in 1961.

In some countries, food habits are blamed for the fact that more men than women get stomach cancer. Japan, for example, it has been theorized that more men contract the disease because Japanese men usually eat before the women, when the food is very hot; also they drink more liquor than women folk. In Scandinavian countries doctors sometimes blame high rates of stomach cancer on the high consumption of home-smoked fish, but this does not help explain the higher rate among males.

"The mysteries of stomach cancer are some of the things we are trying to solve with our support of research projects," says Dr. Taylor. "We can't explain them yet, but we are confident that Canadian research workers, supported by the Canadian Cancer Society, can contribute information which will help to provide the answers."

FLOODS KILL 112

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — The death toll from a flood at Herat, in western Afghanistan, has risen to 107, the Afghan Red Crescent Society announced today. Floods also have killed six persons in Maimanah, northwest Afghanistan. The meteorology department predicted more rain and storms.

Sunday School Lesson

Our World of Faith

By ROY L. SMITH

There is a disposition on the part of many people to think that faith is one of the lesser virtues, or qualifications.

"I do not take anything on faith," says the realist. "I believe in the things I can prove, and nothing more." But the man who says that is kidding himself. All of us, including the realists live every day of things we cannot prove.

CAN'T GET A PICTURE

Years ago I was engaged in a series of debates, on the general subject of religion, with Clarence Darrow, the famous agnostic. "In the course of this address he sometimes said, "I cannot believe in anything of which I cannot get a picture. Now I can't get a picture of God, and I know of no one who can give such a picture. That's why I cannot believe in God. There is no picture of God as yet."

One evening, in my rebuttal, I called Mr. Darrow's attention to the fact that nobody can ever get a picture of abstract justice. He could give me, and I could give him, innumerable illustrations of instances in which justice had been done or had failed to be done, but as for a picture of justice itself, there was none. And yet, Mr. Darrow was glad to do this great way, battling for justice in the courts.

FAITH AGGRESSIVE ACTION

The 23rd psalm is one of the most exalted tributes to faith in all of literature. Perhaps it is more. It is a declared readiness to act on the basis of belief.

If I have faith in my doctor — real faith — I take his medicine. I do not insist that he shall give me a chemical analysis of the pills he has prescribed. I do not demand that he shall look down the books and cite for me the authorities for each act of him that he shall give me a bond, guaranteeing me against any possible mistake in taking his medicine.

If I believe in him, I take it! It's as simple as that.

SCIENTISTS MEN OF FAITH

There is the old story of the astronomer who noticed a slight deflection at a certain point on the photograph. He knew that such a deflection could be caused by but one thing—an unidentified planet.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 28: "Psalms Of Personal Trust," Psalms 23; 46.

He never saw that planet through the eye of his telescope, which was not a large one. But from that point on his calculations differed by a few seconds from that a planet of a certain size was there. Many years later a more powerful and more sensitive telescope brought it into view. That was a bit gratifying, but it did not make the scientist's calculations any more reliable.

No man has ever seen the nucleus of an atom, but the whole of nuclear physics is built up on the assumption that the nucleus is a fact. And that assumption has never let the scientist down! Again and again the scientist has to launch out on faith. But in the scientist's vocabulary it is called "a working hypothesis." That is, it is a theory upon which he proposes to work until he discovers it will not work. When he fails to make it work, he reconstructs his theory.

And that is exactly the way religion works. It proceeds and acts upon the basis of the best reasoned faith available. When a better reasoned faith appears, the religionist accepts it and begins to live according to the principles it declares.

QUESTION OF IDENTITY

No one of us has time to work out all the formulae for life. We have to depend upon other people's experiments and experiments. There was the man, for example, who was delivered to be an "independent thinker." He bought a home that was already equipped with a well, but it was one he had not dug. He therefore dug a new one alongside the old and equipped it the same water. But at least he was "independent."

It is just here that the great teachers of religion render their greatest service. They dig the wells, and we drink from them. Their reliability as teachers depends upon the accuracy with which they report and explain the principles of living.

The reliability of Jesus goes back, in the final analysis upon the accuracy with which He did the deeds of life, and the reliability with which He prescribed for those ills. If it can be shown, at any point that He misinterpreted the basic principles of life, all our doctrines evaporate. His divinity would not save it.

RELIGION OF THE PSALM

Science has accustomed to decry "the truth that comes by revelation," as though the truth that can be demonstrated in the laboratory is somehow superior to the truth one discovers by experience in daily life. Of course, there are not different grades of truth. All truth is true, and there is no rebellion or unrest among truths.

If a great religious truth sounds debatable, then all we need to do is to put it to the test, live by it and estimate the results. Jesus put it very conclusively: "By their fruits ye shall know."

One of the services available through the Ontario Cancer Foundation is free biopsy service.

Ontario Cancer Foundation

By Matthew B. Dymond, M.D., Health Minister for Ontario

Through the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation a multitude of services are available to cancer patients in the province. To carry out its program the Foundation receives its income from Provincial and Federal cancer control grants, as well as donations from various sources including the Ontario Division of the Canadian Cancer Society, whose annual campaign for funds is currently in progress.

One of the services available is a free biopsy service. If a person has, or is thought to have cancer, his physician may send a specimen of the suspected tissue to a pathologist. The report will be sent back to the doctor at no charge to him or his patient, as the Cancer Foundation will pay the pathologist's fee. Several thousand cases of cancer are diagnosed through this biopsy service every year, and it his proved a great help to practising physicians and surgeons.

Another service, introduced in October 1960, is the provision of certain drugs at no cost, to needy cancer patients. This service is for patients at home, under the care of their own doctor, who need this special assistance. The doctor requisitions the drugs from the Foundation and the prescriptions are filled by dispensaries of the Princess Margaret Hospital or at certain of the hospitals where Foundation clinics are located.

Two rehabilitation services are available. These are for patients from all over Ontario at the Princess Margaret Lodge, at no charge. One is a speech therapy centre. If a patient has lost his larynx due to cancer surgery, he must learn another special way of talking, known as oesophageal speech. If he cannot learn to speak he will be provided with an electro-larynx through the generosity of the Cancer Society.

The second rehabilitation service has to do with the provision of moulded replacements for facial disfigurements resulting from radical cancer surgery. This service is in the hands of a very skilled craftsman and is entirely free to any who may require it.

Every year a great deal of money is spent on cancer research for the discovery of better treatment and cure. But much can already be done for cancer patients, and with the facilities available in Ontario many cures can be accomplished, particularly when the disease has been detected in its early stages.

Without The Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation many diagnostic and treatment facilities would not be available to cancer patients in the Province, except at great expense. This is one more example of how the Government of Ontario provides badly needed health services and makes them available to the people of this province.

CAMPBELLFORD

District Governor Reviews Growth of Lions Club

CAMPBELLFORD — District Governor Robert Garden of Norwood, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Lions Club this week.

Governor Garden reviewed the activities of the local club during the past year and congratulated members on the scope and beneficial results of their efforts. He then reviewed the development of International Lionism over the past years, pointing out that Lions Clubs are now active in 118 countries of the world, which makes Lionism the largest service organization in the world. He stressed the ever-increasing growth of the Lions Club which now constitutes a definite contribution toward world peace by bringing the concepts of community service and brotherhood into so many countries of the world on a non-secretarian, non-denominational and non-political basis. The community activities of clubs in Hong Kong, Mexico and Guatamala were reviewed in interesting detail as examples of high regard held for Lionism in the far places of the world.

GOOD ATTENDANCE NECESSARY

With the growing importance of the Lions organization, the speaker pointed out the necessity for good attendance and active participation of all members in the activities of the club to influence for good this spirit of co-operation and fellowship now so evident in the international scope of Lionism. He stated "The acts of our life are the doctrines you teach — and not what you do each day." So, when a dedicated organization services the ill, the needy and the handicapped and helps alleviate wants and suffering, its future in the world community is assured.

District Governor Garden was tendered the thanks of the club by Lion Harry Dooher and presented with a gift for his long time interest in the local club. He participated in the formation of the local club nine years ago and personally canvassed many of the charter members of the Campbellford Lions. Consequently his visit to the club is official capacity as District Governor was of more than passing interest to both old and new members of the Campbellford club.

RECREATIONAL CENTRE

During the regular business meeting Lion James Clarke was named representative of the club on the new Community Centre committee being formed to plan for the building of a new recreational centre in town.

Lion Anthony Cauley was named to replace Al. Amsbury as head of the activities committee. Lion Al was compelled to relinquish this important job which he has performed most capably during the past year for reasons of health.

Plans were also formulated for representatives of the club to attend the district convention in Cornwall in May. It was announced that Lion William Oliver, the retiring president, had been nominated as Zone Chairman for the Regional Zone for 1963-64. The local club was most enthusiastic about this honor for one of their members.

Dinner was served by the ladies of the Rebekah Lodge in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

TO CARRY HORSES

The Air Transport Board, used to authorizing air services for passengers or cargoes, has granted a Hamilton air operator permission to run an airline for horses. Approval for such a service—hauling race horses to various race meets—was given to Gerald Horton Whaley and John J. Mooney, who propose to operate under the name of Bluegrass Air Transport Limited. The licence is restricted to the transportation of thoroughbred and standard-bred race horses, harness, sulkies and racing equipment, plus two attendants.

ORE SHIPMENTS RISE

Shipments of iron ore by Canadian mines rose sharply in February to 710,077 tons from 522,715 a year ago, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday. Iron ore exports in February were 532,610 tons, up from 402,428. The two-month total was 1,061,819 against 744,512.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, APRIL 26, 1963

OFFICIAL OPENING of the Quinte District Home and Sports Show was at eight o'clock last night, after a parade from the Federal Building to the Belleville Armouries. Above, cutting the ribbon at the Armouries, Dr. M. H. E. Moerel, First Commercial Secretary of the Netherlands Embassy in Ottawa, is watched by Don Burr, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Mayor A. M. Haig, of Belleville; Alderman Jack Ireland; Hastings South M.P. Robert Temple and an unidentified Jaycee. Members of the Hasty Pees Band line the archway.

MORE THAN NINE HUNDRED PEOPLE visited the Quinte District Home and Sports Show yesterday. Opened officially at 8 p.m. by Dr. M. H. E. Moerel, First Commercial Secretary of the Netherlands Embassy in Ottawa, the show is planned as an annual event by sponsoring Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

THAT DREAMY LOOK probably means that Mrs. Clayton Drouillard of Belleville already knows what she wants, but her husband seems to be wondering about the price as house salesman Eldon Guthrie shows models of his wares at the Quinte District Home and Sports Show which opened last night in Belleville.

Jaycees' Home, Sport Show Draws Good Crowd to See Wide Variety of Displays

"It's a good show." Nearly nine hundred paying customers, (and uncounted children under twelve, who did not need to pay if they were with an adult), decided that about the Quinte District Home and Sports Show, opened at the Belleville Armories yesterday. Officers of the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the show, expect Friday and Saturday attendance to be higher, but are well satisfied with the first day's results.

The customers were satisfied too. Between sports cars and printing presses, home insulation and archery organizations, almost all special interests were represented among the nearly fifty separate displays. For people without special interests, the twice nightly professional stage shows were enough attraction.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

One of last night's main attractions won't be repeated, though. For the one night only, Buddy French of the French Salon in Belleville, demonstrated hair styling for the ladies. On Saturday, local entertainment will include demonstrations of YMCA activities.

Organized chaos might be the best way to describe the scene inside the armouries, while the show is on. As you come in the front door, you are faced by three alleyways, lined with displays. Straight ahead, through the widest of the three, is the stage. If one of the stage shows is on, there's no use trying to get through this one—the stage show attracts too large an audience.

So you go either right or left. Whichever you choose, you'll be among cars when you come to the end of the building. Turn left, you'll be among General Motors products displayed by Elliott Motors and Trudeau's. Turn right from the front door, you'll see the Jones Motors display of Volvo cars, and Vader Car Sales display of Studebaker. Both directions, the displays lean heavily on the sporty models.

Aside from the sports cars and service groups, most of the show's display area is devoted to home building and remodeling displays. There are several appliances, radio and hi-fi exhibits. Some home remodelling supply dealers and one house builder are represented. Power tools and bathroom tiles are among the more specialized homeowners' attractions.

OFFER FREE CHEESE

Food at the show is sold in one booth at the southeast corner of the building. Free cheese is available, while it lasts at the Jaycees' booth, courtesy of the Cheese Board and free coffee is being provided near the northwest corner of the building by a Deseronto motel.

The layout of the Armouries floor space is simple and practical. Displays line the walls, leaving just enough space behind the row along the front of the buildings for access to the military offices, for staff of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. At each end, the car displays extend to the building walls, and along the back the booths are placed right against the wall. The stage is placed in the middle of this row, with a dressing room for the performers partitioned off to the left, as you face the stage. All official activities are carried out on the stage or in the Jaycees' own booth, beside it. Door prizes are on display at the Jaycees' booth.

The centre of the floor is occupied by four "islands," or blocks of booths, placed in the centre of the floor, leaving a total of five cross aisles.

Some non-profit organizations are represented at the show. Display space was donated by the Jaycees to the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization the Belleville Y.M.C.A., the local St. John Ambulance Brigade, the Belleville Bowmen Club, the R.C.A.F. Rescue Service and the Hastings County Museum.

Sixteen door prizes were distributed during the first day of the show, nearly one every half hour. There are about 75 prizes left to be drawn during the second and third day, according to officials of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME — When people see a house trailer displayed at the show, they usually peek inside. Picton photographer Lloyd Thompson found himself facing a camera when he looked inside this trailer, at the Quinte District Home and Sports Show last night.

Netherlands Trade Officer Opens Home, Sport Show Sponsored by Jaycees Here

Belleville's junior business men came of age in marketplace show business last night.

The birthday was the first Home and Sport Show of the city's Junior Chamber of Commerce at the local armouries, and, proper to such occasions, it mixed color with moments of seriousness.

The color was loaned by a street parade at dusk; the seriousness by local public representatives and Dr. M. H. E. Moerel, trade secretary in Canada for The Netherlands.

Dr. Moerel had the responsibility of opening the show for the Jaycees by cutting a symbolic red ribbon and making a keynote speech for the occasion.

TIES WITH DUTCH

In his address, which stressed "recreation and relaxation" opportunities offered by Canada, Dr. Moerel touched on Canadian-Dutch ties, both lightly and seriously.

"I did not think you wanted to hear that our Dutch cheese is equally as good as your cheddar for which Belleville is justly famous," he quipped at the outset of his address.

In serious vein he told his audience of the bonds that have grown up with Dutch post-war immigration to Canada. But these ties went back further, and even deeper, for The Netherlands.

Dr. Moerel reminded his listeners of the "generous hospitality" shown Queen Juliana during her wartime stay in Canada when the Netherlands was occupied by the Nazis.

"Furthermore, no Dutchman will ever forget that it was you, your sons, husbands and fathers, who liberated our country from this enemy," he said.

"I hope therefore that this close relationship which has existed for a long time over a period of years, will continue to flourish."

RECREATIONAL ASSETS

One of Canada's striking advantages, which immediately registers with Europeans, he said, was the country's tremendous opportunities for sports and recreation.

Dr. Moerel said he noted this same thing while driving to the show through Hastings County "and I wondered whether the average Canadian fully realizes how fortunate he is in this respect.

"Almost every Canadian knows that within a short distance of home, he can find everything he needs for sports and recreation."

"And among Europeans who appreciate that are we Dutchmen."

Noting the population density of the Netherlands (912 per square mile) Dr. Moerel told his listeners "you will realize it is not easy to find peace and quiet in my country."

OTHER SPEAKERS

Among others who spoke briefly from the platform were Mayor A. McLean Haig, Hastings County Warden Charles Long and South Hastings MP Robert Temple.

The mayor drew a laugh from the crowd as he hinted at current attempts to unseat him through court action by introducing himself as "your mayor for the time being, at least."

"You all know the very common in the political profession at the moment to be advocating trade. But I am glad to see that Belleville, in the shape of the Belleville Junior of Commerce, has seen fit to do it at the municipal level."

And among the more significant international exchanges, he told Dr. Moerel, were Dutch citizens. He hoped the Netherlands would continue to "export so much of this commodity to Belleville and Canada at large."

The show, which marks the ens of five months planning by the Jaycees, closes Saturday eight.

Last night's street parade was led by the Hastings and Prince Edward regimental band and the RCAF, Trenton, pipe band.

Question People With Canadian Embassy

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the RCMP is questioning persons who were attached to the Canadian embassy in Moscow from 1955 to 1957 in an investigation linked with the William John Vassall espionage case.

The story—a dispatch from Ottawa—gives no details of the investigation.

Vassall is a former British admiralty clerk and confessed homosexual sentenced to 18 years in prison for selling secrets to the Russians.

Vassall was with the British embassy in Moscow between 1955 and 1957. During his trial in London last fall he said he was recruited by Russian agents, who compromised him and blackmailed him.

Pearson Assures CLC Chief Washington Has Been Asked For Action on Lakes Dispute

OTTAWA (CP)—Fresh signs of Great Lakes labor discord have prompted "urgent representations" by the Canadian government to Washington.

A telegram to that effect from Prime Minister Pearson to President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress was made public Thursday night.

It replied to a message from Mr. Jodoin, who also had warned that another retaliatory St. Lawrence Seaway blockade might result unless action is taken to stop boycotting of Canadian vessels in American lake ports by American unions.

The prime minister's telegram said: "... concerning the boycott of Canadian shipping in U.S. Great Lakes ports, urgent representations are being made through our embassy in Washington to appropriate U.S. authorities, requesting them to take necessary action to remedy the situation and particularly the boycott of the S.S. Shaw in Chicago."

It also by implication asked the 1,050,000-member Canadian Labor Congress to await findings from the lengthy inquiry by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris of Vancouver.

Said the telegram: "With regard to the threatened retaliatory action on the seaway, you are aware that the Norris commission has inquired into the disruption of shipping for the past several months and is expected to report shortly."

SHOWS HOSTILITY

The exchange reflects fresh hostility between the Seafarers' International Union (Ind.), booted from the CLC for raiding other unions, and the congress-sponsored Canadian Maritime Union, formed to crush the hard-knuckled SIU.

Thursday, Mr. Jodoin indicated he is willing to talk the situation over with his opposite number in the U.S. President George Meany of the AFL-CIO.

But he emphasized that no strings could be attached—thus rejecting the suggestion from an American Maritime Union spokesman that Mr. Meany would talk to Mr. Jodoin if the SIU is readmitted to the congress.

Conservative Wins Seat From Liberals

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que. (CP) — A lumber contractor voted for his neighbor here Thursday night. The result: one of the rare tiebreaking votes in Canadian history by a returning officer and re-election to the House of Commons of former mines minister Paul Martineau.

Returning Officer J. Denni Moodie took a walk to calm down, flipped a coin and then voted in Pontiac - Temiscaningue constituency where a judicial recount had been under way for four days.

SPRING: HOME, GARDEN IMPROVEMENT TIME

Attic Fans Cool Nights

The installation of an attic fan has proved an inexpensive means of cooling a home, and one that is especially effective on those hot, steamy nights of summer that sometimes make sleeping extremely difficult.

Here's the principle on which an attic fan operates. During a hot day, most roofs absorb a great deal of heat. The temperature in the attic can soar as high as 30 degrees. Then, in the evening, when outdoor temperatures may drop as much as 20 degrees, this accumulated heat is radiated downward, through the rest of the house, so that living areas scarcely have a chance to cool off.

An attic fan will dissipate this heat by exhausting the heat, while drawing air through downstairs windows. As the cool air flows through the house, it draws heat out of the walls, ceilings and furnishings. This lowers the temperature throughout the house.

Attic fans range in size from 36 to 42 inches in diameter. Each is rated as to the number of cubic feet of air it can exhaust per minute.

In most areas, it is recommended that fans be large enough to effect one air change per minute, which means that a fan should have a rating equal to the cubic content of the living area of the house. This can be determined by multiplying the length and width of each floor of the house to compute its total floor area. Then multiply this figure by the ceiling height.

The best location for the fan is on the attic floor, near the centre of the house. The fan is installed horizontally over a square opening which is cut through the top floor ceiling.

PREVENTS RUSTING

Apply a thin coat of paste wax to metal parts and handles of hand tools used outdoors to prevent rusting and keep tools free of dirt.

Facts About Fertilizers

There are many kinds of chemical fertilizers. They all come in salt form and therefore are easily soluble in water.

Chemical fertilizers must not be used indiscriminately. A general purpose lawn fertilizer, for instance, should not be used on bulb or root plants.

Fertilizers also should be used sparingly. Because they are readily soluble, chemical fertilizers will be quickly washed into the lower soil, beyond the reach of plant roots. An application of chemical fertilizer, therefore, is good for about one month.

Do not add chemical fertilizers to the soil until annuals show three leaves. Re-feeding should take place several times a season. In the case of perennials, work in a tablespoonful of the chemical fertilizer several times each season. The fertilizer must be kept off leaves and roots.

For flower borders and all small garden plants, use a small plant food tablet three times a season. For lawn treatment, use about three heaping tablespoons of chemical fertilizer to two gallons of water. This solution, sprinkled onto the lawn on a monthly basis, will do much to keep the lawn in top-notch condition all year 'round.

Canadian Garden Service

GOOD SOIL FOR EVERYONE

Fortunate is the gardener who starts with perfect soil. Such finds are rare, especially where the sub-soil from the basement of the new house has been dumped over the lot. Good garden soil, however, is not difficult to make, although it does take a bit of time. Even the hardest clay however, can be opened up and made rich and friable as the experts say, and the poorest and driest sand can be improved even more easily.

For both types, clay or sand, the same general treatment is necessary. We must add humus. This is simply vegetable material like manure, grass and weed clippings, straw, peat moss, leaves, compost or anything else including kitchen garbage that will rot. Dug in well this will soon open up clay or bind sand and make it more retentive of moisture. Regular cultivation, too will help. It lets in air and breaks up the heavy lumps. But the main thing is to dig in all the vegetable material or humus we can get our hands on. Nothing should be thrown away or burned that will rot down and mix with the soil.

For heavy soil, tile drainage, either surface or tile, will help immensely and also the application of special soil conditioners. A few loads of sand or even ashes in the small garden will prove a short-cut in soil handling.

TELLING THEM APART

Even in informal clump planting in flowers and borders, it is well to follow some regular pattern of sowing, otherwise it may be difficult except for the expert to distinguish the tiny plants we really want and the unwanted weeds. It's a good idea to mark every place we sow the flower seed with a little stake and also to sow the seed in a ring or tiny little rows or a square, any sort of a pattern that will be easily recognized after the seeds germinate. In this way it should be much easier to distinguish the good from the bad when growth first starts. With certain very slow germinating seed like asparagus, for example, the old experienced gardener will also sow some radish or something else that germinates quickly and thus mark the rows where the much later germinating seed will finally pop in an appearance. Of course in the vegetable garden we should always sow in rows and the straighter these are the easier to identify the wanted plants when they first appear and the easier it is to cultivate. With some things such as corn, or potatoes, we don't need to wait for germination before we cultivate but can do so right after planting if we don't go too deep.

BACK SAVERS

Digging, hoeing and weeding are perfectly good healthy forms of exercise, but for those of us who prefer or must take things easier there are all sorts of modern ways and means for taking the hardwork out of gardening. There are tractors large and small that will do all the cultivating. They only need someone to guide them. There are power mowers that make grass cutting child's play. There are dusters and sprayers that will keep the bugs and diseases in check. There are commercial fertilizers that we can sprinkle on and watch growth shoot ahead. There are strings for tying up tomatoes, and flowers that we don't even have to tie, we just twist. There are chemicals that will destroy any weed in the lawn or in the vegetable garden. We simply tell the seed store what weeds we are after and they will supply the chemical to do the trick without hurting the grass, or asparagus or whatever we are growing. There are automatic lawn sweepers, leaf rakers, sprinklers. There is even a new chemical that will keep the grass more or less at a certain height without mowing.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There is a bold move afoot to place softball on a Central Ontario League basis. The seeds of suggestion are being thrown to the various pasture fields of the area in an effort to create interest and if possible, get organization under way.

Harold Langabeer, past president of the Kingston Amateur Softball Association, and a member of the OASA executive is the author of the scheme. A letter airing the suggestion and various points has been sent to the OASA and its district representatives.

He has contacted through these men, softball people in Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Cobourg, Peterborough, and Oshawa. Kingston, of course, is included.

Langabeer apparently wants to pattern his league "baby" after those in Western Ontario, where, he says, three-city and town loops have proven a success. He feels a Central Ontario League would give softball a boost and produce keen rivalry between the localities suggested.

The Langabeere suggested plan calls for all-star teams from each centre to operate in the district loop. Games would be played once a week, on Sunday afternoons or evenings. Harold feels the league would in no way interfere with the operation of local circuits.

In the first year of operation, he says, each team could play each other a home-and-home series. The main objective is to get the league started this year and build for the future.

He believes the league along the lines mentioned will give softball fans better entertainment in their favorite sport as they sometimes tire of seeing the same teams play night after night in local loops.

Langabeer points out that the proposed circuit would have to have the sanction of the OASA and be composed of all OASA affiliated players and not be classified as an "outlaw" league.

Expense? Langabeer says the clubs could wear their home league uniforms. The main expense would be travelling (gas). He feels the gate receipts would take care of this item.

Langabeer's proposed district league may meet with approval in the larger centres such as Belleville, Peterborough and Oshawa. But he may run into a snag with Picton and Cobourg.

Cobourg, according to press reports from that town, may not field a team for any league this year. The Oshawa League, where Cobourg played last year, is reported to have informed the lakeshore town softball officials that their club won't be invited this season unless they come up with a front-line pitcher.

"Sleepy" Dean, for long the mound bulwark of Cobourg teams, is said to be offering his services to the club that attaches a job to a contract.

Picton is an unknown quantity. But like Cobourg it will be able to field one team only, not a galaxy of all-stars as is the case with the larger centres.

For all that the proposed league could struggle along in its freshman year with entries from Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa and Peterborough. The old COBL did for many years—and made a success of it.

But there would have to be some serious thinking done about the "Sunday afternoon or evening" games. There is nothing wrong with Sunday dates ,but after past experiences with both softball and baseball, it seems there will have to be some sort of guarantee that teams would show up with a full quota of players, plus sufficient reserves to take care of any injuries.

After all, these balmy summer Sunday afternoons and evenings might see the little woman or girl friend longing for a drive in the country. Cottage and cabin, fishing haunts, etc., will have strong allure. But "rules is rules" and should be adhered to.

Then, too, there could be a "conflict of interest" in this city if the baseball "Kenmore" are playing at the Fair Grounds and the Central Ontario Softball Leaguers clash at the CNRA on the same Sunday.

With that in mind, if someone wants to "cancel" a couple of sportswriters we know—it will be OK with this department.

Third In Middle-Heavy "Lifting" ★★★★★

John Lewis Wins "Bronze" For Canada

John Lewis, 30-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lewis of this city, yesterday added a bronze medal to Canada's growing list at the Pan-American Games.

Lewis, a middle-heavyweight weightlifter, and the British Empire Games record-holder, took third place in his division with a total hoist of 924 pounds.

The young Canadian ran into tough foreign competition because his third-place total of 924 pounds was 14 pounds better than his Canadian senior record.

Lewis' bronze medal was the third of its kind won by the tiny Canadian weightlifting team—four competitors and a coach.

Bill March, an American, won the gold medal with a Games record lift of 1,012 pounds.

JOHN LEWIS

Gold medals apparently won't be easy to come by for Canada's 132-member team in the Games.

Not that the Canadians haven't been winning medals. They have 17 including one gold in diving—but the United States team is so strong that there is little chance for Canada to get its foot in the door.

For one thing the Canadian team is a lot smaller than the one that travelled to Chicago while the Americans have sent their biggest group ever—some 450 athletes — to the current Games.

So far, the U.S. team has proved to be the pick of the athletes there. It's countries by a wide margin, winning 33 gold medals of the 41 awarded in the games.

Canada is the second-place nation with one gold in the men's diving, eight silver and eight bronze. Third-place Brazil has two gold medals, four silver and three bronze in the unofficial medal standings.

HAS BEST DAY

The U.S. had its best day of the games Thursday, winning 14 out of 15 championships while Canada picked up two silver and four bronze medals in swimming, weightlifting and wrestling.

Mary Stewart of Vancouver, the irrepressible swimmer who has proved to be the workhorse of the Canadian team, won two more silver medals Thursday night to give her three silvers in the Games.

Miss Stewart placed second in the women's 100-metre freestyle and was a member of the second-place medley relay team.

The U.S. swept all four swimming finals Thursday night, breaking three Games records, and took five gold medals in wrestling, two in weightlifting, one in women's tennis, one in the dressage phase of the equestrian competition and one in women team fencing.

Canada got a swimming bronze in the women's 200-metre breaststroke and a bronze in weightlifting and two bronze in wrestling Thursday.

WIN BRONZES

U.S. wrestlers completed a sweep of all eight championships—as expected—while Ernest Choromopulo of Montreal captured the bronze in the bantamweight class and Kurt Bosse of Kitchener, Ont., won another bronze in the lightweight class.

Birds' Barber Clips K's For Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated From Sports Writer

Steve Barber provided the pitching and Jim Gentile the power in Baltimore's 3-2, 10-inning victory over Kansas City Thursday night as the Orioles reclaimed the American League lead and the Athletics dropped to third place from first.

Gentile's 10th - inning homer wrapped it up and maintained Barber's all - winning record against the Athletics. The lefty is 10-0 against them for his career.

Minnesota's Jack Kralick hurled a three-hitter in the Twins' 3-0 triumph over the Senators at Washington and Los Angeles Angels defeated the Tigers 7-5 in Detroit in the only other games on the light schedule.

Barber, who had a 9-8 record after his return from military service last season, is off to one of the better starts of his four-year major league career. He went the distance against Kansas City and pushed his record to 4-1. He owns a 1.58 earned run average and leads the league in strikeouts with 31.

HOMER WINS IT

The 34-year-old lefty spaced seven hits and struck out seven men, but was no better than even with the three-top Athletics until Gentile smashed a 1-2 pitch into the left-field bleachers, an opposite-field hit for the left-handed hitter.

Al Smith's two-run homer accounted for the Orioles' first runs, but Kansas City matched them on an unsuccessful double play attempt in the fourth and Norm Siebern's run-scoring single in the sixth. John Wyatt lost in relief.

Kralick, who had been shut out in losing his first three games for the Twins, blanked Washington on just three singles and scored the only run he needed when he tripled and came in on Lenny Green's single in the third.

Rich Rollins had a homer and doubles by Vic Power and Bob Allison produced the other Minnesota runs.

The Angels hit four homers, two by Leon Wagner, and pinned the first loss of the season on Detroit's Hank Aguirre. Homers by Wagner, Bob Rodgers and Kent Hunt powered the Angels to a 6-0 lead in the first four innings against the Tiger lefty.

Wagner also had a homer off Dick Egan, but the Angels needed a solid relief performance by Julio Navarro to make it stand up after Detroit rallied for five runs in the fifth.

Commercial Softball Holds Meet

Hopes for a six or seven team Commercial Softball League were announced this morning following that organization's initial meeting of the year last night.

League secretary Don Wood said this morning that "it looks hopeful that at least six teams and possibly seven will enter, but the names of sponsors will not be announced until something definite is decided."

Another meeting has been called for Monday night, at the YMCA, at eight o'clock.

All potential entries are asked to have representation at the meeting.

Hull on Second Squad

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks placed three players on the 1963 National Hockey League first all-star team, the league announced today.

The Hawks, who finished third and lost to Detroit in the semi-finals of the Stanley Cup playoffs, also had two men on the second team.

On the first team were goalie Glenn Hall, defencemen Pierre Pilote, and centre Stan Mikita. Defencemen Elmer Vasko and left wing Bobby Hull were placed on the second.

Other players on the first team are right wing Gordie Howe of Detroit, and Toronto's left wing Frank Mahovlich and defenceman Carl Brewer.

It is Mikita's second year in a row on the first team. All the other first-team men have been promoted from second - team last year.

ROUTINE FOR HOWE

For Howe, it was just (ho hum) another all-star year. He has made the first team seven times and the second six times.

It is Hall's fourth nomination to the first team, Mahovlich's second, and the first for Pilote and Brewer.

Other second-team members are goaltender Terry Sawchuk of Detroit, defenceman Tim Horton of Toronto, centre Henri Richard of Montreal, and right wing Andy Bathgate of New York.

Mahovlich was the closest to a unanimous choice, getting 106 points of a possible 180. Mikita had 100 and Howe 157.

All the first-team selections led in balloting for the first half of the season, although the winning margins of some were reduced in the second half.

Horton was the surprise. He wasn't on either team at the half-way balloting but earned enough points in the second half of the season to make the second team.

PAY SYSTEM NEW

Under the new system of payments, the first-team all-star players making the first team: $500 to those making the second team; $300 to those leading the voting in either half, and $250 to those in second place in the voting in either half.

Thus everybody on the first team made $2,000. Vasko, although he polled 57 points to Horton's 58, makes more money. He was picked for the second team in both halves, getting a total of $1,000. Horton was picked for the second team only in the second half, so makes $750.

In the second-half voting, Richard nosed out Toronto's Dave Keon 38.5 points to 37.5 but he had a strong first-half lead and was the choice 86 points to 56 for the second team centre.

If there had been a third team picked, it would have been: Goal — Jacques Plante, Montreal; defence — Marcel Pronovost, Detroit, and Jean-Guy Talbot, Montreal; centre — Keon; right wing — Bernie Geoffrion, Montreal; and left wing—John Bucyk, Boston.

Rangers, Meet Celtic For The Cup

"Twull Be A Brawling Bricht Day, Lud"

By GEOFFREY MILLER

GLASGOW (AP)—Police are getting ready for anything when the Rangers and Celtic soccer teams meet in the Scottish Cup final May 4.

The supporters of the two teams are bitter rivals. There's a long record of bloodshed between them. And 134,500 persons are expected to watch the game at Hampden Park Stadium.

Every ambulance corps in Glasgow will be on duty, a detachment of mounted police will be at the ready under the stands, and heavy police details with a pack of police dogs will be posted in the stadium.

The Protestants of Glasgow shout for Rangers. The Catholics—southern Irish and their descendants—shout for Celtic.

When the two sets of fans clash feelings run high.

This is the first time Rangers and Celtic have reached the final together since 1928. On that occasion police kept things pretty well under control.

WENT BERSERK

But the previous time, in 1909, the fans went berserk. They stormed on the field and burned the goalposts. They set fire to the entrance gateways. They slashed the hoses as firemen tried to fight the flames. Firemen and police were hurt in the struggle.

Year after year, when the teams played each other in the Scottish League, fights break out on the terraces and people are hurt.

The Protestant and Catholic traditions go back to when the teams were founded.

Rangers fans, seeing themselves as patriots, wave Union Jacks and sing "God Save the Queen" before matches. The Rangers team wears the British national colors of red, white and blue — blue shirts, white shorts and red-topped stockings.

The flag of the Irish Republic flies over Celtic's Stadium. The team wears green—the traditional national color of the Emerald Isle.

Trouble at league games between the two teams has been under police control in the last year or two. The police have worked out a system for keeping the fans apart.

USE SYSTEM

They'll be using the same system for the final at Hampden Park.

Rangers fans are made to stand on the terraces at one end of the pitch. Celtic fans are put at the other.

The two sets of supporters have to travel to the stadium in separate buses.

Police stand at the entrances and frisk every fan for whisky and beer bottles. In the past, trouble usually has started with somebody throwing a bottle onto the pitch.

The police don't allow either Rangers or Celtic fans to wave team colors for fear it might start a riot.

Anyone who sings provocative songs is thrown out.

The rivalry between the two teams reaches a head with the cup final Celtic has won the Scottish cup 17 times and Rangers 16 times.

Mid East For Memorial Cup

Oil Kings Oust Brandon

BRANDON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, a team that has never won the Memorial Cup but is used to playing for it, will try again this year.

The Oil Kings beat Brandon Wheat Kings 3-2 Thursday night to win the Abbott Cup, the Western Canadian junior hockey championship.

In doing it, the Edmonton club qualified to become the first team in history to play in the Memorial Cup final four years in a row.

This year the Memorial Cup will be played in Edmonton May 2, 4, 6 and 7. Additional games if necessary in the best-of-seven encounter will be May 9, 11 and 13.

Edmonton will meet either Niagara Falls Flyers or Espanola Eagles. Flyers lead this best-of-seven Eastern final 3-0.

Edmonton finished its series with Brandon in the fifth game of their best-of-seven affair. The Oil Kings won the opening games 7-3 and 3-2 in overtime last Friday and Saturday nights respectively.

The Wheat Kings, playing on home ice Monday night, won their first and only game 3-2 in overtime. Edmonton made it 3-1 with a 1-0 victory here Wednesday.

Edmonton came from behind to score the series winner in overtime before nearly 4,000 fans.

FORCE OVERTIME

Trailing 3-1 mid-way through the third period the Oil Kings scored twice within 20 seconds to force the overtime.

They scored the winner at 8:22 of a 10-minute overtime session and added the clincher into an open net.

Beautiful Red Yachts Under Test

Russians Eye America's Cup?

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Are the Russians secretly cooking up plans to challenge for the America's Cup?

"Nyet," comes the rumble from behind Nikita Khrushchev's Iron Curtain. But there is growing evidence that Soviet yachtsmen may be coveting the United States' prized sports trophy.

The latest comes in the form of a photo which supposedly was smuggled from Russia to this country.

The picture, run in the latest issue of the magazine Rudder, purporting to show the 12-meter yacht skimming gracefully over the churning waters of the Black Sea.

Says the magazine:

"According to our correspondent, Russia's most famous aircraft designer, Mr. V. Tubulev, has co-operated with her best marine architects to design, test and build two beautiful 12-meter yachts.

"It is reported that extensive wind tunnel and tank testing facilities were put at the disposal of this highly competent engineering team.

TRAIN CREWS?

"Rumor has it that relays of skilled crews are now being trained on a scheduled basis while frogmen and hydro-dynamic experts study actual underwater flow patterns of the sleek craft in action."

This is not the first hint that the Russians may be eyeing the famous old mug which was won by the schooner America around the isle of Wight late in 1851 and which has been successfully defended ever since by U.S. yachtsmen.

In March, 1962, the president of the Yachting Federation of the USSR, attending the world Flying Dutchman regatta at St. Petersburg, Fla., said the Russians were planning to make a Cup challenge in 1964.

"We have not solved the sail fabric problem yet," he said. "We are working on it and hope to have fabric suitable for sails by that time."

Later the Russians denied ner, Ont.

Win 10-1 For 3-0 Lead

Flyers Mow Down Eagles

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Espanola's dream of winning the Memorial Cup suffered a damaging blow Thursday night as the Eagles hit the ground with a thud.

Niagara Falls Flyers moved into a 3-0 lead in the Eastern Canada junior hockey final with a 10-1 win and should wrap up the best-of-seven series here Saturday night.

It was the first game of the series to run true to form. The powerful Flyers, Ontario Hockey Association champs, outshot Espanola 37-12.

The Eagles, in their first year of junior hockey and a member of the new Northern Ontario Hockey Association League this season, apparently shot their bolt at home.

Last Sunday at Sudbury, Niagara Falls needed four goals in the final six minutes of the game to win 6-2. And Tuesday night at Espanola, they needed three in overtime to edge the Eagles 9-7.

BOWS TO PRESSURE

Espanola goaltender Steve Dubowsky kept up his terrific pace Thursday night but finally bowed to pressure in the third period. Although outshot 33-8 in the first two periods, the Eagles trailed only 3-0.

The Flyers connected for four goals in two minutes early in the third period and added three more before it ended. Goaltender George Gardner lost his easy shutout in the same period when Larry Lattambois scored on a two-on-one break.

Coach Red McCarthy's Eagles, six of whom will be over-age next season, didn't figure to come close to the Flyers in any game. Their showing in the opening games surprised them as much as anyone else.

"We'll also lose some players to the south next year," said McCarthy.

OHA clubs have long been taking the best junior players from Northern Ontario.

If a fifth game is necessary, it will be here Monday night.

Flyer marksmen Thursday night were Gary Harmer, Bill Glashan and Ron Hergott, with two goals apiece, and Ron Schock, Ted Snell, Terry Crisp and Gary Dornhoefer.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Conn Smythe's Jammed Lucky came from last place to win Thursday's featured Township of Bertie Purse at Fort Erie.

Jammed Lucky, when on the way to the starting gate, seemed to pause momentarily, perhaps to glance with disdain at the odds board where he was quoted at 30-1.

Jockey Keith Robinson, who had already scored twice in earlier races, used up the first half - mile wending his way through the field and made up almost four lengths in the stretch where he caught the leading Roman Banquet, with less than a dozen yards left to run. Bill Beasley's Majestic Hour, well placed throughout, closed well to finish third.

Why Johnson makes a 28 hp outboard instead of an even 20 or 35

28 is an odd horsepower rating for an outboard. But Johnson engineers built it that way for several good reasons. Some are listed here.

1. 28 hp will fit more low cost boats than a motor 35 or bigger. So for those who don't want to tie up all their assets in a boat, the 28 is perfect.

2. 28 horsepower, coupled with the right boat, gives you ample power to zip two adults around the lake on skiis. Smaller motors don't have the spunk to pull one skier let alone two. Yet when it's time to go fishing, the 28 can be run for hours at trolling speeds. The 28 is versatile.

3. 28 hp is ideal for those of us who aren't nuts about power. If you simply want to get out with the family and have fun without investing a great deal of money, a 28 is right for you. The 28 is a sensible marriage of power and economy that lets you afford more of the fun of boating.

When you're choosing your next outboard, trade up to a Johnson 28 electric or manual starting. You not only get Johnson's famous dependability, but beginning this year, it's backed by a 2 year warranty.

Casey's Rag-Tags Now Eighth

Win 6 In Seven

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Mets, with reckless abandon, have shattered a baseball image it took a full season to create.

Last season's worst team did not win many games on any particular day of the week—and never on Thursday.

But Casey Stengel's rag-tag warriors edged Chicago Cubs 3-2 Thursday for their sixth win in the last seven games to surge to the dizzy heights of eighth place in the National League standings.

Not only was it the first Thursday win in the Mets' history but it gave them an almost respectable .600 average this season on a 9-9 won-lost record.

Frank Thomas clouted a run-producing single in the first inning, then hit a two-run homer in the sixth. Coupled with this was the seven-hit pitching of Roger Craig and a heads-up play resulting in a rare third-to-first-to-shortstop double play that ended the game.

NAILED AT THIRD

Lou Brock, who scored both Cub runs, singled with one out in the ninth inning and attempted to go to third base as Charlie Neal threw out Ernie Hubbs. A quick throw by first baseman Gil Hodges to Al Moran, the shortstop covering third, nailed Brock.

Bob Miller, who survived a 3-2 season with the Mets and was traded this year to Los Angeles, exceeded his 1962 victory total as he won his second with a five-hitter in the Dodgers' 7-1 triumph over Cincinnati Reds. The Dodgers have won five of six.

Elsewhere, San Francisco Giants moved into a tie with St. Louis Cardinals for first place by beating the Cards 5-4, and Houston Colts beat Milwaukee Braves 7-5 on fine performances by three former Braves. Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies were not scheduled.

The amazing Mets get their first run off Dick Ellsworth on singles by Ron Hunt, Charlie Neil and Thomas. In the sixth, Neal doubled and Thomas hit one out of the park. Brock came across with the first Cub run in the fifth, scoring on Jimmy Schaffer's double. Bob Will's pinch-hit single drove in Brock in the seventh.

Miller, posting his second victory without a loss, has allowed only four earned runs in 20 2-3 innings for a sparkling 1.16 average.

WILLS STEALS TWO

John Roseboro, Willie Davis and Ron Fairly backed Miller with homers off Joey Jay, who has lost four without winning. Dodgers' Maury Wills stole his first two bases of the season.

The Giants moved out front to stay in the second inning when Orlando Cepeda hit a solo homer and Ed Bailey connected with one on. Bailey, veteran catcher starting for the first time this season, also singled home a run in the third inning off loser Ray Sadecki.

Billy O'Dell was the San Francisco starter, but the victory went to reliever Bob Bolin. Curt Flood homered for the Cardinals.

Former Braves Don Nottebart, Don McMahon and Al Spangler did most of the damage for the Colts. Nottebart won his third without a loss with help from McMahon. Spangler singled in the run that snapped a 2-2 tie as Houston came up with five runs. Bob Aspromonte homered for the Colts, while Joe Torre connected for Milwaukee.

WRITES ON BEERBOHM

LONDON (CP) — Biographer David Cecil is writing the life story of the late author Max Beerbohm. The book is expected to be published early next year.

Pickerel, Pike Trout Dates Announced

The Minister of Lands and Forests has announced the following dates for the opening of the pickerel and pike seasons in the Tweed District.

The Bay of Quinte, Consecon Lake, East Lake, West Lake, Pleasant Bay and Huyck's Bay in Prince Edward County, also those portions of the Trent, Moira, Salmon and Napanee rivers between Lake Ontario (Bay of Quinte) and the first dam upstream from that lake;

"Wednesday, May 1st, to March 31st."

In the remainder of the Tweed Forest District the season on pike and pickerel opens May 11th to March 31st.

The daily creel limit is six pike and six pickerel in one day.

Possession limit shall not exceed one day's catch.

The opening dates for rainbow (Kamloops) trout in the Tweed Forest District will commence April 27th.

Brook (speckled) trout outside the Tweed-Kempitville Forest District will commence on the same date, April 27th.

K-W Club Drops Out Of Inter County

GUELPH (CP) — The Inter-County Senior Baseball League received a jolt Thursday when the management of last year's Kitchener-Waterloo entry indicated it will not enter a team this year.

Coupled with the withdrawal of London, the remaining three teams — Brantford, Galt and Guelph—agreed to wait until May 4 before deciding whether to operate.

Howie Hupp, a Kitchener pitcher, attended Thursday's meeting of team representatives and said he would endeavor to set up a player-operated team.

Both the Galt and Brantford teams are successfully operated by its players.

If Kitchener players fail to come up with an entry, it was generally agreed the league will not operate.

Gord Arias and Harry Boyd, last year's Kitchener management, informed the meeting they are not prepared to accept financial responsibility this year.

Winnipeg Confident of Win

Maroons Down - - Not Out

By JIM McKAY
Canadian Press Correspondent

WINDSOR (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons will go after their second straight win in the Allan Cup final here tonight.

The fact that their opponents, Windsor Bulldogs, still own a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series for the Canadian Senior Hockey championship, doesn't seem to faze the Western Canada champions in the least.

Maroons contend they should have won at least one of the first three games which went to Windsor by scores of 5-4, 3-2 and 2-0 and that they should be all square in the series at the moment.

"But we're not," says playing-coach Bill Juzda, "and we'll just have to keep working hard. We got some breaks in that fourth game and we're due for some more."

The Maroons like to point out that they trailed Saskatoon Quakers 2-0 and 3-1 in the best-of-seven Western final then won the last three games to qualify for the Allan Cup final, the last two victories in Saskatoon.

Bulldogs drew a sellout audience here Wednesday for the fourth game in anticipation of celebrating the city's first Canadian hockey crown but Maroons spoiled the festivities by registering a 3-1 victory.

Key man in this contest was balding 31-year-old goaltender Don Collins who came up with numerous big stops, especially with his catching hand.

Collins and 21-year-old Wayne Rutledge put on an amazing penimalding show and it's expected the result of the series will continue to hinge on how the goalies perform.

Winnipeg will show one new face in its lineup tonight but it's an important one. Gary Aldcorn, a former National Hockey League left - winger, arrived Thursday after completing examinations at the University of Manitoba, where he is in his third year of medical school.

Aldcorn will line up with centre Argie Kukulowicz and Chuck Lumsden while Lou Fogal returns to the third line with Lloyd Orris and Ron Castelane.

Leafs Lose Mound Duel In 9th Frame

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the first few innings it looked as if Jacksonville and Toronto were going to set some home run records.

Both teams crashed two round-trippers in the first two innings of their game at Toronto. Then the game settled down to a pitcher's duel between Toronto's Carl Green and Jacksonville's Floyd Weaver. Only Greene was around in the ninth when Larry Brown powered a double to drive in the winning run and give Jacksonville a 4-3 victory.

In other International League games Thursday night Atlanta defeated Syracuse 4-1, Indianapolis beat Columbus 6-5 in 11 innings and Richmond edged Buffalo 8-5 in 13 innings. Arkansas at Rochester was postponed.

Atlanta's Bob Sadowski scattered six hits to beat Syracuse for the second time.

A long double by Tom Umphlett with none out in the 13th inning sent home the winning run for Richmond against Buffalo. The hit was Umphlett's fifth in six times at bat this season.

42 Head For Montreal

Rally Crews Hit Stretch

TORONTO (CP)—Strain, tension and weariness was starting to show today as 42 driver-navigator crews started down the stretch of the 4,000-mile Cross-Canada Rally.

Only Dick Doyen of Milwaukee and his navigator Clay Gibbs of Menominee Falls, Wis. were unreservedly happy as they started for the finishing point at Montreal.

The steady leaders, driving a Chevy II, had only two penalty points up to Thursday night, four fewer than runners up George Merson and John Wilson of Toronto in a Falcon Sprint.

Paul MacLennan and Art Dempsey, also from Toronto and also in a Falcon Sprint, swapped positions with the Merson-Wilson team Thursday and came in third with seven penalty points.

There were 47 cars in the starting field when the rally began at Vancouver last Saturday and 42 remain. One dropped out Thursday as a tough stretch of country north of here broke the hearts of many crews.

TRANSMISSION BREAKS

The Simms of Derek Harling of Burnley, England, and Toronto, and Dale Hooker of Madison Heights, Mich., was forced out with a broken transmission.

Others were disgruntled with rally organizers. Such as the disappointed Mercedes entry of Bill and Myrna Williams of Vancouver, who ran into navigation problems on Muskoka backroads about 100 miles north of here. They had been lauding their class.

"This ruins us," said Bill. "We've come 4,000 miles for nothing. To take you away out in the boondocks and give you two roads to take without telling you which way to go is just plain silly. It cost us 18 points."

WALT NEARLY MISSED

When Walt Disney arrived in Hollywood he looked for an acting job thinking it was "too late to enter the cartoon field."

AT THE BELLE — Flivver flies again in Walt Disney's "Son of Flubber", with Fred MacMurray and Charlie Ruggles at the controls. MacMurray stars with Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk. Filled with gags and loaded with laughs, "Son of Flubber" is attracting large audiences to the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Paul Ford as the town's irascible Mayor Shinn, warns Timmy Everett to stay away from his daughter, Susan Lackey, protected here by her mother, Harmione Gingold, in this scene from the Warner Bros. Technicolor presentation of Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man", opening tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. Robert Preston stars in the title role of the fast-paced foot-stomping musical comedy which has acclaimed the happiest of musicals of all time during its triumphant Broadway stage run, which was highlighted by Preston's award-winning performance. Shirley Jones stars opposite Preston in the film which was produced and directed by Morton DaCosta, who directed the stage production.

The Story of Norman Peale Being Filmed by Frank Ross

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Ross believes in the power of positive thinking. Otherwise he might despair of ever producing his picture.

Take The Robe. Ross tried 11 years to make it into a movie. He was set to do it at RKO, then Howard Hughes bought the studio. He couldn't get a decision from the native Texan.

Finally he wrested the property away from RKO and signed for deals with MGM, Warner Brothers and Universal. Each time the project failed.

Then he took it to 20th Century-Fox which made The Robe as the first feature in Cinemascope. Ross filmed it for $3,700,000 and reports that it grossed $30,000,000 world-wide.

Ross is finishing another picture on a religious theme, The Story of Norman Peale. He worked only four years on this one.

The story is about the famed positive thinking author and clergyman. Ross first came across the Peale legend through a Reader's Digest article. Minister to Millions. He read up on the minister, found his own philosophy coincided with Peale's.

DELAYED FILMING

Ross went to work on a screen treatment. The story was ready to film two years ago, but Peale's participation in presidential politics made the timing unfavorable.

"I waited, I waited," said Ross. "His (Peale's) views have much more acceptance now from persons of every faith than they did two or four years ago."

The script covers the Peale years from his youth as a newspaper reporter, his calling to the ministry and to his emergence as controversial author of a huge best-seller.

I watched as Ross oversaw a scene in which Peale, played by Don Murray, talks his Marble Collegiate Church congregation in New York of his decision to remain as pastor in the face of stormy criticism. It is the climax of the picture.

"We have over 20 minutes of sermons in the film," reported Ross, "and all have been taken from Peale's own preachings."

Spahn Off To Fine 1963 Start

HOUSTON, Texas (AP)—Milwaukee southpaw Warren Spahn is off to one of his finest starts of his career at the age of 42. He's well ahead of his personal schedule for a 13th 20-victory season.

"I can't remember such a good start—at times it isn't something usual," Spahn said Thursday after a seven-hit, 4-3 victory over the Houston Colts Wednesday night.

"I want to win 20 and right now I figure I'm three victories ahead of schedule, the Braves' ace said. "I try to reach 20 by mid-August, then relax. I'm not starting in May. Everything I win in April is so much gravy."

Spahn has been no special significance on his 330th National League victory, a day after his 42nd birthday.

"I wasn't real sharp against the Colts; I made a lot of mistakes," he said. "However, the only thing I'm interested in is the difference from the 3-1 record I ended up with the 23 records I would have if I had lost."

Spahn said that a couple games with only three days rest has helped him.

"This is the first season in the last three or four I've been able to use as I like," he said. "I think I do much better pitching every fourth day."

Although he has been a 20-game winner 12 times, Spahn rarely has been able to get off to a good start. Usually he has to about eight victories in mid-season and then closes with a rush.

Aussie Tops Texas Open By 2 Games

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The fellow they call "the iron man" of golf tour—Australia's Crampton of Australia—took the lead in the $30,000 Texas Open Thursday.

Crampton plays in more tournaments than any other regular on the tour—he was in 38 straight in 1962 and is in his 16th straight this year.

Thursday, Crampton was seeded with his irons as he carved a 7-under-par 64 out of the 6,879-yard Oak Hills Country Club course for a 3-stroke lead over four other hotshots—Phil Hodge, Tommy Aaron, Johnny Pott and Don Jamison.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP)—Greenwood Raceway dimmed its lights Thursday night to launch a 28-night stay at the east-end of Toronto oval, most successful spring meeting in Jockey Club history.

Harness racing now shifts to Mohawk Raceway, also $5,000, 000 exclusive home for standardbreds at Campbellville, Ont. The east and west ovals will hold court at Mohawk from April 26-May 25.

Alex Walker, the slim farmer from Owen Sound, captured the Greenwood driving honors by virtue of a strong finish as he nudged out hard-luck Ken Galbraith who had led the standard-bred Raceway pilots with 16 victories. Walker, in winning the seventh race with Cotton Maid Thursday night, finished with universal driver-rating system percentage of .500. Galbraith, also nosed out of the lead on the final night of last spring's meeting finished with a per centage of .488.

Ann Landers

Line-Crashers of Today Are Seat-Savers of Tomorrow

DEAR ANN LANDERS—The letter from the reader who complained about his pet gripe, "Seat Savers," gave me the courage to air my pet gripe—"Line Crashers."

Even the most stupid and insensitive slob should realize that people who make an effort to get to a place early resent the crasher.

Invariably the late arrival will scan the head of the line for a familiar face. Then they rush over and make with the big hello. In a few minutes someone turns to you and says, "Do you mind?" And they elbow their way in line.

What can a person say except, "Of course not" even though he is boiling inside? I would like to have your answer in print because my sentiments are shared by millions who are also stumped.—ANTI-PUSHERS.

DEAR ANTI—If you resent line-crashers, don't just stand there like a tower of tapioca. Say, "Yes, I do mind. The end of the line is down there." (P.S.—The Line-Crashers are probably the ones who turn out to be Seat-Savers once they get inside.)

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I'm a student at a midwestern college. We have several foreign students and I find them very interesting—particularly one young man with whom I have become infatuated.

I always believed my parents were democratic and broad minded, but I was mistaken. They strongly disapprove of my romance with this foreign student.

I have always had deep feelings about brotherhood and equality. I hate discrimination of any kind. So many people talk one way and live another. Please print this letter and express your views on the subject. It will be of interest to many college students—INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM.

DEAR INTERNATIONAL—You haven't told me what ther this foreign student is your race and religion but you indicate he is not. If he is, I see no reason why you should not continue the romance.

I am against racial intolerance and interracial dating—and this goes for the boy next door as well as the boy from half a world away. Dating leads to mating. Marriage has enough hazards without adding the problem of religious and racial differences.

In the area of civil rights I believe strongly in equality. But dating and marriage are matters of personal choice. I believe in the individual's freedom to make his choice, but every study on marriage and divorce which I have seen indicates that the chances for success are greater when people stick to their own.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—How can I correct this situation without hurting my son-in-law's feelings? Jeff is a wonderful fellow and I don't know what to do about the problem he is causing our family.

Jeff has an unmarried brother who is sweet on my youngest daughter, Sally. She does not care for Jeff's brother but she feels she must be polite to him. In the meantime Jeff brings his brother to our house at least three times a week.

I have hinted strongly, but Jeff doesn't get it. Is there anything that can be done, short of coming right out and telling Jeff his brother is not welcome?—THREE'S A CROWD.

DEAR CROWD—Doesn't Sally have vocal cords? I can't see that this is your problem—or your son-in-law's.

Your daughter should tell the pest straight away that she's not interested in him and to stop coming over. You and your son-in-law should not become involved: It's Sally's responsibility.

• • •

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

Looking for a Summer Job Depressing Chore

By JACK HUNTTON

Looking for a summer job and finding it a depressing chore in the middle of studies?

Do you wish someone would find a magic supply of ideas? Well, here for what they are worth, are summer jobs that teen-agers have reported to us in the past.

It might be that you could try one of these ideas. Or it might give you an idea for something different you can try in your home area.

JOB IDEAS

One group of teen-agers—all boys, as a matter of fact — organized themselves into a baby-sitting business. One person was listed as contact man in leaflets handed around the neighborhood.

Two girls thought they'd lost all chances of making money last summer when they went to their folks' cottage. Then they thought of getting up early and selling lunches to the fishermen leaving the dock.

A young fellow walked into a druggist and boldly offered to answer telephones, bring in coffee or anything else the druggist wanted. The store owner hired him for the summer and also used the teenager on Saturdays during the winter.

Three Montreal teen-agers didn't find summer jobs until two weeks after school finished last year. In desperation they offered to mow lawns in their neighborhood, and discovered lazy husbands all around the block.

Another teenager invested a bit of his savings in a garden hose with a car-washing attachment and then offered his services on a door-to-door basis. Before long he was hiring other teen-agers to help him.

It's not as difficult as one might think to find a job as a playground supervisor. Thousands of teenagers across Canada find this a healthy rewarding summer.

If you're over 16, a good swimmer and enjoy the outdoors, it's possible you may find a job with a summer camp. And you don't have to be a counsellor, you know. There are other jobs.

A teenage friend who couldn't think of anything else placed an advertisement a few years ago reading, "I love dogs and they love me. Shall I make sure your dog is getting enough exercise?" He spent the summer walking pet dogs—for a fee of course.

If you're a good student and don't mind helping someone else with homework, you might volunteer to tutor other students over the summer so they can re-enter school in the fall with more confidence.

That last idea isn't as crazy as it may sound. I know of several top students who organized themselves into a "brains trust" and made good pocket money all one summer.

There are a few ideas. If any of you have suggestions that you think others could use this summer, drop a line to this column and I'll pass them on immediately.

CITY FATHERS

Why don't more teenagers across Canada follow the example of young politicians in Niagara Falls who will "take over" their fair city May 8?

Youth in Government Day, sponsored by the local YMCA, follows a vigorous election campaign in which local Hi-Y clubs sponsor their own aldermen and mayor.

The new elected representatives, however, can't be expected to be totally familiar with the workings of civic government. Therefore, they'll spend May 9 touring civic departments after a mock council meeting.

Mayor Franklin J. Miller is enthusiastic about the project. "We give our full support to this project," he says. "It will train the youth of our city to take over the reins where we leave off."

I most envy the young fellow who will be elected "mayor." It will be his job during the day to meet newlywed couples and congratulate them on having chosen Niagara Falls for their honeymoon.

TOP 20 TUNES

1. I Will Follow Him, Georgia Gibbs. 2. Can't Get Used To Losing You, Andy Williams. 3. Our Day Will Come, Ruby and Romantics. 4. Puff, Peter, Paul and Mary. 5. The End Of The World, Skeeter Davis. 6. Young Lovers, Paul and Paula. 7. Mr. Bass Man, Johnny Cymbal. 8. Mecca, Gene Pitney. 9. Over The Mountain, Bobby Vinton. 10. In Dreams, Roy Orbison. 11. Yakety Sax, Boots Randolph. 12. Globetrotter, The Tornadoes. 13. Rhythm Of The Rain, The Cascades. 14. Watermelon Man, Mongo Santamaria. 15. Our Winter Love, Bill Purcell. 16. I Wanna Be Around, Tony Bennett. 17. Pipeline, The Chantays. 18. Charms, Bobby Vee. 19. I Got What I Wanted, Brooks Benton. 20. Days of Wine and Roses, Henry Mancini.

This young fellow gives his playground counsellor a kiss of appreciation. Teen-Age Canada today suggests playground supervising as a possible summer job.

Given 2 Months For Spitting At Red Choir

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters)—A 31-year-old hotel porter, alleged to have spat on members of the Red Army Choir as they left a Birmingham Theatre after a performance, was sentenced Wednesday to two months imprisonment.

William Edgar Todder pleaded guilty to charges of committing disorderly acts and carrying an offensive weapon—a dog-chain.

The prosecution said that as the Russian soldiers were leaving the theatre Todder shouted: "Go back to Russia. We don't want you here."

He also used obscene language and spat at the soldiers, it was said.

At the police station he was found to be wearing 16 undershirts which, he said, he wore "so I won't get hurt if any of them kick me."

Police said Todder was self-styled leader of the British Action Party, which has a small following.

Hint Of Election As Legislature Is Prorogued

Session 2 Days Short Record '60-'61 Stands

Liberal Member Asks Govt. To Lay Charge

TORONTO (CP) — A Liberal member of the legislature demanded Friday that the government either lay charges or "sweep away the cloud of suspicion" following allegations that an Ontario Supreme Court justice received promotional shares in Northern Ontario Natural Gas.

Elmer Sopha (L — Sudbury), windup speaker for the Liberal party in the budget debate, said Lands Minister Kelso Roberts had provided "a perfect springboard" for a statement Thursday night in which New Democratic Leader Donald MacDonald named Mr. Justice Leo Landreville.

As windup budget speaker for his party, Mr. MacDonald said Mr. Roberts had "all but named names" in telling the House Wednesday that evidence turned up in the recent inquiry into NONG had indicated a certain elected municipal official had received bulk of 14,000 promotional shares in the gas company.

Under heckling from the government benches, Mr. MacDonald said it was obvious that the elected official referred to was Mr. Justice Landreville, a former mayor of Sudbury.

Mr. Sopha said he did not know why Mr. Roberts "did what he did," in view of statements by Attorney - General Fred Case that no information from the NONG investigation would be made public until the inquiry is concluded, likely "some months" from now.

PUTS UNDER CLOUD

The Liberal member said the statements by Mr. Roberts and Mr. MacDonald had put Mr. Justice Landreville under a cloud of doubt, insinuation and innuendo."

He said it was a principle of law that "if a man is under a cloud of suspicion, he be either charged . . . or the cloud be swept away the cloud of suspicion."

Mr. Roberts, former attorney-general who went to the lands and forests portfolio in a cabinet shuffle last October, had "brought this man (Mr. Justice Landreville) into the public prints without a chance to defend himself."

Mr. Sopha repeated allegations that the reopened NONG investigation, ordered by Mr. Roberts last August, has already been completed.

Smallwood Insists Labrador Ore Must Be Processed in Province

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)— Premier Joseph Smallwood says he will "stand or fall" on the government's stand that Newfoundland iron ore should be processed in the province.

This policy was the basis of the Liberal government's insistence that an iron ore pelletizing plant proposed by the Wabush Iron Company will be built in Labrador—or not at all. The company has made cost surveys at Pointe Noire, Que., its shipping point on the Gulf of St. Lawrence for ore mined in Labrador.

Mr. Smallwood was speaking in the legislature Friday in reply to a question from Progressive Conservative Opposition Leader James J. Greene, who asked whether there was more information on the location of the plant.

Mr. Greene said he asked the question in view of reports that Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec wants the $50,000,000 plant at Pointe Noire.

Mr. Smallwood served notice last week that he was against the plant being built in Quebec.

He told Mr. Greene that steel companies participating in the Wabush company might want to build plants near their United States steel mills and "we would have no moral right to object to this."

But if one plant is to be built to jointly serve the steel companies it will be built in Newfoundland, Mr. Smallwood said.

Today's Chuckle

When the bread won't rise nowadays it's time to repair the toaster.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A disturbance moving northeastward from Kansas will bring increasing cloud in the province Sunday and showers or thunderstorms are likely in western sections by evening.

TORONTO (CP) — A legislative program highlighting possible pensions, minimum wages, colored margarine, meat inspection and financial aid to farming and industry became law Friday night as the Ontario legislature prorogued.

In the final hours of the session, opened Nov. 27, speculation increased that an Ontario general election will be called this year.

In winding up the budget debate, Premier John Robarts brought a show of mock despair from opposition benches with a statement concerning byelections in four vacant ridings.

Mr. Robarts, noting that by-elections are legally impossible while the House is sitting, said his Progressive Conservative government is about to enter the fifth year of a five-year mandate.

"Consideration must be given to the possibility of the unnecessary expense and inconvenience" of members who might win a byelection and yet not have a chance to sit with anyone in the present legislature, he said.

IN GENERAL ELECTION?

While the statement did not commit the government to any course on a general election, some opposition members regarded it as an indication the Premier, Dalton, Sault Ste. Marie, Hamilton Centre and Nickel Belt will vote next when the rest of Ontario votes.

The Conservatives hold 65 of the legislature's 98 seats. There are 24 Liberal members and five New Democrats.

In summing up opposition soundings on the election theme this session, Mr. Robarts has been reminded, several times, of Grey reminding the House that his government's mandate doesn't need renewing until June, 1964.

PUTS UNDER CLOUD

The Liberal member said the statements by Mr. Roberts and Mr. MacDonald had put Mr. Justice Landreville under a cloud of doubt, insinuation and innuendo."

He said it was a principle of law that "if a man is under a cloud of suspicion, he be either charged . . . or the cloud be swept away the cloud of suspicion."

MAY ADVOCATE REMOVAL OF HAL BANKS

Merging of Unions Also Proposed

WASHINGTON (CP) — Pressure is building up in diplomatic quarters here to advocate the withdrawal of U.S. - born Hal Banks from Canada and to merge the fledgling Canadian Maritime Union with the Seafarers International Union as a means of settling labor strife on the Great Lakes.

Informants said this proposal is being quietly explored in both Canadian and U.S. quarters as a possible suggestion to labor officials to consider in the wake of Prime Minister Pearson's, Ottawa, U.S. trip to help resolve the shipping battle involving unions on both sides of the border.

The Montreal - based Banks, head of the 17,000-member SIU of Canada, is strongly supported by Paul Hall, president of the SIU in the United States, and by Pete McGavin, executive secretary of the AFL-CIO maritime department.

Hall said in New York it would be presumptuous on his part to comment on Pearson's approach until he sees the official statement but added that his office is willing to discuss the issue at any time with anyone.

"Meanwhile, American maritime unions would continue to support Hal Banks' SIU in picketing CMU - manned ships and other work to discourage employment for its members with the Upper Lakes Shipping Company of Toronto, Hall said. This company has signed a contract with the CMU, supported by the Canadian Labor Congress which expelled the SIU "for raiding other unions.

BANKS CRITICIZED

Banks has been under sharp criticism by CLC President Claude Jodoin and his name likely will figure largely in the Norris commission report to be completed soon.

It is understood in diplomatic quarters here Jodoin might not need recognition of a CMU-SIU merger, with the re-entry of the merged body in the CLC, providing Banks is ousted.

The suggestion that perhaps George Meany, AFL-CIO president, might be persuaded by the U.S. administration to attempt to oust Hall into replacing Banks is being considered in U.S.-Canadian diplomatic circles but informants would publicly acknowledge this is being discussed.

Canadian Ambassador Charles Ritchie conferred with State Secretary Rusk Thursday, presumably on appeal to Rusk's attention and asking for immediate steps to get the Upper Lakes freighter Shaw, now tied up in Chicago, moving again. It is understood Rusk promised to help.

Pressure towards easing of tensions is likely to be advanced in view of forthcoming talks between Pearson and President Kennedy to take place at Hyannis Port, Mass., May 10-11.

Harriman Sees K About Laos

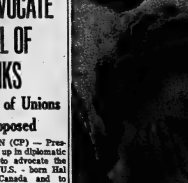
MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Under Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman expressed hope today that his talks with Premier Khrushchev will lead to an improvement in the situation in Laos.



Harriman spoke at a press conference in the U.S. embassy with correspondents from both sides of the Iron Curtain.

He denied emphatically, and branded as false, statements in the Soviet press that Americans were instigating trouble in Laos and that American officers were leading some of the Laotian forces in combat.

These charges were repeated as Harriman met Friday with Khrushchev, a reinforced support for a neutral Laos.

Harriman said neither Khrushchev nor Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko questioned his assertion that it was the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces that started the fighting.

He said he was pleased with the results of the mission to Moscow he was assigned by President Kennedy.

Find Bodies of All 22 Men Trapped by Coal Mine Blast

CLARKSBURG, W.Va. (AP) Survivors today planned funerals for 22 victims of a violent coal mine explosion in northern West Virginia, while mine officials tried to pinpoint the cause of the tragedy.

Rescue workers located the last of the bodies late Friday night, and by midnight had brought all the victims to the surface at the Clinchfield Coal Company's Compass No. 2 mine at Dola, 12 miles northwest of Clarksburg.

The sheet - shrouded bodies were taken first to a company-owned building for identification, then to funeral homes in the area.

Authorities did not learn immediately what ignited the explosion 400 feet under the surface Thursday night, but the ingredients were believed to be methane gas and coal dust, two old and deadly enemies of the miner.

Death apparently came quickly and mercifully. Most of the men apparently were knocked down by shock waves from the explosion and died instantly. The bodies showed signs of concussion.

Several hundred persons waited tearfully outside the mine opening at Dola when the first grim load was brought to the surface.

Havana Radio Admits Raid Carried Out on Refinery

WASHINGTON (AP)—A freelance photographer who claims he took part in a bombing raid on Havana says he'll press the attack on Communist Cuba "at every opportunity."

More than eight hours after Alexander Rorke Jr. of New York gave reporters his account of a low-level bombing run over a Havana oil refinery, the Cuban government echoed most of his story and said it would be the United States responsible.

But the state department cast doubt on the whole matter. Press Officer Lincoln White said: "We have no information on this at all, and we assume that if it had happened we would have heard about it. The first voice to shrill about this would have been Radio Havana."

After Havana radio broadcast the Cuban government's statement Friday night White had no comment.

Associated Press correspondent George Arfeld said in a dispatch from Cuba that there were no visible indications that the Nico Lopez refinery outside Havana had been bombed. He said usually reliable sources had expressed doubt there was a raid.

Havana radio said "The Cuban government holds the United States government responsible for these pirate attacks and the consequences that may come from them."

It said a formal diplomatic protest was being prepared.

As outlined by the Cuban government, the raid took place at 10 p.m. Thursday night. Rorke told reporters the plane started its bombing run at 8:55 p.m. and was over the refinery in four minutes and 40 seconds.

In most other details the two

Que. May Create Education Department at Cabinet Level

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government this week received a strong recommendation from a royal commission to create a department of education at cabinet level—a move which a few years ago would have been considered anathema.

But it may not happen immediately.

Premier Lesage told a reporter Friday he thought it "unlikely" legislation would be introduced during the current legislature session to establish an education ministry.

Some observers feel the government may be awaiting public reaction to the proposal, the key recommendation of the report, first of three to be submitted by the royal commission, headed by Msgr. Alphonse-Marie Parent, vice-rector of Laval University.

Msgr. Parent said in presenting the report that if a department is not created "it will be difficult to carry out recommendations we are going to make later."

The Parent royal commission said there have been "traditional objections" in Quebec to an education ministry but said it doesn't feel greater state control of education would mean increased secularization.

The commission recommended formation of a 16-member "superior council of education" to which would be attached Protestant and Roman Catholic committees to draw up regulations on teaching of morals and religion. Their recommendations would be subject to cabinet approval.

Castro Given Big Welcome In Soviet Union

Arrival Was Closely Guarded Secret

MOSCOW (AP)—Cuba's premier Fidel Castro said today he would cherish the memory of his ear-splitting welcome in the arctic city of Murmansk as "the most exciting moment of our life."

The Soviet news agency Tass said thousands greeted the bearded Cuban on his bush-bush midnight arrival for a first visit to the Soviet Union. Castro said he would guess all 200,000 of the city's population had turned out to meet him.

Leading them was First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, who went to Havana last Autumn to smooth things over after Soviet Premier Khrushchev said he would withdraw Russian rockets.

Neither Castro nor Mikoyan made any mention of those events in their speeches today, which were broadcast by Moscow radio.

Castro began calmly and slowly, but was soon outshouting his Soviet hosts. Mikoyan had begun shouting at the very beginning.

"We feel," Castro said, "as if the arms of the Soviet Union have been opened to embrace us . . .

"I am impatiently looking forward to making an acquaintance with great industrial life."

ARRIVAL SECRET

The fact that Castro was arriving in the Soviet Union today was a closely guarded secret, built here and in Cuba, although it had been announced 11 days ago that the Cuban would make a visit to the Soviet Union this year.

It is his first visit to the country, but not his first meeting with Khrushchev. They met in New York at a United Nations meeting more than "14 years ago.

Castro today launched into a brief declaration about the need for solidarity of the international working class. He also spoke about what he called the merits of Marxism-Leninism.

When he finished, the crowd shouted, "Cuba — Viva Cuba!"

Mikoyan spoke only a few words: "Long live the leader of the Cuban revolution—the people's friend, Comrade Castro!"

Moscow prepared an ecstatic greeting for the first man to face the banners of communism in triumph over any country in the western hemisphere.

NEED FOR MORE TRADE TALK WITH HERTER

Calls Pearson Old Friend of Mine

OTTAWA (CP)—The need for expanded international trade has been discussed here by the new Liberal cabinet and at talks between Prime Minister Pearson and Ambassador Christian A. Herter of the United States.

Mr. Herter, President Kennedy's special representative for trade negotiations, arrived early Friday for talks with Mr. Pearson and other cabinet ministers. He is scheduled to return to Washington today after further trade discussions.

Mr. Herter said he hopes that Canada and the U.S. can get together on finding ways to expand international trade in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade negotiations next year.

He described Mr. Pearson as "an old friend of mine" and said "his ideas on the removal of obstructions to international trade have always been Liberal —that's small 1 liberal."

VIEWS APPROACHED

Mr. Pearson said that Mr. Herter, as representative of the U.S. government, is very concerned that the "Kennedy round" of tariff negotiations which opens in Geneva next year should make progress in removing trade barriers.

"We are certainly in accord on that," the prime minister said.

After meeting with Mr. Pearson, Mr. Herter met with External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, Finance Minister Walter Gordon and Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp. Besides the GATT ministerial conference, they discussed the London meeting early next month of the commonwealth economic consultative committee.

The two conferences also were discussed at a 90-minute meeting of the cabinet.

Following the meeting, Mr. Pearson said Trade Minister Sharp will represent Canada at both the GATT meeting in Geneva and the Commonwealth committee meeting in London.

Mr. Pearson also announced that Works Minister J. P. Deschatelets will be federal minister concerned with the Montreal world's fair.

UPI ELECTS OFFICERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Two new vice-presidents of United Press International were elected by directors Friday. The new vice-presidents are Roderick W. Beaton, general business manager, and Roger Tatarian, executive editor. Tatarian has been executive editor since 1962. Beaton has been business manager since April, 1962. All present officers were re-elected.

Loggers' Trial Is Adjourned Until May 23

KAPUSKASING, Ont. (CP)— The trial of 179 loggers charged with rioting and unlawful assembly was adjourned Friday until May 23 by Magistrate W. S. Gardiner to allow defence counsel time to study crown evidence.

Counsel John Brooke of Toronto, who offered no defence Friday against charges of unlawful assembly brought against 177 of the 179, requested the adjournment.

Charges of unlawful assembly were dismissed against 65 loggers Thursday for lack of evidence.

The 65 were among 243 defendants originally charged with both offences—rioting and unlawful assembly—after a raid on some 900 striking loggers Feb. 11 at a logging camp at Reesor Siding. 40 miles west of Kapuskasing. Independent logcutting settlers had piled wood for shipment to a strikebound mill.

Three strikers were killed by gunfire and nine others injured.

SETS DATE

Mr. Gardiner set May 23 as the date for final argument between Mr. Brooke and Crown Attorney S. A. Caldbick, who replaced the crown's case Thursday.

Sixty-three of the 65 men freed of the unlawful assembly charges had the rioting charge dismissed Friday.

Since the other two men had not appeared at any of the hearings, Magistrate Gardiner said he was letting the rioting charge stand to avoid complications of extradition.

At Friday's adjournment, 179 loggers faced the rioting charge and 177 of them the additional charge of unlawful assembly.

The rioting charge was remanded to June 14, but Mr. Caldbick said none of the men would have to appear if the charges were dropped or even a verdict on the lesser charge was rendered by Magistrate Gardiner.

Mr. Baldbick had indicated he would not proceed with the

NEED FOR MORE TRADE TALK WITH HERTER

The defendants will not have to appear May 23 in nearby Timmins—new site for the trial —as Mr. Brooke has agreed to meet them.

For four hours Friday morning, Mr. Brooke met with the loggers in the Strand Theatre, while the crown prosecutor's room since last Tuesday. He advised them not to testify and to let him argue the case.

In Toronto Thursday, there were developments on charges of non-capital murder against 30 settlers as a result of the Reesor Siding clash.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court upheld the committal for trial of Paul Jouhaltsis, 34 — old — manager of the settlers' co-operative, on the murder charge.

No Way to Tell How Many Lost As 'Party Type Party' Hits Shoal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A gay, drinking party in the Bahamas turned into tragedy Friday night when one of the boats, a 36-foot pleasure craft, struck a shoal in shallow water and sank almost immediately, killing two persons and injuring several others.

The U.S. Coast Guard said 22 persons were rescued and two of the injured were flown to Miami. The tragedy occurred off Bimini Island.

The five-hour rescue operation, conducted partially under coast guard flares, was suspended early today.

A coast guard officer said, "People kept inviting people and no one knew how many took the trip," a coast guard officer said.

Little Produce Offered on Local Market

Sunny skies and a cool breeze set the scene on the local farmers' market here this morning.

To date very little local produce has been offered for sale, with the exception of maple syrup which was scarce today. The syrup season was reported as somewhat shorter this year. The small amount offered this morning sold for the same price it did at the beginning of the season, $6.30 per gallon, $1.75 a quart and 90 cents a pint.

Strawberry plants, introduced on the market last week, remained this morning at 80c a bunch. Some chickens were available at 30 cents a pound and eggs sold at 40, 45 and 50 cents a dozen for small, medium and large.

Apples, Macs and Spies, held steady at 75 and 85 cents a six-quart basket, and $2.75 and $3.75 a bushel.

A good assortment of pastry was also offered for sale, including tarts at 50 cents each, cakes 60 cents, doughnuts 40 cents a dozen, along with assorted cookies and farts.

Chas. Drysdale Given Trophy

Belleville scout Charles Drysdale, moving with his family to Montreal, has a going-away gift with a difference.

The young Scout has been awarded a trophy for his ability as a member of the 11th Belleville Cub and Scout Troop.

The presentation came at a Silver-and-on banquet of the troop attended, among others by district Scout Commissioner Murray Maw. The commissioner made the award personally to Charles. Scout speaker for the evening was Mrs. F. W. Wallis.

Other local Scout officials at the banquet were Rod Wallert, district council secretary; P. W. Pickering, council president; Rev. H. M. Davis, chaplain; R. Chaplin, group committee chairman; and L. McQuaid, Sunday School superintendent.

Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week To Be Marked

April 28-May 4 marks the 60th observance of Canada - U.S. Goodwill Week, in which more than 360,000 men of Kiwanis in more than 8,100 Kiwanis clubs across the United States and Canada will play a leading role.

Kiwanis International initiated the observance known as Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week in 1922 as a means to focus attention on more than a century of mutual understanding and peace which has existed between the two great countries.

This year is the 146th anniversary of the signing of the Rush-Bagot Agreement, a treaty of friendship that resulted in the demilitarizing of the 3,000 miles of border between the two countries. The anniversary date of that signing falls within Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week each year.

VON Reports On Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held April 23 at the YMCA with the president, Mrs. Frank Stilwell, presiding. Miss Ethel Grindley, regional director, was present and welcomed by the board members. Miss Grindley spoke about the two branches of Whitby and Oshawa sharing their nursing staff with a relief nurse for weekends and holidays, such cost being shared by both branches. Possibly Belleville and Trenton could use this system.

Mr. Greer, from the Trenton branch, stated they were in need of additional nursing care. They would like to share nurses part time and pay their part of the cost. Miss Dorothy Connor said it was difficult to predict requirements, but her staff would be willing to help if possible. At the present, three full time nurses are being used and another nurse two or three times a week. Miss Grindley asked if a committee could be set up to explore further the possibility of working out plans with Trenton. Her wishes were complied with and a committee of Miss Connor, Mrs. Greer, Mrs. R. Brain and Mr. K. Lynch was established to meet with the Trenton Board.

SPRING TEA

The annual spring tea it to be convened by Mrs. Ray Grant and Mrs. R. Stewart at Christ Church in May.

The head nurse, Miss D. Connor, presented the nurse's report. There were 109 patients under V.O.N. care. Total visits for March were 593, 86 per cent were given medical and surgical patients, 8 per cent to maternity and newborn and 5 per cent to patients visited for health instruction only. Two half-days were spent at Douglas Atkins School, and two half-days at Cannifton-Corbyville School.

Miss Jean Mahoney, a public health nurse from the University of Ottawa, started her three weeks' field work with the Belleville V.O.N. on April 16.

The meeting adjourned.

The V.O.N. is a member of the United Appeal.

Supper Dance Held By Civil Servants

Ontario civil servants in the Belleville area held a supper dance last night.

The event, at Cub Canara, was attended by more than 120.

Guest speaker for the evening was Arthur Duncan, Bata Shoe Company, Batawa.

Barbershoppers Arrive in City For Festival

Belleville was invaded last evening, not by an army, nor paratroopers, nor guerillas, but by a mass of happy-go-lucky outsiders from all parts of the province who belong to an organization officially known as the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Singing in America, but more popularly referred to as the barbershoppers.

These men (and their ladies) come from all walks of life but have one common avocation and that is the enjoyment of making music in their own inimitable fashion reminiscent of the early days of this century, when Barbershop quartet singing was as suggestive of the era now as a memory as were the Floradora Sextet and bobbin shoes—gone but not forgotten.

Last evening and this morning these singers and choristers have arrived in the city by the hundreds for their annual Convention of the Ontario District. From all parts of Eastern Ontario they have come and surging into the lobby of the Hotel Quinte was bustling with activity and reverberating with sound as various quartets could be heard in their specialties.

This could be called a kind of final warm up before the Quartet semi-finals and Chorus Championships, which will take place in the Collegiate auditorium today. A successful dance was held with buffet spread for all to enjoy. Two quartets sparred with each other in a humorous vein, the Huronians from Barrie and the Capitalaires from Ottawa with the latter coming out on top. So, the Barbershoppers are off to an enjoyable weekend here with music as their main objective, and may they sing their hearts out so that we, the citizens of Belleville can take them into our hearts.

Diefenbakers And Pearsons Exchange Homes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Pearsons and Diefenbakers exchanged residences Friday. One move went off as smoothly as the change of government on Monday.

Big moving vans were parked most of the afternoon at the entrances to 24 Sussex Street, about two miles from Parliament Hill, and Stornoway at 541 Acacia Avenue in suburban Rockcliffe Park Village, another 1½ miles east along the winding, scenic federal Driveway.

Start Is Made On Treatment Plant at Batawa

TRENTON — a start has been made on construction at Batawa's new sewage treatment plant just south of the village, Clifford Hay, head of the project is expected to be $150,000, of which the federal government will pay $94,725. Under terms of the National Housing Act, fifty township will have 80 years to pay the loan at 5½ per cent interest.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission, which will build and maintain the new plant, has long been worried about pollution of the Trent River in the area. The new plant will replace a comparatively small sediment tank which now collects village sewage and empties it into the river.

WILL HOLD BLITZ

The Trenton and District unit of the Canadian Cancer Society hopes to go a long way towards meeting its objective of $8,000 during the residential blitz next Monday and Tuesday. Between 400 and 500 canvassers will knock on town doors in an effort to raise the money, some of which already has been collected since the campaign opened last Monday.

The society's national objective is $3,582,000. Ontario's share is $1,800,000, of which more than $300,000 had been collected by the beginning of the month.

"Out of every dollar which is received by the Canadian fund, 67 cents is devoted directly into research and treatment of the disease," said Trenton cochairman, Elmer Bonter.

Bodies Found Near Wreckage Of Light Plane

TRENTON — The RCAF Search and Rescue Co-Ordination Centre in Trenton reported yesterday that the bodies of a Montreal couple had been found near the wreckage of their light plane that disappeared last Sunday on a flight from Dorval to Sherbrooke, Que. Officials believe Hiram Glasberg, 44 and his wife, Estelle, 41, died when their plane was forced down by bad weather about 25 miles northwest of its destination. Some 49 Canadian and United States aircraft, including helicopters and a helicopter from Trenton took part in the search.

WILL REPEAT TATTOO

The success last year's military tattoo in Trenton will be tried to be repeated again next fall. Mayor James MacDonald revealed at Branch 110 of the Royal Canadian Legion Wednesday night that arrangements are already being discussed for bands to take part in the show. He promised that this year's tattoo will be "bigger and better than ever."

BIRTHS

POTTS — Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Potts, Picton, Ont., are happy to announce the birth of a son, Jerry Henry, on Thursday, April 25, 1963, at Belleville General Hospital. Brother for Jerry Jr. and Ronald.

McKILLOP — Mr. and Mrs. George McKillop, 256 Pinnacle Crescent, R. R. 4, Belleville, are happy to announce the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth Ann, on Thursday, April 25, 1963. Weight 8 lbs.

KENNS — Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kenns (nee Vicki Devlin) are happy to announce the arrival of their son, Douglas Robert, April 25, 1963 at the Belleville General Hospital. Brother for Laurie. Weight, 9 lbs.

CRONKRIGHT — Lorne, Phyllis and Judy wish to thank Dr. Ball for the safe arrival of Brian Harry (10¼ lbs. 22¼) on Thursday, April 25, 1963 at Belleville General Hospital.

IN MEMORIAM

SINE — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Ernest Sine, who passed away five years ago, April 27, 1958.

Memories, my treasures, no one can steal.
Death is a heartache that nothing can heal.
Ever remembered by Mrs. C. Sine and family.

HORTON — In loving memory of Gilbert Horton who passed away April 27, 1962.

Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be
In His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our reasoning.
God gave us strength to fight it
And courage to bear it too
But what it cost to lose him
No one will ever know.
Lovingly remembered by wife Stella and daughter and family grandchildren.

LAWRENCE — In memory of my mother, Mrs. Herbert Lawrence, who passed away April 28th, 1934.
A beautiful memory, dearer than gold,
Of a mother whose worth can never be told.
Always she stands by my side
She whispers, don't grieve, death cannot divide
Deep in my heart the memory is kept,
Of one I loved and will never forget.
And though the years be many
I will always be thinking, dear mother of you.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Blanche, Wallace and Herb.

SIGN CONTRACT

A contract for a $10,800,000 Canadian Hydro-Electric plant to be built in Ceylon, financed by a federal government loan, was signed Friday in Ottawa. The project is a joint undertaking by two firms, Dominion General Electric Co. Ltd. and the Vancouver consulting engineers firm of Ingledew, Kidd and Associates Ltd.

INCREASE DIRECTORS

An increase in the number of directors to 12 from 10 was approved Friday by shareholders of Imperial Oil Ltd. D. H. Cooper, general manager of marketing, and R. S. Ritchie, executive assistant to the board of directors on special projects, were elected to the new positions.

STARTING PLANT

Kalium Chemicals Ltd. of Regina has announced an immediate construction start on a plant that will employ the world's first successful solution potash mining method to get at deep reserves of potash near Belle Plaine, Sask. The announcement was made at a press conference here by Boyd R. Willett, Kalium vice-president and general manager, and Saskatchewan government officials. Belle Plaine is 25 miles west of Regina.

WIN PERMITS

Three firms have been issued permits to export a total of 40,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas from Alberta over the next 25 years to markets both in Canada and the United States. On the recommendation of the Alberta Gas Conservation Board the provincial cabinet Friday approved granting of export permits to Canadian Delhi Oil Ltd., Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas Ltd., and Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Co. Ltd.

MAY BE OUTLET

If Canadian products are priced right, are of quality and the delivery date is good, Australia can provide an excellent outlet for exports.

That's the view of H. A. Gilbert, Canada's commercial counsellor in Melbourne, who is here to attend the second export promotion conference sponsored by the federal trade department.

However, Mr. Gilbert added Friday that export prospects are not likely to apply for goods which Australia produces herself.

TOLD ON PICNIC

The first part of Alice in Wonderland was told by Lewis Carroll to three young daughters of a friend while on a picnic in 1862.

Hint of Election

Easter prorogation target for the first time since 1949, was moderately quiet, with few headline blazes set off by the general legislative business.

Only in the last week did the session flare up with an unexpected debate—a renewed exchange on the Northern Ontario Natural Gas (NONG) stock promotion inquiry.

These special studies were initiated during this legislature session, and a fourth, the select committee on municipal law, was reappointed.

A select committee will study the whole area of the cost of credit buying.

A representative committee—to include members of the labor, industry and medical fields will hold public hearings and prepare recommendations for the government on medical services insurance.

The government's draft bill on medical care insurance, given second reading but not enacted at this session, will be used by the committee as a working paper. The committee's report will be the basis for a revised bill to be presented for legislature approval.

A special committee, headed by Toronto Chartered Accountant Lancelot J. Smith, has been given the task of reviewing provincial and municipal taxation in Ontario.

TABLE CRIME REPORT

The report of Mr. Justice Willard D. Roach's royal commission investigation on organized crime, tabled during a federal election campaign, which overshadowed events in the provincial House, put the Ontario legislature back in the headlines.

In a sometimes tempestuous 316-hour debate of the report, Liberal Leader Robert Wintermeyer said the commissioner's findings were "a vindication and justification" of Mr. Wintermeyer's speech to the legislature of Nov. 29, 1962.

The Liberal leader accepted the finding that there was no link between gamblers and the attorney - general's department, but said the report proved allegations about the extent of organized crime in the province.

NDP Leader Donald C. MacDonald said the report created a "pallid reflection" of evidence given at the commission's public hearings last summer. He suggested Mr. Justice Roach has been "timid" on recommendations involving politicians.

Lands and Forests Minister Roberts, attorney-general at the time the commission was established, said the report cleared his former department. He accused Mr. Wintermeyer of consorting with "the gatherers of the garbage from the gutters of life."

TIGHTENS CHARTERS

As a result of the report, the government introduced legislation aimed at tightening supervision of social club charters—found by Mr. Justice Roach to have been used at times as a front for gambling operations.

Charters of another type—incorporating horse racing associations—figured in charges by Mr. MacDonald that Lieutenant-Governor - Designate W. Earl Rowe had signed a false affidavit to the provincial secretary's department.

Attorney - General Cass ordered an investigation and brought in a statement late in the session saying there was no evidence to indicate impropriety in the revival of a dormant racing charter used to get racing days for Windsor Raceway. Mr. MacDonald rejected the statement as "an insult to the intelligence" of members.

PUTS THROUGH BILLS

In following through with the legislative program promised in the session - opening throne speech last fall, the government introduced:

1. Portable pensions legislation, requiring a minimum standard plan for all firms with more than 15 employees by Jan. 1, 1965. Portable pensions permit a worker to change jobs without losing his accumulated benefits or employee-employer contributions.

2. An Ontario arts council with an initial government grant of $200,000 to promote and assist the creative arts.

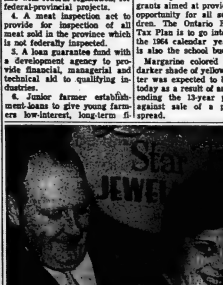
3. An agricultural rehabilitation and development act, in line with federal legislation, for federal-provincial projects.

4. A meat inspection act to provide for inspection of all meat sold in the province which is not federally inspected.

5. A loan guarantee fund with a development agency to provide financial, managerial and technical aid to qualifying industries.

6. Junior farmer establishment-loans to give young farmers low-interest, long-term financing in setting up their own operation.

7. Minimum wage amendments, allowing an hourly instead of weekly rate structure.



8. A producers, processors and consumers food council with authority to investigate problems in any area of the food industry.

SETS WAGE RATE

In connection with the minimum wage amendments, Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree announced that rates of 85 cents an hour for women, 81 an hour for men and $1.25 an hour for construction workers will be in effect by June for the industrial area around Lake Ontario between Oshawa and Niagara Falls.

During the session, Premier Robarts outlined a new government system of education grants aimed at providing equal opportunity for all school children. The Ontario Foundation Tax Plan is to go into effect in the 1964 calendar year, which is also the school budget year.

Margarine colored a slightly darker shade of yellow than butter was expected to be on sale today as a result of another act ending the 13-year prohibition against sale of a pre-colored spread.

STARS IN HER EYES show almost as bright as the stars in the stones as 19-year-old Marlene Foley of Belleville tries on the "Star of the North" necklace at the Quinte District Home and Flower Show. That's Bruce Lynch of Belleville fitting the necklace into place. The "Star of the North" stars a forty-two-and-a-quarter carat pear-shaped marquise star ruby, with six smaller star rubies and 166 diamonds.

Yaremko Sent Road Maps Free To Constituents

TORONTO (CP) — Two New Democratic party members and Provincial Secretary John Yaremko levelled charges and counter - charges Friday over use of the Ontario's legislature's franking privilege.

Elmer Sopha, Dryden (NDP—Toronto Woodbine) touched off the exchange by asking Mr. Yaremko the cost of stationary, maps and postage used in what he termed a "mass mailing" of 1963 road maps to Mr. Yaremko's constituents in the Toronto riding of Bellwoods.

The NDP member said Mr. Yaremko has "been caught using public funds for his own political purposes."

Mr. Yaremko replied heatedly that the letters enclosed a government road map. "I was sending out to my constituents what they paid hard taxes for."

Mr. Yaremko told Mr. Bryden "the leader of your party used the franking privilege (including postage free) to send out political propaganda."

Under questioning by NDP Leader Donald C. MacDonald, the provincial secretary waved an envelope which he said had contained propaganda sent by Mr. MacDonald to his York South riding.

When Mr. Yaremko read the address on the envelope, Mr. MacDonald said it was that of one of three "little newspapers" in his riding to which he sent periodic reports.

The NDP leader said: "I have never sent out thousands (of franked envelopes) to my constituents."

Eight Charged With Arson In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Seven men and a woman have been charged with arson and conspiracy in the burning of premises of $455,427 damage in the Montreal area.

Roger Dure, one of the men charged, did not appear in court Friday and a bench warrant for his arrest was issued by Judge Armand Chevrette.

The prosecution said Dupre moved a frame with his family last September after collecting $13,000 insurance on a fire that destroyed his business and residence in nearby Ste. Therese.

Two men described as insurance adjusters, Wilfrid Jarjour, 40, and Lionel Forest, 36, were among the accused. The woman was Anita Michaud who operated a restaurant at Ste. L'Assomption. A fire that caused $500,000 damage to a block of commercial buildings April 7 started in the restaurant, insured for $4,000, said the prosecution.

Others charged were Dominique Deluca, 34, Roger Lemarand, 39, Elie Goulet, 36, and Onesime Menard. All were remanded without bail for preliminary hearing May 1-2.

Dettore and another insurance adjuster were arraigned earlier in the week on other arson and conspiracy counts arising from an investigation by the fire commissioner's office into a series of fires in Quebec province since 1958.

Other fires mentioned in the charges against Dupre were in communities of Ile Perrot and Rosemere. A commercial building operated by Menard in Ile Perrot was destroyed last Sept. 28 and loss was estimated at $113,000.

Frank Follwell Heads Campaign For Red Shield

The Salvation Army Red Shield campaign will be held in Belleville starting May 1st, with a $12,000 objective.

The date and goal were announced today by campaign chairman Frank S. Follwell.

Over the years the drive has become known to Salvation Army members as the "Smiling Campaign," despite the fact that each year brings growing demands for service—which in turn raise Army costs.

Campaign headquarters is the Salvation Army Citadel on Pinnacle Street.

Claims Flaws In Canada's Income Tax Act

MONTREAL (CP) — An individual poured more grist into the mill of the Carter taxation commission Friday with claims that there are flaws in Canada's Income Tax Act.

The individual, Julius M. Sharing, a Montreal electrician, told the commission that the basic exemption of taxpayers should be increased, the deduction for dependents increased, that bigger allowances be made for medical expenses, easier appeal procedures be adopted, and a new, more simple tax return form be brought in.

The six-man royal commission, charged with reviewing the Tax Act while insuring that Canada maintains a sufficient flow of revenue, estimated that Mr. Sharing's recommendations would result in an immediate annual loss of $900,000,000 to the treasury.

"You will realize our difficulty in this," said Commission Chairman Kenneth Carter.

"I am not thinking about myself," said Mr. Sharing. "I am thinking about all Canadians." He said the cost of living has been gaining ground on deductions allowed.

Some of the lost revenue could be offset by improvements in the operation of government as recommended by the Glassco commission.

The government would also get additional revenue from the increased public buying power, brought about by the suggested tax changes.

Italian Election Campaign Ends, No Change Expected

ROME (Reuters)—The two-month Italian general election campaign ended at midnight with observers today predicting no substantial changes in the government after voting winds up Sunday night.

Before the ban on campaigning went into effect at midnight, all parties issued urgent appeals for support from Italy's 34,000,000 voters.

The issues in the election were mostly domestic, with only the Communists bringing in foreign policy by attacking the government's support of NATO.

All parties except the Communists accept Italy's membership in the Western alliance. Foreign observers said only major Communist gains could radically alter Italy's position in the alliance.

Communist Party Leader Palmiro Togliatti urged a mass rally here Friday night to show the Communists were stronger than ever when they voted Sunday.

Meanwhile, Christian Democratic Premier Amintore Fanfani told a rally of his supporters that the right-wing parties, especially the Liberals, were "helping the Communist game" by attacking his party and condemning his "opening on the left."

The so-called opening on the left finds the Christian Democrats in a formal coalition with the Socialists with additional support from the left-wing Socialists led by Pietro Nenni.

Although the Christian Democrats, who have been in power since the fall of fascism, were expected to continue in control after the election, they were expected to lose some votes from right-wing party members who are against the idea of co-operation with the left.

Current party strengths are: Social Democrats 276 seats; Communists 140; Socialist 87; Neo-Fascist 24; Liberals 22; Social Democrats 19; Monarchists 15; Republicans 6 and others 6.

Parliamentary Notebook

By JAMES NEILSON

OTTAWA (CP)—What is the origin of Prime Minister Pearson's proclaimed "60 days of decision" for his new government, and what will be the result?

These are among the questions titillating the imagination of reporters, historians, the government's press secretary and—in no lesser way—members of the new administration itself.

"Have you made your decision today?" is becoming a byword among civil servants.

The promised 60 days of decision during which, Mr. Pearson said, his government would do more for Canada than any government in history, became a talking point of the Liberal leader in the late stages of the campaign for the April 8 election.

At first, the idea was to wrap up the first three months of the Liberal party program in a convenient phrase—"the 100 days," or something like that.

RECALLS FDR

But one senior adviser in the Liberal party recalled President Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term in office in the spring of 1933.

The president and the Congress, elected in November, got 99 days, worked hand-in-glove to implement a startling and radical program to deal with the great depression.

But after the Roosevelt 100 days, the gloom on the recovery program faded.

The Liberal advisers weren't too happy about patterning their election appeal on Roosevelt's 100 days.

The Future Great

Political shadows are not so substantial as those cast in some other spheres of activity. It is thus impossible to say with any certainty how many coming events were forecast by the list of sixteen appointments to the posts of parliamentary secretaries. Nevertheless, in the normal course of affairs, some years hence it will be discovered that this list contained the names of many of the future great.

This list includes one or two members who had been prominently mentioned for Cabinet posts, but were apparently sacrificed to the need to recompense some of the older war-horses of the Liberal party. For instance, one newcomer of high promise is John Turner of the Montreal riding of St. Lawrence-St. George named parliamentary secretary to Solicitor Minister Arthur Laing.

Some of those who raised eyebrows at the appointment of Miss Judy LaMarsh as Minister of Health and Welfare will make a wry face at discovering Dr. Stanley Haidasz of Toronto Parkdale her parliamentary secretary. Miss LaMarsh is a lawyer, Dr. Haidasz a physician. In Federal politics, however, filling this post with a member with professional knowledge does not seem to be stressed to the same extent as it is in provincial politics. Here in Ontario a non-professional appointment is the exception, rather than the rule. But in the Federal field Miss LaMarsh's predecessor was Hon. J. W. Monteith, an accountant, and the last Liberal minister of health was Hon. Paul Martin, a lawyer. Both administered their department in an admirable manner.

In district particular interest will be roused by the appointment of E. J. Benson of Kingston as parliamentary secretary to Hon. Walter Gordon, minister of finance.

Mood of the South

It was highly appropriate, but no doubt purely co-incidental, that the CBC should have aired on Wednesday evening, as part of its contribution to an international exchange of worthwhile television programs, a documentary dealing with the mood of the U.S. South, in relationship to the problem of segregation and integration.

The value of this program was heightened by the fact that on Tuesday an anti-segregationist, a Negro postman from Maryland, was assassinated in Alabama. He was devoting his vacation to a hike through the Deep South.

Then on Wednesday evening, at a press conference on Wednesday, seemed surprised by, as well as indignant at, the crime, nobody would be amazed after seeing the CBC show. This made it painfully plain that feelings on both sides were rising to a high pitch.

When white Southerners complain that the Negro does not think like the white man, they are probably right. The Southerners may even be forgiven for their inability to accept the argument that this difference is the product of environment and of the manner in which the Negro has been treated in the past, rather than the result of any basic difference arising from race.

But surely there can be no one, regardless of his views on segregation, who does not recognize that the killing of a lonely marcher scoffs at everything for which the U.S. is supposed to stand.

It now remains to be seen whether the Kennedy administration will confine its reaction to words of shock or regret, or whether it will manage to discover effective means of forcing the southern states to protect the lives of black men from white assassins, with as much vigor as they would protect those of white men from Negroes under similar circumstances.

"The myth or mirage of the final 'withering away' of the State has captured the imagination of some thinkers in every generation. A series of thinkers—Godwin, Proudhon, Bakunin, Kropotkin and others—have sketched a society of men freely co-operating with each other in a world which supplies their needs without the intervention of states or governments, and where free associations on a local basis take the place of the large centralized organizations in the modern world. This anarchist view of a world without states remains an impractical vision, but one which will continue to haunt us all, as, all over the world, states tend to accumulate more power to rule our lives."—James Joll.

The essence of democracy is . . . one man one vote, and it is the perpetual terror of its critics that this principle will swamp the educated, pull down standards, set aside morality, devalue civilization. "As a mere matter of history, that has never happened at the ballot box. —Lord Hailsham, British minister of science.

All in Day's Work for Men Moving Pearson In, Dief Out

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Snapshots in the settling political dust - - -
THE PARTING:
It was kind of cruel, the day they moved Dief out of the Prime Minister's office in Parliament Hill's historic old grey stone East Block and began making it ready for Mike.

Dief was still there, working on last-minute "thank you" correspondence, and the place already was half empty, with Mike due to hang up his Homburg on the hat-tree in the far corner of the office the very next morning.

Gone from the wall and into temporary storage was the big blue marlin Dief had hooked in the blue Jamaican waters on his winter holiday three years ago, and borne away quietly back to the Capital to show the fishermen among his thousands of visitors.

Gone was the old Sir John A. Macdonald table with history's burden of collector's items, moved with all its Confederation memories to the dusty privacy of the Federal Archives.

On the wide Sir John A. Macdonald desk, behind which Dief worked on his captain's chair, the "Hot Line" to National Defence Headquarters was dead, the receiver taped down tight and sealed to the phone cradle.

INSTANT ANALYSIS:

This is the phone — with the Great Seal of Canada in bold red and blue relief in the little numbers circle inside the dial — that the Prime Minister would lift to talk to the Big Brass, particularly the Chief of the Air Staff, in the awful emergency of a sudden attack across the roof of the world.

But now, in this strange interlude when Dief and Mike were all but passing each other on the stairs as they switched offices, the phone was dead, and the phone itself sealed with a white tape.

It would be open again the moment the crew from the Federal Works Department had finished the last day's job.

Meanwhile, the two prime ministers, incoming and outgoing, would keep in close touch with each other, and presumably, by another and temporary "Hot Line" with the Defence Chiefs.

"The big painting of Sir John A. Macdonald, done life - size in oils, would be the last thing to go.

It was up on the wall over the fireplace, but Dief as he scribbled a signature to another "thank you" note he was sending to Mike, or, to all people, the Young Liberals of Price Albert who had been him on their way to dine with them (and speak) next time he dropped by his Saskatchewan constituency.

Then he put on his raincoat, tipped his black fedora to Sir John A on the wall, and walked out of the office.

SIR WILFRID:

It was farewell.....

The moving-waiting with the secretaries in the antechamber, scrambled aside as he strode out, with never a backward glance, into the hall and was gone.

The men in the blue overalls unceremoniously hauled down Sir John A. from the wall.

An era had ended . . . . . and another began .....

For up on the same big life-size oblong on the pale grey walls, they'd hung a portrait of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, political patron saint of the Liberals.

Carefully, the moving-men rain that slanted down across Parliament Hill, they had brought old Sir Wilfrid down from Mike's office in the Centre Block.

There in the cramped quarters of the Leader of Her Majesty's Official Opposition, the Prime Minister designate had been working, one by one interviewing a long line-up of men who walked out in the hall like so many anxious schoolboys outside the principal's office.

These were the men from whom the new Prime Minister was making his selections for the Cabinet.

Some of them Mike had wanted to see, others had wanted to see Mike.

He was frequently not what Dief discovered six years ago . . . . there is never any shortage of anxious "volunteers" for the top jobs, which, in comparison to some in business and industry, may be short on money, paying only $27,000, but are long on power and prestige.

LIVE WITH MISTAKES

And like Dief, Mike was realizing that even a Prime Minister, with all his awesome authority, can not always have what he wants.

There were men Mike wanted, in fact needed urgently, but he could not have them, for the pressing political necessities of geography and religion and race dictated other choices.

Like Dief, with these rigid limitations, Mike did the very best he could, for he knew — as he himself had said - - a Prime Minister must live with his mistakes until resignation, defeat or death ends them.

(And Dief was the living, breathing proof of this hard, cold fact of political life, for he went out of office and power still carrying some of the deadwood of his first Cabinet of six years ago.)

While Mike worked, the movers from Federal Works, unconcerned by political history being written around them, were carting out the files and hauling them across Parliament Hill to the Prime Minister's East Block office.

And this you must say for this new Prime Minister:

He had packed Dief's bags hard and clean. It had been a tremendous victory. But there was no suggestion of exultation, much less of crowing.

There was no time for celebration.

For he knew, as the movers shuffled between the two offices, the truth of what Dief had just told three reporters when he tipped his hat in taking his leave of Sir John A. Macdonald and a prime minister's power.

"There is so much to do, and so little time."

Churchill Part Iroquois

Manchester Guardian

How much "Red" or American" Indian blood flows in Sir Winston Churchill's veins? The question has been asked before but it has never had this suggestion: "...he is one-sixteenth part Iroquoian. His great-grandmother, Clarissa Wilcox, who married Ambrose Hall, was described as 'a girl of unusual beauty . . . brown hair, like silk, which could run for miles through the woods. And his mother, Jennie Jerome, was also described as "a dark lithe creature' with 'more of the Indian character in the woman in her look.' This was written of her by Lord D'Abernon, who met her for the first time in 1876, two years after her marriage to Lord Randolph Churchill."

The only thing to do with this seemed to be to put it up to Sir Winston himself whether he is hard at work on his monumental book. Mr. Randolph Churchill said: "The Red Indian section of Indian blood is well known in the family but nobody is sure how much. We have not yet know the answer but is certain that when the book is finished the exact details will be established.

He has not heard the figure one-sixteenth mentioned before and when I asked him how he felt about being possibly one thirty-second Iroquois he said: I should be very proud indeed." And, no doubt, the word Iroquois to think that his nation had contributed to such a tribe and so great an honorary citizen of the United States.

Winners of three awards in dairy division tests in examinations at the Kemptville Agricultural School, R. K. Brown of Rawdon township stood third in order of merit in examination lists today released by the Kemptville school. Brown shared honors with R. E. Huffman of Belleville and C. E. Richardson of Thomasburg. All stood high in their respective classes, and are eligible to receive the Dairy Schol Diploma.—

The regular monthly meeting of the Women Teacher's Federation was held on Wednesday evening in the Y.M.C.A. rooms with a splendid attendance. Miss Pearl Campbell gave a complete and interesting report on the meeting of the Ontario Teacher's Council. The program for the evening was along different lines than usual, in that the teachers entertained one another. Miss Dorothy Reid gave a humorous reading. "Answers to Letters". Miss Hildegarde Hellwell sang and Miss Lillian Hart and Miss Olive Blue each prepared a contest with music supplied by Mrs. Lafontaine.

Scaffolding has been erected at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel for the purpose of repairing and repointing a section of the tower. This has been made necessary as the result of time and the weather.

Sneak thieves boldly walked into the rear premises of C. E. Bishop and Son feed store, situated on Front St., and stole a grain bag some time during the day. No undue suspicions were aroused by strangers loitering about the place, grain storage employees assured police after reporting the bags missing.

At present a total of 1881 relief recipients are on the list at the Central Relief Bureau here, including those in the city, neighborhood of 340 families. Although the demand for workers has been light at the office, some men who are on relief, have been finding some work through it, the farm jobs have been scarce owing to the backward season. However, there has been a slight falling off in the number of applicants for relief.

On Tuesday night 30 transients applied for shelter at the police station, and on Wednesday night 25 men were given shelter.

'Kennedys' Parlor Game

Montreal Star

Where will the spoofing of Americas first family end?

One is entitled to ask the question now that two Harvard seniors are marketing a "exciting" new parlor game called "The Kennedys."

The game is described as an "inter-family power struggle." Each player, the rules say, assumes the role of one of the members of America's first family and strives to triumph over his relatives "by any method to take over the country."

The game, which is "less complicated" than Risk, but involves the attainment of "six essential components" that together make up the national ego — "Personal Image," "Influential Friends," "Social Standing," "Position of Importance," "Popular Support," and "Backing of Organized Labor."

Each player begins the struggle with half a million dollars (on each of which is found the smiling visage of Joseph Kennedy), and proceeds by rolls of the dice and secret deals with his relatives energetically to contest for the big plum— the country.

There are also unforeseen "Turns of Events," such as: "Bobby pushes house guests into empty pool; loses influential friends"; "Teddy is shot by white political independents announces he won't always vote with the Administration, if it's all right with his brother; loses personal image"; "John Jr.'s first word is 'Coke'; loses influential friends." Players are also given "some strategy hints," among them, "many people find it extremely helpful to keep written records of all moves (including their own) made in the game and of any conclusions that can be drawn from them."

The entire Kennedy brood look out from a Mt. Rushmore scene on the box of the game.

The inventors declare the game is all in "good taste."-In fact, they believe it is even played in the White House.

The game should be also available, at $4,000,004.50. It is equipped with real money, for purists.

An Easy Way to Remove Wax From the Ears

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Wax accumulates in my ears and I find it necessary to have them cleared by a doctor every four to six months.

Is there a simple method by which I can prevent or reduce this accumulation of wax, or remove it myself?—H. O. T.

Some people form ear wax more plentifully than others. I take it for granted that you have assurance that your ears otherwise are in good condition. That is, the wax isn't a consequence of anything abnormal.

My suggestion, with that qualification, is to irrigate the ears, perhaps every two weeks or so, with a solution of one teaspoonful of baking soda to a glass of warm water to soften, dislodge and wash out the wax as it forms. Use a small rubber syringe. Another good solution is a mixture of equal parts hydrogen peroxide to two-thirds water.

This simple rinsing usually does the trick. However, do not, under any circumstances, use cotton swabs. They are one of such things to try to dig out the wax. There's too much danger of damaging the ear.

Also keep in mind that wax is there for a purpose. To protect the ears. Only when the wax forms is there good reason for removing it. A rinse every couple of weeks will take care of any excess in most cases.

Dear Dr. Molner: My friend has a bump almost the size of an egg on her breast. She said the doctor told her it was a fatty tumor and as long as it did not bother her, to leave it alone.

I have read that a lump of any size should be removed, and that it begins as a small one. Is it too late. Who is right?—Mrs. J. P.

Your friend's doctor is right. In the course of a lifetime some of us acquire a variety of lumps, bumps, knobs, warts, etc.

Some lumps are cancerous, and should be removed as soon as possible. If, with cancer, you wait for the lump to become painful or bothersome, if often is too late. The cancer has spread beyond any chance of removing all of it.

But with harmless growths—a fatty tumor, for instance—there's no point in doing anything unless it is big enough to be disfiguring or a nuisance. (Fatty tumors have no tendency to become cancerous.)

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 47, just found out he has a hernia of long standing and that it could "kick up" at any time. It was discovered by a doctor on his examination for a "sit-down" job. We don't have the money for an operation. Would a truss benefit?—Mrs. K. F.

Hernias, or ruptures, almost always develop gradually. When they are found, there is just one universal rule: They don't get better. They can only get worse, or remain the same.

I sometimes approve of trusses for elderly people with hernias that aren't too severe.

But, at any age of active life—such as 47—it is wise to have the hernia repaired surgically rather than risk the chance that it may become "strangulated" and result in an agonizing and dangerous emergency.

Man's Plan to Protect Widow Makes Her 2nd Class Citizen

By THOMAS COLLINS

A good and conscientious husband comes forward with a new plan to pass his money on to his wife and children when he dies.

It's a bad plan, like most of the others, because it makes Mama a second-class citizen. But the husband, like most others, means well.

"I have life insurance with several companies," he says, "and when I pass on, the money will be frozen and left with the companies. However, Mama can write to any or all of the companies and request that they start sending her a cheque each month for up to $50 a month. In addition, should she desire, she may write any or all of the companies and request an additional cheque each year of up to $600 a year.

"It is understood between the insurance companies and me (not Mama and me) that if anything is left when Mama passes away the balance will be divided amongst our four children. Should any of the four be deceased at that time his or her share would go to his or her children. If no children, the share would be divided among our three surviving children.

"This plan takes Mama off the spot. What I leave behind is for Mama. With it tied up this way she has enough to live as she sees fit. But if someone comes to Mama asking her to refinance their mortgage or loan them a couple of thousand, Mama is off the spot because she can explain she just can't get that kind of money.

"Many Mamas have had a lot of cash dumped in their laps and have been talked out of a comfortable living by a fast-talking friend or relative . . .

And many Papas have been talked out of fortunes by slow-talking dolls over a cocktail.

INNOCENT MISTAKE

This husband's plan, which in most quarters would be regarded as a fine and thoughtful one, points up well the four ways good husbands innocently make second-class citizens out of their widows . . . By:

1. Assuming ownership of the money that has been made during the marriage and assuming they have the authority to dispose of it according to their personal desires. Many people believe nowadays, and some laws decree, that the money in a marriage is jointly owned by husband and wife — no matter who gets the salary cheque or whose name it is in at the bank. Things bought with this family money — even life insurance policies — likewise are owned jointly by the wife, since she presumably helped sacrifice to buy them.

It is understandable that a man might claim half of everything made during the marriage as his very own and give it to a rabbit farm at death if he chose. But to claim all of it? And to presume he has the right to decree how, on his death, his wife shall be rationed her share?

2. Exercising a conceit — which is quite a profound one — that they know what is best for their widows after they are six feet down in the cemetery.

Of course, many widows know very little about money matters — because their husbands never taught them. And because their husbands weren't willing, after 55 or so, to sit down with their wives and tell them some financial facts of life. Still, there are many more cases of men being foolish with money than there are of women. And there is little evidence to support the patronizing view of most husbands that their widows, with a little guidance, can't manage their money wisely.

NO STRINGS, PLEASE

3. Failing to trust their widows to do right by the children. Most husbands let their concern show again, when they set up their wills so that they are leaving money to their children — always with some such awful phrase as "on the death of my wife." Mothers have a little better record than fathers in doing right by the children, and more husbands would do more honor to their wives if they left that matter — and the money — to their widows with no strings on it.

Many a widowed mother would not be kicked around or ignored half so much by the children if husband would only leave them to decide which child should or should not get some of the family money.

4. Denying their widows the freedom to have the money they have worked together to make — and to spend it when and how they see fit, knowing really, to the husband and wife, or the one who survives. It doesn't belong to the children, to the life insurance company, to the lawyers. It belongs to the survivor. And the survivor should not inherit from her husband a straight-jacket that prevents her from doing, for once in her life, what she wants to do with her money.

There will be husbands who will object to the line of reasoning given here, but there comes a time for a moment how they would feel if the wives did the same thing to them.

Crown Princess Breaks Privacy During Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—Crown Princess Beatrix of the Netherlands Friday broke the privacy of her three-day visit to Ottawa to talk to reporters during a half-hour interview.

Later she smiled happily for photographers as she left the home of The Netherlands ambassador, A. H. J. Lovink, for Government House where she had tea with Mme. Vanier. Governor-General Vanier, in bed recovering from a mild heart attack, was not able to be present.

As she left the ambassador's home, the princess broke away from her host and secretary to speak with 82 - year - old Mrs. Tempelmann Piat who had often seen the Princess in their native Holland but never at such close quarters.

The Princess spoke to the elderly woman in Dutch.

Mrs. Piat came to Canada 10 years ago and now lives at St. Pierre de Wakefield, Que., about 20 miles from the capital.

During the interview the Princess, who wore a grey dress and jacket ensemble, explained that her only reason for coming to Ottawa was to visit a child-hood friend, T. Brooke Smith, wife of a government lawyer.

This is the Princess' third visit to Canada since the Second World War when the Dutch royal family came here as refugees.

Salvation Army Envoy Bram Humphreys (right) confers with jailor Tom Cook in jailor's office at Hastings County Jail. For most part prisoners welcome interest of the Salvation Army.

Bram Humphreys, Prison Envoy of Salvation Army, Devoted to His Position

It is only one phase of his widely varied humanity work, but dozens of persons who find themselves in trouble with the law or confined to Hastings county jail, have good reason to be thankful of the interest taken in their cases by the Salvation Army.

And when prisoners at the county jail think of the Salvation Army they think of but one man.

He is Bram Humphreys, long time member of the Belleville Salvation Army Corps and since the end of World War II that organization's prison envoy in the local district.

In civilian life "Bram" operates a shoe repair service on Campbell Street, but it is safe to say that he spend close to half his time in his unpaid role of prison envoy.

For instance last year Mr. Humphreys spent 743 hours in 335 official visits to the county jail when he interviewed no less than 396 prisoners.

CONDUCTS SERVICES

In addition he attended magistrate's court on 155 occasions, had 104 interviews with accused persons and on top of that had 180 interviews at his office.

He assists accused persons by obtaining legal aid where necessary and in a dozen and other ways ranging from notifying relatives, visiting families, and arranging for parole.

Aside from his visits to prisoners Mr. Humphreys conducted 58 services at the jail, assisted in arranging parole in 27 instances and helped find employment for 62.

On close to 200 occasions he visited prisoners' family members and last year drove his car nearly 3,000 miles.

He wrote 119 letters in connection with his prison work and made a total of 621 telephone calls, some of them to as far away as the Maritimes.

NO 8-HOUR DAY

It is no eight-hour day which the genial Salvation Army envoy put in. Calls for help may come at any time of the day or night and Mr. Humphreys is always ready.

Prison and court officials appreciate the work of the Salvation Army and give every possible co-operation to Mr. Humphreys in his prison role. They quite frequently phone asking if he can meet with some recently accused person with a bad case of despondency or remorse.

The Belleville envoy finds his prison work has tremendously increased in recent years.

But despite the time and effort involved he has no regrets.

"I get great personal satisfaction in trying to help those who have been unfortunate," he says.

versions mashed. Both Rorke and the government statement said a two-engine plane approached from the north, flew over the Nico Lopez refinery, dropped a 100-pound bomb and several napalm fire bombs then flew northward.

Havana radio said none of the bombs exploded. Rorke said he thought he heard the 100-pounder hit a refinery tank but he was unable to see any damage. He said he was busy filming the raid, but that the film turned out poorly.

With him on the raid, Rorke said, were an American businessman, an American student from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a Cuban exile. None was identified further.

Castro

Castro's obvious aim was to cement the Soviet-Cuban alliance and, for the Soviet public, the culmination would come when he made his appearance atop the Lenin Tomb in Red Square on May Day.

Castro received top governmental honors on his arrival. There was a guard of honor and national anthems were played. Besides Mikoyan, Admiral Sergei Gorashkov, commander-in-chief of the Soviet Navy was present.

Castro and Mikoyan boarded a train shortly and will bring them into Moscow Sunday morning.

The Cuban premier landed in Murmansk and made the regular Cuba-Russian plane—a TU-114 giant turboprop—always lands there. It leaves Havana every Sunday and Friday.

The reason for this route is that no country on the way will permit such a flight to land on or overfly its territory and consequently it must fly the only available over-ocean-only route.

Dear Henry:

I have a son who is a good worker, but occasionally he goes on a lazy trend. What do you think is the reason and what can I do?

BEWILDERED FATHER

Dear Bewildered Father:

Don't worry about it. The reason for the occasional lazy periods is that before your boy can do anything, he must convince himself that he has done nothing.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

I have a problem as most people do. The girl next to me in class is my best girl friend, but she has a bad habit of looking off my paper; papers during an exam. If I don't let her look, I'm afraid I would lose her friendship. But if I do let her, I'll get caught and punished.

Dear Poor:

Tell your girl friend that you do not approve of cheating in a test. Tell her that you will be compelled to inform the teacher if she continues this line. In the long run your girl friend will only respect you.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

I am a girl of 15 and my boy friend just turned 18. I like him a lot but there is one thing I am worried about. He waits at my door every night to make sure I don't go out with any girls or boys.

When he is here, every time the phone rings he always hangs up on them. I know he likes me but I feel like a monkey on a string. What should I do, go on like this or try to forget him?

LORNA

Dear Lorna:

This boy may very well be the boy for you, but also he may very well not be. You will never find out unless you are allowed to explore. Tell him that if he does not adopt some reforms, he can adopt a new girl.

Starting a Hostess Club

DEAR DORIS—I want to start a hostess club for teen-age girls. I am a teen-ager myself. This club would include such things as sewing, cooking, entertaining, teas, modelling, keep-fit, make-up and hairdressing. Could you suggest how I go about it?—WOULD-BE HOSTESS.

DEAR WOULD-BE—There's a business sorority which does a nice job of teaching the arts of home-making and hostessing. Young people join by invitation. If there is no branch in your town you may write to headquarters about forming one. I am sending you details.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I have a legal separation and am now going for a divorce as my husband is living with another woman. I have been wondering if it would be all right if I went out with a gentleman whom I have known for some time. I also have the children with me. Would this tend to turn people's eyes or should I look after my own happiness for a change?

This gentleman whom I have been quite interested in my children and they are crazy over him.—WONDERING WHY.

DEAR WONDERING WHY—Keep your skirts clean. Avoid any breath of scandal by waiting for your final decree before being seen in public with another man. Your children, and the man himself, will honor you for it.

DEAR DORIS—I haven't a boy friend and am getting up to nearly 18 years. I don't know what is the reason, but I am very shy when with strangers. I don't put any make-up on. Should I—C. I. W.

DEAR C. I. W.—Make-up might help. For the past 3500 years the ladies have been adorning themselves and gilding the lily. Not garishly, mind you; but just an artistic, subtle improvement on nature is the ideal.

When most feminine lips are shaped into rosebuds with a touch of paint, the ones without look pale indeed. Would you hesitate to curl your hair?

P.S.—Looks aren't everything. I am sending you some ideas about how to get over shyness.

Question: A friend recently asked me if I had a recipe for some sort of apple dumplings made on top of the stove. I have looked through all my collected recipes and couldn't find such a thing. Can you help us?—Mrs. Sharon C.

Answer: I have not tested this recipe but it comes from a reliable source. It was resigned to cook in an electric fry pan. It may be cooked in any shallow saucepan with a tight-fitting lid—preferably a heavy pot. You should not use enamel.

TOP-OF-STOVE APPLE DUMPINGS

Sauce: 1 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons butter, juice of one medium lemon, grated rind of one medium lemon, 2½ cups water.

Combine sugar and flour; make a sauce by adding butter, lemon juice, grated rind and water. Cook mixture, stirring until thickened.

Dumplings: 1½ cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons shortening, ½ cup thin unsweetened applesauce, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons finely chopped quick-cooking apples.

Sift sifted flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Combine egg, shortening, apple sauce, lemon juice and chopped apples with dry ingredients, stirring barely enough to mix.

Drop batter by spoonfuls over sauce. Cover at once and cook 15 minutes without raising the cover. Serve hot.

Spoon sauce over dumplings.

Question: I have been asked to convene a graduation dinner for 150 guests. We have $125.00, and could ask parents to supply salads and desserts to keep down expenses. Could you suggest a menu that would be easy to serve and any ideas that would help us. Would you have a list of quantities we would need?—Hilda D.

Answer: After considerable pondering (since I do not know if you have a kitchen to work in or from) I have chosen this menu: Roast stuffed turkey, gravy, scalloped potatoes, fresh frozen mixed vegetables, tossed greens, buttered buns, colorful jellied salads, variety of pies: lemon meringue (see note), lattice cherry, blueberry, apple; milk, coffee.

Notes: (1) For 150 you will need six 15-to-20 lb. turkeys (drawn raw weight). Have six members roast and bring one each in covered wrapped roaster. (2) Scalloped potatoes can be kept hot if baked at home and brought well-wrapped. Provide 20 average-sized casseroles. (3) Fresh frozen mixed vegetables: One 2-lb. bag serves 10. Buy 15 2-lb. bags. (4) Ask for 10 each generous tossed green and colored jellied salads and pies. (5) 30 pies—10 of which should be lemon meringue. (6) You will need 200 buttered buns. (7) You will need five gallons of milk to serve 133 students one 6-oz. glass each. Good luck.

IODE Elects Officers For Year

HAMILTON (CP) — Miss H. Jeanne Knapman of Hamilton was elected honorary president of the provincial chapter of Ontario, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, at the closing session of the order's annual meeting Friday.

Honorary vice - presidents elected were: Mrs. H. S. Griffin, Mrs. W. K. Foucar, Mrs. Cecil L. Brown, all of Hamilton and Mrs. Ryland H. New of Oakville.

Provincial president Mrs. W. R. Morrison of Hamilton, re-elected Thursday, was appointed official delegate of the chapter to the 63rd national annual meeting in Victoria.

Provincial committee conveners elected included: Mrs. E. D. Gott, Brantford, immigration and citizenship; Mrs. H. B. Church, Orangeville, Commonwealth correspondence; Mrs. R. J. Skipper, Sarnia, empire and world affairs.

Additional provincial councillors chosen included: Mrs. C. H. Carruthers, Owen Sound; Mrs. M. B. Ground, Port Perry; Mrs. Morley Keegan, Oakville; Mrs. T. W. Lane, Cornwall; Mrs. Stanley McBride, Peterborough and Miss Pearl McKinnon, Orillia.

Says Coeds Have Not Changed Much

TORONTO (CP) — Coeds haven't changed much in 30 years, says Jessie Macpherson, retiring dean of women at the University of Toronto's Victoria College.

They still want to pass their examinations and they still want husbands.

The 1963 student is slightly different, however, in that she often doesn't care how low her exam marks are as long as she passes. The girl of the '30s was more concerned with her marks.

"The girls are more sophisticated today, or think they are, anyway," says Miss Macpherson. "They know much more about the world, mainly because of the new mass media of communication, but they are still doing the same things the girls in the '30s did."

The idea that a dean of women is a chaperone is "obsolete," and Miss Macpherson has something to do with the change.

She says that when she became dean in 1934 she tried to introduce a "system of self-discipline rather than one of rigid restraint."

"During my reign I have allowed the girls an unlimited number of late night leaves. They are young adults and must develop a sense of responsibility and I have found they will do this more rapidly if they are not controlled by artificial limitations."

Although Miss Macpherson retires as dean at the end of the current school year, she'll remain on staff, teaching ethics in philosophy classes.

FOLIO AT RECORD LOW

ATLANTA (AP) — Follomyelitis is at a record low level in the United States. The communicable disease centre of th U.S. public health services reported Friday that the polio rate for the first 16 weeks of this year was about one-sixth of the median total over the last five years. # Once Rum-Run Headquarters Nassau Hits Resort Big Time

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

NASSAU, Bahamas — On the runway in Miami, the mighty Pan Am Clipper locked its brakes and revved up its turbines as if it were off on the nonstop run to Rio. Letting CL it rose quickly to the un-July altitude of 9,000 feet and was off on the world's shortest jet trip, one rum punch and 30 minutes to Nassau.

Vast urban Miami sprawled away beneath us, broken magically by Biscayne Bay and its spidery strands of causeway linking the city to the white wedding cake towers fronted with pink sand. Suddenly, it was all behind, and for a moment there was only the Atlantic. Soon loomed Bimini, where the yachts and cruisers cruise to, then Andros, spread-eagled and barren-looking in the green water.

Whereupon a gentleman in a manicle and crested blazer strolled down the aisle and we knew we were as far away as Miami and as deep in the Empire as we might have been in Britain.

Not that Nassau is unaffected by its proximity to Miami. Most of its visitors find it expedient and/or desirable to stop there coming or going.

The remarkable part is that many come from England, the police wear shorts with bush helmets, it is teatime at 4 in the hotels with names like British Colonial and Royal Victoria, and the gentleman with the monocle will not be stared at for driving on the left. And if he feels inclined to go more than 30 miles an hour, he ought to hop the next 300-miles-an-half-hour flight back to Miami.

RUM RUNNING

HEADQUARTERS

Nassau has a more colorful modern history than its unpressurized Miami atmosphere would indicate. It was a great rum-running headquarters as recently as the last great rum-run that ended only 30 years ago. It was the scene of one of the most mysterious murders of modern times, that of wealthy Sir Harry Oakes. The political in-group known as the "Bay Street Boys" would warm the cockles of Boss Tweed's heart. And it is generally accepted that an authentic billionaire who built a house here made it in the China dope trade.

Today the pastel hotels behind the bougainvillea-draped stone walls and towering Australian pines mark Nassau's progress into the resort big-time.

But 'twas not ever thus. Our driver pointed out a pathetic boarded up shack by the side of the road that was once New Providence Island's only hospital, and also the only building from here to the Pacific Colonial Hotel three miles distant. "As a boy," said 78-year-old George Pratt, "I used to tell children ranging from 7 to 49 years of age, 'I used to walk for miles here without seeing a soul.'"

Another of his favorite haunts was a place called Hog Island, almost wading distance across the water from the north shore. "They called it that," said George, "because for two shillings you could make a hog of yourself by eating all the oranges you wanted!"

A couple of years ago, a dealer in oranges and other groceries named Huntington Hartford bought the island and, deciding that Hog is an unfitting appellation for a place owned by the man who owns all the A and P's in the world, renamed it after a beach on the island — Paradise.

A previous tenant of the island was Axel Wenner-Gren, who had a lovely colonial tile-covered home on the beach. Too successful in business not to know a good thing when he saw it, Hartford added a wing here, touched up the estate's Schoenfrun Palace-like formal gardens there, inserted a swimming pool, golf course, cabanas, marina, French chef, sculptured carpets and lo!, the Ocean Club was born.

ISLAND HAS "CLASS"

Self-consciously, perhaps, but unmistakably, Paradise Island breathes what is known as "class." You are ushered across the shallow harbor in one of two fancy cruisers named "Gateway Clipper," which steams majestically past the dumpy ferries and launches of ordinary harbor traffic. It is ironic that currently the topics of Columnist Winchell's chat crossed the Atlantic last year is tied up on Paradise Island. It is smaller than the "Gateway Clipper."

Another novelty of which is the world's most unin- Nassau can boast — if it wishes intentionally funny show. This is the flamingo parade in Arawtra Gardens, owned by a typ- rammid Jamaican named Hedley Edwards, who throws out dollar-a-head patrons if he deems their shorts to be too short.

Edwards has for some years trained a flock of stunning shrimp-colored flamingos to more or less follow military commands. Twice daily he assembles them in a spectacular-looking ragtiffies people and birds alike by dashing madly in all directions, exhorting the flamingos to form-front row and turn-about, and guests to applaud and take pictures, all while those in the front row flock the skittish birds.

It is difficult to say whether the flamingos or paying guests are more exhausted after the performance, but at any rate Nassau is an ideal place to rest up.

Eskimo Girl Home After Long Trip

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP)—Many Panegoosho, a 23-year-old Eskimo who returned Thursday from a three-month trip to Nigeria and Ghana, says she had to explain many times that she was a Canadian.

Many of the West Africans thought the Canadian Arctic was a separate country and others thought all Eskimos came from Greenland.

But it wasn't only the Nigerians and Ghanaians who asked questions. Dozens of Canadians now working or teaching in Africa who had never met an Eskimo before asked questions about the Eskimo way of life.

Conversely, Miss Panegoosho was asked the same questions about life in West Africa in letters from her Eskimo parents who live at Pond Inlet on northern Baffin Island. Her father, Kayak, is an RCMP special constable.

During her visits to dozens of schools, the vivacious Eskimo found the books which referred to Eskimos "the same as bare-out of date."

She said the Africans were surprised to learn that the Eskimos kept their homes warmer than white people kept their homes.

The children thought Eskimos were only two or three feet high because they built snow houses looked that small in pictures they saw.

She was the guest of the Ghana government in that country and her trip to Nigeria was arranged by the Canadian government.

In Ottawa, the brown-haired, brown-eyed northern affairs employee edits Canada's only Eskimo language magazine, Inuktitun, which means the Eskimo way.

'In-Hospital Volunteer Work' Topic at WHA

The April meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary featured the work of the In-Hospital volunteers.

A comprehensive report of this work was given by the Director of Hospital Volunteers, Mrs. J. E. Buchan.

In the Belleville hospital there are 117 volunteers, working to serve the hospital in ten different pockets' library service, hairdressing appointments, information, outpatient hostesses, admitting escorts (junior), guiding, magazines, meal time assistants (lunch), typing, and occupational therapy.

Members were given a full description of one of these services—the library—by Mrs. William Lockyer, who spoke on the topic "Travel With the Library Cart." This project is operated by the Corby Public Library in conjunction with the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Lockyer noted that in 1962, 2,159 books had been circulated in the hospital. Mrs. Lockyer also stated that this service is one which has been greatly appreciated by the patients, who find that reading provides a most beneficial escape.

Money for new books for this library is donated by the Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Lockyer was introduced by Mrs. J. E. Buchan and thanked by Mrs. F. A. Beeby.

In the business section of the meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. F. A. Beeby, it was announced by Mrs. J. W. Cavers, that the Coffee Shop would be closed the end of April to make space for more hospital beds. It is hoped that this will just be a temporary situation. The possibility of having a coffee cart in the out-patients' waiting room is being investigated by the auxiliary.

Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, giving her report on the puppets, noted that a group of ladies from St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was now assisting in making puppets for the paediatrics ward. This is the first time a group from outside the city of Belleville has offered services to the auxiliary since the hospital has become the joint property of the city and county.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

THE LONG ARM OF COINCIDENCE

"Man's destiny is to ponder the riddle of existence."—Kettering.

What interests me about coincidence—stories," a friend tells us who collects them as a hobby, "is that they often fall into categories. Such as plain awe; sometimes a pure miracle; perhaps demonstrations of a truth. Each is more than just a story repressed.

"Could you illustrate with an example?" we asked.

"Well, now, take the one about Robert Kennedy. The son of the great American President. The evening that President Lincoln attended the theatre performance of that fatal evening, Robert hoped to attend, but was delayed. When he finally arrived at the theatre, a group of persons were coming out of the entrance bearing a covered body; his own father who had been shot.

"Again he was asked to attend a certain meeting by a later President. Again Robert was delayed. When he arrived at the meeting place, a group of men was carrying a body out of the building — the President had been shot.

"When Mr. McKinley was President and asked Robert to attend a certain political meeting Robert accepted rather fearfully. Again he was delayed. He arrived — just as a group of men carried out a victim of a fatal shot: Mr. McKinley"

"And which category would you place this?"

"I'd file it under patterns of awe! Now take this one; if you don't mind my telling one which occurred to myself. But some years ago, while on a motor tour of England, my car broke down, while passing through a city with a population of several million. I knew just one person, whom I failed to reach by phone located in a booth on a busy thoroughfare. I hung up, walked out of the booth, crossed a crowded street and ran straight into my friend.

"This I classify as a miracle, for my need for my friend at that certain time was very real.

THE LONG ARM

"Now here's one that deals with a truth told by Edith Sitwell the English poet and writer who holds much pride in the glory of mankind; feels that proper pride is a necessity of any artist and sometimes is the highest form of love.

"When a young girl, she once was asked to play the musical accompaniments for a well-known singer at an afternoon party. After playing, she was lead by the butler to a little room apart, to have tea by herself (a most delicious tea, she admits - meringues( chocolate eclairs, of which she ate a great many), then was led back by the butler to stand by the singer as the guests (with whom it was not thought proper for the accompanist to eat) said their farewells.

During the farewells, the hostess's daughter expressed the wish and hope that she would receive an invitation to a ball given by Lady Londesborough, who lived in the district. Edith Sitwell said: 'I'll remind my uncle, and I am staying with them at the moment.'

"Comments Miss Sitwell (in her essay on Pride in the book entitled The Seven Deadly Sins, which you can obtain at the Corby Library): 'I have always enjoyed those frequent occasions on which I have been put in a place not mine.'

"This," our friend concluded, "the long arm of coincidence may even seek paths of unexpected truths. For it is Life embracing."

WEDDING

ENGLISH — HARRIS

On April 13th, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Elinore Ruth Harris, Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Harris and the late Mr. Albert E. Harris, to Mr. William Arthur English of Melrose, son of Mrs. English and the late Mr. Arthur English. The Reverend W. H. V. Walker officiated at the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. James D. Hunter, of Barrie. Mr. Peter Scarlett, brother-in-law of the bridegroom ushered the guests.

A reception was held at the home of the bride.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Eastern Canada and Quebec.

Curtis Nagel to Show Portraits Of Brazil at BCI Auditorium

Next Thursday evening the last of this season's Kiwanis Adventure Series Travelogues, "Portraits of Brazil," will be presented by Curtis Nagel, at the Collegiate auditorium. Mr. Nagel, who needs no introduction to his Belleville audiences, is one of the most accomplished and proven of all the filmlecturers.

Born in Boston, Massachusetts, he became acquainted with the then new Technicolor Company and worked on many of the pioneer films of that process, later producing of 65 theatrical color films for Educational Films, Paramount and 20th Century Fox. He was also a co-producer of "Tabu" which won an Academy Award.

In his "Portraits of Brazil," one will be thrilled with the great, modern cities of this, America's largest country; with its scenic grandeur and the gaiety and life of its people.

MODERN PARIS

In Rio de Janeiro, the Paris of the western world, there will be shown the grand boulevards, gorgeous Copacabana, with its four-mile beach; the superb hotels; its lofty green mountains; and the Corcovado, a 25,000 foot mountain with the statute of the Christ, the Redeemer; jungles and mountains of the new capital, Brasilia, ultra modernistic in every way, a completely planned city, the seat of government; the Iguazu Falls and the carnivals which last for four days and nights, climaxed by the Opera masqued ball, with on the spot/recorded music. Those who avail themselves of this majestic picture, will be amply rewarded.

Wedding Ring Club Presents Panel Show

The April meeting of the College Hill United Church Wedding Ring Couples Club was held recently in the church hall with a large number in attendance.

The devotions and program were in charge of Ida and Ray Dafoe, the leaders of group four. Nellie Greenwood presided at the piano for the hymns.

The program for this meeting took the form of the well-known TV panel show "I've Got a Secret." While the "props" were being adjusted, Nellie Greenwood read a humorous poem which pointed out the difference between the husband's and the sweetheart's teaching a woman to drive a car.

The part of Garry Moore, the "genial emcee" was played by Boyd Moorcroft and the panel members were: Keith Richards as Bill Cullen, Florence Brown as Betsy Palmer; Larry Brown as Henry Morgan and Joan Richards as Bess Myerson. The part of the announcer was played by Ron McDonald who wrote down all the secrets of the contestants on a blackboard for the audience to see. Frayne McDonald was in charge of the commercials and did well in promoting "Mother Murphy's Reducing Pills."

FOUR CONTESTANTS

June Moorcroft as a contestant had a secret, that she was wearing an outfit identical in detail to one in the audience. This secret stumped the panel.

Ray Dafoe's secret was that he was going to do something to the blindfolded panel. This resulted in much merriment when balloons containing rice (which was understood to be water) were burst over the panelists' heads.

Nellie Greenwood had a rather unusual secret in that she once had a neighbor possessing seven given names plus her surname.

Art Greenwood as the last contestant picked on the usual long suffering "Henry" of the panel to play out his secret which was that he was about to cut a large piece from this impersonator's tie and this also resulted in much hilarity.

BUSINESS

The business portion of the meeting was in charge of the president, Monty Moorcroft who informed the members that the social convenors Millie and John Townsend had planned a social evening for April 27 with the Halloway Kum Double Club as guests. A committee consisting of Annis Dickens, Ida Dafoe and Frayne McDonald are in charge of plans for the annual strawberry supper.

A hearty welcome was extended to Muriel and Carl Wood, new members of the club.

The May meeting will be in charge of the women, with the men in charge of catering for the June meeting.

Refreshments in the form of "make your own sandwiches" were served followed by a lingering social hour.

Latter Day Saints W.D. Plans WI Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Department of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, met at the home of Mrs. Larry Smith, of Bayside, on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Smith conducted the worship period using the theme "The Christian as a Homemaker."

Mrs. S. C. Elsa taught the lesson on "Stewardship Over Material Possessions."

The business meeting convened with Mrs. W. L. Cannift in the chair.

Mrs. J. McCurdy read a letter from Mrs. T. J. Westwood, Jr., from church headquarters at Independence, Missouri, telling of the Women's Institute, including this area, to be held at Detroit in October, this year.

Mrs. Cannift asked the ladies to start planning now to attend the Women's Institute to be held at Port Elgin, in June.

Following the meeting Bible games were enjoyed by the group. A prize was won by Mrs. W. L. Cannift.

Visiting ladies were Mrs. Leo McCurdy of Ottawa, and Mrs. J. Whittington of Independence, Missouri.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

"I don't spend nearly as much time dusting and cleaning now. I wouldn't be without electric heating for the world" says Mrs. B. W. Anderson, Sundridge, Ontario.

"Now that we have electric heating the air is cleaner and not as dry...There are no drafts either. We don't have dry throats all winter long" says Mr. R. D. Wilkinson, 11 Elaine Place, Brockville, Ontario.

"I never realized how much dirt was created by our old heating system until we moved into our new home with electric heating. After three years, walls, floors and woodwork are about as clean as when we moved in"

says Mrs. J. McKevitt, Hillside Road, R.R. #2, Port Arthur, Ontario

What makes electric heating the world's cleanest heating system?

With the possible exception of sunlight, electric heating is the cleanest in the world. Because it is flameless it cannot create dust, soot, smoke or dirt of any kind. Your whole home is heated directly with electricity through built-in heating units in each room and area.

Electric heating cuts down on daily cleaning. Floors, furniture and rugs stay cleaner much longer. You'll spend a lot less time (and money) cleaning, polishing and dusting in an electrically heated home.

You even save money on re-decorating costs. You'll be astonished at the length of time your rooms keep their freshly decorated look.

ELECTRIC HEATING REVOLUTIONIZES MODERN LIVING

Only electric heating gives you custom-comfort. You can dial exactly and precisely the temperature you want for any room in the house. That's because electric heating offers you a thermostat in every room.

Electric heat is gentle and constant. There are no cold spots in the house or uncomfortable blasts of hot air.

You'll never be disturbed by noises. Electric heating is the quietest heating system there is. And there's such a healthful atmosphere . . . never too dry.

A safety breakthrough in home heating. Flammable fuel is neither stored nor piped into your home and the entire system is completely flameless.

You get more living space. Because electric heating doesn't need a furnace you have extra living area in the basement.

LOW INSTALLATION COST

Electric heating is easy to install. No furnace or fuel tank is necessary. An extension to your wiring system is all that is required. And with electric heating there are no annual maintenance costs!

WHAT ABOUT OPERATING COSTS?

In many municipalities the rate for electric heating has been reduced as much as 30% during the last two years. This means that in some areas it actually costs less to heat a home electrically than it does with other systems. In other places, the cost is about the same. In the few areas where rates are still slightly higher, the difference is negligible compared to the extra value electric heating gives you.

The Electric Heating Association of Ontario will guarantee the estimated annual electric heating cost of a home built to Triple Seal of Quality standards. Guarantee covers a full two year period.

ONLY ELECTRIC HEATING GIVES YOU A CHOICE OF HEATING SYSTEMS

Electric baseboard heating fits snug along walls at baseboard level. Insulated electric cable can be hidden in the ceiling or below the floor. And there are other units, some that can be flush mounted in ceilings or walls.

GUARANTEED INSTALLATION

Choose an electric heating contractor who is qualified to back his work with the industry-recognized Triple Seal of Quality guarantee. This guarantee covers both equipment and installation. Any home with electric heating should be built to Hydro standards of insulation.

THE LONG-TERM ECONOMY OF ELECTRIC HEATING PROVES THAT IF YOU ARE BUILDING OR BUYING A NEW HOME, WHATEVER THE SIZE, THERE IS NO REASON WHY YOU SHOULD SETTLE FOR ANYTHING LESS THAN THE CLEANLINESS, CUSTOM-COMFORT AND SAFETY OF THE HEATING SYSTEM THAT IS REVOLUTIONIZING MODERN LIVING.

For more information and estimates, contact your qualified electric heating contractor or your local Hydro office.

ELECTRIC HEATING FOR YOUR PRESENT HOME

If you are planning home extensions or if your home is not now properly heated you can install supplementary electric heating for less than it costs to extend your present heating system.

A Lift for Living

Sense of Security Will Come With the Joy of Belonging

By Dr. Ralph W. Seckman

One day the taxicab in which I was riding got caught in a traffic jam - - and those who live in large cities know that jam means something less pleasant than grandmother's preserves.

I looked out of the window on a little sea of confusion - - gesticulating drivers, scurrying pedestrians, anxious, even frightened faces. But in the midst of the jostling group was a boy about five holding his father's hand. His big blue eyes were like two calm pools in the surging tide. He was not scared. He was not worried. He was looking around in untroubled confidence. Why? He was secure in the hand of the one to whom he belonged. He was his father's boy, and his father was with him.

Great is the security derived from belonging to a family. Well do I recall the words written to me by a friend at the time of my father's death. He said that when sin's father dies, it is like moving up to the front-line trench in a battle zone. The defenses ahead of him are removed. In the struggle of life when we have to make difficult decisions, do we not often look longingly back to the days when we belonged to our parents and enjoyed a security behind their front-line facing of responsibilities? And soldiers can testify what it means in the danger zone to feel your family behind you.

SENSE OF SECURITY

The fact of belonging to a nation also gives a sense of security. In the summer of 1946 a member of our Red Cross delegation to Russia was a prominent Jewish philanthropist, Louis Levine. When we reached Prague he was taken out at midnight to the Polish border where the poor Jewish refugees were being smuggled out of Poland. He told me how he waited in the dark until there would emerge from the blackness the bedraggled fugitives, frightened and desperate. The Czechoslovak government without fit eye at the practice and was willing to have the refugees pass through their territory. But where were they to go? They were people without a country.

No form of insecurity is more acute than that of "not belonging." We are human without a family, the boy ostracized by his crowd, the man without a country - - all these feel a lack of support which leaves them weakened.

Where do we belong? To the masses who mill around their petty material interests and then when the storm comes run like rats from a sinking ship? Or to those who feel their significance, help good causes, create lasting values, and at last return to God whose they are and whom they serve?

A person without fellowship is like a fish out of water. A person cannot work absolutely alone. All men, even if only to volves some cooperation. A man cannot play long alone. Sometimes on golf course I see a man playing around by himself; and there are times when I have felt it would be less embarrassing if I were to play golf by myself. But no game keeps its zest without fellow players.

What we belong to often means more to us than what belongs to us. A family may buy the best house in town but they are unhappy if the community does not take them in so that they feel they belong.

MASS LIVING

This feeling of belonging to a community becomes more important as our cities grow larger and we become submerged in mass living. Let a person feel that he belongs to a place, to its home life, and he becomes immune to the germs of subversive ideas. The spirit of community is one of our best defenses against communism.

What keeps the crews of our ships at their post of danger in times of storm? It is something which we call "the honor of the service." And life would not be liveable without this honor of service, this spirit which sends a policeman into a burning building to save a stranger; which keeps a soldier from disbonoring his uniform on a lonely frontier post, which keeps men faithful to their oath in the service of others.

And I submit to you without argument that honor of service and oaths of loyalty mean little without belief in God.

Our sense of responsibility to God sustains our loyalties to others. What value has an oath given by a man who does not believe in God?

And by drawing closer to God, we become closer to our fellowmen, because we ourselves become more fit to live with - and that is the first point to watch in the matter of fellowship.

6th Tyendinaga

6TH TYENDINAGA—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boldrick spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Beaudrie and family of Foxboro, it being the occasion of Mr. and Mrs. Beaudrie's fifth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Emerson and girls of Centenary, and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton and girls, were guests at a buffet supper Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Treverton and girls.

HOUSE BURNED

There was considerable excitement on this line Monday noon when a house owned by Lorne McKenzie, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Don White and family of four, was discovered to be on fire. The White family lost everything in the upstairs part of the house and are at present staying with neighbors and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Boldrick spent Sunday evening with Mr. Norman Alexander of Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Dills called on Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Treverton on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie and Glenn of Smiths Falls, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie and boys.

Mrs. C. Parks, Donna, Jim, Dorothy and Wayne of Picton, had supper on Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Treverton and girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie and Bob and Mr. and Mrs. Ross McKenzie and Glenn called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dent, 2nd Thurlow, on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Alma Anderson called on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gray, Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Goodman spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shaw and Douglas, of Carmel.

BLAMES DOOR LATCH

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — County Coroner Louis Schaefer Friday blamed a defective door latch for the death of a stewardess who fell from an airplane Oct. 19. The stewardess, Francoise Demoriere, 29, was blown out of an Allegheny Airlines Convair plane when the rear door popped open over a suburb of Hartford.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

A CONTROVERSIAL QUESTION

Should children be allowed to call grown-ups by their first names?

This is a question that often arises among parents — chiefly among mothers, since they usually have to cope with it firsthand. The topic came up at a gathering we attended one Sunday afternoon. As usual, the mothers were left to cope with the subject while the men retired to the garage to inspect some new all-purpose power-driven thingumabob the host had just acquired.

His children, incidentally, had dubbed the mechanism "Mr. Machine", so you can guess where this family stood on the subject of first names as applied to anything. Another guest took the opposing viewpoint and was quite firm about it. Children, in her opinion, should not only be permitted, but should be encouraged, to call adults Tom, Dick and Harry, unless, of course, their names happened to be Mary, Jane and Daphne.

Her theory was that children took a "friendlier" attitude toward grown-ups with whom they were on a first-name basis: that it gave them a feeling of "maturity" and helped narrow the "gap between generations". Her point was that if parents had always called their parents by their first names and, aside from a few of the elderly acquaintances, used the same "casual" form of address for all their friends and neighbors.

She also pointed out that this was the general practice in her area, and obviously it worked out to everyone's satisfaction.

OLD FASHIONED YOUNGSTERS

We live in an area that is not quite so avant-garde. We have old-fashioned youngsters who call us Mommy and Daddy, except on state occasions when our ten - year - old "maturely" calls us Mother and Father. They and their playmates have always called adults Mr. and Mrs., unless specifically invited to call them something else.

I've never noticed that any of the children in our neighborhood took "unfriendly" attitude towards grown-ups because of this. They all seem to be "maturing" at a normal rate. Of course, the "gap between generations" is a little narrow as it might be if we took a more liberal viewpoint, but then I don't think that Maggie, who's four, and I could share closer political views at this point even if she were permitted to call me "Pat". Possibly the use of "Pattie", as I'm known on very "casual" occasions, would turn the trick and maybe I'll try it on for size next week.

Seriously, though, whether or not children use first names depends primarily on the custom in a locality. If it's the accepted thing, they'll do it anyway sometimes in imitation of their friends, but usually because the grown-ups, themselves, invite it. In the meantime, though, I do think, as part of a good-manners program inside the home, that children should be instructed to use last names as a general rule. In their presence, friends and relatives should be referred to by their last names, even though they address them yourself, less formally. Teaching basic good manners is the responsibility of parents. Rules may be modified, but, with a solid grounding, the children usually are able to keep within the bounds of what is correct and in good taste.

Ann Landers

School Corridors No Place For Cuddling Couples

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I always thought this country was a democracy but it is getting more like Russia every day. Yesterday our principal made a long-winded speech about boys and girls walking in the halls with their arms around each other's waists.

What's so terrible about a couple who is going steady walking that way? Since when is it indecent or immoral to put your arms around somebody you love?

The old fossil also said he didn't want to see any fellows with blonde peroxide streaks in their hair. This is another step toward a dictatorship. A lot of kids who go steady have matching streaks which is sort of a fad to let people know they belong to each other.

Will you please take this up in your column if you are on our side. If you aren't on our side, skip it.—LIBERTY AND JUSTICE FOR ALL.

DEAR PATRICK HENRY—Since you seem to favor freedom, I will express myself—even though I'm not on your side.

Walking with arms around waists is out of place in school corridors. People who have respect for each other keep their hands to themselves in public. Genuine affection doesn't need an audience.

Blood peroxide streaks for boys are revolting. I've seen some of these streaked characters and they resemble pole-cats.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I was one of those foolish girls who fell for a guy's looks. He was the spitting image of Rory Calhoun and I thought I'd die from excitement whenever he smiled at me.

I took Bart for three years. I bought my own wedding ring and carried it in my purse until I caught him in a weak moment. A Justice of the Peace married us one night last January. Bart was so plastered he could hardly stand up through the ceremony.

Now I'm pregnant. He comes home whenever he feels like it, which is anywhere from midnight to 3 a.m. He doesn't chase with women, he spends his time at his mother's house. She still treats him like a nine-year-old.

I've begged him to stay home like a husband should but it's no use. Please tell me what to do. I'm ready to take the gas pipe.—SHERRY.

DEAR SHERRY—Get off your knees and stop acting like you're honored to have this jerk around.

Insist that he go home to his mother until he's ready to come back and behave like an adult. And remind him to drop the support cheques in the mail. If you doormats wives would get off the floor your husband would have more respect for you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—This is a touchy one. We need the advice of someone who is not in the immediate family.

A close relative has been studying with a professional and has become a sculptress. She presented our son and daught-in-law with one of her favorite pieces as a wedding gift. The young couple knew a good bit about art and they don't want to use it in their home. My husband feels they should not be pressured into it.

I say the woman's feelings are at stake and it would be a crushing insult if they didn't use the piece of art. May we hear from you?—FAMILY FIREWORKS.

* * *

DEAR FIREWORKS—It will not kill the couple to display the sculpture for a few weeks. It would be especially considerate of them to have the piece displayed when the sculptress comes to call.

Most people rotate art. They could easily rotate this particular piece to the attic after a few weeks.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?", enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

ADMISSION PROCEDURE

Applicants for admission in September, whose academic record to date would indicate continued success at the University, are now being granted provisional admission on the basis of their record of academic achievement and the recommendations of their secondary school principals.

Between 1 April and 15 June, provisionally admitted applicants are being notified that they will be admitted definitely in September if their standings in the June Grade 13 examinations meet the admission requirements. This policy has been adopted in order to permit a considerable number of senior secondary school students to make definite plans to attend the University in September 1963.

The academic requirements for the admission of 1963 secondary school graduates to the first year at The University of Western Ontario next September have NOT been raised. The general admission requirements remain unchanged. Submit applications for admission and for residence accommodation now.

Grade 13 students who intend to apply for admission scholarships at the University are reminded that 1 May is the final date for mailing admission scholarship application forms.

Please direct all inquiries to the Registrar.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

WORM'S EYE VIEW

Did you ever hear of a bird with a worm's eye view? The woodcock is just that. Mother Nature placed its eyes near the top of its head so that from a lowly position on the ground it may watch out for enemies — and as someone suggests so that it will not get mud in them. This alone gives the bird a curious appearance; but it has several other odd features, the most extraordinary being its bill. Not only is this unusually long, but it is made differently from any other.

The upper section is divided into two parts, hinged together half way down; the far end can be moved up and down while the rest remains shut. This contrivance is designed for pulling worms out of the ground from depths up to three inches. The movable part is raised out of the way while the remainder of the bill is thrust into soft soil. Bird students are divided in their opinions as to the woodcock's method of locating worms. Some think this is done by hearing, others imagine that the feet somehow feel where they are.

DIFFICULT TO SEE

The woodcock's legs are short for the size of the bird. Indeed, the same may be said for neck and tail, so that the body looks large and heavy. Although not uncommon, this bird is actually seldom seen because its protective coloring makes it practically invisible in its surroundings. Moist land with cover of small deciduous trees is ideal for woodcocks, though as a matter of fact it is a shore bird. When not seen, they are often known to be present because of the round holes in the earth or sand left by the probing bill.

Spring courtship of the woodcock is something every bird-watcher desires to witness. The male spirals up in the air, then descends in a series of swoops. But the time to see this must be just right; half an hour after sunset in April. As the bird ascends, wind in the wings makes a trilling sound sometimes called a "song."

The nest is often made among trilliums and dogtooth violets. Eggs have been found as early as late March' when snow still lay on the ground, but this is unusual. Using their "egg tooth" to cut the shell, the four babies come from big eggs, and can run about immediately. Before they are able to fly Mother Woodcock sometimes carries them between her legs to a favorable feeding spot where she digs up their diet of worms.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Five years ago when fifteen-year-old John Wayne Lewis of this city looked at a barbell and decided weightlifting was his sports "baby," he had no idea that within half a decade he would achieve national status.

Nor within the wildest stretch of imagination, did he dream that he would bring honor to his city and country in international competition under the cloud-flecked blue skies of sunny Sao Paulo in faraway Brazil.

JOHN LEWIS

His march up the ladder of achievement was rapid. Within a few short years this promising youngster in his growing stages, equalled or smashed Canadian and British Empire records.

Under the fine coaching of Ken Carr-Braint of the Belleville Apollo Club young Lewis improved to the point where he drew the attention of national figures. He was invited to the Pan-American Games trials in Montreal and was the only "lifter" west of that city to be named to the Canadian team.

The clean-living 190-pound 5-10 youngster trained hard for the biggest and most important competition of his life. The fact he was chosen to represent his country did not upset his mental status. He refused to become excited. His reaction was a determination to do his best—and hope it would be the Games' best.

He did not bring home a gold medal, the Games top award for individual and team performances, but lifted against the cream of the Western Hemisphere weightlifting stars, he came up with an effort that was little short of sensational.

As is well known now, John finished third in the middle-heavyweight division, but he sent outstanding American "lifters" to a world record in the "press" division before the competition ended.

Lewis' confidence in himself, determination to win and refusal to be daunted by such illustrious competitors is evidenced in the fact that his Games total of 924 pounds exceeded his Canadian senior record by 14 pounds.

He forced the silver medal winner, Jose Flores of the Dutch Antilles to go to a world record in the press division with a total of 357.5 pounds. Flores' second-place total was 1,962.5 pounds.

The middle-heavyweight gold medal and title went to Bill March of the United States who set a Games' record with a total lift of 2,012 pounds.

Lewis' bronze medal rounded out a fine performance on the part of the small Canadian weightlifting team which consisted of four entries and the coach. Previously Pierre St. Jean, a middleweight and Michael J. Lipari, light heavyweight, each won bronze medals in their divisions.

In competence in international competition (his British Empire championships were awarded by comparative statistics), young Mr. Lewis is another native son who has placed his city in world sports headlines. He has brought highly favorable publicity to Belleville, himself and the sport.

His expenses to Brazil were defrayed by the Canadian Pan-American Games committee via a federal government grant. But I do not imagine John's pockets were bulging with "trip" money when he left for Sao Paulo.

He, like other Canadian athletes on the South American games junket, conducted himself like the gentleman he is.

I am told he will arrive in Toronto, via aircraft, on Monday, May 6th. It is likely his colleagues of the Belleville Apollo Club will give him a reception but this should go further than that. Some sort of a civic recognition should be given this fine young athlete who while winning a bronze medal for Canada in 1963 could very well be Belleville's first gold medallist in Pan-American games of the future.

St. Marys Edge Kingston 5-4, Win Title

STRATFORD (CP) — St. Marys Lincolns edged Kingston Frontenacs 5-4 before a capacity crowd of 3,300 at Classic City Arena Friday night to win their first Ontario Hockey Association Junior B championship.

The Lincolns won the best-of-seven series 4-2.

John Campbell, who scored a goal earlier, bounced a shot off goalie Neil Perry's pads at 6:35 of the third period to put St. Marys into a 5-3 lead in the hard-fought match.

Bill Bannerman, Jackie Nairn and defenceman Bill Cowper scored the other goals for St. Marys.

Ron Earl scored twice for Kingston and Gary LaVallee and Bob Rawson fired in the other two goals.

The Lincolns are to be honored Sunday night with a parade in St. Marys.

ZUGER SIGNS

HAMILTON (CP)—The Hamilton Tiger-Cat football club announced Friday the signing for another season of Joe Zuger, quarterback, defensive halfback and punter, who established a football record by throwing eight touchdown passes in one game last year. Also signed Friday was Jamie Caleb, a six-foot-one-210-pound halfback purchased from Cleveland Bulldogs of the United Football League late last year.

Windsor Doghouses First Allan Cup

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor boasts its first Canadian hockey championship today and it may take a while before it gets over it.

The Bulldogs pulled off their first Allan Cup title here Friday night before a sellout crowd of 5,147 when they defeated Winnipeg Maroons 3-2 in the fifth game of the best-of-seven Canadian senior hockey finals. Windsor won the series 4-1.

This precedent-setting victory touched off a wild celebration that lasted well into the small hours of the morning.

"Man, I'm the happiest guy in the world," said Bulldog coach Harry Watson in the uproarious Windsor dressing room after the spine-tingling final game.

"This is the greatest team for spirit I've ever seen and I consider it a privilege to be the coach of the best senior amateur team in the world," he whooped.

BEAT THE RUSSIANS

Watson was obviously referring to a 9-2 defeat Windsor handed the Russian team last November, the same team which went on to win the world amateur championship in Sweden in March.

Said Winnipeg playing coach Bill Juzda: "I'm sad for my players but I'm not ashamed. We lost to a great club." He made the rounds in the steamy Bulldog room along with about 100 rabid Windsor supporters.

Veteran defenseman Bill Mitchell scored in the final minute of the second period and it stood up as the winner through as tension-filled a last 20 minutes of hockey as Windsor will ever see.

Jerry Servias, a tower of strength in the series, and centre Irwin Gross scored the other Windsor goals, while Fred Dunsmore and Lloyd Orrin counted for the Western Canada champions.

As in the entire series, the goaltending was a feature. But this one belonged to 22-year-old Wayne Rutledge. He kicked out 28 shots while Winnipeg's Don Collins stopped 22. It was Collins who, almost single-handed, prevented a four-straight Windsor sweep in last Wednesday's game.

The Maroon dressing room was almost a morgue after it was over and no wonder. It's doubtful in the long history of the Allan Cup that a team has fought harder before going down to defeat on foreign ice. If the series had been played in Winnipeg, it might have been a different story.

This is attested in the scores of the games. Windsor won the first three games, 5-4, 3-2 and 2-0 and the fifth 3-2. Maroons took the fourth contest 3-1.

One of the happiest of the new champions was 40-year-old Joe Klukay, who at one time was a National League teammate of the two coaches with Toronto Maple Leafs. "This was as good a team effort as I've ever seen," exulted the man who owns a share of three Stanley Cup victories.

Amid a wild demonstration on the ice, Jack Ruxton, immediate past president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, presented the Allan Cup to captain Lou Bendo of the Bulldogs.

CHANGE RULE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, acting to make boxing safer in the wake of a recent death in the state, has adopted a rule which prevents a boxer who is knocked out from being saved by the bell at the end of a round.

The rule went into effect Thursday night during a professional bout.

Alfred M. Klein, a member of the athletic commission said the referee must continue counting over a knocked out boxer even after the bell has ended a round. The referee must award the opponent a knockout victory if the floored man does not get up before the count of 10.

Colts Bruce Hurls Leagues' First One-Hitter

Dodgers Steal Six Bases, Forget To Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

"We're just not hitting, our pitching hasn't been good and our defence has been spotty."

Those words from Cincinnati manager Fred Hutchinson briefly and accurately tell why the pennant-hopeful Reds are in ninth place in the National League.

Houston right - hander Bob Bruce underlined Hutch's words Friday night, pitching the league's first one - hitter this season in the Colts' 3-0 victory.

"We haven't had a run batted in from our third-base position (Gene Freese and Eddie Kasko) and none from our second-base spot (Don Blasingame and Pete Rose)," said Hutchinson. "Vada Pinson hasn't been hitting either."

Pinson was the only one to hit against the Colts when he singled sharply to right field in the first inning. Bruce, a 28-year-old former American Leaguer, hit a batter in the second, then retired 19 in a row before allowing two base runners on walks in the ninth.

LOSE FOUR STRAIGHT

The Reds have lost four in a row—two by shutouts—and have scored only three runs during the skid.

Meanwhile, at the top of the standings, St. Louis Cardinals took sole possession of first place when a two-run double by Bill White and George Altman's run-producing single with two out in the ninth carried them to an 8-7 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers.

Seven unearned runs and the three-hit pitching of Lew Burdette gave Milwaukee Braves a 9-2 decision over San Francisco Giants, Pittsburgh Pirates whipped New York Mets 5-2 and Philadelphia Phillies defeated Chicago Cubs 5-3.

The Colts managed only six hits off Jim Maloney, who went the distance for the Reds, but they were enough. Al Spangler's single drove in one run in the first inning and Bob Lillis pushed the other across with an infield single in the seventh.

Behind by six runs early in the game, the Cards went into the ninth still trailing the Dodgers, 7-5. After singles by Phil Gagliano and Curt Flood, White and Altman came through with two out against reliever Ron Perranoski, who took the loss.

BUMS SWIPE SIX

The Dodgers had stormed ahead on home runs by Johnny Roseboro—his third in as many nights — and Frank Howard, plus six stolen bases, their highest one-game total since 1953. Willie Davis stole three, Maury Wills, Nate Oliver and Roseboro one each.

A damaging two-out error by Jim Davenport in the second inning opened the door for the Braves and seven runs came in. Norm Larker drove in two with a single and Eddie Mathews sent a pair across with a double. Hank Aaron hit his sixth homer for Milwaukee.

Burdette gave up a two-run homer to Ed Bailey in the second inning but allowed only one hit the rest of the way. Jack Fisher was the loser.

Ted Savage's two-run homer in a three - run first inning against Mets' starter Al Jackson and sharp relief pitching by Harvey Haddix got the job done for the Pirates.

Art Mahaffey checked the Cubs on three hits, one a two-run homer by Billy Williams. Wes Covington, with a three-run homer in the fourth inning, and Johnny Callison, with a solo shot in the fifth, did the damage for the Phillies.

Top Golfers May Boycott Big Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) Some of golf's top professionals met Friday night to discuss boycotting the Colonial national invitational tournament in Fort Worth May 9-12 because Don January was not invited to play but they reached no decision.

A spokesman for the golfers said any further action on the suggestion that the players stay out of the Colonial would have to be taken by the Professional Golfers Association tournament committee and the executive committee.

It would be up to Lionel Hebert, the chairman of the PGA committee, to call the meeting. Hebert is at his home in Lafayette, La.

Doc Giffin, PGA press secretary who sat in on the meeting, said the golfers asked him to avoid going into specifics. The meeting was not open to the press.

January was left off the Colonial list apparently because the tournament officials did not like his comments while he was chairman of the players committee last year. He criticized the operation of the Colonial Country Club, saying the club pro did not get proper remuneration.

U.S. Dominates Games

Toronto Duo Places Second

Milwaukee Car Rally Winner

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP)—Two middle-aged engineers from Milwaukee are winners of the 4,000-mile Cross-Canada Rally that proved to be a nerve-jangler's nightmare.

Clay Gibbs and Dick Doyen, about 50, were assessed only two penalty points from the time they left Vancouver Saturday in their Toronto-sponsored Chevy II. The rally ended Friday night in Montreal with 42 of the 47 starters making the finish line.

Doyen, the navigator, said the rally was tough. "Anything could have happened." They came home with the least number of penalties ever levied in the rally's three-year history.

Rally partners for many years, they excel in cold weather competition, winning Wisconsin's winter rally five years in a row.

George Merson, 30, and John Wilson, 28, both of Toronto, placed second with six penalty points in a 1962 Falcon Sprint. Another Sprint, piloted by the Toronto team of Paul MacLennan and Ian Gregory, came in third. They had eight penalty points.

A NIGHTMARE

"The rally this year was a navigator's nightmare," said Wilson. "But it was a fantastic, good weather which removed many of the obstacles, such as mountains, that piled up penalty points in previous years. With fewer obstacles, navigation errors loomed."

"The rally was too easy," said blonde Diana Carter of Toronto, driver of the Larkettes team with navigator Gillian Field of Syracuse, N.Y. Competing in the Coupe des Dames, prize for the top women's entry, driving a Studebaker Lark.

John Jones and Lou Lalonde of Toronto, last year's winners, also drove a Studebaker Lark, but finished well out of the running. The two overslept one hour Friday morning for the final Toronto-Montreal leg of the rally and were penalized heavily.

A Peugeot 404, driven by Frank Curran and Ron Carney of Toronto, took private-entrant honors.

SHIELS MOB HIM

Olivier Gendebien, 38-year-old Belgian racing ace, drove a Volvo and finished fourth with 15 penalty points. His navigator was Mike Kerry, an Agincourt, Ont., engineer. Gendebien was mobbed by many of the young girls in the crowd of about 5,000 that greeted the cars at the concrete plaza of Place Ville Marie in downtown Montreal.

More than 30 fleet-car clubs in six provinces co-operated to stage the competition and control of the rally. There were 18 makes of cars representing manufacturers of eight countries.

Included among the entrants were doctors, plumbers, salesmen, engineers, a salvage diver and a bank vice-president.

Travellers Turn Back Leafs 6-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If the crowds don't improve soon at Toronto's Maple Leaf Stadium, the club might consider rehiring Bob (Riverboat) Smith. He's an expert at handing out free passes.

The six-year - old southpaw came back to the scene of past triumphs Friday night in a supremely charitable mood. Pitching for Arkansas Travelers, he walked seven Leafs in their International League game.

The only fly in the ointment for the Leafs was that they couldn't see much of their former teammate's pitches when they were over the plate. Striking out nine and getting only two hits, the veteran hurled the Travelers to a 6-2 victory.

In other games, Buffalo Bisons hammered Richmond Virginians 10-2, Atlanta Crackers walloped Rochester Red Wings 10-5, Jacksonville Suns downed Syracuse Chiefs 5-3 and Indianapolis Indians, the only successful home team, topped Columbus Jets 3-1.

ROOKIE PROVIDES PUNCH

Smith got solid support from rookie outfielder Richie Allen, who contributed a pair of two-run homers and a double to the Arkansas cause. Dennis Ribant, a Detroit youngster who passed up a hockey career with the Red Wings, was the loser.

Home runs by Joe Hicks, Dick Smith, Sammy Taylor and Ron Hirschcorn paced the Buffalo attack against the Virginians, who never got untracked after the Bisons got six runs in the second inning.

SHOOTS 74

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Defending champion Mickey Wright shot par golf Friday and took a one-stroke lead over Marilyn Smith after the second round of the women's titleholders championship. Miss Wright put together a 34-35—72 round for a 36-hole total of 146. At 153 were Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, who cut her first-round 79 to a 74 Friday, and Polly Riley, 74-79.

SIGN HALFBACK

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions Friday announced the signing of Jim Appelquist, halfback from New Jersey's Upsala College and a former player for New York Titans of the American Football League.

Canada's Medal Winners

Boy Scout of the U.S. won the freestyle in two-over time of 4:19.3 and the U.S. medley team of Dick McGeagh, Bill Craig, Walt Richardson and Nick Kirby took the medley medal in record time of 4:05.6. Argentina finished second in the medley.

Don Schollander, clocked in 4:36.5, and Gill Chiles, with 4:39.1, also were under the games' mark of 4:39.4 set in preliminaries by Schollander. Ralph Hutton, 15, of Ocean Falls, was fourth in 4:54.0.

WINS MEDAL

Luis Nicolao, world record holder in the 100-metre butterfly, gave Argentina the silver medal over Canada with strong butterfly leg, but the two teams were close. Argentina timed in 4:17.3 and Canada in 4:17.5. The previous record was set by a U.S. team in 1959.

The swim medals were the only ones the Canadians won Friday and they boosted to one gold, four silver and five bronze medals. The medals Canadians have won in the Pan-American pool.

Several more are likely to fall to Canadians before the swimming winds up Sunday night since four girls—Lynne Pumfret, 16, of Vancouver and Sharon Pierce, 15, of Prince Rupert, B.C., in the 400-metre freestyle; Mary Stewart, 17, of Vancouver and Eileen Weir, 17, of Toronto, in the 100-metre backstroke—qualified for finals by finishing second to U.S. competitors in heats Friday.

Nina Harmer of the U.S. set a record of one minute 11.1 in beating Miss Weir by three metres in their backstroke heat after Cathy Ferguson of the U.S. had clocked a record-beating 1:12.1 in beating Miss Stewart, who already has three silver medals from earlier events, in the opening heat. The previous mark was 1:12.7 set in 1959 by Carin Cone of the U.S.

TWO SECONDS FASTER

Miss Weir's time was 1:14.1 and Miss Stewart's 1:16.3.

Diver Tom Dinsley of Vancouver, the Canadian gold medallist with a victory in springboard, tries today in platform competition but is rated behind Mexican and U.S. contestants who have had the advantage of more practice time from the 10-metre tower. Judy Stetter of Toronto, silver medallist in women's springboard diving, also tries the tower today.

On Sunday, the University of B.C. eights from Vancouver are favored to bring Canada a gold medal. They're expected to win the other six competitions in rowing.

WOMEN LOSE

Canada's women's basketball team—the Vancouver Maidelfil for a third consecutive time, competition at this event has been trounced by Brazil and the U.S. earlier.

The Canadian water polo team, made up largely of Hungarian immigrants, also lost—to Hungary—and now has a 3-3 record.

Argo III, with a three-man crew from the Hamilton area, won Friday's Dragon class regatta and the Canadian boat moved into second place behind Argentina in the standings after two days of racing. Brinkman is Dr. Samuel (Sandy) MacDonald of Westmount, Que. His crew are Peter Norton and Lynn Watters of Montreal.

L. Wagner, The 'Hittingest Angel'

By BOB GREEN

Bill Rigney was pretty sure about the possibility that Leon Wagner would be traded. The Angels' manager replied:

"Where Daddy Wags goes, Rigney goes."

There's a number of reasons the Los Angeles manager could be high on the free-swinging outfielder. He's the leader of the minors, but Friday night's performance is as good an indicator as any.

Wagner's scorecard: Five hits, including two home runs and a double, and three runs batted in.

Even at that, the Angels had to go 13 innings before beating Baltimore 4-3 in a game that knocked the Orioles out of first place in the American League. The idle Chicago White Sox backed into the top spot.

Kansas City Athletics had a chance to take it over, but could manage only a split on a long twinight doubleheader at Washington. The A's won the night cap that would up about 1 a.m. Minnesota Twins beat Detroit Tigers 7-5 in the only other game scheduled.

RAPPED ROBIN

Wagner, who has had four home runs in his last two games, struck in the Angels' first three runs on a pair of homers off Baltimore starter Robin Roberts and had a hand in the winning run in the 13th.

Lee Thomas opened the inning with a single and bunted for third when Wagner stroked a single for his fifth hit. Baltimore centre fielder Bob Saverine, trying to catch Thomas at third, threw the ball into the dugout and Thomas trotted in with the winner.

Wagner was with Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League after last San Francisco Giants and St. Louis Cardinals gave up on him, when Rigney gave him a chance with the Angels in 1961. He reposseed with 28 homers, a .280 average and 79 runs batted in. Last year he was fourth in the voting for the most valuable player award after producing 197 RBI and 37 homers.

FANS 12

Cheney, who hasn't allowed an earned run in 27 innings, fanned 12 batters in his shutout of the Athletics at Washington. He walked only four and gave up only a bit until the sixth. Don Lock had a three-run homer in the first.

Only Three "All-Stars"

Maple Leafs All Standouts?

MONTREAL (CP)—The all-star selections announced Friday by the National Hockey League might give Toronto fans cause to call for some kind of electoral reform.

The Maple Leafs picked up only three of the 12 spots on the first and second teams.

It could be a reflection of Toronto's even talent distribution in contrast to other clubs who maybe have a couple of standout performers and noticeable weaknesses elsewhere in the lineup.

Left-winger Frank Mahovlich and defenceman Carl Brewer were the only two Torontonians to make the first so — called dream team and defenceman Tim Horton was the club's lone representative on the second team.

Horton, in fact, made it only with a great second-half spurt, displacing Montreal's Jean-Guy Talbot, ahead of him at the season's end, in the scheduled Goalie Glenn Hall, defenceman Pierre Pilote and centre Stan Mikita gave Chicago Black Hawks three positions on the first squad and Detroit's incomparable Gordie Howe rounded it out at right-wing.

The Hawks were runnersup to Toronto at the close of scheduled play but they took total of five spots on the two teams with the selection of left-winger Bobby Hull and defenceman Elmer (Moose) Vasko to the second team.

Other second-team members are Howe, Montreal centre Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal right-winger Carl Brewer of York's Andy Bathgate at right wing.

A notable Toronto omission was centre Dave Keon, a little guy who scores, checks, kills off penalties and generally makes the Toronto sticks too if he was asked by coach-manager Punch Imlach.

The balloting was done by reporters and broadcasters in the six NHL cities on a 5-3-1 point basis.

ACKLAND ON LIST

EDMONTON (CP) — General manager Joe Ryan of Edmonton Eskimos said Friday the Western Football Conference club has placed Al Ackland of Winnipeg on its negotiation list. Ackland, a 32-year-old intermediate player, earlier this week said he was blacklisted by Canadian Football League clubs because of a lawsuit he brought against Winnipeg Blue Bombers last winter. The suit was settled in G. Sydney Halter, CFL commissioner, and Bomber officials.

New Hamburg Wins Title Over Napanee

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP)—New Hamburg Mallards won the Ontario Hockey Association Junior C championship Friday night with a 5-3 victory over Syracuse Red Wings.

New Hamburg took the best-of-seven final 4-0.

Lynn Saranas scored two goals for the Hahns, and Ken Bast, Jim Lev and Crest Romaschyna added singles. Lev scored into an empty net with 10 seconds left.

Bob Anderson, Dwight Galt and Gary Loyst scored for Napanee.

BOATS & MOTORS

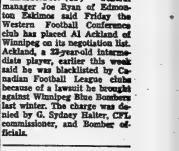
Pretty soon (we hope) the warm weather will be coming and many people will be thinking about buying boats and motors. A necessary purchase at the same time is proper marine insurance. Whether you're buying a skiff, punt, runabout, outboard cruiser or inboard cruiser, we have an insurance policy designed to fit your needs.

Each year we pay hundreds of claims for marine losses and suggest that you protect yourself in the event one of these losses happen to you. The policy covers such losses as fire, theft, upset, sinking, stranding, transportation perils, theft, striking submerged objects, wind and lightning. Plus many other types of losses.



Give us a call before buying or launching your outfit this year. You may be happy that you did.

Dual Careers Enjoyed by Stars of Disney's "Son of Flubber"

Most actors are content to rest on their dramatic laurels and take it easy between film assignments.

Not there are always exceptions and three of these share the spotlight in Walt Disney's wacky new comedy, Son of Flubber.

When star Fred MacMurray is not before the cameras, he can usually be found at his ranch in Northern California. There, he raises white-faced herefords on a large scale and enjoys the complete change of ranch life. One of his prized bulls recently copped a blue ribbon at a livestock show in Chicago, which pleased the actor almost as much as if he had received an Oscar.

Comedian Ken Murray, who recently resumed his film career after devoting several years to stage and night club work, keeps busy between pictures shooting home movies of Hollywood's top stars, his hobby for over thirty years. Last year he completed one of his best footage into a television special for NBC-TV and the acclaim was so great he has been contracted to produce another hour-long show for next season.

Veteran performer Leon Ames, who plays the title role in Walt Disney's "Son of the Bride," as well as many varied parts in the movies, is also one of Hollywood's most successful businessmen. Ames owns and operates one of the largest automobile agencies in the movie capital and has probably sold more cars in his 25 years of dealership than any of his competitors in the area.

All of these versatile performers agree that should they ever decide to retire from the limelight it is wise to have another livelihood to fall back on.

Son of Flubber, stars MacMurray, Nancy Olsen, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk and is already the talk of Belleville, a must show with fun and loaded with laughs and is continuing a few more days, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Robert Preston, in the title role, unleashes his fast talking charm on the young children of an Iowa town in this scene from the dazzling Warner Bros. Technicolor presentation of Meredith Wilson's "The Music Man", now playing at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. Preston, who created the character in the stage production, stars as the combination Pied Piper-con man who sets out to sell the town instruments and uniforms for a boys' band. Shirley Jones stars opposite him as Marian, the librarian. Buddy Hackett, Hermione Gingold, Paul Ford and The Buffalo Bills are co-starred in the film version of the musical comedy which was acclaimed the happiest musical ever during its Broadway run.

At The Park

OPENS MONDAY

"SAYONARA"

The filmization of Rodgers and Hammerstein's immortal musical classic "Oklahoma!," originally presented on a road show, two-a-day basis, will begin its continuous performance, presentation here at the Park Scope and color by Technicolor beginning Monday at the Park Theatre.

The Magna Production, distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox, presents some of the most exciting music ever written for a musical-comedy and features an all-star cast headed by Gordon MacRae, Gloria Grahame, Shirley Jones, Gene Nelson, Charlotte Greenwood, Eddie Albert, James Whitmore, Rod Steiger and a host of other stars.

As "Curly" and "Laurey," Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones recreate probably the two most famous names in musical comedy history. The same two will be remembered as starred in the CinemaScope 55 version of Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel" earlier this year.

"Oklahoma!" is an adaptation of the drama "Green Grow the Lilacs" by Lynn Riggs, and is set in the period immediately preceding that state's admittance to the Union. The story is a simple one; that of "Curly" and "Jud," the latter played by Rod Steiger, and their mutual love for "Laurey." However, it is the lilting music and the outdoor touch which has made "Oklahoma!" a byword in stage, and now screen classics.

Most of the rich Rodgers and Hammerstein music, which helped "Oklahoma!" to achieve a stage run in New York from March 1943 to May 1948, is contained in the picture version. These numbers include such all-time favorites as "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'," "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top," "Kansas City," "Many a New Day," "People Will Say We're in Love," the title song, "Oklahoma!" and many, many others.

The difficult job of transferring this classic to the screen fell to Producer Arthur Hornblow, Jr. Those who saw the film during its roadshow engagement have proclaimed it one of the most beautiful productions to come out of Hollywood in many years. Academy Award-winner Fred Zinnemann, who directed "From Here To Eternity" and "High Noon," makes his debut as a director of musicals with this production. Insiders report that he has endowed the film with a fast, lively pace from the opening scene to the finale.

A ballet sequence by the wonderful Agnes de Mille, the beautiful countryside of the great West, spread out in Cinema-Scope, and the excellence of the great cast, should combine to make "Oklahoma!" one of the great musical films of all time.

There will be two showings of "Oklahoma" each evening 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Driver's Suspension Rescinded

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Racing Commission Friday rescinded a 60-day suspension imposed on driver-trainer Murray Waples of Coldwater, Ont., after an investigation into the doping of a trotter April 4 at the Hollywood Raceway here.

Waples, 34, drove Mary Louise to victory in the eighth race, but an analyst reported a drug was present in the urine sample taken from the horse after the race.

An investigation which followed failed to reveal how the drug was administered and Waples was suspended because he was responsible for the care of the trotter.

Waples filed an appeal, and the commission found the urine test had been contaminated.

300 Rugged Young Actors Screened for Chester's Part

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Burt Reynolds is a lean, good-looking Floridian who has made good at a difficult assignment: Joking the Gunsmoke family.

The quadrumvirate of James Arness-Dennis Weaver-Amanda Blake-Milburn Stone is perhaps the tightest troupe in television. They have worked in close association for eight years. Their fan following approaches a cult.

Last year Gunsmoke faced a crisis when Dennis announced he was leaving the series for the greener pastures of his own show. Since Gunsmoke represents an investment of many millions, there was great concern about replacing the gimpy Chester.

Three hundred rugged young actors were screened. Burt Reynolds was imported from a New York play to join the horde a few days before the decision was to be made. Arness listened to him read some lines, nodded and Burt was one of two actors chosen.

GOT MOST RESPONSE

The idea was to put both in a show and see which one drew the most response. Burt, who played a part-Indian, won.

"There's a flood of mail from Indians and people in Florida," said the Palm Beach boy. So he got the job. But what about joining the team?

"Jim was for me from the start, so that took away a worry," he said. "I don't mean we are close friends, because nobody gets close to Jim. That's the way he is.

"With Milburn and Amada, it was another matter. They had been polling for the other actor to win, so there was some resentment. But in time we became the closest of friends, as people often do after an initial antagonism.

"As for Dennis (who returned on a limited basis when his show didn't sell), I hardly know him. We've only done two shows together."

Burt plays Quint Asper, the Dodge City blacksmith who is sometimes made a victim of Indian-hating citizens.

AT THE PARK — Gordon MacRae plays the rollicking, happy role of "Curly" in Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma!," the Magna Production, distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox, at the Park Theatre starting Monday for a three day engagement. In Cinema-Scope and color by Technicolor, "Oklahoma!" is now playing at popular prices and will be two showings each evening starting at 7.00 p.m. and 9.30 p.m.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Many around you are supersensitive. Be careful with remarks, written words. Tendency is to scatter forces, to "kid" friends. Instead be specific, sympathetic to avoid misunderstandings!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Take time to be right, such as counting change, writing checks, etc. Little things make a big difference today. Check details, "emotional signals." Make sure you understand.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Important you accept personal appearance today. Take time to give special touch to routine affairs. Give some best. Put your personal "something" into everything you do.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Better to take conservative course. Avoid rash, impulsive actions. Including taking chance with funds. Enjoy what you have. . . . appreciate loved ones. Don't "covet" others' possessions.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) What people say, and do, are two different stories. Be skeptical. Check sources, facts, figures. Some believe everything. Be amiable, but maintain "show me" position.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can now lead way to greater accomplishment. Applies to community, church projects. Older individuals are willing to listen. Commitments. Illustrate points with facts.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good lunar aspect today spotlights long-range plans, ability to "perceive" future. Means go all out on beliefs. Express yourself to impress others. You enhance prestige.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 20) Step curious to home and only looks greener across the way. Key is appreciation. Taurus, Libra individuals could provide inspiration. Keep mind and heart open.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Display charm, humor . . . and patience. Don't be forced or discouraged. Remain true to principles. Seek spiritual guidance. Pay earnest attention to "special person."

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Answer impulses person with kindness. But don't be "bullied." Stick to facts. Don't be overwhelmed by claims, rumors, gossip. Golden Rule can be applied with great benefit today.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Good lunar aspect today means you find pleasure in hobbies. You impress loved ones. Good day for vacation plans, romance, journeys, except impractical ideas challenges intellect, creative abilities.

If today is your birthday you are independent, original, with unique qualities which help you in appointed offices public.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for Gemini, Cancer, Leo. Special word to Capricorn: Listen to "inner voice." Act according to conscience.

For April 29

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Time now to put ideas across and into action! Money matters investments, business opportunities highlighted . . . So are personal friendships. Busy day. Many challenges.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Settle affairs. Keep past promises. Extend influence. Teach, write, read — be sure you are communicating. Means use simple, direct approach. Gemini individual could help. Accept graciously.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Your ideas for improvement are accepted. Don't hesitate to speak up, especially to Taurus person. Stress originality, independence. Sparkle with unique self-expression.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Key is caution. Watch expenditures, take time. Means don't rush to commit yourself. Shop for best bargains. Look around. Includes dealings with people, too. Be practical!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Cycle high. Protect what -you possess. Don't give up something "rare" for uncertainty. Let others come to you with their offers. Analyze, consider and compare.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Display strength. Show you are capable by being gentle, patient, persevering. Avoid panic and ill-temper. You thus gain admiration, win goodwill. Check details personally. Be thorough.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Need for appreciation, friendship, love highlighted. Turn on Libra charm to attract better conditions. Romance and happiness can be found around you. Look for it! Be magnetic.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Check with superiors. Make sure you have correct instructions. Misunderstanding could create problem. Tendency is for those around you today to talk fast, let change their decisions on impulse. Remain calm!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Guard some privacy. Be introspective. Look within for answers to perplexing questions. Gives truth, sincerity. Avoid worrying. After facing issues you feel better.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You now feel refreshed. You realize recent emotional dip was but temporary. Now, cycle begins upward swing. Analyze money matters. Check promises and legal agreements.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Key is service. Means be sure that comforts which make life pleasant are available. Don't assume check. Treat those serving you with fairness. And do your best in performing own tasks.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Be sure, confident. You attract members of opposite sex. You can sell almost anything today! Take initiative. Try the new. Avoid brooding about the old. Move forward.

If today is your birthday . . . you are intuitive; you can perceive when something important is about to occur.

General Tendencies: Excess speed causes trouble. Take time. Avoid jumping to conclusions. Cycle up for Cancer, Leo, Virgo.

Six Tied In Texas Open

Palmer Starts Comeback

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Six players, including Australian Bruce Crampton, who fell out of the undisputed lead when he took a horrendous 4-over-par 9, led the way into the third round of the closest Texas Open golf tournament.

And pounding along just three strokes away was a revitalized Arnold Palmer, the big favorite, who pulled his game together for a Sunday-par 36 in the second round Friday and climbed back solidly into the running.

The six players tied for the lead — Crampton, Tommy Aaron, Jeffhander Bob Charles, rookie Frank Beard, Don January and former National Open champion Jack Fleck — were only eight strokes away from the cutoff point that saw the field reduced to 65 pros and 10 amateurs.

The leaders all had 136 for 36 holes.

BALDING IS OUT

A 144 was recorded to make it and top players like Gene Littler, Jimmy Demaret and Al Balding of Toronto, Julius Boros, Tutter and Demaret finished with 146, Balding with 147.

Al Johnston of Montreal, who had a 67 Thursday, could do no better than 74 Friday for a 176 total, five strokes off the pace.

Palmer was the big news, although he did not have a low score of the second round. The man who was picked to win his fourth straight Texas Open championship—and set a PGA four record—slumped to a par 71 in the opening round.

But Friday he had 139 for 36 holes, three under par, as he started out to see what could be done in the stretch.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting — Leon Wagner, Angels, went 5 - for - 5 with two homers, drove in three runs and singled as Los Angeles came up with the winning run in the 12th, raising to edge Baltimore Orioles 4-3.

Pitching — Bob Bruce, Houston Colts, allowed only a first inning single by Vada Pinson and pitched first one-hitter in National League this season for 2-0 victory over Cincinnati.

FOURTH IN EUROPE

Romania, with forests covering 26.4 per cent of its land, is rising to edge Baltimore Orioles 4-3.

Western Hockey

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The home ice advantage proved to be as great as San Francisco Seals had hoped in their Western Hockey League final with Seattle Totems.

The edge failed to pay off Friday night in the opener of the best-of-seven series as Jim Powers' unassisted goal late in the third overtime period produced a 3-2 Seattle victory before 8,936 fans.

Seattle gained the overtime thanks to a first-period fluke goal. Don Chiupka's 30-foot shot was also a fluke as the Seals' goalie Jim McLeod glved the puck momentarily, then dropped it into a corner at 16:40.

The Northern Division champs moved ahead 2-0 at 13:33 of the second period on Bob Sabourin rebound goal but the Seals hit the scoreboard with 14 seconds left in the period on Nick Mickoski's 35-foot shot.

San Francisco pressed heavily in the third period and tied the game at 17:31 when Les Haley drove in a 25-footer from the side.

PITCHER HURT

BALTIMORE (AP)—Los Angeles Angels have lost their No. 1 catcher, Bob Rodgers, for several days because of an injured middle finger on his throwing hand. The club announced that Rodgers' finger showed "a very, very minor fracture" of the finger, hurt in the ninth inning of Thursday's game in Detroit which Los Angeles won 7-3.

Moscow Papers Full Of Welcome To Fidel Castro

More Soviet Military Aid Wanted by Cuba

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and Premier Fidel Castro opened talks in the Kremlin today aimed at further cementing relations between their two Communist countries.

High on the list of topics, observers believed, was stepped-up Soviet military and economic aid. They wondered how much higher than the reported $1,000,000 a day being spent now the Soviet Union was willing to go.

There also was speculation that Khrushchev would try to wipe out any bitterness remaining because of his decision to withdraw missiles from Cuba last October without consulting Castro.

Moscow newspapers were full of welcome for Castro.

"Moscow extends warm welcome to Fidel Castro," said Pravda. "Moscow embraces Fidel Castro as a friend," was the headline in Izvestia.

MAY LACK WARMTH

The press accounts made up for lack of warmth in Sunday's greeting.

Castro was given a tumultuous welcome by a record 40,000 Russians through a Red Square welcome, but the elaborate show failed to bring the usually jaded enthusiasm Westerners had expected.

The bearded Cuban leader proclaimed that, except for the Soviet Union, his revolutionary regime could not exist. He heaped praise on Soviet economic and military aid.

But Castro, wearing a fur hat against the chilly winds, was relatively restrained in manner. Khrushchev opened the proceedings from the reviewing stand atop the Lenin tomb and set the tone in a welcoming speech.

Castro, who towered over his host, busily read a Spanish translation while Khrushchev spoke.

K BACKS HIM

Khrushchev claimed that Soviet support for Cuba during last autumn's crisis had avoided a clash with the United States that could have touched off a world war. Saying that the So-

Father of Six To Be Charged With Murder

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP)—A 40-year-old rural storekeeper, the father of six children, has been charged with first-degree murder in the roadside slaying last Tuesday of Baltimore integration pilgrim William L. Moore.

Sheriff Dewey Colvard said Sunday the arrested man, Floyd L. Simpson, was booked on the murder charge which will be made formal today with the signing of a state warrant by the current judge and the prosecutor.

Moore, a 35-year-old postman, was shot to death near Attalla, Ala., late Tuesday. Two bullets hit him, one in the face and the other in the back of the head. He had said he was walking to Jackson, Miss., to give his views on integration to Governor Ross Barnett.

"We don't know if anyone else was involved," Colvard said.

Feelings were running high in the rural community of Colbran, about 30 miles to the northwest, where Simpson operated a grocery and service station. Residents, predominantly millworkers and farmers, showed strong hostility to strangers.

The slender, greying Simpson was described as "a good, hard-working man" by Rev. Russ Porter, who serves a Baptist church in the community.

Stage Is Set For Pearson's Visit to U. K.

OTTAWA (CP) — The stage was set effectively for Prime Minister Pearson's forthcoming visits to Prime Minister Macmillan and President Kennedy by U.S. Ambassador Christian Herter's flying round-trip visit to Ottawa, a diplomatic source reported.

Mr. Herter, President Kennedy's special envoy in trade negotiations, arrived Friday for talks with External Affairs Minister Paul Martin and paid a courtesy call on Mr. Pearson. He had all meetings Saturday morning with U.S. embassy officials before returning to Washington in mid-afternoon.

The source said that while no major decisions were announced and the public statements of Mr. Herter and Mr. Martin did not go beyond polite platitudes, the discussions were important in setting the background for the visits Mr. Pearson will make next week to London and the following week to Hyannis Port, Mass.

Trout Season Opens but Water On Cool Side for Ideal Fishing

TORONTO (CP) — Mild temperatures and calmer skies but cool water greeted anglers Saturday as the trout season officially opened in most parts of Ontario.

The fine weather continued through the weekend as thousands of Ontario fishermen tried for their first big catch of the season. Some had already made it, as the season had opened March 1 in 14 eastern counties.

Generally however, the water in the streams was on the cool side for ideal fishing. In the Beaver River in the Georgian Bay district it dipped to 25 degrees at one point, while in Brant County conservation officer Carl Liddle of Paris reported water temperatures in his district at 46 degrees.

All southern Ontario streams were clear, with the exception and running clear. Farther north and east they were high, still carrying the spring runoffs.

The greatest concentration of anglers was in the Georgian Bay district—near Thornbury on the Beaver, Meaford, Leith and Owen Sound; on the Nottawasaga River from Wasaga Beach.

Many fishermen didn't wait

Miners Urged Not to Sign For Check-Off

ROUYN, QQUE. (CP) — Real Caouette, deputy Social Credit leader, has urged miners not to sign cards authorizing company check-off of union dues.

In a television address carried Saturday night by station CKRN-TV, Mr. Caouette said organizers for the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) have been campaigning in his federal riding of Villeneuve in favor of the check-off.

40 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA DURING WEEKEND

Nineteen Died In Traffic Mishaps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Accidents killed 40 persons in Canada during the weekend, including eight who died when two light planes collided 500 feet over a Surrey, B.C. suburb.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to 12 midnight local times Sunday showed that 19 persons died in traffic accidents, six in fires and five in drownings. Two others, in addition to the plane crash victims, died in other types of accidents.

Manitoba, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick reported no accidental deaths.

Ontario led in road fatalities with 11 deaths. Four died on Quebec roads, two in Saskatchewan and one each in Newfoundland and Alberta.

A fire in Quebec province killed a family of five and a child died in a fire in Ontario.

Three youths were drowned when their 14-foot boat overturned on Aster Bay 30 miles northwest of Vancouver. Ontario and Alberta each had one drowning. Other types of accidents killed one person each in Alberta and Ontario.

The survey does not include known suicides or slayings, industrial accidents and natural deaths.

Special Squads To Be Given Extra Course

MONTREAL (CP) — Selected squads of police and provincial licensmen are to be given a special course in handling explosives. The plan was linked with recent activities of the terrorist organization, Le Front de Liberation Quebecois (Quebec Liberation Front).

The 60-hour course is to be given by experts of the Canadian Army. It will deal with handling and dismantling all types of explosives.

Police Director J. Adrien Robert said Saturday 10 men from his force—Alert Bay 300 miles northwest of Vancouver. Ontario and Alberta each had one drowning. Other types of accidents killed one person each in Alberta and Ontario.

Mid-Air Collision of Two Private Planes Took 8 Lives

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Two department of transport inspectors have started an inquiry into the mid-air collision of two private planes Saturday which took eight lives, five from a single family.

Investigators Cy Leyland and William McCubbin of Vancouver are trying to determine what caused the planes to collide in seemingly perfect flying conditions.

Since there were no survivors, the investigation will depend on information from witnesses and still unrecovered wreckage from the planes, both of which plunged into Skaha Lake three miles south of here in British Columbia's Okanagan region.

Dead are Richard Parmley of Penticton, 49, regional distributor for Royalite Oil Company, his wife Margaret, daughters Rebecca, 17, and Lorinda, 14, and son Richard, 15. Ernest Ralph Hanson, 19, a friend of Rebecca Parmley, and the two pilots, Ed Lewko of Edmonton and Earl Sibley, 26, a native of Dartmouth, N.S.

A sixth member of the Parmley family, Lorinda, 14, was not aboard the plane. She was reported in a state of shock and was in the care of relatives here.

Dr. T. G. Hood, the transport department's regional director for air services, said the planes were flying under visual flight rules and were not in radio contact with air traffic control. The

Pastors Rebel Against Ku-Klux-Klan-Type Society

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—South Africa's powerful Dutch Reformed Church is in the throes of a rebellion by young ministers against an all-white Ku Klux Klan-type secret society, the Broederbond (Band of Brothers.)

The church wields tremendous influence throughout the country, especially among the white Afrikaans-speaking population.

One of its regional synods turned down a proposal that the activities of the organization be investigated.

Many ministers are members of the Broederbond. So, appropriately, is Premier Hendrik Verwoerd, premier of racial segregation. Published statements on his membership have not been refuted by the premier.

The Broederbond is deeply involved in important spheres of South Africa's national life. It is common knowledge that top appointments are controlled by the Band and that it can make or break careers of those it doesn't approve. Its main target is the "enemies within" (the white Afrikaaner (mainly Afrikaans-speaking South Africans who support Verwoerd's apartheid policy).

White supremacy and the superiority in all things of the white Afrikaner head the list of the Broederbond's beliefs. It guards tightly the secret nature of its activities. It never issues a statement or a denial, no matter what charges are made against it. Police refer to it only in guarded whispers.

It has not been established that the organization is either government inspired or officially supported, but the government lets it go on without interference.

The society had its origin n the days before the Second World War when the Afrikaner felt himself downtrodden and powerless in the fate of the English section in the country. The society had its origin in political power for the Afrikaner, power which it swore would be used to cement unity among Afrikaners and keep the African population segregated from the whites.

HIROHITO IS 62

TOKYO (AP)—Emperor Hirohito celebrated his birthday today and thousands of Japanese flocked to the palace shouting "Banzai" (long life) as the emperor's birthday is a national holiday. He began the day by visiting a shrine inside the moated palace grounds to report the enshrinement to his ancestors, accompanied by his eldest son, Crown Prince Akihito.

Quebec Welfare State Gives Way to More Dynamic Form

QUEBEC (CP)—The welfare state was described during the week-end as a transitional procedure giving way in Quebec to a more dynamic form of government.

The new form was labelled "the lever state" by Roch Bolduc, young planning executive in Quebec's youth department.

He and political scientist Leon Dion of Laval University dissected the old and new in relation to the requirements of a modern civil service.

They spoke during the annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs. The theme was The Public Service and discussion centred on the Quebec government.

Professor Dion said the welfare state may be a transitional system to allow institutions and mentalities to adapt to the "enormous revolution of the last 20 years."

He said the welfare state—"a haphazard answer to the difficulties of 19th century liberalism"—is unable to solve the problems it created, mainly:

1. Its insatiable hunger for revenue it can't produce itself.

2. "Its protectionist and nationalist nature at a time when the principal questions before it are international in nature;

3. Its tendency to amass enormous government power while weakening the will of citizens to safeguard their liberties.

Twenty years of welfare state in Quebec, aided by the hangover of 19th century liberalism, had produced "a civil service

ITALIAN VOTERS TURN OUT IN RECORD NUMBER

Communists Run Strong Campaign

ROME (Reuters). — The first results in Italy's fourth post-war parliamentary election, a tough campaign duel between the Communists and Christian Democrats, were scheduled to begin pouring in today.

The central issue in the election has been Italian participation in a NATO nuclear force, which Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti has charged runs counter to Pope John's recent peace encyclical.

Heavy voting began Sunday and was continuing throughout the country today.

Christian Democrat Premier Aminiore Fanfani had appealed for a big vote for his coalition of Christian Democrats, Social Democrats and Republicans and his policy of "aperture a sinistra"—the opening to the left.

POLLS REOPEN

Polling stations were open for 15 hours Sunday, and were reopened at 7 a.m. (2 a.m. EDT) today for another seven hours. Polls will remain open again for a day night or Wednesday morning.

More than 80 per cent of the eligible voters—27,696,893 out of 34,000,000—had voted when polls closed Sunday night, counted under guards Sunday night.

The booths will shut today at 2 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT) and the bars will go back in business—they have been forbidden to sell alcoholic drinks since the voting began.

Voters were choosing 630 members for the Chamber of Deputies and 315 senators for the next five years. The first ste results were to be announced first.

Several hundred thousand Italian migrant workers have returned home to vote. Most came from European countries, but some from as far away as Canada, Australia, the United States and Southern Rhodesia. Italy has no system of absentee mail ballots for citizens living abroad.

Pearson Will Be Sympathetic Says Times

LONDON (Reuters)—The Financial Times in an editorial today predicts Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson will be sympathetic to British views than his predecessor, John Diefenbaker.

The newspaper says:

"On most if not all the topics likely to be raised during his discussions with Macmillan Mr. Lester Pearson will probably show himself a good deal more sympathetic to the United Kingdom viewpoint than his predecessor was.

"The reason was, of course, always more favorably disposed to the British application to join the Common Market than Mr. Diefenbaker.

"Again, and courageously, he chose some time ago to swing his Liberal party behind the acceptance of nuclear warheads for Canada's military forces.

"Thus in his discussions with Mr. Macmillan both about the proposed multilateral nuclear deterrent force and other international trading politics . . . there should be a reasonable degree of understanding between the two prime ministers . . .

"There is however no point in concealing the fact that when — or perhaps if — the two prime ministers descend from the general to the particular in their discussion of international trading questions differences in outlook are likely to emerge."

ROB CELLIST

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (A) Cellist Pablo Casals has reported the theft of $8,000 in jewelry from his home here. The famed musician said his wife's wedding ring and a watch given to him by former Mexican president Miguel Aleman were among the missing items.

Dominicans, Haitians Facing Armed Clash

Fact-Finding Team Being Sent by OAS

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—An armed clash between the two neighbors of the Caribbean island of Hispaniola threatened today. The Dominican Republic accused Haiti of invading its embassy, and Haiti broke diplomatic relations between the two countries.

President Juan Bosch gave Haitian dictator Francois Duvalier 24 hours to withdraw troops surrounding the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince. The embassy is sheltering 22 foes of Duvalier.

"Unless the outrages against the Dominican Republic in Haiti end within 24 hours, we will put an end to them by all means within our power," Bosch said.

The Dominican armed forces secretary, Maj.-Gen. Victor Elvis Vinas Roman, announced that all soldiers' leaves have been cancelled. But he said there was no military movement toward the Haitian border.

The Organization of American States ordered a five-nation fact-finding team to fly to both countries to investigate. It will leave next door to Cuba. The OAS appealed to both governments to keep the peace.

OPPOSITION RISES

"The dispute with the Dominicans flared as a result of Duvalier's attempt to crush rising opposition to his regime.

Tension began mounting a week ago when leaflets warned Duvalier that an attempt would be made to overthrow him May 15—the constitutional date for the end of his first term as president.

Suspicious that opposition to him centered in the regular army Duvalier last week fired 64 officers, the bulk of the army's leadership. The dictator has built up a personal army and presidential guard that outnumber the army and are better armed.

On Friday, occupants of a speeding car opened fire on Duvalier's two children, Jan Claude, 12, and Simone, 14, as they were being driven home from school. Three of the children's guards were slain but the children were not hurt.

The attack triggered weekend violence in which 11 persons were reported killed and at

U.S. Master Sergeant Killed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — United States army master sergeant and at least 40 South Vietnamese troops were killed Saturday in an attack by a strong Communist guerrilla force in Kontum province, it was announced today.

An American military spokesman said an estimated two battalions of well-equipped Viet Cong Communist troops swooped down on a government battalion and an artillery platoon early Saturday.

In addition to the 40 dead the government lost an unknown number of missing and 26 wounded.

Deputy Premier Hopeful Canada May Help Train Malayan Forces

OTTAWA (CP)—Malay's deputy prime minister said today he would like to examine the possibilities of Canada providing training facilities for armed forces and of having Canadian officers help train Malayan forces.

Tun Abdul Razak bin Hussain called on Prime Minister Pearson for a 25-minute discussion described by the visitor as involving "matters of general interest between our countries."

Tun Razak, who also is defence minister and minister of national development, said his country has been getting considerable assistance from Canada in the war against Communist guerrillas under the Colombo Plan aid. Canada had been "most generous." He mentioned the prime minister's Canadian assistance on a survey for an east-west highway in Malaya.

Tun Razak and talks later today with Defence Minister Hellyer and other cabinet ministers to examine the possibilities of Canada helping with training facilities and of having officers from Canada help us."

During his visit with Mr. Pearson, Tun Razak presented the prime minister with a Malayan kris—the country's national sword—and two sets of table runners made of Malayan cloth. He then visited External Affairs Minister Paul Martin who was presented with a gold-cased walking stick and a desk runner.

Laotian Lull In Fourth Day During Talks

VIENTIANE (AP)—The lull in the Laotian fighting went into the fourth day today with neutralists and pro-Communists apparently biding their time during diplomatic negotiations.

The Communist - controlled battalion of Kong Le left the territory it seized from the neutralists on the strategic Plaine des Jarres but made no new advances.

Leaders of the two factions were scheduled to meet again Tuesday to renew peace talks which have so far been unsuccessful. Pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong has demanded that he be broadcast to include such topics as neutralization of Vientiane and not be limited to the Plaine des Jarres crisis.

Synopsis: Much colder weather has moved into Northern Ontario, while cloudy skies and rain have spread into the Lake Superior region. A midwestern United States disturbance is on the move towards Ontario and will bring rain. Then cooler weather, during the next few days.

Shrubs and Flower Beds Suffering, Owners Complain Too Many Dogs at Large

A lot of Belleville dog owners are going to be sorry!

And if they haven't got up to $18 to bail their pet out of the pound and to square themselves with the law, they are going to lose their pets.

The reason is that dog days have again arrived, the shrubs and flower beds are suffering and the home owners are complaining.

City dog catcher Charles Thorn says that as result of the complaints he has stepped up his dog catching campaign and as of today there are a total of 15 dogs in the pound.

"I am picking up dogs on the street right and left," said Mr. Thorn.

And to assist the dog catcher in his control problem city hall has co-operated by making the penalties much stiffer for allowing dogs to run at large.

For instance on conviction of allowing a dog to run at large it is this year costing dog owners $6 fine. And if the dog doesn't happen to be wearing a 1963 tag, the ante is raised by another $6.

Then there is a $2 pound fee and the owner has to buy his pet a tag, which will cost another $3 or $4, depending on the sex, making a possible total of $18.

So, dog owners be forewarned. Either keep that dog on a leash or be prepared to pay the penalty."

Crying Need For Books Librarians Told

Librarians, representatives of Library Boards, Women's Institute, principals and teachers assembled at the Corby Public Library last Thursday evening, for the Hastings County Library Advisory Committee meeting, presided over by Chairman, Mrs. Dave McDonald.

The business report was read by the secretary, Mr. K. M. Bird.

Mrs. Kelly, president of East Hastings District Women's Institute reported that she addressed eleven branches of the Women's Institute highlighting the work of the Library Advisory Committee. She felt that on the whole the members are interested in Libraries.

It was voiced that there is a crying need for books of all descriptions and that the grant of $1 per pupil is negligible. In some cases school boards do not take advantage of Grants.

Miss Delaney, Chief Librarian of the Corby Public Library showed two excellent films on "Bookmobile" prepared in Nova Scotia, and North Central Saskatchewan.

Skier Buried Alive for Four Hours

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—A young skier lived after being buried alive for four hours Sunday under an avalanche of snow which slithered down Temple Mountain in the Rocky Mountain resort town.

Jerry Marr of Calgary, in his 20s, was entombed after tons of snow slipped 200 feet down the side of the mountain, a popular skiing area here.

"I was conscious all the time," he said later. "I said quite a few prayers. It was pretty cold in there and I thought I was going to freeze to death."

He suffered only a few minor bruises.

About 60 citizens and national parks officials conducted a frantic search and dig after hearing a militia cry and saw the tip of Marr's ski pole waving through the white surface.

Another young skier, Joanne Mackay of Banff, who was skiing on the slope with Marr, said she first noticed a small bush moving in front of her.

She looked up the mountain and screamed in terror when she saw a huge snow mass moving in her direction.

At that moment, Miss Gerke said, Marr jumped, the remembered gins, 2nd front crawl, 2nd back stroke, 2nd breast, 2nd diving; Dave Hollies, 3rd back stroke, their backs with their skis high in the air.

She said she was only a few yards behind the leading edge of plummeting snow, which finally caught up with her. How ever, she was able to dig herself out.

Magazine Being Distributed in Original Form

TORONTO — (CP) — A magazine withheld from publication a year ago when a printer said it was obscene, now is being distributed at the University of Toronto in its original form.

The editors said Sunday the literary magazine, official publication of the Students' Administrative Council, contains all the material Oshawa printer Steward Alger turned out of his shop last year, saying he "didn't want to get tangled up in that sort of thing."

The publication, called Jargon, contains 56 pages of prose and poetry written by University of Toronto students, many of whom now have graduated.

Alvin Shapiro, then SAC publications commissioner, read the manuscript, said it was "weird" but decided to publish it because it was "of literary merit."

Some 1,000 copies of the magazine were circulated on the campus Saturday. Another 1,000 were to be circulated early this week.

The magazine, distributed free, is financed by student funds.

NORMAL UP NORTH — Temperatures will be below normal over most of Quebec and Ontario from mid-April to mid-May, according to the United States weather bureau's 30-day forecast. But the forecast, based on long-range predictions and subject to error, calls for above normal mercury readings over parts of the Canadian North.

Precipitation will be heavier than usual over southern British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario. Table shows precipitation in inches or rain with one inch of rain equalling 10 inches of snow.

Sub's Loss Poses Problem For Nuclear Age Planners

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Loss of the U.S. atomic submarine Thresher with 129 men aboard during a deep Atlantic dive points up the nagging problems facing military planners in the nuclear age—how to be sure that what the scientist creates will perform as planned on the battlefield.

Construction of the $45,000,000 Thresher and similar atomic submarines was based on the most rigid specifications American scientists could devise. The crews were carefully picked and specially trained under the supervision of Vice-Admiral Hyman Rickover, father of the U.S. atomic submarine.

And yet the Thresher failed in what is reported as a daring test far below the publicized 1,000-foot depth at which the submarine was reported to have been operating. The scientists had anticipated she would make her plunge in safety. Something went wrong.

FRONT-LINE WEAPONS

Now the U.S. is basing its front-line strategic defence on the Polaris atomic submarine armed with nuclear-tipped ballistic missiles, and on land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's confidence in these intricate weapons will perform as planned in time of emergency. But some congressmen are not sure. Of all the hundreds of nuclear ballistic missiles in place, only one, a Polaris, has been subjected to full firing from operational sites and with operational crews.

This was brought out in closed - door testimony before the congressional defence appropriations subcommittee when McNamara agreed with congressman Gerald Ford, Mich., Rep., a Republican, that after 1967 the U.S. intends to rely very substantially on ballistic missiles and very little on manned aircraft to reach prime Soviet targets.

How many intercontinental ballistic missiles had the U.S. fired from nuclear warheads and operational crews from operational sites, Ford asked during that public hearing.

"To the best of my knowledge only one," McNamara replied.

"How many land-based ballistic missiles, with operational crews, from operational sites, with nuclear warheads, have we fired?"

None."

FAILED UNDER FIRE

Turning to Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, Ford asked whether it is true that during the Second World War rifles and weapons came out of the laboratory, checked and double-checked, only to have them discovered that what worked for the scientist in the laboratory did not always work for the soldier on the battlefield.

Taylor said that is generally correct," Taylor replied.

McNamara told the subcommittee he had no plans to build an intercontinental ballistic missile with a nuclear warhead as a test in the coming year, but missile carriers would be tested and various components of the nose cone would be tested, to "achieve high confidence in their reliable functioning."

TESTING PROBLEM

McNamara added he did not want to minimize the necessity for expanded testing. The determination of reliability required hundreds of tests. Gen. Taylor concurred but, in dealing with nuclear operations, observed: "Unhappily, it cannot be like testing a 75-millimetre gun, as we artillerymen are used to do. It is quite a different problem."

The chief of Taylor's statement appeared clear: A new artillery piece can be fired many times before it is put to use; firing of the huge ballistic monsters with nuclear warheads involves a greater risk to man. To Taylor the great satisfaction is that the huge U.S. strategic bomber force still is available.

Besides, its great justification is as a back-up for missiles until we know more about their reliability," he said.

May Be Weeds Before Loot Is Determined

MONTREAL (CP) — Detectives said today it may take several weeks to determine the amount stolen from safety deposit boxes in a rare Sunday bank robbery.

The job of questioning the holders of the 70 odd safety deposit boxes that were looted by two men began immediately.

John Best, 33, manager of the branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, was working in his office when two well-dressed men rapped on the glass door about 10:30 a.m.

Police said that when the manager opened the door, the men rushed him, tied him in a chair, blindfolded him and spent two hours looting the deposit boxes. One of the men was armed.

Chief Det. Insp. William Fitzpatrick said Mr. Best appearently was in the habit of going to his office to work on weekends.

He said he may have been watched for some time by the bank robbers who took advantage of the manager's habit.

But Fitzpatrick was unable to make clear whether the bank itself had been opened earlier by Mr. Best, or whether the bandits forced him to open it.

The bank manager freed himself soon after the men left.

It was the third looting of deposit boxes in Montreal banks in the last six years. In January, 1961, $1,000,000 was stolen from a Bank of Montreal branch and in July, 1961, some $328,000 was taken from a bank of Nova Scotia branch.

Sullivan Show Sprinkled With Canadian Talent

TORONTO (CP) — Ed Sullivan's first live television variety show from Canada was speckled with Canadian talent Sunday night.

A capacity audience in the O'Keefe Centre saw the performing Arts craned their necks as the hour-long show opened to a tee pee and drum band of the 46th Highlanders march to the stage from the back of the auditorium.

Then Sullivan introduced six members of the Stanley Cup Championship Leaf hockey team. They bowed from the audience.

In the performer department, Sullivan-show veterans Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, both of Toronto, did a satire on modern jazz—Canadian style—and the Montreal comedy team of Jean Paulette and Jerome LeMay wound up the show.

When Sullivan arrived for rehearsals Thursday he said he was surprised that no Canadian agents had offered him Canadian talent for the show. Sunday night he said he had found some good.

Much of the material was devoted to the Canadian viewers.

IN MEMORIAM

STAPLEY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Ethel Stapley, who passed away April 28, 1956.

A precious memory to cherish,
The best
That God could give;
Who knows our secrets, our sorrows, too,
Who taught us to love, and taught us to live.

Dear mother in heaven, God bless you always,
Your life was unselfish, for others you lived.
Not for what you received, but for what you gave.
Your loving thought, just a silent prayer,
A beautiful memory we cherish, no dear.
Dear God take a message, to our mother above,
Tell her how much we miss her,
and give her all our love.
—Lovingly remembered by the family.

The newest wrinkle in "fast-growing" grass seed. Made up of pre-soaked seed. Any good lawn seed may be used. Just at home to hasten germination before planting. Use a mixture of half and half sand and peat. Very little seed simply because of the delivery. Just the right place if the seed is left unplanted and out of cold-storage for an extra month or two.
BUY VERDANT or VERDANT-MERION mixtures are ideal for Belleville soils. Use 1 lb. per 100 sq. ft. for best fall the normal time.

HERE'S HOW!
Once the required amount of lawn seed has been purchased, add the compost-mix for rye-grass in the top. Soak in a bucket or lawn laundry tub overnight (4 to 12 hours), then rinse and drain. Repeat this until the water runs clear. The next morning the seed will be ready to sow in a thin layer in the sun on a piece of burlap. Keep moist and in a few days the seed will have pre-soaked or rapid-germ.
Once reasonably dry the seed will be ready to sow. Having been softened and washed free of inhibitors, the seed germinates in less than half the normal time. Sow at your next lawn-mowing project.

In the annals of the Belleville Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America this weekend just past will go down as one of historical significance to be talked about everytime the local Barbershoppers get together for a long time to come. For the last three days the local chapter played host to hundreds of their singing brothers from various chapters from all over the province. This gala affair was known as the Quinte Convention of the Ontario District with this city being the focal point for representatives from chapters that converged here from all of Southern and Eastern Ontario along with Western parts of the province being in attendance also. A conservative estimate would put the number of visiting Barbershoppers and their wives at around five to six hundred persons.

Plans for the implementation of the many activities that took place here in the city were made for many months in order that this would be an all out convention of outstanding stature from beginning to end.

Following the preludial dance and buffet in the Quinte Hotel on Friday evening at which time Pauline McGregor was featured singing for the convention the serious business of the District competition got under way Saturday morning in the Collegiate auditorium before a large and appreciative audience and a panel of nine judges and two timers. Each quartet was allowed to sing six minutes actual singing time with their presentations being evaluated by the panel of judges on the basis of (1) balance and blend; (2) arrangement; (3) voice quality; (4) harmony accuracy and (5) stage presence. The judging panel was made up of experts in their individual fields emanating from various centres in New York, Connecticut, Ohio and New Jersey in the U.S. and Toronto, London and Burlington in Ontario.

CHAPTERS WELCOMED

A few words of welcome were tendered all present by General Chairman Ray Williams, after which he introduced the master of harmony for the morning session, Ray Hicks of the North York Chapter. The contesting quartets during this nearly three hour portion were The Top Tones (Kingston), The Classic City Four (Stratford), The Thompson Brothers (Kitchener-Waterloo), The Chordsmen (Ottawa), The Canadian Diplomats (Ottawa), Quinte Cavaliers (Belleville), The Rhythm Counts (Toronto), The Canadian Larks (Oakville and Burlington), The Canadian Dominoes (Etobicoke), The Canadian Capitalaires (Ottawa), The Hometowners (Scarboro), The Lads of London (London), The Nightshawks (London) and the Twilighters (Kingston). Scheduled quartets that failed to appear for various reasons were: The Minor Chords (Orillia), The Ev-Tones (Kingston) and The Four-in-Accord (Oshawa).

Post entry quartets were the Classic City Four and the Top Tones. After the appearance of the above named quartet song master George Shields of the East York Barbershoppers lead the audience in a sing-song of old time favorites, while the judges added up their tally sheets to arrive at the best seven entries of the fourteen groups who competed. The results then announced gave the seven top honors to (in alphabetical order only), Canadian Larks, Hometowners, Lads of London, Night Hawks, Quinte Cavaliers, Rhythm Counts and Thompson Brothers. This brought the morning session to a close.

Part two of the competitions began at 2.30 p.m. and brought into the limelight the following six choruses, which again are subject to the same rules and regulations as the quartets earlier adhered to: (1) York North Chorus (Roy Keyes, director); (2) Etobicoke Chorus (Harry Mays), (3) Capital City Barbershoppers (Art Trott), Ottawa, (4) Limestone City Chorus (Bill Wightman) Kingston, (5) Eurcula Harmonizers (Ray Atkinson) Barrie, and (6)

THE NIGHTHAWKS, one of the quartets chosen Saturday night in Belleville to represent Ontario at the International Barbershop Quartet Contest of the Sweet Adelines at Toronto in July, are members of the London chapter of the society. Left to right in the picture are John Sutton, Greg Blackwell, Jim Turner and Bert Ellis.

Queen City Harmonizers (All of Toronto). Four of the choruses arranged around 25 members, exceptions being the York North Chorus of 12 voices and the Etobicoke Chorus of 36 singers. As in the quartet competition each contesting organization sang two selections only.

HELD SING SONG

While the judges again computed their scores a short audience sing-along was directed by song master Bob Johnson, director of the musical activities of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. Headquarters. A humorous note was injected into the sing-along by vocalizing by the winners of the Comedy-Quartet Contest, this quartet for hilarious harmonizing going to The Capitalaires of the Ottawa Chapter, who demonstrated their prowess in this sonic nonsense to the added enjoyment of the hearers and in the end, the tuneers.

Decisions by the judging panel gave the Etobicoke Chorus first place with the Humania Harmonizers of Barrie next and The Capital City Barbershoppers of Ottawa running third. Three coveted awards were presented to a limited number of chapters for honors and achievements accrued during the past year, three being the Chapman Memorial Trophy, the London Chapter Trophy and the East York Chapter Trophy, these presentations bringing the afternoon session to an end.

The International Preliminary Quartet Competition in its final phase began at 8.15 on Saturday evening before a packed house that necessitated some seating being placed in the standing capacity. Again, Ray Williams, general chairman of the convention, welcomed all on behalf of the local Chapter. Mr. Williams then introduced Mayor Alan Haig, who extended his best wishes and greetings all the visitors, wishing them on behalf of the City of Belleville, a most pleasant stay here and a very successful convention for the Barbershoppers.

Mr. Williams then introduced Mr. Bob Johnson, the master of ceremonies for the program to follow. A test quartet in the persons of the Sportsman from the Oshawa Chapter were then brought on to test the acoustics of the auditorium, following which Mr. Johnson introduced the judging panel to all present and instructed the listeners to all front to the basic rules and regulations of the competition about to commence. The seven quartets announced earlier in the day as competing finalists then gave with their individual and collective best, evincing waves of applause after each number vocalized. Again, and for the last time the nonet of adjudicators retired for the task of choosing the two winning quartets to represent the Ontario District in the International Competition coming up this July in Toronto. Roy Keys of the North York Chapter then whipped the audience into vocal response as a short community sing song followed the intermission. Then were heard the first finalists in this sonic nonsense to the added enjoyment of the hearers and in the end, the tuneers.

It is to the credit of the local chapter that they, through their many hours of work and sweat, can matte planning can rest on their laurels for a job well done by one and all. The Quinte Convention is over but the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. continues on, striving to ever higher goals of fine singing interspersed with good fellowship and the embracing of the brotherhood of mankind through the second great common denominator next to religion — music.

Local Man Representative Revolver Assoc.

A Belleville man Dave Duffus was elected area representative to the Ontario Revolver Association in Toronto Saturday.

He now represents Police District 9 in the association, the provincial organization of hand - gun groups through Ontario.

Conditions Bad In Korea Says Director

MONTREAL (CP) — Calrine R. M. Wilson of Ottawa has been re-elected national president of the Canadian Save the Children's Fund.

More than 60 out-of-town delegates and several from the Montreal area attended the two day annual meeting which ended Saturday.

First Vice - President Scott Montgomery of Toronto said the CSCF spent $633,800 on welfare projects in several underdeveloped countries in the last year. Cash received from donations was $750,000.

Kenric Marshall of Toronto, the organization's national director, said that despite superficial signs of progress in Korea, conditions in that country were "as bad as in 1953 and 1954."

More efforts, he said, should be spent on rehabilitating entire families in Korea so that they could eventually become independent of any kind of charity."

He recently travelled to Korea "study organization" there.

Miss L. Craft of Toronto reported that 2,766 Canadian sponsorships were helping support 3,423 children in several countries under the CSCF sponsor-a-child plan.

Sponsorships were terminated in Algeria because of the "chaotic political situation" there but it was hoped they would be resumed. This year the organization hopes to begin a sponsorship program in Basutoland, Africa.

The CSCF also announced plans to distribute 400 layettes for Eskimo babies in Canada through the department of northern affairs. In co-operation with the Indian and Eskimo Association, clothing was sent to a number of needy Indian families.

Mrs. W. Forman of the special projects department said emergency shipments of 180,000 pounds of milk were sent to Grenada, Morocco, Italy, Greece, Korea, Hong Kong, The Barbados and Algeria.

Scott Montgomery was re-elected first vice-president for the second year, and A. A. Slaght of Toronto will continue to serve as honorary secretary-treasurer.

GAVE LOTS OF SAMPLES

TORONTO (CP)—Abdut 800,000 samples of Ontario food products were distributed at Britain's Ideal Home Show in London last month, Agriculture Minister William A. Stewart said Saturday. The Ontario exhibit was the largest in the food section of the show, during which 19,000 pounds of Ontario cheese, five tons of Ontario honey, 60 tons of pickles and 40 tons of canned fruits, vegetables, soups and juices were sold.

Judge Anderson Named President For Second Term

Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson of this city, has been named to his second term as president of the County and District Judges' Association of Ontario.

Judge Anderson received the honor at the annual convention of the association held in the Royal York Hotel last Thursday.

Seventy-eight county and district judges comprise the membership of the association.

Mother of Two Charged With Capital Murder

BRANTFORD (CP) — Shirley Patricia Sirvinskas, 20, of Brantford, the mother of two has been charged with capital murder in connection with the death of her husband.

Roman Sirvinskas, 23, was shot to death through the left temple while sleeping in his bed Saturday. Police are holding a .22 calibre sawed-off rifle.

Police said that a short time before the body was discovered Mrs. Sirvinskas came to the police station with her two children, Robert, 2, and Sheryl, 8 months.

Pearsons Will Be Guests of Her Majesty

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Pearson and his wife will be the guests of Queen Elizabeth at Windsor castle Friday, it was announced today.

The Canadian leader and his wife will dine with the Queen and Prince Philip, and will stay overnight at Windsor Castle.

Pearson, who will be accompanied by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, flies to London Wednesday for talks with Prime Minister Macmillan.

Pearson, who leaves from Toronto at midnight Tuesday for London and talks with Macmillan, will hold a press conference at London Airport on arrival and pay a courtesy call on Macmillan Wednesday.

After a lunch Thursday the two prime ministers will hold discussions at Admiralty House. Later they will attend a reception to be given by Canadian High Commissioner George Drew.

Mr. Pearson will call on Macmillan again Friday and together they will attend a luncheon at the Drew residence. A press conference with Pearson is scheduled for Canada House Friday.

The Pearsons go to Windsor Castle for dinner Friday evening, remaining until Saturday morning.

On Saturday the Pearsons will lunch with Lord Home, British foreign secretary, and Lady Home at Dornsywood near Chesham.

Defence Minister Paul Hellyer will accompany the prime minister to London, going on to Europe to visit Canadian military bases.

Strike Settled By Company Hiring Workers

A strike of four sheet metal workers which tied up construction of Quinte Secondary School's $1,500,000 extension in Belleville was settled last night.

The solution to what ostensibly appeared a thorny problem was, in the final analysis, a simple one.

The strikers, who brought out close to 70 other tradesmen, were originally employed by the Acme Heating and Plumbing Belleville sub-contractors on the job. The sheet metal workers were seeking a one-year agreement on a $2.90 hourly rate with Acme, hired by the general contractors on the project, Sirotek Construction of Ottawa.

Sirotek now will directly hire the strikers, members of Local 269 International Sheet Metal Workers' Union, at the disputed rate. Acme will continue to fulfill the other terms of its subcontract on the job.

The solution arrived at between Sirotek and Union officials gave the incident an apparently happy ending.

SPACE IS NEEDED

"We are glad that the dispute was short-lived, because we realize the difficulties that in the school is badly needed," a joint company-union statement said this morning.

"The contractor agreed to sign an agreement with the union similar to others affecting in the area, and the union this morning removed all picket lines that were affecting the progress of the construction," it added.

The strike started Wednesday of last week after talks between Acme and the union over the agreement broke off.

Acme president, Vince Trudeau said at that time his company could not afford to sign the agreement, giving a blanket raise to commercial and industrial projects, as it would seriously affect their competitiveness.

Man and Woman Found Dead In Parked Car

BANCROFT (Special) — A man and woman found asphyxiated in a parked car on a side-road five miles northeast of here Sunday night.

Dead are Rita Dombroski, 22, of Peterborough and 34-year-old Norman Hunter, R.R. 2 Bancroft. They were found in the automobile by a passing motorist on the Bird's Creek Road, about 6 p.m. Provincial police said the deaths occurred sometime during the night.

Miss Dombroski had been visiting relatives in Bancroft during the weekend.

Ghost of the Arrow

Any members of Prime Minister Lester Pearson's new government who may have heaved a sigh of relief at the prospect of a quick solution of the Bomarc problem had better start practising holding their breath again. Even if Hon. Paul Hellyer, Minister of Defence, is able to reach the speedy Bomarc agreement with the U.S. which he anticipates, there is a real defence headache in the offing.

Air Vice-Marshal M. M. Hendrick of the RCAF says that enemy aircraft can fire air-to-surface missiles from well outside the range of Canadian surveillance and interception capability. This problem, he adds, requires immediate action.

We are not presuming to doubt the accuracy of the Air Vice-Marshal's statement, but we predict that there will be some searching questions posed regarding his claim. The British have just discarded their plans for use of the air-to-surface Skybolt on their V-bombers and switched to Polaris missiles fired from submarines as the basis for their independent nuclear deterrent. They made the switch because the U.S. is abandoning the Skybolt as too unreliable in its present stage of development and too costly to perfect. Yet a weapon of the same type is said to be a great threat to us. Does this mean that the Russians are ahead of the U.S. in the field of air-to-surface missiles?

If critics receive a satisfactory answer to that question, the next point to be settled is how much we should spend on new manned interceptors, which appear to be the answer which NORAD proposes to use against the threat. There is no doubt where this money will be spent—in the U.S. After her unfortunate experience with the Avro Arrow, Canada is not likely to venture again into the expensive field of developing new aircraft. As a matter of fact, perhaps she could not do so even if she wanted to. The former Avro plant at Malton was sold to de Havilland. It is ironic that, on the same day on which Air Vice-Marshal Hendrick intimated that the RCAF needs a new interceptor, there should be an air of celebration at the old Avro plant. De Havilland has just obtained a share of a $65,000,000 contract held by Douglas Aircraft of California to build medium-range DC-9 jet aircraft. So the old Avro plant will be busy. But trust is beside the main point—the research team which developed the Arrow is long since scattered to airplane and rocket plants throughout the continent.

Who's King of the Castle?

The Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation has shelved discussion on the problem of who should reign when money shortages demand staff cuts in schools. One faction says the senior teachers should stay, the other faction maintains that the more competent teachers should retain their jobs.

The problem is one of concern to all occupations. Men who hold their positions on the basis of seniority, and seniority alone, consider it the true index of a man's worth. They appear to assume their jobs exist not because the work must be done, but because they should be allowed to continue in the same old groove. They have other arguments in their favor — that the older man will suffer more from changing jobs, that he will have more trouble getting another job, and so on. Such arguments have their appeal; but the appeal is not valid.

This is no suggestion that the senior man should be discarded by society or by an individual employer, because of his seniority. It is not even a suggestion that incompetent senior men be discarded if there is any function which they can perform with reasonable efficiency. But it is a suggestion that if an older man is retained on seniority alone, with no regard to ability, it should be in a function in which he cannot influence those who strive for excellence.

It has been said that the best, perhaps the only, way to attain and maintain high standards is to eliminate the causes of the low standards. If the gross product of society can be increased by exceptions to observance of seniority as a principle of management, nobody need suffer from the move.

English working men hoping for a 40-hour week in the near future were told recently by a government commission that the country just couldn't afford it. It shouldn't be long though, before the workmen are demanding the same hours—on credit.

The man who tries to work for the good, believing in its eventual victory, while he may suffer setback and even disaster, will never know defeat. The only deadly sin I know is cynicism. —Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War in President Roosevelt's administration.

Grammar Elusive Subject

By Jack Hatton in The Winnipeg Tribune

A group of students in a high school were talking over their school work the other day when a roadblock suddenly loomed in their way.

The question: should they use "was" or "were" in a sentence given them for homework?

One boy, who confessed he was "playing it by ear," thought he would use "were." Why? "It's got something to do with the subjunctive," he explained.

A growing number of teachers across Canada admit that no one has yet solved the behind - the-scenes controversy which divides English teachers. How much grammar should a student be taught?

Although Canada has climbed on few of the educational bandwagons that have rolled through the classroom, some teachers believe we've been influenced by what some call "descriptive grammar."

This school of thought, which is now facing growing opposition, believes that rules of grammar are being outdated by the habits of everyday speech.

Who worries about whether he or she is using "shall" or "will" in the right place? A great many people don't see the difference can only scratch their heads and reply that one seems just as good.

Or what about the use of "I" and "me"? Teachers studying the use of these words claim that two schools of rebels are doing battle over them.

In the first place, there is the situation in which there is proper use of "I" can raise and brows in the coffee shop. ("Who's there?" "It is I.")

The second problem is just as common, some teachers believe. They're referring to the person who answers "I" because it sounds more high class. ("John gave the record to Jane and I.")

Few people recommend a return to the old days when grammar sometimes received more time in the schoolday than mathematics and was often taught in roughly the same formal way.

But committees of teachers in Canada are studying the problem to find the happiest compromise. In Ontario, where their search even more intensive, existing is that parallel studies are going on in the U.S.

A Washington Post reporter recently looked at the place of grammar in the American classroom and found that in many areas systematic drill had been dropped in favor of explaining grammar "when they need it."

Formal grammar is coming back into favor, the Post reporter found, but not in the way that some adults remember. Experts now claim that two people disagreeing over grammar may both be right.

The American College Entrance Examination Board said in 1960: "Just as there can be different kinds of maps of the same terrain, so there can be different systematic descriptions of the structure of a language. In this sense there can be and are — different grammars of English."

This sounds like heresy, of course, to the traditional English teacher. But his opponents claim that the rules have been lagging. It's because it was taught too long as a dry and dusty drill, they contend.

Do teachers worry about the controversy in their own ranks? Not much. Here's how one veteran reacted the other day in discussing it:

"The simple fact that a controversy exists is the most exciting thing I've had in years. It proves one thing: That people are still interested in language."

Diving Can be Safe

By Abraham Oseroff in The Christian Science Monitor

Skin and scuba diving can be as safe as any sport, in the view of safety officials, divers, and distributors of diving equipment—if good instruction is received, rules are obeyed, and reliable equipment is used.

But, they warn, if these requirements are not met, the sport can be quite dangerous. The drowning of one young scuba diver in the Charles River, off Billerica, Mass., at Rockport, Mass., recently gives emphasis to the appeals for caution in this sport.

In fact, scuba-diving fatalities in Massachusetts since 1953 number 16, according to the Underwater Society of America.

"Safety in skin diving is a matter of physical conditioning and of knowledge of the environment can do and what it does to the body," says Frank Lincoln, assistant director of water safety and skin-diving specialist with the Greater Boston Red Cross says, "Training is essential."

Another authority, Robert C. Guerette, treasurer and general manager of the New England Divers Association, a large skin-diving equipment supply company, comments: "I've never seen anyone die who had a good course and followed the instructions."

• • •

Cardinal rules, according to "The Science of Skin and Scuba Diving," a basic book on the subject published by the Association Press, New York, include:

Know the area, especially the tides, and bottom and depth of the water.

Never dive alone.

Check all equipment before going out.

Most experts agree that a less-experienced diver should always stay in front and in view of a more experienced one. Even here, however, they warn divers should not try to handle strong currents or difficulties under water.

And one of the experts is that a first ocean dive should be in shallow water.

• • •

A point Mr. Guerette stressed as very pertinent is a discussion of skin-diving safety is that some equipment being sold at discount prices is unsafe.

Air compressors may "breathe" all right on a dealer's counter and be no good at all at a depth of 50 feet, Mr. Guerette says.

State and federal law should set minimum standards for such equipment as breathing apparatus, he feels.

"This should come under the Public Safety Department," he says. "I'd be glad to donate my time and experience on any help the state would want."

Also, the novice should be sure that skin-diving training he gets is qualified, he says. It also has been suggested that divers be required to pass a test and be licensed.

• • •

Some divers leave a rubber inner tube on the surface where they dive. Then a diver's flag on it, red with a diagonal white stripe, the tube marks the spot, warns boats to stay away, and acts as a support should the diver want surface and rest a while.

Scuba diving (scuba stands for self-contained underwater breathing apparatus) may be considered safer than swimming, Mr. Guerette says, because "you always have an air supply with you."

The equipment is easy to use, and that is one of the hazards of it, unless one has a healthy respect for water, Mr. Lincoln of the Red Cross says. He told of a man who doesn't know how to swim, but who still is a scuba enthusiast.

Must Be Meat In Meat Pies

Montreal Star

Britain's Food Standards Committee had spent seven reflective years before it made a decision (rather more than par for the course) under recent Canadian practice. Perhaps, however, the decision was so deeply in the heart of British life that it was worth waiting for.

Britons have an almost voracious appetite for meat wrapped in pastry, in all forms from the humble sausage roll to the lordly Melton Mowbray pie. In particular they consume by the millions something known simply as a "meat pie." It weighs perhaps four ounces, can be eaten hot after the fashion of a sandwich or a hot dog while standing at the bar in the local, and is handy on a picnic.

The meat pie, the Food Standards Committee has now ruled, must contain 25 per cent by weight of meat.

That may not sound much, but some of the pies sampled by the committee contained less than 10 per cent meat content. Let pie producers' associations argued that the pie was "in fact a farinaceous article, and the meat is only present in order to give flavor," and anyway the public must like them that way or it wouldn't buy them. Still further, the committee had to obtain written evidence on pie-eating in Scotland after it was argued that the Scots, being even more farinaceous in their tastes than the English, would be quite content with 5 per cent meat.

But 25 per cent it is to be from now on, soon to fashionable Scotland.

Gazing east into the Bay of Quinte early today, Albert Scriven of West Dundas Street was quite sure he saw two men rowing his boat in the reaches of Zwicky's Island. Later scrutiny revealed that Mr. Scriven's eyesight in no way deceived him. Police were notified and Provincial Constable Lewis investigated with the result that Mr. Scriven's boat was recovered.

The value of a school motion picture projector in teaching of safety is reported on after their regular class room curriculum, has been stressed by Inspector J. R. Pickering in a recent report to the Board of Education. Reporting on the activities at Queen Alexandra school, Mr. Pickering stated that agriculture and other kindred subjects could be more easily taught with the use of motion pictures.

True Meaning Of 'Spiritual' Escapes Many

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"Whenever I see or hear the word 'spiritual,' it makes me grit my teeth," said a friend of mine, who teaches philosophy in a nearby college. "It's become the favorite word of people who don't even understand what it means."

I quite agreed with him. The word "spiritual," used in its popular sense, has come to mean the opposite of "physical." Anything that is "spiritual" is good, is positive, is virtuous, desirable, is loftier than the merely physical.

This is not only nonsense — it is dangerous nonsense. Just as physical things can be either good or bad, so spiritual things can be either good or bad. The word itself is quite neutral, and has no intrinsic value.

Indeed, as C. S. Lewis pointed out in his book, "Christian Behavior," many vices are purely spiritual: the pleasure of putting other people in the wrong, the pleasure of patronizing and spoiling sport, and back-biting; the pleasures of envy, hatred, and malice.

Most of the evil in the world has been generated on the spiritual level, not the physical. And hate-obsessed man like Hitler has an interest in physical pursuits; he wears a uniform and is a monk, and as dedicated to the spiritual (which is a spiritual thing) as the monk is to the divine.

The people who create the mischief and the sorrow in the world are not the libertines and the drinkers and the weaklings; they are pathetic people who create at the most, private tragedy. The really tragic tragedies are created by the men who are fascinated by some perverse spiritual drive — by pride, by anger, by hostility, by envy.

True spirituality is as rare as true bestiality in human beings. And very few who achieve it are those who are terribly aware of the perils of spirituality — who know, as the Romans warned us, that a corruption of the best becomes the worst. Which is why, to quote Lewis again, "Of all bad men, the bad religious man is the worst."

Unlike most other religions, both Judaism and Christianity accept the goodness of physical things and do not dismiss them as delusions or devices of the devil. And those who despise the physical too often use their "spirituality" as a blindpoor for punishing the weak, while they themselves revel in the pleasures of pride, of power, of exactly those "spiritual" qualities which are the nature of their sinning. On the other hand, the physical pleasures, which are the source of most of the world's misery, are rarely the cause of any great moral evil.

Mrs Fortunate Went for Cancer Test in Time

By JOSEPH G. HOLMES, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Your articles on hysterectomy and the Pap test interested me very much.

Recently I had a hysterectomy as a result of a Pap test. I went to the Pap test before because I didn't know a doctor as I've always been in perfect health. A friend later gave me the name of her doctor.

Two biopsies were done before the operation.

It's hard to explain my feelings just now about all this. It's like a miracle, a miracle that cancer was detected so early. I'm only 30 years old.

You see, I just went for this test "out of the blue." Now my doctor calls me "Mrs Fortunate." — Mrs. E. Y.

The important thing is that here — very likely — a life was saved. Yes, the cancer might have been discovered later, and in time. Or it might have been discovered too late.

I see nothing wrong with having free tests if they are available. Use them! That's what they are for.

Certainly several scores and perhaps several hundreds of women, probably more than that older than Mrs. Fortunate, had Pap tests about the same time she did, and were told there was nothing to worry about.

It's the one woman in many that we seek — the one who can be saved if the danger is discovered in time.

I hope Mrs. Fortunate keeps telling her friends. She saved herself by taking a test.

By telling her story, she can save some others

Dear Dr. Molner: Our daughter is eight months pregnant. Her doctor insists on having an X-ray before he would deliver the baby. Now everyone tells her she should not have had it done. What danger is there from having one X-ray? — M.D.

I lose patience with those calamity hawkers who seem to enjoy frightening other people gratuitously. Yes, there is danger to the baby (or to the mother) from X-ray exposure early in pregnancy. This means the first two to four months. The risk is virtually nil in the last month or two since by then the baby is quite well-developed. And an X-ray at times can be most important in saving the life or health of both mother and child at delivery. Please ignore the comments of "everyone."

Dear Dr. Molner: My father is 86 and has been in perfect health all his life. He still goes to his office. However, his eyesight is failing rapidly and he was advised to have an operation. He thinks he is too old. I believe you have written that age does not prevent such operations. — L. R.

You are right. In past decades

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Historians fifty years from now are likely to be keenly interested in this particular decade in which we are living. There have been periods of extreme confusion in the past, but nothing on the present day scale.

For example, we have brought electrical service to the remotest farm, and have been being equipped in every last detail with power so that they are dependent wholly on the wires coming in from outside. Heating is done from panels installed in the walls, and the entire operation of the home, from the kitchen stove and all the appliances to the hot water in the bathtub, is electric.

The strain was such that older people did not come through surgery too well. This no longer is true. Operations far more drastic than eye surgery now are being done with patients in their 90's and occasionally even older.

Your father is an unusually vigorous man, obviously. Even if he were frail, I would still tell him to have such an operation. Age no longer is of any great moment for a person in good health.

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

April 29, 1963 . . .

The little coal mining village of Frank, Alta., was obliterated 60 years ago today — in 1903 — when an estimated 70,000,000 tons of rock crashed down in a landslide from Turtle Mountain above the village. Only a handful of persons survived and 66 persons perished when slabs as big as houses fell 7,000 feet. The slide was estimated at 500 feet deep, 4,000 feet wide and 1,300 feet high.

1945 — Twenty-eight Japanese leaders were indicted as war criminals.

1837 — The first electric locomotive made a trial run on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Walkathon, Finnish Style

Detroit News

The sturdy Finns, who think nothing of skiing 50 miles a day, have disclosed a national record that ought to put the phlegmatic Americans caught up in the 50-mile hike craze.

In an international contest with Sweden in 1941, Finnish women and children from 10 to 14 were asked to hike 10 kilometers (6.2 miles) in less than one hour and 40 minutes. Men were required to walk 15 kilometers (9.3 miles) in less than two hours and 20 minutes.

In a 22-day period, 1,500,000 Finns out of a total population of 3,700,000 passed the required test. They enabled their country to defeat Sweden because "only" 954,000 Swedes completed the test.

Tennis, anyone?

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Most price changes were marginal and trading was light during morning action on the stock market today.

The exchange index showed industrials and golds fractionally higher and base metals and western oils slightly lower.

Final signs were scattered through most industrial groups with BC Power up ⅛, Bank of Nova Scotia ahead ¼, Laurentide Finance A ⅛, Distillers Seagrams and Imperial Oil each ¼ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ⅛.

Canadian Tire A had one of the biggest gains with a rise of one point to 38.

Among losers, Dominion Bridge dropped 1¼ to 21, Dominion Foundries and Steel eased ¼ and Steel Company of Canada ¼. Bank of Montreal was down ½ and Calgary Power and Consolidated Paper each slipped ¼.

On index, industrials gained .13 to 633.65 and golds .06 to 87.42. Base metals slipped .76 to 211.86 and western oils .38 to 122.03. The 11 a.m. volume was 737,000 shares compared with 1,506,000 at the same time Friday.

Base metals dropped to lower ground with International Nickel and Noranda each falling ¼.

Trading in western oils was dull and changes were narrow. Home A dipped ¼ and Union Oil rose ¼.

PRODUCE MARKET

Butter prices: Canada first grade: Ontario tenderable 51½; non - tenderable 49¾, in light trading: Western 51 - 52 (nominal).

Three Unions Post Pickets On Foreign Ship

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — Three Great Lakes unions posted pickets today in a dispute over a foreign ore carrier tied up at the docks of the Pittsburgh and Conneaut Dock Co.

Tughoatmen declined Sunday to aid the 585-foot ore carrier as it moved through the harbor before docking. The ship, chartered by U.S. Steel Corp., flew the Liberian flag and was manned by a West German crew.

The carrier, the Tyne Ore, was loaded with 12,000 tons of iron ore taken on at Port Cartier, Que.

Union officials charged the use of foreign ships and crews on the Great Lakes deprived American seamen of jobs. Pickets carried signs demanding that U.S. Steel sail its ships under the U.S. flag with American crews.

CLAIMS CREWS UNDERPAID

Joe W. Samples, vice-president of United Steel Workers local 5000, claimed foreign crews were working at what he termed substandard wages and working conditions.

Other unions represented on the picket lines were Masters, Mates and Pilots, local 47, and the Marine Engineers.

Sulo P. Nimello, president of the Conneaut Independent Dock Union, said he would seek a membership meeting to determine whether his members would honor the picket lines. His union represents 85 employees at Pittsburgh and Conneaut dock.

Nimello said the union's contract with the company calls for no work stoppages or strikes.

"Each employee will have to decide for himself whether to cross the picket lines until we can set up a meeting," he added.

J. E. Bulpit Fractures Arm In Accident

Saturday night and Sunday morning in the Belleville area at least meant a rash of traffic accidents that sent two persons to hospital.

On Highway 37, two miles north of Corbyville, at 8.30 Saturday night, 27 Pearl Street Belleville, received a fractured arm when he lost control of a pickup truck. The vehicle veered across the highway, jumped a fence into a farmer's field and rolled over twice. The truck was wrecked.

A Madoc man, Kenneth Earl Armstrong, was also taken to Belleville General Hospital Sunday morning after his car rolled over on Highway 14, three miles north of the city.

And the intersection of Highway 2 and the 5 SD road also was the scene of a weekend crash. Police say the mishap occurred when a car driven by John Hunt, of Oakville, stopped for a red light and was struck from the rear by a car owned by Thomas McAvella, 8 Gordon Street, Belleville. Damage was $400 to the McAvella vehicle, $100 to Hunt's car.

least 68 Haitians, including former army officers and their families, took haven in Latin American embassies.

SOLDIERS BREAK IN

Informed sources said Haitian soldiers broke into the Dominican Embassy Friday and started a search for refugees but were ordered out by the charge d'affaires.

Armed guards and roadblocks blocked approaches to the Dominican embassy and a dozen residence Sunday. Telephone lines were cut off, and taxi drivers refused to take passengers to the vicinity.

Bosch denounced Duvalier's regime in a radio - television broadcast, declaring that invasion of the embassy was equivalent to an invasion of our country."

The Dominican president accused the Haitian government of plotting against his life. He said the invasion of the embassy "was a slap in the face to the Dominican Republic, an affront which we are not disposed to pass over."

Bosch said the refugees in the embassy are "living hours of indescribable terror because, every minute of the day and night, they are expecting an attack which will cost them their lives."

Broken Wheel On Car Blamed For Derailment

MECHANICSBURG, Pa. (AP) A broken wheel on a propane gas tank car was blamed for a train derailment and resulting explosion Sunday that injured 22 persons.

About 80 families were forced to flee their nearby homes because of the explosions and the threat of chlorine gas leaking from one car.

Three railroad tank cars exploded in the five hours after the derailment.

A railroad spokesman said sparks from the derailment apparently set fire to the valves of two cars. Those fires were believed under control when the three cars blew up.

Late Sunday night officials capped another derailed tank car when it was learned chlorine gas was leaking from it.

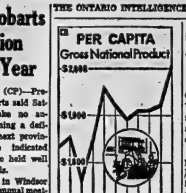
Premier Robarts Says Election Sure This Year

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Premier John P. Roberts said Saturday he will make an announcement concerning a definite date for the next provincial election. He indicated there would be one held well before the year ends.



Mr. Roberts was in Windsor to attend the 63th annual meeting of the Western Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

"The possibility of an election this year is something we always accept," he said during an interview.

"We are in the last year of our government which can run to five years from a statutory point of view, but it has been customary that the government not go more than four years," he said.

The premier said there are four seats never sat in the legislature and there are a number of other candidates who have indicated they will not seek re-election which will mean more vacancies.

"To call by-elections at this time to fill these seats might mean the election of people who would never sit in the legislature and this wouldn't be right," he said.

DOCK CAVES IN

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A 200-foot section of the Windsor Harbor Dock caved in Saturday morning about two hours after 1,200 tons of steel had been unloaded from the freighter Marcon. No workmen were on the dock when the wall collapsed and fell into about 24 feet of water. Officials said the area which caved in was to have been removed in the harbor development program.

Cardinal Pays Visit to Poland

VIENNA (Reuters) — Franz Cardinal Koenig, Archbishop of Vienna, left here by car today for a five-day visit to Poland at the invitation of Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski.

Well-informed sources suspected Koenig to seek the Polish primate's advice concerning the fate of the Hungarian primate, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, who has been living in the American legation in Budapest since the 1956 Hungarian uprising.

Despite the "purely private character of the visit" the sources regard it as a further step in the Vatican's drive for better relations with Communist countries.

The Austrian cardinal was travelling through Czechoslovakia where the Archbishop of Prague and Czech Primate Josef Cardinal Beran has been under house arrest since 1949.

Koenig visited the Hungarian primate 10 days ago, and the sources expected him to make a second trip to Budapest after his return from Poland.

The sources believed it possible Mindszenty would leave Budapest under safe conduct to attend the autumn session of ecumenical council in Rome.

Gail Ross, 20, of Edmonton Already Veteran in Riding, May Take Horse to Tokyo

By CAROL KENNEDY

MORETON-IN-MARSH, England (CP)—On a crisp, windswept spring morning in the Cotswold hills an Alberta rancher's daughter was exercising her chestnut show - jumper, Thunderbird, under the eye of one of England's leading trainers.

Next year she could be representing Canada at the Tokyo Olympics.

At 20, Gail Ross from Edmonton is already a veteran in riding. She started at 11 years of age by herding cattle on her father's ranch. In 1958, then 15, she demonstrated this skill with "cutting out" horses at the Calgary Stampede.

Her father, Cliff Ross, is thinking of bringing over some "cutting" horses, used in herding cattle, to Britain this summer.

"It would be something new for Britain," Gail said in an interview. "I think the people would like it, being so keen on horse shows."

JUMPING CAREER

Gail began to concentrate on show jumping when she entered high school. In 1961 and 1962 she went on the show circuits in Canada and on the U.S. west coast.

Her family decided that if she had serious Olympic ambitions it was time to get some training and competition in international-class standard in Britain.

The Canadian girl arrived in mid-March at the Gloucestershire training stables of Col. Jack Talbot-Ponsonby, a premier international star who has coached Britain's equestrian teams in the last three Olympics.

Her two chestnut thoroughbreds, Thunderbird and Tiger Tim, were flown here from Canada at the end of February.

Gail had several weeks training at the manor before her first show-jumping date at Taunton, Somerset, at Easter. Her plans were for moving north then to friends in Tuxford, Notts., and from there travelling around taking in most of the big events including the Royal International Horse show at London's White City in late July, and the famed Dublin Horse Show in August.

FULL PROGRAM

She plans to wind up with the Horse of the Year show at Wembley Sept. 30, and be back in Canada for the start of the circuit in October.

A quietly confident girl glowing with health, Gail is not pinning all her hopes on a place in a still hypothetical Olympic team. But "Tokyo" keeps cropping up in her conversation and it will be in her mind while she competes in the coming months against riders of world stature in the United Kingdom and Ireland.

Her training routine here is a leisurely daily round of hacking, jumping and general dressage, leaving time for the occasional hunt ball.

Pupils at the manor stay in Moreton-in-Marsh, a small market town of brownish - yellow Cotswold stone on the fringe of the Shakespeare country — 20 miles from Stratford-on-Avon—that is one of England's historic hunting centres.

HORSE TALK

In the season everyone talks horses—if it's not hunting over the tussocky Cotswold fields it's steeplechasing at Cheltenham. The dining-room at the Redesdale Arms hotel, hung with sporting prints, resounds with the accents of men in hacking jackets and cavalry twill and fresh-faced schoolgirls in riding kit.

Three miles away, at a point where three counties meet, the Todesham estate rambles over 50 acres, complete with 15th-century manor house and specially laid-out show rings. Beyond a clump of aged cedars the paddock with its red and white jumps falls away in a steep ridge under the wide Cotswold skies.

In this ultra-England setting, Talbot-Ponsonby — pronounced "Punsunby"—looks the essence of a sporting squire. Tall and lean, with a brown weathered face and laconic way of speech, he is reticent about his past as England's champion horseman and rarely uses the word "I," referring to himself in conversation as "one."

IMPRESSIVE RECORD

In the early 1930s he won the coveted King George V Gold Cup three years running. In 1936 he toured Canada and the United States with the British army team collecting more trophies. His post-war record as trainer of the British team is impressive.

The team won at the Helsinki Olympics in 1952, placed third at Stockholm in 1956 and gained an individual third — David Broome — at Rome in 1960. Broome and David Barker, another member of the European championship in 1961 and 1962 respectively.

If Canada entered a team for next year's games, said the colonel, he would offer to fly over and train them.

Doctor Rears Cancer Cells Then Kills Them

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Nelly Auersperg coddles cancer cells.

She pampers them with glucose, vitamins and proteins. She keeps them in incubators at body temperature. She photographs them and records their development.

Then, when they have multiplied thousands of times, she tries to kill them.

Success could provide more useful clues in the search for methods of containing cancer cells in the human body.

The Austria-born mother of two children fattens specimen cancer cells for slaughter at the British Columbia Cancer Institute and her work is finished when Dr. Shaw Fellowship awarded to her this year by the Order of the Eastern Star, women's lodges.

GROW ARTIFICIALLY

Dr. Auersperg's work consists of making human cancer cells grow in an artificial atmosphere. She compares them with normal cells, studies their chromosomes and their nutritional requirements.

"Certain cancer cells grow easily while others die when they are taken from the human body," she says. "We have to try to make them feel at home away from home. This means simulating the conditions of the human body in the laboratory."

Some data on the nature and growth of the cells is considered complete, they are submitted to treatment designed to test the effectiveness of various drugs and radiation in killing the cancer.

Applying the knowledge gained by patients, Dr. Auersperg hopes her research will point the way to predicting how fast a cancer is likely to grow and what form of treatment would be best.

Author Writes About India In Nova Scotia

DIGBY, N.S. (CP)—The exciting world of the Far East finds expression in novels being written near this Bay of Fundy coast town.

Author Lady Dorothy L. Armstrong has written many books for children in India and now writes about India at her home in Brighton, N.S.

Recently her new novel, Gilded Sepulchre, was published. It is set in the India of the Mogul dynasty and depicts a powerful empire of unbelievable wealth and wickedness. Many characters of history are sketched in the novel as well as European adventurers who sought their fortune in India.

Among her earlier work was an English translation of the Ramayana, a Hindu epic poem of 48,000 lines.

Widow of a former education secretary to the government of the Punjab, Lady Armstrong moved to Brighton about a year ago.

She was born in the Channel Islands, daughter of James Hornell, a Scottish marine biologist, and Charlotte Sind, descended from Huguenots who sought refuge in the islands on fleeing France.

WAS ENCHANTED

James Hornell became a marine biologist for Ceylon and it was on visits there that Lady Armstrong became enchanted with the East. She studied art at Bristol, England, and in 1915 when her father was with the government of Madras, she met and married her husband, then a chemistry professor.

They lived in Amritsar, the city of the Sikhs, and in Lahore for many years.

In Gilded Sepulchre, Lady Armstrong recalls for her readers her own love of India, developed during her years there.

At her Brighton home, facing the placid waters of St. Mary's Bay, Lady Armstrong is writing other books based on her experiences.

"One has memories," she says, "and the past seems more real than the present."

Her son, Dr. R. A. Armstrong, is executive director of the Digby - Annapolis mental health clinic.

Mrs. M. Nobes Heads Sidney South W.I.

The annual meeting of Sidney South Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Hollomby.

The meeting was opened in the usual way and reports were received. The W. I. feels that it has had a most successful year. This is the first full year of organization.

The election of officers was the high point of the evening. The new slate was brought in by the nominating committee, to Mrs. John Reid, area president, who conducted the election and installed the following officers:

Past president, Mrs. H. Hollomby; president, Mrs. M. Nobes; 1st vice-president, Mrs. D. Reid; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. G. Wilman; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. Heenan; assistant secretary and "Home and Country," Mrs. H. Regenburg; public relations representative, Mrs. W. Shortt; assistant, Mrs. Pierce; pianist, Mrs. M. Hollomby; auditor, Mrs. R. Cummings; district director, Mrs. K. Jones; alternate district director, Mrs. C. Dafoe; branch directors, Mrs. Martin Mywaseh; Mrs. Findley Scrimshaw, Mrs. K. Kerr, Mrs. P. Thorn; auditor, Mrs. D. Plumpton: Tweedsmuir book curator, Mrs. J. Sargent.

Standing committees:

Agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. F. Heenan; citizenship and education, Mrs. R. Windsor; historical research and current affairs, Mrs. G. Sills; home economics and health, Mrs. D. Douglas; resolutions, Mrs. A. Moon.

Mrs. Reid was presented with a small token of appreciation. Mrs. M. Hollomby, president for 1963-64, presented Mrs. H. Hollomby, immediate past president, with a Institute pin, in appreciation of her hard work during her term of office.

Mrs. Hollomby and her committee served lunch which was enjoyed by all.

Anglican W.A. Jr. Auxiliaries Rally Here

Twenty-seven leaders and about 175 members of the Junior Auxiliary of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church met in Belleville Saturday in Christ Church Parish Hall, Coleman St. at a rally for Junior Auxiliaries in the west half of the Diocese of Ontario.

The girls, aged seven to 13 years, represented an area bounded by Trenton on the West, Napanee on the east, Bancroft on the north and including Prince Edward County.

In previous years, the annual rally for the whole of the diocese has been held in Kingston. This year, the groups from the east and west halves of the area meet separately. The meeting of Saturday Groups from the east half of the Diocese will meet next Saturday in Athens, Ont.

The girls arrived in Belleville Saturday morning and marched from the parish hall to Christ Church, for a service conducted by Rev. Michael Caswell. They returned, after "the service, to the hall for lunch and a puppet show, presented by the Picton Junior Auxiliary.

The rally was directed by Mrs. J. A. Treadgold, of Kingston, diocesan secretary of the Junior Auxiliary. Mrs. Treadgold will also direct the rally to be held in Athens next week.

LITTLE GIRLS love creating their own Easter bonnets. A Hat Party will delight them. Ask each guest to bring an old hat or provide inexpensive straw ones. Collect all the trimmings you can find: ribbons, feathers, flowers, beads, net for veiling. Scissors and a mirror or two on a big table makes a perfect workshop.

Mr., Mrs. Sheldon Smith Of City 50 Years Wed

Admittedly fond of the outdoors, the Sheldon Smiths had good reason for remaining indoors at their Ann Street apartment in Belleville Saturday past, despite a Spring day in all its glory. Within there also was a bright, warm domestic atmosphere. It was the couple's fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. Smith and his wife spend most of their married life with the emphasis on the outdoors. At his retirement in 1958, Mr. Smith had a record 35 years as a Department of Transport lockmaster on the Trent Canal. During these years he remained within the Trenton area where he was born, serving on dams there and at Frankford.

They were years the Smiths enjoyed, particularly during the summer months "meeting as many people" when the boating traffic hit its peak, Mrs. Smith recalled.

The Smiths met in the Trenton area — at the end of a long journey for Mrs. Smith. She was born in London, England and came to Canada in 1912 with her parents. The couple were married in St. John's Anglican Church.

Separation came soon after as the events beyond everyone's control erupted in the world's first universal war.

Mr. Smith was one of the early enlistees for active service with the Canadians in Europe. As a lad he had been a member of the old Fifteenth Regiment in Belleville. He returned and trained in Belleville "in the Armouries and Zwick's Island" before despatch overseas, where he enlisted with the 39th Battalion and later served with the 21st.

Among the callers at the Smith apartment Saturday were Robert Temple, South Hastings M.P., and Elmer (Sandy) Sandercock, West Hastings M.L.A. Mr. Sandercock presented the couple with a scroll from provincial secretary John Yaremko. There also was a congratulatory letter from Prime Minister Pearson.

The couple have two children —Colin James Smith in Belleville and Mrs. Doris Lorraine DeFloria, Toronto — both following their father's lead in the federal government service. Colin is a city mailman. Mrs. DeFloria is employed in a Toronto office on defence production.

As for Mr. Smith he still is active and working — outdoors, of course. He's a city school guard.

TEACH HOME BUSINESS

EDMONTON (CP) — The position of home management specialist has been established at the Alberta department of agriculture. It is designed to promote interest in the business matters of the family and the broader aspects of consumer information.

Historical Curators Hold Committee Meet at School

STIRLING — Mrs. Roy Bush, curator of the Tweedsmuir history books of Hastings West District Women's Institutes held a committee meeting at the Stirling River Valley school on April 24th, with an attendance of 29 ladies.

There were two sessions and the River Valley ladies served a salad plate at noon hour.

Mrs. Bush welcomed Mrs. Grant McLaren of Shannonville, the Provincial Board Director for Subdivision No. 5, two ladies from Melrose W.I. the president of Hastings West District; Mrs. Percy MacMullen and seven curators as follows: Miss Jane Gay of Pinegrove; Mrs. Blanche Reid of Stirling; Mrs. Lorne Sargent of Sidney South; Mrs. Ross Jiles of Uxbridge; Mrs. Emory DeMille of Chatterton; Mrs. Allen Spencer of Wallbridge, and from River Valley, Mrs. George Hessman, assistant curator and all the other ladies who were in attendance.

BRIEF RESUME

A brief resume of Tweedsmuir manual was given by Mrs. Bush, who advised that each branch have an assistant to the curator. Mrs. Roy Irvin was the secretary for last Bush.

The officers of the district in attendance included: Mrs. Harry Coulter, secretary treasurer; Mrs. Everett Phillips, federation representative, and Mrs. Morley Sine, public relations officer.

Each branch curator should send a brief report as soon as possible to Mrs. Roy Bush, Stirling R.R. 4, to enable her to compile a report for the district annual meeting to be held at 2:30 at the Marsh Hill United Church. It was announced that the district committee for the Tweedsmuir histories for the 1963-64 year be composed of the district curator, president, past president, secretary-treasurer and the eight branch curators. This will be ratified at the annual meeting of the district.

At the noon hour Mrs. Jack Bush, Mrs. Glenn Bush, Mrs. Charles Wilson, Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Vernon Harry of River Valley W.I., served a salad plate luncheon.

During the afternoon session the Tweedsmuir histories were displayed and problems discussed. Various books and equipment were shown and on motion of Mrs. Sargent, Mrs. Sine, Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. Spencer, the district Tweedsmuir book and a carrier is to be purchased by the curator and placed on view at the annual meeting. Each branch is to have a record of all the war work of schools, churches, assistance to hospitals, old members of the Institute and pictures. The most important items are to be duplicated for the district history book.

COUNTY MUSEUM

Mrs. Jack Sargent spoke briefly re the opening of the Hastings County Museum in Belleville on May 4th and the subject will be "Early Education." Mrs. Harry Coulter read a letter from Peterborough re the visit of the ACWW president, Mrs. Van Beekhoff. All branches are asked to write Mrs. Coulter immediately if they wish to use their tickets for the luncheon at Peterborough on June 5th.

Mrs. Grant McLaren complimented Mrs. Bush on her first committee meeting which had been most educational and had many worthwhile suggestions.

Mrs. Gerald Irvin voiced appreciative thanks to River Valley for hospitality to which Mrs. Jack Bush replied.

Doughty Grandmother Wants Canada to Have Sweeps

BY JOHN MATTERS

CALGARY (CP)—Mrs. Mary English, a doughty grandmother of who already has collected the names of 300,000 Canadians to support her campaign, visits British Columbia this week to continue her battle for legalized sweepstakes.

"Some people think I'm a wicked old woman because I'm for sweepstakes," said the dynamic, 53-year-old housewife. "But I go to church and believe charity begins at home."

The idea that charity begins at home—and Canadians should be spending their money on sweepstakes in this country—started Mrs. English on "Operation Sweepstake" three years ago.

She has organized 14 branches of the movement across the country and hopes to open two or three more as she travels through northern and central B.C. this week.

Mrs. English, who has 15 grandchildren, travelled about 18,000 miles last summer persuading her ides and before winter set in she had the names of 300,000 persons who want legalized sweepstakes in Canada.

PAYS OWN EXPENSES

Although she has had financial support from some of her own pocket.

"What's why I'd like to win the Irish," said Mrs. English, who was a cook at Newcastle under-Lyme, Staffordshire, before she and her husband came to Calgary and went into the hotel business 3½ years ago.

Petitions will be used to support a bill, already given second reading in the Commons, which would pave the way for legal sweepstakes in this country.

Mrs. English said she will take her holidays and be in Ottawa when—and at this stage she's only hopin' — the bill comes up for third and final reading at the next sitting of Parliament.

At that time, said Mrs. English, it's possible she may have petitions bearing 1,000,000 signatures.

Area Manager, Controller Is Woman

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lucille MacDonald works in an office on the banks of the Fraser River where she can watch the boats and log booms, listen to the whine of sawmills and smell the mud, creosote and tidal water.

And she loves it.

Miss MacDonald is area manager and controller for River Towing Company Limited where "business is never the same two years in a row."

There are 60 boats in the River Towing fleet and 60 employees—afloat and ashore—to handle them.

Miss MacDonald joined the company in 1945 as office manager. Why? Because she needed a job.

It have to work. If you are going to spend one-third of your day at work, you might as well enjoy it."

Today, as area manager, she says she has to "cope with anything that comes through the door."

SEEN MANY CHANGES

The industry has experienced tremendous changes in costs, labor relations and competition during the last 10 years, she says.

"When I joined River Towing there were no unions. The crews worked 28 days on and three days off and the skipper earned $125 a month. Today, crews work 15 days on and 15 off and the skipper earns about $500.

"The whole cost picture is changing. There has been a tremendous rise in the type of boat operated. To offset higher labor costs and remain efficient and competitive, you need vessels with more horsepower output per man.

"Where before you might have had a three-man boat with 300 horsepower, you now have a five-man boat with 600 to 750 horsepower to handle more sections of logs."

Miss MacDonald is an alert, attractive woman with much charm and vitality who has studied all facets of her business but one. She does not accompany the log crews out onto the river.

Miss MacDonald has an unfortunate tendency toward seasickness.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS
RESTAURANT AND RESORT TIPS

that certain restaurant and resort hotel charges were considered in the dead of a snowy night. They are just about as clear to many patrons and tourists.

But, as the French "might have said, "It's all in the phrase."

A guest on a tight budget can avoid extreme pain in the wallet unless he knows what he gets for his money before he orders nourishment at a restaurant or makes a reservation at a hotel for a carefree vacation.

As a guide to fiscal-minded readers, here's a rundown of the most widely-used tariff phrases adopted by restaurants and hotels and what they really mean!

Cover charge: In effect, this is your "order of admission to the dining-and-dancing room of a hotel or night club. It's levied to help pay for the music and entertainment. Other than that, you get nothing for the cover charge but the use of waiter's smile and the privilege of listening and dancing.

MUCH OR LITTLE

Minimum: Eat as much or as little refreshment as you wish. Many places remove the minimum charge when you order her and decide to stay for the entertainment. Usually a small one and to the point, $2.50 if there is a cover charge — and the amount.

Cup man charge: More equitable, perhaps, but a similar card on the table gives you the privilege of the establishment without charge for food or refreshment, even if your intake doesn't quite approach $125 a month. So order up and have fun — you have to pay anyway.

American plan: At a resort hotel, this means that guests receive three full meals a day as part of the daily room charge. Be careful when you look at the menu. American plan guests sometimes are allowed to order only from a selected list of dishes.

Modified American Plan: Breakfast and dinner. No lunch.

European plan: No meals. A la carte: You pay for each item that you order at the restaurant. In some hotels, separate charge is made even for vegetables to accompany the entree. In others, the vegetables and salad are included in the charge for the entree, but you must pay for appetizer, soup, dessert and coffee.

SNOOP AROUND

Table d'Hote: translation for the French means "food at the head of the host," which implies that at the "fixed price" (prix fixes; another common term) of the entree you can order a dish from every course on the menu. Dui snoop around for asterisk (*) marks or amounts enclosed in parentheses. The first means that the appetizer, soup or dessert so marked is not included in the table d'hote dinner and the other is the extra sum it will cost you to order it.And there's an exception to total price because it's replacing one of the dishes included in the meal.

St. Paul's Girls' Auxiliary Presents 4-Part Program

ROSLIN — On Wednesday evening St. Paul's Girls' Auxiliary, under the direction of their leader, Mrs. Earl Gray, presented an interesting program in the parish hall, based on their season's work and activities.

The hall, which was filled to capacity, was artistically decorated with spring flowers and motifs. The stage, with the curtains drawn, represented a photograph album, with the covers closed.

A display of sewing and handicrafts which the six members of the G. A. have done since last September, was arranged on tables along one side of the hall and included driftwood table centres; a complete wardrobe for a doll; two quilts; a missionary scrap book, and felt articles, all neatly done.

Two silver cups, which the Girls' Auxiliary won last year at the Festival at Kingston, were also on display.

Mrs. Gray led her opening remarks, welcomed the guests and said at their regular meetings they always started with a devotional period, and felt they should commence this evening's program the same way.

Scripture readings were given by Barbara Johnson, and Ann Kincaid. A reading on "Witness and Unity" was given by Ethel Slingerland; poems were given by Elsie Howell and Norma Maracle; a story on "Faith" was read by Dianne Gee.

The leader spoke of this year's study book, entitled "Christian Unity and the World Council of Churches" and said they had tried to stress unity in their activities throughout the season. They felt that they had learned a great deal in their study of foreign countries.

This evening, they had invited the Roslin Girls to attend and take part in a panel discussion.

TEEN-AGE WITNESSING

Mrs. R. Mullen, of Kingston, was introduced at this time, and led in discussing the topic "Christian Witness amongst Teen-agers."

The panel included six girls, chosen from the different groups, who took part in the discussion.

It was agreed that it was sometimes hard, to stand alone for Christianity, But by standing up for what was right and setting a Christian example by witnessing."

Mrs. Mullen spoke of the book of Philippians, and called it a book of love., she said to learn, we must be worry, then His peace transcends. Fix your minds on things that are holy, right and pure and beautiful. Be a model like Paul and be able to say "I have told you and I have shown you."

Mrs. Gray thanked Mrs. Mullen and the panel for the interesting discussion, and also thanked the mothers and all those who had assisted with costumes for the portrayal of the various characters.

GREETINGS

Mrs. Godden of Belleville, brought greetings from the Diocesan Board of Kingston, and Mrs. Fenton brought greetings from Christ Church, Belleville.

This was followed by the opening of the photograph album, entitled "A Garden of Memories". These were portrayed by the G.A. members, and were in four parts: outstanding Bible personalities; famous people of the past and present; favorite TV characters; and cartoons that everyone loves from TV and comic strips.

The commentary was given by Mrs. E. Gray.

Misses Donna and Carol Sills opened the cover of the book and Noah appears before the Ark which was backgrounded by a rainbow. This was followed by Ruth, the Moabite, holding a handful of wheat; next to appear, was David the shepherd boy with his harp; then Joseph with his coat of many colors; Queen Esther; Abraham and lastly the blessed Virgin Mary speaking to the angel Gabriel.

FAMOUS PEOPLE

Famous people portrayed were Florence Nightingale and her lamp; Princess Grace of Monaco; Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy; Joan of Arc; Queen Elizabeth the II of England; and John Glenn, the astronaut.

TV characters present were: Hoss Cartwright; Kate Smith; Granny of Beverly Hill Billies; Hazel; Ben Casey; and hockey star, Frank Mahovolich.

Cartoon and comic strip character: depicted were: Daisy Mae; Bugs Bunny; Popeye; Sandrake, The Flintstones, Fred and Wilma.

The members of the G.A. are: Dianne Gee, Barbara Johnson, Ann Kincaid, Ethel Slingerland, Norma Maracle and Wendy Gee.

Dainty refreshments were served by St. Paul's W.A. and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

The portrayal of the various characters was so well done that the audience was soon able to recognize them.

FASHION SHOWS TO LIKE TO SEE

After this season of attending fashion shows, we have reached a few significant conclusions. Our survey took us to the high fashion presentations held in small, white and gold salons, right down to the informal showings of teen-age fashions. The latter produced against makeshift back drops of crowded store aisles and swaying curtains. We have seen both cool, professional models and breathless teen-agers (on their first non-paying assignment). We have heard commentary ranging all the way from the cute gabble of uncontrolled rhetoric, to the static name of the garment, and designer only.

Frankly, we believe that the main reason women attend fashion shows is being ignored by the dressers. Instead, these fashion shows not only to learn something about the fashions but how can they use fashion in their own lives.

We would like to attend a few fashion shows, whose theme would be, "How to Disguise a Not-Perfect Figure." Anyone who thinks that this is not a burning issue with many a Canadian woman, is entitled to read our mail. Many appeals for help in the selection of silhouettes that lengthen and slim the figure are received. These women need visual help, which should be demonstrated at fashion shows. We would like to see professional models illustrating the right and the wrong type of silhouettes for the overweight figure. Even their near perfect figures can show up to an advantage when dressed in the wrong lines. Some professional models, although women of great poise and elegance, also have small figure faults, which are well-kept, trade secrets. The fashions chosen for these models are carefully selected to avoid highlighting their faults.

These could be shown illustrating the correct use of color in wardrobe planning. We think a fashion show, built around the right and wrong use of accessories, would be mobbed by eager students of fashion.

Any store, whether a giant or/small specialty shop, that presents just a parade of fabulously beautiful clothes on fabulously beautiful women, is missing the biggest chance it will ever get to be of public service. The audience leaves such a show, having learned nothing, but the fact that yellow hats are in this season. What help is this to the sallow complexioned woman of whom there are many who can't wear yellow in any shade?

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers care of The Ontario Intelligencer.

Stuffed Prunes Dorchester

by Mary Moore

This column is a little different because I am infuriated and humiliated because I was had.

I confidently phoned a caterer whose standards I trusted for a pound of almond paste. When it arrived I paid for it at it. Right then I should have suspected trouble for it should mess that much or less than that — less if it were uncle: mere if it contained almonds. What I found out to be was a lump of icing sugar flavored with almond essence and held together with something or other to give it the consistency of clay. I could have made it better for under 30c. Imagine a mark-up of over 400%

Force almonds through fine mincer or blender and continue grinding them through by adding the rose water if used. Mix with the remaining ingredients then turn the mass out on to a little sugar-sprinkled board and knead until pliable and smooth. Form into ball, wrap very well and store in jar to ripen 24 hours before using.

MOCK ALMOND PASTE:

1 medium-sized sweet or Irish potato, baked, ½ lb. icing sugar, sifted, 1 teaspoon almond extract, ¼ teaspoon rose water (buy at drug store).

Bake sweet or Irish potato at 450 deg. Fahr. until very tender. While hot, skin and mash potatoes out into bowl. Add remaining ingredients and mix until smooth and blended. This becomes firmer when cold. Must be stored air-tight.

MONDAY

Dinner Menus

Baked Buck Bacon, Mixed Mustard Pickles, Baked Stewed Potatoes in Jackets, Spinach; Tossed Spring Greens; Rhubarb Crunch with Cream, Coffee.

Two things smoothed my ruffled feathers though. Eighth-month-old Jennifer was here and was sitting in her high chair near where I was working. She reached and picked up a little lump of the paste and smacked her tiny lips over it and reached for more! And the finished product — Stuffed Prunes Dorchester — was such a success I grudgingly forgave the caterer for sending me imitation paste.

You will get a pretty fair product if you use nooky almond paste too but not up to the standards of the Dorchester Hotel in London where Stuffed Prunes Dorchester are on the menu at $1 per serving.

STUFFED PRUNES DORCHESTER:

Soak 1 pound medium size prunes in 3 cups of freshly brewed tea or coffee for 4 to 7 days, covered in the refrigerator. Neatly remove the pits. Fill each prune with a piece of nook or gumdrop almond paste (see below) and push into this a toasted almond. Close prunes neatly and place in fine cut-glass bowl in neat circles. (Or into a wide-mouthed glass jar if to be stored longer.) Pour over about 1 cup port wine or sherry. Let stand so they will absorb some of the flavor. Serve with fresh dairy sour cream or Devonshire cream (as they do at the Dorchester) if you can buy it, and a plate of lady fingers.

GENUINE ALMOND PASTE:

¼ lb. dry blanched almonds, ½ lb. icing sugar, sifted, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 large egg yolk, 1 teaspoon almond extract, 1 teaspoon rose water (optional).

Horses as Hard to Train As Children Says Mother

VANCOUVER (CP)—"Horses are as hard to train as children — except they don't talk back to you," says Mrs. Frank Fisher.

The Fishers have a small farm near a training track at Agassiz-on-Lansdowne. She and her husband start work at daylight — about 5:30 a.m. these days — and work a week from February through to autumn.

Mrs. Fisher is up and about long before dawn to get her home in order and pack lunches for Wendy, 14; Sue, 13, and Danny, 12.

She and her husband own six race horses but train eight.

They bought their first when Mr. Fisher returned from the Second World War.

"We struck it lucky with that one. She was called Chigales and she is the dam of one of our present horses except Sir Fleetway."

When her husband is busy with track duties such as exercising the mounts, Mrs. Fisher moves in on the barn.

She calls who "mucks out" the stalls and mothers" the animals. This means cooling them off after washing them down—with a hose if they'll stand for it and with a bucket and brush if they won't.

It's a living "and a pleasant one," but a living not dependent on the track for double.

"Horse - owners just don't gamble. You'd go out of your mind if you did.

"We bet once in a while just for fun. Our income is based on training horses we win," she says.

But Edie Fisher is not immune to the thrill of the track.

"I still go to the races and I still get as excited as I did when we first raced Chigales.

"I guess you could say I just never got too much of horses—racing or training."

Universities Must Accept Regional Schools to Provide Special Professional Needs

By ROB TRIBBEE

SASKATOON (CP) — Spiralling costs of university facilities probably will push Canadian universities into acceptance of the concept of regional schools to provide special professional needs, says Professor A. C. McEown, vice-president (administration) of the University of Saskatchewan.

Prof. McEown said an example is the proposed college of veterinary medicine for Western Canada.

"It's not economic for two western universities to think of undertaking duplicate plans to provide the facilities," he said. "The costs are much too great.

"But by working together, the four Western provinces can decide where the school should be built, work out the cost-sharing factors and consider the facilities as a regional school benefitting all four provinces."

MAKING PROGRESS

Prof. McEown said in an interview this now is being done. The veterinary school will be built in either Saskatchewan or Alberta. Cost-sharing arrangements and the site are the only things to be resolved.

"There's no reason why such regional planning cannot be followed to provide other expensive, but small, professional schools in Western Canada."

"Its impractical to suggest such costs be borne entirely by the province where the school is built, because in effect the university would be subsidizing students from other provinces. To build similar facilities at two or more universities would be wasteful duplication," said Prof. McEown.

University administrators realize that out-of-province students "stay within the province only until they obtain their education and they look elsewhere for career opportunities."

PROVED IN U.S.

Regionalism has worked well where it has been tried in the United States, said Prof. McEown. Canada has an added advantage—none of its universities charges an additional fee against students from other provinces.

"It doesn't cost such students any more to enrol at our university than it does a Saskatchewan high school graduate."

The campus here now is in the midst of a $34,000,000 construction program to provide additional teaching facilities to handle between 8,000 and 9,000 students. This level, expected to be reached within six or seven years at the current rate of growth, is considered the university's maximum limit.

"We feel that once this size has been reached further expansion brings with it distinct disadvantages in trying to provide students with an integrated education.

"At our peak level we think we can produce a good undergraduate body upon which an efficient graduate school can be based. That is why we are pushing ahead construction at the new Regina university campus."

EXPANSION PLANS

The Saskatoon campus of the University of Saskatchewan now has an enrolment of 6,200. It covers about 3,000 acres on the west shore of the South Saskatchewan River. Of this, about 300 acres are designated as the buildings area, and the remainder is used for field work by various departments.

Under construction on the campus are a food services building, an addition to the men's residence and an addition to the gymnasium.

By summer construction will begin on a building to house a new linear accelerator, an addition to the women's residence, a poultry science building, a science building to house the departments of chemistry, pharmacy and home economics and an addition to the physics building.

Next fall a start will be made on an addition to the arts building to house the colleges of law and commerce and 1964 will see construction commence on a college of education building and an addition to the medical building.

Two years away are further additions to the poultry science building to accommodate the department of horticulture and an addition to the soils and dairy building.

If money is available, additions to both residences to handle a further 600 students each will be started by 1966.

"About 20 per cent of the students on the campus are residents of Saskatoon," said Prof. McEown. "This, together with the fact that we feel teaching buildings are more essential than residences, governs the priority pattern of our buildings program."

Pictured at the tenth annual OARC conference at Kingston examining work done by mentally retarded children are these Belleville and Trenton delegates (left to right) Charles D. Dondale of Belleville, Mrs. Kenneth Reid of Trenton, and Mrs. Ross Johnston and Mrs. John Ross of Belleville.

Association For Retarded Holds Luncheon

KINGSTON — The Canadian Association for Retarded Children and its provincial organizations have been primarily made up of parents with some professional and lay people. However, the time has come to enlist much more public interest and support, Robert F. Shaw, CARC president, said here Saturday.

He was addressing the tenth annual luncheon of the Ontario Association for Retarded Children, which he said had been the mainstay of the national movement. Among those present were several from Trenton and Belleville.

The 235 local associations—a third of them in Ontario—operate over 800 special day schools for educable retarded children but were not nearly adequate to meet demands, said Mr. Shaw. The incidence of mental retardation among the C's nadian population was "probably a good deal higher" than the 3 percent figure normally used. "This only represents the trainable retarded and the more seriously retarded in the educable category," Mr. Shaw told Ontario delegates at Kingston.

Medical research was each year finding two or three new causes of mental retardation and there are about 200 known causes today. "We are being swamped by increasing knowledge and the size of the problem. Our waiting lists are longer than ever and staff is very short. We are away behind in providing for trained personnel," he continued.

To get the necessary support from a much broader section of the public CARC have established an honorary board of governors Mr. Shaw announced. They are being headed by Harry E. Foster, Toronto advertising man who is honorary president of the Ontario Association.

The new national honorary board of governors will be asked to advise and support measures that will increase detection of mental retardation for earlier treatment; improve management of mental retardation; increase the number of professional people entering this field; enhance facilities and stimulate further medical research.

until dawn Saturday. They arrived at their fishing holes Friday night to wait out the midnight opening.

The anglers began arriving in Long Point Provincial Park, southwest of Simcoe, at 7 p.m. Friday. In Norfolk County in southwestern Ontario, police reported concession roads almost plugged with lines of parked cars.

At Thornbury, the anglers were jammed shoulder to shoulder and caught a dozen rainbow trout by 1 a.m. But farther up the river at Eugenia there were no catches by 1:30 a.m., which was unusual.

The water in the forks of the Credit River west of Toronto was reported at a record low and individuals were making good catches.

More than 300 brook trout were taken out of the waters in the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority's Glen Haffy area. Hundreds of Toronto residents flocked to seven conservation areas where trout had been placed.

Patronage had perverted the public service by leading the state to hire through favoritism, to give in to pressure groups against the opinion of experts, and making ministers vulnerable to private interests and partisan groups.

"Happily the present government of Quebec is making laudable efforts to combat patronage."

Mr. Dion said that until recently the "powerful secret lobbies, notably the financiers and the clergy" in Quebec took maximum advantage of the shaky system.

Through "will - less or shady politicians," they had profited from natural resources, controlled intellectual resources and "obstructed" the formation of free public opinion.

By Sunday night only one body and parts of two others had been recovered. Both aircraft were found in deep water and their positions marked with buoys.

Witnesses said the Parmley aircraft, a twin-engine Cessna Aero-commander, was apparently preparing to land at Penticton airport when it was clipped in the tail by Lawko's single-engine Cessna 140.

The Cessna fell apart and the tail section dropped from the Commander. The Commander glided for a time, then plunged into the lake at a 60-degree angle, apparently exploding on entering the water.

One witness, lawyer Peter O'Brian, said he watched the crash through binoculars. He said Sibley seemed to struggle with the Commander's controls in a "terrible fight with death."

MONTREAL–APRIL 27–SHELL "4000" CAR RALLY OFFICIALS ANNOUNCE

CHEVY II

OVERALL WINNER!!

Chevy II has won the world's longest rally—an arduous dependability test over highways and back roads—in a 4000 mile duel against 46 other entries, including crack factory teams of North American and European cars. The Shell "4000" Car Rally is not a speed test. At all times, cars must travel within local limits, over a route specially chosen to test cars and drivers to their utmost. The emphasis is strictly on ruggedness, durability and operating efficiency. And, subject to final official confirmation, car No. 140—a Chevy II driven by Dick Doyen and Clay Gibbs—finished with a near perfect score, winning first overall with no if's, and's or but's! This victory proves that Chevy II has the power, performance, handling and reliability of a champion... that it has the ruggedness and reserve that mean long-life and lasting quality... that it is your most outstanding automotive value.

HERE'S WHAT THE WINNING TEAM SAYS:

DICK DOYEN — Driver

"We were able to maintain the required average speeds on the roughest roads. She sure handles well on gravel—she really does. A tremendous rough-road car. On the highway she would just sit there. Chevy II is just a great car to drive. That 120 hp Six has plenty of go. We had no power problems at all through the mountains or in maintaining high average speeds. We just kept barrelling through."

CLAY GIBBS — Navigator

"The reliability of the Chevy II is one of the things that kept us out front all the way. We were over roads that most people wouldn't dream of taking and the Chevy II took it all in her stride. We had no breakdowns or failures of any kind over the whole 4000 miles."

ERIC FRAMPTON — Rally Service Manager

"The gas mileage was exceptional. The Chevy II is a good solid car with no problems. We wouldn't have believed that it would be so easy to keep it rolling."

Russell Motors of Trenton Volkswagen Dealer Here

After five years of living in Belleville and working in Trenton, Murney Eaton sold his house in the city and moved to the town. That was three years ago, and you guessed it, he is now working in Belleville again. Mr. Eaton is sales manager of the new Russell Motors Volkswagen dealership, on W. Moira St. near North Front, in Belleville.

Moorman Motor Sales, on Pinnacle St., held the Volkswagen franchise in Belleville for nearly seven years, starting in May of 1956. But they also held a franchise for a line of water softening equipment, and as both businesses grew, showroom space became a problem. Eventually, it was obvious that one or the other had to go, and Ron Moorman decided to drop his VW sales, 5th to continue the service department.

It was several months before a new franchise for Belleville was awarded. Russell Motors, the VW dealer in Trenton, spent most of that time choosing a location. Their choice was the BP station, Vicanzi for mouths, on West Moira St. The station is within walking distance from the centre of the city, and on highway 14, but just outside the main rush-hour traffic jams.

Murney Eaton, sales manager for another dealer in Trenton, but a long-time admirer of the VW, agreed to run the new dealership. Final preparations began last Monday, and by Thursday the new dealership was open for business.

15 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

Mr. Eaton has fifteen years' experience as car salesman. Born and educated in Tweed, he moved to Belleville, married the former Elsie Clarke of Belleville, and took his first job selling cars in 1934. He worked for three Belleville car dealers from 1934 to 1939.

When the war left him without cars to sell after 1939, Mr. Eaton took a job with the railroad, as an engineer, until 1953. But he couldn't like the night work of railroading, and the car sales in 1953 were attractive, so he returned to the showrooms. He worked for dealerships in Belleville for two years, then moved to Trenton where he worked for the same dealer for eight years, rising to sales manager in the organization.

For the first five of those eight years, Mr. Eaton commuted from Belleville every day. Then after his house in Belleville — moved to Trenton — and three years later back to work in Belleville again. He plans to move to Belleville as soon as possible now. He has no doubts about the wisdom of the move, he expects the new dealership should be able to move about 200 units per year. He sold his first Volkswagen Thursday, in fact to Russell Hailey of Victory St. Belleville, and delivered it Friday.

Mr. Eaton is a member of the Shrine Club in Belleville and the Lions Club in Trenton. His hobby is fishing.

Al Smith is handling service for the new dealership. Born in Alberta, he moved to Bancroft with his parents when he was nine years old, and has lived in the area ever since. A licensed mechanic, he learned his trade at the VW dealership in Bancroft, with time out for three special courses at the Volkswagen Canada Service School, in Toronto. He moved to Cameron Street, Belleville and started work for Russell Motors, in Trenton, three months ago. He's no stranger to the city though; his wife has taught at Ontario School for the Deaf for five years.

Starting Woes Often Hard To Pinpoint

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Despite many discussions on the subject of hard starting, problems continue unsolved for many motorists. Rather than dwell on the most common causes, it may be helpful, therefore, to offer a brief rundown on all of the potential troublemakers.

Obviously, the battery must be strong, the terminals tight and clean, and the starting motor in proper working order. Ignition cable insulation should not be cracked, frayed or torn, and all connections should be positive and corrosion-free. The ignition coil must, of course, be efficient. Clean, properly-gapped spark plugs and distributor points are most important for easy starting, and ignition timing should be "on the button".

Carburetion must be precisely right, too. This involves the carburetor float level and mixture adjustment, the choke setting and operation, and fuel pump pressure. Other factors—such as the generator, engine oil, valves —influence starting, too, but the above checklist covers the more likely points.

S. C. writes: "Somehow there is water getting into the engine oil in my car. What is causing this?"

A leaking cylinder-head gasket, if the water content is substantial. Otherwise, it may be due to excessive crankcase condensation.

V. L. asks: "What causes the cooling system water to bubble up? Would this have anything to do with engine overheating?

Air can be drawn into the water by a leaky waterpump seal. The resulting air bubbles will affect the cooling efficiency of the water and encourage high temperatures.

From W. Q.: "One of the spark plugs in my '60 station wagon seems to run very hot, although it's the same type as all the others. Would this be caused by a bad gap setting?" This particular plug could be incorrectly or loosely installed.

P. B. writes: "You say hard starting when the engine is heated up is brought on by fuel trouble . . . or specifically, flooding. Do you realize that ignition coil trouble can also cause this?"

Yes, but this isn't very common. However, a coil may fail to function when it gets hot.

Ann Landers

Wife, Appalled by Exotic Decor in Hubby's Office

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN—Ten years ago when my husband moved his office into a new building he asked me to do the decorating. I worked awfully hard but the results were worth it. I used walnut panelling, beiges, browns, and burnt orange for contrast. Everyone remarked on the quiet elegance and the atmosphere of dignity and restfulness. Friends suggested I go in for decorating as a career.

Several weeks ago my husband mentioned re-doing his offices. His secretary is putting to work some of her ideas, he said.

Yesterday when I saw the finished offices I almost fainted. It looks like a Miami nightclub. I said nothing but I'm sure he sensed my disappointment. Should I come right out and tell him his offices are a monstrosity and that I'd be happy to re-do them for him?

He seems to think his secretary did a "sensational" job. Please advise.—OUTRAGED.

DEAR OUTRAGED—Say nothing. Any comment from you would sound like sour grapes.

Get busy on a decorating project at home. It will help to keep your mind off the office. And stay away from there. If you don't see it, it won't bother you so much.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Mother has always run my life. I thought when I married she'd stop, but no such luck.

Mother is a bright woman and I'm certain much of her advice is sound. I resist it, however, just because it comes from her. Now, we are having a violent disagreement and I'd like your views.

Our 3½-year-old son has been walking and talking since he was 11 months old. He's unusually active and I'm exhausted trying to keep him from destroying the house.

I've lost 20 pounds since this child was born. My doctor suggested nursery school, from 10.00 a.m. to 3.00 p.m., not only to give me relief, but to keep the boy busy. My mother says young women today are running away from the children and dodging their responsibilities by sticking their pre-school children in day nurseries. She says this produces insecure, rejected children. Is mother right or wrong?—NO MATCH FOR MOM.

DEAR NO MATCH—For every parent who is running an adult's life there must be an adult who is permitting it. Domination is a two-way proposition.

Day nurseries are excellent for some children and not good for others. Since your doctor recommended it for your child, take his advice. Precocious and active youngsters are better off in a nursery school than at home with a nervous, hair-pulling mother.

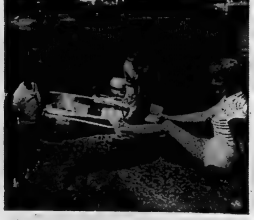
DEAR ANN LANDERS—With all this talk about physical fitness I am becoming more conscious of my husband's laziness. When Horace comes home from work all he wants to do is sit in the chair and watch TV and read the newspaper. He's even too lazy to get a drink of water for himself.

Some of the husbands of my friends enjoy tennis, badminton, handball, and even skiing. Horace says he never was the athletic type and he's not about to go in for body-building at this stage of life.

Horace is 58 years old, not overweight, just flabby. Can you think of something I can say to get him out of the rocking chair? Many thanks.—JUST THE WIFE.

DEAR WIFE—Leave the poor boy alone. For some men, pushing 60 is exercise enough.

A man who has never done much in the way of athletics should not start playing tennis and badminton at 58. It could kill him.



Some men get all the exercise they need serving as pallbearers for their buddies who tried to kid the calendar.

Planning a wedding? Leave nothing to chance. Ann Landers' newest booklet, "The Bride's Guide," has all the answers (from announcing the engagement to "who pays for what".) To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope and 40 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

STIRLING — Members of Stirling Lodge, No. 239, IOOF, Stirling Encampment, No. 80, and Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211 gathered for divine service on Sunday morning at St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling. The men paraded from the lodge hall on Charlotte Street to the church where they were met by the ladies. The group was led into the church by the color party, Bros. Ray Sine and Gordon Clarke. Sister Olive White-head and Brother Guy Bradshaw ushered the large group.

The Rev. F. J. Downing, and the Rev. F. A. Crook were in charge of the service. The junior choir sat in the choir loft. The service opened with the processional hymn, "Stand Up For Jesus" followed by the exhortation, general confession, absolution and the singing of the Psalms. The Bible lesson, creed and collects were followed by a hymn, "All Hail."

Mr. Downing gave a challenging message based on the theme "Fishers of Men."

The recessional hymn was "Onward Christian Soldiers" and a special benediction closed the impressive service.

8th Tyendinaga

8THE TYENDINAGA —Sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Fred Grey and family in the passing of Mr. Fred Grey, recently. Funeral service was held Sunday afternoon at St. Paul's Anglican Church. A Masonic service was held at the home on Friday evening with Worthy Master Jack Skelly in charge of the service.

Mrs. S. Cross and family spent Wednesday with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Boyle and family called Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cross. Mr. and Mrs. L. Lewis and Chris and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cross and Barbara also called at the same home in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cross entertained their family, on Easter Sunday.

The sunrise service held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Easter morning was well attended. It was followed a tasty breakfast after an impressive service was delivered by Mr. Williamson.

Miss Cheryl and Donna Cross are spending some holidays with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith, 2nd of Sidney.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Cross of Cannifton; Mr. and Mrs. J. Cross spent Easter Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alan Watson; also Mr. and Mrs. J. McLean called at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cross and family spent Easter Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Smith.

Astronaut Cooper May Be First to Experience Space Environment in Next Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr., preparing for the most ambitious U.S. manned space flight may become the first astronaut to experience a real space environment while protected only by a pressure suit.

"We want to see how well a man can live in a pressure suit," Cooper explained in discussing plans to cut off cabin pressure in his spacecraft so that cabin environment will be "the same as that outside—more than 100 miles above the earth.

The experiment is one of many tasks Cooper will attempt after he blasts off atop an Atlas rocket next month on a flight intended for 22 orbits lasting 34 hours. The flight could last an orbit or two longer if his supply of oxygen and fuel lasts.

Cooper will eject a flashing light sphere which will orbit the capsule, trail an orange balloon on a 100-foot line, evaluate different types of food, sleep, study the stars and do considerable space sightseeing.

TV ON BOARD

For the first time on an American manned space flight, a television camera will be aboard to beam earth pictures of the pilot in action.

Cooper's flight will broaden U.S. knowledge of man's ability to function during prolonged exposure to space, especially during a period more than 30 hours of weightlessness. Medical monitors on the ground will watch the chemistry for signs of strain. Afterwards he will receive thorough examinations by doctors and psychologists.

If the 36-year-old air force major completes the full flight, he will eclipse by a wide margin the previous American manned-space flights—the 15-minute suborbital rides of Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom, the three-orbit mission of John H. Glenn Jr. and Malcolm Scott Carpenter and the six-orbit trip of Walter M. Schirra Jr.

But he will fall far short of the tandem flights last August of Soviet cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich who circled the globe for approximately 94 and 70 hours, respectively.

STEP INTO SPACE

Not until the first flights of the two-man Gemini capsule next year will the U.S. surpass these Russian feats. Gemini pilots will remain in orbit for up to two weeks and rendezvous with other orbiting craft. A tentative plan calls for one of the astronauts to step outside the speeding vehicle to see what space is like.

Cooper's last will be a vital trial of a pressure suit's ability to protect the life of a man stepping into the hostile void of space.

Cooper said he will cut off the cabin pressure late in flight, probably on the 17th orbit, after most mission objectives have been achieved. Duration of the flight afterwards will depend on how much oxygen is required to return the cabin pressure to a normal 5.5 pounds per square inch, equal to ground level pressure.

It probably will be done in a very cautious manner," Cooper said. "You can decrease the cabin pressure in any desirable rate what type of mobility I have. Whatever level I depressurize to, whether it's almost completely, or all the way, I will try several tests, such as writing with a pencil, or trying to remove and replace things from storage areas, doing a simulated control task or moving about in the capsule."

The release of the balloon and the flashing light sphere will determine Cooper's ability to judge distances in space, essential for linking up with the Gemini vehicle with another satellite when both are traveling nearly 18,000 miles an hour.

The baseball-sized sphere will be jettisoned from the base of the capsule in such a manner that it will orbit Cooper's craft in ever-widening circles like a tiny satellite. Two high-testing xenon lights will flash once every second. Cooper will photograph them and make periodic observations and distance estimates for the three orbits it will be in sight.

TEST DRAG

The astronaut will pop the inflatable balloon out during the sixth orbit and tow it through space for at least one orbit before cutting it loose. A strain gauge will measure amount of atmospheric drag.

The TV monitors are designed to receive the pictures at the slow-scan rate of one frame every two seconds, compared with 30 frames a second for commercial TV. This will give the pictures a jerky quality, like the early silent movies.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will have conversion equipment here so that some of the pictures can be fed as swiftly as possible through the television networks to home sets.

Cooper hinted his space television debut may hold a few surprises.

Asked what he would be doing on the first time released to the public, he replied:

"No, I think I will keep that as a surprise."

Will he beam any comments directly to the viewing audience?

"Perhaps, yes."

About mid-flight, Cooper is scheduled to become the first American astronaut to snooze in space.

"We have an eight hour period scheduled for it," he reported. "If I oversleep, we have a built-in tone alarm system with which the ground can wake me up."

WAY DOWN THERE on the stage at the Quinte District Home and Sports Show, Bill Luck and Ted McDonall of the Belleville YMCA are throwing each other about for the benefit of some of the crowd on to the show Saturday. For the last day of the show, Belleville YMCA provided stage entertainment with a trampoline acrobatic display, a demonstration of dancing, and a judo club display.

Boy Friend Held on Car Theft Charge

CORNWALL (CP)—A 17-year-old Lancaster area farm girl, object of a mass search a week ago when it was predicted her body would be found in the area returned home briefly Saturday.

Then Verkuylen spent five hours with her family before returning to St. Andrews, Que., to be held by friend Michael Gryzecki, 24, a Martintown area farm hand. They both disappeared from the area April 20.

Gryzecki gave himself up to police Saturday on a charge of theft of a car that was released on $300 bail and will appear in court later this week.

About 500 volunteers searched 2,500 square miles of St. Lawrence and Ottawa Valley countryside last Sunday after two young seminary students, one in Ottawa, the other in Montreal, told police they had seen a girl resembling Miss Verkuylen in the Netherlands, said they learned through extra - sensory perception the girl had died after being beaten and raped.

First word that Jenke was alive came Wednesday when her uncle, Rev. John Verkuylen, of Holy Cork, Ont., Netherlands, said he had received a telephone call from her saying she and Gryzecki were in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Lives to Tell Of Drowning of 3 Companions

ALERT BAY, B.C. (CP) — James Tarkanen, 21, swam for two hours in near - freezing waters Saturday and lived to tell of the drowning of his three companions.

Tarkanen, a husky 200-pound fisherman, staggered ashore at Malcolm Island near this settlement off the east coast of Vancouver Island and about 200 miles northwest of Vancouver.

Exhausted but unharmed, Tarkanen said he and Ronald Myrnik, 20, Thomas Shiels, 21, and Raymond Eild, 21, were tipped from their 14-foot boat by a wave about halfway between Malcolm and Cormorant Island.

"Tommy Shiels and Ron Myrnti went down right away," he said. "But Eild and I stayed afloat for quite a while. Then I started to swim back to Sointula and I didn't see him again."

All four men were from Sointula, a small fishing community near here.

The RCMP crashboat recovered the boat drifting about 300 feet off Malcolm Island. There was no sign of the bodies.

Sisters United After 20 Years

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London model Valy Smith was reunited over the weekend with the sister she had long ago given up for dead since her escape from advancing Russian troops in her native Latvia in 1945.

"You can't help shed a tear," said Mrs. Smith Sunday night following her return from Flint, Mich., where the reunion was held.

Her sister, Mrs. Peter Nama lives of Kalamazoo, Mich.—just 150 miles from London—had told Valy as a missing person with the Red Cross earlier this month in the hope she could be located.

A Toronto friend of Mrs. Smith—the former Valda Ceiris —saw the missing persons advertisement in a Toronto newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Namateys immigrated from Germany to the United States 13 years ago and Mrs. Smith came to Canada in 1949 as a refugee.

The two sisters plan more reunions this summer.

WHACKED BY WALRUS

LONDON (Reuters)—A walrus rammed a fishing boat from Vladivostok and nearly sank it, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Saturday. The boat was holed and the walrus lost a tusk.

Home and Sport Show Success Say Sponsors

The party's over at Belleville Armories, and the Quinte District Home and Sport Show has been a complete success, according to the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce. Attendance rose from about 900 paid admissions Thursday evening to more than 1,700 Friday. Even with the competition from the Barbershoppers' competition at RCIVS, Saturday's attendance topped the 1,400 mark.

Children, who were admitted free, are not included in these figures. There will be some changes in next year's show though, according to Jaycees president Don Burr. Questionnaires were circulated to all exhibitors as the show closed, and the opinions of most indicate next year's show should be held earlier in the year, and should include more emphasis on the sport part of the show.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mirror says it has learned that Republican Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller and divorcee Margeretta Fliter Murphy will marry next month. In a copyrighted story, The Mirror quotes an unnamed friend of the New York governor.

Tensions Grow in Haiti And Greatest Slaughter in History May Be Coming

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Tensions are growing in this Caribbean land of tom tom and tonton. Government spokesmen talk of a possibility of "the greatest slaughter in history." Also growing is an officially led anti-U.S. campaign on a racist theme.

The tonton are tonton macoute—bogeymen in the Creole dialect of the Haitians. The tonton are armed toughs protecting President Francois Duvalier, self proclaimed renovator of this Negro republic.

A crucial date nears for the 56-year-old bespectacled doctor who has become an all-powerful ruler.

May 15 will mark the end of his original six-year term of office. But in 1961 Duvalier had his name printed on all ballots cast in an election for a single-house legislature. When the voting ended, Duvalier announced a plebiscite had given him a new six-year term as president starting May 22, 1961.

The government now is observing a "month of gratefulness," which is to end May 22 with a celebration of the start of the third year of Duvalier's new term.

VIOLENCE RUMORED

Beneath the calm surface in the capital have been rumors of imminent violence.

Duvalier has responded to the prospect of an uprising with a crackdown on the army, threats of a blood bath and an anti - United States campaign based on charges of racial oppression.

The blame was sounded by the president's personal physician, Dr. Jacques Fourcand, at ceremonies starting the "month of gratefulness."

Fourcand made clear that the foreigner was the United States.

Duvalier's power now is maintained by the tonton macoute. Usually dressed in blue jeans and sport shirts with revolvers strapped to their sides, they are the leaders of Duvalier's civilian militia. Its size is estimated at 15,000, the largest armed force in this nation of 4,000,000.

SAID TERRORIZED

Some Haitians say the people are terrorized by tonton macoute who jail, torture or kill anyone hostile to Duvalier. No public criticism of Duvalier is seen or heard.

Duvalier, distrustful of the 5,000 - man regular army, has been decimating the military leadership with jailings and wholesale dismissals. At least 72 high-ranking officers have been removed from key commands in two weeks.

The anti-U.S. policy apparently arises from resentment over the U.S. decision last year to halt economic and military aid. The U.S. provided Haiti with $66,000,000 in grant - in-aide or two wouldn't mean much.

The Communist Chinese are in that position.

Because they operate on the theory that a communized world is inevitable, they don't have to push. Because the policy of communism is expansion, what they naturally want is everything in sight.

Laos, right next door and on the road to all the rest of Southeast Asia, is the easiest and weakest obstacle and therefore the logical first step.

The United States, concerned that unless the Laotian fighting stops the Communists will triumph, appeals to Premier Khrushchev to help arrange the truce which was supposed to keep anyone from winning.

Naturally, since the rest of the world is watching and listening, Khrushchev says he's all for law and order. But he doesn't say he'll step in to be sure no one takes over.

ONLY A PAUSE

And, if he did, it wouldn't mean much. It would be only a pause. The fighting would begin again, in a month, six months or a year. Khrushchev doesn't think China will not try to take Laos, if only by a step at a time.

It doesn't even have to use its own troops. In a country as primitive, confused and divided as Laos, local Communist guerrillas are plenty good enough with weapons, ammunition and no doubt directed by China.

The Chinese would be far more direct and far more overfighting fires. Poor people drink it. Eighty per cent of deaths from cholera, connected with bad water, are in families paying less than 20 rupees ($4.36) a month.

FIRE THREAT

There is not enough water to fight fires. The overcrowded city is one big fire hazard.

Millions have come to the Calcutta area from Indian farms so overpopulated that they cannot support all the hungry new mouths. The population is 62 per cent male because men leave their wives and children in the villages, where living is cheaper, while competing for the scarce jobs here.

Fewer than two per cent of these men living by themselves are in quarters with a water tap. Only 16 per cent of families have one or more water taps to themselves.

"All these figures about the lack of facilities and overcrowding might sound pretty awful," says an official, "but actually they are only fairly substantiates. The population goes on expanding but nothing is being done to expand municipal facilities, so the situation gets worse."

By 1986 the population of the metropolitan area, a 50-mile-long strip three to five miles wide on either side of the Hooghly River, is expected to be 11,200,000.

NEED PORT

The reaction of some people is to give up on Calcutta. But there is no alternative to it "as a port, financial and administrative centre and major market" for Eastern India, according to a 1960 report of the World Bank.

Calcutta handles 43 per cent of India's exports, including its biggest earners of badly needed foreign exchange, jute and tea. Sitting up of the river port, low labor efficiency and other problems make shipping costs high. Also the lack of electrical power cuts production in the industrial complex around Calcutta by about a third.

The World Bank report said "the continued neglect of Calcutta's problems is one of the most dangerous weaknesses" of India's economic development plans.

The problems are being studied now. They are gigantic. Solutions and the money to implement them are not in sight.

While they are being sought, Calcutta swelters and stinks in the tropical sun and every day decays a little more.

Many Calcutta Residents Sleep, Cook and Bathe on Sidewalks, Water Is Vile

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—Calcutta stinks of human misery. Streets are crowded with ill-clothed people and occasional sacred cows. Some 30,000 persons live there, sleeping, cooking, bathing on the sidewalks.

Uncollected garbage and stagnant open sewers breed disease - carrying insects in the steaming tropical heat.

Humidity spills from decaying slums where "home" is a space under a staircase, a corner of a room, an awning in a courtyard.

Take a few statistics: 89 per cent of the families live in no more than one room. Fewer than 40 per cent of the 6,500,000 persons in the Calcutta area have sanitary sewage facilities. Cholera is endemic, killing 1,000 more annually.

Take a drink of water: The best piped water tastes vilely. Doctors advise boiling all of the best water distributed by the city. The city also distributes untreated river water that more than 500,000 persons drink. Millions use backyard wells.

Water is the most pressing problem facing this big seaport, one of the world's largest cities.

To water are linked sanitation and health. Other massive problems are housing and transportation.

GET HELP

Since 1961 the Calcutta metropolitan planning organization has been studying ways of combating these problems. About a dozen U.S. advisers are financed by $1,473,000 from the Ford Foundation. Four other advisers come from several nations.

Local officials try not to mention the U.S. advisers too loudly. The desperate poverty and vast unemployment of Calcutta has made this a riot-prone stronghold of Indian Communism. It could make the adviser's work difficult if the idea got around that Americans were trying to run the city.

Actually, the city looks as if no one has been running it. It just seems to have run down by itself.

The system for filtered water was laid in 1870 to provide 4,000,000 gallons a day for a population of 400,000. Now 2,500,000 whose leaks allow contamination handle 82,000,000 gallons a day while needs are estimated at 400,000,000.

A parallel pipe system carries 90,000,000 gallons of raw river water that was originally intended for washing streets and

Idea of Peace in Laos A Myth Say Observers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The idea of peace in Laos is a myth.

If you were weak but getting stronger and Russia, time was on your side, you could afford to inch along to get what you needed. A drive here, a thrust there, and you wouldn't mean much.

The Communist Chinese are in that position.

Because they operate on the theory that a communized world is inevitable, they don't have to push. Because the policy of communism is expansion, what they naturally want is everything in sight.

Laos, right next door and on the road to all the rest of Southeast Asia, is the easiest and weakest obstacle and therefore the logical first step.

It doesn't even have to use its own troops. In a country as primitive, confused and divided as Laos, local Communist guerrillas are plenty good enough with weapons, ammunition and no doubt directed by China.

The Chinese would be far more direct and far more overhearing and overwhelming if they had a plentiful supply of the nuclear weapons they are trying to put together. That time almost certainly will come.

The worst days are ahead.

The local Communists in Laos are doing pretty well. After Laos, if it falls, the story will be repeated in one form or another with Burma, Thailand and Cambodia.

Pressmen Ready To Call Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Pressmen from about 70 Toronto commercial printing plants Sunday voted to strike if they unless and management fail to settle wage negotiations. No deadline was set.

About 515 members of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union (CLC) voted by a 96-per-cent majority to give the union executive power to call a strike.

Local President Purdy Churchill said wages are the main point of disagreement. The last contract expired in November.

Boys Charged With Arson in $175,000 Fire

TORONTO (CP)—Two seven-year - old boys have been charged with arson after a fire Saturday, causing at least $175,000 damage to an east-end factory and apartment building, left six families homeless.

Police said the boys are alleged to have bought boxes from a nearby store, stacked them against the rear of the building and set them on fire.

Firemen estimated damage to the Glenayre Knit Wear factory and its contents at $75,000; to the apartment building, $75,000; to the apartments, $2,000 and another $1,500 to adjacent buildings.

Earlier estimates had from firemen at the scene placed the damages as high as $1,000,000.

The youths will appear in juvenile court today.

Twenty adults and 11 children escaped from their flatted apartments above a butcher shop and hotel which suffered smoke and water damage.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The taped music slowed and sighed to a melodic stop. The "orchestra conductor" pressed a button and gave his mystical ribbonmen "five."

These brief pictures of lookalike proteges Pat and Janie McCutcheon skated gracefully to rinkside. Family coach and music director "Dad" Dr. Bill McCutcheon and I were the only other people in Memorial Arena.

No wonder, it was the ungodly hour of 6.30 a.m. Outside life was scarcely stirring south of the four corners. An occasional taxi cruised the main thoroughfares. A lone street cleaner trundled his cart curb-side on Pinnacle. Business was not so good since horses went out of circulation.

But to vivacious Peg and Janie it was just another hard training and practice session. For some time now they have been "driving hard" to perfect the precision routines that they will use in their "pairs" in the forthcoming Toronto Rotary Ice Extravaganza.

They have been shuttling between this city and Toronto for weeks, practising for 1½ hours in the morning here; going to school, then leaving for the big city for further instruction and rehearsal.

They have been "working" under the expert eyes of Allen Lund, well known CBC choreographer and "Uncle" Stanley G. Reid, producer of the big show.

Their big moment of course comes in their own special number in which they are billed as "The McCutcheon Sisters." This will be their second or third appearance in their own act and they are highly regarded by officials of the show and the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club, of which they are members.

They are looking forward to the Toronto Ice Revue with all the enthusiasm of youngsters of their ability and age. They chatted and chattered about its various features and top-flight stars—and about heir roles.

They fairly bubbled with the information that such champions as Don McPherson, Sjoukje Dijkstar, Eve and Paul Romano and Marin and Otto Jelinik, near professionals with the Ice Capades, will be there. Other world champion team members are Wendy Griner and Guy Revell and Bobbie Wilkes.

There will be skaters from twenty clubs making a cast of 450, a lot of them being featured in special production numbers. Jay Humphrey, 14, sensational junior champion will be seen as will Petra Burka.

Jane and Peggy will take part in a colorful special "Percy the Penguin," with a cast of 100. They take the part of husky dogs garbed in elaborate "husky" costumes. They with LaFrance and Desjardins are featured in the production.

The Rotary Show, scheduled for Maple Leaf Gardens on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at this week, will also feature Andra Kelly, wife of the famous hockey-M.P. star, "Red" Kelly, who has visited this city on more than one occasion.

"The Wild Cats," "Mounties," "Festival of Tulips" and the "Medley of Waltzs" are some of the special features of this colorful ice spectacular. Willy Bull, the Prince of Ice comedians from California will be a special attraction.

The staging of the revue culminates months of arduous training under the direction of Stanley G. Reid and his associates. The proceeds will provide assistance for Crippled Children, the Canadian Olympics and World Championship Skating Funds.

Sets New 16 Feet, Five Record

Breaks World Vault Mark

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Brian Sternberg vaulted 16 feet, five inches for a world pole vault record Saturday at the Penn relays but indicated it was a holiow record.

The 19-year-od University of Washington sophomore opposes his own discus record and a quartet from Arizona State lowered the mile relay record in the his fibre-glass pole, but uses it.

"It's a case of, if you can't win, join 'em," said Sternberg.

"If they're going to use the fibre-glass, I want to be the best," said the 170-pounder.

His vault eclipsed the recognized outdoor record of 16-3½ set last June by Pentti Nikula of Kauhaus, Finland. It was an inch higher than the unofficial 16-4 of last April 19 by John Pennel of Northern Louisiana State.

Only outdoor vaults are recognized for world records.

WILL TAKE YEAR

It will be about a year before Sternberg's mark comes before the International Amateur Athletic Federation for certification as a record.

Sternberg doesn't believe it will ever get to the IAAF.

"I don't expect the record to stand long, the way the boys are vaulting these days, especially the Finns," he said.

The 6-foot-1 Sternberg never before vaulted higher than 15-8 outdoors. Indoors, he has vaulted 16-3½.

Sternberg's record was one of three world marks shattered Saturday, and another was bettered but won't be allowed because of wind.

Al Oerter of New York broke his own discus record and a

Abby Hoffman, 16, of Toronto won the initial games running of the women's 800 metres.

And the crew from the University of B.C. in Vancouver won handily in the eight-oared event—premier competition in rowing.

Canadians also won two silver medals in swim relays and one silver in shooting, two bronze medals in swim and in individual swims, a bronze in track and two bronze medals in skeet shooting Sunday.

HAVE FOUR GOLD

Coupled with a silver and two bronze medals in Saturday's swimming events, they pushed Canada's medal totals to four gold, 13 silver and 17 bronze—second only to the strong United States team which continued its domination of the over - all scene.

The U.S., which swept all 16 gold medals in swimming and three of four in diving, now has 61 golds, 36 silvers and 8 bronze.

The Canadian medal winners Saturday and Sunday, in addition to Miss McCredie, Miss Hoffman and the UBC eights:

Silver

Team centre-fire pistol, 25 metres (Mike Dolg, Brandon, Man., Bill Hare, Ottawa, Gary McMann, Dartmouth, N.S., and Fernand Lapointe, Quebec City).

Men's 800-metre freestyle relay team (Ralph Hutton, 15, and Sandy Gilchrist, both of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Alex Meinhardt, 19, and Ed Catalet, 20, both of Vancouver).

Women's 400-metre freestyle relay team (Sharon Pierce, 15, Prince Rupert, B.C., Eileen Weir, 17, Toronto, and Lynne Pomfret, 16, and Mary Stewart, 17, both of Vancouver) and Sandy Gilchrist, men's 1,500 metre freestyle.

Bronze

Ralph Hutton, men's 1,500-metre freestyle.

Lynne Pomfret, women's 200-metre freestyle.

Lynne Pomfret, women's 400 metre freestyle.

Eileen Weir, women's 100-metre backstroke.

Noreen Deuling, 20, Winnipeg, women's 800-metre run.

Barney Hartman, 46, Ottawa, skeet shooting individual.

Skeet shooting team (Hartman, Eddy Tuvu, Rosemount, Que., and Leslie Clegg and Hugh Garland, both of Montreal).

JUST MISS ONE

Canada just missed another bronze when Judy Stewart, the petite 19-year-old from the Toronto suburb of West Hill, placed fourth in women's 10 - metre platform diving, less than a point behind Maria Teresa Cooper and Nancy Poulsen of the U.S. took first and second places, respectively.

Tome Dinsley, 22, of Vancouver, gold medalist in springboard diving here, finished fifth in the men's platform diving Sunday as Bob Webster, the Olympic champion from the U.S. won.

The strong crew from UBC, Canada's only entry in the seven rowing events, was favored and it came through as expected, finishing nearly four lengths ahead of Brazil and Uruguay. The UBC time for the 2,000-metre distance was 6:18.

Members of the winning crew were cox David Overton and oarsmen Daryl Sturdy, Marc Lemieux, Pete Browne, Tom Gray, Alden Worcheleff, Tom Stokes, Roy McIntosh and Dave Dewar.

A dense fog held up the start for half an hour but when it lifted weather conditions were ideal for four races. Then a cross-wind chopped up the artificial lake and made the going more ragged, especially for the eights.

NOT BOTHERED

It didn't bother the Canadians, however. They understroked their four rivals by from four to four strokes with a steady, water-eating 36 to 37 minute and led all the way.

The U.S. won four gold medals in rowing—single and double sculls, pairs with coxswain and four without. Cox. Uruguay took the pairs without Cox and Argentina took the fours with Cox.

Miss McCredie, a five-foot 10-inch 175-pounder, surprised as she reached the end of the record of 48 feet. two inches by more than two feet and beat her own previous best by nearly four feet. She was born in Belleville.

Miss Hoffman won by 10 metres over Lea De Feart of the United States and her time of 2:23.2 stands as a Games record since this was the first time it was run at the Pan-American Games. Miss Deuling was third in 2:14.8.

The U.S., which took gold medals in men's shot put and high jump and women's broad jump as the track and field program opened Saturday, added four more Sunday in the pole vault, where Dave Tork set a Games record of 16 feet, ¼ inch 400-metre run, men's discus and women's 100-metre sprint.

IRON SPRINT

But Cuba's Enrique Figuerola won the men's 100-metre sprint in U.S. speedsters and Venezuela's Arquimedes Herrera finished second. Ira Murchison got the bronze for the U.S.

Alberto Suarez of Argentina won the 5,000-metre run Saturday and Marlene Ahrens of Chile took the women's javelin title.

SUGGESTS CHANGE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee Braves suggests all major-league umpires be put under the jurisdiction of the baseball commissioner's office and work both leagues. In this way you would have uniformity throughout," Bragan said. "You would not have National League umpires and American League umpires, but major - league umpires. "The strike zone would be the same and rule interpretations would have uniformity. For instance, everyone would call the balk the same way."

Bisons Nip Hershey 2-1, Lead 3-2

BUFFALO (AP)—Buffalo Bisons, stymied repeatedly by Ed Chadwick's brilliant goaltending, got a goal from Doug Robinson with one second left in regulation time and another from him in overtime to defeat Hershey Bears 2-1 Sunday night and take a 3-2 lead in the American Hockey League Calder Cup playoffs.

The crowd of 8,279 went wild when Robinson pulled a 15-foot shot for his first goal. Then, with 7:29 gone in overtime, he took a goalmouth pass from Art Stratton to score again.

Marc Reaume's goal in the second minute of the second period had stood for Hershey until Robinson's first score. Reaume skated in from his own end to score unassisted.

Chadwick, who made 50 saves a week ago in shutting out Buffalo in the second game of the best-of-seven series, had 43 Sunday night. Buffalo goalie Denis DeJordy had 44 but not nearly as many tough ones as Chadwick.

GETS MISCONDUCT TAB

Reaume was slapped with a match misconduct penalty, in the second period when he pushed referee John Ashley after Ashley called a high-sticking penalty on him. Many spectators thought Reaume also took a punch at the referee but Reaume said he pulled his fist back but did not swing.

Ashley called a total of 72 minutes in penalties in the first two periods but the third and overtime periods went without a penalty. Ashley called seven minors, a major, two 10-minute misconducts and the match misconduct on Reaume, and nine minors, a major and a 10-minute misconduct on Buffalo.

The series shifts to Hershey Tuesday for the sixth game and back here Saturday for a seventh, if necessary.

CANADIAN WINS

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Wilbert (Greeley) McClure pounded out a unanimous decision over scrappy Ted Wright Saturday night in a 10-round middleweight bout at Toledo's Sport Arena. In a lightweight preliminary, Fernand Chretien of Toronto defeated Richie Grassley of Providence by a technical knockout in the first round of a scheduled six-round bout.

Flyers Head West For 'Memorial'

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Niagara Falls Flyers, picking up where their predecessors left off 11 years ago, are heading west for another crack at hockey's Memorial Cup.

The Flyers, successors to the Canadian Junior champion Barrie Flyers of 1952, won the eastern title Saturday night by handing a 12-0 hammering to the new Espanola, Ont., Eagles in the best-of-seven eastern final.

Opponents of the Niagara Falls team, which moved here three years ago from Barrie, will be Edmonton Oil Kings, who have been in the last three cup finals without winning any. The best-of-seven series will be played in Edmonton starting Thursday.

Happy Emms' Flyers, Ontario Hockey Association Junior Achampions, took a four-straight run through the Espanola team, coached by new Northern Ontario Hockey Association Junior League, the first in years.

On the way to the eastern title, they went through four playoff series in 18 games, taking 16. They won in straight games from the junior Montreal Canadiens in their league final.

BRUSH PAST EAGLES

After meeting some difficulty with Eagles in quarter-series, the Flyers brushed by them with ease Saturday night, with league scoring champion Wayne Maxner scoring four goals and collecting three assists.

Flyers came by five of their goals in the first period, three in the second and another five in the last session before a standing - room - only crowd of 3,500 fans gave the team an attendance of 105,774 for 35 games this season.

Garry Barmer, Terry Crisp and Gary Dornhoefer came up with two goals apiece, and Bill Goldsworthy, Bill Flanahan and Don Awrey had singles.

Making his first start in the nets for Flyers, Niagara Falls native George Holmes had 31 stops, including clutch saves at one point, when Flyers played shorthanded for four minutes in the third period.

Rookie defenceman John Arbour saved his shutout in the second period by batting aside a puck trickling over the goal line after Holmes had been hit by an incoming forward.

HORSE DIES

ESHER, England (Reuters)— Gregory Peck's race horse, Owen's Sedge, died from internal injuries after falling at a steeplechase at Sandown Park Saturday. Owen's Sedge, a 10-year-old gelding which Peck bought only two months ago, ran seventh in the Grand National at Aintree, England March 30.

Wondrous Warren, 42, Has 4-1 Record

Highest April Mark

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Poor old Warren Spahn. He ain't what he used to be. He's better.

Wondrous Warren, who turned 42 last Sunday, pitched Milwaukee Braves into third place in the National League Sunday as Braves swept a three-game series from San Francisco Giants 3-1.

It was Spahn's fourth victory against one defeat and it was an epic one. Not because the wily southpaw spaced 11 Giants hits or because he did not issue a single base on balls. More important than that.

It marked the first time in Spahn's illustrious major league career, dating back to 1942, that he registered four victories in the month of April. Spahnie is a notoriously slow starter and he usually doesn't get the old soupbone cranked up until after the All-Star break.

Just wait until the weather warms up.

Elsewhere in the league—St. Louis Cardinals whipped Los Angeles Dodgers 9-5 for its seventh straight victory, Pittsburgh Pirates topping the standings by four percentage points over Cards, won their fourth straight with a 3-2 decision over New York Mets; Chicago's surprising Cubs rallied for four runs in the eighth to defeat Philadelphia Phils 4-1; and Houston Colts snapped a ninth-inning tie to nip Cincinnati Reds 3-2.

BEAT SAN FRANCISCO

Saturday, Milwaukee beat San Francisco 6-5, St. Louis shut out Los Angeles 3-0, Chicago beat Philadelphia 4-2, Pittsburgh beat New York 2-1 and Cincinnati beat Houston 1-0.

Spahn lost his bid for lifetime shutout No. 37 when Giants scored in the ninth but he gained career victory No. 331 as he turned in his fourth complete game of the campaign. The majors' second oldest player—only Stan Musial is older—needs just 14 more victories to tie Tim Keefe for seventh place among baseball's biggest all-time winners.

Henry Aaron led Braves' attack against loser Juan Marichal. He collected two of his team's six hits, including his seventh home run.

Ken Boyer drove in three run with a pair of home runs and Ernie Broglio registered his third victory as Cardinals nipped Dodgers. Broglio needed relief help in the seventh inning to keep alive his hex over Dodgers. He has beaten them four straight times.

SINGLES DECISIVE

Three eighth - inning ingles, capped by Bill Mazeroski's with all, scored the run that snapped a 2-2 tie and gave Pittsburgh its fourth straight, the last three against Mets. Don Schwall, the Pirate starter, was charged with a balk which raised the National League's total to 76. That tied the league record set in 1950.

Houston inched into ninth place, past Mets, with its victory over Reds. Bob Aspromonte singled home Carl Warwick with the tie-breaking run in the ninth.

Philadelphia's Chris Short had a shutout until two out in the eighth. Then two singles and back-to-back homers by Ron Santo and Ernie Banks gave Cubs four runs and the game.

League Discusses New Loop

Softball To Open May 20

Three city teams in the Belleville and District Softball league took A "maybe" attitude toward the newly - proposed Eastern Ontario Softball League at a B. and D. loop meeting held at the Club Canada yesterday.

While Trudeaus, Bobcats and Joyces agreed to attend a meeting, if it is held, only the Trenton RCAF Flyers appeared enthusiastic over Kingstonian Harold Langabeer's brainchild.

Ed Slaught, new business manager of the RCAF team, said that the Flyers are very interested in an Eastern Ontario league but would want to enter such a loop as a team, not as part of an All-Star club.

Langabeer's idea was to have all - star clubs from Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough, Oshawa, Cobourg, Trenton and possibly Picton, playing weekend games.

B. and D. Commissioner Clifford Belch will forward the clubs' opinions on the matter to the Kingston organizer. There is thought that an organization meeting will be held, likely in Belleville, for the proposed league around the second week of May.

Meanwhile, the Belleville and District league managers cleaned up much of their own business at yesterday's gathering.

The league will open on Monday, May 20 and the four teams will play an 18 - game schedule ending on July 18.

Belch offered a rough schedule for approval yesterday but some minor changes will be made before it is finished and printed, likely around May 8.

RCAF will help the league's newest entry, Trudeau Motors, pry the lid off the schedule in a 6.45 game at the CNRA Park on May 20, the official May 24th holiday.

Other games in that first week will probably have Bobcats at Joyces on Tuesday, Joyces at the RCAF on Wednesday and Trudeaus at Bobcats on Thursday. All games in Belleville will start at 6.45 while RCAF's Wednesday night games will commence at 8.15.

The teams also agreed to play rained out games on Saturday nights, whenever possible, to avoid a build - up of such at the completion of the schedule.

There is also a possibility that the "California Cuties", a top touring softball attraction, will be in this area for games against the Belleville All-Stars on June and/or against RCAF in Trenton on June 6. The attraction is said to be touring without a guarantee this season, settling for a percentage of the gate.

All league teams are swinging into their spring training program, Joyces and Bobcats holding their initial practices yesterday while Joyces start at the Alemite Field Wednesday night at 6.30.

Kansas Recaptures First Place

Yastrzemski Boosts Average 44 Points

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Carl Yastrzemski pulled out of college to concentrate on baseball.

Majoring in hitting a baseball, he appears well on his way to a master's degree.

The 23 - year - old outfielder, who gave up off-season attendance at Notre Dame to better prepare for his job with Boston Red Sox, earned high marks Sunday with a performance that sent him near the top of the American League batting class.

Yastrzemski rapped out six hits in 19 trips to the plate, including a game-clinching double in the opener, as the Red Sox swept Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 12 innings and 6-2. The barrage zoomed his average 44 points to .365, second in the league to the .400 owned by Wayne Causey of Kansas City Athletics.

Causey hit his average with a 3-for-5 day as the amazing Athletics recaptured first place by shading Washington Senators 6-5 with a four-run eighth inning.

Dean Chance pitched a three-hitter as Los Angeles Angels clipped Baltimore Orioles 3-2, dropping the Orioles to fourth place from first.

FORD, WINS ONE

Whitey Ford won his first of the year and hit a home run in a 5-0 victory over Cleveland Indians that carried New York Yankees into second spot one game back of the Athletics and 15 percentage points ahead of Boston. Detroit Tigers ended a losing string at three, whipping Minnesota Twins 4 - 0 behind Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching.

On Saturday, Kansas City trampled Washington 7-3, the Yankees overwhelmed Cleveland 8-1, Baltimore downed Los Angeles 4-2, Boston took Chicago 9-5 and Minnesota beat Detroit 8-3.

Yastrzemski, who has been studying under his left-field predecessor, Ted Williams, came through against an assortment of Chicago pitchers in Sunday's doubleheader sweep. His biggest hit was the 12th-inning double in the opener, against flutterball artist Hoyt Wilhelm. Ronnan Mejias scored the clincher on the hit.

Dick Stuart, 0-for-5 in the opener and taking a Fenway Park razzing, stilled the jeers in the second game, clouting a homer and single good for three runs batted in. Bill Monbouquette won with a five-hitter, while Eddie Fisher took his fourth straight setback.

The Athletics produced their four big runs in the eighth against the Senators on singles by Ed Charles and Chuck Essegian, a wild throw by losing pitcher Claude Osteen that went for a three-base error, George Alusik's single and another bad throw by Chuck Cottier.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE AUDITOR'S REPORT FOR 1962

AUDITOR'S REPORT

His Worship the Mayor,
Members of the Municipal Council and the Ratepayers,
THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE
Gentlemen:

We have completed our examination of the books and records of the City of Belleville and the statements which are submitted for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1962 and attach hereto the statements and summaries mentioned in the index.

In connection therewith we offer the following comments:

CITY — CAPITAL FUND

WORK IN PROGRESS

This consists of expenditures to December 31, 1962 as follows:

|---|---|
| North Street Bridge | $143,991 |
| Local improvements | 437,170 |
| | 581,161 |
| Total estimated cost of the North Front Street Bridge is $401,400 of which the City's share will be approximately $154,520. The balance of the cost will be being shared equally by the Railway Canadian Pacific Railway Canadian National Railway and the Department of Highways of Ontario. | 577,271 |

CASH IN BANK

This represents public pledges received in connection with construction in prior years at the Belleville General Hospital.

We confirmed this balance by certificate from the bank.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL FACILITIES

This represents the cost of construction of sewage disposal facilities as reported by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

EXTRAORDINARY EXPENDITURES

These are related to the amount of the outstanding debenture debt thereon and consist of the following:

|---|---|
| Hastings County Home | $ 97,453 |
| Hastings County Court House | 115,600 |
| Township of Thurlow—local improvements—sewers | 114,042 |
| | 326,185 |

The Township of Thurlow — local improvements represent the outstanding debenture debt at December 31, 1962 assumed on annexation. An order has been received from the Ontario Municipal Board regarding annexation adjustments. Necessary changes, therefore, will be reflected in 1963.

DEBENTURE DEBT

Debenture debt transactions during the year were as follows:

|---|---|
| Debentured by City of Belleville | |
| Outstanding December 31, 1961 | $5,616,780 |
| less 1962 | 686,213 |

| Debentures assumed from other municipalities: | |
| Township of Thurlow | 448,681 |
| less paid in 1962 | 33,817 |
| | 382,864 |
| County Court House—city share | 309,980 |
| Outstanding December 31, 1962 | 5,368,847 |
| Debentures assumed by other Municipalities: | |
| Outstanding December 31, 1961 | 722,739 |
| less paid in 1962 | 53,316 |
| Outstanding December 31, 1962 | 687,443 |
| Net Debenture Debt December 31, 1962 | 5,371,004 |

The debentures issued in 1962 by the Corporation were sold in the United States at par and bear interest at the rate of 5¼% per annum. These debentures are payable in U.S. currency. The foreign exchange premium received in the amount of $27,013 has been set aside in a reserve fund and invested to meet the the discount on Canadian currency when paying the principal and interest on these debentures in subsequent years.

SCHOOL BOARD DEBT

These amounts are the advances made by the Ontario Water Resources Commission on behalf of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties for the construction of sewage disposal facilities.

Repayment of principal to the Ontario Water Resources Commission is under an agreement existing December 1, 1957 at an annual rate of 3.5% or $180,138 including interest on the capital cost. Repayment is to be made annually in equal blended payments of principal and interest for a period of thirty years.

MUNICIPAL LOANS

These consist of the following:

|---|---|
| Bank loans: | |
| North Front Street Bridge | $144,700 |
| Local improvements | 497,208 |
| | 641,908 |

We confirmed the above by certificate from the bank

CITY — REVENUE FUND

CASH ON HAND

Cash on hand was verified by actual count and is made up as follows:

|---|---|
| Till change funds | $ 150 |
| Cash receipts: | |

| Relief Fund | 1,593 |
| Arena receipts | 360 |
| | 2,885 |

CASH IN BANK

The bank balance was confirmed by certificate from the bank.

ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE

These consist of the following:

|---|---|
| Public Works — for private work done | $36,093 |
| Kitsmen Club of Belleville—for debenture debt charges on Swimming Pool — 1950-1961 | 7,464 |
| High School Board — re Health | 3,100 |
| Sundry — permits, fines, etc. | 3,000 |
| | 43,479 |

The amount of $7,300 receivable as agreements represents balances due from Consumers Mortgage Corporation, purchasers of houses and has been confirmed by letter from that Corporation.

We examined statements of balances owing on Public Works accounts as of November 1, 1962 with a request to report to us any disagreements immediately. After investigation by us the replies were received. Adjustments resulting from our examination of the accounts and the information received from the City Solicitor provided adequate provision for doubtful accounts in the amount of $9,500 is adequate.

DUE FROM PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

This consists of the following:

|---|---|
| Unemployment relief | $ 38,548 |
| Unconditional Hospital Grant—1962—estimated | 13,082 |
| Unconditional Grant—1962—estimated | 13,000 |
| Child Maintenance | 13,000 |
| Homemakers and Nurses | 2,000 |
| Balance of Hospital Grant—1961—estimated | 30,000 |
| Emergency Measure Organization | 2,185 |
| Winter Works | 1,000 |
| Paving at Federal Building | 2,122 |
| Municipal Assistance special levy | 1,000 |
| | 107,417 |

DUE FROM OTHER MUNICIPALITIES

This consists of the following:

|---|---|
| Unemployment relief —share of regulary | $ 38,548 |
| School fees and sundry accounts | 5,975 |
| Village of Thomasburg—1958 local improvement work | 2,000 |
| Township of Sidney — re annexation | 9,672 |
| Sundry amounts for fire protection, relief, etc | 1,755 |
| | 18,741 |

TAXES RECEIVABLE — EXCEPT SPECIAL LEVY

Statements showing balances owing were mailed by us to all taxpayers whose taxes did not prepay taxes and a portion of taxes for 1962 remained unpaid December 31, 1962 with a request to report any disagreements to us. We received a number of replies pointing out errors in names and revision in connection with realty taxes. Returns to us for wrong address were 73 Business tax notices and 33 Realty tax notices. After examination by the Assessment Commissioner returned to your Treasurer. From our examination and information received we feel that the allowance for doubtful collections is adequate.

The total taxes receivable at December 31, 1962 may be summarized as follows:

|---|---|
| Taxes levied outstanding | $316,603 |
| Business taxes outstanding | 53,348 |
| | 369,951 |

PROPERTY ACQUIRED FOR TAXES

The Municipality acquired two properties at Tax Sale in 1961. One property was redeemed in 1962 by the owner. A deed has not yet been received by the Municipality for the other property.

We would recommend that a reserve be made of the properties contained herein with a view to possible sales.

TAXES RECEIVABLE — 1962 SPECIAL LEVY

We mailed notices to all taxpayers for the 1962 and 1961 Initial instalments outstanding as of January 20, 1963 with a request to report any disagreements to us. The replies received were referred to the Assessment Commissioner for investigation and were brought over to us on his return. A summary of this special levy showing amounts outstanding by years is submitted herewith. Subject to the explanation and information received we feel that the allowance of $3,000 for uncollectible taxes is adequate.

TEMPORARY LOANS

This was authorized by certificate from the bank.

SPECIAL LEVY DEBENTURE ISSUE

Special legislation was passed in 1960 permitting the City to issue debentures to cover the flooding indebtedness outstanding at December 31, 1956. The total amount of the debentures issued was $272,219 @ 5½%. Collections on the special levy to December 31, 1962 have enabled the payments to be made on account of principal in 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963 and part payment of 1964. Terms of the issue provided for annual repayment. The balance of the issue at December 31, 1962 is $94,700 and represents the amount outstanding on debenture No. 5 dated December 31, 1954.

ACCOUNTS PAYABLE

The accounts payable were verified by an examination of vouchers on hand and payments made subsequent to the end of the year.

DUE TO OTHER MUNICIPALITIES

This consists of the following:

|---|---|
| Township of Thurlow — re annexation | $97,422 |
| County of Hastings | 13,126 |
| Sundry Municipalities — re relief | 1,000 |
| | 61,548 |

An order has been received from the Ontario Municipal Board regarding annexation adjustments with the Township of Thurlow. Necessary changes therefore will be effective in 1963 and will be a matter of interest when arriving at the 1963 estimates.

TAX SALE OUTSIDERS

This amount of $4,153 represents receipts at tax sale in excess of taxes and costs on the properties.

SYSTEM

At the time of our interim audit we made recommendations to your City Manager concerning the system of accounts. As a result some of the recommendations were put into effect within 1962 and have been transferred to the Treasurer's office.

We have subsequently reconsidered the establishment of a control over local improvement charges. Your Treasurer has commenced work on this matter.

TRUST AND SPECIAL RESERVE FUNDS

RITCHIE PLAYGROUND TRUST FUND

We confirmed the balance by certificate from the bank.

We examined the investments which consist of the following:

|---|---|
| Town of Trenton debentures — due 1963 | $ 2,043 |
| City of Belleville debentures — due 1967 | 3,000 |
| Province of Ontario Savings Certificate — due 1966 | 2,000 |
| | 7,043 |

The terms of this trust require that the income of this fund be used for the expense of instructors for small children in the public playgrounds in East and West Belleville.

RESERVE FUND FOR FUTURE PROPERTY PURCHASES

We confirmed the balance by certificate from the bank.

We examined the $4,000 of 5% Victoria & Grey Trust Investment Certificate due July 1, 1966.

The money remaining in this fund at December 31, 1962 may be used only for the purchase of Park land.

RESERVE FUND FOR FOREIGN EXCHANGE

We examined the 5¼% Victoria & Grey Trust Investment Certificate — $27,013 due December 31, 1966.

The money in this fund is to be used to offset the discount on Canadian funds required when paying annual principal and interest on U.S. debentures.

It is a requirement that council approve establishing this fund. We understand that the matter will be presented to council for approval in 1963.

GENERAL

We have requested a legal opinion as to whether certain transactions discussed in 1962 were within the powers of the Board. These matters are as follows:

(1) Purchase of equipment on terms payable over a period of 36 months.

(2) Bank borrowing to meet current expenses.

(3) Employment of a teacher for physical training who is not a legally qualified teacher.

(4) Payment to a teacher to enable him to attend a summer school course.

We have not yet received the legal opinion on these matters. In addition to the above we understand that some of the students at the school have been charged certain contributions and the Board is not required to pay a portion of tuition fees for them. We feel that the Board is required to take the position that Section 21 (1) of the Separate Schools Act to obtain its proper revenue.

Take Final Series From Sudbury 160-133

Wilsons Win "C" Hoop Crown

Trenton's classy Wilson Concrete crew added the Ontario Intermediate "C" basketball championship to their trophy shelf on Saturday night when they topped Sudbury Hudsons 81-71 in the Trenton High School gym.

The victory gave Wilsons a 27-point victory in the final two-game, points-to-count series, 160 to 133.

It was the second "O.A.B.A. "C" championship for the club in three years. Sarnia copped the crown last year.

Saturday's game lacked championship style play after Wilsons opened up a 46-28 lead at the half-way mark. The second half was very loosely played with Trenton giving the ball away often and Sudbury taking advantage to narrow the game margin to ten points at the end.

The scoring twins, Bob Moore and Bob Burleigh, once again sparked the Wilsons. Moore hooped 26 points and Burleigh 21. Ted Batchelor hit for double figures again, collecting 14.

McKay was the game's top scorer, sinking 29 of Sudbury's points. Bob Kidder, with 19, and Sutton, with 14, also starred on the losers' attack.

In special half-time ceremonies, Bay Quinte League President Ernie Miller presented the championship Labatt trophy to the Wilsons, who swept all district honors. Burleigh was presented with the Most Valuable Player award and Moore with the scoring championship trophy.

Sudbury Hudsons (71) — McKay 29, B. Kidder 19, Chamberlain 3, Parker, Sutton 14, Johns 4, D. Kidder 2, Burson.

Trenton Wilsons (81) — B. Burleigh 21, C. Crews 1, G. Bambers 5, J. Nikifork 2, J. Theriault 5, P. Newsome 2, B. Moore 26, M. Jeffery, M. Eagen 4, D. Burke, T. Batchelor 14.

Gal Golfer Rallies to Force Playoff

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)— Mickey Wright came from three strokes behind Sunday to tie Marilynn Smith with a 72-hole total of 292 and force the women's titleholders golf champion ship into an 18-hole playoff today.

Mrs. Wright, defending champion from Dallas, Tex., fired a 36-37—73 one-over-par round in drizzling rain while Miss Smith of Tecquesta, Fla., put together a 35-42—77.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto turned in the third lowest score among amateurs—a 310 made up of rounds of 79-74-76-81.

'Boys Who Swing Man's Bats'

Casey Backs Teen-Age Players

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel and George Weiss usually see eye to eye but this is one time when New York Mets' wise old manager and astute club president don't agree.

"I think we should farm young Ed Kranepool to Buffalo," Weiss insisted for the umpty-umpth time. "He's just furned 18. Why he's only a baby. We don't want to be rushing him."

The 72-year-old Stengel refused to listen.

"Sure he's just a boy but he swings a man-sized bat," Stengel said. "Mel Ott and Bob Feller were only 18 and they did all right in the big leagues. I don't see why this boy can't do it, too."

This conversation took place prior to the start of the 1962 National League campaign. Two weeks later, Kranepool, who a year ago was playing for James Monroe High School in New York, was batting .306 and was definitely establishing himself as a favorite with the Polo Grounds clientele.

ALONE

Kranepool is not the only teen-ager matching his juvenile talent against the skill of much older craftsmen in the big leagues.

Other teen-agers on big league rosters include Rusty Staub, the Houston Colts' cleanup hitter; Marcelino Lopez, 19-year-old Philadelphia southpaw; and a handful of others who are keeping big league company solely because of the first-year player rule.

Under this new rule, a big league club is forced to pass all but one of its first year high-priced bonus players through the $8,000 waiver mill before it may option them to the minors. In other words, a club may pick up a $100,000 bonus player for $8,000 by claiming said player on waivers.

Breaking into the big leagues as a teen-ager is not a rare event. Since 1900, there have been close to 400 teen-agers who played in the majors. A great many of the child prodigies didn't make it as adults. Quite a few big league careers began at 18 or 19 and ended at 30 or 31 but a surprisingly good number who began in their teens matured into hall of famers.

Ty Cobb, Mel Ott, Rogers Hornsby, Eddie Collins, Babe Ruth, Herb Pennock, Walter Johnson, Bob Feller, Sam Crawford and Jimmy Foxx were only in their teens when they got their first taste of big league ball.

KALINE WAS 18

Among the actives, Al Kaline was only 18 when he broke in with the Tigers in 1953. Two years later he led the American League in hitting.

Mickey Mantle was only 19 when he joined the Yankees in 1951 and proved at once that some boys cannot be separated from the mess.

Others who received their big league baptism in their teens and developed into adult stars include Gil Hodges, Nellie Fox, Bill Pierce, Curt Simmons, Brooks Robinson, Bill Mazeroski, Vada Pinson, Clete Boyer, Bill Virdon, Curt Flood, Minnie Minoso, Johnny Callison, Del Crandall and Harmon Killebrew.

The youngest ever to get his name in a big league box score is Joe Nuxhall, who still is toiling for Cincinnati Reds. He was 15 months and 11 days past his 15th birthday when he was called upon to pitch against St. Louis Cardinals. In two-thirds of an inning June 10, 1944, Nuxhall walked five and was charged with five runs, all earned.

Norris Buys Hornets Club

PITTSBURGH (AP)—John H. Harris has announced he is selling Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League to Bruce Norris, president of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Harris disclosed the transaction in a letter to sportswriter Jimmy Jordan of the Pittsburgh Post - Gazette. The Hornets served as a Detroit farm club during the 1952-53 season.

Pepsi's Feted, Get Trophies At Party

Pepsi's hockey team, of the Belleville City League, collected its trophies and enjoyed a final get-together for the season with a party at team sponsor Bill Spinelli's cottage Saturday night.

League President Cliff Belch was on hand to present the championship Pepsi's squad with the Labatt Trophy, for its playoff crown; and the Booth TV Trophy, for finishing the schedule in first place.

Goalie Claude Carr was also presented with the Checker Taxi Trophy as the league's top goalie.

Team captain Bob Brooks received the team trophies and made a couple on behalf of the team, to manager Bill Shaw and coach Fiori Goegan, as well as thanking Dave Jones for his part in coaching the club to its playoff championship in Goegan's absence.

The popular team sponsor was delightfully surprised when Shaw gave him a gift of appreciation on behalf of the team. Spinelli thanked the players and team executive, as well as Belch, for a good winter of hockey and invited them back again next year.

Lunch, refreshments and a good social evening rounded out the affair.

OHA Makes Ruling

Skate Guards Compulsory

By DANIEL POWERS

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association decided at its annual meeting Saturday to make heel skate guards compulsory for all OHA players and establish an injured players' fund.

The skate-guard ruling applies to all eight OHA series: Senior A, Junior A, intermediate A, intermediate B, intermediate C, junior B, junior C and junior D.

Although the senior OHA executives approved the regulation, there was feeling that some skate guards could cause forwards difficulty in making sharp turns and could occasionally fall off.

It was felt, however, that the guards would reduce injuries.

The association also decided to establish an injured players' fund for players who suffer major injuries which take away their means of livelihood on certain their playing career.

SUGGESTS BASE

Frank Buckland of Peterborough, OHA treasurer, suggested a $2,000 base for the fund to come from OHA interest income. He said he preferred a base of $5,000, and said "it still wouldn't take much money from each team" to fill out the fund.

There was some doubt what constituted a major injury and one team executive suggested that a committee established to supervise the fund seek legal advice to determine if the OHA would be liable for all injuries.

Earlier, the association approved an amendment to its player rights regulations which said: "an over-age midget in a junior B community, if he desires a transfer, shall not require a release signed by the president of the junior B club."

The approved amendment was a re-worded version of an earlier amendment which some team executives felt was an attempt to take player material from junior B clubs.

The association turned down an amendment asking "that the posting of a performance bond of $100 by clubs in the intermediate B, intermediate C, junior C and junior D series be abolished."

APPROVE CHANGE

The association approved an amendment asking that in a group where 75 per cent of the clubs are in favor of operating under player-strengthening regulations, then any club which desires the player-strengthening privileges would not take part in group playoffs but would enter association playdowns.

A waiver regulation reading "one import or waived player may be released and another import or waiver signed, provided he has not played in more than three games and is released before Dec. 15 of the current season" was amended to read:

"Two imports or waived players may be released and another import or waived player in each case signed, provided the player released has not played in more than five games and is released before Dec. 31 of the current season."

Elected to OHA executive offices for the 1963-64 season were: C. G. Patterson, Guelph, president; Lloyd Pollock, Windsor, immediate past-president; Matt Leyden, Oshawa, first vice - president; Jack Devine, Belleville, second vice - president; W. A. Hewitt, Toronto, secretary, and Frank Buckland, Peterborough, treasurer.

Elected to executive board offices were: Frank Doherty, Thorold, Jack Oakes, Strathroy; Clarence Schmalz, Walkerton, and Robert Watt, Oshawa.

MATCH POSTPONED

MOSCOW (AP) — The 15th game of the world chess championship between world champion Mikhail Botvinnik and Tigran Petrosian scheduled for Saturday was postponed. The Soviet news agency said Petrosian was "indisposed" and unable to play the scheduled game. Botvinnik beat his challenger in their 14th game to tie the score at 7-7. Each now has lost twice, won twice, and drawn 10 games in the 24-game series.

'The Business of Gambling' Profitable in United States

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A middle - aged woman, comfortably seated, dropped quarters into a slot machine, pulling the handle with the speed and dexterity of a production - line worker.

A reporter for NBC's White Paper asked her why she spent as many as seven hours, two or three times a week, loyally dropping the coins and collecting only occasionally.

"It's relaxing," she replied, without missing a motion.

The Business of Gambling, Sunday night's program which included the busy matron, concentrated on four counties in southern Maryland which legalized the machines as an economic measure to bolster a flagging agricultural area. One result was sharply reduced local taxes.

The program carefully balanced pro-slot and anti-slot sentiments of the areas. The 2,000 slot machines are in bars and amusement halls, drug stores, dry cleaning stores and markets.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

For April 30

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Key is generosity. By giving, you also receive. Keep eye on future, which, in turn, means your actions today mold potential. By cooperating, you will valuable ally. Have faith!

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) There is pressure, challenge. You meet this by remaining true to beliefs Don't give in or dissipate energies. Take true path. Forget the old, "tired" way!

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Excellent for organizing ideas. Good for contacts, exchanging thoughts with "important" person. Accept request for extra help. By doing so, you also help yourself.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Conserve energy and cash. Avoid tendency to buy every thing in sight. Be selective, discriminating. Check with loved one for ideas, suggestions. Key is expansion. Assist, cooperate.

Leo (July 22 to August 21) Stress on personality, individuality, willingness to back up your own abilities. Move with self-confidence. The more you believe in yourself . . . the better you convince others.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Change, variety, travel . . . coming up. Outside forces could upset applecart. Means turn on Virgo sparkle, wit. Win your way with suitors, bosses. Your friend who is confined.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't "fight" opposing forces. Libra charm does more to advance cause than any threat. Family member may need attention. Be understanding, sympathetic. Spotlight on home, family and love.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Best advice today comes from within. Outside forces could prove more irritating than helpful. Your standing is enhanced if you stick to principles. Don't take "easy way."

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Stick to basic issues. Strength of convictions wins friends, influences people. Added responsibility is indicated. Be ready to express self on long-range plans, goals.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Impatience evident today. Especially where fingers are concerned. Check with partner. Finish instead of leaving "loose ends." Concentrate on completion.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Best to depend on facts, not rash actions. Be careful about signing papers, contracts. Take "wait-and-see" attitude. Temptation is to take on more than you can handle. Be practical.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Read Gemini message. Stress cooperation. Learn by teaching. Share thoughts, ideas. Be considerate toward those who work with you. Encourage one who asks for your opinion.

If today is your birthday your sense of humor is delightful. You are stubbornly determined but considerate of the underdog.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many issues seem to come to the forefront. Nations may hurl accusations requiring mediator to settle disputes.

BUY FOR SPEED

According to a U.S. research report speed is the top motivation in choice of a car.

Leafs Split With Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jacksonville doesn't believe in doing things half way.

The Suns lost seven consecutive International League games beginning April 18. Then they found the winning formula and have won four of their last five games.

Two of the victories came Sunday as Jacksonville dumped the Syracuse Chiefs 5-4 and 7-2.

Buffalo also swept a twin bill, downing Richmond 4-2 in 15 innings and 10 in the nightcap.

The other six clubs divided doubleheaders. Toronto beat Arkansas 3-1 and then lost 9-2. Rochester defeated Atlanta 11-5 then Atlanta won a 1-0 triumph with a wild pitch. Indianapolis defeated Columbus 2-1 in the opener and Columbus whitewashed Indianapolis 5-0 in the second game.

In Saturday's games, Little Rock shut out Toronto 3-0, Buffalo trounced Richmond 11-6, Atlanta beat Rochester 6-4, Columbus nosed out Indianapolis 3-1 and Syracuse defeated Jacksonville 10-3.

Little Rock rattled off 25 hits in its twin victory Sunday and moved into a tie with Columbus for fourth place in the southern division.

Sheridan Hale Charon's big bat brought in the winning runs in both games for Buffalo. His double in the 15th drove in the two runs that spelled the difference and his home run in the ninth won the abbreviated second game.

The two wins enabled the Bisons to increase their first-place lead in the northern division to 2½ games over second - place Syracuse.

One Killed Many Hurt in Soccer Riots

ROME (AP)—A soccer fan was killed by gunfire and at least 40 more were injured Sunday in wild stadium rioting. Police also reported a dozen arrested in the outbreaks that flared at Naples and Salerno.

Thousands of fans invaded the field at Naples during the major league Napoli-Modena game in the referee's disputed decision. The invaders ripped up goal posts, smashed fences and stoned the referee. They also refereee and visiting players in dressing rooms before police restored order.

At least 40 persons were injured at Naples and 12 arrested.

Modena was leading 2 - 0 when the visiting Pared, A. C. a nal decision on the winner will be made Wednesday.

Similar rioting erupted at Salerno during a match between Salernitana and Potenza. Italy's police chief in Salerno police reported one man killed when several rioters fired gunshots and at least 20 people hurt.

MEN MAKE CHANGE

PITTSBURGH (AP) — New York Mets, recalled catcher Chris Cannizzaro Sunday from Buffalo of the International League, at the same time optioning southpaw pitcher Steve Dillon to Buffalo to make room on the roster.

Johnny Pott Close Second

Rodgers Wins Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Phil Rodgers won a glittering duel with Johnny Pott to capture the $20,000 Texas open golf tournament Sunday and leave the crowd muttering about what might have been had a chip shot for a birdie on the 17th hole been successful.

Pott, who had shot the identical score for three rounds as Rodgers, 68-71-6, was a stroke behind as he came into 17. Rodgers, 25 - year - old belter from San Diego, Calif., already had established with a six-under-par 65 for 208—a record for the 6,775 - yard Oak Hills Country Club course.

Pott was back on the fringe with his second shot on the par-four hole. He chipped to within part the hole, then missed a threefoot putt and took a bogey 5. So all he could do to tie for the lead was shoot a hole-in-one on 18. He took a par for a final 70.

Arnold Palmer, the defending champion and holder of the course record of 270 which Rogers broke, made a bid in the final round. If he had nailed an eagle on the 15th hole, where he had landed his third shot within six feet of the pin, he might have made a race of it.

GOES FOR EAGLE

Palmer was six strokes behind starting the final round but had just banged a couple of birdies and was going for the eagle. But he missed and that ended his chances for one of his noted clutch finishes.

Palmer, who was trying for his fourth straight Texas Open, had a 67 for 276 and tied for ninth place, winning $1,500.

Pott won $3,000 with his second-place finish compared with $4,300 for Rodgers. Jack Fleck had a 66 for 277 and earned third money of $2,000. Bruce Crampton and Bobby Nichols tied for fourth place at 278 and

WIN HEAVY DAMAGES

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A federal judge has awarded $1,123,146 in damages to widows of seven of the 49 persons killed in the collision of a commercial airliner and a military jet over Las Vegas Nev., five years ago. The plaintiffs charged both the airline and the air force with liability. The jury ruled that the United Air Lines was liable but absolved the air force.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Loses Hand and Thumb

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—I am a physician in hospital who, over the past 18 months, have lost all of my right hand and now my left thumb. I remember some words but I don't know who wrote them—"I cried because I had no shoes until I met a man who had no feet."—MARY C.

DEAR MARY—For a gal with one hand and no thumbs, you did wonders to produce a legible letter. Sincerely hope the trouble has been arrested.

The quotation is a Persian Proverb—and that's all I know about it. Help, somebody!

DEAR DORIS—We have requested the opportunity to give a child of four or five years a chance in life, by adoption, instead of the ever popularly asked for newborn baby.

I have had no experience with children in any way. However, I realized that if we are able to adopt a child of the age we have requested, he will have more adjustment problems than a baby. So I would like to learn as much as I can beforehand.

I feel that there must be information of "adopting the older child, and the problems to expect"—some place—but where can I get it? What do the foster parents do when they are faced with problems? Where does their training in handling special cases come from?—ADOPTING PARENT.

DEAR ADOPTING PARENT—Solid, practical help is yours from the adoption agency from the moment you take home your toddler. His special foibles, any handicaps or fears, will be described to you, with ideas for handling them. And the work is no farther away than your telephone.

Literature to read includes the Child Training Series of pamphlets put out by the Department of National Health and Welfare and a longer book called "Up the Years From One to Six," also a federal production. Available from your local public health department without charge. There are provincial pamphlets too, so ask for the ones produced in your province.

DEAR DORIS—Do you not know that widowers of 60 or 70 are marrying women 20 to 30 years younger? They do not settle for women in their own age group! They want to feel young again!

Am afraid the ladies at Senior Citizens Clubs will be too old for A. W. Bet there are plenty who would like to meet him, however. He is a man and does not need to be lonesome.—PRACTICAL.

DEAR PRACTICAL—I know some happy exceptions: women of 60 who have kept figure, looks and bright spirit. And have more than one widower dancing attendance on them. How about that?

(Help wanted? Write to Doris with your special problem.)

Garden Notes

Garden Magic From Chemists

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Ten years ago middle-income families were spending well below $100 a year on their grounds. Now the nurseryman and garden centre collects around $200 from the same group. This includes ornamentals, lawns, fertilizers and pesticides.

The home owner works hard to establish a smooth green lawn then, groans and grumbles that it must be cut once a week in good growing weather. There are the pests to fight as well.

The fight against black medick, chickweed, crabgrass and creeping Charlie is practically won. The right chemical applied at the right time and in the right strength will finish these off. But there is still the mowing.

A handy cure for that has been worked out by the Dominion Rubber Company and called MH 30 (maleic hydraside). One application in the spring controls the growth for the heavy growing season. It stunts the growth just enough to cut the mowing but still leaves the green sward green. It is used for roadsides, airstrips and factory properties. Don't look for this soon, for your lawn. Its use does not insure the smooth lawn the home owner demands for his property.

Particularly hard to kill pests are tangled out for special attention by the chemists and several new multi-purpose sprays or dusts will be offered for the first time this year.

Chipman Chemicals says that five separate pesticides can control all the major pests that are likely to attack the property of the average Canadian home owner.

The manufacturers are working toward safer pesticides in easier to handle forms.

There is a new granular preemergence crabgrass killer said to eliminate completely this weed without damaging established lawns. It has a new chemical base containing no lead arsenic, no mercury compounds and is not harmful to pets or humans. It should be used before crabgrass sprouts in the spring and must not be used on new lawns until the grass is two inches high.

2, 4-4D; 2, 4, ST and mecopropane are combined in a new weedicide for broad leaf and creeping weeds. For $1.29 you can spray 2,000 ft. of lawn.

A systemic weedicide is one that penetrates into the sap of the plant. Insects eating the plant are killed by the poison. There will be more than one new systemic on the market this year and a complete rose spray that contains two fungicides to control black spot and mildew and two insecticides to control aphids and mites.

Multiple mixes are making it easier every year to have a good lawn and handsome ornamentals with the minimum of effort and expense.

Bandits Seize Army Payroll At Montreal

Daring Robbery Staged Just Outside of Bank

Montreal (CP) — Three bandits machine-gunned an army lieutenant picking up a $38,000 payroll at an east-end bank today and fled with the money after spraying the area with at least 20 shots.

Lieut. J. J. Marcel St. Marie, 43, paymaster at the Longue Pointe army depot, was reported hit twice in the left leg and once in the right.

GIVE THEIR VIEWS

He was taken to hospital but there was no immediate word on his condition.

A sergeant and a civilian army employee with Lieut. Ste. Marie escaped injury despite the hail of bullets from the bandits.

The robbery occurred outside a branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale at Hochelaga and Cadillac Streets.

The army reported, that Lieut. Ste. Marie had just picked up the payroll and was getting into an army vehicle to return to the depot.

A white panel truck pulled along side and three men, one armed with a Sten gun and one with a pistol, jumped out.

REFUSED, THEN SHOT

Lieut. Ste. Marie was ordered to hand over the payroll and when he refused he was struck over the head. As he fell, the man with the Sten gun opened fire, an army spokesman said. The burst of fire hit Lieut. Ste. Marie and riddled the army vehicle.

One of the bandits grabbed the attache case containing the payroll and jerked it away from Lieut. Ste. Marie. He struggled with the bandit but was no match for the handle broke off in his hand.

The bandits then ran to a car waiting nearby, abandoning the truck. The car was found, also abandoned, a few blocks away.

Police said the bandits apparently fled in a third vehicle.

The bandits broke off the army vehicle before they fled to prevent pursuit.

Lieut. Ste. Marie was carrying a pistol in a holster but he had no chance to draw it.

The robbery occurred about an hour before the bank opened for normal business.

COMET COMET

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg astronomers have lost a comet. E. F. Shinn, Winnipeg centre president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, said astronomers tracking the Alcock comet on its way to the sun lost sight of it late last week and are at a loss to explain why. "It is my guess that disruptive forces exceeded the comet's gravity forces and it disintegrated."

MANITOBA HAS TO GIVE AID TO MINING FIRM

Opposition MLA's Want Information

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba government has been forced to give financial aid to a gold-mining company because it is the sole economic support of a community of 1,100 persons.

Premier Duff Roblin, speaking in the legislature Monday, said the conditions of a $240,000 loan to San Antonio Gold Mines Limited. He said a Montreal man — "a Mr. Max Isaacs" — bilked the company before then disappeared, leaving his creditors the unwilling owners of the mine.

The premier said his first reaction to the company's problems was to "let them stew in their own juice." If the company and its shareholders were the only considerations, the argument could stop right there.

But he said the mine employs 225 persons and is the only industry in the town of Bissett, 100 miles north of Winnipeg. Beyond that, it made an important contribution to the economy of the province.

WILL QUESTION OFFICIALS

A bill setting up the loan was given first reading, and Mr. Roblin said he hoped it would be given second reading — approval in principle—today. Mine officials would then be called before a legislative committee to be questioned.

The San Antonio property covers 1,100 acres in the Rice Lake area. The company has a mill capacity of 300 tons a day.

Liberal Leader Gil Molgat said it is not the job of the government to "bail out" investors who get into difficulties

Castro's Visit to Moscow Given Unusual Prominence in Red Press

MOSCOW (AP)—"The Moscow press highlights today two great events—the stay in the Soviet capital of Fidel Castro and May Day."

So begins the official Tass agency review of the Soviet press as for the third successive day the newspapers give major headlines to the visit of the Cuban revolutionary leader.

More pictures are used in the papers marking his movement about the Soviet capital than are used for anybody except a returning cosmonaut fresh from the skies.

The papers, small in size but large in circulation, are mostly filled with editorials, speeches, scores of letters from the countryside, officials and poems.

Castro placed a wreath at the door of Lenin's tomb Monday and today Komsomolskaya Pravda, a youth newspaper with more than 2,000,000 circulation—and one of the liveliest in the capital—headed the story:

"Fidel comes to Ilyich."

Some Western circles view the extraordinary handling of Castro's visit as an attempt to recharge the Cuban leader's apparently waning enthusiasm for his Russian hosts since last year's Cuban crisis.

PRICE SUPPORT FOR BUTTER WILL BE CONTINUED

Increase Price For Cheddar Cheese

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government will cotime to pay the 64-cent-a-pound price support on butter and has slightly increased the support for cheddar cheese, Agriculture Minister Harry Hays announced today.

The announcement precedes the start of the new dairy year Wednesday. Mr. Hays said the government is "actively considering further long-term measures" for the industry.

The butter decision means that the government will continue to buy top grades of butter for 64 cents a pound and sell to the trade at 52 cents—absorbing the 12-cent difference as a consumer subsidy designed to spur butter consumption.

At March 1, stocks of butter and butter oil—a storage form—amounted to 217,500,000 pounds or 24,500,000 pounds more than a year earlier. The 12-cent subsidy was introduced by the former government May 1, 1962.

WILL BUY SKIMMED MILK

The government will also buy — as it did last year — a certain amount of skim milk powder, eliminating a supplementary payment which was made in 1959 to producers of milk for manufacturing.

The government bought about 35,000,000 pounds of dried skim milk last year for international relief and other uses.

As an incentive to producing cheddar cheese, the support price of 32½ cents a pound will be maintained — cheese prices have been averaging higher than that.

It will also pay five cents more—or 30 cents a hundredweight—for manufacturing milk used in cheddar cheese production, which has been lower than normal.

Unchanged except in the case of cheddar cheese will be similar supplementary payments on milk for other manufacturing uses such as ice cream, malted milk, evaporated milk and the like.

Officials said this will save several million dollars and probably increase prices at those products.

Telegram Says Ont. Election In the Fall

TORONTO (CP)—The Telegram says Premier Robarts has decided to hold the election not to hold a June election "was the nagging fear that the government's solid legislative program which has just been passed by the legislature, hasn't yet come through to the electorate."

The newspaper adds that the premier has not come out point blank with a statement on the election date, but says he gave members and party organizers "a detailed plan" recently on how to use the summer preparing for the election.

It is also understood, The Telegram says, that Premier Robarts has a detailed itinerary prepared for trips through the province this summer "for the premier to get better known."

ATTACK WHITES

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Four Kikuyu tribesmen armed with panga knives broke into a home in the Kenya highlands Monday night and attacked three white residents as they were watching television, it was said today. The whites were taken to hospital with cuts and bruises but were not detained.

Publishers See Economy Of Canada Strengthening

TORONTO (CP) — Some strengthening in Canada's economy this year was expected by publishing executives gathering here for their 1963 meetings but a few look on unemployment as a tough problem.

Bright spots as seen by the newspaper men include some booming industries in New Brunswick, a giant potash development in Saskatchewan strengthening in basic steel and increased development of energy resources across the country.

Canada's penetration into foreign markets and—as one publisher put it—"the basic solidarity of the Canadian people" were expected to provide strength in the coming months. But scarcity of industrial skills and possibility of automation cancelling out employment gains merited by business expansion were seen as possible trouble factors.

While some expected the growth of Canada's gross national product—value of goods and services produced—to top last year's eight per cent, a few thought it would be less. But most expected the fading months of 1963 would see some zip in the economy.

The newspaper men, here for the annual meetings of The Canadian Press and Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, were asked for their views on the 1963 economic outlook for their provinces and the country as a whole.

Generally, the publishers

Ten Killed and Fifty Hurt As Twisters Hit Six States

TUNICA, Miss. (AP) — Tornadoes roared through wide spread areas of the south and central parts of the United States Monday, leaving 10 dead and more than 50 injured.

Four persons were killed near this north Mississippi town when a tonado skipped across the Mississippi River from Arkansas and hit the Moon Lake fishing area. Two others were killed 100 miles east at Shannon, Miss.

Farther north, the Tennessee highway patrol reported two killed by a twister at Maury City about 80 miles northeast of Memphis. And one was reported killed in Hamilton, Ala., in the northwest part of the state near the Mississippi line.

An elderly woman was killed in Louisiana.

The Marion County, Ala., sheriff's office said at least 17 other persons were injured in the Hamilton twister, most of them teen-agers gathered in a cafe.

Heavy property damage was reported in most of the stricken states. The most destructive twister apparently touched down first at the Moon Lake area in Mississippi and then spun east for five miles to the community of Rich. The four persons were killed and a dozen injured when a row of six houses was flattened on a plantation.

One house near Rich was carried one-fourth mile by the wind. About 40 mobile units were wrecked. Hail the size of hen's eggs pounded the area.

Five persons were reported injured in the Maury City twister. The highway patrol said seven homes were destroyed.

A six-month-old baby, Sherry Clement, was reported in critical condition at a Jackson, Tenn., hospital. A witness said the baby was torn out of the arms of its father, Ernest Clement, as he tried to make his way to a car at their home near Alamo, Tenn.

The weather bureau said it had an unofficial report of eight inches of rain in seven hours at Fort Payne, in northeast Alabama. Some flooding was reported over northern parts of Alabama.

FANFANI'S GOVT. LEADING IN ITALIAN VOTE

Losing Slightly To Reds, Liberals

ROME (Reuters) — Premier Amintore Fanfani's big Christian Democrat party kept its position as Italy's strongest party in first parliamentary election returns announced today, but the Communists made bigger gains than expected.

The Christian Democrats dropped from their 1958 total of 41.2 per cent of 37.2 per cent of the vote in the final returns for the Senate elections. The Communists, Italy's second largest party, increased their share from 21.8 to 25.3 per cent.

Unofficial partial returns showed the Christian Democrats in the lead for the Chamber of Deputies with 80 seats compared with 54 for the Communists. Final results in the race for the seats in the Chamber of Deputies were not expected until tonight.

In the Senate race the Christian Democrats polled 10,305,902 votes and the Communists 6,990,441. The small right-wing Liberal party had 2,027,738 votes —raising its percentage from 3.9 in 1958 to 7.5 per cent. More than 31,000,000 persons voted.

Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti told his party newspaper "we have won a very great victory, beyond our forecasts and hopes."

He said Communist gains refuted "ridiculous lies" about a crisis in the party and its alleged deterioration.

"The Christian Democrats have been clearly defeated," Togliatti said.

PARTNERS ALSO GAIN

Gains were also made by Fanfani's coalition partners, the Social Democrats led by Giuseppe Saragat, who had 6.3 per cent of the votes compared with only 4.4 per cent in 1958.

The other party positions as reflected in the partial Senate returns were:

The Neo Socialists, with 14.5 per cent of votes, marginally declined from 14.1 per cent.

The Monarchists rank from 3.2 per cent to 1.6 per cent.

The Neo Fascists gained slightly, from 4.8 to 5.7 per cent.

Christian Democrat losses were widely predicted.

R. Farquharson Suffers Stroke In Washington

WASHINGTON (CP) — The condition of Robert A. Farquharson, Canadian diplomat, who has been in hospital with a heart condition, worsened during the night with a report that he now has suffered a stroke.

The State Department said information at the Canadian embassy here had appeared to be progressing but after he was taken to hospital last Friday night following a heart seizure. But an embassy official said today Farquharson suffered a stroke late Monday or early Tuesday caused by an undetected blood clot.

The hospital, however, continued to list his condition as "fair"—unchanged from Monday's report.

ACTOR RELEASED

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Veteran character actor Otto Kruger, 77, was released Monday from Hollywood Community Hospital where he was confined for 11 days suffering from extreme fatigue. His physician said Kruger will convalesce at his home for about a week before returning to work.

Commercial Rate Is Fixed At 103 Mills

Expect Expenditures To Increase $380,000

With estimated city expenditures up by approximately $380,000 over last year, Belleville city council yesterday approved increases of 2.6 mills for residential properties, and 4.4 mills for commercial properties for 1963.

The 1963 mill rate is 91.9 mills for residential and 103 mills for commercial properties.

Estimated expenditures for the year are $4,622,443 as against actual expenditures of last year amounting to $4,313,378.

Alderman Ross Bailey, chairman of the city council finance committee, said that for the average owner with a house assessment of $5,000, the increase in taxes would amount to approximately $8.

Increased costs in several city departments were responsible for the increase, he said.

General city government was up $33,000 while protection to persons and property, including fire and police, was increased by $70,000, mainly due to wage adjustments and extra men for both fire and police departments.

Social welfare, including relief, was up by only $3,000 but committee chairman Bailey noted the overall cost of $444,000 was nevertheless alarming.

EDUCATION COSTS

The cost of education is up from $1,280,000 to $1,368,000, an increase of $88,000.

He said council was grateful to the public and high schools board for taking a closer look at their estimates which had resulted in substantial savings.

The recreation and community services budget including, recreation, arena, parks, and library was increased by $20,000 from $177,000 to $205,000.

The city parks board had been given an extra half mill this year (amounting to about $16,000) to enable it to make some permanent improvement to Zwick's Island, so that this area can be better enjoyed by

DEBT CHARGES HIGH

The city's debt charges are taking an ever increasing proportion of the total dollar and this year will be over the half million dollar mark. Debt charges this year are increased from $481,000 to $508,000.

A new item in city costs this year is the start of provisions for the sewage disposal plant costs.

This will require one mill collected as a direct levy from the city taxpayers with the balance of the total sewage costs of $119,000 to be raised through an additional levy on the water rates and collected

U.S. Actress Clad in Bath Towel Rescues Greek Queen From Mob

LONDON (Reuters) — "A United States actress here had only a towel between her and the mob — equally Queen Frederika of Greece and her daughter seeking protection from a mob of political demonstrators.

British newspapers, splashing Marti Stevens' account of how she helped Queen Frederika and her daughter Princess Irene, say the incident explained the real reason for British-Greek diplomatic apology for the Queen Frederika's current visit here.

When Frederika left her London hotel for the airport en route home to Athens today after her 10-day visit here, detectives mingled with a crowd of about 100 persons.

Uniformed police lined the sidewalks and questioned pedestrians carrying packages, and an escort of six police motorcyclists was assigned in her limousine on the 17mile ride to the airport.

But for the first time in the queen's visit, demonstrators appeared to protest the arrest of Greek political prisoners were not the most popular host.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home sent an official apology to the queen for incidents of "distress" for "incidents" which occurred the day she arrived in London and the day before the marriage of Princess Alexandra, cousin of Queen Elizabeth, to Angus Ogilvy.

Miss Stevens, 26, said she was wearing only a bath towel when she answered a knock at the door of her apartment off a dead-end street in Hamilton Terrace, where the queen has been staying. The queen was splattered with mud.

When she opened the door, she was confronted by Frederika who said: "Please let me in. I am the Queen of Greece."

Miss Stevens answered: "I don't care who you are—come in," and gave the queen and her daughter a large glass of whisky and soda each.

THREAT OF WAR EASED, HAITI REMOVES GUARD

Dominicans Happy A Turn of Events

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — War threats receded today as the Dominican Republic claimed a bloodless victory over Haitian dictator Francois Duvalier and inter-American conciliators flew toward this Caribbean island.

The dominican government radio proclaimed a "triumph for our national dignity" in the Haitian government's removal of guards from the grounds of the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince. Alleged opponents of Duvalier had taken refuge there.

President Juan Bosch's government also took satisfaction from assurances from Haiti that it would respect the security of diplomatic missions there.

Diplomatic sources in Washington said Bosch, in a letter to the chairman of the Organization of American States Monday night, said Dominican personnel would remain in the Embassy until Haiti unequivocally guaranteed the safety of Dominican diplomats and residents as well as those Haitians opposed to their government who had taken refuge in the Dominican Embassy.

These informants said Bosch's letter to Manuel Facio stated the Dominican Republic would remain on guard against possible new actions by Haiti's government, but that the letter contained no threat of immediate military action.

The Dominican government charged that Haitian troops had invaded and surrounded the embassy in Fort au Prince. Resistance of Haitian soldiers Duvalier gave in by 8 p.m. Monday night, it sent troop reinforcements to stations near

McFarland Hockey Players To Be Paid Back Salaries But No Benefits or Bonuses

Members of the world champion Belleville McFarland's hockey team who came out on the short end in salary payments from the city four years ago are going to be paid.

At least they are going to receive the salaries due them but not bonuses and other fringe benefits claimed owing.

Last evening members of the city council voted approval to a motion from Alderman Jack Allin directing that outstanding salaries to the hockey players be paid in full.

The amount to be paid to ten players is $3,952.04.

MOTION CHANGED

Alderman Allin said a number of the players had indicated to him that they would be satisfied with payment of their salaries only. His other final notice of motion presented two weeks ago called for payment of back salaries, together with promised bonuses and other fringe benefits.

The amounts owing the hockey players has been collected by the city by way of a special levy but several occasions city council had declined payment. The amount said owing at that time was about $6,000.

MADE ARCH VILLAINS

Claim

Lionel Bedley, member of the Belleville hockey team, which won the world championship in Prague, told council that when the city was in financial trouble four years ago, the hockey players were made the arch villains.

As a result there had been a stigma attached to the players who almost overnight had been turned from idols to bums.

He said that $100 to $125 per week for playing hockey might seem to most a phenomenal salary but remarked that this is concentrated into about 18 weeks of the year.

Reviewing the background of his hockey playing experience with the McFarlands, Mr. Bedley said that not only had he not been paid all the salary owing but T-4 slips received had indicated less salary than had actually received with the result he had gotten into trouble with the income tax department. He had been called on to pay back taxes together with 25 percent penalty and had to borrow the money to do it.

PLACES BLAME

Mayor A. M. Haig said he felt it was proper that they should be paid.

He said if there was any stigma attached it was against the corporation in refusing to pay the amount admitted owing.

NOT MAJOR PROBLEM

He agreed that hockey had not been the major problem unearthed in the city's financial enquiry, but rather it had been maladministration on a city hall.

Alderman Stuart Robb moved an amendment to pay the hockey players six per cent compound interest on salaries owed.

The amendment was carried and interest will be paid from 1960.

The hockey players owed and the outstanding salary which they will be paid, are as follows:

Lionel Bedley $645.70; W. Crawford $344.15; F. Coegan $350.00; D. Jones $151.74; K. MacDonald $250.00; J. McLellan $251.35; I. Hildebrand $637.50; L. Smirle $728.50; R. Bradley $220.00.

Guest Speaker Will Talk on Driving Safety

On Monday B.C.I.V.S. Home and School Association presents a program on "Driving Safety," guest speaker will be Mr. Murray Howe of Oshawa, Area Safety Officer for Department of Transport of Ontario. Mr. Howe will illustrate his talk with a film and will answer any questions that may be asked him.

His job involves the promotion of highway safety and establishing of driving instruction courses throughout eastern Ontario area. In so doing he visits clubs and organizations interested in this subject.

An item of interest locally is that Mr. Howe was instrumental in setting up the driving instruction course that has recently been established at the C.J.D. school here in Belleville. He has secured a lady and man teacher at the school to take the course who in turn will be the instructors and also he has had "donated" two cars for the teaching of the course.

As this is a subject of great concern to many, many people will find this meeting of the P.T.A. a timely place for any blame (in connection with the hockey team) is right at city hall," he said.

Alderman Ben Corke seconded Alderman Allin's motion but felt that promised bonuses as well as wages should be paid the hockey players.

"If it is the way I would say let's pay the amount owing, plus interest."

Mayor A. M. Haig said he had consistently supported payments to the hockey players and day.

The Unit Pipe Band was out in all its splendor Sunday as they had been invited to lead the Church Parade of the local Oddfellows. There were members from various points including a number from the U.S.A. It made a splendid showing as they marched along Church St. and it certainly was a glorious day for it.

Interesting item for the old Orange Lodge is that in 1915, at St. Julien in the Ypres Salient, the Germans first used poison gas and were defeated, as an arsenal of war. It was an attempt to find a weapon that would be effective against trench warfare. With no decence against the choking green fog yellow fog, the Allied troops on whom the initial attack was made, retreated and the enemy may have effected a fatal breach in the line but for the dogged tenacity and determined counter - attacks made by the First Canadian Division.

These citizen-soldiers stood fast. Prior to the Second Battle of Ypres, they were military unknowns but when they were relieved on May 4th the reputation of the Division as a fighting man was made and was established before the world.

Their great defence is commemorated by the St. Julien Memorial, designed by F. Chapman Clemesha, of Regina and unveiled on July 8th, 1923, by H. R. H. The Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada from 1911 to 1916. On the front of the monument is inscribed the word "Canada" and on each side in English and French is a stark description of the Canadians' heroism:

"On this common marks the battlefield where 18,000 Canadians on the British left withstood the first German gas attacks the 22nd-24th of April, 1915, 2,000 fell and here lie buried.

So, until next week, the best of luck to all.

Does Religion Have Any Bearing on Mental Illness?

By Rev. A. J. MacLachlan
Presbyterian Chaplain
Ontario Hospital,
Hamilton, Ontario

Has religion anything to do with mental health and the care of the mentally ill, and if so what? This is one of the questions that is being asked frequently as we come to realize that about one in ten persons will need professional help with their emotional problems during their lifetime. This makes mental illness a problem of major concern, and if so what? This is one of the questions that is being asked frequently as we come to realize that about one in ten persons will need professional help with their emotional problems during their lifetime. This makes mental illness a problem of major concern, and if so what is the role of religion in healing.

One of the commonest feelings experienced by the mentally ill person is that he is unworthy of the love and care of other people, and that he is unworthy of the love of God. Many of them feel that life is meaningless, and without purpose. Consequently they feel defeated and hopeless, they feel that life has become an effort to endure the disappointments, and hard knocks of life.

Since the time of the commonest feelings experienced by the mentally ill person, it is important that during the treatment he discover that life is worthwhile and that he has something which he can offer to the community and to the world that he lives in; that in the creative purpose of God as a person is of utmost value and importance.

Because the mentally ill person feels so helpless and meaningless, he cannot but feel unworthy of the love of God. He feels that the world around him is negative toward him.

This attitude reaches him feel like retaliating against the world by withdrawing from it into his own world or even fighting against it. He is inclined to be overwhelmed by his feelings of failure, distress and despair.

RELIGION NEEDED

Religion which is life-affirming, which expresses the love and forgiveness of God in word, fore, one of the deep needs of the mentally troubled person. Religion, and the positive outlook on life, he needs conviction that is a child of God. He needs the assurance that with the rough and tumble of life.

It is toward achieving this change in the outlook of the patient, this acceptance of worthiness, that religion should be directed in the hospital, and for that matter anywhere. This is the way that they the Christ in several ways.

He can do it through the ways he conducts the worship services in the hospital. He can do it by pastoral visiting, for in pastoral visiting he embodies by his expressions of love and acceptance understanding he has of the feelings of desolation experienced by the sick person.

The Chaplain can by his help to the churches in the community encourage the pastors and members of the congregation to assume their responsibility to develop and express persistent love and concern for the mentally ill person.

When a person becomes mentally ill it is more than his family, his friends and the whole community to mobilize themselves to undergird the person with the assurance that though he feels rejected and unwanted, he is in reality loved and cared for.

Religion must become a living experience of forgiveness and acceptance. When this happens the mentally ill person can believe in himself, believe in others and believe in God. Having experienced this mentality ill person can stand on his feet again and assume the responsibilities of living.

Anti-Rackets Squad Probing Complaints

TRENTON — The Ontario Provincial Police fraud squad and the Ontario Provincial Police anti-rackets squad are investigating complaints from persons in Eastern Ontario, including Trenton, that merchants who bought advertising space on a telephone directory proposition have been swindled.

The advertisements went from $35 to $40 apiece. That was a year ago. So far the telephone books have not been forthcoming and merchants are worried, to say the least.

After complaints from local merchants, Nostrand Sprague, secretary of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, sent letter to the firm and was told in reply the inserts would be shipped within ten days. When nothing happened he wrote to the Better Business Bureau in Toronto, from the latter, Mrs. Hilton applied artificial respiration to the boy before both were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

However, apart from a thorough scare and swallowing some sea water the worse for wear, the boy was none worse for the shock and both were released from hospital following a checkup.

SEEK MEMBERSHIP

A campaign is underway in Trenton this week for more memberships in the Trenton Community Concert Association, which kicks off the concert of the 1962-1963 season Saturday evening with a performance by the St. Cornier folk singers at Trenton High School.

Last season the association had a total of 548 adult and student members and four concerts were held. The highlight of the coming season will be a visit next Spring, perhaps in March, by the Canadian Opera Company, which will perform the Strauss Opera "Der Fledermaus" entirely in English.

Guest singer in the production will be Cor Optat of The Netherlands, a former Trenton resident.

Prince Charles School has been granted leave by the Board of Education.

In a letter in Clerk-Comptroller O. W. Lary, the board states it would be too great a responsibility for any student and, furthermore, it would hinder the student's education by taking him away from classes.

When the manually-operated lights were installed on Dufferin Ave., council the school plans called for students to be trained in their use so a crossing guard would eventually be dispensed with. Some students have been receiving classroom instruction on how to operate the lights, but recently certain members of council expressed fear that the younger children are not capable of handling the buttons, and suggested the job should be done by a senior boy.

Child Credited With Saving Lives of Two

TRENTON — A four-year-old boy is credited with helping to save the lives of his father and an older brother from the Trent River above Lock number one Sunday afternoon.

The accident happened when six-year-old Charles Smith fell into the river while fishing from the bank. His father, Norman Smith, of 63 Princess Street, instructed his younger son, Douglas, to run 50 feet to Highway 33 for help before he dived into the river to help his son.

By jumping up and down and screaming "Daddy's in the river," Douglas stopped a car containing Charles and Robert Hilton, both employees of Ontario Commissioner Charles Hilton, and they helped fish the pair from the water. Mrs. Hilton applied artificial respiration to the boy before both were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital.

However, apart from a thorough scare and swallowing some sea water the worse for their ducking, and both were released from hospital following a checkup.

Two Doctors, Nurse Injured In Accident

TRENTON—Two doctors and a nurse; injured when their small European car flipped over on Highway 401 early yesterday, have been transferred to Toronto hospitals after being treated briefly in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Juan Nunez, 31, of St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto, suffered possible concussion and head lacerations when he lost control of the car he was driving just west of Highway 33 about 12:30 a.m. A passenger, Dr. John Juun Gran, 35, also of St. Joseph's Hospital, suffered multiple lacerations and bruises.

Gloria Thompson of the Nightingale School of Nursing in Toronto, suffered head injuries to the right leg, bruises and shock.

The doctors were transferred to St. Joseph's and the nurse was sent to New Mount Sinai Hospital.

Ontario Provincial Police at Brighton, who investigated the accident said the three were driving west at the time of the accident.

SKIDDED 40 FEET

Carol Loucks, 16, of 163 Wragg Street, Trenton, suffered lacerations to her nose and left cheek yesterday afternoon when the car she was driving went out of control on Highway 2, west of Trenton, and skidded 40 feet into a ditch.

Miss Loucks was treated in Trenton Memorial Hospital and then released. A passenger and owner of the car, Ronald Gordon Coughlin, 46 Guelph Street, Trenton, was unhurt. The car was damaged to the extent of $300.

Ontario Provincial Police at Brighton said the accident occurred about 4:40 p.m. when the car, going east, failed to negotiate a right-hand turn onto the Second Dughill Road.

Water Rates to Be Increased To Pay for Sewage Plant

Typist's Error Puts Officer In Bad Hole

A typist's error may cause red faces in the Ontario Department of Transport — and inconvenience to a Belleville police officer.

And that's the least of it!

It happened this way.

The officer recently charged a man with a driving offence. The man subsequently had his driver's licence suspended by the provincial department.

However, somewhere along the paper line the officer's name was typed into a report in the space allotted for the name of the convicted person. Thus, on paper when suspension time rolled around, the officer was the guilty party, the guilty party was the officer.

The result?

Simple. The officer's licence was suspended.

Starting in late June or early July, city water users are going to be faced with sharply increased water rates to help pay for Belleville's new sewage disposal system.

Part of the system's maintenance and operational costs will be paid for directly by the city property owners who this year are being levied one mill for this purpose. The balance will be collected by the public utilities commission through increased water rates.

Mr. E. L. Burnham, utilities manager, said the added rate for domestic users would be $1.60 per month collected at the rate of $3.20 every two months.

The extra amount to be paid by commercial and industrial users will be based on water costs and will be a percentage of the commercial rate.

Thus the cost of sewage treatment to the average householder will be $19.20 added to his domestic water bill, plus one mill on his assessment if he also happens to be a property owner.

Mr. Burnham said today that accounting machines at the utilities office would have to be modified to take care of the extra billing. This modification of machines would be done on a temporary basis and then revised when new accounting machines were purchased.

Sewage Plant At Batawa to Cost $171,399

Two Belleville firms, Lightfoot Construction, and Bay City Construction, are doing the installation of the new $171,399 sewage plant currently being built for the village of Batawa.

Construction on the project commenced about ten days ago, with Lightfoots doing the treatment plant and the outfall sewer, and Bay City Construction, the collector sewers from the present system to the new treatment plant.

Of the overall cost an amount of $116,598 is being borrowed from Central Mortgage and Housing on 20-year debentures at 5¼ per cent, the balance being obtained from the Ontario Water Resources Commission which will build and maintain the plant.

The loan from Central Mortgage and Housing contains a forgiveness clause of 25 per cent which would be applied to be repaid providing certain construction requirements are met.

Local Builders to Meet Council in Closed Session

City council will hold a special meeting on Wednesday afternoon to decide "once and for all" on its sub - dividers' agreement with local builders.

The sub-dividers' agreement was passed by city council early this year after weeks of consultation with builders but in the words of Alderman A. Ellis it has not been lived up to by the city.

Yesterday members of the Belleville Real Estate Board and local builders appeared before council as a delegation asking that the builders receive more consideration from council.

Land surveyor T. J. Ransom told council that home building in the city was a two-and-a-half million dollar industry and as the city's largest industry was a big boost to the economy.

Lack of serviced land, however, was slowing down the builders with approximately 12 sub - divisions being held up through lack of water at the sub - dividers' agreement.

He said it would be unfair to the sub - dividers if the city change its statement of policy at this date.

He asked that the city honor its present policy statement. However, if a change was contemplated he requested that interested groups be consulted and that they be given the opportunity of speaking.

Pleads Guilty To Having Spear Near River

A Belleville youth was fined $15 and costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wills for having a spear near the Moira River during the pickerel spawning run two weeks ago.

Kenneth Sandford pleaded guilty to the offence.

Game warden George Warner told the court he saw Sandford with a spear on the river bank about 4.30 a.m. April 14. Several other youths were in the vicinity.

"When he saw me he threw the spear in the water," said the warden. "The spear stuck in the river bottom and stuck above water. We were able to retrieve the spear."

"Did you say speared fish in the immediate neighborhood?" asked the magistrate.

"No your worship."

Adding $3 costs to the charge Magistrate Wills told Sandford: "You ought to get some contribution from your pals . . . They let you down by not giving you much warning didn't they."

Harley Carter New Head of Potato Club

Student Harley Carter has been named president of the newly formed 4-H Potato Club at Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School.

Other officers are Jasper Kelzer, vice president with Stanley Dafoe and Alan Anderson, named as secretary and press reporter.

Elections were conducted under the supervision of Lyall MacLachlan, Assistant Agricultural Representative for Hastings County. Mr. MacLachlan outlined the benefits to be derived from 4-H membership and participation emphasizing the 4-H motto "Learn to do by doing". To date, three regular meetings have been held on Wednesdays, at two-week intervals. Attendance has been good, and several topics have been discussed including soil testing, characteristics and qualities of some varieties of potatoes, methods of planting and fertilizing.

Meetings are held in room 301, at 12.30 p.m. with the next one scheduled for Wednesday, May 8th.

Safety Program In the City Gets Billing

Belleville's traffic safety program gets province-wide attention this month.

The current bulletin of the Ontario Department of Transport runs a full-page pictorial feature on the city's program with school children under the direction of sergeant Ralph Blatchford.

The feature is based on a typical working day in the sergeant's program with city school children.

Family Will Live Free For Month, Wins $250 Prize

It's the first time he ever won anything, but Mr. Clarence Dunkley and family, 94 Prince of Wales Drive, are going to live free for the next month — thanks to the management of the Belleville Canadian Tire Corporation store.

Saturday Mr. Dunkley was advised he had won the $250 "Live Free for a Month" draw award offered by the Belleville store.

"It couldn't have come at a better time," according to Mrs. Dunkley who said her husband had been off work for much of the winter because of ill health.

The family received a cheque for $250 to cover a month's living expenses. Also the family will receive four cases of cokes.

There is a bit of irony about the gift of the cokes — Mr. Dunkley works as a driver for a rival soft drink firm.

"But I am going to take the cokes just the same," he said.

Largest Field on Record

Harrier Race Entry List

A record-breaking 58 entries were in at press time today for Wednesday's annual running of the Ken Colling Memorial Cross-Country harrier race.

Today is the final day for entries, with none accepted at the post mortem room, so any Bay of Quinte district students entering must have their forms into school today.

The race, over a distance of 4.5 miles, will start and finish at the BCIVS campus. The starting gun will go at 4:15 sharp tomorrow afternoon.

Of the entries listed to date, 14 are from BCIVS, 11 from Picton's Prince Edward Collegiate, nine from Bloomfield Secondary School, six from Madoc High School, five from the Ontario School for the Deaf, four from Tweed High School, three each from Quinte Secondary and Campbellford High School, two from Albert College and one from Trenton High School.

This will be the 19th annual running of the event, won for the past three years by Moira's Bill Vermilyea, who owns the record time of 19.39.5, set in 1961. Vermilyea is not listed on this year's entry list. Second last year was Adrian Ainsworth, OSD, followed by Fred Singleton, OSD, Francis Prevost, Tweed, Cliff Brooks, Madoc and Bruce Pearce of Quinte.

Singleton, Prevost, Brooks and Symons are again entered in this year's race.

Following is the list, as of this morning, with the entries number, name and school listed in that order.

Cookie Day For Guides A Success

The annual Cookie Day held by the Belleville and District Girl Guide movement on Saturday, was the most successful in recent years. All four districts in the city reported a complete sell-out. Most of the companies and packs had finished their sales before noon.

Mrs. Stewart, Belleville District Commissioner, said the girls were received very well by the general public and was grateful for the co-operation of everyone involved in the Guide Year-ly fund raising project.

Says Roberts Trying to Force Hand of Govt.

TORONTO (CP) — Former attorney-general Kelso Roberts was trying to force his government's hand when he divulged information from an investigation into distribution of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company Shares, Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario New Democratic Party Leader, said Monday night.

Mr. Macdonald told a nomination meeting in Toronto St. Patrick, Mr. Roberts' own riding, that Premier John Robarts' Progressive Conservative government appears to be mishandling the NONG issue as badly as did Premier Leslie Frost's Conservative government four or five years ago.

He said the cabinet is split and Mr. Roberts, now lands and forests minister, is feuding publicly with Attorney - General Frederick Cass.

"There is no doubt as to why," Mr. Macdonald said. "Mr. Roberts has apparently become convinced that the government has delayed the Ontario Securities Commission report for so long as to justify the suspicion that it intends to withhold it, in whole or in part."

More Passengers Biggest Need Of Commission

More passengers is the big need of the Belleville Transit Commission if the city bus operation is to get out of the red, and the only way to get more is to provide more comfortable buses.

This was the observation heard at city council yesterday from Deputy Mayor Ben Corke as he supported a recommendation for the purchase of a new bus by the transit commission at a cost of up to $18,000.

The city approved the issuing of debentures of up to this amount.

Alderman Walter Elliott questioned the high cost of the proposed bus, however, claiming that in Orillia and Lindsay satisfactory service was given by buses costing approximately $6,000.

This in turn was questioned by Deputy Mayor Corke, who said a special committee had been sold two years ago that buses costing at least $16,000 were necessary.

BIG DEFICIT

Mr. Corke said that the expected deficit of the local transit company was "fantastic" and the only way its financial position could be bettered was to coax more riders.

"And we will not get the riders unless the buses are comfortable," he said.

And here he had a word of warning for potential bus riders.

He said the city had been forced into the position of having to take over the bus operation. But unless there were more bus riders the city might have ca liquid ui thmuk hz have to call it quits.

New Members Received by United Church

FRANKFORD — The United Church was filled to capacity on Sunday morning for a confirmation service, at which the minister, the Rev. Charles R. Judd assisted by clerk of session, Mr. Walter Morrow, received the following communicants, on profession of faith, as members in full communion of the Church of Christ.

Anne Beach; Susan Chase; Linda Dafoe, Sharon Dafoe; June Dawe; Linda Forbes; Marion Frost; Janice Gilmour; Deborah Hamilton; Leisha Judd; Raelene Rowe and Sharlene Vosbourgh.

The choir, under direction of Mrs. Karl Austin, contributed special music for the occasion.

The minister's text was from Deut. 7:6 "You are a people holy to the Lord your God. He has chosen you because He loves you, to be a people for His own possession."

At the evening service, Mr. Jack Williams preached on the theme "Christ and Church "As one that serves" and Mr. Gordon Savage, president of Frankford United Church C.G.I.T.S. Men's Club, conducted the service, assisted by Messrs. George Ireland, George Hilsdal, Francis Chase.

An all male choir, under direction of Mr. Ernest Wallace, led the congregation in inspirational singing and contributed an appropriate anthem and a quartet number by Harry Slingerland, Lyle Williams, Kenneth Cowerdale and Ronald Mitts.

make cars that fight rust a lot longer? RAMBLER DOES (the exclusive Deep Dip process with 7 times more galvanized steel on critical areas makes Rambler the world's most completely rust-proofed car.)

make brakes that won't fail even with a broken hydraulic line? RAMBLER DOES (Double-Safety brakes have front and rear systems that operate independently. If one set is damaged the other continues to operate. Self-adjusting, too.)

make mufflers that won't corrode or rust out? RAMBLER DOES (the exclusive Ceramic-Armoured muffler and tailpipe is guaranteed to last as long as the original buyer owns his Rambler.)

make the lowest priced Canadian-built car? RAMBLER DOES (It's the Rambler American . . . and it not only is the lowest priced but also the most economical to operate and maintain. The American comes with a high performance 6 cylinder engine, too.)

make doors that close solid, straight and true? RAMBLER DOES (Unisde, the newest development of Single-Unit construction, replaces scores of small parts with a single piece stamped out of a sheet of steel. Gives you greater strength, more perfect door fit.)

make seats as comfortable as a reclining lounge chair? RAMBLER DOES (chair-height seats, firmly coil sprung, adjust individually. They convert instantly into a nap couch. Headrests are also available.)

make a car that gives top performance and economy? RAMBLER DOES (with one of the best weight-to-horsepower ratios in the industry you get the best performance in either a six or V8 engine with exceptional economy.)

make it really easy to get in and out? RAMBLER DOES (Unisde construction makes possible the widest and highest door openings. Try getting in and out of a Rambler soon at your nearest Dealer's.)

Anything else you've ever wanted in a car? Look over the beautiful new Ramblers. Have a talk with your Rambler Dealer. He'll be happy to answer any other questions you have about cars.

Trade Picture Changes

As Prime Minister Lester Pearson settles into his new role, some of the problems confronting him must appear familiar. He will remember them being discussed by the St. Laurent Cabinet.

But Hon. Mitchell Sharp, one-time deputy minister of the trade department he now heads, will find an old familiar bogey-man missing. Canada no longer has a perennial trade deficit.

Remedying the unfavorable balance of trade was one of the first objectives of the Diefenbaker Government. As it leaves office, it finds its objective realized. During the first three months of the calendar year Canada had a trade surplus of $69,500,000, compared with a trade deficit of $74,500,000 during the same period last year.

A closer study of the figures, though, reveals an ironical touch. One of the earliest proposals made by the Diefenbaker regime was to switch a proportion of our trade from the United States to Britain. The trend, five years later, is exactly the reverse.

The trade surplus of the first quarter was generated by a decline of 3.5 per cent in imports, compared with the same period last year, and a rise of 6.6 per cent in exports. But our imports from the U.S. declined at a slower rate, 2.1 per cent, and our exports rose at a much slower rate, 2.8 per cent, than the overall figures. Meanwhile, while the reverse was true of our trade with the United Kingdom, where exports rose by a whopping 11.1 per cent and imports fell by a drastic 24.4 per cent. It seems fair to interpret these figures as switching trade from the United Kingdom to the U.S., rather than the reverse, which was the original objective.

Herein lies a future problem. It is obvious that we cannot expect to continue to sell twice as much to the United Kingdom as we buy from it—and indeed we were given a public warning to that effect by a British official just last week.

Although the problem which originally prompted the proposal—our unfavorable trade balance—has been solved at least temporarily, an effort to divert some of our trade from the U.S. still appears reasonable. To advocate such a move is not anti-Americanism, but merely commonsense. We depend heavily on the U. S. market, where we sell almost 60 per cent of our exports. But we are even more dependent on the U.S. to supply us with goods we do not produce ourselves, buying 73 per cent of all our imports from her. Some diversification in our sources of supply would appear to be in order.

Congratulations

The success of the Quinte District Home and Sport Show last week fully justified the hopes and predictions of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. It also confounded the predictions, if not the hopes, of a lot of other people in Belleville.

The objections to the show were varied, and apparently pointless. Some people said Belleville couldn't support a spring show. They were wrong. Others, remembering that a previous Junior Chamber of Commerce had overextended itself into bankruptcy, suggested the project would be too big. They were wrong too. The Jaycees have vindicated Belleville, and their own organization, with their success last week.

But if proving points were all the Home and Sport Show was good for, it would not have been worth the effort. The main purposes of the show were to train Jaycee members for leadership, to raise money for other Jaycee projects, and to provide a centre of interest to the city. It accomplished all three objectives, and will probably continue to fill these functions after the points raised by the doubters have been forgotten.

Other organizations would be well advised to consider the accomplishments of the Home and Sport show, when they plan their own activities. If they can do as well as the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce has done, they can be proud of their accomplishment.

"Radicalism represents the built-in challenge to any establishment, and institutionalism, any orthodoxy: and it is an attitude that is relevant to far more than politics. Indeed, the essence of the radical protest could be summed up in the statement of Jesus that 'the Sabbath is made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.' Persons are more important than any principles . . . Yet radicalism is not anarchy. It is not just being 'kooky' or individualistic. It knows well enough that persons can matter, and freedom can flourish, only in a context of order. But, dissatisfied as it is simply with freedom from, it will always be asking: order for what?"

Pearson's Press Relations Pleasant and Promising

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — What manner of man is Prime Minister Pearson?

Apart from what it says in all those studied and hurried biographies, that is?

Forget all the years you have known him, read of him, liked and admired him, even travelled and campaigned with him - - - what is he really like?

Well, hear this - - -

- - - he is the man of man who, even under the terrific pressure of the first frantic 48 hours of power — it was "Day Sixty Minus Two" on that "Action Countdown" — was not too busy to listen for a moment to the pleas of a newspaper cameraman and do him the tremendous favor of providing him with an historic photographic "first."

Just a flash of a few seconds from a hectic day of immense responsibilities . . but time enough to reveal what the Prime Minister can be expected to do in the impulse of the moment.

Coming out of the Cabinet into the lobby for the Wednesday and television floods of the regular daily East Block corridor press- conference, the new Prime Minister had said something of crossing Parliament Hill to meet all the departmental Deputy Ministers and the Chiefs of Staff.

THE GLEAMS:

These are the men who make the Federal Establishment tick.

Through good times and crisis and bad, with this party and that, devoted and dedicated to the public interest, the Secretaries and Chiefs keep the Federal machine operating, collecting the taxes, paying the pensions and family allowances, selling the wheat, training the troops and attending to all those other scores of essential administrative chores.

No matter who rules the East Block and the Commons, these men comprise the power house, the driving force.

The Prime Minister himself, not so many years ago, was one of their number, Undersecretary of State for External Affairs Lester Bowles Pearson.

So when he went to meet them, their first call for their devotion and say how happy he was to be working with them again, there was a real community of special interest between them, a warm understanding that promised well for strong, progressive, forward-looking Government.

The "Team" was for the Captain and the Captain for the "Team."

This, then, would be some picture, even "historic," certainly a definite "first" — the Deputy Ministers-cum-Chiefs of Ministers with his first-string team, the Deputies and the Chiefs.

But as it was in the Cabinet Chamber of the Centre Block, out of bounds to all but the select few in the inner circle, and it was about over when the cameraman, came galloping up.

HOW DO YOU WANT US?

In fact, Prime Minister "Mike," with hat and coat, was just emerging.

Could there be a picture, asked the cameraman.

"Too late," smiled the Prime Minister, "some of the fellows have left."

But enough — some 30, by far the majority of the "Team" — were still there, and it was a picture the press was glad to posterity and the Canadian archives.

"Perhaps they might be embarrassed," grinned the PM with an uncertain shrug. "After all, they are not used to cameramen, non - political Deputies, and I'm a politician, you know."

They'd be proud, he was assured.

So back they all went into the Cabinet Chamber.

And this was no formal, once-in-an-Administration posed or "set" picture. The traditional Cabinet style, but something shot from the hip, on the fly, on impulse.

"How do you want us?" asked the Prime Minister.

"All down at the end of the room, and the back row please stand on the chairs," directed the cameraman, whipping off his shoes . . . and, for elevation and a better shot . . . leaping, stockinged-feet, onto the green baize of the big oval Cabinet table which seats 30 around its rim.

It was all done in a few moments.

The cameraman was on his way with the picture of Mike Pearson's "Sixty Hazing Days of Dynamic Action," the Deputies had scattered across the Capital to their offices, seldom, if ever, to gather in such an assembly again . . . and the new Prime Minister, through sheer kindly impulse to help, had drawn warm applause from the Federal Establishment Press Corps.

Out of such instinct for helpfulness are good public and press relations fashioned.

Honest Sweat Has Gone Out Of Style—

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"I was in Florida last month," said the woman next to me at the table, "and we attended a beautiful preview of a new film. Just is it started, the air conditioning system broke down — and more than half the audience walked out and went home."

"That's to be expected," I murmured.

"I suppose it is," she said, "but, you know, all the people there were my age or older — which means that they grew up without any air conditioning at all. We went to movies on the hottest nights and simply sweltered — there was no alternative if we wanted to see the film. And nobody walked out because it was too hot."

This is another aspect of a problem I touched upon in a recent column on the ball-point pen and the proliferation of products in our society. Never before in human history have so many "luxuries" been transformed into "necessities" in such a short time and over such a broad percentage of the population.

There is a real cleavage, a profound paradox, between our Puritan heritage of hard work, of sweat and suffering for the goods of the earth, and our modern economy, which is devoted to the effortless, the pleasant, the gratifying, the automatic.

When the conservative complains — and accurately — that the old-fashioned notions of hard work have gone by the boards, he neglects to add that the most prevalent product of capitalism has been "making life easier" in a technical sense for the greatest number of people.

Nobody today will put up with lack of air conditioning, even though a mere generation ago it was almost unheard of. We live in an era when comfort, ease and automatic mechanisms are taken for granted and sweat is an ugly word.

Our social and economic system has made this possible, as nowhere else in the world — and therefore is to be wholly unexpected that the tradition of sweat and toil is losing all its force in our national ethos?

There are certain contradictions in every system that weaken it and threaten its very survival; indeed, the internal contradictions in any system are usually at the seeds of the destruction for its downfall than any outside threat. Roman militarism decayed at the core long before the barbarians were able to invade and conquer it.

We face the task of reconciling our contradictions, of solving our own paradoxes, or in the end these may prove more disastrous to our welfare than the external menace of communism. The benefits we have achieved are enormous, but we have scarcely begun to examine the price we are paying for them.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 30th, 1943

Tuesday evening last marked the inaugural meeting of the "Quarter Century Club" when thirty-five employees of the Benedict-Proctor Manufacturing Company were guests of the president, Mr. G. Proctor, at dinner at the Gilbert House.

Mr. J. A. Mackenzie acted as toastmaster, and after extending a welcome to the guests, called upon Mr. Proctor who gave a most educational and interesting talk on the history and development of the company from the time of its organization to the present day.

Charter for the company was taken out in February, 1913, after the firm had been started on Church Street in Toronto, following the fire which Parker Woodman Manufacturing Co. was purchased and the new company moved to Alliston, Ont., where they were engaged in the manufacture of silverware and jewellery lines until 1917 when they moved to the present location at Trenton.

In his address to his employees Mr. Proctor said in part, "Bricks and mortar, machinery and equipment mean nothing to any manufacturer or any organization without the skill, conscientious effort, and loyalty of his employees. The splendid growth and success we have enjoyed since our company was organized in 1913 are in themselves proof of the loyalty, cooperation and hard work which have been invested in a large extent by you people gathered together at this banquet table.

30 YEARS AGO

At the closing session of the 7th annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte United Church Women's Missionary Society, the following officers were elected, included in the list of officers: 2nd vice-president, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor of Stirling; Mrs. C. Brown of Belleville; correspondending secretary, Mrs. E. Rowland of Belleville; Canadian Girls in Training, Miss R. Templeton of Belleville; members at large, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. L. Brown of Belleville; Mrs. W. Smith of Pembroke was re-elected auditor.

Work on the addition of the Old Folks' Home on Dundas Street East is being pushed forward. The estimated cost is $3,000.

Mrs. R. M. Carmichael and her son, Jack Carmichael, are spending the weekend in Ottawa.

Mrs. F. Nicholson has left here for Niagara where she will make her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young who have been living in Winnipeg for the past four years, have returned here to reside.

Miss J. Tuite, Miss N. P. Merry, Miss Leona Riggs and Mr. Bill Gerard were in Ottawa yesterday to attend the final day's competition in the Dominion Drama Festival.

The Hon. H. Corby returned home from Ottawa today.

Mr. J. L. Tower, B.A., of this city, has graduated in medicine at Queen's University, Kingston.

It is reported that the city will commence paving Front Street on June 1st. It will be a happy day when there is no mud to wade through at certain times of the year, not to mention the dust.

Mr. Earl McCoy, son of Mr. William McCoy on William Street, has passed the first year in Arts at Queen's University, Kingston.

Widen Right To Sue Crown

London Free Press

The idea that the Queen can do no wrong is being modified in Ontario.

Attorney - General Frederick M. Cass has introduced a bill in the provincial Legislature which will enable individuals to sue the government and its servants and agents much as they would sue other persons.

There are a good many existing pieces of legislation which already restrict the right to sue under specific circumstances.

But many of the immunities and privileges now enjoyed by the Crown at the provincial level are being removed.

It has long seemed that the principle under which a citizen could not sue the government was unfair, particularly in view of the increasing number of ways government has been restricting the rights of individuals.

Some of the more obvious injustices in this line have been removed by the federal field.

However in some cases the removal of the right to sue has been left in a misleading state under which certain government bodies remain.

The Workmen's Compensation Act is a sample.

There is another side to the coin, though.

One reason why the Queen can do no wrong is that officially her ministers are responsible for every governmental action.

She can't be blamed for what her ministers, or their agents, do.

This makes it all the more logical that individuals should be permitted to take legal action when they feel their rights are infringed—even by government.

Indeed it has long been possible to test the validity of legislation in the courts.

Most Babies Outgrow Thumb-Sucking Habit

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My 11-month-old baby girl sucks her index finger constantly. The very first time I saw her (two hours old) she was sucking her finger.

As soon as she finishes her bottle, her finger is in her mouth. My real problem is that her gums are very crooked. Will this affect her teeth and can it be corrected. —Mrs. J. S.

At 11 months, I don't as a rule pay much attention to thumb or finger-sucking. Babies at that young age do not have a sense of security from it, and they outgrow the habit. Several years later thumb-sucking can become a real problem.

However, in this case, I'm not so sure. The baby happened to discover her finger almost at birth, and she evidently has become attached to it.

If the shape of her gums is being affected, then something should be done. Some oral appliances are an aid for this type. The biggest factor in ulcer care is to change habits and that's true for the better. It's up to him to control himself—both his unsanitary and his nerves.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chiropractic Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Cause and Cure," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long-self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Molner: You recently wrote about chest X-rays and radiation. What is your opinion about X-rays of other parts of the body? Our young son swallowed an object and received a series of bowel X-rays. He also had an X-ray with barium enema. Your comments would be appreciated.

—Mrs. L. W. V.

My answer remains the same, regardless of the area X-rayed. Yes, we should always avoid needless radiation.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has an ulcer. He smokes cigarettes almost continuously. He can leave home seemingly O.K. and then return in an hour in a bad condition. You would think he is dying.

He also has terrible headaches — just as suddenly. Doctors say it is nerves. Advice, please, so I can help him more.

—Mrs. Q. R.

There's not much you can do if he won't help himself. He sounds like a very tense individual. Sedatives and tranquilizers are an aid for this type. The biggest factor in ulcer care is to change habits and that's true for the better. It's up to him to control himself—both his unsanitary and his nerves.

Adolf Hitler finally conceded the defeat of his plans for conquest by Nazism and committed suicide 18 years ago today — in 1945 — as Soviet troops closed in their way into Berlin. The night before, Hitler married his mistress Eva Braun and, having appointed Admiral Doenitz head of state, went into his suite in his underground bunker and shot himself. Made sure, took poison. In accordance with his instructions, their bodies were burned and no remains were discovered.

Childhood, or of old men who had served under the Black Prince at Crecy.

And when you consider how like his father each man is, in all important particulars, you can realize something that history does not teach, which is the fact that, actually, men haven't changed much in five hundred years. Or in a thousand, or two, thousand, for that matter.

The trick history plays on us is with pictures. We are shown costumes. History has museums to prove how different men looked, from century to century. ## George Black Chose Well

North Bay Nugget

Klondike pioneer Georges Black's comments on life on the occasion of his 90th birthday and his obvious disregard for a fortune during the days of the gold rush help to remind us that there wasn't very much wrong with the "old life."

A member of Parliament from 1521 until 1940 when he retired from politics for health reasons, Mr. Black fondly recalls the "wild days" of the Klondike when he made only enough money in mining to establish himself in a law practice. By doing so he turned his back on a possible fortune in gold nuggets in order to pursue what he felt were the better things in life.

Cable TV Companies Now Serve 200,000 Households With 332 Cable Systems

OTTAWA (CP)—The television industry remains set for a showdown on a suddenly contentious issue that was little more than a gleam in an entrepreneur's eye when TV came formally to Canada a decade ago.

The issue centres on the role and future plans of a new breed of middlemen in the industry, the operators of a growing number of cable TV systems that provide paying viewers with the output of TV stations not normally in clear pick-up range.

From small beginnings 10 years ago, the outsize aerials and land lines of cable TV companies now serve some 200,000 households across Canada. The 332 licensed cable systems—a total of 50 per cent in two years—on average charge each subscriber $48 a year for carrying the reception of U.S. and Canadian TV stations.

Broadcasters have expressed alarm at the impact of cable TV on the industry and there have been suggestions that the ultimate aim is a pay-TV network carrying original programs.

The Board of Broadcast Governors, which regulates broadcasting in Canada, has scheduled a public hearing on the issue for June 4 although it has said it has no jurisdiction over cable TV. The BBG says its power relates only to broadcasting on air waves, not to transmission by wire.

But Canadian Broadcasting Corporation expressed "grave concern" about cable TV in a statement last March to the BBG:

"Originally used to bring in a television signal not available at house-top level—in effect being only a better housetop for the viewer—it now appears to be seeking a role as the provider of alternative service or services. It may be even unwittingly starting to replace television stations as we know them."

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, which groups most private broadcasters, claims a form of alleged unfair competition from cable TV before a parliamentary committee about three years ago.

The association suggests that a stated case be put to the Supreme Court of Canada to determine whether the BBG has jurisdiction over cable TV.

T. J. Allard, executive vice-president, says cable TV is a swiftly growing and unnecessary parasite with an unfair advantage over TV stations. Cable companies are subject to such BBG requirements as 75 per cent Canadian ownership and 30 per cent Canadian programming.

CRITICIZES HEARING

Cable TV operators counter that they cater to public demand for better TV reception, building receiving facilities for the community at a cost that would be prohibitive for individual viewers.

K. J. Easton, secretary for the National Community Antenna Television Association of Canada, says members are subject to regulations laid down by the department of transport, which charges cable TV systems for a fee of $25 annually.

A cable TV system must transmit at least one Canadian station's output, he said in an interview, and about 30 per cent of the cable systems in Canada provide only the programs of Canadian stations.

Mr. Easton declined to comment on suggestions that cable TV is a ploy to get a pay TV network established.

Three distinguished faculty members of the University of Toronto will be among those honored and will deliver convocation addresses.

At the first convocation, Friday afternoon, May 17, Dr. Malfield A. Woodside will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree and address the convocation at which undergraduate and graduate degrees in theology, arts and science, commerce and business administration will be awarded. Dr. Woodside, Principal of University College, at the University of Toronto, has been recently appointed Vice Principal (Academic) of the University.

CLERK OF COUNCIL

R. B. Bryce of Ottawa, Clerk of the Privy Council and Secretary to the federal cabinet will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree at the same ceremony. Honorary doctor of divinity degrees will also be conferred on Rev. George J. McNeill, Q.C., and Queen's Counsel, now minister of Wilmot United Church, Fredericton, Burwash Professor of Theology, Douglas H. Woodhouse, minister of Port Hope United Church.

Two men prominent in mining circles will be honored with honorary doctor of laws degrees at the special science convocation, Saturday morning, May 18. They will be Thayer Lindsley of New York, who is known for his quiet philanthropy and has been associated with the Canadian mining industry since before the First World War, and Clifford Gibson of Kingston. Mr. Gibson, a 1922 Queen's graduate in mining engineering, became a leader in the development of safety methods in Ontario mines. Mr. Gibson will deliver the convocation address.

On Saturday afternoon, May 18, two general degrees in arts and science and diplomas in health education are to be awarded. The convocation address will be delivered by Dr. A. E. F. Woodhouse of University College, University of Toronto. Dr. Woodhouse, a Bachelor of Port Hope and graduate of Queen's, Kingston, has been a professor of English and head of the department of English at the University College, and the School of Graduate Studies.

GRADUATE HONORED

During the same ceremony, Leslie Earl, a 1953 graduate of Queen's, will also receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. He is principal of the Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute.

At the convocation for law, medicine and nursing science on the following Saturday afternoon May 25, Dr. J. A. Macfarlane, Chairman of the Medical Science, Advisory Council, University of Toronto, will be the convocation speaker, and will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. Dr. Macfarlane is the former Dean of Medicine at the University of Toronto.

Three other honorary degrees will be awarded at the final Spring convocation. Honorary doctor of laws degrees will be conferred on Hon. E. Davie Fulton of Kamloops, B.C., former minister of Justice and later public works; Dr. Murray A. Barr, professor of Microscopic Anatomy, University of Western Ontario, and John Sedgwick, Q.C., Treasurer of the Law Society of Upper Canada, Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

Hearing Date Will Be Set In Two Weeks

Date for a preliminary hearing into a murder charge in his wife's death against Vincent Armand Calaiis of this city may be set in two weeks.

This was the intimation given Magistrate T. Y. Wills this morning by Donald Thompson, city lawyer who spoke for Calaiis as the accused man was remanded a week this morning.

Calaiis was arrested April 22 after his wife was found fatally shot in the couple's home on Dover Road.

James Wild New President Of Kinsmen

The Kinsmen Club of Belleville elected its 1963-64 slate of officers at the regular meeting at the Shrine Club Monday evening.

The following were elected for the coming years president, James Wild, (re) (acclamation); vice-president, Frank Walker; secretary, Fred Bennett; treasurer, Terence Bender; registrar, E. V. (Bud) Drury; directors, Ken Frank, Bob Brown and Charles Gray. Rolland Belanger will become immediate past-president. The officers will also commence their duties in September after the summer recess.

Two new members were accepted into the club last night, F. Richard Ferguson and membership by Kin Charles Gray and William "Bill" Andrews, proposed by Rolland Belanger, giving the Kinsmen Club a total membership of 39. The yearly objective of the club is 45 members.

PLAN SOCIAL EVENING

President Belanger announced that the club had been presented would be a social evening and members were invited to bring their wives.

An official induction ceremony will be held during the course of the evening for new members who have joined the club within the past year.

President Rolland Belanger and Kin Frank Walker, motored to Kingston recently where they met with members of the Kingston Club and Allen Wains from New York, who will be directing the convention at the Broadway bit, Carousel, being sponsored by the Kingston club.

The show will be playing five nights in Kingston and will be presented in Belleville at the Belleville Collegiate sometime in November.

The two members from the Belleville Club and the Kingston club members met with Mr. Wains in Kingston. He has told those present, 40 performers would be required for his production.

"We will move into rehearsals about the middle of October.... I am pleased with the choice," Mr. Wains told Kinsmen. "It's lively and there are some wonderful songs. It could be a good production."

About 23 members attended last night's meeting.

Toronto Rotarians Pay Inter-Club Visit to City

The Rotary Club of Belleville played host to Toronto Rotarians at the noon hour luncheon at the Hotel Quinte on Monday.

The Rotary banner was presented to the Toronto Rotarians by Rotarian Jack Marshall, on behalf of the Belleville club. Immediately following the dinner meeting, the Toronto guests were taken on a conducted tour of Corby's Limited at Corbyville and the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Guest speaker for the luncheon meeting was Mr. E. Griffiths, general manager of the Toronto Harbor Commission, introduced by the Toronto Interclub chairman, Ken Laidly.

Mr. Griffiths' address was on the "Challenge of the St. Lawrence Seaway." In his opening remarks, the speaker said there was a definite challenge in regard to the Seaway, which affected Belleville as well as the city of Toronto.

TWO CHALLENGES

He said there were two obvious challenges, the economical and the social. "The economical challenge" he said, "was due to the fact that hundreds of thousands of dollars had been spent shipping through the great lakes. He said the seaway now provides facilities for shipping through the system, for ocean ships with bigger tonnage without too much of an increase in cost.

The speaker added that it offered a similar challenge to Canadian exporters and urged them to be active in the export business, which is an important factor in the future of Canada.

He said the seaway now will assist the manufacturer by importing his materials for the commercial use.

BUILD BIG DOCK

In Toronto he said, 10 million dollars was spent on one dock, with one million dollars spent on terminal for ocean-going ships. They expected ships would be lined up to use these facilities, but he said, this has not happened.

"The fact that money has been spent to provide these facilities does not necessarily mean that business is going to come there," he stated.

As a result of the St. Lawrence Seaway, Toronto has big time manufacturing industry, a sugar company move into their port, the speaker said. The seaway, then provided new industry for Toronto, new assessments and new taxes.

The speaker said it was a challenge to the communities as well as to the port organization of ocean ships do come in. "It will be up to the communities and the community to provide the proper social facilities to the sailors on these ships and the dock workers. This is not an easy job and is often times met with some resistance, he said.

NOT SEPARATE PROBLEMS

"The challenge of economic growth is brought to your community," he said, "and in fact it goes far beyond the possibility of any particular area. I suggest that the problems be regarded not separately but integrated and not separate problems."

In closing, he said, "I would like to leave with you a personal viewpoint, "if we on the northern shore of Lake Ontario are going to get full advantage of the St. Lawrence Seaway, we must meet the challenge of assisting industry, and expand to the maximum extent."

The speaker was thanked by Rotarian Jim Marker. Twenty-two members were present at the meeting as well as some 40 local Rotarians.

Rotarian Bill McCormick reported that at noon Monday, a total of $4,420 had been collected for the Easter Seal campaign. He said this was $260 more than was collected at the same time last year.

Plant Workers Have Voted for Outside Union

Plant workers at Stephens-Adamson Manufacturing in Belleville have voted to have an outside union as bargaining agent.

The United Mineworkers of America will now represent about 135 men in the automotive parts shop. The vote for the union was an overwhelming 97-17.

Previously all bargaining was kept within the plant itself when the men were represented by a shop association.

MRS. WYCLIFFE BOOTH

Salvation Army Women's Rally Will Be Held

Mrs. Commissioner W. Wycliffe Booth, the wife of the national head of The Salvation Army in Canada, will conduct a special women's rally in Belleville on Wednesday afternoon and evening at the First Baptist Church, Belleville, under the auspices of The Salvation Army's Home League movement. The Home League is really a movement for better home life in Canada, and women will be attending the rally from Campbellford, Oshawa, Napanee, Picton, Trenton, Tweed, and Belleville. The public is invited to the night gathering.

Mrs. Booth has given outstanding leadership in Women's Social Service work, and has been interested in many ventures affecting the well-being of the poor and needy, and particularly the plight of the unmarried and the addict.

As Renee Pevron, previous to her marriage Mrs. Booth was called her parents in establishing the work of The Salvation Army in France. In Canada, Mrs. Booth serves as Territorial President of the Home League and also as Territorial President of the League of Mercy, a group of 2,000 volunteer workers who visit institutions and aid the sick and forgotten.

Mental Patient Needs Help in Re-Adjusting

Returning to society is one of the most difficult things a former mental patient can do. His family needs to be warm and understanding, his friends comforting; but he must also have help in re-adjusting to a world from which he has been absent for some time.

With the Canadian Mental Health Association at his side to assure him a warm welcome; a group of friends in a returning patient club; help in finding a congenial home setting, if he should need it; help in finding a job, free from any prejudice of employ-er employees; help in getting a medication he may need to free him from his symptoms; he is no longer alone. He is a member of his community.

OPPORTUNITIES

Without this help many a patient might break down again and have to return to hospital.

The Canadian Mental Health Association's re-establishment program includes liaison with special placement officers, counsellors and employers, to stimulate employment opportunities for former patients.

The Association also actively encourages psychiatric treatment in both general and mental hospitals in different programs of treatment to suit the patients' various needs. It includes the establishment of "day-care" and "night-care" hospital programs. Thus is the contact between the patient and his community preserved and successful re-establishment implemented.

CGIT, Explorers Hold Banquet

ROSLIN — Members of the Canadian Girls in Training and Explorers and their mothers attended the mother and daughter banquet at Plainfield Orange Hall on Friday evening.

Mrs. Jeffries, Christian Education Worker of Belleville, a returned missionary from the Philippines, was guest speaker. She wore the native costume and dressed five girls in Filipino costumes also and had a number of curios on display.

IS GREAT EATER

The purple martin does almost all its eating on the wing and can consume 2,000 mosquitoes in 24 hours.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Jennie Quinsey has returned home after two months in California, the guest of Mrs. Doris George, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood, the former of Arcadia and the latter of Glendale.

Mrs. Fred Jackson, of Belleville and Mrs. Ted Stephens, Janie and Julie Stephens, of Toronto, are spending this week with Mr. Jackson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Thoms, of Winchester, Ontario.

WEDDING

FORSYTHE — LYWOOD

A pretty pre-Easter wedding was solemnized on Saturday, April 6th, at Hamilton United Church, Canniffon, Ontario, by the Reverend J. McDowell, of Eastminster United Church, Belleville, assisted by Mr. C. Dawson, student minister of Canniffon United Church, before an altar adorned with potted Easter lilies and baskets of white and white gladioli, interspersed with ferns. The wedding bows marked the guest pews, when Jean Diane Lywood became the bride of Mr. Donald Thomas Forsythe, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Forsythe of Corbyville, Ont.

The wedding music was provided by the church organist, Mrs. H. Farnham, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Wilma McPherson, as she sang "Because," prior to the processional, and "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

The lovely bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. W. G. Lywood, wore a charming floor length gown of white organza with eyelet embroidery and seed pearls, accompanied the soloist, Miss long lily-point sleeves. She wore a white satin sheered pillbox hat with a fingertip veil of scalloped silk illusion and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, hyacinths and stephanotis and wore a single strand of pearls.

Miss Linda Ruckstuhl of Corbyville, cousin of the bride, groom, as maid of honor, was gowned in street length turquoise nylon with pillbox hat and circular veil, gloves and shoes to match, and carried a bouquet of turquoise and white mums with white satin bow.

Miss Penny Cone, niece of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, was dressed in pink nylon with pink headdress, white shoes and gloves and carried a bouquet of pink and white mums with white net and bow.

Mr. Kenneth Forsythe, brother of the bridegroom, was the groomsman, while Mr. Paul Reid of Ivanhoe and Mr. James Stewart, of Canniffon, cousin of the bride, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Sunday school rooms which were prettily decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells, to which the members of the United Church Women catered. The waitresses all being former school friends of the bride included the Misses Lynda Latchford, Judy Philp, Marjorie Bradshaw, Beth Boyd, Dianne Harrison and Nancy Shorey.

The bride's table was daintily appointed in the traditional nuptial fashion with white damask and centered by an all white three-tier wedding cake topped with an arch of roses, bell and doves holding silver wedding rings and misted about the base with white tulle and flanked by three-branched silver candelabra with tall white candles. Rose bowls and the bridal bouquets completed the pretty setting.

The guests were received by the bride's mother gowned in navy blue silk sheath, navy shoes and a rose hat, white gloves and a corsage of pink Delight roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a pretty blue figured silk sheath, blue hat and shoes with white gloves and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

The bride chose for her trip west a gold three-piece wool suit, flowered hat, brown shoes and purse and corsage of Tahiti rose with gold bud.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. G. McPherson with Miss Wilma McPherson and Miss Beth Boyd as co-hostesses. She was presented with a beautiful electric clock from her co-workers at the Northern Electric plant.

Guests attended from Windsor; Hespeler; Toronto; Oshawa; Peterborough; Cannington; Bancroft; Millbridge; Halloway; Plainfield and Corbyville.

The happy couple will reside on the bridegroom's farm at Corbyville, Ontario.

CAPS TELL STORY—Mrs. Patricia Capling, at left is from Vancouver General Hospital and a graduate of Montreal General Hospital's the other from Toronto Western Hospital. Most nursing school, wears her own cap and holds nurses wear the cap from the hospital where two belonging to nurses on duty with her. Cap they were trained. (CP Photos)

Many Different Kinds Of Nurses' Caps Can Be Seen in Montreal Hospital

MONTREAL (CP) — Nurses' caps each tell a story, and in large Montreal hospitals it isn't unusual to find at least 20 different caps worn by nurses.

The veteran nurse can tell at a glance where these caps originated. Hospitals from the Vancouver General to St. Bartholomew's in London, England, are identified by their graduates' caps, ranging from elaborate veiled pillboxes to plain white styles.

"The wearing of my cap" is a rule of the nursing profession, and the graduate usually wears the cap of the school of nursing where she was trained.

The capping ceremonies are special occasions in the hospitals, when the student nurses are "officially accepted."

DENOTE RANK

At Montreal's Queen Elizabeth Hospital the capping ceremony is held in March when student nurses are given white caps. In the intermediate year two black bands are added, one across each corner. Seniors get a solid black band across the top, and graduate nurses go back to plain white caps.

Student nurses at the Jewish General Hospital wear caps when they start working in the wards—about six or eight weeks after they enter training. The cap is flat and saucer-shaped. Half-way through the nursing course, mothers of student nurses present them with caps bearing a black band in the "black band ceremony." At graduation the bands are removed and the cap is once more all white.

At the school for Graduate Nurses at McGill University students wear a hat with a shallow crown of stiffened white net banded with a pleated ruffle.

Graduate nurses are sometimes allowed to wear the caps of the institution in which they are working, although few choose to do so. At the Montreal General Hospital, nurses are allowed to wear the staff cap after they have served long or three years.

In Britain a graduate wears the belt of her hospital as well as the cap or veil. These are wide and elasticized, and come in a variety of colors with special individual buckles.

Former Baroness Sets up Network of Lay Missions From Combermere Home

COMBERMERE, Ont. (CP)—The former baroness is a beggar, a good beggar and she's proud of it.

She has reason to be for through her begging she has set up a network of lay mission centres that brought her the blessing of a pope and the highest honor the Roman Catholic church can give her.

The story of Mrs. Eddie Doherty — formerly Baroness de Heuck—is a reversal of the classic rags-to-riches. It is the story of a life that swung from the fairytale luxury of the court of the Czars to self-imposed poverty and humility in this village about 90 miles west of Ottawa.

Thirty-three years ago she cast off her opulent life to start the Madonna House mission and today sends workers to any area of the world where there is need and the local bishop has invited her.

Madonna House's latest contribution to humanity will be the establishment in about a year of a mission station in East Pakistan. Three young Catholic women—headed by Theresa Davis of Welland, Ont.—will spend a year in Pakistan learning the Bengali language before plunging into their duties.

FLED BOLSHEVIKS

With Miss Davis goes JoAnne DeGido of St. Paul, Minn., and Mary Farbush from Des Moines, Iowa. All are in their 20s or 30s.

Mrs. Doherty's story begins in Russia after the revolution. She and her wealthy former husband, Baron Boris de Heuck, fled to England and in 1921 they were the first refugees to immigrate to Canada.

Later the baron died of First World War injuries and the baroness, who had moved to the United States, worked in New York as dish - washer, waitress, cook, housemaid and dancer in Greenwich Village.

Then she toured the United States lecturing on her earlier life in Russia but, though by 1929 she was living in luxury, she found her life empty.

Selling—everything, she returned to Canada and set up a soup kitchen on Toronto's skid row. Madonna House grew out of that soup kitchen.

Today there are two branches in Edmonton, one in the Yukon and one each in Portland, Ore., Winslow, Ariz., Aquila, Va., and Carrick in the Windward Islands.

ADMITS BEGGING

At Madonna House, Combermere, young men and women study scripture, Roman Catholic liturgy, teaching methods, household and farm work, crafts, first aid and library work.

It helps the poor in this district and has a 1,200-acre farm.

Unashamedly Mrs. Doherty admits all this work is done by begging. "I've been begging for years," she says.

Some of her appeals are made in the mission paper published by her former husband.

On a visit to Rome 12 years ago Pope Pius XII told her:

"Persevere, madame, no matter what the cost. On apostolic groups such as yours depends the future of the Church."

Two years ago she received the highest award a lay woman can receive from the Roman Catholic Church—a Papal medal Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice." (For Church and Pope).

Rummage Sale Planned By CARS Aux.

The C.A.R.S. Auxiliary meeting for April was held at the home of Mrs. C. Campbell, with the president, Miss Hilda Collier, presiding.

Several items of business were discussed. Further arrangements were made in connection with the rummage sale which is to be held in May.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostesses, Mrs. A. Hume and Mrs. J. Stock.

Blind Student Hopes to Be Social Worker

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mary Ann Coughlan, a pretty, 20-year-old coed, attends classes at the University of British Columbia every night. She becomes a social worker, specializing in juvenile delinquency.

Mary Ann, a second year arts student, is blind.

But she knows the campus as well as the keys of her own typewriter, "thanks to my friends and a braille map."

She has no trouble finding her way around campus to lectures, the bookstore, the library and to her dormitory.

"I can whisk around on my own just like everybody else," she says. "Some of my professors don't even know I'm blind."

Active in non-curricular activities, Mary Ann says:

"I had my sight until I was 11 and that, combined with my new experiences, makes me a happy girl."

She lost her sight suddenly following an operation for a tumor.

"I found it hard to adjust at first," she said. "I loved the outdoors and sports like bicycling and baseball."

Then she attended a school for the blind and deaf, and learned to love music, to bowl and ski, as well as how to get on both a braille and ordinary typewriter.

"I discovered," she said, "not to judge people by what they look like but by what they say."

Mary Ann makes good use of all these talents in her studies and life at the university.

Author of Best-Selling Novel Scared of Success

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"Success has had a very bad effect on me," said Harper Lee, smiling. "I've gotten fat—but extremely unconcerned.

"I'm running just as scared as before."

Harper is the 36-year-old author whose first novel, To Kill a Mockingbird, a nostalgic story of life in a small southern town, lit up the literary world in 1960 like a lightning flash.

It has since sold 6,000,000 copies, won a Pulitzer Prize, and been made into a film.

Miss Lee, a sweet-faced, dark eyed woman with a firm sense of self-discipline, now is at work on her second book at her home in Monroeville, Ala., where she lives with her sister, Alice, a lawyer.

THROWS IT AWAY

"I am more of a rewriter than a writer," she remarked. "I write at least three drafts. I've been writing since I was a kid of seven. But I have systematically thrown away most of what I have written. It was a form of self-training."

Harper has found her hobby, golf, valuable as a source of inspiration.

"Playing golf is the best way I know to be alone and still be doing something," she remarked. "You hit a ball, think and take a walk.

"I do my thinking walking—I do my dialogue, talking it out to myself."

PITY LIKE SUICIDE

Miss Lee, who wrote most of her first book at night after working as an airlines clerk during the day, is a good humored but firm believer in the old-fashioned virtue of self-responsibility. She has no sympathy for the beatnik tendency to blame one's personal plight on society.

"Self-pity is a sin," she said. "It is a form of living suicide.

"Most of us in the Western world make our own lives. Life doesn't make us. We create our events.

"Nobody asked us to be born. But while we're here we should do the best we can with what we have. We have so many more opportunities than our parents did. Yet we are often so petty.

"I am impatient with people who use perchiatry as a substitute for boredom. It alarms me that women of my own generation decide they are whipped, then go to a psychiatrist—when all they need perhaps is a little more household help."

For Honest To Goodness Reducers

by Mary Moore

NO. 5

This column is the last of the current series giving recipes for honest-to-goodness reducers. I hope our determined but not plump lovers of food have clipped and filed the other four columns and have put them somewhere handy. They will help you change your overeating patterns, painlessly.

REDUCERS' DINNER MENU:
Top-Of-Stove Cheese Souffle
Green Pea Puree
Medium-Small Boiled Potato
Tomato Jelly Mould on Finely Shredded Cabbage
Rhubarb Sherbet

TUESDAY

Dinner Menus

Barbecued Chicken Legs; Apple Jelly; Fluffy Boiled Rice; Sliced Beets with Chive Butter; Celery - Curls; Radish Roses; Lemon Chiffon Pie; Tea.

TOP-OF-STOVE CHEESE SOUFFLE (serves 3 or 4):

This is a minor miracle that anyone can perform.

One and one-half tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup skim milk, 1 cup grated cheese, 4 eggs. In top of double boiler melt butter and stir in flour, mustard, salt and pepper. Add milk slowly and stir until sauce cooks and thickens. Remove from heat, add cheese and stir until blended. Set aside to cool. Separate eggs. Beat yolks in large bowl and stir in cooled cheese sauce slowly. Beat egg whites just until they form soft peaks. Fold whites gently into yolk mixture until no streaks of white remain. Pour the mixture slowly into top of an ungreased 8-cup double boiler with tight-fitting cover. Cook, covered, over gently boiling water for 60 minutes. (Knife inserted in centre will come out clean.) Souffle will puff up high and light if you don't peak during cooking. Spoon immediately onto hot plates, ladling some green pea sauce over each serving.

GREEN PEA SAUCE:

One package frozen green peas (or 1½ cups fresh peas), 2 teaspoons flour, 1½ teaspoons butter, 3.5 per cent milk, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt, few grains nutmeg. Cook peas, following directions on label and drain. In top of double boiler melt butter, add flour, pepper, salt and nutmeg and blend. Stir in milk and cook until thick; then add drained peas, stirring carefully so as not to mash peas. Serve with cheese souffle (see recipe at head of meal).

RHUBARB SHERBET:

One tablespoon plain gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 4 cups rhubarb sauce (see below), sugar (see below), 3 egg whites, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup finely chopped almonds. Soak the gelatine in the cold water. About 2 lbs. rhubarb, weighed with tops on, are required to make 4 cups sauce. Wash rhubarb, removing tops and cut into pieces. Add no water and cook in heavy pot, covered for in double boiler) until tender. Measure 4 cups. Sweeten with sucaryl tablets or liquid to taste. (Do not add too much sucaryl for the egg whites which are to be folded in are quite sweet.) Stir in the soaked gelatine until dissolved. Cool. Pour into freezing tray and freeze to a mush. Remove, stir. Fold in egg whites beaten until stiff with the sugar. Fold in nuts. Return to freezer tray and freeze fairly hard.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

BY pegg rogers

WHAT CAN YOU EXPECT FROM YOUR FASHION SHOP?

At the risk of being thought an incurable optimist, it is our contention that a customer can, and should, expect a lot from her fashion store. The loyal customer, spending most, or all of her fashion budget there, should be able to look to that store for guidance. This would include choice of color and fabric, as well as this season's interpretation of fashion.

In order to obtain advice of this sort, one must establish contact with one person employed by the store, whose judgment and taste is trustworthy. Shopping for fashionable clothes is a very personal area of a woman's life. An otherwise well-organized, well-adjusted woman can allow her self-confidence to slip to the point where she can lose her sense of judgment.

The best-dressed women in our acquaintance are those who spend the least amount of time worrying and thinking about their clothes. They are the happy ones, regardless of income, who have managed to place themselves on some conscientious salesperson's list of special customers. These salespeople know their individual customers' likes and dislikes, their preferences as to colour and style and their special needs from season to season. This relationship is almost as personal as that between a hair stylist and a client. But, like any good relationship, it must work both ways, to the advantage of both people.

Many times, when they go shopping for fashion, make a great game of keeping the salesperson puzzled as to their needs. Any experienced salesperson will tell you that she has to dig and pry for information. A very rare customer will approach a salesperson and state her needs, plainly and bluntly. "I am looking for a beige dress — not too dressy, but not a shirt-waist—size 14 at about $25. That would be too easy. To add, "I need it by Saturday to wear to a wedding"—is giving the show away.

If the salesperson knows the whole story, she will show you the only beige dress in stock, size 14, priced at $39.98 — lace, cocktail dress. At the same time, she will also show you a dress in another color in your size and of the type you need. There is always the chance that you might change your mind about the color, isn't there? You only thought of beige because it seemed the only color that came readily to mind. You had not seen this shade of blue, which is beaming and will still go with all your accessories.

It pays to level with your saleperson. It pays both in time and money saved.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers care of The Ontario Intelligencer.

Women Still Using Drugs In Pregnancy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Canadian-born doctor who kept thalidomide from the U.S. drug market said Monday many American women still are using drugs during pregnancy which may cause fetal deformities.

Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, a Cobble Hill, B.C., native who is chief investigational drug branch of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, said seeking tranquilizers, and sleepmines and nausea preventatives are being studied but so far evidence is inconclusive.

Dr. Kelsey said in an interview that tests are being made both here and in Europe to establish the safety of these drugs.

Thome has proved dangerous to the degree that thalidomide is, but there is some risk involved in the use of almost" she added.

Thalidomide was harmful to the foetus carried by some 40 per cent of the expectant mothers who used it, she said, while other drugs may adversely affect only one person in 500 or one in 1,000.

Most questionable drugs now are being labelled "safety not established during pregnancy," Dr. Kelsey said, and doctors are being advised of the possible risks involved in their use.

Bethlehem White Shrine Lists Officers

On April 10th, one of the highlights of the Bethlehem White Shrine of Jerusalem No. 11 took place in the I.O.O.F. hall, Belleville, when Soj. Glenna Black was installed as Worthy High Priestess, with Soj. Percy Kerr as Watchman of Shepherds, amid a setting of green ferns and flowers.

Soj. Nora MacDonald, retiring W.H.P., opened the meeting. Many out-of-town visitors were present. Before retiring Soj. Nora MacDonald presented each of her officers with a gift, and in return was presented by Soj. Gladys Ivey Cooper on behalf of the Shrine and her officers with a lovely bridge set-table and four matching chairs.

Her daughter, Soj. Bev. Brinkman, presented her Past Office-r's Jewel, while daughter Linda and husband, Jim MacDonald presented a huge bouquet of flowers, carried out in the color of her year, blue, silver and white. Ivy Cooper presented Soj. Reg. Cooper with his Past Watchman of Shepherds Jewel.

The ceremony was lovely and beautifully performed by the Installing Board, headed by Soj. Emily Stevens, P.W.H.P., assisted by the following staff:

Installing W.H.P. — Soj. Emily Stevens; assisting in the East — Soj. Helena Darvell, P.W.H.P; installing W.O.S. — Soj. Dave Hollinger, P.W.O.S.; installing herald — Soj. ## SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

Sometimes a person thinks he or she is being complimentary, but the effect is just the opposite. What's wrong with the following:

1. One person, being introduced to another, gushes: "Oh, I've heard so much about you."

2. A guest, "complimenting" her hostess on the food and service, exclaims "My, you're being so elegant tonight."

3. In front of a group of people, Mabel says to Mary, "That was a marvellous party you gave last week." And then to the others: "You should have been there!"

4. "What a lovely dress. It does wonders for your figure," one friend says to another, trying to be complimentary.

5. Commenting on how well Mary's husband looks, Mabel says innocently, "You must be taking good care of him."

6. Noting what an attractive daughter Mary has, Mabel coos: "She's so pretty. Whom does she look like?"

7. "Good work, Jim. Didn't think you had it in you," the boss glows, complimenting an employee on a business coup.

8. "You have such lovely, fine hair. My hairdresser could do things with it," a friend tells a friend in a friendly way.

9. Visiting the Reeds for the first time, Aunt Jane can't help wondering what's causing little place. Did your mother decorate it?"

10. "You give such lovely dinners. We'd love to come, but we have something important to do that night," is the "charming" way an invitation is declined over the phone.

ANSWERS

GRACIOUS AND REFINED WAY

1. Bad form. Such an acknowledgment makes a person wonder who said what about him and might make him feel ill at ease. "How do you do" is more gracious and refined.

2. This could make the hostess feel she's been considered inelegant on occasion and that food and service previously were substandard. "What a lovely dinner," is more to the point.

3. Mary may appreciate that her party was a success, but she may not appreciate it being said so publicly, especially when the others had not been invited. They might feel slighted, too.

4. The part about the figure could have been dispensed with, since it implies that other dresses might have been more true to form and made her look like a sack of mashed potatoes.

5. Mary very possibly could take exception to this type of "compliment since it implies she was negligent in the past and might even have been feeding him small doses of arsenic in his yogurt.

6. Maybe Mabel means to be non-partisan, and imply that the youngster has the best features of both parents but it could sound like any good looks must stem from some remote great-aunt, six times removed.

7. Jim probably thought he got the assignment based on ability. Now that the boss has had doubts could very well take the edge off his hard-earned victory.

8. This sort of "compliment" is usually meant to be kind, but it does not. The recipient feel that others think she looks more witch-like than bewitching.

9. This "compliment" comes tied up in apron strings and intimates the bride is still being overshadowed by her mother, has no taste of her own and can't make decisions. The second half of the observation should have been tactfully left off.

10. "Important" is the rub here, and relegates the proposed dinner into second-string position. Pleading a previous engagement is acceptable and understandable. No excuse is not required. In this case, it was unflattering and unfortunate.

Mother's Helper

MAKING your child's birthday a memorable occasion does not necessarily mean giving her fabulous or monetary gifts. She will appreciate even more having personal privileges. For examples let her choose the menu for the family dinner. It may prove somewhat unbalanced, if she tries to include all her favorites. But it's her day!

Physical Fitness Topic at H-S Monthly Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Parkdale Home and School Association was held on April 22nd, with Mrs. D. Reid presiding.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Josephine Reddick, the program chairman, gave a short talk on "Mental Health" which was well received.

Mrs. Reddick also introduced the guest speaker, Flight Officer Morgan of the R.C.A.F. Trenton, Air Base.

Flight Officer Morgan gave an interesting talk on "Physical Fitness" and showed films on the subject.

The room count this month was won by Mrs. Burkitt's room.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

MOTHER PAID

VANCOUVER (CP) — A six-year-old boy warned the owner of a car: "Let me go or my dad will be awfully mad at you," when caught lighting a candle under a tire. His mother paid the $15 damage and the child was not charged because of his age.

U.C.W. Meeting

THOMASBURG U.C.W.

THOMASBURG — The members of Thomasburg U.C.W. served a hot dinner to the pupils and teacher of the senior room of the school on April 24 in the vestry of the church.

Mrs. Harold A. Morton and Mrs. Horace Vance were in charge of the dinner arrangements.

At the completion of regular business, Mrs. Frank Brough led in the devotional. The program was in charge of the convener, Mrs. Robert Doughty, and during this portion an interesting reading was given by Mrs. Ernest Morton, followed by a contest on quotations from the Bible and Shakespeare, conducted by Mrs. Brough. Mrs. Everett Prindle completed the program by giving a report of the U.C.W. workshop which she had attended in Belleville recently.

Soroptimist Club Holds Spring Tea

On Saturday afternoon, the Soroptimist International Club of Belleville, was hostess at the annual spring tea, given for the pleasure of the lady residents of Hastings County Home.

Vice-president, Helen Kosier, extended a warm welcome to the 100 guests, each of whom was presented with a rose corsage.

Spring flowers and candles made the tea table a delight to behold and the refreshments were tempting and delicious.

The individual tea tables were also gay with spring flowers. It was a happy event equally enjoyed by the guests and the club members who visited with the residents and served them.

Mrs. Frances Bennett and Mrs. Georgia Smith poured tea.

A sincere vote of thanks was extended to the club by Mrs. Lulu Dwyer.

Publishers

found their own industry in a healthy state.

Aurele Gratton of Ottawa Le Droit looked for a rate of national growth keeping pace with 1962 and a turnup at the end of the year, but he found the rate of house construction far below last year's.

The outlook varied among publishers in Industrial Ontario. T. E. Nichols of the Hamilton Spectator expected that at the current rate, the GNP increase could exceed 10 per cent. R. A. Graybiel of the Windsor Star figured the pace at about the same as 1962 without any pronounced strengthening.

Neither was optimistic about any increased rate of national growth bringing a progressive reduction in unemployment.

URGES TAX REDUCTIONS

"Technological advances in industry indicate that the employment rate will not keep pace with over - all national growth," said Mr. Nichols. As a possible cure, he urged sharp tax reductions to release funds for expenditure in secondary industry.

Mr. Graybiel was doubtful whether growth can reduce unemployment "until there is a more rational approach to production on a continental basis."

The Windsor newspaper man said Canadian firms must have access to U.S. markets to achieve volume necessary to reduce unemployment.

Mr. Nichols was optimistic about prospects in his own area. He said Hamilton's economic expansion is above the national growth rate. The city should see a market reflection in the new list of jobless because of heavy demands upon its heavy-industry complex.

Mr. Graybiel found some signs of activity in the last year in Windsor, an automobile centre, after a period when the area had led industry to the Toronto area.

SHARE IN GROWTH

J. R. H. Sutherland of the New Glasgow News, in Nova Scotia's industrial east, expected the province would share in the national growth rate but mentioned that like the rest of the Maritimes, it has a long way to go.

He saw the only solution to unemployment as a long-range educational program, especially along vocational and technical lines.

Ralph L. Costello of the Saint John Times-Globe was optimistic about the prospects of his city's revived shipyards with an average payroll of $200, new pulp and paper industries and development of base-metal mining in the north of New Brunswick.

Canada's "ability to market internationally" was seen as a bright spot by W. J. Hancox of the Charlottetown Patriot, but he was concerned about increasing social measures leading to lack of initiative. More attention to processing Prince Edward Island's products of farm and sea at home would lead to a good future.

Two Quebec newspaper men agreed that their province was not sharing proportionately in any national expansion. The two, A.-F. Mercier of Quebec Le Soleil and Walter O'Hearn of the Montreal Star, figured the national economy would strengthen toward the year-end but Mr. O'Hearn expected the growth rate would be below 1962.

On unemployment, the Quebec City publisher noted that "our provincial government is taking the necessary steps to improve the situation."

Mr. Mercier, who is president of The Canadian Press, described the 1961 outlook for newspapers in Quebec as "very good."

Western newspaper men figured their areas would at least keep pace with the rate of national expansion. But they split on the problem of idle workers.

R. S. Malone of the Winnipeg Free Press figured the national economy would be about the same as 1962 with his own province expanding faster than the country's average. But making new jobs would take time.

He foresaw little improvement this year "or until Canada can become more competitive with world markets."

Fred Rowles of the Star-Phoenix, who sent in his views from Saskatoon, stressed the value of Saskatchewan's booming potash industry, now becoming the province's third largest revenue producer, and its effect on employment. He quoted scientists as saying potash "is the source of all basic material in the whole world."

EXPECTS PEAK UP

Last year's GNP was inflated by wheat sales to China, said Harold Cuff of the Edmonton Journal who expected the economy to perk up in the second half results of new legislation.

Continued progress in automation would probably cancel out creation of new jobs by increases in the GNP and Mr. Cuff saw the need of finding ways to use redundant labor or engaging in a massive retraining program.

Stuart Keate of the Victoria Times expected 1963 would be at least as good, if not better than 1962 nationally with British Columbia keeping a lead above the national average.

Grounds for Mr. Keate's optimism were that "unemployment should decrease as the climate of confidence improves, internationally as well as nationally."

Less generally expected was the Communist gain, which was steady throughout the country and apparently often at the expense of Nenni Socialists.

Italians voted for 3,000 a 315 member Senate and a 630-member Chamber of Deputies, elected by proportional representation.

Standings in the last Chamber of Deputies were: Christian Democrats 273; Communists 140; Socialists 87; Neo-Fascists 24; Liberals 23; Social Democrats 19; Monarchists 15; Republicans 6; others 6. The total of the Chamber seats for this election was raised to 630 from the previous 596.

An official interior ministry statement gave final returns for the senate—with 1958 figures for 109 old 246-seat senate in parentheses — as: Christian Democrats 126 (123), Christian Democrat - Republican coalition 2, Communists 78 (50), Communist-left-wing coalition 7, left-wing Socialists 44 (35), Liberals 19 (4), Social Democrats 14 (5), Neo-Fascists 14 (8), South Tyrolean Peoples Party 2 (2), Monarchists 2 (7), Monarchist-right-wing independent 1, Aosta Valley Union 1 (1), others (2).

De Gaulle May Urge Cabinet To Co-operate

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle was expected to urge the French cabinet today to speed up measures to improve the tense relationship between the government and labor, dissatisfied with the rising cost of living.

Under French government ownership of many major industries, the state is the employer of more than half the country's wage earners.

The French cabinet meeting followed the announcement Monday by Armed Forces Minister Pierre Messmer that France planned to have a hydrogen-bomb striking force by 1969 equipped with its first operational atomic submarine and Polaris-type missiles.

In a 17-page article by Messmer in the National Defence Review, the most complete description yet published of de Gaulle's defence plans for the H-bomb age said completion of the Pierrelatte factory for enriched uranium around 1967 would be the keystone to the defence force.

Messmer said three submarines were planned, each armed with 16 missiles similar to the United States' Polaris submarines.

by the Public Utilities Commission.

Revenue for the year is estimated at $4,682,000 as compared with $4,256,000 last year.

Of the above increase $328,000 will be collected in taxes.

An amount of $700,000 in grants and subsidies will be received from the senior governments, $21,000 from licences and grants, $29,000 from tax penalties and $300,000 from other sources, mainly from private works orders, $65,000, and sewage, $101,000, to be collected on water bills and miscellaneous other sources.

Alderman Bailey said the 1963 city budget had been very carefully scrutinized and included only essential requirements. He said there were many things which the city would like to do, but these would have to wait because of lack of money.

TAXATION NEAR LIMIT

"It would appear that municipal taxation is near the limit," Alderman Bailey said, "and without some other form of taxing power, many services are going to be curtailed for long periods of time."

He said that the tax load was just getting too heavy.

This year a home — owner with a home assessment of $3,000 will have to pay about $275 in city taxes. And at the same time (depending on marital status) a man with an income of $5,000 with a wife and two children, will have to pay $370 in income taxes as well as other hidden taxes.

In closing Mr. Bailey expressed appreciation to City Manager J. R. Reynolds for preparing and scrutinizing the budget and to all department heads, boards and commissions for their assistance in keeping the tax increase as small as possible.

and Saul Cherniack (NDP—St. John's) said it appeared the mine directors had gone to the government "not on bended knees . . . but saying they would close the mine if . . ."

Mr. Molgat said other mining interests had offered to buy out San Antonio but the major shareholders refused because they did not think the offers was good enough. He asked whether the government knew what the offers were and what the company considered a good offer.

He also said the government loan may attract new promoters and asked whether Mr. Roblin had a list of present shareholders to make sure no new ones are added.

Mr. Roblin said there are many things he does not like about the loan. He said he has no "fool - proof" agreement for knowing who all the shareholders are but members of the legislature will have a chance to question the present directors.

MONEY DUE BROKERS

Mr. Roblin said Mr. Isaacs "installed his friends" as directors, who then used the company's surplus cash to buy stocks as an investment in other unrelated companies. The action of the government at that time was approved by a meeting of shareholders.

"These purchases (of the stocks) have since proved to be serious losses to the San Antonio treasury," Mr. Roblin said. He said the management under Mr. Isaacs "dissipated $165,000" of San Antonio's cash.

"No grounds for criminal action have been found as yet against those responsible," Mr. Roblin said, "although the attorney-general is continuing his investigation . . . in consultation with the Ontario Securities Commission."

Voice From Out of the Past

DORIS CLARK

DEAR READERS—The following comments on public displays of affection are gleaned from the pages of The Ladies' New Magazine, London, England, July 1765. Guest writer, Mrs. Wentworth, duke herself "The Oracle!":

Q—Is fondness before company, after marriage, more pardonable in the man or woman?

A—In neither; 'tis silly in both; and also very unkind to set other people's mouths awatering; but, when I happen to see two such fools nabbing one another like a couple of coach-horses, I always set it down as a certain sign of matrimonial disgust, that all things don't go well behind the curtain, and madam has the honor to wear the breeches.

Our ghost writer didn't mince matters!

DEAR DORIS—I have told my children that when asked by classmates or teachers regarding their father they should simply say that he does not live with us. They seem to steer away from this advice and have told some children that their father is dead.

I stress the truth but I still feel they are making up their own answers. They are a girl of ten and a boy of seven who have suffered considerably from their father's lack of affection and sense of responsibility; therefore they feel very hostile towards him.

Could you possibly provide us with an explanation satisfactory to both them and myself.—MOLLY.

DEAR MOLLY—Your boy and girl shrink from admitting that their father has rejected them—which is the way it looks to them. Their pals all have fathers who want them! And they feel there's no shame about a dead father.

Talk with them about this. Explain that the quarrel is between you and their father and is no reflection on them. It should clinch it if you remind them that sooner or later the truth will out. Then what will their pals think of them and their fabrication?

DEAR DORIS—Just before my 18th birthday I started going with a boy I had liked for a long time. For a while everything was perfect. One day he asked me a very embarrassing question. The answer I gave him was "no." He smiled and said, "I'm glad, I wanted to make sure you were the one girl you seemed to be." I began to wonder about it and finally I wrote him a note and told him we were through.

After that he sort of avoided me and lately he's been awful friendly. In school he winks at me with his right eye which means "I love you." I really do like him very much.

Do you think I should make the first move and tell him I'm sorry we broke up or something like that?—NEEDS HELP.

DEAR NEEDS—If you can forgive the trick question, but remember that the answer is still "no," patch it up.

• • •

the Haitian border and moved warships toward the French-speaking Negro republic with which it shares the island of Hispaniola.

OAS MOVES IN

A fact-finding mission from the Organization of American States left New York for Port au Prince and Santo Domingo to try to smooth over the difficulties.

Radio Santo Domingo said President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela had offered the Dominican government "all you need in your fight to free the people of Haiti from the dictator."

The U.S. government disclosed that it was withdrawing a 30-man naval training mission from Haiti at Duvalier's demand. Duvalier's demand was made Saturday, before the thaw in relations with the Dominican Republic, and obviously resulted from Washington's open opposition in recent months to the Duvalier dictatorship. The United States declined Monday to accept the new OAS peace mission because of its strained relations with Haiti.

AP correspondent Morris Rosenberg reported from Port au Prince that Haitian guards still were stationed across the street from the Dominican Embassy but a two-man patrol had been withdrawn from the embassy grounds.

Rosenberg said Haitian guards also were posted outside the Brazilian, Venezuelan and Ecuadorean embassies. These three and the Dominican Embassy are believed to be sheltering more than 20 Haitians who took refuge there after Duvalier began rounding up opponents last fall.

SUSPENDS ACTION

Rosenberg said Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers told him the Duvalier regime was awaiting word from the OAS team before deciding its next move.

He reported there were no unusual troop precautions apparent except for those taken last week when revolutionary mutterings began to be heard. Two small tanks guarded the presidential palace and traffic had to detour around them. Censors cut all references to the crisis from newspapers and radio broadcasts.

Duvalier relies on a private militia of 10,000 men known as the tonton macoute, or bogeymen. He distrusts the officers of the 5,000-man regular army and has largely nullified it by firing its top leaders and keeping its arms locked up in the presidential palace.

He has an air force of 15 Mustang fighters with 200 men, and navy of six patrol boats manned by 300 men.

The Dominican Republic has 12,000 well-equipped men in its army and two 20-plane squadrons in the air force. The 3,000-man navy has two destroyers, two frigates, five corvettes, six patrol vessels and three landing craft.

Johannesburg Is Shaken by Two Tremors

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—South Africans rushed screaming from their homes in Johannesburg when a second tremor shocked the city an hour after the first which was the worst in 35 years. No deaths were reported.

There was consternation in many city homes and apartment blocks as crockery rattled and pictures were thrown to the floor.

Monday night excited householders rushed into the streets seeking safety from falling plaster.

In suburban Belgravia where part of a house had collapsed in the first quake men, women and children fell over each other in a mad scramble for safety from falling debris.

An expectant mother was carried from a house unconscious and taken to hospital. One man was struck by falling bricks as a chimney collapsed but he was only slightly injured.

Police reported no serious injuries or damage from either tremor, both, of which were most strongly felt in the city centre. Tall office and apartment buildings with an average height of 13 storeys shuddered violently for a few seconds when hit by the first tremor.

ASKS SWEEPS VOTE

TORONTO (CP) — Controller Allan Lamport has asked Toronto city council to hold a plebiscite on sweepstakes. He filed a formal notice of motion Monday asking council to put the sweepstakes question to Toronto voters at the next municipal election in 1964.

Cross-Canada Survey

Few Changes in Fishing Rules But General Trend Is to Stretch the Season

By CARL MOLLINS

The cold-blooded inhabitants of Canada's uncountable lakes and streams are halting the mysterious lure that annually entices red-blooded humans in hundreds of thousands to go fishing.

The lure used by the fish to catch humans is a mystery, but it is known to be at least as effective as the increasingly elaborate gear employed by the humans to catch fish.

It casts a spell that draws otherwise rational men, boys and even level-headed housewives to seek salmon on the Restigouche, muskies from the French River or steelhead on the Sixkiller. The worst season comes in the spring, coinciding roughly with the start of the trout season, although severe cases last throughout the year and find release in ice-fishing and fly-tying during the winter.

The provincial governments, which regulate sport fishing, appear to be abetting the angling ailment. A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that while there are few changes in fishing rules this year the general trend is to stretch the season where considerations of conservation allow.

FISHING MEANS REVENUE

The provincial administrations, like governments everywhere, are prompted in part by thoughts of increasing revenue and the knowledge that good fishing attracts thousands of non-residents to spend their vacations and their money.

Ontario, for example, picks up more than $2,500,000 annually from the sale of fishing licences, the major portion from the $8.50 non-resident permits sold to visiting United States sportsmen and the rest from $3.25 resident permits for fishing in provincial parks.

The New Brunswick government reels in more than $150,000 annually from leasing exclusive fishing rights on river stretches, and some of the big per payments come from Americans. It has been estimated that cost of the rights alone means a lessee pays about $50 per salmon caught.

Manitoba raised the price of licences this year from a general $1 to $2.25 for residents and $6.50 for non - residents. The government says the increased revenue will help pay for expanded efforts in fish research, development and stocking programs.

REPRIEVE IN N.S.

Nova Scotia has legislation on the books providing for fishing licences, but outdoorsmen there appear set to escape the fee at least for this season. The act was passed in 1962 but with some seasons already open in Nova Scotia, the government has made no move to institute the licence.

Prince Edward Island charges residents $1 and non-residents $3 for a season's fishing rights, and Alberta levies a straight $2 for a licence.

Alberta and British Columbia have year-round open seasons on all fish, with some regional exceptions. Official regard for spawning and conservation closes some waterways to fishermen at various periods and in Alberta it is forbidden to catch and keep sturgeon at any time. The catch limit per day varies with the species.

Saskatchewan has a long season for almost everything but large-mouth bass. The general season opens May 4 and the large - mouth becomes game July 26, both seasons running until next March 31.

Big date in Manitoba is May 18, running to the end of next March, for almost everything but sturgeon and Arctic grayling, which are available to fishermen from June 15, and brook trout, which receive a month's respite from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15. Perhaps in compensation for the higher licence fees, Manitoba this year declared an early opening for most trout and Arctic char in certain specified waters starting April 15.

TROUT SEASON EARLIER

Ontario, too, opened the trout season earlier than the usual May 1. The season for brook, speckled and brown trout in southeastern Ontario opened March 1 and April 27 was opening day elsewhere in the province for these species and for Aurora and rainbow trout. Closing date generally is Sept. 15 but runs into October or November in some regions.

Quebec's trout season is longer, running generally from April 17 to Sept. 30, roughly the same as last year. Almost the only changes in Quebec's fishing laws this year are designed to counter excessive catches of sturgeon and speckled trout. Sturgeon must be carried home whole, and speckled trout regulations now include a daily weight limit of 12 pounds if cleaned, 15 pounds whole.

Fishing for New Brunswick's renowned salmon is permitted within regionally varying dates between May 15 and Oct. 31—April 15 to Sept. 15 for landsalmon limit is four daily from reserved waters, two a day from public fishing areas.

Earlybirds could get special permission to fly-fish for Atlantic salmon from April 1. They can hook up to five a day but must throw back four of them. However, a persistent winter in the Maritimes has signalled a late start for fishermen.

SEASON VARIES

A mobile fisherman in Nova Scotia can start after salmon April 1 in the southwest and continue until Oct. 15 in the northeast, the season being progressively later moving from the south shore to Cape Breton. Most trout are available April 15 to Sept. 15.

Prince Edward Island is improving the fisherman's lot by assisting nature to improve the living conditions of fish. New dams are providing better fishing areas, but speckled trout remains the main game. The speckled season runs April 15 to Sept. 30 and the limit is 20 a day.

In Newfoundland, the season for brook and sea trout has been open since Jan. 1, but all except the addict wait until May 24, the day almost everybody goes "trouting" by tradition. The salmon season opens May 24, too, and both seasons run to Sept. 15. The trout limit has been cut back to 24 a day from last year's 36.

For the angler who finds even the generally liberal provincial regulations restrictive, there's always the Northwest Territories and the Yukon. Up there, only the weather limits the fishing.

Ann Landers

Must Not Feel Responsible For Mentally Ill Girl

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I'm a 17-year-old high school senior. I can't talk to anyone about this problem because I'd feel like a beel saying these things about a girl.

I've been dating Miss A for almost a year. At first she was a lot of fun but after a while she began to get moody and set weird. She cries over nothing and withdraws into silence for hours at a time.

Last week I told her I thought we'd better call it quits. She went into a crying jag and began to pull chunks of hair out of her head. She said if I ever quit her she would kill herself.

I'd hate to be responsible for anything like that and yet I don't want to go with her anymore. My folks have been opposed to Miss A from the first because she telephones me about three times every evening—sometimes after midnight.

I need advice.—WANT OUT.

DEAR WANTS OUT—The girl is mentally ill and needs professional help. Ask your mother to speak to Miss A's mother about putting her in the hands of a doctor.

Don't allow yourself to be threatened into meintaining a relationship you don't want. You are not responsible for this girl. Be gentle and kind, but unwind the relationship—and quickly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I'm an active mother 28 years of age. My two children are 2 and 8.

My husband travels five days out of the week and I am going nuts being alone so much. Then I discovered bowling. Sitters are expensive so I have arranged to leave the key to my apartment with the woman next door. In case of an emergency she can always get in.

My husband told me he tried to phone me from Orlando last week and when nobody answered the phone he became frantic. My 8-year-old is a sound sleeper and he didn't hear the phone ring. When I told my husband where I was he got mad and said I can't leave the kids at night any more.

I see nothing wrong so long as the neighbor lady is willing to help out. She insists it's no trouble. What do you say?—LEADER OF THE LEAGUE.

DEAR LEADER—The neighbor woman wouldn't be of much help in case of a flash fire. Small children should no be left alone.

If you can't afford a sitter, ask the neighbor if you can put the kids to sleep on a cot in her apartment and collect them when you get home. If she is unwilling, stay home.

DEAR ANN—My husband and I bought an enormous old house three years ago and converted it into a small hotel. We can accommodate 15 couples and we run about 80 percent capacity from September through April. Beginning in May we are jammed.

The problem is my husband's relatives. They pile in at the height of the season and call it a "family visit." They sponge two and three week vacations, complete with free room and board and maid service. They write in advance to "reserve" their favorite rooms and we are sick of it.

When they return home we get a thank-you card. Not one of these relatives has left a dollar tip for the maids who kept their rooms in order. My husband says if we refuse to let them continue to visit, his name will be mud and with all the family. Is it worth it?—UP TO HERE.

DEAR UP—These free-loaders know you are in the hotel business and that their visits are costing you cold, hard cash. But, obviously, they don't care.

Since you do care, tell them when they write for "reservations" that you are filled up. If the only way to hang on to their friendship is to give them free vacations, their friendship isn't worth hanging on to.

• • •

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper.

Top People Buy Cowsheds

Cottage-Crazed Britons In Race for Real Estate

LONDON (CP)—The sight of a glossy Rolls-Royce nosing up a farm track towards some derelict cowshed doesn't mean the driver has lost his way. Hes probably looking for something—anything—he can turn into a weekend cottage.

A craze for converting decaying dwellings — even cowsheds or stables with haylofts — is sweeping central and southern England. It has reached fever pitch in Cheshire, where Manchester tycoons seeking country hideaways will pay up to £14,000 for a converted farmworkers cottage.

The hunt for a crumbling bargain has developed into a furtive race against other people's tactics. Real-estate agents advertise only a few derelict properties, so finding one depends on private spies or strategic questions in village pubs.

The boom may be partly due to recent threats to expand municipal housing into the "green belts surrounding British cities. Government or local council grants towards restoration of "historic buildings are another attraction. But the most likely cause is simply the soaring value of land in Britain.

Nothing is too small or too sleazy to command a buyer if the price is low enough, and quick profits can be made by the lucky few.

In 1962 a London dentist bought a tumbledown shack in Norfolk for £100. It had one room up, one down and no indoor sanitation. This year, almost jokingly, he advertised it in The Times at £750, with no alterations whatever, and a demolition order attached. He had 30 replies in one day, and the man who bought it felt he got a bargain.

Of course, it did have honeysuckle round the door.

Dept. Regulation Requiring Lifejackets in Certain Kinds Of Boats Can't Be Enforced

Britain's Plan On Fishing Is Welcomed

LONDON (CP) — Britain's plan to extend its fishing jurisdiction beyond the three - mile limit was widely welcomed today although some caution was expressed by deep-sea fishery spokesmen.

Edward Heath, lord privy seal, told the House of Commons today turbulent changes in fishing habits have taken place in northern waters and the government no longer feels justified in denying British fishermen some extension of their rights in their own coastal areas.

The government gave notice it will withdraw next year from conventions establishing the three-mile limit, the implications being that the limit will be extended to six or perhaps even 12 miles.

This new attack on a century-old problem delighted inshore fishermen who have complained bitterly of European trawlers damaging their gear and "poaching."

FEAR MAY WORSEN

But some deep-sea fishermen noted that for years they have been facing increasing difficulties on approaching foreign coasts and they fear action by Britain would worsen matters.

"We feel the government must be very careful over this question of extending the British limits," said Jack Evans, vice-president of the Grimsby Trawler Officers Guild.

Heath proposed a fall conference of European countries with fishery problems in northern waters.

Reluctantly, Premier Flies To Peace Talks

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) Neutralist Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma flew reluctantly to the town of Khang Khay on the Plaine des Jarres today for detailed negotiations for a permanent truce between his neutralist forces and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

Diplomatic sources here said Souvanna hesitated until the last moment before making the trip because he assumed it would be fruitless.

The sources said Souvanna expected Pathet Lao leaders Prince Souphanouvong and Nouhak Phoumsavan to demand broadening discussions to cover not only the armed confrontation on the plain but "the whole range of Laotian problems."

These could include Pathet Lao demands for increased representation in Laos' coalition government, which consists of neutralists, Pathet Lao and right-wing parties.

Typhoon Hits Pacific Island

AGANA, Guam (AP)—A radio message from nearby Saipan Island today said Typhoon Olive, packing 110-mile-an-hour winds, destroyed 96 per cent of the homes and nearly half the island's public buildings.

The message said no deaths were reported. One person was injured as the devastating Pacific storm—the second to strike into the Marianas Islands in six months—battered Saipan.

Property damage was estimated at $2,000,000. All electrical power and telephone lines were bowled over and water service was knocked out, the message said.

PLAN NEW TELSTAR

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new Telstar communications satellite will be ready for launching May 7, it was announced Monday. Telstar II will be fired into a higher orbit than its predecessor in an effort to avoid the damaging effects of space radiation which twice disabled Telstar I's command circuit.

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department's "double experiment" of requiring lifejackets for everyone in rowboats, canoes and sailboats apparently is destined to die a rapid death.

The law can't be enforced effectively, says Alan Cumyn, the department's director of marine regulations, and in there's no point in trying to continue it.

The law, in the form of a March 1 publicized regulation, came into effect last September. It required that there should be a department - approved lifejacket or safety cushion for each passenger in a canoe, rowboat or sailboat.

Mr. Cumyn, in an interview Monday, compared it with the "double experiment" of prohibition.

"It was a noble idea, but you couldn't enforce it. Too many loopholes were shot in it. Now we are taking action toward withdrawing it."

If the government takes the decision to cancel the regulation, he added, it would probably be withdrawn within a couple of weeks.

The present regulation governing lifejackets and safety equipment in powerboats, however, is expected to be left in force for several years.

Mr. Cumyn said that an exception to the requirement for boats, canoes and sailboats has been made for groups like boys' camping; organizations where boating activities are closely supervised.

These organizations presented valid reasons for exemptions, and once the department made one exemption it figured that other groups would be able to present equally valid reasons.

He added that the department still thinks the regulations is a good one in principle, and hopes the proposal can be discussed again at a future meeting of boating organizations. Perhaps some new way might be found of bringing back the safety regulation in a form that could be enforced.

The regulation had been introduced in the wake of several drownings of children from rowboats.

No change was planned in the system of transport department approvals for lifejackets, under which the department approves the lifejacket design and the manufacturer carries out his own inspections for quality. The department also makes spot check of the lifejackets and safety cushions after they are made.

Independent Heads of State Will Attend

TUNIS (AP) — Most of the heads of state of Africa's independent nations plan to attend a summit meeting May 23 in Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital.

The meeting will seek to reduce differences among the two existing African blocs by creating a universal unity charter. The leaders also hope to take measures to step up the liberation movements in territories still under foreign domination.

The French-language African weekly Afrique Nouvelle said the summit "will discuss the fate of 200,000,000 people — and perhaps decide it."

Many African foreign ministry officials appear less positive. They see the meeting as a necessary step toward the African unity, but they expect few spectacular results.

It will bring together the heads of the Arab "white Africa" and the leaders of sub-Saharan Africa. Differences between the two areas have been a block in the path of African unity.

The meeting was inspired by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, who would like to see adopt an African charter and establish the seat of unity.

The Tunisian government would like to see a major step in the direction of greater colonialism and underdevelopment.

BRINGS CUBAN REFUGEES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. cargo ship American Engineer brought 875 Cuban refugees to Florida Monday, many of them violently ill after a rough trip from Havana.

GASSING UP their outboard hydroplane for its first run, Norm Boulter of Belleville pours the gas while his brother Jack, also of Belleville, steadies the funnel. The brothers, in partnership with another brother, Bill, bought the boat in Rochester, about two weeks ago, and will enter it in races in Canada and the U.S. this summer. Last year the same boat won the championship of New York State and nearly won the U.S. national championship. It can go about 75 mph. To the left Eric Miller sits on the bow of his own boat. The Bay Bridge stretches off toward Belleville in the background. The two boats pictured were the first of the Picton Outboard Motor Club to take to the water this year, for their test run Sunday.

Liberian Ship Unloads Cargo Despite Pickets

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — A Liberian ore freighter sailed out of the harbor despite troubles with pickets, fugmen and police.

The ship, the Tyne Ore, headed Monday for Port Cartier, Que., where it got the ore that was unloaded at a dock of the Pittsburgh and Conneaut Dock Company. A spokesman for one of three unions that set up picket lines said efforts were being made to get Canadian union officials to do the same at Port Cartier.

Picketing of the ship, chartered by U.S. Steel Co., continued Monday while the cargo rier was being unloaded of its 12,000-ton cargo of ore for Pittsburgh.

The freighter tied up at a dock Sunday under its own supervision after tug crews refused to serve the ship. The tugmen are members of marine unions.

Pickets outside the dock company gates carried signs demanding that U.S. Steel hire American ships for ore movements. Some union members claim the foreign crews work at substandard wages.

The ship was unloaded by members of the Conneaut Independent Dock Union. Sulo P. Wilmilli, president of the union, said his men crossed the picket lines because the union has a no-strike, no work stoppage contract.

The picket line was established by Marine Engineers Union, Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and the United Steel Workers Union.

During the unloading, police were called to investigate a report that some young sailors from the ship threatened pickets. The police relayed with the three crew members arrested for disorderly conduct were bailed out of jail.

The Tyne Ore left the harbor the same way it came in—without the aid of tugs.

Pakistan Irked At Britain, U.S. Arming India

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan today warned the United States and Britain against upsetting the balance of power on the Indian subcontinent. He issued the warning at the opening here of a two-day session of the Central Treaty Organization.

Ayub received a sharp reply from U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk, who said alliances such as Cento were the best instruments for preventing war and as such were a factor in American global strategy.

They made possible U.S. interest and aid to member countries. Rusk said.

Ayub said Pakistan was questioning the value of its Cento alliance in view of Western aid to India with which it is locked in a dispute over Kashmir.

Attack by Pro-Communist Forces on Plaine des Jarres Tripped All Panic Buttons

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Laos was catapulted into the news again this month when pro - Communist Pathet Lao forces broke a cease-fire agreement and threatened to overrun the Plaine des Jarres, a rolling little plateau that derives its name from about 100 mysterious stone jars whose origin and purpose are lost in antiquity.

The Pathet Lao attack involved a comparative handful of men and a few square miles of rough terrain in this remote and primitive Southeast Asian kingdom, but it tripped panic buttons around the world.

Military experts say most of the clashes have involved about 100 men on each side in each engagement.

At most, a battalion—up to 400 men—was engaged in the biggest clash. And the amount of territory neutralist forces lost during the last month totalled no more than 20 or 30 square miles.

But Western and Laotian authorities here agree the military and political implications of the latest Pathet Lao move are grave and reach far beyond the Plaine des Jarres or even the borders of Laos.

COCKPIT OF LAOS

The Plaine des Jarres could be described as the cockpit of Laos, and Laos as the cockpit of Southeast Asia.

The Plaine des Jarres is an open plateau virtually denuded of trees and cover located in north-central Laos, 110 miles northeast of the administrative capital of Vientiane. The plain, about 3,000 feet high, is ringed by peaks rising another 2,000 to 3,000 feet.

The general area known as the Plaine, including surrounding foothills, covers some 300 square miles.

The stone jars that give the plain its name date back 2,000 years, to pre-Lao times Archeological experts say they could have been burial urns, storage jugs for rice or pickling jars for rice wine.

The Plaine des Jarres also is the only area in north-central Laos suitable for deployment of armor. Unlike most so-called strongpoints in Laos it is considered relatively defensive. Strategically and tactically, it is the most important military focal point in the northern half of Laos.

AT CROSSROADS

The Plaine des Jarres is the crossroads of three main roads connecting Communist North Vietnam to the north and east, Vientiane to the southwest and the rest of Laos to the south.

The plain also controls Laotian supply routes from Communist North Viet Nam to the Communist Viet Cong guerrilla operating in South Viet Nam.

The plain is strategic because of its location in the heart of Southeast Asia. For Red China in the north and North Viet Nam in the north and east, this jungle kingdom could form a major highway to anti-Communist Thailand and South Viet Nam in the west and southwest and to neutralist Cambodia in the south.

The few square miles the Pathet Lao won this month included the strategic provincial capital of Xieng Khouang and Khang Khay, former joint head quarters of neutralist Gen. Kong Le and the Pathet Lao, both southeast of the plain and Phong Savang, 10 miles northeast of the plain. These miles gave the Pathet Lao control over the eastern perimeter of the plain and placed them within artillery range of the main airstrip, forcing Gen. Le to fall back on a grass strip at Muong Phen, seven miles to the west.

At this point the Pathet Lao stopped and agreed to a cease-fire.

Some experts predict the Pathet Lao will not resume their offensive in the immediate future. It is believed they have achieved their two objectives:

1. They have nibbled off another slice of Laos, part of their patient, long-range master plan for the eventual conquest of Laos.

2. They have established their control—which they had shared with the pro-Western coalition of the Geneva accord of 1962—over the vital supply routes through Laos from North Viet Nam.

The consensus here appears the Pathet Lao feel they cannot resume an offensive immediately without risking counteraction.

LINKED WITH EICHMANN

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Two Israeli agents linked Adolf Eichmann have been charged with murder in the killing of at least 300,000 Hungarian Jews in the Second World War, the prosecutor's office announced Monday. They are Herman Krumey, 58, Eichmann's representative in Hungary in 1944, and Otto Hunsche, 51, one of Eichmann's legal advisers. Both are former SS (elite guard) officers. Their arrests came after a three-year investigation.

SIU Cannot Picket Company Ships in Ont.

TORONTO (CP) — A permanent injunction was granted Monday to Upper Lakes Shipping Limited, enjoining the Seafarers International Union (Ind.) from picketing any of the company's vessels anywhere in Ontario.

Mr. Justice James F. Donnelly of Ontario Supreme Court granted the injunction when the union failed to present a statement of defence against an interim injunction granted previously.

The injunction restrains SIU President Hal Banks of Montreal and the union membership as well as their agents, servants or any person acting under their instructions from setting-fire, damaging or otherwise injuring company property.

It is also designed to prevent the union from inducing company employees to breach their contracts and from interfering with the employees, from picketing, watching and besetting or trespassing. The injunction warns against interference with employees, suppliers or customers of the company.

The interim order had effectively stopped SIU picketing in Ontario against Upper Lakes, during the union's bitter dispute with the company after the Canadian Maritime Union (CLC) became bargaining agent for Upper Lakes employees.

An SIU official had said earlier that picketing in Ontario would be carried out by members of the port councils of the maritime trades department, a CLC body set up for the coordination of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations.

David Susskind, Producer of Program, Fired

NEW YORK (AP) — David Susskind, producer - moderator of the two-hour television program Open End, was fired Monday by Bennet Korn, president of Talent Associates Broadcasting System and general manager of WNEW-TV.

Susskind had called the station's evening programs "a garbage heap." He announced Sunday he was withdrawing his program from the station because of what he called "harassments and censorship."

Korn said "the station had refrained from announcing that the show had been dropped out of courtesy to Susskind."

"But his disappearance and his inability to accept this separation from us with grace and his attacks on our programming compel us to speak," Korn told a press conference.

Susskind's criticism of the station started about six weeks ago when he complained about the censorship of an Open End program on The American Sexual Revolution.

Western Farmers Looking For Warm and Dry Weather To Sow Crops for Year

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most farmers are looking for spells of warm, dry weather to seed what could become a bumper prairie grain crop.

Officials say spring planting so far is barely under way, about four per cent complete at best in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

At that it's slightly ahead of last year and generally about normal for this time of year.

Prospects are bright for the second good crop in a row following the disastrous 1960-61 drought.

"Everybody is optimistic this year," one grain official said "All the farmers have to do now is get the grain in the ground."

The key to any good crop is plenty of moisture at the right times and the authoritative Western grain handling firm, Searle Grain, says conditions now are "quite favorable.

RAIN COMING

April rains well above average have filled the moisture gap that had existed since September in wide areas.

Wheat production last year totalled 338,000,000 bushels. The average crop in the last 10 years was 436,000,000 bushels. Despite declining acreage, the Canadian wheat board spokesman said a bumper wheat crop from Canada's prairies could be in the cards.

The board figures on selling at least 300,000,000 bushels of wheat abroad in the crop year ending July 31, compared to 358,000,000 the year before.

But another 150,000,000 bushels will be domestically used this time for a total "disappearance" of at least 450,000,000 bushels.

Thus a bumper crop of 530,000,000 would produce only a small surplus on the carryover left by wheat board standards.

Canada's wheat stocks as of March 31 totalled 669,000,000 bushels counting all sources, including farm-stored wheat.

Spain's Progress Is Bound To Suffer by Execution

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Spain's slow, sidelong progress into the 20th century is bound to suffer a temporary check with the execution of Communist leader Julian Grimau.

Western versions of what happened in Madrid agree that the trial was a mockery of justice, with a prosecutor remainly for alleged crimes committed in the savage days of the civil war a quarter-century ago.

One popular conclusion is that Spanish Maritime Union (CLC) became bargaining agent for Generalissimo Francisco Franco will be carried out by members of the port councils of the maritime trades department, a CLC body set up for the coordination of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Spain's slow, sidelong progress into the 20th century is bound to suffer a temporary check with the execution of Communist leader Julian Grimau.

Western versions of what happened in Madrid agree that the trial was a mockery of justice, with a prosecutor remainly for alleged crimes committed in the savage days of the civil war a quarter-century ago.

One popular conclusion is that Generalissimo Francisco Franco will be carried out by members of the port councils of the maritime trades department, a CLC body set up for the coordination of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Nearly everyone of mature years remembers the civil war with a thrill of horror. It cost 1,000,000 lives and left a scar upon the Spanish soul; nobody wants to see it happen again.

GIVES WARNING

But it may be wrong to suggest that Franco risked turning Grimau into a martyr almost merely for the sake of revenge. Franco is a man of ice who seldom acts on impulse. He comes from Galicia in northwestern Spain, an arid region where people are known for their dour, calculating qualities.

It can be argued, therefore, that in ordering Grimau's execution Franco was less interested in settling old scores than in deliberately reviving the memories of 1936 as a means of intimidating restive Spaniards.

For the last decade, Spain has been moving in reluctant, crab-like style away from her long isolation and into a quantitative understanding with Europe and the West. Admirers of Franco say this is inevitable — they are legion—welcomed and encouraged the trend.

CHURCH SYMPATHIZED

For a time, Franco himself seemed reluctantly ready to condone the new liberalism, as long as his personal power remained unaffected. Perhaps the Grimau execution is a test.

During a wave of strikes last summer, the Spanish church showed sympathy for workers whose minimum wage was only recently raised to 60 pesetas a day from 36—or to about $1 in Canadian terms from 65 cents. The church went so far in its tacit support that it was reported Franco's ministers protested to the Roman Catholic primate of Spain, Cardinal Pla y Deniel.

The church and the army are the two main props of the Franco regime. With an liberalism version of something approaching liberalism apparently taking root in the church, Franco may, with a drastic move, such as Grimau's execution, had to be made to show he still is the boss.

Duvalier Keeps Arms Locked Up in Palace

WASHINGTON (AP)—Strongman Francois Duvalier's custom of locking his small army's firearms in the presidential palace could make it difficult to defend Haiti from any attack by the neighboring Dominican Republic, informants said today.

They said Duvalier, apparently not trusting his army's loyalty, keeps the weapons in his palace at Port au Prince and doles them out only when an emergency arises.

U.S. experts cited this as one drawback facing Haiti in the dispute between the two countries that would hamper any assembling of the country's forces, most of them militia.

However, American authorities feel neither Haiti nor the Dominican Republic has the military power to inflict much damage on the other, or to mount anything serious in the way of an invasion.

These authorities suggest that there might be some harassing operation along the mountainous 243-mile border separating the feuding countries, or perhaps a raid by the tiny Dominican air force against Port au Prince.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Navy and marines stand ready if needed to protect Americans or evacuate them from the crisis area. There were no signs of any imminent U.S. military move.

Maurice Archer Takes High Post With CNR

MONTREAL — Maurice Archer, M.B.E., B. Eng., P. Eng., M.E.I.C., of Montreal, prominent member of The Engineering Institute of Canada, former chairman of the National Harbors Board, is to be appointed to vice-president, Research and Development, Canadian National Railways, and will take up his duties officially on July 1st, it was announced today by Donald Gordon, chairman of the Board of Directors. He will succeed Dr. O. M. Solandt, who is leaving Canadian National to take a position at Toronto with The De Havilland Aircraft of Canada, Limited, and Hawker Siddeley Canada Ltd.

PROTESTS RAID

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Cuba has sent a note of protest to the United States for the raid on an oil refinery in Havana last April 25 by a private plane, the Cuban radio reported Monday. Alexander Rorke Jr., an American photographer, has said he flew a bombing raid over Cuba last April 25. He reported to Washington last Friday the explosives went off but apparently did not damage to the refinery.

Income Tax Explained

A column designed and written for the working persons, who are not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Dept.

Aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews have always given rise to a contentious situation for the taxpayers who support them. There is no provision in the Income Tax Act, where these types of persons may be claimed as dependents.

However there are certain circumstances whereby a taxpayer can have a claim for them. If the taxpayer is a single person, divorced, legally separated or a widow (er) there may be an equivalent to married exemption ($1000) on an aunt, uncle, niece or nephew, providing he or she supports them in a dwelling maintained by the taxpayer and where the taxpayer resides.

If the aunt or uncle is deemed to be the foster parents of the taxpayer, they can be claimed as foster parents, but not as an aunt or uncle; Foster parents are covered in another article, nieces and nephews up the full custody control of the taxpayer and who may not be legally adopted from him may be claimed as adopted children, regardless of the fact that no adoption papers were signed.

They would be considered by the Income Tax Department to be adopted "in fact". Adoption in fact must be a permanent nature and refers mainly to orphaned children and nephews.

A niece or nephew residing with the taxpayer would likely are attending school may also be claimed although supported by him, if they return to their parents on week ends and summer holidays. The parents are the only ones who may legally claim them, although they only support them for part of the year.

Any inquiries received will be answered if a self addressed and stamped (8 cent) envelope is enclosed.

Question No. 1 — I am a widower with 2 small children. I have taken in an orphaned niece age 18 whom I fully support. Can I claim her?

Answer: Yes. Claim equivalent to married status ($1000) on her and your children for $300 each.

Question No. 2 — My wife and I have taken her Uncle to live with us as he has no income. We both work. Can she claim $1000 for him?

Answer: No. Neither of you have a claim. There is no provision in the Income Tax Act whereby an uncle can be allowed as a dependent.

'Finest Walk in the World' Holding Its Own Against Modern Forms of Travels

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

DUNEDIN, N.Z. (CP)—"The finest walk in the world" is more than holding its own against modern forms of transportation, including car and aircraft.

The Milford track, which takes tourists on a 32½ mile, three - day trip through forest and mountains into the heart of New Zealand's fiordland, has long been claimed in New Zealand to be the world's finest walk. But its days were thought to be numbered when a luxury hotel was built at Milford Sound, the terminus of the journey, and a tunnel driven through the mountains to give road access.

Until then the walking track was the only method of approach except for a long and often stormy journey by sea. The isolation of Milford Sound was still further reduced a few years ago by the building of an airfield and the start of scheduled air services.

TOURISTS LURED

Both the road and air rights have lately seen an attract large numbers of tourists. Yet the trip across the mountains on foot via the Milford track continues to grow in popularity.

Guides take tourists on the walk from late November to early April. In the last season, 2,313 made the journey, an increase of some 300 over the previous season.

The journey begins at Lake Te Anau, in southern New Zealand and normally takes three days to Milford Sound, with overnight stops at simple but comfortable huts with a frontier atmosphere.

Some parties elect to spend an extra night at one of these huts in the wilderness to enjoy the complete isolation. Except for the guides and hut keepers, it is unlubricated.

It passes through dense forest and between steep mountain walls carved by glaciers, over a 3,400-foot mountain pass, past lakes and myriads of waterfalls, to Milford Sound. This is a deep, narrow arm of the sea running inland between sheer mountain walls, a spectacular scene which tourists can view in comfort on a launch trip at the end of their journey. One of the striking sights near the track is the 1,904 - foot Sutherland Falls.

CAN VARY ROUTE

After a day's rest at the hotel, tourists retrace their steps, revealing totally different vistas on the return journey. Or they can if they wish make the return by road through the traffic tunnel, which takes a different route from the track, for over the mountains by air. The round trip on the track costs from $60 to $75 inclusive of guiding, accommodation and all meals, the rate varying according to the class of accommodation chosen.

Many visitors declare the Milford track is as far away from it all as the average person can possibly get.

LOSES HOME

SUSSEX, N.B. (CP) — Ray McFarlane, the farmer who sold 132 acres of farmland to the Trans-Canada Highway through his tenacious battle for higher prices for expropriated land, is owned by his sister. Sunday lost his home and most of his possessions in a fire. The home of Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane, used as a rugby coach inn more than a century ago and converted into a residence, was destroyed by a spreading grass fire.

Not All Japanese Wives Are 'Little Lotus Buds'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

It's more of a woman's world every day. . . . A recent magazine poll in Tokyo, once a bastion of male strength, found that more than half of younger Japanese husbands "fear" their wives.

Test this theory on your friends: It is said that the nose of a right-handed person points to the right, and the nose of a left-handed person points to the left. (How about Mickey Mantle, who is a switch hitter?)

Our quotable notables: "Men have as exaggerated an idea of their rights as women have of their wrongs."—Ed Howe.

The world's most famous tilt is that of the Leaning Tower of Pisa in Italy. . . . It now is 16½ feet out of line and sinks a fraction of an inch more each year.

Abandoned wealth: The man who invented the safety pin sold his patent rights for $100. (On the other hand, the guy who first put a crinkle in the hairpin made a million bucks out of that simple improvement in a feminine mainstay used since the heyday of ancient Rome.)

What have you done to impress your bride recently? . . . It took 20,000 men 17 years to erect the Taj Mahal, an Indian poobah's sentimental monument to a departed wife.

No one knows when the dog became man's best friend, but Egyptians kept dogs at least 3,000 years ago. . . . Today there are at least 130 distinct breeds.

Sometimes you may feel you are all thumbs, but the record case of polydactylism in medical annals was a Spaniard who had 26 fingers.

The Irish-wear well in their own land. . . . One of every 14 farm workers in the Emerald Isle is more than 70 years of age.

Do you know how elephants are shaved? . . . With a blow lurch! And the big beasts love it.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Sports in general and the Detroit Red Wings' National Hockey League club in particular lost a staunch supporter on Sunday with the sudden passing in Florida of Laurence "Larry" Eggert.

There is a distinct personal loss for many times my family and I were personal guests of Larry, Mrs. Eggert daughter Audrey and husband Truman, at the Eggert's well-appointed cottage at Rossmore.

Larry was a big jovial man, hospitable, friendly and loyal to the core to his beliefs. You stopped being a stranger the minute you set foot inside the cottage, his home in Detroit, another in Florida, and later his modern motel in Lauderdale-by-the-sea.

He was a self-made business man who at one time lived in Belleville and was associated with the Corbin Lock Company. He moved to Detroit and founded the company which took him along the road to success.

Cleveland-born Larry may have learned to like hockey during his sojorn in Canada but it flowered into full bloom after he moved to Detroit.

He was, to this agent's knowledge, the only fan who adopted a hockey club en bloc, so to speak. His loyalty to the Detroit Red Wings from millionaire owner to the "water boy" at times was unequalled.

He was not merely a "fan" who rooted for his favorite club from his box in Detroit's Olympia. He took them individually and collectively to his heart, his homes and his hearth. His name was as familiar to the Red Wings down through the years as any of their big ice-lane stars.

Every summer over a long span of years the sports desk telephone would shrill, and Larry's voice came over the wire. "Red and Gordie are here with a few others." At other times it would be the Wilsons, the Patrellos and other well-known Wings. Sometimes it would be the late Carson Cooper, well-known hockey star and Red Wings' scout.

The last "big name" I interviewed at the Eggert cottage was Jack "Jolly Jawn" Adams who spent two weeks with the Eggerts last summer. Jack and Larry were close friends and I doubt if the famous Red Wings manager and mentor had a more loyal supporter than Mr. Eggert.

"Red" Kelly, I believe, was one of Larry's favorite Red Wings, and the fact that "Red" shifted his ice-lane loyalty and activities to the Toronto Maple Leafs did not make a dent in a friendship that started soon after the M.P. joined the Detroit club.

As recently as last summer "Red", his lovely wife Andra and the Kelly youngsters, Casey and Duffy, were visitors at the Eggert cottage. By a strange quirk of circumstance, "Red," Mr. Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Adams were guests at the Eggert Motel at the time of Mr. Eggert's passing.

But big Gordie Howe perhaps was the apple of the Eggert's hockey eyes. He too was a more or less frequent visitor to Rossmore.

Nor did the Eggert hospitality stop with visits to the summer cottage, Larry entertained them a his home in Florida after the season's work—and times without mention at his Detroit house. He loved "his boys" and took nothing short of quiet sheer delight at having them "around."

I doubt very much that Larry and son-in-law Truman Cullen missed a hockey game in Detroit except perhaps when health did not permit. Another loyal to their beloved Wings were Mrs. Eggert, the former Rossie Welch of Amelianburg, daughter Audrey and grand-daughter Pam.

They, too, loved their "hockey family" and the boys in turn were truly appreciative of the fine hospitality accorded them by the Eggert family.

As Jack Adams told me last summer, "Larry is a wonderful guy, as loyal and true as they make them and a man I am distinctly proud to be able to call friend."

I am going to miss those summer jaunts to Rossmore, although I won't have to, but somehow it won't be the same without big jovial Larry sitting in his favorite chair with hand outstretched and smiling that welcome.

Rest easy, old friend.

Commercial Loop Has Five Clubs

Five definite starters were named and the possibility of two or three others mentioned following a Commercial Softball League meeting held last night.

The five definite starters to date are: Quinte Ambulance, Lightfoot Construction, Woods-Horlock Juveniles, Mel Barriage Landscaping and Carl Jones Motors. Last year at this date there were only two sure starters and league brass this year is very enthusiastic over the loop's prospects for a good season.

It is hoped to have the Canada Cement (Point Anne) club back from last year as well as one or two others.

Another meeting has been called for Thursday night, eight o'clock, at the YMCA, and all present entries, as well as any other interested teams, are asked to attend.

Any club unable to send a representative to Thursday's meeting is asked to contact either President Don Smith or secretary-treasurer Don Wood, prior to the meeting.

Never Bend Said To Be Moody Colt

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Trainer Woody Stephens hopes his Kentucky Derby colt Never Bend gets up on the right side of the stall Saturday.

Never Bend has a few days when he doesn't relish doing anything except what he wants. He was in one of those moods in the recent forerunner purse at Keeneland and was hard-pressed to win.

The Calumet Boy colt's independence is traced to his sire, Nasrullah, an English - bred horse with great speed and a sour disposition.

While Never Bend rests today, eight sophomores race in the one-mile Derby Trial with the chance that one or more of the three-year-olds will make it to the Derby Saturday.

Russell A. Firestone's Jet Traffic was co-favorite with Bonjour in the trial and needed an impressive showing to earn a Derby berth. The field also included Sleuth Hound, Wild Card, Gray Pet, On My Honor, Investor and Rajah Noor.

Nearmilk, who died in 1959, sired seven Derby entrants and two, Nashua and Bold Ruler, were beaten after being cast off as favorites in the 114-mile race.

Leafs' Douglas Wins Calder Trophy

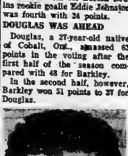
MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto defenceman Kent Douglas, riding the crest of an early-season lead, has won the Calder Trophy as the National Hockey League's top rookie. He is the first defenceman ever to get the award.

Douglas just managed to squeak by defenceman Doug Barkley of Detroit Red Wings, who came on strong in the second half of the 1962-63 season, 100 points to 90. A perfect score is 126.

It was the closest voting for the trophy in the history of the league.



Results of the voting, made public by the NHL, show that although a defenceman hasn't won the trophy before, the blueline boys made the most impressive debuts this season, getting four of the top five spots in the voting.

Wayne Hillman of Chicago Black Hawks was third with 87 points and Jim Neilson, New York Rangers' Indian-blooded find, fifth with 18. Boston Bruins rookie goalie Eddie Johnston was fourth with 34 points.

DOUGLAS WAS AHEAD

Douglas, a 27-year-old native of Cobalt, Ont., amassed 63 points in the voting after the first half of the season compared with 48 for Barkley.

In the second half, however, Barkley won 51 points to 37 for Douglas.

KENT DOUGLAS

The award is worth $1,500 to Douglas—$1,000 for the trophy plus $500 for having led after the first half. Barkley picked up $500 for being the runner-up in the half balloting.

Douglas, who stands five feet, 10 inches and weighs about 170 pounds, scored 22 points through the regular season. He was used sparingly in the Maple Leafs' drive to the Stanley Cup, coming on the ice as a regular only in the last game against Detroit after Carl Brewer broke his arm.

A few minute after replacing Brewer, however, Douglas blasted a screened shot from the blueline that tipped into the Detroit net at Leaf forward Eddie Shack for what proved to be the game-and cup-winning goal.

OBTAINED IN TRADE

The Leafs obtained him in a trade with Toronto Marlboros last fall.

Knows Edmonton Is Tough

Emms Stirs Memorial Cup Talk

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Hap Emms, owner-coach of Niagara Falls Flyers who open the Memorial Cup finals in Edmonton Wednesday, evidently hasn't done a thorough scouting job on the opposition.

Emms claimed Monday his Flyers will face a potential all-star team from Western Canada because of a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling allowing western junior hockey champions to claim as many as six players from other Western junior teams.

He said his Flyers weren't allowed to strengthen in the same manner.

"I have always been against this ruling which allows one team to pick up the best they can find while another club is given nothing."

In Edmonton, however, Buster Brayshaw, coach of the Western champion Oil Kings, said Emms "either hasn't been reading the papers or he's misinformed."

He said the CAHA ruling does not allow Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba teams to strengthen from clubs within their own provinces. But since Edmonton is the only junior team in Alberta, the ruling won't help the Oil Kings.

MUST BE AWARE

"I'm sure he (Emms) must be aware of this," said Brayshaw. "We'll be going strictly with our own club."

Emms, however, apparently was not aware of this. Or was he? Hockey has been shunted to the bottom of the sports pages with the start of the baseball season, and nobody in the hockey world is going to grumble if a little pre - game oratory creates interest in the native Oil Kings.

Although he may not have been to Edmonton, the Oil Kings' lineup, Emms knows the Edmonton club, beaten in the Memorial Cup finals on three consecutive tries, are hungry to win this season.

The Flyers, however, have an impressive record. They've faced tough competition all year in four subsequent playoff series lost only three games while winning 16. Their most recent outing was a 13-0 decision over Kapuskasing, Ont., Eagles.

Ten Flyers are in their final year of junior hockey which means Emms will have to win this year or wait another few years while he builds a contender.

An Emms-coached team last won the Memorial Cup 10 years ago when Barrie Flyers did it.

preseason trade with Springfield Indians of the American League.

Barkley, born in Lethbridge, Alta., has one of the hardest shots in the NHL and scored three goals and 24 assists through the season. He too was obtained in a pre-season trade coming from the Chicago organization where he had been since turning pro in 1956. He is 26.

The voting was done by hockey writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities. In cities where more than three writers cast ballots, the results were prorated so all cities would have equal weight. A first place vote was worth five points, second-place three and third-place one.

Other rookies getting the votes were:

Rod Gilbert, New York, 15; Chico Maki, Chicago, 8; Eddie Leiter, Boston, 7; Alex Faulkner, Detroit, 4; and Wayne Hicks, Boston, 4.

Last season Bobby Rousseau of Montreal Canadiens won the trophy.

A SYMBOL OF QUALITY

Balk Gives Mets Win Over Dodgers

Giants Nip Phils

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball, on the American Plan, had an international flavor today with the menu featuring a bunch of men in blue acting like Dutch windmills and a couple of guys wondering whether they'll have to climb into khakis in the Caribbean.

The umpires went into their windmill act again Monday night, waving the winning run home on a balk as New York Mets defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 in a historic game that insured the 1963 balk controversy its place in the record books.

At the same time, San Francisco Giant outfielder Felipe Alou said after the Giants' 4-3 victory over Philadelphia Phils that he and pitcher Juan Marichal might be recalled to military service with the Dominican Republic's armed forces because of their homeland's current crisis with Haiti.

The only other games Monday were played at Los Angeles, where Washington Senators and Angels of the American League took turns walloping each other in a twi - night doubleheader, Senators won the opener 9-3, Angels took the nightcap 13-8.

RAIN HALTS REST

Rain postponed the other games—Houston at Pittsburgh and Chicago at Cincinnati in the National and Baltimore at Minnesota and New York at Chicago in the American.

Two runs were forced in by balks in the Mets - Dodgers game. The first, charged to New York starter Roger Craig, gave Los Angeles a 3-1 lead in the second inning. That held until the seventh when Ed Kranepool started a three - run rally with a double off Bob Miller.

Charlie Neal then beat out a bunt, Kranepool scored the tying run on a wild pitch and Al Moran followed with a single that chased Miller.

Ed Roebuck came on in relief and balked while pitching to pinch hitter Marv Throneberry, sending Neal across with the deciding run. Jim Hickman's single drove in the final run.

The balks were the 77th and 78th in the league this season. The previous record was 76 in 1950.

After the game, Mets' manager Casey Stengel scoffed at the latest directive issued by league president Warren Giles on the balk situation. Stengel said:

"The last paragraph says: 'The easiest way to reduce or eliminate balks is for the managers and coaches to insist that their pitchers pause for the required length of time and conform with baseball rules.'

"What do they expect us to do?" Stengel asked, "run out on the field and yell 'stop' every time a pitcher starts to balk? The Giants, meanwhile, got a lift when slumping Willie Mays tripled and scored the winning run on Orlando Cepeda's single in the third inning against Phillies.

Alou said he and Marichal were waiting for word about the new Caribbean crisis.

"Nobody knows what will happen, but it's possible that Juan and I get called back into service," Alou and Marichal are citizens of the Dominican Republic.

Chuck Hinton of Senators and George Thomas of Angels took hitting honors in the twinbill, each collecting five hits and driving in four runs.

Senators wrapped up the opener for Don Rudolph with a four-run fifth inning uprising on a walk, Manie Sanno's single, a throwing error and Ed Brinkman's double. That tagged Bob Turley with his third loss. He run.

Angels won the nightcap by sending 12 men to the plate in a six-run seventh inning explosion. A single by pinch hitter Al Moran drove in the tie-breaking has yet to win.

All Won In Premier Sports

Our Gold Medals Fewer, More Impressive

SAO PAULO, Brazil (CP-AP) Canada's Medal totals so far in the fourth Pan - American Games are less impressive numerically than those of the 1959 games in Chicago.

But the areas in which the smaller Canadian team has won medals here give it good reason for pride.

Canada sent 134 athletes here, 41 fewer than to Chicago, and as the fourth Games passed their half-way mark Monday, Canadians had won four gold medals—all in premier sports—and taken 13 silvers and 19 bronze.

They took seven golds, 21 silvers and 29 bronzes in the 1959 games but the majority of them came in the fringe-participating sports—shooting, gymnastics, yachting and equestrian.

Canadians continue to win medals in some of these sports.

Gary McMahon of Dartmouth, N.S., and Clint Dahlstrom of Calgary took Canada's seventh and eighth shooting medals Monday by taking third in separate events.

SETS WORLD MARK

McMahon finished third in the individual centre-fire pistol won by Capt. Thomas Smith of the U.S. Air Force with a world record 597 points. Dahlstrom finished third in individual free rifle, won by Gary Lee Anderson of the U.S. The U.S. also won the team gold medal in the free rifle event.

But Canadians have taken two gold medals in track and field, one in diving and one in rowing—all areas where Canada was shut out of the gold in 1959 as Gymnast Ernestine Russell of Windsor, Ont., won four gold medals, the equestrian team won one and marksmen won the other two.

The shooting events were the only ones in which medals were decided Monday. The swimming program ended Sunday and the big track and field program comes today after a day off Monday following opening events Saturday and Sunday.

Two Canadian boxers were eliminated Monday when George Chuvalo of Montreal was outpointed by Pedro Dias of Brazil in the flyweight division preliminaries and John Lapa Dula of Scarborough, Ont., was beaten on a technical knockout by Julio Novilla of Peru in a light welterweight division preliminary.

YACHTS END TODAY

Yachting, in which Canada is entered in three of the six classes, ends today. The Montreal boat Argo III finished second Monday in the Dragon Class race while another Montreal boat also was second in the Flying Dutchman and Harry Jeannett of Kingston, Ont. was fourth in Finn class sculling.

Canada has no chance for track medals today since there are no competitors in the 3,000-metre steeplechase, the only event in which the final is scheduled today.

But William D. Gairdner, a 22-year-old University of Colorado student from Thornhill, Ont., is among the leading candidates in the toughest test in the track and field program—the decathlon — which begins with five events today. It ends with the final five events Wednesday.

Four Drivers Injured In Harness Race

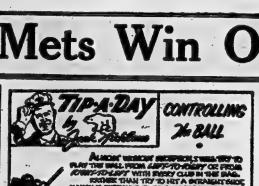
WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Four drivers, including Clint Hodgins of Canterbury, Ont., were injured in a six-horse spill during the fourth race at Brandywine Raceway Monday night.

Hodgins, who trained and owned the famed Bye Bye Byrd, suffered a compound fracture of the right hand.



He was taken to hospital as were Jack Boring, Harrington, Del., lateral injuries; Cleo Young, Jr., Thomasville, N.C., left ankle injury; and Del Cote, Caribou, Me., left ankle injury.

Jim Wilcox of Wyoming, Del., and Wilbur Long of Henry, Ill., also were involved in the mishap but were not injured.

Hodgins was driving Go Hanover.

Conscience Clear Says Alston

Dodgers Boss Unworried

NEW YORK (AP)—Walt Alston may feel like a man with an axe hanging over his head, but is he losing any sleep over it?

Not so you can tell it, the harassed manager of Los Angeles Dodgers insisted after his team dropped its fourth National League game in a row Monday night, bowing 4-2 to New York Mets.

"How does it feel to read that you're on the griddle and that you may be fired at any minute?" Alston asked in the tense Dodger dressing room after the game.

"Well, I'll tell you — I don't like it a doggone bit. But am I staying awake nights, worrying about it? I certainly am not. I have no apologies to make to anybody. My conscience is clear."

During the last several weeks, the baseball market has been flooded with reports that the Los Angeles team is rent with dissension and that Alston is on the verge of losing his job to his coach, Leo Durocher.

CALLS A MEETING

The reports reached such proportions that Buzzie Bavasi, Dodger general manager, found it necessary to call a closed meeting of the players and warn them against criticizing their boss.

Bavasi acknowledged that complaints had come from some of the players and that Durocher had passed along some of the gripes.

"I don't want them telling me who should manage the club," Bavasi said.

Not a word passed between Durocher and Alston after Monday night's game although their dressing quarters were almost sojoining in the Polo Grounds' locker room.

Clubs Rally To Win In Int. League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was once a time when a five-run lead was like money in the bank. Now it doesn't always follow.

Syracuse led the Arkansas Travelers 5-0 after two innings of their International League struggle Monday night, but the Travelers got that back in one big third inning and went on to a 9-7 victory.

Columbus had Buffalo down 6-1 after an inning and a half, but the Bisons thundered to a 20-14 decision.

Only Jacksonville made its five-run margin stand up. The Suns cuffed Rochester for five runs in the first inning and trounced the Wings 9-4. Homers by Tony Washington and winning pitcher Tommy Johns powered Jacksonville to its fifth victory in the past six games.

Atlanta was rained out at Toronto as was Indianapolis at Richmond.

SQUANDER LEAD

The Bisons wiped out a five-run deficit and then squandered a seven-run lead before going on a six-run spree in the eighth inning to ensure their fifth straight victory and their eighth in nine games.

Columbus used seven pitchers and Buffalo six, with Marty Kutyna getting the victory for the Bisons in relief. Despite the 34 runs, there was only one homer. Buffalo's Jim Frey got it.

Syracuse jolted Arkansas starter Billy Smith for five runs in the second inning, but the Traveler left - hander stuck around long enough to pick up the victory. Smith departed in the seventh, and John Kerrigan and Dick Ellsworth mopped up for the Travelers.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Balaklair, a chestnut filly owned and trained by Michael Lang of Toronto, gave notice that she'll be a filly to watch for in next Monday's Star-Shoot stakes, opening day feature at Greenwood in Toronto.

Lang's filly, ridden by jockey Jim Fitzsimmons, had little trouble Monday, in overtaking early leader W. Douglas Hatch's royal Wyndham to finish striding out to a 4½-length victory over Jo-Ann Stable's Royal Stars, which closed fast to take second position ahead of Royal Wayfarer.

Balaklair was a second choice with the crowd of 5,141 fans Monday night, with second and finisher Royal Start, paid a modest $12.80 in the quinella.

Ron Turcotte, leading rider in Canada last season, added one more winner to his 1963 total by winning the first race on Jack Mead's Bonnie Flare.

The daily double of Bonnie Flare and J. B. W. Carmichael's Warren Road, winner of the second, returned $45.80 for $2.

The Trots

CAMPBELL VILLE, Ont. (CP) — Lullwater Forest, with trainer Jerry McGinty driving, slowly edged up in the seven-horse field and came on to take the featured $2,000 trot at Mohawk Raceway Monday night.

A chilled crowd of 2,303 saw Lullwater Frost win his second race in seven starts this season, trotting the distance in 2:11.4 over a good track.

Keith Waples of Coldwater set the pace for himself and for the bettors when he won the first race with 6-to-5 favorite Action Javelon. Avalon Javelon, a 10 - year - old making his first start this season, finished second with Sonny McKinney in the second for a $28.90 daily double.

KEEPS OLD RULE

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club has decided against changing its slide rule to conform with an amendment issued by the International Curling Association.

At its annual meeting in Brandon, Man., last March the DCA amended its slide rule, effective Sept. 1, to require no part of the curler's body may cross the hog line in delivery.

The branch decided Saturday to stick with the old rule, enabling a curler to reach across the hog line provided the sliding foot is stopped short of the line.

Dr. Maurice Campbell of Cap-de-la-Madeleine, Que., was elected branch president, succeeding R. L. (Pete) Guilmette of Drummondville, Que.

W. M. Rankin of Cornwall, Ont., was named president-elect and H. W. Craig of Montreal, executive vice-president.

Delegates also voted to give the Ottawa Valley Curling Association official recognition as co-ordinating body for all curling activity in the Ottawa area.

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Paul Hornung, heartened by a standing ovation, says the friendship of retiring basketball great Bob Cousy has been "a stirring point" in his life and added he'll do everything possible to get his National Football League suspension lifted in 1964. The tarnished Golden Boy of the Green Bay Packers recently was suspended indefinitely for betting on his team in NFL games. Cousy's hometown threw him a gigantic farewell party Sunday night and several thousand gave Hornung a tumultous welcome at the affair.

REPORT SOCCER BRIBE

LONDON (AP) — A big soccer fuss blew over Britain Monday following allegations that a goalkeeper was bribed to throw a match. The goalkeeper, Esmond Million of Bristol Rovers, was quoted in a London Sunday newspaper as saying that he accepted 300 pounds ($775) a bribe to lose a third division match against Bradford. The game ended in a 3-2 draw and Million would get nothing of an alleged bribe. Million has been suspended by his club.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and eliminates the need to scratch and spreads up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reports "very striking improvement." Pain is said to be promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment, suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

Says Riots Pagan Throwbacks

VATICAN CITY (AP) — L'Osservatore Romano said Monday the Italian soccer riots that killed a man and injured 39 persons were a throwback to the days of the pagan gladiators.

The Vatican Daily newspaper, commenting on Sunday's incidents at the Salerno and Naples stadiums, said the outbursts cannot be saved as the "bloody games" of the ancient Romans.

Apparently referring to the building up of competitive spirit among fans by sports writers, the Vatican paper commented that "a press which knows no limits contributes to this and other insane feelings."

The Sunday soccer riots left one dead, 89 injured and two big stadiums wrecked. Of more than 100 arrested at Naples and Salerno, nearly half still were held in jail for questioning.

At least three of the injured, all of them policemen, were in critical condition. More than 20 still were in hospitals. Among the injured were Argentine coach Bruno Passola and five Modena players.

GAMES WERE CRUCIAL

Both games ended amid rioting that were crucial with the Italian soccer season only three games from its end.

At Naples, thousands of fans tore up benches, smashed down protective screens and stormed onto the field attacking the referee and Modena players. More than half of the 32 injured were police.

At Salerno the local team battled Potenza. Fans thought their team should have been granted a penalty kick. Within moments, thousands of screaming, cursing hurling fans poured on the field, attacking the referee and officials fled to the dressing rooms.

When the fighting died down, 37 persons were behind bars, including a dozen policemen, and one fan was found dead.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Clarence Campbell's eyebrows shot up and almost met his receding hairline.

"Do I agree with Roselle?" he asked, repeating a question thrown out during a brief hotel lobby ball session in Toronto during the recent Stanley Cup playoffs. "Huh," he snorted, "I should say I do — and definitely."

The National Hockey League president had been asked whether he thought Pete Roselle, National Football League commissioner, had done the right thing by suspending a couple of players—Paul Hornung of Green Bay Packers and Alex Karras of Detroit Lions—for betting on games.

"I certainly would have done the same thing," Campbell added. "I have great admiration for Roselle. He couldn't have done anything else but to give those two players indefinite suspensions."

NHL AS STRICT

Campbell, who slapped life suspensions on two NHL players, Don Gallinger and Billy Taylor, for alleged gambling on games when he took over the NHL presidency nearly 20 years ago, certainly won't allow anything to discolor hockey's good name.

"All I've got to say is that we will not have any players betting on their own teams or even on games in which they are not involved. If they must bet, let them do it on other sports, but not on hockey."

"I wouldn't hesitate a minute to crack down hard on any player in our league found betting on games. Roselle certainly did what was proper."

This is the attitude of all sports, with the possible exception of horse racing, probably the best protected of all sports. Racing commissions always are on the lookout for any shady practice. Tracks are well policed and everybody connected with the sport in any way know that they've got to toe the line or get out.

BETTING BIG BUSINESS

A jockey can wager only on horses he rides and then only through the horse owner or trainer who arranges to place the bet. Betting at the mutuel windows. Any deviation from this means that the jockey is bounced for life and is not even allowed to patronize the tracks.

Sports operators must always be on the alert against betting, at least in the United States, as a billion dollar business, a recent survey showed that Americans bet about $10,000,000,000 a year, not counting horse racing.

Football takes a fair slice of this but hockey gambling in the U.S. is negligible because of the small number of goals scored.

Basketball, baseball, golf, and, though, with pools operating in offices and factories. The payoff, in many cases, is on the time of the goals, not the game result.

Dupas Wins World Jr. Ring Title

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Ralph Dupas won the world junior middleweight title Monday night with a split 15-round decision over Tommy Moyer of Portland, Ore.

The New Orleans-born Dupas won the title in his third championship bout.

Dupas, normally a stylish boxer with a fancy footwork, showed much more aggressiveness than usual.

He appeared to tire slightly at the end of 10 rounds but quickly called on his energy reserve and closed with two fast rounds.

Judge Lucian Joubert scored the fight eight rounds for Dupas, five for Moyer and two even; referee Pete Giarrusso had it 9-4-2 for Dupas, and 7-6-2 for Moyer.

The Associated Press card was 7-7-1.

Moyer, 23-year-old boxer who won the recently-created title last October, weighed 154—the maximum for the class, and Dupas, 27, weighed 151.

Rosemary Clooney Says TV Viewing Creates Problem

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Constant television viewing has created a problem for nightclub and stage performers, says singer Rosemary Clooney, who encounters it.

"Audiences, accustomed to watching entertainment at home, have got into the habit of talking during performances," she explained. "Then, when they go to a club or a theatre, they keep it up."

Miss Clooney, whose working schedule these days is so hectic she has been home about four days out of each of the last months, tackles the problem of the chatty audience in a forthright fashion:

"I tell them that I'm flesh and blood, that I'm not on a screen, that I hear them as well as they can hear me—and that it distracts me," she said. "The worst of it is, none of them realize the habit they've got into."

Miss Clooney will be guest star on The Garry Moore Show tonight, fruit of a week's rehearsals. Monday she had a reunion with Arthur Godfrey on his CBS radio show—first time we've appeared together since I won a Talent Scout show singing Golden Earrings and that was so far back it was a simulcast on radio and television." And she was a panelist on Password Monday night.

She is turning aside with "no comment" these days reports of a possible reconciliation with Jose Ferrer—father of her five children—from whom she received an interlocutory divorce decree last year.

She is eager to talk, however, about heartening indications that popular music is moving toward higher ground.

"Things are really looking up," she insists. "There have been some great songs recently that Kind of Poo Ha I, San Francisco and As Long As She Needs Me, to mention a few. They are well constructed with good melodies and fine lyrics."

Popular music, like fashion and motion picture programs, moves in cycles, she believes.

Sao Paulo A Smash Hit

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — At the halfway point, it appears that Sao Paulo, a city of 4,000,000 has made a smash hit as host to the fourth Pan-American Games.

"Better in every way than Mexico City (1955), 100 per cent better than Chicago (1959) and fantastic enthusiasm," says writer Ted Shaw of Seattle who competed at Mexico City and lived in the 1960 summer Olympics in Rome. The 1967 Pan - American Games have been awarded to Winnipeg.

"The best ever and I've seen them all—from the first one at Buenos Aires," says Harold Zimman, editor and publisher of the Pan American Athletic Union publication.

Over-all, Sao Paulo's performance seems to rate favorably with even the Olympic sites of the Games in Helsinki in 1952 and Melbourne in 1956 and Rome.

EXCELS IN FACILITIES

Sao Paulo, a booming, industrial city, has modern terraced, skyscraper apartment houses and office buildings, but technically magnificent facilities for the Campo Hilton, athletic housing and good food for the athletes that include 132 Canadian men and women.

Said Nash: "Everyday people from here come to the Games village and ask us: 'Would you like to see a university? Would you like to visit a Brazilian home? Would you like to have dinner with us? Would you like a tour of the city?'

"The people have been so nice everywhere that it makes me sick when I think of Chicago. We are being treated far better here than the local Americans were in Chicago."

Palmer 4th On Golf Loot List

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, unaccustomed to such a low spot in professional golfing's money-winning standings, has gained a little on the front-runners but he still stands fourth.

Palmer won $1,050 for his eighth-place finish in the $30,000 Texas Open at San Antonio Sunday, giving him official winnings for 1963 of $26,075, according to this week's top 10 list released by PGA headquarters Monday.

Still ahead of him are Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Tony Lema, none of whom took part in the Texas tournament. Nicklaus is a solid first with winnings of $29,752. Player has won $29,302 and Lema $27,916.

Phil Rodgers, who took $4,300 first prize money at San Antonio, moved onto the list in eighth spot with a total of $13,661. Doug Sanders, who tied with Palmer in the Texas Open, moved into 10th spot with $13,250 in winnings. Others in the top 10:

Casper Jr. $17,141; Dan Sikes Jr. $15,547; Julius Boros $15,525; Bob Charles $14,607.

Committee Bows To Golf Body

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The Colonial Golf Tournament committee, under fire from the Professional Golfers Association for refusing to invite tour veteran Dan Shaffer, agreed Monday to give the Professional Golfers Association what amounts to the final say on who can play in the tournament.

The change is effective with this year's event, scheduled for May 9-12.

It means that January can play in the tournament if the PGA decides he should after it hears the Colonial's reasons for not inviting him.

The committee said that beginning with the 1965 event, invitations will be issued to the top 40 money-winners of the previous year and any current champions of PGA tournaments not on the list, unless colonial officials decide not to invite a player.

Two Classics This Week In Britain

LONDON (CP) — The first two of Britain's five classic races will be run this week. One looks fairly wide open; the other looks open and shut.

The race with the cut-and-dried appearance is the 1,000 Guineas, to be run Thursday over one mile at Newmarket. This is exclusively for fillies and the overwhelming favorite is the French-trained Hula Dancer, a daughter of Native Dancer that has the experts in ecstasy.

Unbeaten three times last year and successful in her only start this year in muddy going, Hula Dancer has so out-distanced all rivals that backing any other steed gets a look in, though the English-owned Tree of Milk can go some when in the mood.

Hula Dancer, owned by Ameen Ali Mrs. Gertie Widener, won the top two-year-old race in France last year by a wide margin, provoking some sober critics to say in print that she may be one of the greatest fillies of all time.

An American owner, Danny Val Clief, also has declared to hold the key to the 2,000 Guineas, run at Newmarket Wednesday, but Clief owns the speedy colt Crocket, which like Hula Dancer has yet to be beaten.

Alive and Healthy at 70 Actor Once Had Cancer

By BOB HOMAS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) At 70, William Powell leads a contented desert life that refutes the invincibility of cancer.

It was just 25 years ago that the famed actor learned he was afflicted with rectal cancer. Doctors wanted to remove the cancer immediately, but he refused. Instead, he submitted to a colon bypass operation, and the cancer was treated with radiation. After six months he was pronounced cured. Another operation restored his colon to normalcy.

"I was one of the lucky ones," said Powell, aware that a number of his fellow stars have lost their fights with cancer in recent times.

"Fortunately for me, they caught the cancer before it could spread through the lymph glands and the blood stream. When that happens, I guess there isn't much hope. But I've never had a recurrence."

Powell lives in a rambling bungalow in the fashionable Thunderbird Ranch section of his wife, the former Diana Lewis. He retired from the screen ago in a wedding that was supposed to last. She is universally known as Mousie.

LIMITS SOCIAL LIFE

He rises at a leisurely hour, reads the newspapers, answers his mail, tends to his investments and plays golf. He tried to limit participation in Palm Springs' ever-growing social life.

"Television is our entertainment," he said. "We have our dinner in front of the set. Then if we want to watch different shows, we each go to our own rooms, where each of us has a set.

"I think that's important to a married couple. In many families the conversations goes something like this: 'What really want to watch this show?' 'Yes, if you do—I'll turn the channel if you want me to.' Then you go ahead and watch it, etc. That's how arguments start building up. Separate television sets prevent that."

Powell has never proclaimed his retirement, but he admitted he has no urge to leave his desert sanctuary. He explained:

"When the offers come, I ask myself, why would I do it? For what? The term is so short I've been pretty well burned out with the years. For the money? I'd just be put in a higher tax bracket that would eliminate most of what I'd get with the job. So just say no."

Robert Stevenson Directs Seventh Disney Feature

With the completion of his directorial assignment on Walt Disney's wacky new comedy, "Son of Flubber", Robert Stevenson chalked up his seventh feature motion picture for the Burbank producer.

Previous productions guided by the versatile director under the Disney banner include, "Old Yeller", "Johnny Tremain", "Darby Gill and the Little People", "Kidnapped", "The Absent Minded Professor" and the recent Hayley Mills - Maurice Chevalier starrer, "In Search of the Castaways".

Prior to his association with Disney, Stevenson directed such memorable successes as "Back Street", "Jane Eyre", "To The Ends of the Earth" and "My Forbidden Past".

Son of Flubber, the fun-filled sequel from Disney, stars Fred MacMurray, Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn and Tommy Kirk, and is showing tonight and Wednesday, matinee and evening at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Picton

50-Year Jewels Presented to Two Members

PICTON — Members of Bay of Quinte Lodge, No. 143, and Macdpelah Rebekah Lodge No. 144 I.O.O.F. and friends filled the new O.E.S. Temple on Talbot Street Monday night when the annual "at home" was held. A delectable turkey dinner preceded an enjoyable program.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of I.O.O.F. Fifty Year Jewels to Harry Hunt and Sam Hollingsworth, both of Picton. Tribute to the veteran members was paid by Charles Anderson, District Deputy Grand Patriarch of Grand Encampment, who made the presentations.

Greetings from Grand Lodge of Ontario were brought by Earl Fox, Stirling, Deputy Grand Master, and by Elmer Adams, Belleville, District Deputy Grand Master.

On behalf of the local lodges, welcomes were extended by Noble Grands Tom May and Mrs. Ray Hicks. Carl Ackerman, Chief Patriarch, Encampment 72, also extended greetings. Chairman of the program committee, Dwight O. Reynolds, ably presided. A sing-song was led by Carson Scott with Mrs. Haffel Sallans at the piano. Members of the Robinson family delighted with musical numbers. Mrs. Sallans gave a novelty number, playing numbers with spoons tapped on bottles of water. Clare McFaul and Bruce Ferguson scored a hit in a clever pantomime.

Thanks to members of the O.E.S. were voiced by Amos Hicks.

Films and a talk on the United Nations proved of much interest, especially as the Odd Fellows of this district send a representative there each year.

HAS BIG MOUTH

The Sargussum fish has such a large mouth that it can swallow another fish of equal size.

THUMBS UP as Picton skydiver Louis Van Hecke signals pilot Don DeMills of Picton, (not shown), on a run over the Picton Flying Club airport. On the first run over, Louis dropped the drift indicator shown in his left hand. By watching the weighted streamer as it fell, Louis was able to judge the winds he later fell through to the ground. Jumping from 3,000 feet Sunday, soon after this picture was taken, Louis landed within 125 feet of his target.

STAMP WORKERS STRIKE

PARIS (Reuters) — Workers at the plant that prints French postage stamps went on strike Monday for 24 hours to back demands for higher pay and better conditions.

LOOKING DOWN over the married quarters of Camp Picton, Picton skydiver Louis Van Hecke sits by the open door of a plane as it nears altitude from the Prince Edward Flying Club. Louis jumped from about 3,000 feet over the flying club field Sunday and landed within 125 feet of his target on the ground. Don DeMille, of Picton, piloted the plane.
